THE HARVARD-YALE RIVALRY

It was the first rivalry in all of college athletics. Today, 166 years later, Harvard-Yale still stands as one of the best series in the world of sports.

These schools are familiar with being first and foremost. Yale fields 35 varsity sports and Harvard has 42, the most of any Division I school in the nation.

Harvard teams have won 143 national titles in sports ranging from crew to football and lacrosse to fencing. Yale has 107 national titles to its credit, including several in football, swimming and diving, squash and golf.

The schools have combined to capture 617 Ivy League championships (Harvard 415, Yale 202) since the circuit was formed in 1956 and combined to win 15 League titles in 2016-17 with Harvard claiming 11.

Former Harvard football coach Joe Restic, who guided the Crimson for 23 seasons until his retirement in 1993, quipped, "Each year, we're friends for 364 days and rivals for just one." While he was primarily assessing his relationship with his legendary Yale counterpart Carm Cozza, those words apply across the board.

Harvard-Yale is as much a debate as it is a feud. Think Lincoln-Douglas, not Hatfield-McCoy, though it should be noted the two schools jousted some eight years before the 1860 presidential candidates squared off on opposite podiums. In politics, the last four U.S. presidents have earned a combined five degrees from Harvard and Yale. Twelve presidents have earned a combined 13 degrees from Harvard and Yale. In all, a high of five U.S. presidents did their undergrad at Harvard (compared to three at Yale), and three earned graduate degrees at Harvard (compared to two at Yale).

Yet a rivalry doesn't grow in stature by accident. Both schools have played major roles in starting, advancing and shaping college athletics.

In 1843, Yale started the first college boat club in America; in 1884, Eli runner Charles Sherrill first demonstrated the four-point crouch for sprinters; in 1890, Yale introduced "cheerleaders" at a football game, a first in college sports; in 1896, the first intercollegiate ice hockey game featured Yale and Johns Hopkins (a 2-2 tie); and in 1897, Yale men's basketball played in the country's first 5-on-5 game.

Harvard, founded in 1636, has the distinction of being the nation's first college. Among its athletics firsts are: in 1877, the first baseball catcher's mask was used in a Harvard game, a fencing mask adapted by inventor Fred Thayer for Alexander Tyng; in 1896, Harvard freshman James B. Connolly became the first gold medalist of the modern Olympics (winning the hop, hop and jump); in 1901, women's field hockey was first introduced to America on the Harvard (Radcliffe) campus; in 1903, Harvard Stadium, the nation's oldest football stadium, was built; in 1905, Harvard played in the first intercollegiate soccer match (falling to Haverford, 1-0); and in 1947, Chester Pierce '48 became the first African-American footballer to play against a white college in the South when the Crimson met the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

The football rivalry, however, is arguably the most revered. Harvard and Yale have met 132 times on the gridiron since November 13, 1875 in New Haven (a 4-0 Harvard win). The series is the third-most-played in college football history and is now referenced around the country simply as "The Game." And, while combining for 18 national championships and 32 Ivy crowns, the annual contest still attracts sellout crowds to Cambridge and over 50,000 fans to the Bowl in New Haven.

Yet it was football that nearly splintered relations between these two schools. In 1894, following a game known as the "Springfield Massacre" when seven players were carried off the field in "dying condition," Harvard and Yale broke off relations. Each blamed the other for the contest's unprecedented brutality.

Historian George Sullivan wrote, "So savage was combat on a neutral Springfield gridiron ... that newspapers printed a casualty summary similar to those listing victims of a disaster. The game's violence appalled the world and ignited a national uproar about football ferocity-outrage that threatened the sport's future."

And the rivalry's as well. The schools didn't meet in football for two seasons, while the baseball, crew and track and field teams avoided each other for one. But the allure of competition was too great, and by 1897, the schools were back at it. Harvard's student newspaper, The Crimson, welcomed the resumption: "forgetting the past and resolving a generous open-handed rivalry for the future, Harvard joins hands with Yale and welcomes her heartily and joyfully to her old place as Harvard's nearest and dearest foe."

By 1898, the football game had relocated to its now-familiar and permanent perch as the final one on each school's docket.

Football has also generated the most lore. The notorious flying wedge, the brainchild of Harvard assistant Lorin Deland, was introduced in the 1892 H-Y game. Harvard coach Percy Haughton is purported to have choked a bulldog to fire up his troops for the 1908 game (although just a story, whatever he did worked as the Crimson won 4-0). In 1923, Yale's T.A.D. Jones told his players, "Gentlemen, you are now going out to play football against Harvard. Never again in your whole life will you do anything so important."

The 1930s had the majestic Barry Wood (Harvard)-Albie Booth (Yale) battles. It was also the era when a Harvard illustrator drew a game program cover of a pilgrim unceremoniously sitting on Yale's famous captain's fence. Some Eli alums were so outraged that a suspension of the series was briefly discussed, before cooler heads prevailed (Harvard's 1995 football captain, Justin Frantz, became the first Harvard athlete invited to sit on the fence, and his picture with Yale captain Tony Mazurkiewicz graced that year's program).

