GAME OVERVIEW

This will be the second straight season these schools have opened the season against one another, with Wooster prevailing last season, 42-35, in the first ever matchup between these two schools. This game projects to be the last regular season game against a non-PAC opponent that Geneva will play in a while. Next season, with the addition of Allegheny College to the PAC this year, each PAC team will play the other ten PAC teams during the regular season, with no availability in the year for an additional non-conference regular season game. This will also be the first time Geneva has opened the fall season with a home game since the Golden Tornadoes lost a 26-25 game to Marietta to open the 2017 season.

GENEVA GAME NOTES

-- Geneva is still working through its quarterback competition, with the starting position likely coming down to two sophomores in Brutus Ogilvie and Darin Myers. Ogilvie was the backup quarterback last season and saw some game action. Myers was a tight end last year but was moved to the quarterback position during spring practice.

-- The Geneva offensive running attack saw ten different runners last year gain at least 100 yards on the ground. Amos Luptak, the leading rusher, graduated, while Blake Peet and Jaeden Zuzak did not return. Junior Tyler Lippiatt is back after rushing for 681 yards while averaging almost five yards per carry. The Golden Tornadoes figure to have a number of players get carries, though, giving the offense several options to work with.

-- The Golden Tornadoes don’t throw the ball offense out of their triple-option attack, but when they do, they’ve been effective. Last year, Geneva led all of NCAA Division III with 22.65 yards per reception. The Golden Tornadoes do have two weapons back in the passing attack. Senior TE/WR Jared Ozias returns after receiving All-PAC honors last year, while junior Hilton McClain Jr., one of the fastest players in the PAC, is back after proving last year to be a threat as a receiver and a kick returner, where he broke the school record for most kick return yards in a season.

-- Defensively, Geneva did lose linebacker Kaden Romero, last year’s leading tackler, but the Golden Tornadoes do return their next six top tacklers. Senior linebacker Nicolas Ottaviani will be right in the middle of the things after having a big season last year, while sophomore Gabe Trexler will look to have a big impact after stepping into the starting lineup at the end of last season.

-- Geneva boasts one of the deepest and most talented defensive backfields in the PAC. Seniors Derrick Sneed and O’Neal Cotton, juniors James Clark and Damian Lomeli, and sophomore Brandon Graham are all starters who are back, with Clark and Lomeli each earning All-PAC honors last season.

-- Geneva will need to replace both its starting place kicker and starting punter from last year, so special teams will be an important factor to watch early in the season.

WOOSTER GAME NOTES

-- Wooster likes to spread things out offensively, so Saturday’s game will be a contrast in styles. Wooster will likely gain most of its yards through the air, while Geneva will utilize its ground game more often.

-- Starting quarterback Mateo Renteria is back for another season. He had a big year last year for the Scots, passing for 323.7 yards per game, with 29 TDs and 8 interceptions.

-- Wooster’s biggest threat as a receiver in the passing game is senior tight end Cole Hissong. Hissong was named as a first-team D3football.com Preseason All-American, his third season earning preseason All-American honors. His 15 TD receptions are the most for a tight end in program history, and he needs just 42 yards receiving to take over the most receiving yards by a tight end in program history. He currently sits at 1,427 career receiving yards.

-- Wooster has one returning all-conference player on the defensive side of the ball in junior linebacker Alex White, but the Scots do have a total of eight players back who started at least half the games in 2021.

-- The Scots boast a very strong kicking game, with both senior place kicker Lake Barrett and senior punter Matt Pardi named as preseason All-Americans by D3football.com. Barrett went 8-of-10 on field goals last year, while making all 47 of his PATs. Pardi averaged 42.9 yards per punt.

-- Wooster has players from 27 different states, plus Washington D.C., Canada and Germany. The Scots have 35 players from Ohio, the only state they have more than eight players from.

LAST MEETING

Last year these two teams opened the season at Wooster, the first ever matchup between these two schools. Wooster jumped out to an early 21-7 lead before Geneva attempted to mount a comeback. The Golden Tornadoes got within one score multiple times but could not finish off the comeback. Geneva got the ball back late with a chance to tie it up, but its final drive stalled in Wooster territory enabling the Scots to hold on for a 42-35 victory. The Golden Tornadoes outgained Wooster by 30 yards, but three fumbles proved too difficult to overcome, including one that was returned for a touchdown by the Scots. Geneva did most of its damage on the ground, while Wooster found success in the passing game.
