Early Army lacrosse action from 1939.

was the brainchild of Hall of Fame football coach Earl "Red" Blaik. So intertwined were the success of the gridders and laxmen that both programs captured national championships in 1944 and 1945.

DAWN OF THE MODERN ERA

The one constant throughout all of Army's success was a stingy defense. Don Tillar and Carpenter were named the nation's top defenseman in 1959 and 1960, respectively, headlining a span of 15 years in which six Black Knights were presented with that honor. The benefactor, as well as a chief contributor, of Army's stellar defense during the mid-1960s was Norman Webb, who became a two-time national Goalie of the Year and an All-American. Adams had the unenviable task of replacing Touchstone in 1958. But "Ace" was equal to the task, forging a 9-0 mark in his first year on the job and earning a share of the national title. It was Army's first perfect season since 1910. In a dozen years at West Point, Adams' teams won .777 percent of its games — including a then Academy record 10-win performance during his final season in 1969 — and shared the national championship four times, 1958, 1959, 1961 and 1969. In 1961, after a 9-2 campaign, Adams was named national Coach of the Year. An All-America midfielder during his college days at Johns Hopkins, Adams joined Touchstone in the Hall of Fame during induction ceremonies in 1975. By that time Robert Miser, Webb and Cramblet had also been enshrined following stellar careers. Another stalwart from the Ace Adams era earned his way into the hallowed hall in 2003 when Tom Sheckells (USMA '65) was voted in posthumously. In 2004, Dick Edell increased Army's representation in the Hall of Fame to 12 with his enshrinement. It marked the second consecutive year that the Hall of Fame class included a member of the Army family. Cramblet and Cafaro, who were the cornerstones of the Army team during the transition from Adams to successor Al Pisano, helped establish the Black Knights as an explosive offensive team. Cramblet would graduate in 1970 as the Academy's all-time leading scorer with 150 points, but Cafaro would shatter that mark one year later following an 85-point senior season that vaulted his career point total to 167. With Pisano at the helm, the Black Knights played an instrumental role in the emergence of the NCAA Tournament. The NCAA unveiled its eight-team playoff format in 1971 and the Black Knights found themselves in the first lacrosse final four. Cafaro was the impetus behind that success, scoring 18 points in Army's two contests. The Black Knights defeated Hofstra in the opening round (19-6) but lost to eventual champion Cornell, 17-16, in the semifinals. Both games were held at West Point. In fact, since the tourney's inception, West Point has been the home to postseason play in seven different years, most recently in 2001 when the first round was held at Michie Stadium. The Black Knights were members of the first three NCAA tourney fields and last appeared in the NCAA Tournament in 2010, when they reached the second round. Army is one of only 11 lacrosse programs that have appeared in at least a dozen postseason tournaments since the event began in 1971. Dick Edell, who succeeded Pisano and forged a .733 winning percentage in his seven-year stint at the Academy, continued Army's success. He guided the Black Knights to the NCAA Tournament in four of his seven years along the Army sideline.

One of the most storied institutions in the nation, West Point is also home to one of the oldest and most successful college lacrosse programs in the country. The Black Knights embark on their 104th season of intercollegiate lacrosse this year. Joe Alberici enters his 16th season along the sidelines and hopes to lead the program back to a Patriot League title and run in the NCAA Tournament. With 805 victories under its belt, Army's lacrosse program ranks fifth in all-time wins, behind only Johns Hopkins, Syracuse, Navy, and Maryland. Army lacrosse has earned eight national championships before the NCAA sanctioned a postseason tournament in 1971, while 12 men (eight players and four coaches) associated with the program's history have been welcomed into the National Lacrosse Foundation Hall of Fame. Additionally, former legendary head coach F. Morris Touchstone was part of the inaugural class to be enshrined in the Army Sports Hall of Fame in 2004. Touchstone, who retired in 1957, is still the Academy's all-time winningest lacrosse coach. He was joined by legendary head coach Ace Adams in the Army Hall of Fame in 2011. Further testimony to Army's prominent place on the landscape of collegiate lacrosse is evident in the postseason awards. Two of the five existing national lacrosse awards bear the name of a former member of the Army lacrosse "family." The national Coach of the Year award is named in honor of Touchstone, while the national Player of the Year award is recognized as the Lt. Raymond J. Enners Award — a 1967 Academy graduate. Two former Black Knights (Pete Cramblet in 1970 and Tom Cafaro in 1971) have won the Enners Award, while James "Ace" Adams (1961) and Dick Edell (1978) were presented with the Touchstone "Coach of the Year" honor. Three Black Knights have been named the nation's top attackman while two have earned outstanding goalie plaudits (including A. Norman Webb, who earned that distinction in 1963 and 1964). Eight Army players have captured the nod as the top defenseman in the country.

