THE STORYLINES

TIP-OFF

The Columbia women's basketball team closes its non-conference slate Monday, Jan. 12 as it heads to the Garden State to take on NJIT at the Estelle and Zoom Fleischer Athletic Center. The Lions and the Highlanders are slated for a 7 p.m. tip-off live on NJIT All-Access.

LOWDOWN ON THE LIONS

Columbia returned to the win column Wednesday as it took down Fairleigh Dickinson, 72-55, to improve to 5-8 on the year. Each of the Lions' five victories have come in the friendly confines of Levien Gymnasium as they look for their first win on the road Monday night.

Columbia posts the second-best offense in the Ivy League with 69.7 points per game with a trio of Lions contributing double figures. Tori Oliver paces the pack as the sophomore scores a league-best 18.4 points per outing off a 47.8 field goal percentage, which ranks eighth in the conference. First-year Camille Zimmerman sits second on the team and fifth in the league with 15.5 points per contest while her classmate Alexa Giuliano adds 11.2 ppg.

Defensively, the Lions pull down 42.8 rebounds per game, which land second in the Ancient Eight. Senior Amara Mbionwu leads the way on the glass with 9.2 boards per game.

LAST TIME OUT

The Columbia women's basketball team used a season high field goal percentage to shoot past Fairleigh Dickinson Wednesday night at Levien Gymnasium. The Lions connected on 26-of-53 attempts to produce a 49.1 field goal percentage and made 10-of-21 threes for a 47.6 mark. A pair of first-years led the way for Columbia as Camille Zimmerman contributed 20 points for the third time this season. The 6-foot-1 forward shot 6-of-16 from the field and was on board shy of a double-double. Zimmerman added two assists, two blocks and two steals to her stat line while Alexa Giuliano was Columbia's main threat from deep as she added 15 of her 19 points from behind the arc. Miwa Tachibana, who made her first career start as the floor general, dished out a career-high six assists to go along with eight points, two blocks and one steal. Tori Oliver led the Lions' 41 rebound effort on the glass with a career-best 14 rebounds and chipped in on the offensive end with six handouts and five points.

BETTER AND BETTER

Through 13 games this season, nine Lions student-athletes have matched or bested their career highs in points and/or rebounds. The athletes include: Tori Oliver (38 points, 14 rebounds), Camille Zimmerman (24 points, 12 rebounds), Alexa Giuliano (20 points, 8 rebounds), Sara Mead (18 points), Amara Mbionwu (12 points, 16 rebounds), Ara Talkov (9 points), Paige Tippet (5 points, 3 rebounds), Kate Ryan (3 points, 1 rebound), and Jillian Borreson (2 points).

IF IT'S FREE

The Lions have made teams pay for sending them to the free throw line this season as they boast a league-leading 75.6 (236-312) connection rate at the line.

Camille Zimmerman has made her presence known at the line as the first-year leads the team and is second in the league with an 81.7 connection rate (49-60). Tori Oliver continues to be consistent at the charity stripe, as the sophomore has connected on 79-105 attempts for a 75.2 percentage. All-time Oliver is a 191-260 (.735) from the line to sit among the Lions' top five.

CLEANING THE GLASS

Columbia has cleaned up the glass this season as the Lions have pulled down 42.8 rpg, the second-best number among the Ivies.

At San Jose State Columbia grabbed 60 rebounds, the most since the Lions recorded 62 at Yale Jan. 11, 2002. The 60 boards are also the most in the Stephanie Glance era.

Amara Mbionwu leads the Lions on the glass with the third-best average in the league with 9.2 rpg.

10 FROM 3

For the third time this season and fifth time under Stephanie Glance Columbia netted 10 shots from behind the arc against Fairleigh Dickinson as three Lions combined for the number.

Four Lions combined for that total in the season opener at San Francisco Nov. 14 and in the overtime win against Rhode Island Nov. 24.

GIULIANO SCORING IN BUNCHES

Just 13 games into her Columbia career, Alexa Giuliano averages 9.8 points per game and is currently the third-highest scoring Lion.

