Quoting Florida State Basketball

"This (Florida State) is an Elite Eight, Final Four capable Florida State team. They guard you they get up in you (indistinguishable) to four feet. They guard you in the half court, keep you from reversing the basketball and this team here, it use to be more of a dribble drive to the rack team. Seth this team is shooting 44% from the 3-point line, number one in ACC play. Length, athleticism, discipline; this is an Elite Eight, Final Four team."

LaPhonso Ellis ESPN

"Why does this shock us? They've (Florida State) been to the Elite Eight two years ago, Sweet Sixteen, they were last year's ACC champions who could have made a deep run in the NCAA tournament. We act like all of a sudden Florida State "Oh! They're having a good season." Florida State has been having a good season for years. It is absolute mindboggling that people have not recognized this. They've got incredible depth. Scottie Barnes doesn't play, no problem, Anthony Polite doesn't play, no problem. RaiQuan Gray, he's like Draymond Green. Koprivica, alright he protects the rim he gets better every time you watch him play. M.J. Walker, it's his turn. When I look at Florida State I look at a Final Four team, I look at a deep team, I look at a talented team, I look at an unselfish team. Why are we surprised? Over the last three years this is who they are.

> Seth Greenberg ESPN

"The Seminoles flew under the radar early but they have looked excellent in the month of January. Two double-digit wins this week against teams that should finish in the top half of the conference made it clear that FSU is on track to contend for another ACC title. The Noles jumped on Louisville early on Monday, leading by as many as 24 in the first half before cruising to a 13-point win. Saturday, The Noles torched a good Clemson defense for 80 points to knock off the Tigers, 80-61, in a game that wasn't nearly as close as that scoreline indicates. What makes Leonard Hamilton's club special is its balance. FSU put five players in double figures in the win over Louisville and four against Clemson, with just one player (RaiQuan Gray) who scored at least 10 in both games. The team's leading scorer for the season, senior M.J. Walker, scored just two points against Louisville and a quiet 10 against Clemson. Meanwhile, highly touted freshman Scottie Barnes has been more than happy settling into a high-level glue guy role in what will likely be his lone season in Tallahassee, consistently picking his spots and making good decisions in a hybrid quard/forward role.

> Pat Forde Sports Illustrated

"The Seminoles have come out of pause and been the best team in the ACC. The Seminoles are back. And are a Final Four threat."

> Andy Katz NCAA.com

New-Look RaiQuan Gray Reaping Rewards Of Offseason Work For FSU Basketball

By Curt Weiler Tallahassee Democrat January 26, 2021

It didn't take long this season for Florida State basketball forward RaiQuan Gray to show the strides he had made.

In the opening minutes of the Seminoles' second game of the season Dec. 9 vs. Indiana, Gray possessed the ball outside the arc in the corner. In one swift move, he accelerated past his defender, drove into the lane, rose airborne and slammed the ball into the basket.

It was a resounding play and one the redshirt junior admits he probably wouldn't have been able to make last year before he transformed his body this past offseason.

"That's a play right there I don't think I would have made last year," Gray told the Democrat.

"Obviously, I think I'm athletic, I think I'm more athletic than people think I am. But last year compared to me dunking the ball, I would say last year's Boston College game to the Indiana game and a few other games this year, you can kind of see the difference of balance and the quickness of my step a little bit."

That's just one of a number of plays this season made by Gray that have shown how his commitment to himself has paid off on the court.

Currently listed at 6-foot-8, 260 pounds, Gray is still very close to what he weighed over his first few years at FSU. But it doesn't take much time looking at him to see how drastically different his body looks this year.

After FSU had its 2019-20 season unceremoniously ended by the coronavirus pandemic, Gray took it upon himself to transform his body during quarantine.

"Just watching what I eat. Obviously, I'm a bigger dude, I have to watch what I eat, what time I eat, have to do extra cardio other than smaller people," Gray said.

"I stayed in the weight room with (FSU basketball strength and conditioning coach Mike) Bradley this offseason and I was just really locked in and focused on being in better shape this year.

"Because of a new team coming in, I didn't know what my role was gonna be, but I wanted to be prepared for anything thrown at me. I think I'm in better shape and I feel good out there moving around."

If you see Gray around FSU's basketball training center nowadays, he's normally carrying a jug of water as a reminder to stay extremely hydrated, a tip he picked up from former Seminole Trent Forrest.

Gray's journey at FSU has been a gradual one. A three-star recruit from Fort Lauderdale Dillard, Gray redshirted in his first year at FSU in 2017-18.

He's seen his playing time and production gradually increase in the years since. He went from 12.3 minutes and 3.9 points per game as a redshirt freshman in 2018-19 to 19.5 minutes and 6.0 points per game last season.

The timing of Gray's transformation was quite optimal as the departures of Patrick Williams, Devin Vassell and Forrest off last year's team forced him to take a larger role both on the court and as a leader.

