SHIRK FIELD

at Musselman Stadium

Shirk Field at Musselman Stadium

State-of-the-art artificial turf has been installed at Musselman Stadium thanks to the generosity of Richard D. Shirk '67, starting quarterback of the 1966 squad that won the Lambert Cup as the top College Division program in the East.

Musselman Stadium retains its long-time name, but the field itself has been named in recognition of the Shirk Family Foundation's gift.

"Artificial turf returns Musselman Stadium to the status of an elite venue at the NCAA Division III level," said Director of Athletics David Wright. Shirk Field features an in-fill synthetic grass surface called AstroPlay, produced by makers of the original AstroTurf.

Shirk – now the retired president and chief executive officer of Cerulean Companies, Inc., parent of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Georgia – was a two-year football letterwinner.

As a junior in 1965, he was a starting defensive back as well as the backup for 1985 Hall of Athletic Honor inductee and future NFL quarterback Jim Ward '66. The next season, Shirk was one of three team captains who led the Bullets to a 7-2 record and the region's top team honor. He was also a starting catcher on the Bullets baseball team.

"Dick Shirk's wonderful gift couldn't have come at a better time as we begin a major initiative to enhance athletic and recreational facilities at the College," said former Vice President for College Relations Lex McMillan. "I hope Dick's generosity will be an inspiration to many others who had similar strong experiences as athletes at Gettysburg College."

About Gettysburg College

Gettysburg College was chartered in 1832 during a time in which most of the nation's strongest liberal arts colleges were established. It is located on the famous Civil War battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa., and has played a major role in American history.

Currently ranked among the best liberal arts colleges in the United States, Gettysburg College is committed to preparing nearly 2,600 students from more than 40 states and 35 foreign countries for the opportunities of a changing world. Students may choose from 37 majors, pursue interdisciplinary and self-designed majors, or complete one of several cooperative and dual-degree programs.

Special programs are also offered in study abroad, Washington semester (government and politics, economics, foreign policy and many others) and United Nations semester. Dual-degree programs are offered in such areas as engineering, nursing and environmental studies.

The 200-acre campus is 36 miles from Harrisburg, 54 from Baltimore, 72 from Washington, D.C., 117 from Philadelphia and 212 from New York City.

Student-faculty ratio is 11:1. There are 192 full-time faculty members, 92 percent of whom have earned a doctorate or the highest degree in their respective field.

An abundance of activities are available to Gettysburg students. A social council sponsors a diverse schedule of events. There are 10 men's national fraternities and six women's national sororities. There is a full schedule of lectures and concerts featuring nationally-known speakers and performers.

Financial Aid

Although higher education is expensive, 70 percent of the student body at Gettysburg received college aid for 2007-08, including 347 first-year students. Maximum first-year student aid (including scholarships, grants, loans and work-study) is $44,620, with an average of $26,386. Students applying for financial aid must complete the PROFILE and Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by February 15.

Nearly 1,300 students, or 50 percent of the student body, hold campus jobs. College work-study is available on campus, and jobs are also available in the community.

Athletics

Gettysburg College offers 12 varsity sports for men and 12 for women. It is an NCAA Division III institution and competes in the Centennial Conference (CC) as well as the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC). Gettysburg is the only college in the CC with 13 full-time head coaches. There are also two part-time head coaches, a total of 20 assistant coaches (full and part-time) and six interns. Four athletic trainers, as well as a team physician and an orthopedic surgeon attend to the medical needs of Gettysburg athletes.

Centennial Conference

Gettysburg College is a charter member of the Centennial Conference.

The conference became official on April 29, 1992, when 11 college and university presidents agreed to a mission of purpose formalizing the all-sports conference. Ten of the charter members had held membership in the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference (MAC) since that conference's origin in 1912.

Members of the Centennial Conference are Bryn Mawr College, Dickinson College, Franklin & Marshall College, Gettysburg College, Haverford College, Johns Hopkins University, McDaniel College, Muhlenberg College, Swarthmore College, Ursinus College and Washington College.

