It's the seventh week of the 133rd season of Dartmouth football. Check out the schedules and scores of Dartmouth opponents.

Dartmouth Athletic Sponsors 5-6, 23-24

The valued contributors to the Dartmouth Athletic Sponsor Program are highlighted in today's program along with information about joining the Big Green team.

A Dartmouth Perspective /

A Harvard Perspective

Returning to a tradition of yore, S. Stanford Phinch II and J. Bennington Peers III provide their contemplations on the Dartmouth-Harvard rivalry along with their unique reflections on the superiority of their respective institutions.

Sean Ronan

By Bruce Wood

Co-captain Sean Ronan suffered an injury during preseason that could have sidelined him for most of the season. Bruce Wood finds out what happened and how the center has helped the Big Green to the top of the Ivy League standings this year.

Friends of Dartmouth Football

The Friends of Dartmouth Football are much appreciated and recognized on pages 19-22.

THE DARTMOUTH COACHING STAFF

Coach Buddy Teevens

Eugene F. (Buddy) Teevens III, who as a player led Dartmouth to the 1978 Ivy League championship and as a coach led Dartmouth football to back-to-back Ivy League titles in 1990 and 1991, returned as the head coach of the Big Green football program in 2005. Last year, he led the squad to its best conference record at 5-2 in 17 years to place third in the final Ivy League standings. Only a loss in four overtimes on the road kept Dartmouth from earning a share of the conference crown.

Teevens, 57, was Dartmouth's coach from 1987 through 1991. During his final two seasons, the Big Green posted identical overall records of 7-2-1. With a 6-1 record, Dartmouth shared the 1990 Ivy title with Cornell. In 1991, Dartmouth won the outright championship with a 6-0-1 mark. His overall record at Dartmouth entering the 2014 season is 58-80-2.

Teevens holds the Robert L. Blackman Endowed Coaching Position, named in memory of Bob Blackman, who coached Dartmouth from 1955 to 1970, and created through the gift of Henry M. (Hank) Paulson

'68, an outstanding offensive tackle who played for Blackman from 1965-67.

In addition to restoring Dartmouth's rich football tradition, Teevens has been an integral force in a series of major improvements to Dartmouth's football facilities, including installation of a FieldTurf surface on Memorial Field for the 2006 season, the opening of the new Floren Varsity House that includes training, dressing and meeting facilities in 2007, and light towers in 2011, not to mention the video scoreboard last year.

From 2002 through 2004, Teevens was the head coach at Stanford University. Prior to that, Teevens was on Steve Spurrier's staff at the University of Florida from 1998 to 2001. His first game with the Gators was the 1999 Orange Bowl. In his three full seasons at Florida, the Gators went 29-9, participated in three bowl games and finished among the top 12 in the final polls each season.

From 1997 to 1998, Teevens was the offensive coordinator and receivers coach at the University of Illinois under Ron Turner. From 1992-96, Teevens was the head coach at Tulane University. He rebuilt that program and recruited most of the team that went 11-0 in 1998. Teevens began his coaching career in 1979 as the running backs coach at DePauw University. In 1980, he became the offensive coordinator at Boston University and remained with the Terrier program until 1985 when he was appointed the head football coach at the University of Maine.

Highly regarded in football circles, Teevens has been an integral part of the famed Manning Passing Academy since its inception 18 years ago. He serves as an associate director of the camp, overseeing all aspects of the on-field operation and coaching staff. He also has been on panels for "Practice Like Pros" to extol the virtues of cutting down on full-contact practices by focusing on technique, which in turn limits injuries suffered in practice and in games.

At Dartmouth, Teevens was honored as the New England Coach of the Year for the 1991 season. An honorable mention All-America quarterback in 1978, he led the Big Green to the Ivy title that year. A native of Pembroke, Mass., Teevens and his wife, Kirsten, have two children: Lindsay who lives with her husband, Matt, in Lebanon, N.H., and Buddy, Jr. who joined the staff this summer and resides locally with his wife, McKeanna, and son, Eugene V.

