THE HISTORY OF WRESTLING IN THE BIG TEN CONFERENCE

A meeting of seven university presidents in 1895, at the Palmer House Hotel in Chicago, was the first development of what would become one of organized sports' most successful undertakings.

Those seven men established the principles for which the Intercollegiate Conference of Faculty Representatives, more popularly known as the Big Ten Conference, was founded. Football and baseball were the most popular sports prior to 1900. Since then, many different athletic events have become popular on Big Ten campuses. Today, the Big Ten sponsors 12 championships for men and 11 for women.

The Big Ten began sponsoring wrestling in 1913, with Illinois and Minnesota tying for the first conference championship. Since then, the Big Ten has developed into the premier wrestling conference in the country. Big Ten teams have won 27 NCAA team championships and over 272 individual championships since the NCAA started sponsoring a national wrestling championship in 1928, including Iowa's three consecutive team titles from 2008-10. At the 2017 NCAA Championships, the Big Ten swept the top two spots with Penn State winning the title and Ohio State placing runner-up.

The 2018 Big Ten Championships will be held at Michigan State University, while the 2017 NCAA Championships will be held in Cleveland, Ohio at Quicken Loans Arena.

INDIVIDUAL AWARDS

SAPORA BROTHERS // MOST VALUABLE WRESTLER

The Illini's most valuable wrestler receives the Sapora Brothers Most Valuable Wrestler Award, in honor of the national championship-winning brothers.

Joe Sapora earned three letters for the Illini from 1928-30. He also won two Big Ten titles and became Illinois' first national wrestling champion when he won the NCAA 115-pound title in 1929. He went on to win a second title at the same weight in 1930. Al Sapora earned three letters, from 1936-38, was a Big Ten champion and won the 1938 126-pound NCAA title.

INDIVIDUAL AWARDS

BIG TEN MEDAL OF HONOR

John Lockhart, an NCAA champion and three-time Academic All-American, was Illinois' Big Ten Medal of Honor winner in 2002.

In 1914, the Big Ten Conference endowed a Medal of Honor, to be awarded annually at each institution to the student demonstrating proficiency in scholarship and academics. The award takes into consideration academic excellence, athletic awards and contribution to the community.

In the 86-year history of the award, nine Fighting Illini wrestlers have earned the award, including national champions Al Sapora, Steve Marianetti, Eric Siebert and John Lockhart. Since the arrival of Mark Johnson and Jim Heffernan, the squad has produced four winners.

Lockhart was the most recent recipient of the award for the wrestling squad. He was a three-time All-American for the Illini whose national title at heavyweight in 2001 helped lead the team to a fifth-place finish at the NCAA Championships. Lockhart placed third in 2002 and seventh in 2000 and completed his career with a 123-26 record. He also was a two-time Academic All-American, posting a 3.43 GPA in kinesiology. Currently, he is a resident at the Cleveland Clinic in Cleveland, Ohio.

Beginning in 1982, a woman athlete from each institution has also been awarded the Conference

Medal of Honor. There has been one father-son UI Medal of Honor duo, Lee Sentman (track) in 1931 and his son, Lee Sentman III (fencing) in 1958. Gymnast Howard Beck (1974 and 1975) is the only two-time recipient of the award.

ILLINOIS DIKE EDDLEMAN ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

The University of Illinois Athlete of the Year was first given in 1940 to Bill Hapac, who played basketball and baseball. The award was given annually until it was discontinued in 1973. There were no awards given until 1982, when the Big Ten began a Conference Athlete of the Year, in which each school nominated a male and female athlete.

Since 1982, the University of Illinois has recognized a Male and Female Athlete of the Year. In 1993, the awards were renamed the Dike Eddleman Athlete of the Year awards in honor of the 11-time UI letterman and former Olympian. The awards are announced each June and presented at the annual Varsity "I" banquet in the fall.
