- Columbia hosts its first matchup of the season after opening with two road games for the first time since 1983.
- For the second straight year, Columbia opens its season with a 2-0 record. The Lions are 2-0 for the sixth time since joining the Ivy League in 1956.

ABOUT THE LIONS

The Lions sustained several injuries to key players in a 41-24 win at Central Connecticut State on September 15. The Lions recovered three fumbles, limited their opponents to 45 yards rushing and used a three-quarterback system to register a convincing win over the Blue Devils in their season opener. In week two, Columbia limited the Hoyas to 25 yards rushing and Chris Alleyne kicked three field goals as the Lions captured the Lou Little Trophy for the second straight season with a 23-15 win at Georgetown.

Columbia is also coming off one of its most successful seasons in school history in 2017 under head coach Al Bagnoli. The Lions return 14 of 22 starters (seven on offense and seven on defense) and six All-Ivy League selections from a program that recorded its best season in 21 years. Last year, Columbia posted an 8-2 record, finished second in the Ivy League with a 5-2 record, began a season with six straight wins for the first time since 1996, put together the school's longest win streak since 1935 (seven games) and posted one of the nation's top-five best yearly comebacks in the FCS with a five-win improvement from 2016 to 2017.

THE COLUMBIA WIN...

- Gave Columbia the rights to take home the Lou Little Trophy for the second consecutive season. The Lions improved to 4-2 all-time vs. Georgetown in a series dating back to 1901. Columbia and Georgetown are now tied at 2-2 since the rivalry became the Lou Little Cup in 2015.

- Gave Columbia the opportunity to complete a second straight 3-0 non-conference record. The Lions host Marist for their final non-conference game on Oct. 6. Last year Columbia completed its non-conference schedule with a 3-0 record for the first time since 2006.
- Gave Columbia its fourth consecutive victory following 2017 season-ending wins at Cornell (18-8) and Brown (24-6) and a season-opening win at Central Connecticut State (41-24).

AL BAGNOLI

PATRICIA AND SHEPARD ALEXANDER HEAD COACH OF FOOTBALL
4TH SEASON | CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE '75

Nine-time Ivy League Football Champion and one of the all-time winningest head coaches in NCAA Football Championship Subdivision history, Al Bagnoli was named Columbia's Patricia and Shepard Alexander Head Coach of Football on February 23, 2015. He begins his fourth season at Columbia in 2018.

After only three years and three consecutive top-25 nationally ranked recruiting classes, Bagnoli and his coaching staff have Columbia Football trending upward.

Last year, Bagnoli guided Columbia to its best season since 1996 as the Lions accumulated an 8-2 record and finished second in the Ivy League with a 5-2 campaign. For the first time in 21 years, Columbia was involved in the Ivy League Championship chase up until the season's final minutes. In addition, Columbia began a season with six straight wins for the first time since 1996, put together the school's longest winning streak since 1935 (seven games) and posted one of the nation's top-five best yearly comebacks in the FCS with a five-win improvement from 2016 to 2017. Along the way, it was the Lions' resiliency, toughness and work ethic that captured the attention of their fans, the New York City media and national media members alike. For his efforts, Bagnoli was named a national Coach of the Year finalist by the AFCA and STATS FCS and earned the Ivy League, ECAC and AFCA Region 1 Coach of the Year honors.

Nationally known for his ability to turn football programs into winners, Bagnoli arrived at Columbia after 23 years at the University of Pennsylvania, where he totaled a 148-80 overall record and 112-49 record in the Ivy League. His Penn teams won nine Ivy League Championships, including six undefeated conference marks (1993, 1994, 2002,

Prior to his time at Penn, Bagnoli served as the head coach of Union College in Schenectady, New York, where he amassed an 87-18 overall record in 10 seasons. Bagnoli made his collegiate head coaching debut at Union College in 1982, guiding the Dutchmen to their first winning season in 12 years with an 8-1 record. The following season, Bagnoli guided the program to an NCAA Division III title-game appearance and a 10-2 record, garnering East Region Coach of the Year honors.

