THE OPENING FACEOFF

The Harvard women's hockey team will return to close out the 40th annual women's Beanpot Tournament in the consolation final against Northeastern on Feb. 13 at 4:30 p.m. The game will be broadcast live on ESPN3. The women's Beanpot ranks as the longest running women's tournament in all of college sports, making its debut in 1979 at Northeastern's Historic Matthews Arena. For years, this battle for Boston bragging rights was dominated by Northeastern and Harvard, but the prominence of women's hockey continues to grow and there is parity across the sport and the Beanpot like never before.

QUICK HITS

Harvard is 48-30-1 all-time in Beanpot games and 32-14-1 under head coach Katey Stone.

Harvard is 21-25-3 all-time versus Northeastern and 14-18-0 against the Huskies in Beanpot games.

The Crimson won seven straight Beanpot titles from 1999-2005.

On the current roster, senior captain Haley Mullins ranks as the leading Beanpot scorer, with two goals and three assists for five points. Kate Hallett, Kat Hughes, Chelsea Ziadie, Beth Larcom and Ali Peper have also marked the scoresheet in Beanpot contests. In last week's opening round games, Brooke Jovanovich and Emma Buckles notched their first career Beanpot points.

The last time Harvard won the Beanpot was in 2015. The Crimson defeated No. 1/1 Boston College 3-2 at the Bright Landry Hockey Center.

Harvard has outscored Beanpot opponents 331-210 all-time, 74-42 at Conte Forum

ABOUT LAST WEEKEND

The Harvard women's hockey team celebrated Senior Day with a 5-2 win over Rensselaer and a guaranteed playoff spot on Saturday afternoon at the Bright-Landry Hockey Center. Following the victory, the Crimson honored the graduating class of Nikki Friesen, Dani Krzyszczyk, Haley Mullins and Chelsea Ziadie for its contributions and dedication to the Harvard Hockey program.

Harvard's second line continued to blaze through the competition, racking up 10 points in Saturday's contest after collecting six points yesterday. Becca Gilmore put together her second four-point outing of the season and is now ranked 17th among all Division I players, averaging 1.04 points per game on nine goals and 17 assists for 27 points in 26 games. Sophomore Kat Hughes tallied two goals and an assist and finished with a team-high +4 rating in today's contest, improving her weekend stat line to 3-2-5 (+6), including the game-winning goal in back-to-back outings. Brooke Jovanovich opened scoring for the Crimson today, and went on to add assists on two of her linemates' goals after contributing helpers on two of Harvard's three goals against Union on Friday.

Multi-point efforts from four different players led the Harvard women's hockey team to a 3-2 victory over Union on Friday night at the Bright-Landry Hockey Center. Becca Gilmore led the team with two goals, while Kat Hughes tallied the game-winning goal and added an assist. Brooke Jovanovich and Kate Glover marked the scoresheet with two assists apiece. Adding assists on both of Gilmore's goals, rookie defenseman Kate Glover doubled her career point total and posted her first career multi-point outing.

The Crimson also clinched a spot in the ECAC playoffs this afternoon after narrowly missing out on post season last year. As of Saturday night, Harvard ranks sixth in the conference with 20 league points. Princeton and Yale sit within reach at 19 and 16 points respectively. Up the ladder, Quinnipiac holds a three-point lead over Harvard while Cornell and St. Lawrence are tied for third with 28 points and Clarkson and Colgate are locked for the top spot with 34 points apiece.

ONLY IN BOSTON

In 2018, Boston College, Boston University, Harvard and Northeastern will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the women's Beanpot Tournament. In 40 years, Harvard has advanced to the Beanpot championship 28 times- more than any of the other three schools. Harvard boasts an all-time record of 48-29-1 at the Beanpot and has earned 14 titles, the second most behind Northeastern with 16.

40TH ANNIVERSARY TEAM

To recognize this commemorative year, Hockey East has put together the top 40 moments in women's Beanpot history- dating back to 1979. Over the next 40 days, the conference will be posting photos, clips, videos, and memorabilia in a countdown leading up to the 2018 Women's Beanpot Championship, held at the Conte Forum at Boston College on February 13th. Follow @ WomensBeanpot on twitter and instagram to catch all of the 40 moments!

In honor of the 40th anniversary, Hockey East, along with the coaches of all four Beanpot schools, worked together to select a 25 member roster comprised of some of the most decorated players in Beanpot history.

THE VENUE

This year's Beanpot is being hosted by Boston College at Conte Forum. In Beanpot games at Conte Forum, Harvard has gone 9-8-0.

Kelley Rink first opened at Conte Forum in 1988 and the Eagles hosted their first Beanpot two years later in 1990.