The 1952 Game is remembered for the "ultimate insult" when Yale's football team manager, Charlie Yeager, was put in the game to catch a two-point conversion that culminated a 41-14 Eli blowout at the Stadium. More than half a century

Perhaps the best-known two-point conversion in college football history, Pete Varney brings in Frank Chiampi's pass in the end zone in Harvard's 29-29 'win' against Yale in 1968.

A crowd of roughly 57,000 was on hand at Harvard Stadium for the 1913 edition of The Game.

later, that one still hurts.

Harvard's 1968 "win" over Yale is still rated as one of the top college football games ever played. Both schools entered The Game owning identical 8-0 records, but Yale appeared well on its way to victory and a perfect season as thousands silently streamed out of The Stadium as the clock counted down. That's before Harvard miraculously scored 16 points in the final 42 seconds to "defeat" the Elis, 29-29. An extra edition of The Crimson, issued just five minutes after the final gun, carried the now famous headline, "HARVARD BEATS YALE, 29-29." Some joke that Harvard's greatest "win" was actually a tie, but none of those people were wearing Crimson that afternoon.

Another memorable day came in 1982, when a group of MIT frat boys exploded a balloon out of the Stadium turf — at midfield, no less — during Harvard's 45-7 triumph.

More recently, Yale rallied to win successive thrillers in 1998, 1999 and 2000. Harvard has had the edge through the early 21st century, however, as the Crimson won five straight against the Bulldogs from 2001-05 and an unprecedented nine-consecutive from 2007-2015. The 2005 Game immediately joined the ranks of the greatest in the history of the series as the Crimson rallied to force overtime before prevailing, 30-24, in the third extra session of one of the longest games in Ivy League history.

Another memorable moment was written in 2007 when the teams met at Yale Bowl in front of 57,248 fans with the Bulldogs ranked 11th and Harvard 25th. The teams were undefeated in Ivy play, marking just the fourth time in league history that two unbeaten teams had met in the final game of the year.

For Yale, a victory would also mean its first 10-0 season in 47 years and its first outright league championship in 26. Instead, the previously 9-0 Bulldogs were whipped, 37-6, marking Harvard's most lopsided victory at the Yale Bowl since a 35-6 win in 1959. Had it not been for a late punt return for a touchdown by the Eli's, Harvard would have had its most uneven victory since a 36-0 victory in 1914.

In 2008, Harvard limited Yale to just 90 yards of offense on a bone-chilling day at the Stadium as Harvard, which finished ranked 14th nationally, cruised to a 10-0 win. The victory gave Harvard its second-straight Ivy championship and would mark the final game for Yale coach Jack Siedlecki.

In 2009, Harvard came away victorious by scoring two late touchdowns in a 14-10 thriller. With Yale leading 10-0 late in the fourth, Harvard drove 76 yards on six plays in just 1:50 to make it 10-7. Yale got the ball back and moved the ball to its own 37 as the clock crept down. Yale eventually found itself in fourth-and-22 yard from its 25 yard line at 2:40 on the clock. With the league's best punter in Tom Mante back to punt, new Yale coach Tom Williams instead called an improbable reverse run on a fake punt. John Powers was painfully stopped seven yards shy, giving Harvard the ball at Yale's 40 yard line with 2:25 as a stunned Yale crowd looked on. It took Harvard just three plays to devastate the crowd again as Chris Lorditch took a seam pass from QB Collier Winters for a 32 yard TD, giving Harvard a 14-10 victory sealed moments later by linebacker Jon Takamura's interception.

In 2010, Marco Iannuzzi's 84 yard kickoff return for a touchdown to start the second half sparked the Crimson to a 28-21 victory.

In 2011, Harvard piled up more than 500 yards of offense and scored 45 unanswered points to win its sixth-straight game at Yale Bowl by a lopsided 45-7 margin. A missed chip-shot field goal was Harvard's only negative but placekicker David Mothander shared in the fun as well as he ran for a TD on a fake field goal before the half.

During the 2012 addition of The Game, Crimson running back Treavor Scales rushed for 177 yards, while quarterback Colton Chapple threw for 209 yards and ran for another 128, as the Crimson knocked off the Elis, 34-24, for a program record sixth-straight time.

Harvard continued the winning streak in 2013, as Paul Stanton, Jr., scored four touchdowns (two rushing, two receiving) in a 34-7 win at the Yale Bowl. Stanton, who tied Harvard record for TDs in the game (Eddie Mahan '16, 1915), helped the Crimson clinch a share of the Ancient Eight title.

In the 2014 version of the rivalry, the Crimson put an exclamation point on a perfect season by topping Yale, 31-24, to finish 10-0 and 7-0 in the Ivy League to grab its second-straight conference crown. Harvard also played host to ESPN's College GameDay, attracting more than 1.9 million viewers nationwide for the premiere college football show.

Justice Shelton-Mosley scored three touchdowns, two receiving and one on the ground, and Scott Hosch tosses four TDs, as the Crimson defeated Yale, 38-19, to earn its ninth-straight victory over its archrival in 2015. With the win, Harvard collected its 17th Ivy title and ninth under head coach Tim Murphy.

