MIKE SMALL

HEAD COACH // 23RD SEASON

University of Illinois men's golf head coach Mike Small enters his 23rd season in 2022-23.

He has brought national recognition to the Illinois golf program in his 22 years at the helm of the program. The 2015 Dave Williams National Coach of the Year has guided the Illini to 12 of the last 13 Big Ten Championship titles, including the program's curent streak of seven consecutive that has established a new Big Ten Conference record for sustained excellence.

Since 2010 Small has mentored two NCAA individual champions - Scott Langley (2010) and Thomas Pieters (2012) - and also coached eight competitors to nine Big Ten Player of the Year honors in Luke Guthrie (2012) - a two-time individual Big Ten champion who held the program's career stroke average record at the end of his career - Pieters (2013) - a two-time All-American who helped the Illini to an NCAA runner-up finish in 2013 - Brian Campbell (2014), who broke Guthrie's season stroke average and earned All-America honors in 2014 - Thomas Detry (2015) a three-time All-American who is among Illinois' career stroke average leaders - Charlie Danielson (2016) - Illinois' first and only four-time All-American who again reset the all-time low season stroke average — Dylan Meyer (2017) — a three-time All-American and Ben Hogan Award finalist - Nick Hardy (2018) — a two-time Individual Big Ten Champion and twotime All-American, and Adrien Dumont de Chassart (2021 and 2022) - who captured the individual Big Ten title as a freshman in 2019. In all, Small has coached Illini golfers to 11 Big Ten Players of the Year Awards with the addition of Langley (2010) and James Lepp (2003).

Small with four-time All-American Charlie Danielson in 2015.

Under Small's direction, the Illini program has seen consistent success as his teams have not only continued to achieve greatness at the conference level, but on the national level as well. Small has led Illinois to topfive NCAA finishes in seven of the last 11 postseasons, including a runner-up standing in 2013. Illinois has advanced past NCAA Regionals to the NCAA Championship 15 times under Small's guidance, including a run of 13 straight from 2008 to 2021, a streak that ranked second nationally during that stretch. The Orange and Blue have won five NCAA Regional titles, including four consecutive NCAA Regional Championships from 2013-2016, becoming one of just two schools in NCAA history to do so. Since the start of the 2014-15 season, Small's Illini have been a consistent force among the top 25 in the Golfweek/Bushnell Coaches' Poll, and own the longest streak ranked in the top spot. Small was again recognized for his coaching success in 2016 as he was inducted into the Golf Coaches Association of America Hall of Fame.

Small has been named Big Ten Coach of the Year a conference-record 12 times in his career (2022, 2019, 2018, 2017, 2016, 2015, 2013, 2012, 2011, 2010, 2009, 2002) and has also been named Midwest Regional Coach of the Year on 11 occasions (2021, 2019, 2018, 2016, 2015, 2014, 2013, 2011, 2010, 2009, 2003). Under his direction, 14 Illini have won 30 All-America honors and 57 All-Big Ten accolades garnered by 25 student-athletes.

Small's players continue to see success after college as well. Illinois currently boasts several alumni on the PGA, Korn Ferry and DP World Tours in Steve Stricker, D.A. Points, Thomas Pieters, Thomas Detry, Scott Langley, Brian Campbell, Luke Guthrie, Dylan Meyer, Nick Hardy, and Michael Feagles. Illinois graduates Chris DeForest (2011). Langley (2010.

2012 and 2013), Campbell (2015), Charlie Danielson (2016 and 2019), Pieters (2020, 2022), and Detry (2020, 2021) also have qualified for the U.S. Open, as did then-current Illini Hardy (2015 and 2016), Meyer (2018 and again 2021), and Adrien Dumont de Chassart (2022). Both Langley and Campbell earned low amateur finishes at the prestigious tournament. Illinois' most recent NCAA champion, Pieters, is currently playing on the DP World Tour alongside fellow Belgian, Detry. Pieters has had continued success on the tour, with six tournament wins and representing Europe in the Ryder Cup. He also represented his home country of Belgium in the 2016 Rio Olympics, and again at the 2020 Tokyo Olympics along with Detry. In addition, Pieters tied for fourth at the 2017 Masters Tournament. In 2022, he competed in all four majors for the second time in his career (also 2017).