DARTMOUTH'S ADMINISTRATION

Dartmouth President
Philip J. Hanlon

Philip J. Hanlon '77 became the 18th president of Dartmouth College on June 10, 2013. Hanlon brings to Dartmouth more than a decade of successful leadership experience at the University of Michigan, serving as the chief academic officer and chief budgetary officer of the university before being appointed provost in 2010. After graduating from Dartmouth, he obtained his doctorate from Caltech. Hanlon went on to be an instructor of applied mathematics at MIT and a Bantrell Fellow in Mathematics at Caltech before joining the University of Michigan in 1986.

Dartmouth Athletics Director
Harry Sheehy

Harry Sheehy was hired in the summer of 2010 as the Big Green's eighth athletics director. Before joining the Dartmouth community, Sheehy enjoyed a successful run at his alma mater, Williams, first as the men's head basketball coach for 17 seasons, and then the athletics director for 10 years. His basketball team made 13 appearances in the NCAA Division III Tournament, and in each of his 10 years at the helm of the department, Williams won the Division III Directors' Cup.

DARTMOUTH ATHLETIC SPONSORS

The Athletic Sponsor Program comprises more than 1,000 Dartmouth alumni, parents, and supporters who are committed to helping Dartmouth coaches recruit exceptional student-athletes. The program provides vital recruiting resources for all varsity sports, and is the sole source of funds for bringing top athletic prospects to the campus for recruiting trips. To join the ranks of Sponsors listed below, visit DartmouthSports.com and click on "GIVING" to donate online, or send a check payable to Dartmouth Athletic Sponsor Program, 6083 Alumni Gym, Hanover, NH 03755. Donations cannot be credited to the Dartmouth College Fund, but are tax deductible. For more information, email Athletic.Sponsor.Program@Dartmouth.edu or call (603) 646-2463.

A Dartmouth Perspective

By S. Stanford Phinch II

Today we renew one of college football's most ancient gridiron rivalries, a century-and-a-third old, pitting America's premier rusticated redoubt of scholarship — a far-away academic enclave celebrating the lonely, selfless pursuit of knowledge — against a bloodless, heartless urban sports powerhouse that has placed triumphs on the football pitch and in the arena above academic values in the classroom and in the laboratory. Think Norway and East Germany. Think Athens and Sparta. Think Dartmouth and Harvard.

Just the other day I was reminding the exquisite Mrs. Phinch of an earlier time, in America's Late Antiquity, when we Dartmouths enjoyed effortless football conquests — indeed, when the Hanoverians of legend and lore swept into Harvard Stadium like Visigoths taking on the Romans at Adrianople. There were victories to be had, and victories to behold: Can it be a full half-century ago that Mrs. Phinch (Pembroke '41) and I stood in Harvard Stadium, the cool October breezes blowing the elm leaves from the Cantabrigian trees, watching our men in white — echoes of Suleiman at Vienna — put down the pathetic boys in crimson and cream by a tally of 48 to nil?

Ah, but that was a different epoch, when the whiskey sour was in its prime and so was Beard, and so, too, Klungness, and Mabry, and also Clarke, the latter so noble that he once told the Rev. Blackman to leave a reserve in the game because the young man was doing such an estimable job. Those were the days when, year following year, Boston throbbed to the rhythms of "Dartmouth's in Town Again," and it wasn't only Ryzewicz who would run, run, run. All the girls — we called them that, back then — at Wellesley would run, run, run, too, and for good reason. Our storied offensive end by name of Wallick wasn't the only person who was Randy in those days.

Let us leave that palmary period behind and focus on the last decade, when the Cantabs began to worship false gods, abandoning their ancient creed and stocking their autumn eleven with men whose board scores were in the sweet spot for the Crimson, though not quite robust enough for the Crimson Tide.