Gettysburg teams have enjoyed unprecedented success in the first 15 years of the Centennial Conference, having won more CC team championships than any other institution. Gettysburg teams and athletes have also been prominent at the national level in recent years.

Facilities

Gettysburg's athletic facilities are regarded as among the finest in Division III. They consist of a 6,176-seat stadium with a state-of-the-art artificial surface for football, lacrosse and track and field, a brand-new, lighted soccer complex (also with an artificial surface), and an indoor sports complex which houses a 3,000-seat basketball, wrestling and volleyball area, four indoor tennis courts, a 1/11-mile indoor track, a first-class weight room and outstanding training facilities.

There are new outdoor facilities for baseball, softball, women's lacrosse and field hockey, as well as 14 refurbished tennis courts. A scenic cross country course incorporates the campus and adjacent battlefield.

Ground was broken for a new Center for Athletics, Recreation and Fitness on May 30, 2008.

BARRY STREETER
Head Coach
Lebanon Valley '71
30th Season at Gettysburg

Barry Streeter returns for his 30th season as the head football coach at Gettysburg College in 2008. Streeter is not only the winningest coach in program history with a record of 147-142-5, but he is also the longest tenured coach having passed the legendary Henry "Hen" Bream (1927-51) on both counts. In addition, Streeter became the all-time winningest coach in Centennial Conference history with a 27-20 win over Moravian College on Oct. 6, 2007, giving him 78 Centennial victories.

Streeter and Bream (104-69-12) are the only Gettysburg football coaches to surpass 100 career victories. The former picked up his 100th win when the Bullets closed out their 1994 season with a 52-20 triumph over Franklin & Marshall College. Midway through the 1995 campaign, the Bullets knocked off Muhlenberg College, 28-16, giving Streeter his 105th win and making him the all-time leader at Gettysburg. Heading into the 2008 season, Streeter ranks 10th among active coaches by victories in NCAA Division III.

Streeter has molded the Bullets into one of the top offensive teams in the Centennial Conference. In 2007, Gettysburg led the conference in rushing for the third year in a row, averaging 248.6 yards per game while piling up a conference-leading 404.7 yards of total offense per game. The Bullets finished the 2007 campaign 6-5 and earned a bid in the ECAC Southwest Bowl, which Gettysburg led the entire game before dropping a tough 21-20 decision at Carnegie Mellon University.

Streeter joined the coaching staff at Gettysburg in 1975 as an assistant on Joseph Sabol's football staff and as the head coach of the track & field program. On Feb. 3, 1978, he succeeded Sabol on the gridiron, becoming one of the youngest head football coaches ever at Gettysburg.

