WOMEN

SCOUTING SSU

The Lady Tigers are currently 6-9 overall, and 1-3 in conference play. They have been led in scoring by Ezinne Kalu, who is currently ranked third in the MEAC at 18.1 ppg. She has made 87 fgs, 23 three-pointers and 74 free throws this season.

The Lady Tigers are led on the boards by Alisha Nelson, who plays very strong in the middle. She currently ranks seventh in the MEAC in rebounding with 38 offensive, 71 defensive, for a total of 109, or 7.3 rpg.

While the Lady Tigers' record doesn't look successful, you must take into account the fact that they've played Nebraska, South Carolina and the University of North Carolina already this season. The group is starting to gel under coach Cedric Baker.

SSU is coming in off of a solid 69-60 home win over Morgan State on Jan.9. Kalu hit 27 points, while Jasmine Kirkland led the Lady Tigers on the boards with 14 rebounds. Another big win on the Lady Tigers' schedule is a thrilling overtime win over the University of North Florida in Jacksonville. SSU defeated them 64-61, with Kalu leading the way with a season-high 35 points and Nelson grabbing seven rebounds.

Considering 11 of their games have been non-conference opponents, it will take some time to get a feel for just how good they really are.

FAMU BASKETBALL

LeDawn Gibson Head Coach

LeDawn Gibson is entering her fourth season as head coach of the Florida A&M University Lady Rattlers and comes into the year with high expectations.

Last season, Gibson led the Lady Rattlers to a 15-15 record, giving the Lady Rattlers a No.4 seeding and a quarterfinal round appearance to in the 2011 Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference Basketball Tournament.

During the season, FAMU raised eyebrows with road victories at the University of Alabama Birmingham and at East Carolina.

In her first season, Gibson's ladies posted a 14-17 record, as the Lady Rattlers surprised many by storming into the semifinals of the 2009 MEAC Tournament after being seeded seventh overall.

In 2009, Gibson led the Lady Rattlers to an 18-11 record, the first 18-win season for FAMU in ten years.

During that season, FAMU raised eyebrows with road victories at the University of Florida and South Florida, and a home victory over the University of Alabama.

The former head girls basketball coach at nationally-regarded Winter Haven (Fla.) High School, Gibson has set her sights even higher in this, her fourth season – contending for the 2011-2012 MEAC title.

Gibson and her staff retooled the team in the offseason, bringing in a boatload of talented recruits in her quest for this year's conference title.

Gibson, 41, led Winter Haven High for 12 seasons, elevating the Blue Devils' program to a perennial contender for the state honors and vaulted them to Top 25 status in the USA Today National High School rankings.

The Blue Devils were ranked No.1 in the State of Florida for nine straight seasons (2000-08), while finishing in the USA TODAY Top 10 High School National rankings in the 2007-2008 season.

Winter Haven's clubs were ranked in the USA TODAY Girls High School Basketball Top 15 in both 2004-05 and 2006-07.

The 2006-07 Class 5A Coach of the Year, Gibson was a six-time Lakeland Ledger Coach of the Year and was cited by the Winter Haven News Chief as its' Girls Coach of the Year from 1999 through 2008.

In her stint at Winter Haven, the Blue Devils compiled a scintillating 331-48 record, highlighted by two state championships in 2005 (Class 4A) and 2007 (Class 5A), seven Finals appearances, eight Final Four appearances overall, plus nine district eight regional titles.

In March of 2008, Winter Haven finished 30-2 overall, reaching the State finals for a fifth consecutive season, dropping a hard-fought decision to Naples Barron Collier High, just a year after winning the state title.

Twenty-eight (28) of her players advance to collegiate basketball careers, twelve (12) playing for NCAA Division One level for such programs as Connecticut, Kentucky, Memphis, South Florida and Indiana.

Two of her players – LaQweshia Gamble (2005) and Tiffany Hayes (2008) were named Florida Miss Basketball.

Two members of Gibson's first recruiting class, Tameka McKelton and Antonia Bennett, reached the 1,000 point plateau as just juniors last season. Additionally, Qiana Donald, also of that class, is poised to go after the MEAC rebounding and defensive player of the year titles.

