FLORIDA SOUTHERN COLLEGE

Founded by the United Methodist Church in 1883, Florida Southern is the oldest private college in the state of Florida. With an enrollment of approximately 1,800 students, Florida Southern offers more than 50 undergraduate majors and distinctive graduate programs in business administration, education and nursing.

Florida Southern is listed in the prestigious Fiske Guide To Colleges, the nation's top-selling college guide, and annually is ranked in the Forbes magazine, Princeton Review and U.S. News & World Report listing of the nation's best colleges. Studies show that approximately 94% of Florida Southern graduates are working full-time or are enrolled in graduate school within six months of graduation.

Situated on the north shore of scenic Lake Hollingsworth, Florida Southern is home to the world's largest single-site collection of architecture by renowned architect Frank Lloyd Wright, including the recently refurbished Water Dome. The 100-acre campus also features a number of other outstanding facilities – the 2,500-seat George W. Jenkins Field House (for basketball and volleyball); Barnett Field (for softball and soccer); the 1,800-seat Branscomb Auditorium; 11 residence halls (all wired to the Internet); the Robert A. Davis Performing Arts Center; the Roux Library; and the Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center, which includes a state-of-the-art fitness center, recreational facilities and an NCAA competition-size outdoor swimming pool.

Located in Lakeland (pop. 93,000), Florida Southern is in the heart of dynamic and growing central Florida and is only about an hour's drive from the major metropolitan areas of Tampa and Orlando. Such well-known attractions as Walt Disney World, Universal Studios, Epcot Center, Sea World, Cypress Gardens and Busch Gardens are only a short drive from campus. Major League Baseball's Detroit Tigers make Lakeland their annual spring training home and several other big league teams train in the nearby area. Money magazine has ranked Lakeland among the top "Best Places To Live" for medium sized southern cities.

Some of Florida Southern's prominent alumni include professional golfers Lee Janzen and Rocco Mediate; Jim France, chairman of International Speedway Corp. (which owns Daytona International Speedway) and vice chairman of NASCAR; Publix Super Markets, Inc. Vice Chairman Barney Barnett and Florida Supreme Court Justice Fred Lewis.

Frank Lloyd Wright's "Child of the Sun"

The Danforth Chapel is one of two chapels on campus designed by Frank Lloyd Wright.

The Thad Buckner Building is home to the Frank Lloyd Wright "Child of the Sun" Visitor Center.

The Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center houses a full-sized basketball court, weight and aerobic rooms, and a student lounge and is adjacent to an NCAA regulation size swimming pool.

Florida Southern is home to the world's only Frank Lloyd Wright-designed planetarium.

Frank Lloyd Wright often visited Florida Southern College during his 20-year relationship with the college.

Annie Pfeiffer Chapel, completed in 1941, was the first of Wright's designs at Florida Southern College.

Founded by the United Methodist Church, Florida Southern College is one of the oldest private colleges in the state, tracing its beginnings to a small seminary in Orlando in 1883. The tie to its founding church has remained constant and is today, a proud part of the College's heritage and a bright beacon for the future.

Florida Southern moved to Lakeland in the heart of Florida's citrus belt in 1922 and began the construction of a campus that would eventually become a national landmark. The beautiful 100-acre campus, on the north shore of Lake Hollingsworth, includes the world's largest collection of buildings by master architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

Florida Southern's West Campus, now known throughout the world, actually had its inception in the mind of Dr. Ludd M. Spivey, president of the college from 1925-1957.

In 1935 he conceived the idea of an ultra-modern campus, designed by the world's leading architect. Ground was broken two years later for the first building in the Wright collection, the Annie Pfeiffer Chapel.

What Frank Lloyd Wright created on the campus is amazing. His original work is still as modern and exciting as the newest buildings still on many architect's drawing boards. It is, perhaps, symbolic that the greatest concentration of his genius should be located at a small, private institution of higher learning. Perhaps he describes it best, "...out of the ground and into the light, a child of the sun... the college of tomorrow."

PETE MEYER Director of Athletics

In 2008-09, Pete Meyer served his first year as the Director of Athletics at Florida Southern College.