Small with 2012 NCAA individual champion Thomas Pieters.

Several Illini have represented the program on a national level, competing in the Arnold Palmer Cup, as Langley also won the clinching match at the Palmer Cup in 2010 and Pieters, also helped Europe clinch the 2012 Palmer Cup by halving both of his singles matches in the event. Detry went 3-1 in helping Europe to a 2014 Palmer Cup win in 2014, while Danielson received the event's Michael Carter sportsmanship award in 2016. Hardy carried on the tradition, helping the United States win the cup in 2017, and most recently Adrien Dumont de Chassart competed for Team International at the 2021 and 2022 Palmer Cups. Langley, Pieters and Detry also represented the United States on the national team for the World Amateur Team Championships in Argentina, and Dylan Meyer wore the national colors at the Australian Master of the Amateurs.

In addition to success on the course, Small's players have experienced great academic success, capturing several Big Ten Medal of Honor awards with Scott Langley in 2011, Luke Guthrie in 2012 and Charlie Danielson in 2016. Additionally, his players have earned 72 Academic All-Big Ten honors.

Small provides the Illini with the unique combination of a respected teacher and coach, and a current playing professional all wrapped up in one man that has lifted Illinois into national contender. He has the distinction of playing on a Big Ten championship team and coaching 12 more. As a former full-time professional, he can share with aspiring tour players what it takes to play at the next level. As someone who still competes and succeeds at a handful of high-profile events each year, he has had a chance to rub elbows with the likes of Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson.

Small has continued his professional career while coaching, most recently making his debut on the PGA TOUR Champions. Since 2000, he is a three-time PGA of America National Champion, a three-time PGA Professional National Player of the Year, a 13-time IPGA Champion, four-time Illinois Open Champion and he has participated in 13 major championships. Small has made the cut in 15 of 34 PGA TOUR events since he began coaching at Illinois, and has appeared in several PGA TOUR Champions events, earning three top 10 finishes. He was also named the 2017 OMEGA Senior PGA Professional Player of the Year.

PLAYING CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

When Mike Small returned to Champaign, Ill., in June 2000 to take over as head coach, it came following a decade of golfing professionally, including five years spent on the PGA Tour and what is now the Korn Ferry Tour. Small continues to compete on a limited basis in PGA tour events. Although not playing full time, he does so with some impressive results. When he competes, he shows off his Illinois colors and attracts many proud alumni in the gallery.

Small was inducted into the Illinois Golf Hall of Fame in October 2013. Considered by many to be the greatest golfer the state of Illinois has ever produced, Small is the youngest man to ever be enshrined in the hall.

The summer of 2007 saw arguably the biggest of those successes when he won the low club professional at the 2007 PGA Championship and shared the award stand with its champion Tiger Woods on national television. Four years later, Small again earned low club professional honors at the 2011 PGA Championship, where he has honored alongside PGA champion Keegan Bradley on CBS.

2013: Inducted into the Illinois Golf Hall of Fame in October as the hall's youngest member. Qualified for his ninth PGA Championship and 12th career major. Also won his 10th Illinois PGA championship and competed as part of the United States team at the PGA Cup in September.

2012: Qualified for his eighth PGA Championship, the 11th major of his career.

Illinois celebrated its fifth-straight Big Ten championship in 2013 at the Pete Dye Course in French Lick, Ind.

2011: Earned low club professional honors for the second time at the PGA Championship, which he played for the seventh time in his career.

2010: Won his record tying third PGA Professional National Championship and second in a row. He also claimed his record ninth Illinois PGA title and eighth straight with a convincing 11-stroke victory at Olympia Fields. Small also earned his third PGA Professional Player of the Year honor.

2009: Small won the PGA Professional National Championship for the second time in his career. He made the cut in the 2005 and 2007 PGA and missed the cut by a stroke in 2006.