All About The Game

135 And Counting
With its 135th playing this year, the Harvard-Yale rivalry is the third-most played series in college football. Only Lehigh-Lafayette (153 meetings) and Princeton-Yale (141) have played more often.

Instant Classic
Harvard's 30-24 triple-overtime win in 2005 stands as one of the longest football games in Ivy League history.

The Last In Line
In every formal season since 1898, Harvard's final opponent has been Yale. There is only one exception, as the 1919 campaign was completed with a 7-6 Rose Bowl victory over Oregon. Harvard got there with a 10-3 decision over the Elis.

Double Duty
Wayne Johnson, Jr. (Harvard A.B. '44, L.L. B. 48) is the only player to have lettered for both Harvard and Yale in football. In 1942, Johnson played fullback for the Crimson and, against Yale, dropped a critical pass in a 7-3 defeat to the Elis. Soon after, he joined the Marines, where the Corps assigned him to Yale in a program that permitted undergrads to continue their studies while preparing for a commission. He played just one game for the Elis before an injury ended his season but was still awarded a letter.

Home Field Advantage?
Harvard is 26-23-1 at the Yale Bowl and 26-26-3 at Harvard Stadium; The visiting team has won 16 of the last 28 Games.

LORE & MORE: THE HARVARD-YALE RIVALRY

• With its 135th game today, the Harvard-Yale rivalry is the third-most played series in all of college football. Only Lehigh-Lafayette (153 meetings) and Princeton-Yale (141) have played more often. Harvard and Yale first met in football Nov. 13, 1875, at Hamilton Field in New Haven, Conn.

• Harvard won its first national football championship in 1890 with a season-ending 12-6 victory over Yale.

• The 1894 Game was so brutal that the schools called off relations for the next two years. Seven players were carried off the field in "dying" condition. Yale won the contest, 12-4.

• The series pits the first- and second-most winning teams in the Division I Championship Subdivision against each other. Coming into today's contest, Yale has 903 wins to rank first, while Harvard's 869 wins are second.

• Little Red Flag is a Harvard pennant that has been waved following every Crimson score in The Game since 1884. Carried by Harvard's "most loyal fan," it is currently in the possession of William Markus '60, a resident of Pittsburgh who nonetheless attends every Harvard football game, home and away.

• Harvard's and Yale's fight songs both refer to the other school. The Crimson's song, "Ten Thousand Men of Harvard," features the line, "So then we'll conquer old Eli's men, and when the game ends, we'll sing again." Yale's song, "Down the Field," concludes with, "Harvard's team may fight to the end, but Yale will win."

• The most famous Game in the series is Harvard's 29-29 "win" in 1968. Holding a 29-13 lead in the final minute, Yale was poised to complete a perfect season, but the host Crimson scored 16 points in the final 42 seconds. The last points came on a two-point conversion with no time left, leaving both teams with 8-0-1 records. Actor Tommy Lee Jones '69 was an All-America offensive tackle for the Crimson that season.

• The 2005 Game became one of the most famous matchup in the last 30 years. It is the only Harvard-Yale game decided in overtime, and stands as the first triple-overtime game in Ivy League history. The Crimson trailed, 21-3, in the second half before staging its greatest come-from-behind win in series history, and ultimately prevailed, 30-24, when Clifton Dawson rushed for a touchdown.

• In every formal season since 1898, Harvard's final opponent has been Yale. There is only one exception, as the 1919 campaign was completed with a 7-6 Rose Bowl victory over Oregon. Harvard got there with a 10-3 decision over the Elis.

• Harvard is 26-23-1 at the Yale Bowl and 26-26-3 at Harvard Stadium; The visiting team has won 16 of the last 28 Games in the series.

THE NUMBERS GAME: THE HARVARD-YALE RIVALRY

-10: Wind-chill factor during the 1987 Game in New Haven, when Harvard iced Yale in a 14-10 thriller for the Ivy League crown and an 8-2 overall record.

0: Number of Harvard varsity letters awarded in 1897. That's because Crimson players, disgusted by their performance in that season's 0-0 deadlock with Yale at Soldiers Field, voted not to accept their coveted H's.

2: Number of times MIT pranksters covertly tried to disrupt The Game with Stadium hijinks. In 1948, explosives were planted beneath midfield which they planned to blow up before kickoff — to inscribe giant "MIT" letters on the gridiron (and make a lasting impression on 57,495 in the stands). That twisted stunt was discovered and defused, but another neighborly gesture wasn't in 1982. Techsters interrupted action after a second-quarter Harvard score — a large black weather balloon marked "MIT" suddenly rising from the turf at midfield, inflating and exploding in a cloud of smoke during the Crimson's 45-7 blowout win.

3: Number of overtime periods in the 2005 Game, which stands as the first triple overtime Ivy League game on record. With dusk falling on New Haven, a 2-yard touchdown run by Clifton Dawson '07 in the third overtime gave Harvard its fifth straight series win, 30-24.

4: Number of turnovers forced by Harvard's defense — all after the start of the fourth quarter — to spark the Crimson's come-from-behind victory in the 2005 Game.