Two of Harvard's 14 Beanpot titles have come at Conte Forum (2001, 2004) and Harvard has outscored opponents 74-42 in Beanpot games at Conte Forum.

PYEONGCHANG 2018

It was announced recently that former Harvard women's hockey player, Randi Griffin '10, has been named to the unified Korean hockey team for the 2018 PyeongChang Olympics.

Griffin is a dual citizen of the United States and South Korea and was a four-year letterwinner for the Crimson from 2006-10. In 125 career games, the Apex, N.C. native collected 21 goals and 18 assists for 39 points. During her senior season, Griffin was a finalist for the ECAC Hockey Student-Athlete of the Year Award, led the Crimson and was tied for 10th in the nation with seven power-play goals, ranked fourth on the team with 21 points and scored a power-play goal in the 2010 NCAA quarterfinals against Cornell.

LINE DANCING

This season, head coach Katey Stone has fielded 19 different forward lines and 15 different defensive pairs. At the end of last season, Stone had put together 20 forward line combinations and 12 defensive pairings.

Brooke Jovanovich, Becca Gilmore and Kat Hughes, who have been holding down the second forward line, are a force to be reckoned with. In 17 games together, the trio has racked up 48 points on 20 goals and 28 assists. Defensively, Chelsea Ziadie and Ali Peper have been inseparable at 18 games together. The duo has put up nine assists when paired together and are likely drawing on chemistry from last season when they played eight games together.

DOUBLING DOWN

As a team, the Crimson has now more than doubled its win total from the 2016-17 season.
While last year's campaign was not a reflection of Harvard Hockey's storied history, the resilience and ability to bounce back at this level is a rarity during Katey Stone's tenure. Only two other times in program history has the Crimson doubled its win total from the season before, between 1980-81 through 1981-82 when the team improved from 7-12-0 to 15-6-0 and between 1997-98 and 1998-99 when the team fired on all cylinders to turn a 14-16-0 record into a program best 33-1-0 record.

KATEY STONE

The Landry Family Head Coach for Harvard Women's Ice Hockey
New Hampshire '89
23rd season at Harvard / 462-221-48 Overall

Katey Stone, the Landry Family Head Coach for Harvard Women's Ice Hockey, is the winningest coach in the history of Division I women's hockey, as she has amassed 462 victories over the course of her storied career. One of the most successful coaches in the history of the women's collegiate game, Stone has spent all 22 of her seasons as a head coach with the Crimson.

Stone became the first head coach to reach 450 wins in 2016-17, as the Crimson's senior class graduated as one of few to claim both ECAC and Ivy League titles, while also advancing to a Frozen Four and NCAA Championship game. Seniors Sydney Daniels and Briana Mastel earned All-Ivy recognition.

The 2015-16 campaign saw the Crimson post a 17-12-3 overall record, including a 12-7-3 mark in ECAC hockey play. Playing one of the nation's toughest schedules, Harvard tallied six wins over ranked opponents. Senior goaltender Emerance Maschmeyer became the program's all-time leader in career saves, shattering the previous mark with 2,538 stops. Maschmeyer paired with defenseman Michelle Picard as the anchors of one of nation's top defensive teams, and the duo joined senior Miye D'Oench, junior Sydney Daniels and sophomore Karly Heffernan in receiving all-conference honors. Picard and Maschmeyer went on to compete internationally in starting roles at the IIHF World Championship in Kamloops, British Columbia.

In 2014-15, Stone guided Harvard to perhaps its best season in five years, reaching the NCAA National Championship game versus the University of Minnesota. The Crimson finished as National Runners-Up to the Gophers, but the season was remarkable as Harvard ended 2014-15 with a Beanpot title, an Ivy League title and as ECAC Regular Season and Tournament champions, going 27-6-3 (16-4-2 ECAC, 8-2 Ivy). Under her tutelage, Sarah Edney became the 11th Crimson to earn All-America honors, and also was named the ECAC's Best Defenseman. Along with Edney, four skaters earned All-ECAC honors and five earned All-Ivy accolades.

The 2013-14 season marked the first time since 1993-94 that Stone had not been on the bench with Harvard, as she served as the head coach of the United States Olympic Women's Ice Hockey team at the 2014 Winter Olympics in Sochi, Russia. Stone was named the head coach of the 2014 United States Olympic Women's Ice Hockey Team on June 8, 2012. As the first-ever female head coach of a USA Hockey team in the Olympics, Stone led the Americans to the silver medal in Sochi, taking part in the gold medal game versus rival Canada.