These Hessians of Harvard Square have prevailed in ten consecutive tilts with our scholars, the combatants in green absorbed with Engineering 64 (Cellular and Molecular Biomechanics) and French 50 (Montaigne, Proust and Barthes) and, for much of the defensive line the last few years, Religion 40 (Saints, Music, And Mysticism in South Asia). Our

By J. Bennington Peers III

I must say, I was startled by the request to write for this primitive publication, which I presume is printed on birch bark. I was unaware that anyone in the vicinity of this unfortunate outpost could decipher a paragraph much less a page of English. During my undergraduate days and for many years thereafter Dartmouth was but a rumor, not a campus but a campfire, its residents yowling in the wilderness. Vox clamantis in deserto, indeed.

The Dartmouth encounter — one hardly can call it a game, can one? — perennially was held in Cambridge, where our lads invariably administered a harsh pigskin tutorial. After the gibbering rustic failed to score even a point during the entire 19th century Harvard's administrators harbored justifiable doubts as to the provenance of these annual invaders.

Was there, in fact, a Dartmouth College or was it merely a whiff of woodsmoke? "Perhaps we should venture northward to verify," Benjamin Dibblee, who coached the varsity, concluded in 1900. The record may show that the squads did not play that autumn but a meeting indeed was scheduled for Hanover. Several stagecoaches were hired, an Abenaki guide engaged, last wills and testaments recorded.

The journey went well enough, I am told, until shortly after the traveling party crossed the line into New Hampshire, which Dibblee later likened to a 15th-century explorer sailing off the flat edge of the earth. The road disappeared into an impenetrable forest, as did the guide. "If we are to continue this expedition," Captain Daly mused, "we are likely to miss our contest at Yale which, after all, is the entire purpose of the season."

So the trek was abandoned near Concord and our lads instead arranged a friendly exhibition with the St. Paul's schoolboys, which provided a bracing bit of exercise and, I daresay, a decidedly more competitive afternoon on the gridiron.

Needless to say it was many more decades before any Harvard team contemplated meeting Dartmouth at any venue other than its own hallowed horseshoe. You may well remember that the first offering within involved the horde from Hanover, a concession that provoked enormous controversy at the time.

President Eliot, of course, was a vigorous opponent of football. "No sport is wholesome in which ungenerous or mean acts which easily escape detection contribute to victory," he declared. Yet he permitted an opponent that epitomized barbarity to participate in the inaugural contest at the Stadium. "The structure is made of concrete," Eliot

SEAN RONAN: Co-Captain Pointing Team in Right Direction

By Bruce Wood

When Sean Ronan's hand got jammed up against a defensive lineman during a preseason run drill this fall Dartmouth's senior center knew something was wrong as soon as he caught a glimpse of his left index finger.

"I was wearing a glove and I definitely saw that the finger was going in a direction it shouldn't be going," said the Big Green co-captain from Boca Raton, Fla. "So I walked over to the trainer and told him that he was probably going to have to cut my glove off.

"He cut it off and when we saw the bone sticking through the skin he decided we had to go to the hospital."

Ronan laughed as he recalled the injury, but he wasn't laughing at the time. Not because it hurt, but because the mishap could have sidelined him for a significant portion of the season.

Sean Ronan didn't miss a beat in the season opener while playing with a large wrap on his hand to protect his dislocated index finger.

"I was in no pain but I was ticked off," he said. "It looked pretty gruesome, but that was the least of my worries. I didn't know the extent of the injury at the time because if the tendon popped I would have had to get it screwed in, and I would have been out 6-to-8 weeks."

Although Ronan hoped to have local anesthesia so he could watch the goings on — he is a football player, after all — he was put under and awoke to good news a couple of hours later.

"They cleaned it out and told me it was just a complex dislocation and I would be ready to go in a week," he said. "That was probably one of my happiest moments ever."