The Dutchmen were named the ECAC's Team of the Year for the 1983 campaign. Union reached the NCAA playoffs six times and posted 10-consecutive winning seasons during Bagnoli's tenure in Schenectady. In 1989, Bagnoli guided the Dutchmen to the program's greatest season ever, rolling to a 10-0 regular-season record and three-straight NCAA playoff victories en route to the NCAA Division III National Championship game (Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl). Two years later, Bagnoli received the Eastman Kodak Award as the American Football Coaches Association Region I Coach of the Year. Bagnoli's 1991 Union team had the nation's top scoring offense, averaging 46.1 points per game, while his 1984 squad boasted the top defense, allowing a measly 4.6 points per game. Before being named head coach of the Dutchmen, Bagnoli served as Union's defensive coordinator from 1978-82.

Bagnoli is a two-time recipient (1993 and 1994) of the Scotty Whitelaw Award as the NCAA Division I-AA Coach of the Year, voted upon by the Metropolitan New York Football Writers Association.

His coaching career began while he was pursuing his master's degree in educational administration from the University of Albany. He served as a graduate assistant coach for one season before becoming Albany's defensive coordinator from 1976-77.

Bagnoli earned a bachelor's degree in physical education and history from Central Connecticut State in 1975. During his undergrad years, he played three seasons of varsity football. Central Connecticut State's record during that span was 23-5.

LEE C. BOLLINGER

PRESIDENT

Lee C. Bollinger became Columbia University's nineteenth president in 2002. Under his leadership, Columbia stands again at the very top rank of great research universities, distinguished by comprehensive academic excellence, historic institutional development, an innovative and sustainable approach to global engagement, and unprecedented levels of alumni involvement and financial stability.

President Bollinger is Columbia's first Seth Low Professor of the University, a member of the Columbia Law School faculty, and one of the country's foremost First Amendment scholars. Each fall semester, he teaches "Freedom of Speech and Press" to Columbia undergraduate and graduate students. His next book, The Free Speech Century, co-edited with Geoffrey R. Stone, will be published in the fall of 2018 by Oxford University Press.

As president of the University of Michigan, Bollinger led the school's historic litigation in Grutter v. Bollinger and Gratz v. Bollinger, U.S. Supreme Court decisions that upheld and clarified the importance of diversity as a compelling justification for affirmative action in higher education. He speaks and writes frequently about the value of racial, cultural, and socioeconomic diversity to American society through opinion columns, media interviews, and public appearances around the country and across the world. Columbia remains one of the most diverse universities among its peer institutions and has seen the number of applicants to Columbia College and the selectivity of admissions at the school reach record levels.

As Columbia's president, Bollinger conceived and led the University's most ambitious expansion in over a century with the creation of the Manhattanville campus in West Harlem, the first campus plan in the nation to receive the U.S. Green Building Council's highest certification for sustainable development. An historic community benefits agreement emerging from the city and state review process for the new campus provides Columbia's local neighborhoods with decades of investment in the community's health, education, and economic growth. The first two buildings, the Jerome L. Greene Science Center and the Lenfest Center for the Arts, opened in the spring of 2017. The third, the Forum, which hosts conferences, meetings, and symposia, opens in September of 2018.

Bollinger's commitment to excellence in architecture is evident across Columbia's campuses, from Renzo Piano's master plan for Manhattanville, to the recently opened Roy and Diana Vagelos Education Center at Columbia University Irving Medical Center, designed by Diller Scofidio + Renfro, to Rafael Moneo's design for the Northwest Corner Building on the historic Morningside campus, to the Campbell Sports Center at Baker Field designed by Steven Holl.

Among Bollinger's signal achievements are the development of a network of eight Columbia Global Centers on four continents and the creation of new venues on the University's home campus supporting global conversations and scholarship, including the World Leaders Forum and the Committee on Global Thought.

From November 1996 to 2002, Bollinger was president of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, where he also served as a law professor and dean of the law school.

He is a fellow of both the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society. He is widely published on legal and constitutional issues involving free speech and press, and his books include: Uninhibited, Robust, and Wide-Open: A Press for a New Century; Eternally Vigilant: Free Speech in the Modern Era; Images of a Free Press; and The Tolerant Society: Freedom of Speech and Extremist Speech in America.

Bollinger has received the National Humanitarian Award from the National Conference for Community and Justice and the National Equal Justice Award from the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund for his leadership on affirmative action. He also received the Clark Kerr Award, the highest award conferred by the faculty of the University of California, Berkeley, for his service to higher education, especially on matters of freedom of speech and diversity. He is the recipient of 10 honorary degrees from universities in this country and abroad.

