BRAD DANCER

HEAD COACH // SIXTH SEASON

Head coach Brad Dancer enters his seventh season on the staff and sixth as head coach of the Illinois men's tennis team. Dancer became Illinois' 19th head men's tennis coach on June 28, 2005, after serving his first year on the staff as an associate head coach under Illini legend Craig Tiley.

The 2009-10 season saw the Illini make their 15th consecutive NCAA appearance, in addition to securing their 13th straight 20-win season with a 20-11 overall mark.

The Orange and Blue went 9-1 in the Big Ten to claim a second-place finish led by All-Big Ten honorees Marek Czerwinski and Dennis Nevolo.

During the season, Dancer also collected his 100th career victory at Illinois with a thrilling 4-3 win at Wisconsin on March 21.

In 2008-09, the Illini fell in the Sweet 16 to defending champion Georgia and finished at No. 12 in the final Campbell's/ITA rankings after posting an overall record of 23-9. Three Illini earned All-Big Ten honors, including Marc Spicijaric, Roy Kalmanovich and Dennis Nevolo. Nevolo also became the fifth Illini to earn Big Ten Freshman of the Year accolades and was the first since All-American Kevin Anderson received the honor in 2005.

The 2007-08 season was highlighted by the play of seniors Ryan Rowe and Ruben Gonzales, who were both All-Big Ten selections after helping lead the squad to an 8-2 finish in conference. Additionally, Rowe was named the Midwest Region Farnsworth/ITA Senior Player of the Year and Gonzales was the top male senior Scholar-Athlete at Illinois.

The 2006-07 season proved to be quite memorable for the Illini, as the many highlights included a runner-up finish in the NCAA tournament, Dancer's 100th career victory and All-America honors for Kevin Anderson and Rowe in both singles and doubles. Additionally, the pair also earned First Team All-Big Ten accolades and Anderson was named Big Ten Player of the Year and was the male recipient of Illinois' Dike Eddleman Athlete of the Year award.

Anderson and Rowe, the 2006 NCAA doubles champions and 2007 NCAA doubles runner-up, finished the year ranked No. 5 and became the first doubles team in almost 40 years of the championships to make it to the finals with the same partner in back-to-back seasons.

In Dancer's first season at the helm in 2006, the Fighting Illini took down two of the nation's top teams to open the season, defeating No. 1 Virginia, followed by dismantling No. 8 Duke on the road in consecutive duals. The feats propelled Illinois to No. 2 in the nation, a spot Illinois held for a large part of the season.

Also during that year, Illinois garnered its first singles No. 1-ranked preseason player in Ryler DeHeart. DeHeart led the Big Ten as the highest-ranked singles player during the year, ranking as high as No. 1 during the regular season and earned two All-America honors and a singles title at ITA National Indoors.

Dancer has had several former Illini move on to successful professional careers, most notably Anderson and DeHeart, who have each attained career-high world rankings in 2010. Anderson shot up to No. 58 in October, while DeHeart checked in at No. 174 in May.

As an associate head coach in 2004-05, Dancer helped lead the Orange and Blue to a 25-4 record and a trip to the Sweet 16, before taking over for Tiley, who left the program after a 12-year stint to become the director of Tennis Australia and who led the Illini to a national championship in 2003.

PLAYING CAREER

Michigan State

- Four-year letterwinner (1989-93)
- Team captain (1993)
- All-Big Ten selection (1993)

Before coming to Illinois, Dancer compiled a 38-35 overall record in three seasons as the head coach at Fresno State University. He led his teams to two NCAA tournament appearances, and in 2003, his squad advanced to the second round, marking the deepest postseason run during his tenure. In 1999, Dancer served in his first head coaching capacity for the women's tennis team at the University of Arizona.

Dancer's collegiate coaching career started at Michigan State, his alma mater, where he served as the assistant men's tennis coach from 1993-98. Overall, he started coaching at the club level and academies in Michigan, Colorado and later Bradenton, Fla. Dancer has traveled to more than 20 different countries, working with elite junior development programs and numerous touring professionals. Martina Navratilova, Joannette Kruger and Mariaan de Swardt are just some of the renowned athletes he has had the pleasure to work alongside.