His left hand encased in a padded gray wrap the size of a boxing glove, Ronan was in the starting lineup for the season-opening win over Central Connecticut State.

"They rushed him back and they could do it because of his toughness," Dartmouth coach Buddy Teevens said of the 6-foot-3, 275-pound government major. "The bone was sticking out and he didn't blink an eye. He played with a club on his hand and that didn't surprise me at all. That's the toughness I saw when he was a senior in high school."

A talented pitcher with a 90 mph fastball, Ronan thought he was headed for a college diamond until his junior year of high school. While he still loves baseball, a move from linebacker and tight end to the offensive line played into his decision to pursue football in college.

"It's kind of a different atmosphere on the field," he explained. "I am not sitting in the dugout waiting for my time to pitch. It's a little bit more exciting for me. I am a pretty intense guy and each and every play you get to release some aggression."

Ronan camped at Harvard, Brown, Princeton, Penn and Dartmouth in addition to Duke and Wake Forest. His father was born in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and while he liked Penn there was something special about Dartmouth.

"I just remember driving up through the woods, through all the trees, and it was a totally different atmosphere than all the rest," he said. "There was just something different about it that I liked. When you get off the exit and drive onto the campus it's like an oasis out in the middle of nowhere."

Ronan got on the field in four of the final six games of his freshman year and saw action in every game of his sophomore season, sharing time at left guard.

JOIN THE FRIENDS OF DARTMOUTH FOOTBALL

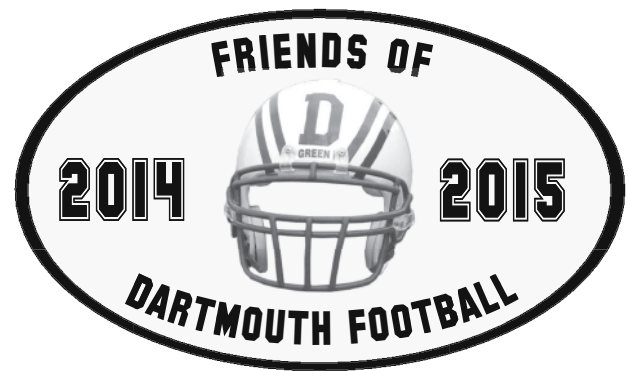

The Friends of Dartmouth Football, more than 3,000 members strong, provide vital support for the Dartmouth football program. The primary purpose is to enhance the experience of the student-athletes by providing funding for needs that cannot be covered by the College's budget but are essential to operating a first-class varsity football program.

Contributors are invited to attend the Friends/ Sponsors tent for pre- and post-game receptions at all home football games. In addition, Friends receive "The Green Line" Dartmouth football newsletter as well as an invitation to the annual Dartmouth Football Golf Classic.

Many Friends are also actively involved in:

- Dartmouth Football's Regional Events
- Cultivation of internships and job opportunities for Big Green players
- The Dartmouth Football Mentor Program

To join the Friends listed on the following pages, Visit DartmouthSports.com and click on "Giving"

Although he said he'd give cornerback a shot if that was what it took to get on the field, he shifted one slot to the right last year and couldn't be happier about it.

"I love playing center," he said. "It's a greater sense of responsibility. The play can't start without me. I have to read the defense and help out the rest of my guys, as well as the backfield."

Keith Clark, the Dartmouth offensive coordinator and line coach, credits Ronan for helping the line gel.

"He is the guy," Clark said. "He is what keeps it all together. He communicates. He's as smart as any player that I have been around from a football intelligence standpoint."

While Ronan spent last summer building himself up alongside NFL players like Maurkice Pouncey (Steelers center) and his brother Mike (Dolphins center), Anquan Boldin (49ers wide receiver), Eric Berry (Chiefs safety) and Mark Ingram (Saints running back), he wasn't a prototypical lineman coming out of Boca Raton High School.