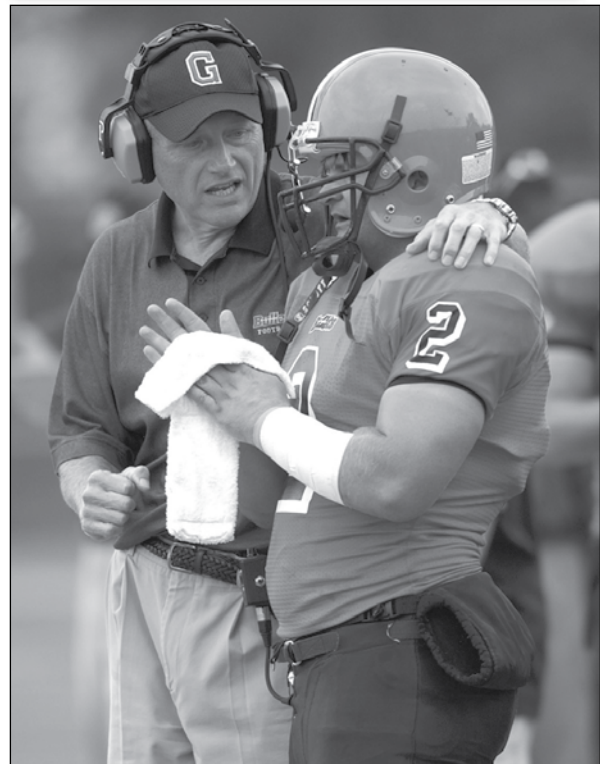

Starting with the 1980 season, when the Bullets fashioned a 6-3-1 record, he guided the program to winning records for eight consecutive years, the longest such streak in school history. In 1985, he guided Gettysburg to its third consecutive Centennial Conference Championship and its inaugural appearance in the NCAA Division III playoffs, advancing all the way to the national semifinals and finishing with an 11-1-1 record. His 1994 squad posted an 8-2 mark and set numerous conference records, including the still-standing mark of yards gained in a single season (4,544).

A 1971 graduate of Lebanon Valley College, Streeter earned two varsity letters as a tight end on the football team and two as a defenseman on the school's lacrosse team. He was awarded a master's degree in health and physical education from the University of Delaware in 1975. As a graduate assistant on Tubby Raymond's football staff at Delaware, Streeter became an astute student of the Delaware Wing-T, which is the basis for Gettysburg's Spread Wing offense.

Streeter has two sons, Jason and Brandon, and two daughters, Kelly and Lindsey. Jason played football at Lehigh University, and Brandon was a starting quarterback for Clemson University.

1st Season at Gettysburg

George O'Brien will begin his first season on the Bullet coaching staff in 2008 and will serve as a defensive line coach.

O'Brien spent the past two years as an assistant coach at Hanover (Pa.) H.S., working under current Bullet assistant Denny Garman. He was also an assistant at Biglerville (Pa.) H.S. in 2005 and was an assistant defensive line coach at his alma mater, Clarion University, in the spring of 2003.

A two-time team captain at Clarion in 2001 and 2002, O'Brien helped the Golden Eagles win the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference West title in 2000 as a defensive end. He graduated in 2003 with a bachelor of science degree in management with an emphasis in sport management and a minor in athletic coaching.

A native of Abbottstown, Pa., O'Brien also earned a master of science degree in sport management from Slippery Rock University in 2004. He has worked as the Senior Program Director of Sports at the Hanover Area Family YMCA since 2005.

Bullets

Bullets Set For CC Title Run

Coming off one of their best seasons in several years, a deep and experienced Gettysburg College football team will take to the gridiron with high hopes in 2008.

Behind their trademark spread-wing offense and an improved defense, the Bullets asserted themselves as a legitimate threat in the Centennial Conference in 2007. The team was in contention for a conference title up until the ninth game of the season and finished in a tie for third in the final CC standings. The Bullets also earned their first postseason berth in 22 years when they were selected to play in the ECAC Southwest Bowl. In addition, head coach Barry Streeter's troops assembled the team's first winning record in 13 years, finishing 6-5.

In the Centennial Conference Preseason Poll, the Bullets were picked to finish sixth among nine teams and received two first-place votes.

"I believe they're up to the challenge of competing for a conference championship," said Streeter, who enters his 30th season at the helm. "I think our team has matured and is ready to take another step. That's been our focus since our season ended last fall."

Streeter feels as his team's ECAC bowl game appearance was an important part of his team's development.

"Mentally, it gave them the feeling of being a postseason team and not being satisfied with just playing 10 games," said Streeter.

The Bullets will enter camp with one of its deepest teams ever, as 112 Bullets currently dot the roster. Included in that number are 40 returning lettermen and 16 returning starters, providing the team with incredible stability.

"We have a lot of guys coming back who have played a lot," noted Streeter. "I really like our senior class - they have really shown great leadership in spring practice and throughout the whole offseason program, and that's such a big key."

Offensively, the Bullets face the challenge of replacing all-America tailback Tom Sturges, the second-leading rusher in school history. However, the team does return seven offensive starters, including a two-year starting quarterback in junior Matt Flynn and four of five linemen.

Gettysburg brings back six starters on the defensive side of the ball, led by all-conference defensive ends Josh Jerrold and Conor Quinn. The duo will help form one of the most intimidating front lines in the conference after combining for 15.5 sacks and 30 tackles for loss in 2007.