Bollinger is a director of Graham Holdings Company (formerly The Washington Post Company) and serves as a member of the Pulitzer Prize Board. From 2007 to 2012, he was director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, where he also served as from chair from 2010 to 2012.

After graduating from the University of Oregon and Columbia Law School, where he was an Articles Editor of Columbia Law Review, Bollinger served as law clerk for Judge Wilfred Feinberg on the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit and for Chief Justice Warren Burger on the United States Supreme Court. He joined the University of Michigan Law School faculty in 1973.

Bollinger was born in Santa Rosa, California and raised there and in Baker, Oregon. He is married to artist Jean Magnano Bollinger, and they have two children and five grandchildren.

PETER PILLING

CAMPBELL FAMILY DIRECTOR OF INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS & PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Peter Pilling was introduced as Columbia University's Campbell Family Director of Intercollegiate Athletics and Physical Education in February 2015 after serving as vice president at IMG College for nine years. Pilling is Columbia's seventh athletic director since the position became full-time in 1931.

With a family-oriented emphasis and focus, Pilling enters his fourth full academic year at the helm of a Columbia Intercollegiate Athletics Department which features 31 varsity sports, serves more than 750 student-athletes and boasts over 140 years of athletics tradition. His vision of "Victories in the Classroom, Victories in Competition and Victories in Life" has provided the foundation for Columbia Athletics and serves as its guiding principle.

During Pilling's first three years at Columbia, the Lions have claimed five team national championships (2017 archery compound; 2016 fencing, 2016 lightweight rowing, 2018 lightweight rowing, 2018 archery compound), four individual national championships (Jake Hoyle, 2016 men's fencing/foil; Osama Khalifa, 2017 men's squash; Bianca Gotuaco, 2017 archery; Iman Blow, 2018 women's fencing/foil), 12 Ivy League team championships, 41 individual conference or Ivy League titles, along with the 2016 CollegenInsider.com postseason basketball tournament championship.

Under Pilling's guidance, the 2017-18 academic year ranked among the most successful in the 150-year history of Columbia Athletics. Columbia captured two national team titles (2018 men's lightweight rowing, 2018 archery compound) and one individual national title (Iman Blow, women's fencing), won a school-best seven Ivy League titles and secured its highest-ever finish in the national Learfield Directors Cup standings. In addition, 23 student-athletes earned All-America honors, eight student-athletes were named the Ivy League Player or Performer of the Year in their respective sports, six coaches garnered Ivy League Coach of the Year honors, three teams earned No. 1 national rankings, 10 programs earned top-25 national rankings, eight teams advanced to NCAA Championship events and eight teams finished either in first or second place in the Ivy League standings or championship event.

Columbia student-athletes have also achieved in the classroom as 155 student-athletes attained a perfect 4.0 term grade point average, 941 student-athletes earned Dean's List honors and posted a cumulative 3.30 grade point average over that span. In addition, 98 percent of all graduating 2016 and 2017 student-athletes either secured employment, enrolled in graduate school and/or completed training while securing employment with firms such as Goldman Sachs, Unilever, Morgan Stanley, MSNBC, JP Morgan Chase and Northwestern Mutual.

On the facilities front, Pilling oversaw and directed the creation of the Bubble at Baker, an air-supported structure which is placed over Rocco B. Commisso Soccer Stadium and enables Columbia student-athletes a much-needed indoor practice facility during the winter months of November through March. The Bubble at Baker opened in January 2017. Pilling has also overseen the development and evaluation process of revitalizing Dodge Fitness Center on Columbia's campus.

In November 2016, he introduced a new branding and recruiting initiative #OnlyHere, which focuses on the assortment of advantages to the Columbia student-athlete. #OnlyHere emphasizes Columbia's extraordinary location in New York City, unparalleled academic and career opportunities, an elite-level athletic performance program and a "built to win" foundation in facilities and personnel.