"He was undersized," said Teevens. "He was an over-achiever. He wanted it badly. (Assistant coach) Sammy McCorkle prepped me before I visited his home and said this is a kid who football is really important to. I was just really convinced by his personality."

"He is a quiet guy by nature. He leads by example, but he's not afraid to speak up when it is appropriate. He will call guys out and make sure they are doing it right. People don't like practicing against him. He's fair, but he's hard. Guys know if he's around we are working. He's generous with praise for his teammates and doesn't take a whole lot for himself."

Ronan was chosen to the All-Ivy League honorable mention team as a junior after helping the Big Green to its most prolific offensive showing in 21 years.

This year he has set his sites on bringing Dartmouth its first Ivy League title since 1996. Today's showdown with Harvard is another stepping-stone toward achieving that goal.

"It has been a long, uphill climb," Ronan said. "We know we are a good team. Every game is big. Harvard is one you always circle on the schedule and this year it is huge."

"We are a goal-oriented team. We know what we want, and we're going to get it."

If they do, the headlines will go to the quarterbacks and running backs and wide receivers, but Ronan knows it is a team effort that starts with the offensive line.

"We have to be a cohesive unit," he said. "If we're not working together then we are not going to get the job done. It's like being part of a five-man team."

A five man team that, like five fingers, make a FIST, something Ronan writes on his wrist before each game. It's an appropriate appellation, even if one of the fingers in the middle of the fist is a little crooked.

A veteran writer and observer of Dartmouth athletics, Bruce Wood launched a web site in 2005, www.biggreenalert.com, specializing in Big Green football news coverage.

rector Teevens has shown remarkable forbearance in this period, holding training sessions while the entire backfield was toiling in the Earth Science lab, exploring techniques of structural and stratigraphic analysis.

But then again, these are our values, these are our priorities, this is Who We Are. And we are, after all and above all, a College, where the life of the mind is preeminent and the pleasures and bawdy distractions of the ale house are discouraged. Only for geographic convenience do we annually schedule the undomesticated vandals of Harvard, whose natural rivals are in Norman, Tallahassee, Eugene, East Lansing and Columbus. These feral shock troops of the Square mount their menacing steeds and surge up here; truly it is the only glimpse they have of what a real college looks like. They wreak their damage and then return, grunting like brutish primitives, drool clumping at their chins and dripping onto their raiments of animal hides dipped in oak-tree oil, to attend to their women in loin cloths, their ritual sacrifices and their no-show classes in the Physical Education department. We pity them, and the worthless “degrees” they get.

But hark! The other day I whispered to Mrs. Phinch — gosh how lovely she remains, and have you seen how she sparkles, when fall nips the air? — that our boys have been doing more this autumn than retreating into the Web pages of their Calculus of Vector-Valued Functions course. Parson-Teevens and his able lieutenants have been preparing something of a stealth attack for the barbarians who just now are at the gates of Memorial Field.

I sense that our man Williams — channeling Crouthamel and Chasey, Fiedler and Mann and Schwieger, and also Air Mail Morton and Special Delivery Marsters — is primed to lead an insurgency the likes of which has not been seen in these precincts since 1988, when under the very same Teevens we prevailed by a tally of 38 to 7, thanks to the heroics of Clark and Johnson and the steady toe of Romero.

My fearless and flawless prediction: This afternoon Mrs. Phinch will lean onto my raccoon-coat shoulder up here in Section Six of the West Stands, we'll pass the silver flask (filled to the brim with Basil Hayden's eight-year-old small-batch bourbon) handed down to me by my great-great grandfather, Class of 1851, and we will relive the reveries of our youth, when Hoppy ran the College and we ran wild down East Wheelock. The bells of Baker Tower will ring with victory, our Prexy Phil and the peerless Gail will swell with pride, the men and women of Dartmouth will gather 'round our lion-hearted knights and together we will sing the ancient anthems we love so well. Our new scoreboard will glisten with the score — let's put it at 24 to 14 — and from the field turf to the heights of Balch Hill beyond Floren Varsity House our scholars will yell “To hell with Harvard,” like their daddies used to do.