In 1996, he began his ongoing role as an assistant to Billie Jean King for the U.S. Fed Cup Team. Dancer cites the experience with King as having a profound impact on him, as she led by her incredible example and helped him mold his coaching ideology.

From 1998 to 2004, Dancer served as head coach of the Delaware Smash of World Team Tennis. In his time, he had the privilege to coach team members such as Patrick McEnroe and Serena Williams. In 2003, he guided the Smash to the World Team Tennis Championship en route to being named Coach of the Year.

Dancer earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration in 1993 from Michigan State and also competed on the men's tennis team, earning All-Big Ten honors his senior year. As a four-year Academic All-Big Ten selection, Dancer served as team captain for MSU and qualified for the NCAA Individual Championship his senior year.

Dancer and his family resides in Champaign.

MARCOS ASSE

ASSISTANT COACH // SECOND SEASON

Marcos Asse enters his second season as an assistant coach at the University of Illinois. Asse came to Illinois after serving five years as an assistant coach and associate head coach at the College of William and Mary.

Asse played an integral role in player development throughout the season, helping the program secure its 13th straight 20-win season and 15th consecutive NCAA appearance.

During his time at William and Mary, Asse helped the Tribe achieve several accomplishments, including a Colonial Athletic Association title and NCAA tournament appearances in 2005 and 2007, and three consecutive 16-win seasons in his final three seasons with the program.

In 2007, he helped lead the Tribe to their highest ranking ever and was subsequently promoted from assistant coach to associate head coach. In 2008, he helped three players make the NCAA Individual Championships for the first time in over 60 years.

A 2001 graduate of the University of Florida, Asse walked on to the Florida tennis team as a freshman and earned himself playing time throughout his career. He was a contributor to Florida's 2000 SEC championship team, posting 21 wins in doubles, which ranks ninth in Florida history for a single season.

Asse is married to fellow Florida graduate, Nikki, and the couple has a daughter, Stella, who was born on January 22, 2009.

SCOTT DENENBERG

ASSISTANT COACH // THIRD SEASON

Scott Denenberg enters his third season as an assistant coach with the Illinois men's tennis team. Prior to Illinois, he spent four years playing collegiate tennis at Harvard University.

Denenberg was named second-team All-Ivy League in doubles his junior year and was ranked in the top 50 nationally in doubles his junior and senior years. The Trumbull, Conn., native received All-Ivy League academic honors his junior year and was named an ITA Scholar-Athlete in 2006 and 2007.

After graduating cum laude from Harvard with an S.B. Honors degree in electrical engineering and computer science, Denenberg worked as an electrical engineer for Jentek Sensors, Inc. where he performed system and electronic design for the small high-tech firm.

Denenberg currently is pursuing his master's degree in electrical and computer engineering.

STEVE OLDENBURG

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING // SEVENTH SEASON

Steve Oldenburg is in his seventh year as strength and conditioning coach for the Illinois men's tennis program. Oldenburg is a certified Strength Conditioning Specialist (CSCS) through the National Strength and Conditioning Association (NSCA), and brings additional expertise to the program as a Corrective High-Performance Exercise Kinesiologist (C.H.E.K.) practitioner.

Oldenburg was born and raised in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his Bachelor of Science in exercise science from Central Michigan. He is currently writing his thesis for a Master of Science in health science from Grand Valley State University.

Oldenburg brings a wealth of knowledge to the program as an exercise specialist, focusing in cardiac rehab and an independent contractor working in concert with Dr. Martin Grin at Champion Health and Fitness to reduce back pains and joint injuries. In addition, Oldenburg served as the strength and conditioning coach for the Grand Rapids Force professional volleyball team.

The tennis strength and conditioning program is like no other in the country, as student-athletes are pre-screened to determine specific muscle imbalances or postural deficits that may cause injuries or decrease performance. The information gathered from the tests is then used to develop a strength program to reduce each athlete's individual dysfunction. Aside from reducing muscle imbalances, Illini athletes go through a rigorous training program to develop stabilization, strength, power and speed.