Named to the position Feb. 21, 2008, he officially assumed his duties July 1, 2008, when Lois Webb retired. Since 1972, he is just the fourth person to occupy the position of athletics director at Florida Southern - following Hal Smeltzly (1972-2000), Mike Roberts (2000-01) and Webb (2001-08). Meyer was the Moccasins' head baseball coach from 2002 through 2008.

In the fall of 2008, Meyer was given the additional title of Dean of Wellness, as the operation of the Hollis Wellness Center as well as the the water ski program and campus intramurals also fall under his direction.

Meyer, who has been at Florida Southern since 1998, had served as assistant athletics director for Webb since February of 2006, in addition to maintaining his baseball coaching duties. In his position as assistant athletics director, he was responsible for acquiring major gifts for the athletic department that included funding and equipment for the athletics weight room and upgrading the baseball and men's basketball locker rooms. He coordinated all of the athletic department's fundraising efforts, coordinated athletic facilities and served as game administrator for various home events. He also served as Florida Southern's representative on the Sunshine State Conference Marketing Committee.

As baseball coach, Meyer spent six full seasons as head coach, keeping the Moccasin program among the elite in NCAA Division II. In 2005, he guided the Moccasins to their ninth NCAA Division II national title with a 51-11 record and was the American Baseball Coaches Association Division II Coach-of-the-Year. In addition to his national coaching honors from the ABCA, Meyer also was South Region, Sunshine State Conference and Florida Diamond Club (scouting organization) Coach-of-the-Year.

His head coaching record at Florida Southern was 257-111-1, while his overall record as a head coach was 296-141-1. Thirty-four Moccasin baseball players were drafted or signed professional contracts during Meyer's tenure at FSC.

Before officially assuming the reigns of head coach, Meyer had served for over three years as Florida Southern's top assistant coach under Chuck Anderson. He also was the program's recruiting coordinator.

Prior to joining the FSC coaching staff, Meyer spent five seasons at Valdosta State, working under the legendary head coach, Tommy Thomas. Before his stint at Valdosta State, Meyer was head baseball coach at Oglethorpe University in Atlanta, where he coordinated the start of the school's Division III baseball program in 1991. He served as a graduate assistant at Valdosta State from 1988-90, while earning his M. Ed. in physical education.

A four-year baseball letterman at the College of Wooster in Ohio, Meyer graduated in 1987 with a B.A. in speech communication.

Meyer is married to the former Julie Newnum. The couple has three children, 21-year old Ross, 19-year old Mitchell and 18-year old Megan.

Jarrod Olson

HEAD COACH • FOURTH SEASON

For the third straight season, there was improvement in the Florida Southern women's basketball program under head coach Jarrod Olson. After an 11-17 rookie season, Olson guided the Lady Mocs to a 15-13 record in 2007-08 and improved that to 18-10 in 2008-09. His three-year record at Florida Southern is 44-40. His overall head coaching record for five seasons is 67-75.

Olson was hired at Florida Southern in June of 2006 after serving as an assistant women's coach at NCAA Division I Creighton for four seasons.

The Moccasins have produced the Sunshine State Conference Women's Freshman of the Year in each of Olson's three seasons. Nicolle DiRaimo earned the award for the 2006-07 season. Chelsea Johnson was the recipient in 2007-08 and Megan Dzikas received the award for 2008-09.

In Olson's two previous head coaching positions improvement also came quickly.

In the summer of 2005 he coached the Otago Breakers of the Women's National Basketball League in Dunedin, New Zealand. The Breakers had finished in last place the previous season, but Olson helped lead the team to a second-place finish and a 9-3 record. For his efforts he was named WNBL Coach-of-the-Year.

Olson also built the program at College of Saint Mary in Omaha, Neb. He was hired in 2000 as the third coach in the third year of the program. In his first campaign, the team began the season with just seven players, two of which had been student managers the year before. The team finished 5-20, but did beat the fifth-ranked team in the country, College of the Ozarks, which was the first win against a ranked opponent in school history. The following year Olson's team had a complete turnaround. Operating with a full roster, the team finished in second place in the Midlands Collegiate Athletic Conference with an 18-15 record. It was a 13-game improvement on the previous season, but more importantly, he helped establish the program and prepare it for future success.