2008: The summer of 2008 saw Small win the Illinois PGA title for the sixth straight year and seventh overall, both event records.

2007: Small won the PGA Professional of the Year award for the second-straight year and was honored as the low club professional at the PGA Championship. He claimed the Illinois PGA championship for a record sixth time and fifth in a row, and won his fourth straight Illinois Open. He also won the Illinois Match Play Championship and qualified for his third U.S. Open.

2006: Small was named the PGA Professional Player of the Year by the PGA of America after another brilliant summer. He made the cut in five of nine PGA Tour events, highlighted by a season-high finish of 38th at the U.S. Bank Championship in Milwaukee. He also finished fourth at the PGA Professional National Championship, earning a berth to his third consecutive PGA Championship.

In addition to his success nationally, Small also won Illinois Open and Illinois PGA titles for the second straight year. He remains the only golfer ever to win both titles in the same year, a feat he has now achieved four times. It was his third Illinois Open victory and fourth consecutive IPGA title, as well as his fifth all-time.

2005: The summer proved to be one of the most spectacular in Small's professional career. In June, he won the PGA Professional National Championship, held at the Ocean Course at Kiawah Island, S.C., earning an exemption for the second consecutive year to the PGA Championship, as well as earning six exemptions for PGA Tour events in 2006.

Small then reached a professional pinnacle in August when he made the cut at the PGA Championship at historic Baltusrol in Springfield N.J., marking the first time in four career tries that he advanced to the weekend in a major.

Small continued his summer run by winning his third consecutive Illinois PGA Championship, marking the second time in three years that he won both Illinois Open and IPGA titles in the same year. His dramatic run concluded in September when he led a 10-member U.S. team across the Atlantic to compete against Great Britain and Ireland in the 22nd PGA Cup, a club professional version of the Ryder Cup.

Following the national club pro title, Small made the cut at the PGA Tour's Western Open for the third straight year. He then won his second Illinois Open Championship, storming back from a five-shot deficit to win the title thanks to a final-round 67.

2004: Small repeated as the Illinois PGA Champion, claiming his third IPGA title in four years. Small finished 7-under par at Royal Melbourne and broke the course record with a 65 during round two.

He then took runner-up honors at the PGA Professional National Championship, missing medalist honors by just one stroke after shooting 11-under par at the Longaberger Course in Nashport, Ohio.

For the second straight summer, Small made the cut at the PGA Tour's Western Open. He tallied three straight rounds under par at Cog Hill's Dubsdread Course, and had a hole-inone in Round 2 when he aced the 180-yard hole No. 2. Small was listed on the leaderboard entering Sunday's final round, in sixth place, before finishing tied for 27th.

Small's memorable summer culminated in August when he traveled to Whistling Straits in Kohler, Wis., to compete in his first-ever PGA Championship, which also marked his third career appearance in a major.

2003: Small made an amazing return to competitive golf in the spring of 2003 after an arm injury and subsequent rehabilitation kept him from playing for nearly a year. He won the 2003 Illinois PGA and Illinois Open titles, becoming the first golfer ever to win both tournaments in the same year. His win at the Illinois PGA qualified him for the Western Open. Small made the cut at the prestigious PGA Tour event, finishing in 43rd place at 3-under par. He also finished fourth at the 2003 Northern Club Pro to qualify for the 2004 PGA Professional National Championship.

2001 & 2002: In the summer of 2002, he finished second at the Illinois PGA Championship. In the summer of 2001, Small won the Illinois PGA title, placed second in regional qualifying for the 2002 PGA Professional National Championship and set the Stone Creek course record, carding an 8-under-par 64.

COLLEGE CAREER

Small was a letterwinner on the Illinois squad from 1985-88. He was a member of the 1988 Big Ten Championship team and finished second individually in that tournament behind teammate and current PGA Tour member Steve Stricker. Small was named to the All-Big Ten squad and earned first-team NCAA Region IV honors. He earned medalist honors in two tournaments during his senior year at Illinois, winning both the Butler National Intercollegiate and the Michigan State Spartan Classic. Small joined the professional ranks in 1990.

