THE TRADITION CONTINUES

The St. Bonaventure swimming program was formed in 1945 with 13 members for club-level competition. Four years later, physical education major John McNamee assumed responsibility for the program and established a dual meet schedule centered around western New York rivals Buffalo State, Canisius and Niagara.

In 1957, John Skehan became coach; in 1959, the program was given varsity status; and eventually teams such as St. John's, Notre Dame and Penn State brought a higher level of competition to the dual meet schedule. The inauguration of the Notre Dame series in 1966 coincided with the opening of a new swimming facility in the Reilly Center. During his 20-year tenure as coach, Skehan produced numerous individual state champions, a state championship team (1971), and an All-American breaststroker (Rich Bohan, 1973). In 1975, St. Bonaventure became a charter member of the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Association, and participates in its annual meet against such teams as Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Rutgers and Cleveland State.

In 1978, the responsibility for directing Bona swimming was passed on to Kevin McNamee, son of Bona's first full-time coach, and the following year, tuition scholarships for swimming were instituted. Essential as improvement, McNamee's continual stress upon each swimmer's academic well-being was equally important in attracting and retaining the right kind of student-athlete for the program. He required all newcomers to enroll in a highly successful academic and occupational advisement program; as a result, the team's overall academic index was regularly in the 3.0 range, and many received admission into medical and dental schools as well as graduate programs in business and education. The program remained under Kevin McNamee until 1992 when he handed the reigns to younger brother, Sean, who graduated from St. Bonaventure in 1986.

Under the guidance of Sean McNamee, the St. Bonaventure swimming program proved to be one of the top programs in the Atlantic 10. During McNamee's tenure, the Bonnies accolades included five Atlantic 10 Championships, 74 different medal winners, 40 Atlantic 10 Academic All-Conference selections, eight A-10 Rookie Performers of the Year and four A-10 Performers of the Year. With McNamee at the helm of the program, the Bonnies finished the Atlantic 10 Championship meet in third place or better in 23 out of 26 seasons.