Olson would not see the future success of the program first hand, however. After two seasons as a head coach, he began a four-year stint

Fourth-year head coach Jarrod Olson guided the Moccasins to an 18-10 record in 2008-09, marking the second straight season the club has increased its win total.

Jarrod Olson is just the fifth coach in the program's 30-year history at Florida Southern.

at Creighton University as an assistant coach for the women's team. Olson helped guide the team to a 75-49 record that included a pair of 24-win seasons. In 2004 the Bluejays won the Women's National Invitation Tournament and during Olson's tenure the team finished first or second in the Missouri Valley Conference three times.

Olson began his coaching career as a graduate assistant for the women's team at Emporia State (Kan.) in 1997-98. Emporia State was 33-1 and NCAA Division II runner-up that season under Cindy Stein, now the head women's coach at the University of Missouri. Before taking the job at College of Saint Mary, Olson was an assistant men's basketball coach for one year at Millard South High School in Omaha and an assistant men's basketball coach at Bellevue (Neb.) University for one season.

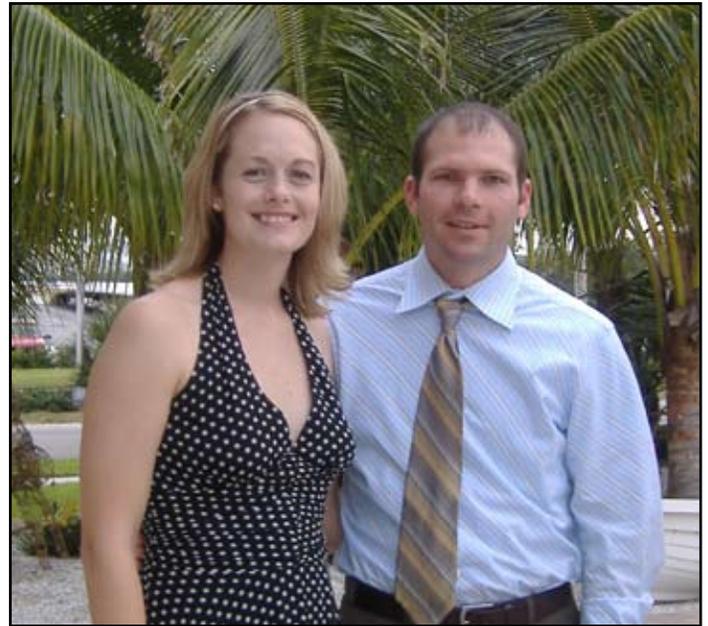

Olson also has had great success in developing players. For the Otago Breakers he coached two players who made 1st-team all-WNBL, including Laura Spanheimer, who was named guard-of-the-year. At Creighton he helped coach six players who earned all-conference honors in the Missouri Valley Conference. At the College of Saint Mary he coached two players who received all-conference honors, including Erin Corrigan, who was named player-of-the-year for the Midlands Collegiate Athletic Conference. While at Emporia State, he helped coach four players who received Division II All-America honors.

As a player, Olson earned NAIA All-America recognition at Doane College in Crete, Neb., where he still ranks fifth on the school's all-time scoring list with 2,018 career points. He also played briefly with the Queens Graduates basketball club in Belfast, Northern Ireland, and with the Sonics basketball club in Dunedin, New Zealand. In high school he was an all-state basketball player at Millard South High School in 1993 and played on the state championship team in 1991.