The kicking game is also in good hands with the return of senior Josh Huson, a two-time all-conference selection who tied the school record for single-season field goals (12) in 2007.

The Bullets' 2008 schedule closely resembles its 2007 docket, as it will face all of the same 10 opponents from a year ago with home fields reversed. The season opens up with a non-conference game at Lebanon Valley, with the home opener to follow against 2007 Old Dominion Athletic Conference champion Hampden-Sydney. The Bullets open their Centennial Conference slate in Week 3 when they host Johns Hopkins on Homecoming, and one week later they take on defending conference champion Muhlenberg in Allentown.

Back-to-back home games ensue against Ursinus and Moravian before the team hits the road for three straight contests over a four-week period against Juniata, Dickinson, and McDaniel. The Bullets close out the regular season at home against Franklin & Marshall.

OFFENSE

Gettysburg has earned a reputation as one of the most explosive offensive teams in the conference and the 2007 season was no exception, as the Bullets led the conference in rushing (248.6 ypg) and total offense (404.7 ypg) while finishing second in scoring offense (29.5 ppg). The Bullets racked up over 400 yards of offense in seven of its 11 games, including a season-high 537 yards against Lebanon Valley. In addition, the team's offensive line allowed a league-low 12 sacks.

QUARTERBACK

A team captain, Flynn returns for his third season as the team's starting signal-caller after a pair of productive seasons. An excellent passer who is also a threat to run the ball, Flynn threw for 1,535 yards and 10 touchdowns last season while finishing as the team's second-leading rusher, scrambling for 419 yards and a pair of TDs, including a 50-yarder.

"Anytime you return your starting quarterback and he's a solid player, it's a plus," said Streeter. "He had an excellent spring, and he really improved his footwork and accuracy. His leadership has also come around - he was voted a captain as a junior, which says a lot about him."

Mike Lynch, Flynn's backup from last season, did not return this year, but Streeter expects sophomore Billy Giannone will step up to fill that role after a solid spring. Freshmen Brad Levine and Kyle Whitmoyer will also vie for time under center.

TAILBACK

The Bullets will certainly miss Sturges, the reigning Centennial Conference Offensive Player of the Year who finished his career as just the fourth 4,000-yard rusher in conference history. However, Streeter feels as if there are several players who are more than capable of filling the void.

"We had four different tailbacks competing for that spot in the spring," said Streeter. "And I really believe they could all become very good players."

Not included in that number is senior Nick McConnell, who missed the second half of the 2007 season and the entire spring due to a knee injury. However, McConnell showed promise as Sturges's backup early last year, rushing for 78 yards on 17 carries.

Other Bullets who will be in the mix include sophomores Jamel Mutunga, Anthony DeSalva, Bryan DiSabato, and Justin Joseph.

Mutunga, quite possibly the team's fastest player, filled in for an injured Sturges in the final regular season game of the year and rushed for 114 yards and two touchdowns. DeSalva also gained experience on the varsity squad, carrying the ball 10 times for 21 yards and one touchdown while DiSabato and Joseph provide additional depth.

"One of the biggest focuses for us will be determining who our tailback is, or if we are going to rotate a couple different players," said Streeter. "It is going to be a tough position to fill because of who left, but I still feel as if we'll be able to run the ball well."

WING

The Bullets are well-stocked at wing back, where three players who started at some point last season return in sophomore Charles Curcio, junior Ricky Manigat, and junior Michael McInerney.

"Those three guys rotated in and out throughout the year," said Streeter. "They all have good speed and they all have experience. Plus, we have a few other guys who are coming along."

Senior Sam Walthall

Curcio turned in an outstanding freshman campaign in which he established himself as one of the top playmakers in the Centennial Conference, racking up 947 all-purpose yards over 10 games as a wing back/return specialist. He rushed for 207 yards, averaging 5.4 yards per carry, and five touchdowns while hauling in 14 passes for 206 yards and an additional TD. He was also the team's top return threat.

