The Particulars

With Harvard still harboring hopes of an Ivy League championship, Harvard and Yale play the 126th edition of "The Game" at Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn.

Versus

Saturday's game will be shown live on Versus TV. Check your local listings and cable/ satellite providers for information.

Series History

Yale holds a 65-52-8 series lead against Harvard in the 125 previous editions of The Game, though the Crimson has won seven of the last eight against the Bulldogs - including last season's 10-0 shutout of the Bulldogs.

Where We Stand

Penn controls its own destiny this weekend as the Quakers can clinch the championship outright with a win at Cornell. A Penn loss coupled with a Harvard victory would mean a shared title and the Crimson's third-straight Ivy title.

Last Year's Meeting

After fighting through swirling winds, single-digit temperatures and first-half miscues, Harvard emerged with a commanding 10-0 victory over the Yale Bulldogs for the program's 13th Ivy League Championship in the 125th edition of 'The Game'

With the victory, Harvard became just the eighth team in history to come back from a loss in its league opener and still win the championship.

The Crimson defense held McLeod to 65 yards on 21 rushing attempts and the Bulldog offense to just 90 total yards - the fewest Harvard has allowed since last year's game, when Yale was held to 123 yards.

The Harvard offense, though it did not find the end zone more than once, moved the ball and controlled the clock throughout. The Crimson possessed the ball for 39:15 while netting 370 yards of offense, 261 of those coming on the ground.

Running back Gino Gordon led the ground attack with 39 touches for 168 yards and the lone touchdown. The 168 rushing yards by Gordon mark the top day for a Harvard back against Yale since 2003 when Clifton Dawson ran for 174 on 32 carries, and the most rushing attempts since 1998, when Eion Hu also racked up 177 yards on the ground via 40 carries en route to a 26-21 Harvard victory.

Chris Pizzotti, in his final game in a Crimson uniform, had an effective day in 30 mile-per-hour winds, finishing 12 of 21 passing for 109 yards. He also ran 16 times for 74 yards.

Harvard's Last Time Out

Penn defeated Harvard, 17-7, last weekend at The Stadium. The Quakers withstood a late charge from the Crimson, stopping them on three consecutive plays within the 5-yard line including a fourth down play from the one.

Penn ended the drive, stopping Harvard quarterback Collier Winters at the goal line on fourth down with 2:40 left to play to get the ball back.

An early second half touchdown from Winters to Chris Lorditch was the only blemish on a Quaker defense that has allowed just 14 points in their last 18 quarters of play.

A close fourth down call went Penn's way as well early in the game as Kyle Olson was ruled to have crossed the goal line on a QB sneak before fumbling the ball into the hands of a Harvard player.

Despite driving rain throughout the entire game, Olson and Keiffer Garton combined to go 20-for-32 for 181 yards and one touchdown for the Quakers.

MEDIA INFORMATIONCREDENTIALS

All credential requests to cover Harvard football should be directed to Kurt Svoboda at least five days in advance of the game. Credentials will be issued only to accredited members of the working media.

INTERVIEWS

Interviews with student-athletes, other than those immediately following a game, must be arranged through Harvard's Office of Athletic Communications so as not to interfere with the students' academic schedules. Game-day interviews will not be granted until the end of the contest. Harvard maintains a closed locker room at all times.

NEW ENGLAND FOOTBALL WRITER'S LUNCHEONS

Harvard hosts a weekly gathering of coaches, media and sports information directors every Wednesday at noon through the college football season at Dillon Field House. Harvard head coach Tim Murphy speaks at each luncheon and is available for individual interviews following the sessions. Reservations are not required, but media members should be aware of the cost of $10 per person.

PRACTICES

Harvard football practices are open to the media, provided the outlet makes prior arrangements with the Office of Athletic Communications. Contact Kurt Svoboda for practice times.