In June 2017, Pilling unveiled a new multimedia agreement with national marketing giants JMI Sports and IMG for Columbia Athletics, a contract which provides valuable national and international brand exposure and recognition to the University community and New York City, while also providing for an even greater experience for student-athletes. In July 2018, Columbia also unveiled

LIONS SHINE IN PRIMETIME

Columbia has played some of its most thrilling games in “primetime” and is 4-3 all-time in home night contests. Lights were first installed when Lawrence A. Wien Stadium was built in 1983. However, it was not until Sept. 16, 2000 that a varsity football game was played under those lights. Columbia has played one other “home” football game under the lights, at Giants Stadium against Penn in 1983 – one of the two home games played at the Meadowlands while Wien Stadium was being constructed.

September 16, 2000 Fordham 22, Columbia 43

- Junior tailback Johnathon Reese led the Columbia rushing attack with 180 yards on 33 carries finding the end zone twice. Reese also made noise on his two returns totaling 76 yards. Overall, Reese finished the game with 267 all-purpose yards.
- Jeff McCall got the passing game going for the Lions connecting with Doug Peck five times for 88 yards and a touchdown, while also completing four passes to Jar-el Cockburn for 71 yards and two touchdowns.
- The Lions had to rally from a 26-21 half-time deficit, getting some help from their defense. Philip Murray made several contributions including two second-half interceptions and a fumble recovery. He also led the Lions defense with 11 total tackles on the day.

COLUMBIA SINGS ROAR, LION, ROAR AFTER TOPPING WAGNER UNDER THE LIGHTS IN 2015.

September 21, 2002 Fordham 11, Columbia 13

- Nick Rudd’s 37-yard field goal with 10 seconds left gave Columbia the win in the battle for the first-ever Liberty Cup.
- The Lions held a 10-0 lead at the half, but a Rams safety sparked the visiting team, who capitalized on a 54-yard touchdown pass and a field goal to take the lead in the fourth quarter.
- Columbia initial go-ahead field goal try was blocked with 2:38 remaining, but the Lions’ defense forced a three-and-out to give the offense one more try.

- On 4th and 10, quarterback Steve Hunsberger connected with Steve Cargile for a gain of 30 to keep the drive alive and put the Lions in field goal range.

September 27, 2003 Bucknell 16, Columbia 19

- Columbia struck first early in the second quarter when Ayo Oluwole scored from one yard out. Minutes later, Jeff Otis connected with Wade Fletcher on a 31-yard passing touchdown.
- Holding a 12-0 lead with ten minutes to play in the first half, the Bison scored 16 unanswered points to take the lead in the fourth quarter.

CAPTAINS CORNER

Prior to each home game, GoColumbiaLions.com is catching up with senior captains Landon Baty, Kyle Castner, Mike Hinton and Markham Paukune for a weekly podcast, which will give fans an inside look at the 2018 Lions. The podcast will be made available on Wednesdays leading up to game day. Visit www.gocolumbialions.tv to hear the first episode in its entirety.

Looking back at the Central Connecticut State win.

Baty: Any time you lose a first team All-Ivy League receiver and your starting quarterback and backup running back, it's going to take its toll. But we had some guys step up this week (against Georgetown) and all camp we've been preaching our depth is our biggest strength. It's a testament to (how far) this program (has come). It's awesome to see young guys step up and fill the void.

The difference going from week one to week two.

Castner: Coach Bagnoli talked about the transition from week one to week two will be our biggest improvement. We worked really hard during the week of practice, especially with the guys being out and adversity hitting us. We really had to focus on doing our jobs and paying attention to what the coaches were telling us and focus on the goal. And that's to win every game, even if it's not really what we want it to look like.

On the play of the defensive line at Georgetown.

Hinton: It's awesome to see a lot of the young cats getting into the game and making big plays as soon as they step on the field. I think (defensive line coach Darin) Edwards does a great job of teaching us that when your moment comes, take advantage of it. So having a kid like Ogonna (Oraedu) make the game-winning play is great to see because he worked so hard all through camp.

On the emergence of Lynnard Rose and Dante Miller.

Paukune: They're both special running backs. They complement each other really well and bring different things to the table. A lot of times, they've been making plays for themselves. I think we have so much room to improve though, working out the little fine details on the offensive line to open up those holes. If we make some space for those guys, they can make plays for us this year.

On the play of the quarterbacks.

Castner: We're really proud of the young guys. I think they're trusting the process and trusting what (quarterback coach Ricky) Santos is teaching them. Each week is a stepping stone and learning experience for all of them. To be able to have three guys come in and get playing time is good for the whole offense. To know that if one guy goes down and another one can hop in is good for everyone. As a receiver, being able to trust these guys is what they need the most and we have all the confidence in them.