Prior to her time in Sochi, she led the USA to gold at the 2013 IIHF Women's World Championships, where the United States upended Canada, 3-2. Before that, Stone led the Red, White and Blue to silver at the 2012 IIHF Women's World Championship in Burlington, Vt., and gold at the 2011 IIHF Women's World Championship in Zurich, Switzerland. Aside from the success on the World Championships stage, Stone has guided the Americans in five Four Nations Cups in total, including leading the U.S. to gold in 2008, 2011 and 2012.

While in Cambridge, Stone has led the Crimson to an incredible 451-207-46 (.673) record in her tenure, following the 2016-17 campaign, including the 1999 ACHA national championship, four appearances in the NCAA championship game (2003, 2004, 2005, 2015), 11 NCAA tournament appearances in the event's 17-year history, seven ECAC regular-season titles, six ECAC tournament championships, eight Ivy League titles and 14 Beanpots.

Stone, who appeared 33rd on New England Hockey Journal's "Top 50 Most Influential People in New England Hockey," took the coaching reins from John Dooley prior to the 1994-95 season and posted a 12-11-2 mark in her first year at the helm. The squad finished just under .500 over the next three seasons, but Stone orchestrated an extraordinary turnaround within the program, improving from 14-16-0 in 1997-98 to a program-record 33-1-0 and claiming a national championship in 1998-99. That year, the team closed the season with 30 consecutive victories, culminating in a thrilling 6-5 overtime win over New Hampshire in the ACHA National Championship.

In addition to the team success, some of the best individual talent in the sport of women's hockey has laced its skates in Cambridge. In 20 years behind the bench, Stone has continued to develop talent and attract attention on the national and international stages. She has coached 12 Olympians – including four who competed in the 2014 Sochi Games – and six winners of the Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award, presented annually to the nation's best collegiate women's hockey player.

Crimson skaters have earned All-America honors a total of 24 times since 1999, including Jennifer Botterill '02-03 and Angela Ruggiero '02-04, the first players to be four-time first-team All-Americans. In addition, Harvard has had 10 ECAC Players of the Year, 14 Ivy League Players of the Year, five ECAC Rookies of the Year and nine Ivy League Rookies of the Year.

After leading the Crimson to the 1999 national championship, Stone received ECAC/KOHO and New England Hockey Writers' Coach of the Year honors. In addition, she was named the American Hockey Coaches Association Women's Coach of the Year and the New England College Athletic Conference Women's Division I Coach of the Year. Stone repeated as the New England Hockey Writers' Coach of the Year for the 2000-01 season.

She went on to lead Harvard to three-straight NCAA title game appearances (2003-05), three-straight ECAC regular season titles (2003-05) and ECAC tournament titles (2004-06) and the only back-to-back 30-win seasons in program history in 2002-03 and 2003-04. Harvard also spent 14 consecutive weeks atop the national polls during the 2002-03 season.

Stone helped the Crimson become the second team in ECAC women's hockey history to finish the conference season with a perfect record, leading the 2007-08 squad to a 22-0-0 mark in league play. She was named ECAC Hockey Coach of the Year at the end of the season, the third time she earned the award (1999, 2005, 2008). Two years later, Stone broke the NCAA Division I wins record, as she earned the 338th victory in her legendary coaching career with a 5-1 win over Princeton in Game 1 of the ECAC Hockey quarterfinals.

Stone has been an integral voice in the sport of women's hockey. She served as a member of the NCAA Championship committee, the NCAA rules committee, the Patty Kazmaier Memorial Award selection committee and president of the American Women's Hockey Coaches Association.

Stone has been very active within the U.S. National Development Camps and started her affiliation with the U.S. National Team in 1996. Stone led the U.S. to the gold medal at the first-ever IIHF World Women's U18 Championship in January 2008 and also coached the U.S. Women's Under-18 Team at the 2007 Under-18 Series and the U.S. Women's Under-22 Select Team at the 2006 Under-22 Series.

Stone graduated from New Hampshire in 1989 with a degree in physical education. She was a captain and four-year letterwinner in both hockey and lacrosse for the Wildcats. Stone helped the hockey team win ECAC championships in 1986 and 1987 and the lacrosse team capture an NCAA title in 1985. She earned All-ECAC honors in hockey and was a two-time All-America selection in lacrosse. Stone was honored with the NCAA Silver Anniversary Award and inducted into the UNH Athletics Hall of Fame as a result of her achievements both in and outside of athletics.

Before coming to Harvard, Stone served as assistant athletic director and coach at Tabor Academy and also had coaching stints at Northfield Mount Hermon and Phillips Exeter Academy.

Her family is deeply rooted in athletics as her father and siblings have all been involved with coaching and education.

A native of Watertown, Conn., Stone now resides in Arlington, Mass.