GAME PROCEDURES

Postgame interviews are conducted in the Murr Center Lounge. Please see a representative from each school to arrange interviewees. Game notes and other materials are provided for your convenience. Please find appropriate recycle bins in the press box and discard of your materials upon completion of the game.

Yale's Last Time Out

Kenny Gunter gained 119 yards on 23 carries, including a 3-yard run for the game's first score, as Princeton defeated Yale 24-17 last Saturday.

The Tigers took a 14-0 first-quarter lead to win for the 50th time in the series.

Princeton's second score came on a 2-yard run by quarterback Tommy Wornham, who rushed for 55 yards and was 16-of-23 passing for 136 yards.

Matt Zimmerman's 30-yard run put Princeton ahead 21-3 with 11:04 left in the third quarter before Yale cut it to 21-17 on Patrick Witt's 33-yard pass to Peter Balsam and Shane Bannon's 1-yard run.

Witt was intercepted by Dan Kopolovich at the Princeton 17 late in the third quarter and by Glenn Wakam at the Yale 14 midway through the fourth. Wakam's pick led to Ben Bologna's 27-yard field goal for the final margin.

Harvard Coach Tim Murphy

In his 16th season as Harvard's head coach, Tim Murphy enters Saturday's game with a 103-55 record with the Crimson and a 135-100-1 overall head coaching record, which includes five years at Cincinnati and two years at Maine. Murphy is one of just five coaches to win 100 games since the formation of the Ivy League in 1954. Murphy has led Harvard to five Ivy League championships (1997, 2001, 2004, 2007, 2008). He is 10-5 all-time against Yale.

Yale Coach Tom Williams

Tom Williams is in his first season as the Joel E. Smilow '54 Head Coach of Football at Yale. Williams had previously served as a defensive assistant for the NFL's Jacksonville Jaguars.

Success

Over the past 12 years, Harvard has won five Ivy League championships (four outright) and had two undefeated seasons while posting the Football Championship Subdivision's second-highest winning percentage this decade.

The Crimson has finished with at least seven wins in each of the last eight years, becoming the only program in Ivy League history to have such a stretch of success.

Great Eight

The Crimson has registered at least seven wins in each of the last eight years, making Harvard the first team in the history of Ivy League football to post such a string of successful seasons. Two years ago, Harvard became the first Ivy team to post a string of seven such seasons together.

The current stretch is the Crimson's best eight-year run since a 28-year streak of seven-plus win seasons came to an end in 1911. The program has won 64 games over the past eight seasons for the best stretch since a stretch from 1908-1915 when the program also won 64 games.

Running Downhill...

Harvard rushed for at least 150 yards in three straight Ivy League games (251 vs. Cornell, 267 vs. Princeton, 315 vs. Dartmouth, 151 at Columbia for a total of 984 yards (246 per game).

Running Uphill...

Harvard has allowed fewer than 65 rushing in four of its last five Ivy League games (62 vs. Cornell, 38 vs. Princeton, 64 vs. Dartmouth, minus-18 at Columbia for a total of 146 yards (36.5 per game) on exactly 100 carries (1.46 yards per carry). The Crimson allowed 82 rushing yards to Penn last weekend.

Difference Makers

Harvard has out-rushed its last three Ivy foes by an average of 166 yards per game.

Run Stoppers

Harvard has notoriously held Ivy League teams under 100 yards rushing. Since last season, Harvard has held nine of 13 under the century mark. Going back to 2006, the Crimson has held Ivy foes under 100 yards 19 out of 27 times including five times each in 2006, and 2007.

Seeing Green

After defeating Dartmouth, Harvard had its second straight game against the Big Green in which the Crimson ran for at least 300 yards, rushing for 315 this year after accumulating 368 in 2008.

Meet You at 100

Junior RB Gino Gordon (8 rushes, 119 yards, 3 TDs) and freshman RB Treavor Scales (20 rushes, 120 yards, 2 TDs) became the first Harvard duo in 10 years to rush for at least 100 yards each. Both players had their century marks before the end of the third quarter as Harvard built a big lead ... The last time two backs to collect 100 yards apiece came in 1999 when Chris Menick (22 rushes for 115) and Chuck Nwokocha (14 rushes for 110 yards) broke out against Cornell.