Oldenburg and his wife, Jennifer, who is an assistant coach for the Illinois volleyball team, reside in Champaign, Ill.

AMBER NAGELE

ATHLETIC TRAINER // FOURTH SEASON

Amber Nagele is entering her fourth season working with the Illinois men and women's tennis teams. The Sheldon, Ill., native is no stranger to the athletic training program at the University of Illinois, as she served as a student athletic trainer from 2003-07 while finishing her undergraduate work at the U of I.

During Nagele's undergraduate studies and time as a student athletic trainer, she worked with the wrestling, men and women's gymnastics, track and field, football, cheerleading and softball teams.

Nagele holds both a master's and bachelor's degree in kinesiology and community health, with an emphasis on athletic training and currently teaches a clinical course for the athletic training undergraduate program at Illinois.

Nagele is a Certified Athletic Trainer by the National Athletic Trainer's Association Board of Certification in the state of Illinois.

JIM TRESSLER

DIRECTOR OF ATKINS TENNIS CENTER

Jim Tressler has been the Director of the Atkins Tennis Center since October 2000 after having served since April 2000 as its program director. Tressler not only oversees the non-varsity tennis programs but also is in charge of the pro shop, leagues, tournaments, special events and all day-to-day operations for the Atkins Tennis Center.

Tressler coached at Alabama, Florida and Indiana at the collegiate level, and also has worked with players on the WTA tour. Immediately before coming to the University of Illinois, he spent three years as the primary talent scout in the United States for Nike Tennis Sports Marketing. Tressler played collegiate tennis at the University of Cincinnati.

Tressler and his wife, Julie, live in Champaign with their two children, Travis and Delaney.

2011 SEASON PREVIEW

Seniors Johnny Hamui, Abe Souza, Connor Roth.

Sixth-year head coach Brad Dancer returns nearly his entire squad from a year ago that secured the program's 15th straight NCAA Championship and Big Ten Tournament title match appearance and 13th consecutive 20-win season. The Illini are ranked 16th in the Campbell/Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) team rankings to open the season, where they also finished in the final 2010 rankings after advancing to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

"This team competed with tremendous resiliency last year, so the No. 1 aspect we want this year is to maintain and improve upon that toughness," Dancer said. "This should prove to be an exciting and challenging year. We have a core group of guys that have some experience on both the collegiate and professional summer circuits, so how they transcend that competing in the dual match environment will be paramount to our success."

Despite the loss of All-Big Ten selection Marek Czerwinski, the Illini return five of six lineup mainstays including fellow All-Big Ten honoree junior Dennis Nevolo and senior Abe Souza, who tallied a team- and career-best 35 singles wins last season. After a solid fall season, the duo was recognized in the first individual rankings of 2011, as Nevolo garnered his highest ranking yet, checking in at No. 11 after going 13-4 for the fall with five wins over nationally ranked opponents, while Souza came in at No. 121. In doubles, Nevolo and Souza were ranked 20th.

"Dennis is beginning to demonstrate leadership for this team," Dancer said. "His self-discipline has improved and this will increase his confidence in the crucial aspects of matches. We are tinkering with a few technical issues and once he has better command of those aspects, we are going to encourage an increase in his offensive arsenal: more transition play, more free points off the serve and better utilization of his skills in an attacking manner. With his fitness being at an all-time high, there shouldn't be any game style he isn't comfortable playing against."

"Abe's growth as a person and tennis player has been awesome to be a part of," Dancer said. "He challenges himself on a daily basis to get better. There are a lot of guys that can do that, but then don't show up on game day. Abe rises to the challenge of competition, so he has become that unique breed of someone who is a manic about improving, yet relishes the spirit of competition."

Seniors Johnny Hamui and Connor Roth also return for the Illini after seeing significant playing time last season. Hamui, who transferred from the University of Florida prior to the start of the spring season, tallied 15 wins playing primarily at No. 4 singles in 2010 and is ranked at No. 111 in the first national singles rankings.

