AIR FORCE WRESTLING ALL-AMERICANS

The Air Force wrestling program boasts a proud history, with eight different wrestlers earning All-America accolades a combined 11 times.

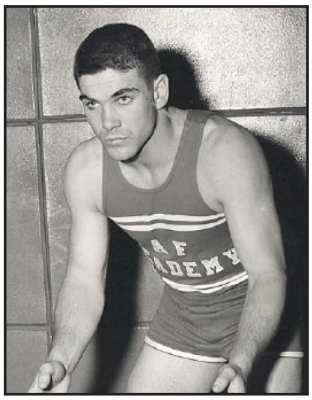

Terry Issacson became the Falcons' first All-American, finishing second at 167 pounds in 1962. He backed up that performance with a fourth-place finish in 1963 and a sixth-place finish in 1964, becoming Air Force's first and only three-time All-American.

While Issacson was the first All-American, Don Henderson was the first national champion for the Falcons. A three-time MIWA champion, Henderson won the title at 145 pounds in 1967.

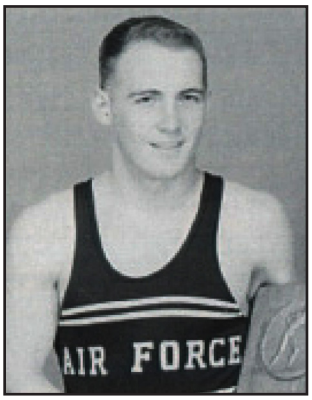

Twins Ken and Kirt Donaldson were next to garner All-America honors in 1971. Ken became the next runner-up, finishing second at 126 pounds, while Kirt took fifth place at 118 pounds that season. Four years later, Bob Orwig became the next All-American, finishing fifth at 190 pounds.

It was almost 30 years before another Air Force wrestler would earn All-America honors, but the Falcons came on strong in 2002. Three Air Force wrestlers finished as All-Americans that year. Scott Frohardt took seventh place at 149 pounds, while Kevin Hoy (HWT) and Terry Parham (174) each finished eighth at the NCAA Championships.

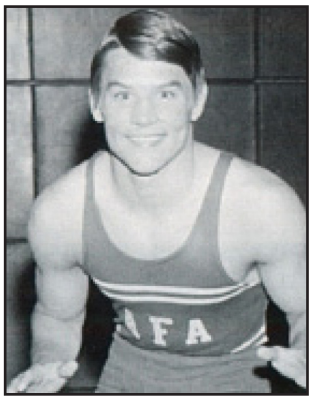

Hoy had an even more impressive finish in 2003, placing second. He became just the third national runner-up in Air Force history, and just the second wrestler to earn All-America accolades in more than one season.