Scales and Gordon combined for 239 yards on 28 carries (8.5 ypc) against Dartmouth.

100 & 100

Gino Gordon became the first player at Harvard to record both 100 rushing and receiving yards in a single game (119 rushing on 8 attempts, 103 receiving on 4 receptions) when he did so against Dartmouth.

All-Purpose

with 22 all-purpose yard against Dartmouth, Gino Gordon became the first Crimson player to reach 200 all-purpose yards since Clifton Dawson had exactly 200 on Oct. 14, 2006 in a 24-7 win over Lafayette. Dawson had 144 rushing yards and 56 receiving yards in the game.

Dawson is the last player to have more all-purpose yards than Gordon when he accumulated 223 yards (103 run, 28 receiving, 92 on kickoffs) in a 42-14 win over Dartmouth on Oct. 29, 2005.

Home Away From Home

Harvard limited Columbia to minus-18 rushing yards in its win on Saturday and has now held Columbia to negative rushing yards in games played at Wien Stadium in each of the last three meetings dating back to 2005. The Crimson has held Columbia to negative yards in four of the last five meetings with minus-51 yards on 89 carries all told in those games.

From Pass Supremacy To Run Control

Through eight games, Harvard has rushed for 96 first downs (57 passing) after collecting 92 rushing first downs in both 2007 (110 passing) and 2008 (100 passing). In 2006, Harvard had 83 rushing first downs in 10 games.

Clock Watching

Harvard ended the Columbia with 11 running plays on all of its plays from scrimmage in the fourth quarter and has now thrown just one fourth quarter pass in its last three games (43 snaps)

In its 28-point win over Dartmouth in 2008, Harvard ended the game with 32 consecutive running plays.

Options Abound

In games against Princeton, Dartmouth and Columbia, Harvard's top three running backs in Gino Gordon, Cheng Ho and Treavor Scales have combined for 79 carries for 554 yards (7.1 ypc) and 10 touchdowns while losing just one yard from scrimmage.

Meet You at 100

With 222 all-purpose yard against Dartmouth, Gino Gordon became the first Crimson player to reach 200 all-purpose yards since Clifton Dawson had exactly 200 on Oct. 14, 2006 in a 24-7 win over Lafayette. Dawson had 144 rushing yards and 56 receiving yards in the game.

Dawson is the last player to have more all-purpose yards than Gordon when he accumulated 223 yards (103 run, 28 receiving, 92 on kickoffs) in a 42-14 win over Dartmouth on Oct. 29, 2005.

Rushmore

Against Dartmouth, Harvard recorded five rushing touchdowns for the first since Oct. 30, 1999 when the Crimson scored five times on the ground en route to a 63-21 victory over Dartmouth in Hanover, N.H. Chris Menick '00 had four of the scores as he rushed 22 times for 120 yards.

Elite Company

With 103 career victories on the Harvard sideline, head coach Tim Murphy ranks second on the Crimson's all-time wins chart. Murphy is 14 wins away from Joe Restic's school record 117 wins (from 1971-93).

Ivy Era Coaches

Since the formal naming of the Ivy League in 1956, just five coaches have reached the 100-win plateau with two of them being Harvard men.

- Carm Cozz, Yale: 179
- Bob Blackman, Dartmouth 127
- Al Bangnoli, Penn: 121
- Joe Restic, Harvard: 117
- Tim Murphy, Harvard: 103

The Stadium

Harvard's record at Harvard Stadium since 2001 is 39-8 while winning 19 of its last 22 there. The team has four undefeated home marks in that stretch (6-0 in 2001, 5-0 in 2004, 5-0 in 2007, 5-0 in 2008).