So far this season, he's averaging 9.4 points and 5.5 rebounds per game, fifth and second-most on the FSU roster, respectively. He's also averaging 24.5 minutes per game, third-most among all Seminoles.

"He's becoming more comfortable with his role. Early on, that's a big adjustment to being a player that's playing on the team and kind of in a different role with Patrick and Trent and Devin over the last couple of years. Now, he's more a leadership role, he's experienced," FSU head coach Leonard Hamilton said.

"Whether we are successful or not, a lot has to do with how well he played. I think he's maturing into that, understanding his strengths and his weaknesses. He's going to the basket more, he's being patient with the shot selection. He gives us leadership on the floor, he gives us unique ball-handling and decision-making for his size, which is challenging."

While five-star freshman Scottie Barnes is a non-traditional primary ball-handler at 6-foot-9, Gray is an even more unusual primary ball-handler by traditional metrics. And yet, Gray has served as an occasional primary ball-handler for the Seminoles during the last four games with Barnes limited due to injury.

This dates back to when he was a late bloomer as a young high-school basketball player.

"Coach Ham, he recruited me and he always believed I could play one through five..." Gray said.

"I was always a short kid growing up so I didn't really grow into my height, my size until 10th grade. Before that, I was just a guard, honestly, dribbling the ball. Even in high school, I started at the point guard spot so it wasn't anything new to me. I'm comfortable playing anywhere on the court."

With Barnes limited of late, Gray has risen to the occasion in a big way for the Seminoles. He scored a career-high 19 points in FSU's win over North Carolina Jan. 16. Two days later at Louisville, he added 17 more points.

He played just 11 minutes in FSU's last game vs. Clemson due to foul trouble, but still managed to score 11 points. His streak of three consecutive games in double-figures is more than the two times he scored 10-plus points in FSU's first eight games this season.

These strides Gray has made have put him on the radar of NBA teams more than ever before. His mix of defensive ability, potential as a three-level scorer, solid passing skills for his size and the additional athleticism he has shown could one day make him another player in an ever-growing group of former Seminoles in the NBA. If he gets there, he knows much of it will be due to his commitment to self-improvement that began this past offseason.

"(FSU assistant coach Stan) Jones always touches on, 'If you want to be a star in this league, you've got to have that star condition. If you want to be a role player, you've got to have role player condition.' It's a different level of conditioning to the type of role that you have on your team," Gray said.

"I just wanted to be prepared for any role that I may fit in. I think that my body and my conditioning have come a long way. I'm still improving every day, taking it step by step, but it has definitely helped me a lot this season."

Former Billings Skyview Standout RayQuan Evans Thriving On Big Stage At Florida State

By Slim Kimmel MontanaSports.com January 15, 2021

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — RayQuan Evans didn't receive much notice before making his first start in the ACC.

"I found out I was going to be starting a couple minutes before the game," Evans told MTN Sports. "It didn't change my mindset. I just had to play my role, move the ball, score when I need to, bring energy, be that glue guy, so that's what I tried to do, just play my role and tried not to change anything."

Maybe the short notice was for the best. The former Billings Skyview High School basketball standout had his best NCAA Division I game, scoring 24 points — on 9-of-11 shooting, no less — to help his Florida State squad roll to a 105-73 win over North Carolina State on Wednesday.

It might have been Evans' first start for the Seminoles since joining the program in 2019, but it was a long time in the making. He said he used last season "like a learning year," and that experience is paying dividends this year. Evans has played in all eight of Florida State's games and is averaging 7.4 points, 2.7 rebounds and 1.0 assists per game. He's doing it efficiently, too, shooting 47.4% from the floor, 45.5% from 3-point range and 91.7% from the free throw line.

"It's been a great journey. Last year I got the opportunity to learn from a bunch of veterans here. Trent Forrest, he's a great point guard, I got to watch him every day, compete with him and be able just to learn," Evans said. "... This year I've been able to apply everything I've learned, just embrace my role and do what I have to do for this team. It's been a great journey, it's been a challenging journey, but it's led me to become the player that I am today."

The player today is living out the dream of the player from years prior.

Evans was a high school star in Montana, bursting onto the scene as a sophomore at Skyview in 2015. As a junior, he helped the Falcons win their second consecutive Class AA state basketball championship. As a senior, he was one of the best players in the state, averaging 18.2 points, 6.3 rebounds, 3.3 assists and 2.1 steals per game and helping the Falcons to a third-place finish at the state tournament.

Evans originally committed to play college basketball at Rocky Mountain College, but he was a non-academic qualifier, which ultimately led him to North Idaho College, one of the premier junior college basketball programs in the Pacific Northwest. He had a stellar two-year career at NIC and became a big-time recruit on the transfer market. The likes of Georgetown, Washington State and Gonzaga showed their interest, but Evans was all-in on Florida State and the ACC.