A native of Danville, Ill., Small has returned to the area where he grew up. Small was a standout at Danville High School where he won four letters in golf and two in basketball. He went on to have a successful career for the Fighting Illini before receiving his bachelor's degree in business administration from Illinois in 1988.

ILLINI HEAD COACH MIKE SMALL ON SAME STAGE AS TIGER

Mike Small earns low club professional at 2007 PGA Championship

"It was one of the coolest things I've ever done," said Illinois golf coach Mike Small.

The setting was something special for a collegiate golf coach. In front of a national television CBS audience of 550 million households stood Tiger Woods, celebrating his 13th major championship, and Small. It is tradition at the PGA Championship to honor both the winner of the event and the lowest scoring PGA professional in the final awards ceremony. Small received the latter honor prior to Woods receiving the Wannamaker Trophy as the champion of the 89th PGA.

For Small, it was the culmination of a busy, yet productive week of golf. After a cou≠≠ple of practice rounds at Southern Hills in preparation for his seventh major championship, Small flew back to Chicago to defend his Illinois Open title. After carding a 2-under-par 70 on Monday, and having the second round rained out, Small fired a 6-under-par 66 Wednesday to come from four strokes back to win his third straight Illinois Open title and fourth in five years.

Another rain delay forced Small to miss the awards ceremony as it was back to Tulsa for round one of the PGA. Starting on the back nine in round one, he carded three birdies in his first six holes, but finished the day +3. After a solid round two, which included four birdies and four bogeys for an even-par 70, Small made the cut at the PGA for the second time in three years and entered the weekend in a tie for 30th.

"There were a lot of similarities to two years ago (at Baltusrol in Springfield, N.J.)," Small said of his other chance to play a weekend in a major. "It was really hot that year as well and I entered Saturday in a similar situation."

Small was one of two PGA professionals to make the cut, and he edged the other pro, Ryan Benzel, by one stroke. In addition to playing several days in a row, the heat, which reached triple digits all four days, posed an additional element. "It was even hot in the shade," said Small, who fired 78-75 in his final two rounds. "I ran out of gas on the weekend, but for a part-time player to make the cut at a major, I've got to be happy with that."

Small had several national media outlets, including TNT, CBS and ESPN News following his story. The pinnacle moment, though, came on Sunday, when he had a chance to share the winning moment with Woods and his family and a 10-minute conversation with the champ prior to the live television presentation. "We talked about Stanford and Illinois and about our rounds," Small said. "It was great for the University of Illinois to be mentioned in the same ceremony as Tiger Woods."

The Black Knights advanced to the NCAA Austin Regional to conclude the season, and saw junior Justin Williamson earn PING All-Region honors.

Bardgett also spent several years in the professional ranks as he was a member of both the PGA TOUR Latinoamerica and the PGA TOUR Canada. He appeared in the field at the PGA TOUR's 2011 Puerto Rico Open, and

In his senior season, Bardgett paced the team with his 72.92 stroke average, which also marked the ninth-best average in Colorado history. He qualified for the 2010 NCAA Championships as an individual for the Buffaloes, also leading the team with four top-10 finishes throughout that season.

During his collegiate career, Bardgett, a native of St. Louis, Mo., was also a standout in the amateur ranks as he earned medalist honors at the U.S. Amateur Qualifier at Boulder Country Club in 2009, following victories at the 2008 Missouri State Amateur and Missouri Four-Ball Championship.

2021-22 SEASON RECAP

The 2021-22 men's golf season proved to be yet another successful campaign in head coach Mike Small's 22nd year at the helm of the Fighting Illini program.

The Orange and Blue closed the year with a No. 18 national ranking and extended the program's run of consecutive postseason berths to 14 by competing in the NCAA New Haven Regional at Yale Golf Course.

The Illini also continued their unprecedented run of excellence atop the Big Ten Conference, and made history in the process, by coming from behind in the final round to win the 2022 Big Ten Championship at The Pete Dye Course at French Lick Resort. The championship secured the Big Ten crown for a conference-record seventh consecutive season, and the 12th time in 13 years, while marking the program's 19th Big Ten title overall.