TD Runs

Harvard has 19 rushing touchdowns this season through eight games after collecting 14 last season.

In The Books

Collier Winters' 77-yard touchdown pass to Chris Lorditch against Princeton was the fifth-longest scoring pass in school history.

Spread Offense

Winters has now recorded at least two touch-down passes in five of nine games this season while hitting at least seven different receivers in seven of those nine games.

Stingy

After allowing just seven first downs in the first three quarters against Lehigh on Oct. 3, Harvard allowed just nine first downs in a win at Cornell on Oct. 10. The Crimson then allowed 10 first downs to Princeton on Oct. 24 but none in the second quarter and just two in the third.

Poison Ivy

Harvard allowed 182 total yards to Cornell on Oct. 10 and 157 yards to Princeton on Oct. 24 and has now held Ivy League foes under 200 yards of offense six times in its last 19 games and seven in its last 23 dating back to 2006.

Teamwork

Against Cornell, four different Harvard players recorded a sack for the second consecutive game and five players had a tackle for a loss for a third straight game.

In a Rush

Against Princeton in the first half, Harvard outgained the Tigers on the ground 112-1 and did not allow a first down to the Tigers.

Winding The Clock

Harvard ended the Dartmouth game with 13 running plays on its last 14 snaps in the fourth quarter. In its 28-point win over Dartmouth in 2008, Harvard ended the game with 32 consecutive running plays.

In its 34-point win over Princeton, Harvard ran the ball 20 straight times to end the game including all 18 snaps in the fourth quarter.

Timely "D"

Harvard's defense allowed just two first downs in the third quarter and in the fourth quarter, held Princeton to 1-for-8 passing for nine yards.

Unwelcome Wagon

Prior to its loss against Lafayette on Oct. 17, Harvard had won six straight home games against Patriot League teams and nine of its last 10.

Lorditch and Lafayette

Chris Lorditch (Chalfont, Pa.) has two career 100-yard receiving games with both of them coming against Lafayette. In 2008 he had four catches for 106 yards and a 67-yard touch-down. In 2009 he had four catches for 100 yards and a 47-yard TD.

Safety Net

With a nose for the ball and playing at the line of scrimmage, Collin Zych recorded his third career 10-tackle game with 10 stops (nine solo) against Lafayette on Oct. 17. His career-high is 15 at Penn in 2008 with 10 solo stops and he also had 10 solo stops at Brown in 2008.

Running The Option

Gino Gordon has three career 100-yard rushing games including 137 yards and a TD against Cornell.

Treavor Scales added 92 rushing yards and the first two TDs of his career at Cornell.

Against Lehigh on Oct. 3, Cheng Ho ran for 132 yards with two touchdowns.

Six Shooter

Against Columbia Nov. 7, Harvard forced six turnovers for the first time since a 28-0 win at Dartmouth in 2006.

Five For Fighting

Against Lehigh on Oct. 3, Harvard forced five turnovers for the first time since causing five in consecutive games against Lafayette and Cornell in 2007.

Big "D"

Against Lehigh on Oct. 3, the Crimson allowed just seven first downs in the first three quarters of play while finishing with four sacks, four pass breakups and 10 quarterback hurries.

Against Cornell on Oct. 10, Harvard had seven pass breakups, two interceptions and four sacks.

With its win at Lehigh on Oct. 3, Harvard became the ninth school in Division I to record 800 wins all-time ... The Crimson has an all-time record of 804-377-50 (.674).

Conference Call

Harvard has won 16 of its last 21 non-league games dating back to 2003. Last season, Harvard completed its nonleague schedule undefeated (3-0) for the fourth time in the last six seasons with wins over Holy Cross, Lafayette and Lehigh.

Road Trip

Harvard is 35-11 in its last 45 road games since the start of the 2000 season. The Crimson is 26-7 in Ivy League road games during that span.

Patriot League Crossed Off The List

Cheng Ho has six career 100-yard rushing games with one each coming against the Crimson's current non-league opponents, Holy Cross, Lafayette and Lehigh.