Gibson is a graduate of Winter Haven High School and she holds a A.A. in Elementary Education from Polk Community College, a B.S. degree in Organizational Management from Warner Southern College in Lakeland, and an M.S. in Educational Leadership from Argosy University in Tampa.

SCOUTING SSU

The SSU Tigers are currently 7-9 overall, and 3-1 in conference play. They have been solid since entering the conference as a full member this season.

Rashad Hassan is the leading scorer for the Tigers, pouring in 11.9 points per game. He is currently shooting .559 from the field. Hassan also leads the Tigers in rebounds with 64 on the season (4 rpg.)

The Tigers started out with a challenging non-conference schedule. Their opponents included Georgetown, Butler, Georgia Tech and Wisconsin. They got a big non-conference win at the beginning of the season against Jacksonville University in overtime (73-70).

The Tigers come in on a two-game winning streak. They defeated Coppin State (72-60) and Jan.7 and Morgan State (57-55) on Jan.9.

Former Georgetown Hoya and Tigers head basketball coach Horace Broadnax is in his seventh season as head coach of the Tigers.

Famed SSU coach Russell Ellington was the longest tenured basketball coach as he coached nine seasons, from 1976-1985. In just two more seasons, Broadnax can eclipse that mark.

This season marks the first time Savannah State University will be able to compete in the MEAC championship. They left the SIAC in 1998 and played as an independent institution since that time.

Clemon Johnson Head Coach

Clemon “CJ” Johnson Jr., joins the Rattlers staff as head men’s basketball coach after excelling as a premier player for the Rattlers and a championship career in the NBA.

Johnson, a Monticello, Fla. native, attended FAMU High School, where he played for legendary high school coach Johnnie Williams. He has one son Chad, who played college basketball at the University of Pittsburgh.

He also has three daughters Candace, a FAMU graduate, Caprese and Cypress. Johnson, was offered a scholarship at FAMU, and was a standout player from 1974-1978 for coach Ajac Triplett. The Rattlers won the SIAC and Johnson made All-SIAC his senior season for the Rattlers in 1978. He was also named All-American and was honored by playing against a professional team in Mexico City, Mexico.

He currently holds FAMU rebounding records including most rebounds in a game (25), most rebounds for a season (412) and most rebounds for a career with 1,494.

He also scored 1,381 points for the Rattlers, which is still within the top 15 scorers in FAMU history.

Johnson’s 6’10”, 240 lb frame was perfect for basketball at FAMU, where he earned both his Bachelor of Science degree in Economics and master’s degrees in sports management. Johnson’s jersey was retired at FAMU in 1984 and later hung his number in the rafters at the Jake Gaither Gym where he played.

Johnson, who wore no.44 at FAMU, was drafted 44th in the 1978 NBA draft by the Portland Trailblazers. He played his first season with the Trailblazers alongside Maurice Lucas, before being traded for a brief stint at the Indiana Pacers.

Johnson went to the Philadelphia 76ers in 1983. Johnson played with legendary NBA All-Star Julius “Dr.J” Irving and Moses Malone. The tandem won the NBA Championship in the 1983 season, his first as a member of the 76ers. Johnson played for the 76ers until 1986, when he was traded to the Seattle Supersonics.

He played for the Supersonics until 1988, when he went to the European League to play for Italy from 1988-1993, when he ended his professional playing career. Johnson began his coaching career at the high school level. He coached at two high schools in Florida over an eight-year span, compiling a high school head coaching record of 184-60. Collectively he led his high school teams to three High School Sweet 16 or better appearances and seven district championship titles. In 2004, he was named the Big Bend Regional Coach of the year after guiding Quincy Shanks and East Gadsden High School to a 27-4 season (2003-2004).

Johnson coached the Florida Thrill semi-pro team to a 13-1 record and a runner-up finish after narrowly losing the championship game in overtime. Coaching among others, super middleweight boxing champion Roy Jones, Jr.

In 2006 Johnson worked with the Atlanta Hawks in basketball operations, before being named interim head coach of the University of Alaska Fairbanks Nanooks men’s basketball team in 2007. He served as interim head coach in 2007-08 and was named head coach following that season. He has coached the team for four total seasons from 2007-2011.