TRACING LACROSSE'S ROOTS

Lacrosse had a sparse beginning at West Point as an Academy-sponsored sport. The U.S. Military Academy supported an intercollegiate squad in 1907, 1909 and 1910 before the sport really took off for good in 1921. Despite its shaky start off the field, the program enjoyed immediate on-field success, foreshadowing a long, rich history as one of the nation's elite teams. Those squads of 1907, 1909 and 1910 combined to win all 10 of their games. By 1923, in only the program's sixth year, head coach Talbot Hunter brought home the Academy's first national championship when his Black Knights concluded the season with an 8-1-1 mark. In Hunter's first campaign along the Hudson, Army was 2-3. However, the Black Knights rebounded with a 6-1 showing in 1922, beginning a stretch of 33 consecutive seasons in which Army posted a winning record. West Point's lacrosse fortunes reached its all-time high under direction of the legendary Touchstone, who guided his charges to 214 wins, against just 73 losses and four ties, during a 29-year career as Army mentor. He roamed the Army sidelines from 1929 through 1957. During his tenure, the Black Knights of the Hudson won or shared three national titles, capturing the outright crown in 1944 before sharing it with Navy in 1945 and Princeton in 1951. Fortytwo of the 83 first team All-Americans in Army history came while Touchstone was the coach. His resume, laden with a .743 winning percentage at Army and coupled with a strong four-year stint as head coach at Yale, earned him an induction into the Hall of Fame in 1960, just three years after his retirement. His entry into the Hall paved the way for All-Americans Harry Wilson, Thomas Truxtun and James Hartinger to follow. Wilson was the first West Point athlete to earn first team All-America accolades in both lacrosse and football in the same year, accomplishing that feat in 1926. Charles Born, a first team football All-American in 1925 was selected as a first team lacrosse All-American in 1928. Throughout its early days, the lacrosse program enjoyed a close affiliation with the Army football team as many gridders kept themselves athletically fit by excelling in lacrosse each spring. Among Army's early lacrosse All-Americans were gridders Wilson, Born, Milt Summerfelt, Robert Stillman, Clinton True and Woodrow Wilson. Bill Carpenter would equal that feat prior to his graduation in 1960. Carpenter achieved national acclaim as the "Lonely End" on Army's football team. Much like Touchstone, who was a lacrosse visionary, the "Lonely End" formation

The Black Knights were members of the first three Goalie George Slabowski and attackman Frank Giordano were the featured stars of Edell's era. Both earned first team All-America accolades in 1983 — Edell's final season — as Army put forth the first of two successive 11-3 marks.

THE EMMER ERA

Jack Emmer, who had been a highly successful coach during stints at Cortland State and Washington & Lee, replaced Edell in the spring of 1984. Emmer's inaugural season along the banks of the Hudson was a resounding success as the team became just the second Army squad to reach the final four, edging Pennsylvania, 8-7 at Franklin Field in the NCAA Quarterfinals. That would be the first of eight postseason bids earned by Emmer's Black Knights. When Army defeated Cornell in the 1996 season opener, Emmer joined Touchstone as the only coaches in Army history to reach 100 wins at the Academy. One of Emmer's most successful seasons came in 1993 when a senior-dominated Army team — paced by Steve Heller, who would graduate as the Academy's career scoring leader with 204 points — finished the regular season with an 11-3 record before beating Maryland 15-11 in the opening round of the NCAA tourney. In 1997 and 1998, Ross Yastrzemsky and Chad Hadlock eclipsed the century mark for career points. Yastrzemsky graduated as the program's highest scoring midfielder, compiling 121 points. He added an honorable mention All-America certificate to his accolades after the 1997 season. Emmer coached 27 All-Americans in his 22 years at the Academy, including Jim Wagner (USMA '05) and John Walker (USMA '06). Tim Pearson (USMA '02), a threetime honorable mention All-American, concluded his exceptional career as the Academy's all-time leading scorer. He smashed Heller's previous mark, finishing with 238 points. Emmer led Army into league play when the Patriot League was formed in 1991. The Black Knights did not lose a game to a conference foe in their first 25 contests, reeling off one of the nation's longest conference winning streaks. That string still stands as the longest in Patriot League history. Army's peerless leader guided the Black Knights back into the NCAA Tournament in 2005 for the eighth time and the 15th time overall for the storied program. It also marked the third straight season that the Black Knights were invited to the NCAA Tournament. Despite finishing runner-up at the Patriot League Tournament, Army was one of 10 at-large bids to the NCAA tournament. Emmer led his charges south of the Mason-Dixon line for a match-up with No. 8 Georgetown. The Black Knights dropped that NCAA First Round contest, 16-6 to the Hoyas. Emmer carried on the Academy's long line of coaching success among a lineage of legendary lacrosse mentors at West Point. However, that long run came to a close in May 2005 when Emmer announced his retirement from coaching after 36 years. He left the game as the all-time winningest lacrosse coach in NCAA history.