His 132 yards at Lehigh on Oct. 3 represents a career-high for the senior back and 2007 All-Ivy League selection.

Helping Hands

Harvard is 30-6 in games in which a Crimson running back has rushed for at least 100 yards over the past six seasons.

Pick-Six

Harvard's last two interception returns for a touchdown have come against Lehigh. Jon Takamura returned a pick 60-yards for a score at Lehigh on Oct. 3. In 2008, Glenn Dorris returned a pick off 21 yards for a score.

Like Riding A Bike

Freshman DB Brian Owusu recorded interceptions on his first two defensive snaps of the game against Cornell on Oct. 10 – and just the second and third defensive snaps of his career – in a 28-10 victory.

Three With Two

Brian Owusu became the third Harvard defender to record two interceptions in a game, joining Collin Zych (two versus Lehigh on Oct. 3) and Ryan Barnes (three at Penn in 2008.)

Youth & Experience

Brian Owusu and sophomore Matthew Hanson (2008 Ivy Rookie of the Year) have combined for six interceptions. Collin Zych, Ryan Barnes and Derrick Barker have combined for 12 interceptions.

Including Dan Minamide, Harvard's six defensive backs have combined for 18 interceptions and 74 pass breakups.

Derrick Barker has had 10 pass breakups and an interception in each of the last two seasons.

Pass Defense

Derrick Barker (1 INT, 10 PD) ranks first in the Ivy League in passes defended this season while Collin Zych (2 INT, 8 PD) ranks second.

Field Position

Of his six punts against Cornell on Oct. 10, Thomas Hull pinned three of them inside the Big Red's 10-yard line including two inside the five-yard line.

Out Of The Gates

After defeating Brown on Sept. 25, Harvard has won its Ivy League opener in 10 of the last 11 seasons with nine of the wins coming against Brown and the other coming against Columbia.

Get Them Early

Dating back to the start of the 2003 season, Harvard is 43-1 when leading at halftime.

Where We Are Now

Saturday's game will be Harvard's 1,232nd varsity football game. The Crimson has an all-time record of 804-377-50 (.672).

Over Par

Harvard has scored points in a school-record 116 consecutive games. The Crimson has not been shut out since a 24-0 loss to Columbia in the 1998 season opener.

Magic Numbers

Harvard is 267-5-1 all-time (.979) when the Crimson scores 30 or more points.

Moving Up

Harvard now has 804 wins and is the second-winningest program in FCS history behind Yale (857).

Playing The Percentages

Golden

Running Back Gino Gordon earned the New England Football Writer's Gold Helmet Award, sponsored by the Gridiron Club of Greater Boston, for his effort in the win over Dartmouth on Oct. 31.

Gordon accumulated 222 all-purpose yards, becoming the first player on record to rush for 100 yards (119 on 8 carries) and receive for 100 yards (103 on 4 receptions) for nearly 19 yards per touch and three touchdowns.

Quarterback Collier Winters earned the New England Football Writer's Gold Helmet Award, sponsored by the Gridiron Club of Greater Boston, for his effort in the win over Brown on Sept. 25.

Winters accounted for all three Harvard touchdowns in a 24-21 win over Brown in a matchup of defending Ivy League champions at Harvard Stadium.

Winters completed 18 of 27 passes for 223 yards and two touchdowns (30 yards and 15 yards) while also running for a game-high 51 yards including a three-yard TD run. He averaged 5.1 yards per carry on the night (13 attempts).

Ivy Honors

Harvard has had at least one offensive player of the week each season this decade while having a quarterback win the award in each of the last three seasons.

Record Check

Entering the game, six foot 5 wide receiver Matt Luft stands in fifth place on the career receptions list with 126. He is one shy of tying Colby Skelton '98, who had 127.

His 16.2 yards per catch average (2,041 total yards) is the best in school history.