S. Stanford Phinch II is a frequent observer of the Dartmouth scene. Commentaries of this sort by Mr. Phinch and his father, who witnessed Dartmouth's 3-0 victory at the dedication of Harvard Stadium in 1903, have graced Dartmouth football programs for decades. He and Mr. Peers have minimal high regard for each other's perspective.

observed. “I believe that it can withstand the presence of eleven unshod visitors for a few hours.”

The true value of that day, the President believed, was in the opportunity to salvage a shred of Eleazar Wheelock's noble if futile attempt to educate the gibbering rustic. Dartmouth's founder, if he can be so libeled, is said to have brought to the environs a Gradus ad Parnassum, a bible and a drum and 500 gallons of New England rum.

Needless to say the books went unopened and the rum was guzzled in a trice. It ultimately would fall to Harvard, as the foremost repository of virility and veritas, to instruct Wheelock's incoherent incorrigibles in the elusive intricacies of both football and letters. That was a task deemed best accomplished in Cambridge, with its atmosphere of civility and sagacity.

I am sorry to report, dear reader, that those remedial efforts bore little fruit. The rustic, who long had employed an animal skull as a ball, literally could not grasp an inflated object. Counting even to six was an insurmountable challenge. Harvard's esteemed coaches, from Haughton to Fisher to Harlow, threw up their collective hands. “The granite of New Hampshire certainly is in the Dartmouth brain,” concluded Haughton.

Not that the corrective experiment went any better in the classroom, which itself was an alien concept to rural creatures accustomed to lean-tos made of twigs and leaves. If the Gradus ad Parnassum was meant to be a stairway to an intellectual pinnacle, the savage mind evidently would be stuck on the first step for eternity.