Manigat also enjoyed a solid season in his first year as a starter, finishing second on the team in receiving with 23 catches for 278 yards and three touchdowns. He also rushed for 192 yards and a pair of touchdowns. McInerney started the first three games of the season and finished with 125 yards rushing and 116 yards receiving.

Another player who could figure into the team's plans at wing is junior Sean Moore, who caught three passes for 15 yards in his only appearance last season.

WIDE RECEIVER/TIGHT END

The Bullets will have some holes to fill at wide receiver and tight end with the loss of Matt Welsh, a career 1,000-yard receiver who led the team with 28 catches in 2007, and Pete Meggers, a two-year starter at tight end.

At receiver, the top three candidates to take over the starting job coming out of spring ball were sophomores Brian Betley, Gavin Jablonski, and Eddie Pinkerton.

Betley is coming off a promising freshman season in which he caught eight passes for 165 yards and one touchdown while Jablonski and Pinkerton impressed the coaching staff with a solid spring.

The tight end position will likely be held by junior A.J. Perrotti or junior David Rodriguez. Perrotti played in 10 games last season, mostly on special teams, while Rodriguez will make the move from safety to tight end.

OFFENSIVE LINE

Gettysburg's offensive line will nearly remain intact from last season with the return of four starters.

Senior guard Lou Mastrini, an honorable mention All-Centennial Conference selection, sophomore center Matt DeFranco, junior guard Alex Bonder, and senior tackle Sam Walthall will team up to give the Bullets one of the most experienced front lines in the conference. The only vacancy is at left tackle, where sophomore Julius Jackson appears to be the front-runner to replace first team all-conference graduate James Russell.

"Our offensive line is going to be a very solid position for us," said Streeter. "We lose a real good player at left tackle, but we've got several guys who we think can fill that spot."

DEFENSE

Despite struggling at times, Gettysburg's defense showed improvement and even flashes of brilliance during the 2007 season. After finishing last in the conference in total defense in 2006, the Bullets were sixth among nine teams a year ago at 355.2 yards per game in 2007. But the Bullet "D" was dominant at times, holding Ursinus College to a touchdown in a 21-7 win, limiting eventual conference champion Muhlenberg College to 14 points in a one-point loss, and allowing just 224 total yards in a 41-10 victory at Johns Hopkins.

"I'm really optimistic about our defense as well," said Streeter. "I think our defensive front is a big plus. Our ends are very good, and we've got three or four tackles who have played a lot. I also think our linebacking corps, as a group, can be very good. And I feel really good about the potential of our defensive secondary. We just need to be more consistent defensively, and I believe we will with confidence."

DEFENSIVE LINE

Pressuring the quarterback should not be a problem for the Bullets with the return of seniors Jerrold and Quinn. A second team All-Centennial Conference selection, Jerrold led the team with 8.0 sacks and was fourth on the squad with 63 tackles, including 13.5 for loss. Quinn, an honorable mention all-conference pick, racked up 7.5 sacks and was third among the Bullets with 80 tackles. He also led the team with 16.5 tackles for loss.

Gettysburg also brings back its two starting defensive tackles in senior Anthony Pastore and sophomore Sebastian Sullivan. A three-year starter, Pastore posted 25 tackles while Sullivan, who started six games, finished with 30 takedowns. Also returning is junior Sean Beirne, who started five games and recorded 19 tackles.

LINEBACKERS

The Bullets lost a pair of outstanding linebackers due to graduation in Harold Barton and Jim Holubowich. However, the team does return junior outside linebacker Tim Widdoes, a two-year starter and the team's second-leading tackler (85) from a year ago.

The frontrunners for the remaining two spots will likely be junior Joe Anthes, senior Dean Staley, and junior A.J. Helm. Anthes played in all 11 games a year ago and recorded 14 tackles while Staley made nine hits in six games. Helm also appeared in every game and made eight tackles.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

Gettysburg's defensive secondary was also hit hard by graduation, claiming three of last year's starters. The lone returning starter is sophomore safety Nick Duerr, who posted an impressive freshman campaign. Duerr, who started nine games, tied for seventh on the team in tackles with 45 and also made three interceptions. Several Bullets will contend for the other safety spot, including sophomore Mike Barrett.