Luft is just the third player in school history to record 2,000 receiving yards (Carl Morris '03 and Corey Mazza '07.)

Active Leaders

Matt Luft is currently fifth nationally on the all-time leaders for yards per catch (16.2).

Luft is 17th on the active list in receiving yards.

Final Poll Position

Harvard finished the 2008 season ranked 14th in the FCS Coaches Poll.

Determined

Last season, Harvard became just the eighth team in Ivy League history to win the league championship after losing its league-opener.

- 2008: Harvard lost opener to Brown, 24-22
- 2005: Brown lost opener to Harvard, 35-38
- 1999: Yale lost opener to Brown, 24-25
- 1990: Dartmouth lost opener to Penn, 6-16
- 1988: Cornell lost opener to Princeton, 17-26
- 1982: Dartmouth lost opener to Penn, 0-21
- 1976: Yale lost opener to Brown, 6-14
- 1973: Dartmouth lost opener to Penn, 16-22.

Two Thousand Zero Zero Over Drive

With an Ivy title last season, Harvard claimed its 13th Ivy championship, third in the last five seasons, and a league-best fourth this decade (2001, 2004, 2007, 2008).

Recognition

Harvard has had at least one All-American in each of the last 10 years. In 2009, Tim Murphy has already seen four of his players earn pre-season All-America honors by three different publications (Derrick Barker, Matthew Hanson, Matt Luft, James Williams). Additionally, Harvard had a league-best nine players earn preseason All-Ivy League mention.

Friendly Confines

Harvard is 415-217-34 all-time in Harvard Stadium. Its 400th career home victory came in 2006 in a 33-23 victory over Cornell in front of 13,287.

In The Name

Harvard Stadium is the nation's first sports venue to use the term "Stadium." The next oldest just hosted its final game as Yankee Stadium was retired following a Sep. 21 victory against Baltimore.

Name Recognition

Harvard Stadium, the Yale Bowl and the Rose Bowl are the only three college football venues recognized as National Historic Landmarks.

Fabulous Four

Last season, four different wide receivers recorded 100-yard games with Marco Iannuzzi (11 catches for 174 yards versus Holy Cross), Chris Lorditch (four catches for 108 yards at Lafayette), Levi Richards (six receptions for 103 yards versus Columbia) and Matt Luft (10 catches for 148 yards at Brown; four catches for 139 yards versus Cornell; seven catches for 111 yards versus Lehigh, five catches for 103 yards versus Princeton, six receptions for 110 yards versus Columbia) all turning the trick.

Opening Day

Harvard is an impressive 111-23-2 in season-openers (.816). The Crimson has won its opening game in seven of the last nine years and is 10-6 on Opening Day under current head coach Tim Murphy.

Golden Boys

Quarterback Chris Pizzotti '09, linebacker Eric Schultz '09 and safety Ryan Barnes (Richmond, Ky.) each won New England Football Writers' Gold Helmet Awards as the top performer in New England at various points last season.

Barnes was honored after intercepting three passes (two in the end zone including his last one with 10 seconds remaining), breaking up three more, and totaling five tackles at Penn.

Pizzotti won the honor three times during his career while posting a 20-2 record as a starter.

Four or More

Last season, then-freshman Matthew Hanson became the second Crimson player to record a takeaway in four straight games over the last six years when he had three interceptions and a fumble recovery against Lafayette, Cornell, Lehigh and Princeton. (Steven Williams 2007 also had four straight).

Firsts Abound

Last season, six Harvard players earned their first career touchdown receptions (Chris Lorditch, Levi Richards, Adam Chrissis, Marco Iannuzzi, Gino Gordon, Nicolai Schwarzkopf) while three players have had their first rushing touchdowns (Ben Jenkins, Chrissis, Gordon).

Long Leg

In 2008, Patrick Long ranked second in the league in field goals (12) and is also second in the league in scoring (6.9 ppg).

