The Athletes

ANDREWS, JOHN (Basketball, 1970-1974) – A native of nearby Havana, Florida, Andrews was a sharpshooting guard who led the team in scoring three straight seasons, finishing his career #3 all-time in FAMU history, with 1,726 points in 97 games, for a nifty 17.8 career scoring average... He was a first-team All-SIAC selection in 1972, when he averaged 21.8 points per game in 28 games, finishing with 610 points... In 1973, he was a second-team All-SIAC pick after averaging 22.5 points per game in 26 games... As a senior in 1974, Andrews averaged 18.7 points per game in 25 games...

HUCKABY, HOWARD (Football, Track, 1985-89) – A blazing speedster from the Bayou State of Louisiana, where he was a track phenom in the U.S. Junior Olympics, Huckaby became a record-setting return man for the Rattler Football team, as well as a dominant sprinter for the FAMU Men's Track Team.... In track, Huckaby was scintillating in the sprints and relays, earned Most Outstanding Performer honors at the 1987 MEAC Outdoor Championships as a sophomore, helping lead the Rattlers to Indoor and Outdoor titles in 1988 and 1989... In Football, he excelled as a return man, shattering numerous NCAA punt return standards in 1998, he led the nation with an 18.1-yard average per runback, with 478 returns yards and an NCAA record four (4) TDs... The three-time All-MEAC return ace also led the team in kickoff returns all four years he played, highlighted by a sizzling 1987 campaign, during which he led the nation, averaging an amazing 30.1 yards per return, compiling 602 returns yards on 30 attempts, all national bests that season.

THOMPSON, KENNETH L. (Track and Field * 1971-74) – A standout performer under Coach Bobby Lang for the FAMU track team in the early 1970s, Kenneth Thompson was a key member of the Rattler relay teams, in addition to his individual successes as a sprinter.

Prior to donning the Orange and Green, Thompson was a standout performer collegiately at North Carolina Central, where he earned Track and Field All-America honors before transferring to FAMU.

At FAMU, Thompson's hard work garnered him the Coaches' Workhorse Award in 1972 and the Ironman and Most Outstanding Awards in 1973, and he served as team captain in 1974.

A stellar high school athlete, Thompson was a member of the Miami Killian High state championship teams in the 4x400 and the 4x220, which set state records in 1970.

Thompson, who currently resides in Havana, Florida, owns the popular printing and novelty business, Kenny T's, noted for cutting edge designs in T-shirts and athletic apparel.

He also served as an assistant track coach at FAMU from 1993 to 1998 under Coach Bobby Lang, and he has been an avid supporter of FAMU Athletics through the Rattler Boosters, Inc., and direct financial support to basketball, baseball, softball, track and tennis.

WILSON, VAUGHN (Football, 1985-88)

– A two-time All-America kicker for FAMU, Wilson's punting prowess was key for the Rattlers' MEAC co-championship run in 1988.

The former Baby Rattler, who also played baseball at FAMU, and spent his first two seasons as a long snapper on special teams, became the team's regular punter in 1987.

Wilson averaged 39.6 yards per kick on 70 attempts, earning first-team All-MEAC and Black College All-America honors in 1987.

He followed that performance with a school record 2,812 punting yards, good for a 42.6 average on 66 attempts, which yielded him a second All-MEAC selection and All-American notice.

WILLIAMS, WALLY (Football, 1989-92)

– A multi-talented athlete, whose quickness, tremendous agility and strength caught the eyes of numerous college scouts, Wally Williams chose Florida A&M, becoming the anchor for an offensive front that would pave the way for the All-America running backs like Amir Rasul (1990) and Chuck Duffey (1991), while giving quarterbacks time to hit their talented cadre of receivers, led by All-America Terry Mickens (1992)... A three-time All-Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference performer at center primarily, Williams played an integral role in the Rattlers' 1990 MEAC Championship, and helped them to a stunning 28-17 season-opening road upset of national power Georgia Southern, on the way to an appearance in the 1992 Heritage Bowl against Grambling... Williams' abilities drew professional interest, and the former Rickards High star embarked on a 10-year career beginning with the Cleveland Browns (1993-95), later moving with them to Baltimore, where they became the Ravens (1996-98). He finally settled in New Orleans, playing guard for the Saints from 1999 until his retirement following to 2003 season.

The Supporters

leader, 1984-87) – Latricia Lafaye "Trish" Allen Ledet served as a FAMU Cheerleader from 1984 to 1987.

A native of St. Joe, Florida, Allen graduated with a degree in computer information systems in 1988, and earned a master's in public administration from FAMU in 1990.