How special is winning these trophy games?

Hinton: It's a great feeling. Coach Bagnoli always talks about collecting hardware. As a team, you want to keep collecting until you get that (ring) on your finger. So, winning the Lou Little Trophy and bringing it back to Columbia says a lot for this program and where it's headed.

What's the excitement level for the home opener on national television?

Paukune: It's going to be huge for this program, especially coming off the game last year, which had such a dramatic ending. Both teams are 2-0 and favorites in the Ivy League. It should be a fun, physical matchup.

How does playing on Friday change your preparation?

Castner: It quickens the process. It says a lot about the team and about the leaders to be able to come off a game Saturday and come back the next day to get a practice in. Having that fast process, that quick back-to-back is something we have to focus on. It's one less day, but Princeton has one less day too. It's something that we're ready for and we're excited for Friday night.

What challenges does Princeton's offense present to the defense?

Hinton: (Defensive coordinator Paul) Ferraro says Princeton will probably throw the most formations at us this year. It just comes down to preparation. As a defense, we have to step up and do the little things, like make sure watch extra film on our own. We really have to take practice more seriously because it's that much more information to take in. Their offensive line is pretty quick, so they're able to do a lot of different things. They do things that we haven't seen yet, so we have to play our keys right and we'll be okay.

ROBERT K. KRAFT FIELD AT LAWRENCE A. WIEN STADIUM

Located on the banks of the Hudson and Harlem Rivers and within Columbia University's 27-acre Baker Athletic Complex, Robert K. Kraft Field at Lawrence A. Wien Stadium (pronounced WEEN) is the cornerstone of an impressive collection of facilities for Columbia Football. One of the most modern football stadiums on the East Coast featuring beautiful views of the Hudson River and fall foliage from adjacent Inwood Hill Park, Robert K. Kraft Field at Lawrence A. Wien Stadium was described by Sports Illustrated as "one of the most beautiful places in the country to watch a football game."

In its fourth decade as the official Lions' Den, Robert K. Kraft Field at Lawrence A. Wien Stadium seats 17,000 and is home to Columbia's football and women's lacrosse teams. The stadium, which opened in 1984, also boasts a 400-meter outdoor track and is utilized by Columbia's other outdoor varsity sports. It is the largest multi-purpose stadium on the island of Manhattan and the only regulation-sized football stadium with a capacity of 10,000 or more in Manhattan.

A brand-new FieldTurf artificial playing surface was installed at Wien Stadium during the summer of 2015. The Lions practice and compete on FieldTurf, the same infill system used by many NFL teams. FieldTurf was first installed at the stadium in 2005 replacing AstroTurf.

In October 2007, Columbia announced that the playing field at Lawrence A. Wien Stadium would be named Robert K. Kraft Field in honor of Robert Kraft '63CC, owner of the New England Patriots and Chairman and CEO of the Kraft Group.

Dressing facilities for teams, coaches and officials are located within Chrystie Field House, while the coaches' offices, team meeting rooms, conference rooms and fully equipped training facility are located at the Campbell Sports Center, which opened in January 2013.

BUBBLE AT BAKER

Each winter from December through March, Columbia varsity sports teams have access to a brand-new indoor winter practice facility as the University officially opened its Seasonal Air-Supported Structure (SASS) at Rocco B. Comisso Soccer Stadium. Located at Columbia's Baker Athletics Complex, the Bubble at Baker is a 92,000-square foot, heated air-supported dome enclosing Rocco B. Comisso Soccer Stadium. The facility also features a brand-new FieldTurf Revolution 360 playing surface. All seven of Columbia's field sports teams housed at the Baker Athletics Complex (football, men's soccer, women's soccer, baseball, softball, field hockey and lacrosse) receive access to the new indoor practice facility.

92% reaches the kids. 100% reaches your heart.

When 92% of each dollar goes directly to programs, you are making some child's life more bearable.

When you take their minds off pain and refocus it on adventure, they suddenly realize there's more to life than illness.

When you help build, donate or equip retreat and hospital housing for these children, you speed their recovery and restore some sense of normalcy to shattered families.

When kids believe in tomorrow they are that much closer to having one.