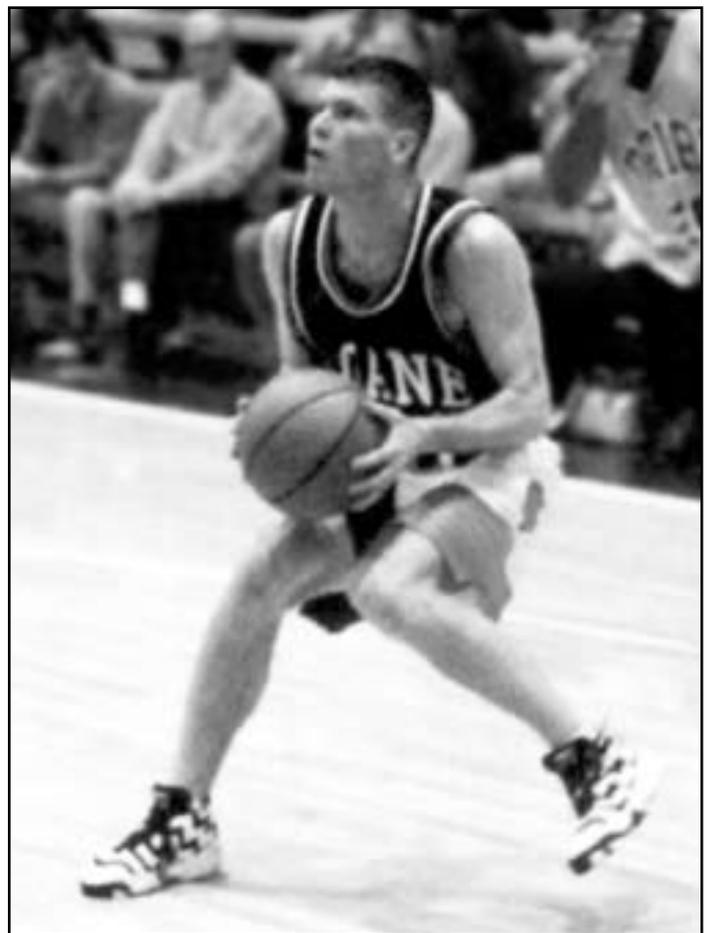

Olson comes from a family with a rich basketball tradition. His father, Rich, has won three state championships as a high school girls' coach in Nebraska, while his brother, Drew, is the head women's basketball coach at Concordia University in Seward, Nebraska.

Olson was married in 2003 to the former Amy Rollman. She is a former college basketball player and served as an assistant coach with her husband for the Otago Breakers. She currently works at Pediatric Therapy Services as an occupational therapist in Lakeland.

Residence Life at Florida Southern

Over 1100 of our students live on campus in one of 11 residence halls. Three residence halls are geared for first-year students while all Greek organizations are centered in the Publix Commons area.

PUBLIX COMMONS & GREEK VILLAGE

A grouping of three residence halls, the Publix Commons are close to just about everything on the Florida Southern campus. All three buildings offer suite-style living in which six students each have their own rooms and share a living area and bathroom. The Publix Commons also is home to Florida Southern's Greek organizations.

BARNETT RESIDENTIAL LIFE CENTER

Nicholas Hall (at right) opened this past fall joining its "twin" Wesley Hall which opened in the fall of 2008. The new residence halls comprise the Barnett Residential Life Center. The two buildings each include 195 bedrooms with views of Lake Hollingsworth, meeting rooms, student lounges, kitchens, and study spaces.

JOSEPH-REYNOLDS HALL

As one of the four original buildings on the FSC campus, Joseph-Reynolds Hall ("JR") offers one of the best views on campus. It sits atop a hill overlooking Lake Hollingsworth. Community life is big here—the women of JR form groups within the building as a whole and also within the "wings" and smaller hallways.

JR and its companion hall, Spivey, are located in the center of campus between Edge Hall and Ordway and serve mainly as first-year female residence halls.

Pumping Iron

The Moccasin athletes work out in the varsity weight room that is for student-athletes. The room features free weights and brand new squat and bench press stations. Student-athletes follow a year-round tailored strength program that stresses core body, injury prevention and increasing explosiveness on the court. All FSC students are welcome to use the Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center's weight room.

Get fit at the Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center

The Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center officially opened in 1997, as the result of a 4.1 million dollar gift from Board of Trustee member Marjorie Hollis Roberts. The Florida Southern College Wellness Program is designed to promote the full potential of each student by encouraging a holistic lifestyle focused on health, fitness and recreation. Last year alone the Wellness Center had over 65,000 participants in aquatics, fitness, group exercise classes, intramural sports, and outdoor recreational programs. The program collaborates with other departments to promote fun and exciting campus activities. In addition, there are dynamic programs on alcohol and drug education, smoking cessation, eating disorders, HIV/AIDS education and healthy lifestyles.