She has been an integral part of the school's Sports Medicine program since 1988, serving in virtually every capacity from graduate assistant to head trainer.

Head Football Coach * Florida A&M University
University of Iowa, 1978 * First Season

At first glance, Florida A&M University head football coach Alex Wood looks more like an erudite college professor than a football coach.

But beyond the personable, mild-mannered, intellectual persona that Wood projects to the public, is a fiercely competitive firebrand, who stresses discipline and accountability from his players both on and off the field.

A native of Massillon, Ohio, Wood was a product of the storied Ohio high school program that was once led by the legendary Paul Brown, who went on to coach the Cleveland Browns and later found the Cincinnati Bengals.

"I wasn't a supremely gifted athlete," Wood recalls. "But I worked hard, worked out hard, lifting weights. I was known as a tough guy, a try hard guy."

Wood, who was a walk-on running back and special teams performer at the University of Iowa, eventually earned a scholarship with the Hawkeyes.

It was in the crucible of his years as a dedicated and determined young athlete, that the idea of continuing in the game of football was born.

"Many of my coaches in high school and college inspired me during my playing career," Wood recalls. "Denny (Dennis) Green was one of my coaches at Iowa. He was an excellent coach, and he was also the first African American coach I ever had.

"I knew I didn't have the talent for the NFL," Wood said, "but I wanted to get something back for what I had put into the game, so I moved into coaching.

"Coaching keeps me in the game (football). I interact with other coaches, work clinics, growing and learning so I can pass along that knowledge. That in turn, allows me to teach the fundamentals of football, instill discipline, to teach life lessons, and place emphasis on character and perseverance," said Wood.

"Seeing some of those former players years later, some who may not been great athletes, but who have become great men is very rewarding, knowing you helped make a difference, that you touched the lives of young men," he concluded.

FLORIDA A&M HEAD COACH ALEX WOOD

Wood, came to Florida A&M from the University of Buffalo, where he was offensive coordinator the last four seasons (2011-14), and interim head coach for the last half of the 2014 season.

During that four-year run, the Bulls averaged 35 points and over 4,000 yards in offense, finding a perfect balance between the run and pass.

His offensive philosophy was no doubt influenced by his various work stops in college, which ranged from championship teams at Miami (Fla.), and tours in FCS at James Madison and Southern (La.), to the professional level, in Minnesota, Cincinnati and Arizona.

Offensively, Rattler fans can expect to see a no huddle, hurry up pro style attack, that will utilize multiple personnel groupings and multiple formations, seeking that critical balance between the run and the pass, while pressuring opposing defenses with a relentless pace.

"We will snap the ball with 17 seconds on the play clock, seeking to average 95 plays or more every game. This will allow us to keep opponents vanilla, and not allow them to substitute much," promises Wood.

Rattler fans got a taste of an up tempo, fastbreak offense during the Gulf Coast Offense days under coach Billy Joe (1994-2004), and the possibilities of a return of those high-flying days has many FAMUans breathless with anticipation headed into 2015.

"The no-huddle is something we've always done, at first late in games, or when things were stagnant, to pump some life back into the offense.

"But now it is a full-time venture, with emphasis on a balanced philosophy. We don't want to be one dimensional, and being able to establish the run allows us to use play action more effectively as well," Wood added.

Defensively, stopping the run, which has been a challenge for the Rattlers in recent years, will be the top priority of Wood's GanGreen Defense.

"On offense, we want to be equally effective in the run game and through the air, while on defense, we want to make teams one dimensional, and stopping the run will be the key to success on that side of the ball."

Wood will employ multiple fronts on defense, with an aggressive, pressure style, that will cover well in the secondary, and seek to confuse the quarterback.

"We will play with pace on defense too, running to the ball like scalded dogs, being sound in our tackling and looking to create takeaways" Wood says.

With Fall training camp just days away, the first-year Rattler coach turned his expectations for the team in 2015, sounding very much like the 37-year coaching veteran he is.

"I expect us to play hard, play smart, play and a complete game with great excitement for four quarters," Wood said of his charges, who were in the final stages of a summer training regime that began in mid May.

The summer work regimen for the players placed equal emphasis on athletic training and academic excellence, and according to Wood, it was the first complete summer session the program has ever had.

"We are coming out of the summer training energized," Wood said. "I'm really looking forward to our seniors providing leadership for us this year, and they should be the most hungry to have a good year."

Rattler fans and opponents can expect Alex Wood to put his mark on the FAMU Football Program, such that it reflects the tenets of hard work, discipline and character that he has espoused over his long and fruitful career.