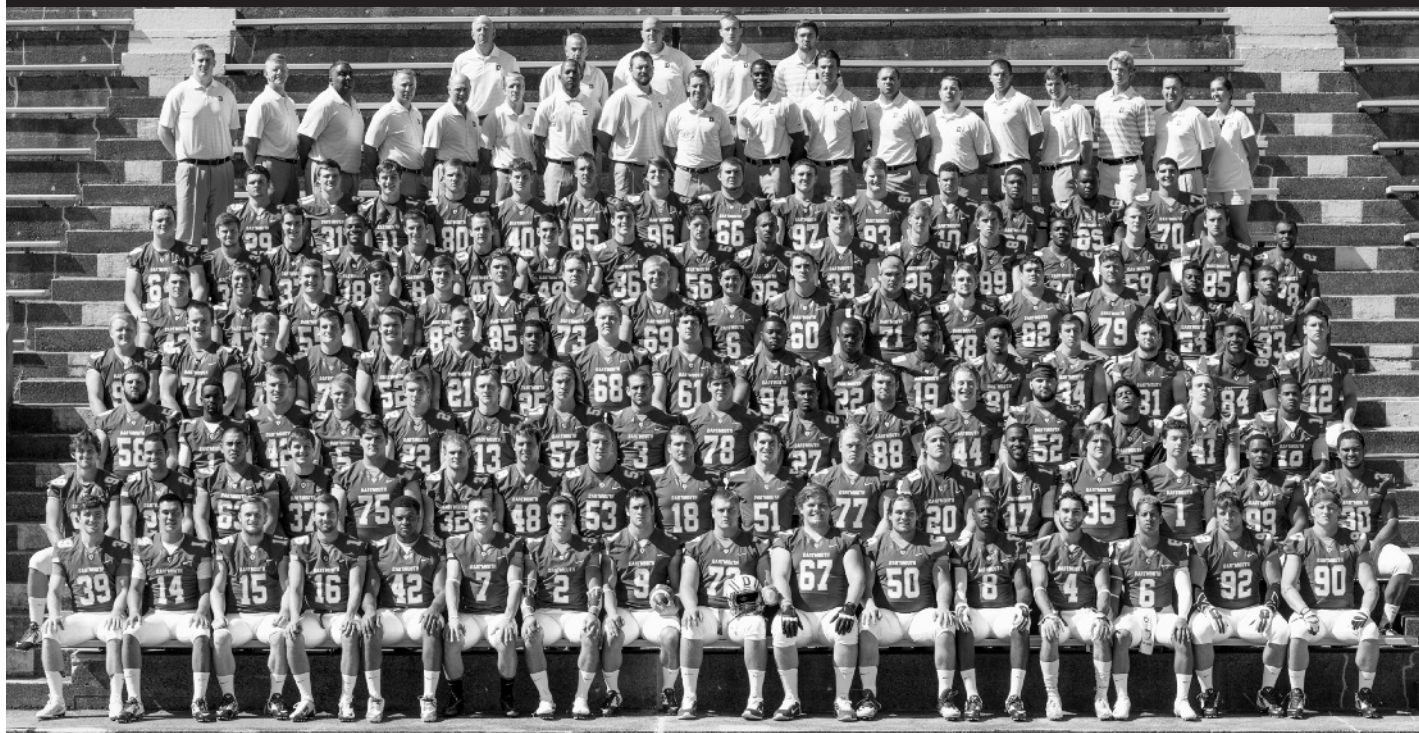

That was President Bok's conclusion in the Seventies when it was decided that our lads should decamp to Dartmouth for what would become biennial excursions. There might be some value to an anthropological diversion among the evergreens, after all, and the Rand McNally cartographers finally had been able to locate a roadway that reached the White Mountains.

These fresh-air outings have been reasonably worthwhile for the crimson varsity, which was delighted to find that its hosts finally had erected a brick facility that passably serves as a stadium with a scoreboard that replaces the abacus and a publication that provides names and numbers of the contestants as well as elementary observations from local scribes.

I must say that this Phinch fellow, who is said to be a survivor of both Wheelock's primordial curriculum and the befogging campus tipple, may be an ornithological oddity but he appears to be able to place one sentence after another. That itself may be an intellectual triumph on the scale of the invention of fire. Sadly, but not surprisingly, said Phinch subscribes to the delusion that Dartmouth will prevail in today's proceedings. All in attendance will discover that mastering Yale is no great accomplishment. Harvard's in town again and the final reckoning will be 42-21 in the visitors' favor.

J. Bennington Peers III, while rarely venturing from his perch in the Stadium colonnade, has been a peerless observer of Ivy football for generations as well as an informal and indispensable advisor to Harvard's coaches. He long has recommended that Dartmouth be replaced on the schedule by the Somerset Club eleven.

Norman Hayes

Coach Tim Murphy

Harvard comes to Hanover for the biggest game at Memorial Field in 17 years, the last time the Crimson and Dartmouth were undefeated in Ivy League play. Robert L. Blackman Head Football Coach Buddy Teevens is hoping for a different result this time around, however, as Harvard handed the Big Green their only conference loss, 24-0, and won the title with a perfect 7-0 record.

The Crimson have had Dartmouth's number for the past decade, winning each of the last 10 meetings between the two. Last year, Andrew Flesher booted a 23-yard field goal — his third of the game — with less than a minute remaining to lift Harvard to a 24-21 victory in Cambridge.

This year, the Crimson enter the game with a perfect 6-0 mark overall to go with their unblemished 3-0 league record. They were able to survive without their starting quarterback, Conner Hempel, for four weeks with Scott Hosch behind center without missing a beat as the understudy completed nearly 64 percent of his passes for over 1,000 yards. But Hempel returned last Saturday and helped Harvard thump host Princeton by a final of 49-7, completing 25-of-31 throws for 382 yards and three touchdowns while running for 52 more yards and a pair of scores.