Prior to Illinois' run, the Big Ten had not seen such consistency from a golf program since Ohio State earned 11 of 12 titles from 1976-1987. The Illini's streak of seven in a row also surpassed OSU's stretch from 1982-87, for the longest in league history.

The Illini wasted no time in returning to form during the fall season, coming out of the gates by tying for first at the season-opening Hoosier Collegiate Invitational (Sept. 5-6) at the Pfau Course in Bloomington, Ind. The win was the first of four on the year for the Illini - capped by the B1G tournament title seven months later.

In their next outing, the Illini hosted the program's 15th annual OFCC/Fighting Illini Invitational (Sept. 17-19) at Olympia Fields Country Club for the first time since 2019. Regarded as one of the premier events of the college schedule, the field included 15 of the top-rated programs in the country, including 13 teams that opened the year either ranked for receiving votes in the GCAA Coaches' Top-25 poll. The Illini finished 11th, as North Carolina claimed the team title.

The Illini closed out the fall with back-to-back top-5 team finishes with a share of fourth at the Blessings Collegiate Invitational (Oct. 4-6) in Fayetteville, Ark., and a runner-up finish, behind the first-career collegiate win for Piercen Hunt, at the prestigious Isleworth Collegiate Invitational (Oct. 17-19) in Windermere, Fla.

Illinois' strong play continued into the spring as the team competed in six events leading into the Big Ten Championship with top-10 finishes in each, including four top-fives and back-to-back wins to close out the regular season.

The Illini placed third at the Mobile Bay Intercollegiate (Feb. 14-15) in Mobile, Ala., followed by an eighth-place finish at the Southern Highlands Collegiate (Feb. 27-March 1) in Las Vegas, Nev., and a tie for sixth at the National Invitational Tournament (March 18-19) in Tucson, Ariz.

In April, the Orange and Blue hit their stride, placing third at the Augusta Haskins Award Invitational (April 2-3) in Augusta, Ga., before winning both the Boilermaker Invitational (April 9-10) in West Lafayette, Ind., and the Robert Kepler Intercollegiate (April 23-24) in Columbus, Ohio, to cap the regular season.

Adrien Dumont de Chassart, who captured his third collegiate win at the Boilermaker Invitational, turned in one of the most celebrated seasons in program history. He claimed his second consecutive Big Ten Player of the Year honor, joining Steve Stricker as the only Illini to win the award twice. Dumont de Chassart's name appeared on watch lists for both the Fred Haskins Award and the Ben Hogan Award and he set a program record for stroke average (70.08) while earning the Big Ten's Les Bolstad Award. Following the season, he was named as a second-team All-American by both the GCAA and Golfweek.

Dumont de Chassart was joined by Tommy Kuhl and Hunt on the GCAA PING All-Midwest Region team. The trio also earned All-Big Ten honors, with Dumont de Chassart and Kuhl garnering first-team accolades, and Hunt taking home second-team. In addition to Dumont de Chassart's Big Ten Player of the Year laurel, Kuhl earned the program's Big Ten Sportsmanship Award, and Small extended his conference record with his 12th Big Ten Coach of the Year award.

Looking ahead, the Orange and Blue are poised for another successful season in 2022-23. Illinois returns eight of nine members of the roster from 2021-22, including fifth-year seniors Dumont de Chassart and Kuhl, along with TJ Barger, Jackson Buchanan, Hunt, Jerry Ji, Dylan Keating and Nico Lang. The program will also welcome two newcomers in freshman Ryan Voois (Ladera Ranch, Calif. / Tesoro High School) and graduate transfer Matthis Besard (Oudenaarde, Belgium), an all-region standout during his time at Southern Illinois.