Giuliano showed a penchant for scoring in bunches at critical junctures versus San Francisco, Rhode Island and Bradley. The sharpshooter netted a game-high 20 points, including six triples, in the season opener against the Dons. Against the Rams, she sunk a NBA-range buzzer beater to force overtime and followed that performance with 20 points versus the Braves.

DROPPING 30

Tori Oliver continues to prove she's one of the most influential Lions on offense in the past four years as the sophomore has poured in 30 points three times in her career and twice this season. Oliver notched the highest offensive output for a player in Columbia Blue since 1986 at Wagner December 30 when she scored 38 points off a 10-of-18 performance from the field and went 18-of-23 from the line. The 38 points are one shy of Columbia's single-game record by a player, which Ellen Bossert set against New Rochelle Feb. 17, 1986. The 38 points also mark the highest single-game scoring output by an Ivy player since Penn's Alyssa Baron netted 38 against Harvard on Feb. 5, 2011.

The sophomore forward first eclipsed 30 points this season at Stony Brook Nov. 21. Oliver is the first Columbia player to top 30 points in a game since Judie Lomax did so Jan. 23, 2010.

ROOKIE RECOGNITION

Columbia has had a presence in the Ivy League Rookie of the Week awards this season. When Alexa Giuliano picked up her first honor of the season Jan. 5, the Lions set a new program-record of five Rookie of the Week honors, as Camille Zimmerman is a four-time recipient.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

First-year Camille Zimmerman recorded her first career double-double versus Lafayette with 19 points and 11 rebounds. With the performance she became the first Lion to register a double-double since Courtney Bradford '14CC did so against Stony Brook, Jan. 5, 2014.

The Tempe, Arizona, native has tacked on two more double-double efforts this season and in back-to-back outings. First Zimmerman contributed 17 points and 10 rebounds versus UMBC December 5 before notching a 10-point, 12-rebound effort against LIU Brooklyn two days later.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Stephanie Glance and the Lions have improved on their 154-366 (.296) home record early on this season as all four of Columbia's victories came in the friendly confines of Levien Gymnasium.

The Lions started things off inside Levien on a strong note as they downed Lafayette 72-65 to move to 14-15 all-time in the first game of the year played at home.

In 2014-15, Columbia will play nine of its 14 non-conference games at home, only leaving Morningside Heights to visit out of league foes on five occasions including a two-game trip to California.

SHE'S BACK

Miwa Tachibana, who was the Lions staple behind the arc for the past three seasons, entered the fifth contest of the 2014-15 campaign without a single trey to her credit. The senior guard found her stroke from deep

A LOOK AT THE HIGHLANDERS

NJIT is coming off a 59-54 victory over Texas-Pan American, a win that improved Highlanders win streak to three straight and pushed their record to 8-10 on the year. Against Columbia Monday, NJIT opens a four-game Ivy League opponent schedule, facing Harvard, Brown and Penn following the meeting versus the Lions. The Highlanders are the lone independent in Division I basketball, playing no conference schedule.

Senior Alyssa Albanese paces the Highlanders with 10.8 points per game. Leah Horton is close behind with 10.6 points per contest and the sophomore leads NJIT on the glass with 7.1 boards per outing.

In his third season with the Highlanders, head coach Steve Lanpher came to Newark after spending six years with head coach Sharon Dawley, four at the University of Vermont and two at the University of Massachusetts.

against Rhode Island, however, as she sunk her first triple of the season and went on to match her career-high of five three's to finish the night.

WE'RE GOING INTO OVERTIME

The Lions played in their first overtime game in the Stephanie Glance era against Rhode Island Nov. 24. With a 79-69 victory over the Rams, Columbia notched its first win with an extra period since taking down Dartmouth 69-55 in 2009-10.

Two days after playing an extra session contest the Lions did it again versus Bradley to play in the first back-to-back overtime game in program history. More was written in the record books Wednesday as Columbia took down the Braves, 81-74.

GOOD WORK

LET'S GET IT STARTED

Columbia is 14-16 all-time in the first game of the season and 1-1 under the direction of Stephanie Glance. Last season Glance joined Traci Walters as the only two coaches to win their first games as the floor general of the Lions with a 62-59 victory over LIU Brooklyn.