15 I'm Alright With You

Last season, Patrick Long recorded career-long field goals on successive tries at Lafayette on Oct. 4 with good tries of 41 and 45 yards. His last one stands as Harvard's longest field goal since the 1993 season - a span of 15 years.

Three-Year Span

Last season, Penn became the first Ivy League team to accumulate 400 yards of offense against Harvard in 24 games dating back to the 2005 season (Princeton - 402).

In its last 37 league games, just two teams have managed 400-yards against Harvard's defense.

Perfection

With a 7-0 record en route to the 2007 Ivy Football title, Harvard tied Dartmouth for the second most perfect Ivy League seasons with four, two behind Penn. The Crimson has recorded 7-0 League marks in 1997, 2001 and 2004 prior to capturing the Ivy title in 2007 without a loss.

Better Than Average

In 2009, Harvard clinched its 110th season at .500 or better in the program's 136-year history. It marked the Crimson's 11th straight year at .500 or better.

Entering the Yale game, Harvard will be looking for its ninth-straight season with at least seven wins.

Hall of Fame

Head coach Tim Murphy was inducted into the Springfield College Athletics Hall of Fame on Oct. 20, 2007 - just hours after leading the Crimson to a 27-10 victory over Princeton. A 1978 graduate of the college, Murphy joined five other members as the school's 35th class to be inducted.

Oh Captain, My Captain

Carl Ehrlich (Bethesda, Md.) is the 136th captain of Harvard football. Harvard elects just one captain each season.

Video Killed The Radio Star?

In 2008, Harvard Stadium debuted a new sound system as well as a new video board which enables replays and graphics to add to the fan experience.

The Crimson returns to radio on this season on WBNW 1120 (Business Radio Boston) with Bernie Corbett and Mike Giardi '94. Their call can also be heard on WPLM 1390 Plymouth and WESO 970 Sturbridge as well as on GoCrimson.com. Home games will be streamed live with the utilization of the Stadium's new four-camera video board operation.

The Freaks Come Out At Night

Harvard drew 18,898 fans to its 2007 season opener against Brown in the first night football game at the Stadium.

A year later, in its 2008 opener against Holy Cross, the Crimson drew 20,462 in the first Friday night game at the Stadium.

The Crimson drew 17,263 to its third night game - against Brown in 2009.

Harvard is 3-0 all-time in night games - with all of the wins coming at Harvard Stadium.

Behind Center

This season, Harvard started its fifth different quarterback on Opening Day in the last six years. This season, junior Collier Winters (Claremore, Okla.) earned the nod after missing 2008 with an injury.

Last year, two-time Ivy Player of the Year Chris Pizzotti '09 started the opener and won. In 2007 it was All-Ivy QB Liam O'Hagan starting at Holy Cross. Pizzotti started the 2006 opener; Richard Irvin started in 2005, and current Buffalo Bills' QB Ryan Fitzpatrick '05 started the 2004 season-opener.

Lonely At The Top

Harvard is the only school in Division I Football Championship Subdivision that has registered two unbeaten, untied seasons since 1995. The Crimson was 9-0 in the 2001 season before going 10-0 in 2004.

Top Of The Charts

Harvard has won seven national championships in football — in 1890, 1898, 1899, 1910, 1912, 1913 and 1919.

League Matters

Harvard was picked first alongside in the 2009 Ivy League preseason media poll. The Crimson and Bulldogs received 10 of the 17 first place votes.

See Them On Sunday

Harvard currently has three players on NFL rosters. Matt Birk '98 was a six-time All-Pro center for the Minnesota Vikings and now suits up for the Baltimore Ravens, while Ryan Fitzpatrick '05 plays for the Buffalo Bills. Desmond Bryant '09 is a defensive tackle for the Oakland Raiders.

NFL

Over the past 11 years, Harvard has seen 20 players move on to professional careers, including All-Pro Matt Birk '98 (Baltimore Ravens) and Jamil Soriano '03, who won a Super Bowl ring with the New England Patriots. Quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick '05 (Buffalo Bills) started 13 games for the Cincinnati Bengals in 2008.