"It was definitely a difficult transition for Johnny to come in mid-year with the school change and make the immediate transition to indoor play," Dancer said. "What we saw down the stretch of the season and throughout the summer and fall is someone that is coming into his own as a competitor. Johnny is beginning to see areas in his game improve dramatically, which is giving him the confidence to play a more aggressive, assertive style. This in turn opens up his already strong skill set where we think he can compete with anyone in college tennis."

Roth finished his junior season with career-best win totals in both singles (20) and doubles (17), as well as Big Ten matches (4).

"Connor came back and won many big matches for this team last season, so we felt he could use that success to catapult his play through the fall," Dancer said. "While we didn't see that jump in performance, the work he's put in over the past two years is still yet to fully shine through. If he can relax, play within himself and use his physicality on court, then he can have his best year ever as an Illini."

Rounding out the roster is sophomores Bruno Abdelnour, Stephen Hoh and KU Singh and redshirt freshman Brian Alden, who will each look to make substantial contributions in their second season at Illinois.

"The sophomore class will likely play the biggest role in our potential success this year," Dancer said. "Bruno and Stephen should both have shaken off the freshman jitters and be more comfortable in the unpredictability of dual match play. KU will have to adapt quickly to the differences, but should add depth to our lineup immediately. Brian redshirted last season and continues to grow stronger physically. We definitely see him having an opportunity to contribute immediately in doubles and as his weapons improve, also on the singles court."

Hoh led all newcomers with 18 singles and 14 doubles wins overall, including five in Big Ten matches, and has already tallied a combined 13 wins this past fall in tournament play.

Junior Dennis Nevolo.

Sophomores Bruno Abdelnour, Stephen Hoh, KU Singh.

“Stephen has gone through more changes in the past 12 months than any other player on our team and most of that didn’t start until last summer,” Dancer said. “His game is a work in progress and we feel he possesses enough weapons to play a commanding and punishing style. This transformation will take time as he looks to see exactly when and how to use some of those weapons and also how best to set them up. Stephen has a great temperament for playing big matches, but needs to be more assertive earlier in matches to take more control when possible.”

Abdelnour saw action in the latter half of the season and collected nine wins in 13 matches, including four against Big Ten opponents, and also recorded six victories in doubles.

“Bruno continues to be right at the top of the team in terms of work ethic and commitment,” Dancer said. “He is gaining confidence in his serve after making multiple adjustments and that should pay huge dividends for him as he looks to play more assertively. Bruno is a very good ball striker that can become more adept at some of the nuances of facing different styles of competition. This will come with playing matches, which we feel we are seeing as he begins to read plays better, which will translate into him playing with more freedom and making adjustments on the court as he reads the plays.”

Alden made his collegiate debut this fall, posting three singles wins and four in doubles and will look to become a consistent competitor this spring for the Illini.

“The coaching staff saw some maturation kick in toward the end of the fall for Brian,” Dancer said. “He showed better commitment to his strength gains and began to pay closer attention to his film technique. Those areas are key for him. Brian brings a tremendous amount of passion to his competition and we will continue to encourage his aggressive attitude. The focal points with Brian are going to be refining his technical skill set, while helping him find that competitive balance where he can channel all of his energy into mental focus.”

Singh, who was forced to sit out all of last season and this past fall in accordance with NCAA rules, has kept busy competing in outside tournaments around the country, most recently winning the Car-X Men’s Open Tennis Tournament held at Atkins Tennis Center in early December.

“KU’s serve continues to improve and we really feel this is going to be a critical part of his success for the upcoming season,” Dancer said. “KU possesses excellent court sense, which should allow him to be a problem solver on the court this year. I expect him to be able to come back against any competition he faces, but we will encourage him to be more confident in imposing his game on to opponents.”

The squad will host the Illini Open in Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 13-15 to start the spring season, before beginning a grueling dual schedule in which five of their first seven matches will be against opponents ranked inside the top 15, including at No. 1 Virginia (1/21) and home matches versus No. 3 Tennessee (2/5), No. 9 Florida (2/12), No. 12 Kentucky (2/11) and No. 14 Duke (2/4).

