SATURDAY, SEPT. 24 | 5:00 p.m.

DARTMOUTH AT HARVARD (Cambridge, Mass.)

Live Stats: DartmouthSports.com | Watch: ESPN+

AT

OPENING SERVES

62nd MEETING

Dartmouth holds a 22-39 record in the all-time series against the Crimson. Both teams have traded series sweeps over the past three seasons. Harvard swept the two matches in 2018, Dartmouth returned the favor in 2019, then Harvard won a couple five-setters in 2021.

8-2 HEADING INTO IVY LEAGUE PLAY

Dartmouth is 8-2 through its first 10 matches for the second year in a row, but it's still rare territory. 8-2 ties the best start through 10 matches in program history. The program has reached that mark three times since turning varsity in 1994 (2010, 2014 and 2021).

STACKING UP

Dartmouth leads the Ivy League in opponent hitting percentage and service aces, while ranking second in other major categories like blocks per set, digs per set, kills per set and assists per set. Amelia Gibbs holds the best hitting percentage in the conference heading into the start of league play with a .384 mark.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

7 • KAREN MURPHY

A junior setter from Nampa, Idaho, Karen Murphy earned her first double-double of the season and eighth of her career against Seton Hall with 17 assists and 15 digs. She also notched a season-high 20 assists in a three-set win over NJIT.

18 • AVA ROBERTS

Freshman Ava Roberts leads Dartmouth in service aces at 14. She's a big reason why the Big Green rank 11th in the nation in service aces per set. Harvard allows the most service aces of any Ivy League team at 2.10 per set.

BIG GREEN QUICK HITS

LAST TIME OUT

Dartmouth went 2-1 during the Seton Hall Classic with the lone loss coming to the hosts out of the Big East. The Big Green cruised to a three-set win over NJIT Friday afternoon before falling to Seton Hall. The Big Green dropped the first two sets to the Pirates, claimed the third to become the only team at the tournament to win one against the hosts, then had the Pirates on the ropes in the fourth. Escaping a fifth set against a red-hot Dartmouth squad, Seton Hall used an 11-1 run to clinch the victory. Dartmouth quickly regrouped after the loss and defeated Central Connecticut State, winning each of the three sets by at least 10 points.

OGUNLARI'S CAREER WEEKEND

Bomi Ogunlari has consistently been a key contributor for the Big Green, but stepped up in a big way during the Seton Hall Classic to earn All-Tournament honors. She tallied 10 kills on just 13 attacks without an error against NJIT, marking the fifth-best single-match hitting percentage in program history (minimum of 10 attacks) at .769. She went on to lead Dartmouth with nine kills against Seton Hall while still sporting an impressive .333 percentage. Capping her impactful weekend, the junior recorded six blocks against Central Connecticut State (1S, 5A), just short of her career-high of seven.

SERIES HISTORY

Harvard dominated the series for the entirety of three seasons (2016-18), but Dartmouth slayed the dragon in 2019 with a series sweep. Harvard bounced back next time around, notching its own sweep in 2021. Harvard handed the Big Green a loss in the Ivy opener during the 2021 campaign and later snapped their two-game win streak with another narrow five-set win midway through the conference slate.

OPPONENT HITTING PERCENTAGE

Dartmouth ranks 23rd in the country and first in the Ivy League in opponent hitting percentage at .150, while Harvard is last in the Ancient Eight with a .261 mark. Don't write off the Crimson's defensive efforts, though. They played a grueling nonconference schedule with tough matches against Power Five opponents like Georgia, who ranks 16th nationally in hitting percentage. They also faced Boston College, who ranks 26th in the category. Dartmouth has held opponents under a .100 hitting percentage this season, a feat the 2021 squad accomplished only once.

ACES APLENTY

Serving is perhaps where Dartmouth shines brightest among the Ivy League and even nationally. The Big Green are tied with Yale at 11th in the country with 2.15 aces per set. Freshman Ava Roberts, who ranks 32nd in the nation, leads that charge with 0.54 aces per set - on pace for second best in program history. Makenzie Arent served a career-high five aces in Dartmouth's second match against Harvard last season.

WHAT'S AHEAD

Dartmouth returns home to face Princeton Saturday, Sept. 30 at 5 p.m. and later squares off with Penn on ESPNU Sunday, Oct. 2 at 12:30 p.m.

Gilad Doron is entering his seventh year at the helm of the program in 2022 after being named head coach in April of 2016. He is the third head coach in program history.

Dartmouth finished the 2021 season with a 15-8 record, which marked the Big Green's best since 2011. Doron guided the team to a 6-0 start and a pair of tournament titles, including the Dartmouth Invitational, which the Big Green won for the first time since 2015. In Ivy League play, Dartmouth enjoyed a five-match winning streak, capped by a five-set thriller against Yale - the first victory over the Bulldogs in six years. Freshmen Ellie Blain and Emma Engstrom received Second Team All-Ivy honors following the season.

Prior to the cancelation of the 2020 season, Doron's Big Green went 10-15 in back-to-back seasons 2018 and 2019. The 2017 team posted a 10-13 record after a 9-16 mark in Doron's first season in Hanover.

Doron came to Dartmouth from the University of San Francisco, where he spent nine years as the Dons' head coach and three as the co-head coach of the beach volleyball team. Compiling the winningest record in USF history, he boasted an overall record of 131-130 and a program-best 60 victories against West Coast Conference foes during his stint in the Golden Gate City. In 2008, he led the team to its best ever WCC finish (2nd) and an NCAA Tournament appearance. The Dons were also No. 22 in the country, their best national ranking.

Prior to his appointment at USF in March of 2007, Doron served as head coach at Villanova for three seasons (2004-06) and as an assistant coach at Temple (1996-99), where he helped lead the lead to three consecutive Atlantic 10 championship titles and NCAA appearances (1997-99). He also founded the Philadelphia Volleyball Academy, a nationally ranked club comprised of five teams of players between the ages of 14-18.

Doron began his coaching career in his native Israel as the head men's volleyball coach for the Mate Asher Professional Club, where he mentored national team players from Israel, the Czech Republic, Romania and Croatia. He led his teams to the 1994 Israeli Championship and the finals of the 1995 Israel Cup.

An accomplished player himself, Doron competed for the Israeli national team for 10 years and was part of the squad that placed fourth in the World University Games in Japan in 1995. He played 12 seasons with aforementioned Mate Asher, helping lead the club to four Israeli League titles and a pair of Israeli Cup championships.

Doron graduated from Temple in 2000 with a degree in business administration.

She also coached for one season as an undergraduate assistant at her alma mater, North Carolina State in 2015, helping the Wolfpack go 16-16 that fall.

Wilson graduated from North Carolina State in 2014 and was a four-year member of the Wolfpack volleyball team. As a sophomore, she was second on the team in total blocks and fourth in total attacks, helping the team make its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1987.

Wilson went on to earn her Bachelor of Science in chemical and biomolecular engineering with a Spanish minor in 2016 and her Master of Leadership in 2021.

REGAN SCOTT
LSU '06

Scott also found time to compete with the U.S. National Team from 2011-14, helping the squad finish third at the Pan American Games in Guadalajara in 2011. There was also a fifth-place finish in the World Grand Prix, and she captained the team to a second-place showing in Mexico City in the Pan America Cup in June of 2014.

A 2006 graduate of LSU, Scott was a four-year letterwinner for the Tigers and served as a captain in her junior and senior seasons. She was a Second Team All-SEC selection in 2003 and ranks sixth all-time in kills per set (3.31).