GEORGE W. JENKINS FIELD HOUSE

Florida Southern's field house, named for Publix Super Markets founder George W. Jenkins, opened its doors on Dec. 3, 1966.

Built to complement the campus's surrounding Frank Lloyd Wright-designed buildings, the facility has a main floor providing for three basketball courts. Seating capacity is approximately 2,500.

A basement section houses lockerrooms, a training room, equipment room, varsity weight room, physical education offices and storage areas. Recent additions have included a conference room, additional women's lockerrooms and the FSC athletics offices.

Jenkins Field House is one of the largest buildings on the FSC campus, covering 40,000 square feet. The facility was constructed utilizing the steel framework of three B-47 bomber hangars from nearby MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa.

The field house has been the site of numerous NCAA regional and quarterfinal basketball games. In 1983 it served as the site for the NCAA Div. II Women's Volleyball Championship. In 2003-04 it served as the site of the Sunshine State Conference men's and women's postseason basketball tournaments.

Florida Southern's Board of Trustees unanimously voted to name the field house for Jenkins, president of Publix Super Markets, Inc., in appreciation of his generous support of the college, both as a benefactor and a friend.

Jenkins' relationship with Florida Southern started in 1956, when he served as the school's honorary chancellor, an honor reserved for prominent men and women in various walks of life.

In 1957 Florida Southern awarded him an honorary doctorate degree, calling him one of Lakeland's outstanding citizens and "a leader of Florida in the support of humanitarian causes, education and community progress." He was posthumously inducted into inaugural class of the FSC Athletic Hall of Fame in 2002.

Located in the Raulerson Building (a.k.a. the Business Office), the Student Solutions Center provides a one-stop shop that houses financial aid, student accounts, academic counseling, and much, much more.

"Students often have a tough time figuring out where to go," says Amy Salley, coordinator of the Center. "Our goal is to streamline access to information and provide campus connections in a welcoming and efficient way."

At the center, staff will be on hand to assist you with:

- Financial aid

- Billing/business related questions
- Academic counseling & advising
- Life skills assistance
- Work-study placements

"We hope students will find the Student Solutions Center to be a resource oasis—providing a wealth of information and assistance concerning all College functions in one convenient

If you need help, don't hesitate to stop-in. Whether you're new to campus or a seasoned Moc, the Student Solutions Center will ensure you have a great semester!

Florida Southern offers numerous opportunities for fitness and relaxation, whether it's lounging around the Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center Pool, or jogging the 2.8 miles around Lake Hollingsworth. By the way, you can join Matt Thompson, Dean of Student Development, (pictured at right) on any of his regularly scheduled "Dash with the Dean" morning runs.

All of Florida Southern College's residence halls offer wireless access in the common lobby areas and every room offers cable TV and is wired for internet access. In addition, wireless hotspots on campus include the Roux Library, TÛTÛ's Cyber Cafe (which offers Starbucks products, by the way), Wynnee's Bistro (our newly remodeled cafeteria), the Nina B. Hollis Wellness Center and pool area.

Moccasin Athletic Training Services

Every student-athlete at Florida Southern College is entitled to quality medical care while participating as a member of an athletic team. The athletic training/medical staff coordinates and delivers professional and comprehensive preventive care, treatment, rehabilitation and counseling services to all FSC student-athletes.

The goal of athletic training services is to keep each student-athlete healthy and injury free. In the case of injury or illness, the staff will provide quality medical care enabling the student-athlete to return to participation both as a student and an athlete.

The athletic training staff is comprised of four full-time nationally-certified and state-licensed athletic trainers. Florida Southern College also has an athletic training education program. Athletic training students from the program assist the staff athletic trainers in daily operations of the athletic training facility. The athletic training facility is located in Jenkins Field House. The facility is well equipped to provide treatment and rehabilitation of athletic injuries.

The FSC sports medicine team is comprised of two orthopedic team physicians and consulting physicians in several specialties. All of these professionals work together to meet the student-athlete's health care needs.