“We always face a tough schedule, especially right off the bat, but this season it should be just incredible,” Dancer said. “Our usual opponents are either stacked or have reloaded with young talent. We get many of these matches at home and our fans can make a huge difference.”

Nine Big Ten schools will open the season ranked in the top 75, with four inside the top 30, including No. 4 Ohio State, No. 16 Illinois, No. 25 Michigan and No. 29 Wisconsin. Five conference schools, including Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State and Wisconsin, made NCAA appearances last season, while the Buckeyes claimed their fifth straight Big Ten regular season and tournament title.

The Big Ten Tournament will take place April 28-May 1 on the campus of the University of Wisconsin, while the first and second rounds of the NCAA Tournament will get underway May 13-14, followed by the NCAA Championships in Stanford, Calif., May 19-30 at the Taube Tennis Center.

“I am excited for our seniors as I think this team is confident in what they can accomplish, but they know it’s going to take a great effort from everyone,” Dancer said. “For this team to have success, everybody is going to have to contribute on the court so the pressure of the matches will go to all eight guys. The best part about that is in theory, it should make our practices very competitive where everybody is focused on their immediate preparations.”

2009-10 SEASON REVIEW

Resiliency, a term used often by fifth-year head coach Brad Dancer, is exactly what his team showed throughout the 2009-10 season. In a year filled with highs and lows, Dancer's squad maintained its tireless work ethic and continued the program's tradition of success with its 15th straight NCAA Championship and Big Ten Tournament title match appearance and 13th consecutive 20-win season.

The Illini prevailed throughout the fall despite abrupt departures in the offseason that left the roster with just five available players including seniors Marek Czerwinski, Meedo El Tabakh, juniors Connor Roth and Abe Souza and sophomore Dennis Nevolo. Czerwinski and Nevolo in particular, enjoyed much success in doubles during the fall as the duo captured the doubles title at the Wilson/Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) Midwest Regional Championships in mid-October and soared to No. 2 in the ITA national rankings to start the spring season.

Prior to the start of the fall season, Dancer welcomed the addition of first-year assistant coach Marcos Asse, who filled the position vacated by former associate head coach George Husack, who left Illinois at the end of the 2009 season to join the USC men's tennis program as associate head coach. Asse had mostly recently spent five years as an assistant coach and associate head coach at the College of William and Mary and joined second-year volunteer assistant coach Scott Denenberg as part of Dancer's coaching staff.

The final pieces were in place by January, as freshmen Brian Alden, Bruno Abdelnour, Stephen Hoh, Karunoday Singh and University of Florida transfer junior Johnny Hamui rounded out the roster for the Illini. Hamui and Hoh became mainstays in the lineup, while Abdelnour saw action in several matches later in the season and Alden and Singh sat out the season as redshirts.

The Orange and Blue debuted at No. 15 in the team rankings, reaching as high as No. 10 midway through the season and never dropped out of the top 20. As in previous years, Illinois' schedule was one of the toughest in the country, as the Illini faced four top-10 opponents in their first seven matches to open the spring season and concluded the year having faced 18 opponents ranked in the top 30.

The Illini shook off a season-opening loss to No. 2 Virginia with consecutive wins over Virginia Tech and Washington in the second annual ITA Kick-Off Weekend event, which served as the first and second rounds of the ITA National Team Indoor Championships. Illinois made its 14th straight appearance in the tournament and went 1-2 with a win over Fresno State to close out the weekend.

After a two-week break from competition, the Orange and Blue claimed six of its next seven matches including wins over Northwestern and Wisconsin to open Big Ten action with a 2-0 mark. After a trio of 4-3 losses, the Illini rebounded to go 5-1 to end the regular season and secured a second-place finish in the Big Ten with a record of 9-1. The lone loss came at eventual Big Ten Champion Ohio State, though the Illini earned another shot at the Buckeyes shortly after.

At the Big Ten Tournament, Illinois cruised to 4-0 victories over Iowa and Michigan to secure a spot in the title match for the 15th straight year, where the Illini have faced Ohio State each of the last seven seasons. Hard-fought battles ensued in doubles, but the Buckeyes prevailed and ultimately claimed a 4-1 decision for their fifth straight tournament crown.