At cornerback, John Dickerson, Justin Blass, Norbie Pendergast, and Tairi Mobley are among the players who will compete for a starting job. Dickerson, Blass, and Mobley all received significant playing time on special teams a year ago, and Streeter is highly optimistic that all four have the potential to be strong players.

SPECIAL TEAMS

In Huson, the Bullets bring back one of the top kickers in the Centennial Conference. The senior has showed excellent consistency throughout his career, drilling 23-of-36 field goals and 82-of-89 extra points. Last season, he made 12-of-19 field goals and 38-of-39 extra points on his way to earning Second Team All-Centennial Conference honors.

The starting punter job is open, but Betley is likely to take over. Filling in against Moravian, he punted twice for 93 yards, including a 60-yard boot, the team's longest punt of the season.

Curcio and sophomore Stephen Gass both return after serving as the team's primary return specialists last season. Curcio led the team in both punt (17) and kick (15) returns, averaging 11.1 yards per punt return (including a 56-yard touchdown return) and 23.1 yards per kick return. Gass was second on the team in both punt and kick returns and averaged 4.4 and 13.6 yards per return, respectively. Other Bullets who could contribute are Mutunga, who averaged 16.1 yards on seven kick returns, and DiSabato, who averaged 21.0 yards on four kick returns.

The sports history books show that intercollegiate football was introduced to the United States on Nov. 6, 1869, with Rutgers defeating Princeton 6-4, at New Brunswick, N.J. Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg (now Gettysburg College) became one of the pioneer colleges engaged in the sport when just 10 years later in 1879, it organized its first football team. However, the sport's first visit to the campus was short-lived.

Gettysburg was founded in 1832, but the early emphasis was on academic things rather than those of sport. Until 1879, croquet was the major sport at Gettysburg, with play in handball and longball rounding out the academic program. This menu failed, however, to satisfy the athletic hunger of some of the College's students, and in 1879 the football fever struck.

In September of that year, the first intercollegiate football game involving Gettysburg was played. Dickinson, Gettysburg's opponent for the historic meeting, looked at the wrong calendar, and arrived a week ahead of what Gettysburg had considered the scheduled playing date. However, the Gettysburg boys quickly whipped a team together, and without any previous organized practice managed to win the game, 11-6, after a three-hour struggle. On Oct. 18 of the same year, a return game was played at Dickinson and the Red Devils won this one, 11-10. At this point faculty disapproval killed the sport at Gettysburg until its modern rebirth in 1890, 11 years later.

To the class of 1890 goes the honor of having introduced the game of football as it is played today at Gettysburg, and in 1890, the Battlefielders stepped wholeheartedly into the pignskin picture. The first team, captained by John J. Albert, of Washington, launched its campaign on the afternoon of Oct. 19, 1890, and a new era had dawned at Gettysburg.

The Gettysburg team played two games that year, losing to Millersville, 6-4, and to Franklin and Marshall, 68-0. In 1891, Gettysburg bounced back with a 5-1 season, scoring wins over Seminary, Mount St. Mary's, Hagerstown and Western Maryland twice, and losing to Penn State, 18-0.

During the first two years of Gettysburg football, the training of the gridders was left pretty much to the players themselves. But two years of uncoached play convinced the players and the rooters that help was needed, so upon the recommendation of Dr. William B. Small, the Battlefielders grabbed Dr. Henry Jump as head coach beginning with the 1892 season. According to records, "Jump had banged around with the University of Pennsylvania eleven and understood the fine points of the game." The hiring of Gettysburg's first official coach had no magical effect on the team's record, but it did serve to lay a firm foundation for future success.

Few would dispute that Jump did more than earn his pay, for on one occasion in a game between Gettysburg and a team from Steelton, the coach was pressed into service as a referee, because nobody else could understand the rules.

With Jump's departure, football all-around athletes ever to attend Gettysburg College. He played four years of varsity football, basketball and baseball.