The Lions have opened up its campaign on the road 13 times and has been in the friendly confines of Levien for the season opener 14 times. The Lions have taken the court at a neutral site for the first game of the year on three occasions.

BACK FOR MORE

The Lions return nine letterwinners from last year's squad, including two of their top three scorers in sophomore Tori Oliver (10.8 ppg) and senior Miwa Tachibana (9.6 ppg), who connected on 47 of 133 attempts (.353) behind the arc. Oliver joined senior Amara Mbionwu as Columbia's defensive force on the glass, as the six-foot guard grabbed 5.1 rebounds per game while Mbionwu pulled down 5.7 boards per contest.

Also returning for the Lions are sophomores Carolyn Gallagher and Ara Talkov. Gallagher notched a .433 field goal percentage, while Talkov contributed a 66.7-shooting clip from the charity strip.

NEW FACES IN NEW PLACES

Columbia has welcomed five new faces to the team for 2014-15, the first recruiting class of the Stephanie Glance era. The Lions members of the Class of 2018 include center Jillian Borreson, guards Alexa Giuliano, Kathleen Ryan and Paige Tippet, and forward Camille Zimmerman.

ON THE BENCH

Head coach Stephanie Glance returns for her second season as the head coach of the Columbia women's basketball team. Along with years of coaching experience, Glance brought her five-time assistant coach Sheila Roux who will be on the Lions' sideline as Associate Head Coach this year. Joining Glance's staff for their first seasons is assistant coach Ollin Dunford and former Lion backcourt standout Taylor Ward, who will serve as a volunteer assistant coach.

LEADERS OF THE LIONS

A quartet of has been elected to lead the Lions this season as seniors Campbell Mobley and Miwa Tachibana, junior Sara Mead and sophomore Tori Oliver share the leadership responsibilities.

MATHCES MILESTONES

The 2014-15 season will be historical for the Lions as Columbia will take the court for the 800th time overall when it hosts Kennesaw State Saturday, Nov. 29 and play in its 400th Ivy League contest Saturday, Feb. 7 at Penn.

UNBEATEN

Since women's basketball began at Columbia in 1984-85, the Lions have taken the hardwood against 145 opponents. Columbia has not dropped a game to 32 of its all-time competition to hold an unbeaten record against .221 percent of its all-time foes. This season the Lions will attempt to remain unbeaten against NJIT.

DOUBLE DIP

Columbia's game against Kennesaw State on Nov. 29 and versus Cornell Jan. 17 and 24 will be part of doubleheader, as the Lions' men's team will face American and the Big Red, respectively.

HI, MY NAME IS...

The Lions played three consecutive first-time opponents during 2014-15 with games against Rhode Island (Nov. 24), Bradley (Nov. 26) and UMass Lowell (Dec. 3). Columbia defeated the Rams (79-69) and the Braves (81-74) in overtime, but slipped to the Riverhawks (59-69).

GEOGRAPHY 101

The 17 players comprising the Lions' 2014-15 roster hail from 10 different states: California (3), Arizona (2), New Jersey (2), Texas (2), Virginia (2), Florida (1), Maryland (1), Massachusetts (1) and New York (1).

GLANCE ERA

Stephanie Glance was named the sixth head coach in Columbia women's basketball history on April 1, 2013. Glances came to Columbia with over 25 years of collegiate coaching experience and most recently was the head coach at Illinois State where she led the Red Birds to three consecutive NIT appearances.

HARDWOOD CLASSICS

During the off-season, Columbia Athletics began construction on a brand new gymnasium floor inside Levien Gymnasium. Officially completed on in August, the Lions women's basketball team will have their first crack on the new hardwood on Wednesday, Nov. 19 when it entertains Lafayette at 7 p.m.

#CHILLIN4CHARITY

This summer, the Columbia women's basketball coaching staff was called out by their colleagues from across the country to complete the cold water challenge as part of the #Chillin4Charity fundraiser to support the Kay Yow Foundation.

COMING UP

Columbia embarks on the "14-Game Tournament" when it makes the trip to Ithaca, New York, Saturday, Jan. 17 for a showdown with New York State and Ivy League Rival Cornell. The Lions and Big Red are schedule for a 1 p.m. tip-off live on The Ivy League Digital Network.