Joining Hempel in the backfield are a trio of accomplished running backs in Paul Stanton, Andrew Casten and Semar Smith. Casten leads the Crimson with 447 rushing yards and eight touchdowns this season, but it was Stanton (18 for 105 yards, 1 TD) and Smith (12 for 124 yards) that torched the Tiger defense. As a team Harvard averages 210 yards a game on the ground, and with the agile Hempel back in the fold, the Dartmouth defense — the only team to hold Harvard under 30 points last year — will have its work cut out for it.

The two favorite targets at whom to throw are wide receiver Andrew Fischer (36 catches, 393 yards 2 TDs) and tight end Anthony Firkser (24 catches, 375 yards, 3 TDs). But the Big Green also will have to keep tabs on wideout Seitu Smith and reserve tight end Ben Braunecker, both of whom are capable of the big play.

The Crimson defense is the stingiest in the league and second among FCS schools having yielded barely 10 points every Saturday. Not one opponent has scored 20 points even once against the Harvard unit, which has surrendered less than an average of 80 yards on the ground. Only six teams have allowed fewer yards as well.

This is a team that knows how to get in the backfield and be disruptive with 30 tackles for a loss this season, including 16 sacks. Defensive end Zack Hodges may have just 15 tackles, but he leads the league with 5.5 sacks. Meanwhile, four linebackers make up the four players on the roster with at least 30 tackles, led by Matt Koran with 39. The Crimson may only have three interceptions, but they have forced nine fumbles — nine by tackle James Duberg — recovering four.

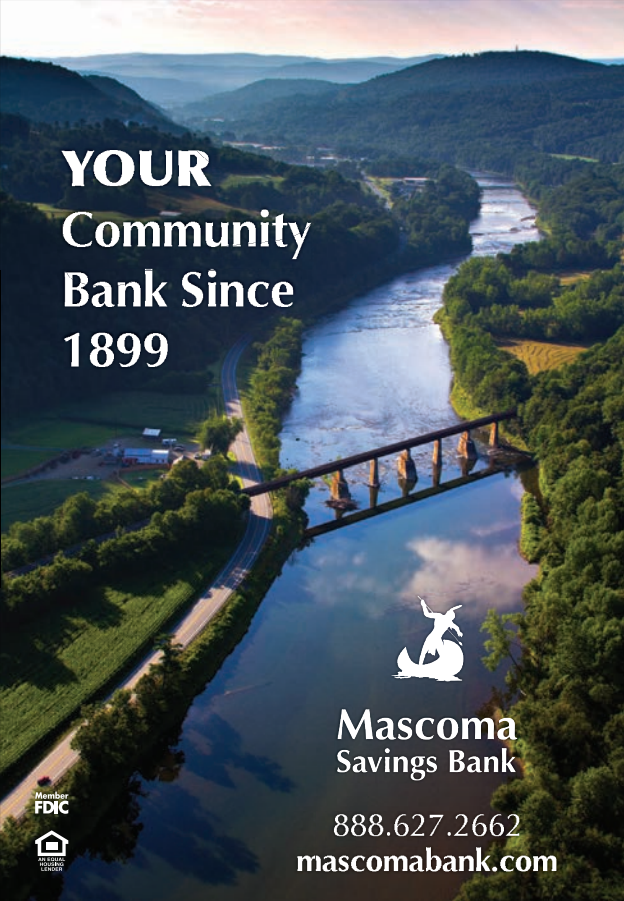

Harvard is coached by Tim Murphy, now in his 21st year in Cambridge and 26th overall as a collegiate head coach. The boyhood friend of Dartmouth head coach Buddy Teevens is 143-62 during his Crimson tenure with seven Ivy championships to his credit, and 175-107-1 in a career that included stints at Maine and Cincinnati.

Murphy was a four-year starter at Springfield College, earning All-New England honors for small colleges as a linebacker before graduating in 1978. In 2007, he was inducted into his alma mater's Athletic Hall of Fame.