Now in Tallahassee, Evans has shown he belongs — Wednesday's breakout game being the final point of affirmation. "It felt good. I felt like I showed my teammates and the ACC what I'm capable of as a player, but more importantly we got the win, and that's what I was more excited about," said Evans, a 6-foot-4 senior point guard. "One of our teammates came off the bench, had 18 points, Nate Jack, so I was really just proud of our team and the way we performed. I was just happy for everyone else."

Florida State is 6-2 this season after last year's remarkable 26-5 season where they won the ACC regular-season championship. The Seminoles never got to finish out their postseason, though, as the coronavirus pandemic shut down the ACC and NCAA tournaments.

Since then, the pandemic has continued to take its toll on sports across the country, but college basketball teams are persevering through the season. FSU has had three games postponed, with Wednesday's matchup with NC State marking their return to action and first game of 2021. The Seminoles are slated to host North Carolina at 10 a.m. (MT) Saturday.

"It's been kind of difficult," Evans said of playing during the pandemic. "You're so used to your home environment and on-the-road environments with just loud noises and crowds, and now you're going into environments with no fans at all and all you can hear is each other. It's quite an adjustment, but as long as you just lock in mentally, I feel like you kind of avoid all that, you kind of don't really pay attention to it, and I feel like that's what our team has been doing pretty well, just getting locked into the game and focusing on each other. Whether there's fans or not, we're just going to continue to play how we've been playing."

And all of those games are still broadcast to a national audience, usually on ESPN or the ACC Network.

"At first, it was a different feeling just knowing that this game might be on ESPN, because that's what you dream of as a kid, just playing on TV," Evans said, before adding that that no longer registers.

In fact, having his games available on national broadcasts has become a big benefit of playing at Florida State. Evans' family back in Montana can watch and cheer from afar, and he receives plenty of support from the Treasure State. Social media buzzes whenever he's in action — especially when he has a big game like he did against NC State — though he's not likely to see it.

"I've felt the support ... through high school to now," Evans said. "My mom's always calling me, talking about people are supporting you at home, and you really don't realize until you hear it from other people, because I'm not really on social media much so I don't see it. But I hear it all the time, and it's just a good feeling to know that there's support back home."

The pride works both ways, too. Evans receives the support from back home, but he's embraced the opportunity to showcase his Native American heritage on some of college basketball's biggest stages.

"All of my family back home in Montana are Native Americans. To be able to show people that I'm proud of where I come from, where my heritage is, and to see that this program really takes pride in that as well — like, we have jerseys dedicated to that — it's a great feeling," he said. "I'm very prideful when I wear those jerseys and just wear my Native American culture on my sleeve, so it's a great feeling to be able to represent my home that way."

Game 2 -- Florida State 69, Indiana 67

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. - Freshman Scottie Barnes scored the game winning basket with 1.8 seconds remaining to play in overtime to lift No. 20 Florida State to a 69-67 win over Indiana at the Donald L. Tucker Center in the 22nd Annual ACC/Big Ten Challenge. Barnes was stellar in his first career overtime game as he scored his first career 3-point field goal and then hit the winner to help the Seminoles earn their 10th consecutive overtime victory. Barnes totaled nine points, five assists, four rebounds, and four steals to help the Seminoles improve to 2-0. The freshman opened and closed out the game with field goals in only his second game and second start in a Florida State uniform. Barnes is a candidate for the Bob Cousy award and has earned spots on the Naismith and Wooden Award watch lists. Indiana moved to 3-2 on the season. The win was Florida State's 67th in its last 70 games at home. The Seminoles have now won 25 consecutive home games and 40 straight non-conference games at home. Florida State turned up the defensive pressure in the overtime period. After surrendering an old-fashioned threepoint play to Indiana's Trayce Jackson-Davis to open the extra session, the Seminoles outscored the Hoosiers 7-2 over the final 4:38 of the extra session. The Hoosiers were unable to score from the floor and managed on two free throws in the final 4:38 of overtime

Game 3 -- Florida State 83, Florida 71

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. – Highly touted freshman Scottie Barnes scored 17 points and No. 20 Florida State extended its dominance against the Gators with an 83-71 victory that came after Florida suddenly lost its best player. The Seminoles led by as many as 18 in the second half. They ended up extending their winning streak against Florida to seven games, tying the longest by either team in the series. They also stretched their winning streak against nonconference opponents at home to 41 and won their 26th straight at home. Barnes, Anthony Polite and M.J. Walker made this one look easy most of the day. Barnes, the top-rated recruit of Hamilton's tenure in Tallahassee, had two thunderous dunks and was 7-of-10 shooting. It was a breakout game for the 6-foot-9 point guard many expect to be an NBA lottery pick.