Stephanie Glance, a veteran collegiate women's basketball coach and the former head coach at Illinois State University, enters her second season as Columbia University's head women's basketball coach in 2014-15. Dr. M. Dianne Murphy, the Director, Intercollegiate Athletics and Physical Education at Columbia University, named Glance as the Lions head coach on April 1, 2013.

In her first season at Columbia, Glance joined Traci Walters as the only two coaches to win their first game as the floor general of the Lions, with a 62-59 victory over LIU-Brooklyn Nov. 9, 2013. The win also marked the first on opening night for Columbia since 2009-10 when it downed Sacred Heart, 79-55. Glance and the Lions went 6-22 overall and 3-11 against Ivy League opponents in 2013-14.

Glance has more than 25 years of collegiate coaching experience in NCAA Division I. Before venturing to Morningside Heights, she led the Illinois State Redbirds to three consecutive seasons with 19-plus wins, two 24-win seasons, three WNIT appearances and a 67-35 record overall. Prior to her tenure at Illinois State, Glance served one year as the recruiting coordinator and special assistant to head coach Pat Summitt at the University of Tennessee. Glance previously had served as the assistant coach, associate head coach and interim head coach at North Carolina State University of 15 years.

"Stephanie Glance is an outstanding women's basketball coach," Dr. M. Dianne Murphy, Director, Intercollegiate Athletics and Physical Education at Columbia University said. "She brings tremendous experience with a number of impressive mentors, including Hall of Fame coaches Pat Summitt and the late Kay Yow. Stephanie has a demonstrated record of success as an assistant coach, associate head coach and head coach of a NCAA Division I women's basketball program. We know she is the right coach for Columbia."

"As soon as I stepped on campus, I realized how special Columbia University is. Coaching at an elite institution in the greatest city in the world is an amazing opportunity. What excited me the most about this position was that everyone I spoke with had a visible enthusiasm and commitment to the athletics program and for women's basketball program in particular," Glance said. "With Dianne's [Murphy] leadership and the support that is in place here, I know that we can give Columbia University an extremely competitive women's basketball program."

"I must thank Dianne Murphy and President Lee C. Bollinger for this fantastic opportunity," Glance concluded.

Glance started her coaching career as an assistant coach and recruiting coordinator at South Florida from 1988-93 and served as an assistant coach at Southwest Texas State during the 1993-94 season. For the next 15 years Glance served as the associate head coach and recruiting coordinator at North Carolina State University. She helped guide the Wolfpack to record of 285-178 and 11 NCAA Tournament appearances, reaching the Sweet 16 four times and the 1998 Final Four.

While at N.C. State, Glance developed a very close working relationship with head coach Kay Yow, and served as the interim head coach during parts of the 2004-05, 2006-07 and 2008-09 seasons, while the coach battled breast cancer. Glance oversaw all aspects of the Wolfpack program, including player development, game-plan and practice planning, academic development, scheduling, community service and fundraising.

During her time at North Carolina State, Glance was instrumental in the development of 27 All-ACC selections, the 1995 and 1997 ACC Rookies of the Year and the 1999 ACC Player of the Year. Ten players Glance coached at N.C. State went on to play professionally, including eight that were drafted in either the WNBA or ABL.

As recruiting coordinator, Glance was responsible for all aspects of the N.C. State recruiting efforts. She put together 14 recruiting classes that ranked in the top-30 in the nation, including four in the top-10.

She recruited three junior college All-Americans and one JUCO National Player of the Year.

Glance worked with Pat Summitt at Tennessee in 2009-10. She was hired as an assistant to the head coach and was appointed to assistant coach in December. She also served as the Lady Vols' recruiting coordinator. Tennessee went 32-3 that season, won the SEC regular-season and tournament championships and advanced to the Sweet 16 in the NCAA Tournament.

Since she has become a head coach, Glance has been honored twice by various organizations for her excellent work. In 2010-11, she was named the Women's Basketball Coaches' Association (WBCA) Maggie Dixon Division I Rookie Coach of the Year after leading the Illinois State Redbirds to a 24-win season. The next season, after a second-place conference finish in the Missouri Valley Conference (MVC), Glance was named the MVC Women's Basketball Coach of the Year.