THE ALBERICI ERA

The 2006 season brought a change of guard over the Army lacrosse program as one-time assistant coach, Joe Alberici, returned to succeed his former mentor Jack Emmer. Alberici became just the 10th head coach in 88 years of the Academy's program, following an impressive list of four Hall of Fame coaches. In his first campaign as head coach, Alberici paced the Black Knights to an 8-7 finish and a No. 20 USILA/USA Today ranking. Army fell just short of the NCAA tournament after a runner-up finish at the Patriot League Championship. In 2008, Alberici led the Black Knights to a 9-6 record and the regular season Patriot League Championship with a 5-1 conference mark. For his efforts, he was named the Patriot League Coach of the Year, marking the first time an Army skipper won the award since Emmer nabbed his second honor in 1998. In 2010, Alberici guided Army to an 11-6 overall record, a perfect 6-0 Patriot League mark, two wins over Navy and its first-ever Patriot League tournament title. The Black Knights went on to knock off two-time defending national champion Syracuse in the first round of the NCAA tournament. The monumental win was lauded by many as one of the biggest upsets in collegiate lacrosse history. Alberici led his Black Knights to a Patriot League Tournament berth in 13 of his 14 seasons at the helm, and was named the Patriot League Coach of the Year in 2014. Army has made the Patriot League Championship in four of the last five seasons, including the 2015 and 2019 when the Black Knights were the first team to make the title game as a sixth seed. In 2017, the Black Knights became the first team since 1993 to reach 12 wins in a season and Alberici led his team to 10 or more wins for the third-straight year and the fourth time in his career. Highlighting the season was Army's last-second 14-13 victory at then No. 6 Syracuse and the Black Knights finished their campaign with a thrilling overtime win at Michie Stadium against No. 4 Notre Dame. Junior David Symmes was the hero in both games, scoring the gamewinners.

2023 was a historic one for the Black Knights, the won the Patriot League Tournament to clinch a bid to the NCAA Tournament where they upset defending national champion Maryland. It was their first win in the NCAA Tournament since 2010. The 13 win season tied the program for most wins in a single season.

The 2024 season saw the Black Knights race out to their best start since 1958, starting 7-0. They also were ranked No. 1 in the nation in both the USILA Coaches Poll and Inside Lacrosse Media Poll for the first time in program history. It was the third 10+ win season in a row and the eighth under Alberici.

Jack Emmer retired following the 2005 season as the winningest coach in NCAA lacrosse history. He collected 186 of his 325 wins during his 22 seasons at West Point.

NATIONAL LACROSSE HALL OF FAME

Located inside historic Homewood Field on the campus of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., the National Lacrosse Hall of Fame has enshrined the sport's most prominent men and women since 1957.

Jack Emmer became the 12th member of Army's lacrosse family to join that illustrious club in 2005. He is the fourth former Army coach to be enshrined in the Hall of Fame. Below is a list of those 12 individuals, four coaches and eight players, with their year of induction in parentheses.

NCAA TOURNAMENT HISTORY

Expanding to 16 teams in 2003, the premier event of the men's lacrosse season welcomes seven automatic qualifiers and selects nine at-large schools to fill out its bracket each year. The game's growth over the years necessitated a move of championship weekend to larger stadiums.

The Black Knights have been a part of the NCAA Tournament 18 times. Army has qualified for the NAAs at least twice in every decade since the tournament began in 1971.

Current Army head coach Joe Alberici is no stranger to the NAAs. He was an associate head coach at Duke University for nine seasons, leading the Blue Devils to the National Championship game in 2005 before falling by one goal to Johns Hopkins. Duke spent the majority of that season ranked second nationally behind the Blue Jays.

Army has made an NCAA Tournament appearance under Alberici in 2010 and in 2019 with the Black Knights topping Syracuse in the first round game (9-8 OT) in 2010.

West Point and venerable Michie Stadium have played host to the NCAA Tournament seven times, most recently in 2001 when Notre Dame, Bucknell, Virginia and Hofstra squared off in first-round tilts.

One of the most celebrated and revered rivalries in all of sports, the Army-Navy competition is not limited to the gridiron. The two service academies compete in 24 other intercollegiate sports.

In lacrosse, the Army-Navy rivalry carries the same weight and expectations as its football counterpart. Adding to the mystique is the fact that the two academies annually rank in the national polls and are two of the most storied and successful programs in the history of the sport.