Despite the disappointing outcome, the result had little affect on NCAA Championship seeding, as Illinois was selected to host the first and second rounds for the 11th time in 12 years and was tabbed as the 13th overall seed in the tournament. The Illini drew Xavier for the second time in three years, while Notre Dame and Wisconsin squared off in the other regional match.

With a 4-0 victory over the Musketeers, Illinois improved to 11-1 all-time when hosting an NCAA first-round match and advanced to the second round to battle a familiar foe in Wisconsin. After a lengthy delay due to inclement weather, the match was ultimately forced indoors.

The Badgers, looking to avenge a 4-3 home loss earlier in the season, came out firing in doubles and tallied a 1-0 advantage. Down 3-0, Hamui disposed of his opponent in straight sets to get the Illini on the board, as battles waged on the remaining courts. Illinois seemed poised to make a comeback but late rallies fell just short and Wisconsin went on to collect a 4-1 win to advance to its first-ever Sweet 16, while the loss snapped Illinois' streak of eight straight Sweet 16 appearances.

Souza, who put together a career year for himself and maintained a remarkable level of consistency throughout the season, finished out the year a perfect 14-0 at home, in addition to a team- and career-best 35 wins overall, a 26-3 mark in duals and tied with Cary Franklin and Jakub Tepy for seventh all-time for most wins in a single season. He also was tabbed co-Advantage Illinois Most Valuable Player with teammate Czerwinski and checked in at No. 86 in the final ITA national singles rankings. Off the court, he earned CoSIDA/ESPN the Magazine Academic All-District second team honors and won the team's Scholar-Athlete Award for the second straight year.

Roth added a career-best 20 wins in singles and 17 in doubles, while Hoh led all newcomers with 18 victories playing primarily at No. 5 singles. Hamui tallied 15 wins, including a 7-2 mark in Big Ten matches and Abdelnour captured nine wins in 13 appearances for the Orange and Blue.

Rounding out the squad were All-Big Ten honorees Czerwinski and Nevolo, who owned the top two singles spots for the Illini the majority of the season. The duo earned an automatic bid into the NCAA Doubles Championships in Athens, Ga., and advanced to the quarterfinals before falling to the eventual national champions from Virginia. Nevolo received an at-large bid into the 64-player singles field.

Czerwinski capped off his final season as an Illini with a career-best 26 wins, including an 8-1 mark at No. 2 singles and 9-1 record in Big Ten matches. He also boasted the second-best doubles mark on the team with 28 wins, 12 of which came at the top spot. Czerwinski concluded the year at No. 80 in the final singles rankings and checked in with three different doubles partners including Nevolo (No. 16), Souza (No. 63) and Hoh (No. 71).

Nevolo, who finished 42nd in the final rankings, finished second on the team with 27 wins, falling just one shy of his career-best mark and tallied a new personal- and team-best win total in doubles with 31. He led the team with nine wins over nationally ranked opponents and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Singles Championship.

At the NCAA Championships in Athens, Ga., former Illini head coach Craig Tiley was inducted into the ITA Men's Collegiate Tennis Hall of Fame for the class of 2010. During his 12-year run (1994-2005) at the helm for Illinois, the Durban, South Africa, native captured the program's lone national championship in 2003, in addition to two ITA National Team Indoor titles and was twice honored as Wilson/ITA National Coach of the Year.

The Illini, who ranked 16th in the final ITA national rankings, finished the season with a 20-11 overall record, including 15 wins over nationally ranked opponents. With the Illini women finishing 24th in the rankings, Illinois was the only Big Ten school to boast both of its tennis programs in the final top 25.

Note: 1992-93 was the first season that college tennis went to the seven-point scoring format, where each singles match is worth one team point and the doubles competition (as a whole) is worth one point. In previous years, each doubles match was worth a point, so there were a total of nine team points that could be scored.

Note: In 1992-93, former head coach Craig Tiley served as interim head coach for the Fighting Illini. He took the head coaching position in 1993.