Following the Vail and Sieber era, Gettysburg was back to a coach-a-year until Bill Wood took over in 1919. Two of Wood's top athletes were Hen Bream and Snaps Emanuel. Wood went on to produce one of the best overall records in the school's history with 46 wins, 22 losses and six ties for a .676 winning percentage over an eight-year span.

Bream followed in 1927 and for the next 25 years gave Gettysburg some of its most exciting years of football. Bream-coached teams pounded out 104 victories, 69 defeats and 12 ties. John Yovicsin came on the scene coaching in 1973 and 1974 before taking a leave of absence during the 1975-76 campaign. It was during this time that Shoemaker filled in as acting athletic director, the position Haas had filled in 1969 when Hen Bream retired.

Joe Sabol came to Gettysburg in 1975 and served as head football coach for three years. He brought with him the wishbone offense which produced Kirby Scott, one of Gettysburg's great rushers.

Sabol remained at Gettysburg for three years before moving back to Vermont to take over as Norwich's athletic director. Barry Streeeter, one of the youngest of the Bullet head coaches, launched Gettysburg into a new era in 1978 with the Delaware Wing-T offense, producing numerous Division III All-Americans, three conference championships, the program's first undefeated season and its first appearance in the NCAA postseason playoffs in 1985, where the Bullets became the first (and still the only) Centennial Conference team to reach the national semifinals.

More recently, the Bullets have produced a number of great performers and memorable moments. The high-powered 1994 team set conference records for total offense (4,544) and points (380) behind the rushing duo of Dwayne Marcus and Shannon Forsythe, the only CC teammates to each rush for at least 1,000 yards in the same season. Midway through the 1995 campaign, Streeeter won his 105th game at Gettysburg, surpassing Hen Bream as the program's all-time coaching victories leader. And in 1999, All-America fullback Paul Smith completed his stellar career with nearly 40 program, conference and NCAA records, including Bullet career marks for rushing yards (5,205) and touchdowns (60).

With a 52-7 victory over Lebanon Valley in its 2003 season opener, Gettysburg became the 14th Division III program to reach the 500-win milestone. In 2004, the Bullets became one of a handful of Division III programs to play 1,000 games.

Streeeter became the all-time winningest football coach in Centennial Conference history when the Bullets defeated Moravian College 27-20 in 2007, giving Streeeter his 78th CC victory.

The first Gettysburg College football team, circa 1890

at Gettysburg entered a period filled with numerous defeats, headaches, disappointments and problems. The second mentor failed to show up in the fall of 1897, so captain David Dale was forced to step into the role. In fact, that's how things were for several years until Fred Vail came on the scene in 1904. The 1906 team under Vail is considered by many old-timers as the best season in Gettysburg football history, and the records back up their claims to an extent. The powerful 1906 football machine rolled easily through the campaign and posted a 7-1-2 record. The deadlocks were with the powers of the state, Penn and Penn State, while the lone defeat was administered by Swarthmore, a top ranking power of the day.

It was during the 1906 season that Polly Sieber became Gettysburg's first All-American. This 5-11, 182-pound left halfback was one of the finest in 1952 and produced five winning seasons, never losing more than three games in a year. He is credited with the second-best single-season record in the school's history, posting an 8-1 slate in 1953. The only loss that year was an opening-day 19-7 setback at the hands of Delaware. That '53 team included such standouts as Walt Hemberger, Ron Jacobi, Jim Rooney, Barry DeSatnick, Ron Miller, Carl Beck, Sheldon Yingst, Sam Mowery, Earl Yost, Joe Ujobai, Bob Eppleman, Bill Yocum, Frank Gagliardi and Jim Megee.

Gene Haas followed Yovicsin and coached for 14 of the next 18 years during which time Gettysburg won the MAC University Division title in 1964 and the Lambert Cup in 1966. Howie Shoemaker succeeded Haas in 1969 and tutored the club until 1972. During his first season, Gettysburg posted a 7-2 mark. Haas returned to