Army and Navy rank among the all-time winningest programs in Division-I history. The two academies have combined for 25 national championships and even shared the national title in 1945 and 1961. Only 15 schools in the country have made a dozen or more NCAA Tournament appearances – Army and Navy are two of those institutions.

Army knocked off Navy twice in 2010, including an 11-8 victory versus the Mids in the Patriot League Tournament championship. The 2008 edition of the game marked the end of the longest run of consecutive wins by either team in the history of the rivalry. Army's 9-6 victory snapped an 11-year, 13-game winning streak the Mids started in 1998.

The two schools histories are deeply intertwined with one another. Navy head coach Richie Meade was an assistant under former Army head coach Jack Emmer at West Point from 1991-94. One of the Mids' most recent top scorers, Ian Dingman, has an older brother, Lee, who graduated from West Point in 2000 and was an integral part of Emmer's squads for four years.

In the very first meeting, in 1924, the Midshipmen prevailed, 5-0. The two teams met every year from 1924-28, with Navy taking four wins and a tie, before putting the series on hold until 1933. After a nine-year wait, Army finally picked up its first win over Navy in 1933, 8-5. The Black Knights and Mids have met every year for the past 79 years. Navy holds a 60-35-3 advantage in the overall series.

The Army-Navy series has consisted of numerous hard-fought games throughout the years. Of the first 83 Army-Navy clashes, 47 were decided by three goals or less, including 16 one-goal games and three ties.

One of the most memorable of those one-goal affairs was a thrilling 11-10 double-overtime victory for the Black Knights in Annapolis in 1991. Army trailed 10-9 in the final minute with Navy holding possession of the ball trying to salt away the clock. Army goalie Rick Aguilar ranged far behind his own net to force a turnover, then fed Eric Waltz, who ran the length of the field and scored with four seconds to play. After a scoreless first overtime, the Black Knights' Jim Gorman scored an unsettled goal with 1:05 left in the second overtime, ending a five-year losing streak to the Midshipmen.

The 2000 game was no different, as the contest was tied five different times before Navy prevailed 10-8 in front of more than 2,600 fans at Michie Stadium. In 2002, the Mids came away with a 9-6 victory in that encounter to extend their winning streak over Army. Navy scored three times in the first six minutes of the second half to turn a one-goal lead into a four-goal advantage.

In 2003, the bitter rivals put on yet another spectacular show, earmarking another for the classics. Army jumped on top early, 3-1, at a jam-packed Rip Miller Field. However, homesteading Navy retaliated with three unanswered goals to take the lead. From there, the two lacrosse giants traded blow-for-blow until the late stages of the fourth quarter. Navy scored twice in a 15 seconds to break a 9-9 tie. The Mids held a 12-10 advantage in the final minute of play, when Army's Marko Kostovic scored with 16 seconds left. However, Navy won the ensuing faceoff and ran out the clock, ending Army's comeback bid.

In 2005, Army and Navy met twice in one season for the first time since 1981. The Midshipmen came away with a win in the regular-season encounter and again in the Patriot League Championship game to run their consecutive winning streak to nine straight.

An Army-Navy record crowd of 12,117 saw the Midshipmen come away with a 12-9 victory and clinch home field advantage for the Patriot League Tournament later that month. On that occasion, another 5,451 fans poured into Navy-Marine Corps Stadium to watch Navy's 15-8 victory.

The two academies split the series in 2015 with the Mids winning the "Star" with a 10-7 win in Annapolis, but Army rebounded with a 11-7 victory in the Patriot League Semifinals. It was the first matchup since 2010 in the postseason.

The recent series history has belonged to Army as the Black Knights are 12-7 in the last 19 matchups including a 3-0 mark in postseason play. In the 2016 Patriot League semifinals, Army held Navy to three goals, which was the lowest output for the Mids in the series since the 1947 season.

2019 marked the 100th Army-Navy matchup. The Black Knights won 9-8 in overtime after winning the faceoff and scoring as the seconds ticked down on the shot clock.

ARMY HOISTS THE PATRIOT LEAGUE TROPHY AFTER TOPPING LEHIGH, 11-7, IN 2019.

ALL-TIME LETTERWINNERS

Following is the roster of Army Lacrosse players who have earned the "Varsity A." This list begins with the Class of 1923. Letters earned by year starts with the 1942 season, but does not reflect complete listings from the 1962 and 1984 campaigns. Lettermen are listed with the year in which they graduated from West Point. Non-graduates are listed by the class year in which they enrolled. An "x" prior to the year of graduation indicates a letterman who did not graduate from the Academy.