2021-22 SEASON NOTES

2022 BIG TEN CHAMPIONSHIP RECAP

Fighting Illini men's golf made history at the 2022 Big Ten Championship at the Pete Dye Course at French Lick Resort, battling windy conditions in a back-and-forth contest to overtake Michigan State and secure the conference title for a record seventh consecutive season, and the 12th time in the last 13 years. Overall, it marks the 19th Big Ten Title for the Illini program. The Illini were 10 shots off MSU's pace after Round 1, and closed to within one shot after Round 2, before outshooting the Spartans 307 (+19) to 309 (+21) in the final round to come away with the win by a single stroke. The Illini finished the event with a 54-hole total of 885 (+21).

Senior Adrien Dumont de Chassart finished the weekend in second place with a three-round total of even-par 216. It marks the third straight medalist (top-three) finish for the senior who won the event in 2019 and tied for second in 2021. Dumont de Chassart also earned All-B1G Championship Team honors by virtue of his top-five finish. Sophomore Piercen Hunt's final round of 72 set the pace for the Illini on Sunday and proved to be the difference in the win as he jumped 25 spots up the leaderboard to finish in a tie for ninth at 221 (+5). Senior Tommy Kuhl tied for 27th at 226 (+10), just one shot ahead of freshman Jackson Buchanan (T33rd), who also came up huge for the Illini with the team's final birdie of the day on 18. Junior Jerry Ji (228) closed the weekend with a share of 36th.

The Illini have now won 12 of the last 13 Big Ten Championships dating back to 2009. Prior to Illinois' run, the Big Ten had not seen such consistency from a golf program since Ohio State earned 11 titles in a span of 12 seasons from 1976-1987. The Illini, now with seven straight titles, have surpassed OSU's streak from 1982-87, for the longest in league history.

B1G POSTSEASON ACCOLADES

Fighting Illini men's golf was recognized by the Big Ten on May 4 as the conference announced its annual postseason awards. Senior Adrien Dumont de Chassart was the unanimous selection for the conference's top honor as he capture his second consecutive Big Ten Player of the Year award. Dumont de Chassart was joined on the Big Ten All-Conference first team by fellow senior Tommy Kuhl, while sophomore Piercen Hunt was tabbed as a second-team All-Big Ten performer. Kuhl was also named as the Illini's recipient of the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award, and head coach Mike Small took home his 12th Big Ten Coach of the Year laurel overall, and his 11th of 13 dating back to 2009.

Dumont de Chassart, who also claimed the 2022 Les Bolstad Award with the conference's lowest stroke average (70.15) through the end of the conference tournament, took home the Illinois program's 13th Big Ten Golfer of the Year award and becomes the first Illini to secure the award twice since Steve Stricker did so in 1988 and 1989.

The Illini have taken home the last seven league championship trophies - a Big Ten Record, and have won the Big Ten Championship in 12 of the last 13 years under Small's direction. Along with his streaks of six straight (2015-present) and five consecutive (2009-13) Big Ten titles, Illinois posted three consecutive runner-up finishes from 2002-04 and took third in 2008 with Small at the helm. The duo rank 1-2 on the team in stroke average this season, and each earned first-team All-B1G accolades earlier this month.

ILLINI ADD VOOIS, BESARD FOR 2022-23

Voois joins the Fighting Illini program from Ladera Ranch, Calif, where he is a standout at Tesoro High School. He led the Titans to the 2021 South Coast League Championship and the CIF Southern Section (Division 2) title. In 2019, Voois also captured top accolades winning the South Coast League Championship and claiming MVP honors. Voois, a dean's list scholar and 2021 AJGA Academic All-American, has enjoyed success in the last few years with several victories on the SCPGA Toyota Tour Cup Series. In 2020 Voois won the SCGA Junior Amateur Championship, and also advanced to match play at the prestigious California Amateur Championship at Torrey Pines. In 2021, Voois' success continued, highlighted by his first amateur tournament win at the 2021 SCPGA Inland Empire Championship, where he carded a tournament-best 63 in the second round. In 2021, Voois put together one of the most consistent seasons in the country with top-25 finishes in 11 of his 12 events on the national stage, including a 25th-place finish at the IMG Junior World Championships which boasts one of the strongest fields in junior golf.