Champions Abound

Every four-year player recruited by Crimson head coach Tim Murphy has both graduated and been part of at least one Ivy League championship team. Murphy has led Harvard to Ivy League championships in 1997, 2001, 2004, 2007 and 2008.

Pomp And Circumstance

Six Harvard players — senior defensive back Chris Carlson (Billings, Mont.), junior defensive end Josue Ortiz (Avon Park, Fla.), sophomore offensive lineman Scott Fritz (Houston, Texas), sophomore defensive end John Lyon (Durham, N.C.), freshman linebacker Joshua Boyd (Hyde Park, Mass.), and freshman offensive lineman Jim Deng (Old Saybrook, Conn.) — were valedictorians of their high school classes.

Perfect In Postseason

Harvard has played one postseason game in its history. The Crimson defeated Oregon, 7-6, to win the Rose Bowl Jan. 1, 1920. It's the only time since 1898 that Yale hasn't been Harvard's last opponent.

Rose Garden

Harvard has won more Rose Bowl games (one) than two current members of the Pac-10 (Arizona, Washington State) and one member of the Big Ten (Indiana). Harvard has won as many Rose Bowl titles as Oregon, Oregon

State, Minnesota, Penn State and Arizona State.

Home Improvement

The three-year old FieldTurf playing surface at Harvard Stadium was the first phase of a three-step, $5 million upgrade to the facility. Stadium lighting was completed in 2007 and a state-of-the-art, pressurized removable bubble is placed over the field following the conclusion of each season in December, allowing for year-round use of the 105-year-old facility. After 1,204 games, Harvard played its first night game Sept. 22, 2007 against Brown - and won, 24-17 - at Harvard Stadium.

Other Notable Football Alumni

Harvard football players have distinguished themselves professionally in a number of fields. Hon. Hamilton Fish '10 was a two-time All-America who went on to a distinguished career as a United States representative. Former U.S. attorney general Hon. Robert F. Kennedy '48 was a three-year letterwinner for Harvard, while his brother, Hon. Edward M. Kennedy '54 lettered for the Crimson in 1955 (and caught Harvard's lone touchdown pass against Yale in 1954); Academy Award-winning actor Tommy Lee Jones '69 was a first-team All-Ivy League offensive tackle for the Crimson and a member of Harvard's undefeated 1968 team.

Double Agents

Harvard graduate and current offensive coordinator Joel Lamb '93 was the offensive coordinator at Yale for three years — and an assistant in New Haven for nine — before joining the Harvard staff in 2006.

Tony Reno, the secondary coach and special teams coordinator, was Yale's defensive backs coach for six seasons.

Breadth

Harvard sponsors 41 varsity sports, the most of any NCAA Division I college. There are roughly 1,500 student-athletes who compete in intercollegiate athletics at Harvard - more than any other Division I school.

Harvard fields the largest Division I athletic program in America with 41 Division I varsity sports. Sports Illustrated placed Harvard in the top 45 of "America's Best Division I Sports Colleges," the only Ivy League school to appear in the top 50.

Geography Class

Harvard's roster includes players from 30 different states.

The App State Addendum?

The Associated Press allowed its voters to cast ballots for non-FBS teams starting with the Sept. 10, 2007 national survey. The last non-current-FBS member to be ranked in the then-AP Top 20 was Colgate with a 9-0 mark at

Bay State Banner

Holy Cross was Harvard's only 2009 opponent that is located in the state of Massachusetts. It also is the Crimson's only in-state opponent through the 2010 season.

History Made

Clifton Dawson '07 became the first offensive player in Ivy League history to be named to the first team four times. The only four-time first team All-Ivy pick on defense in school history is Dawson's former teammate Dante Balestracci '04.

He Did It

Clifton Dawson '07 set the Ivy League's all-time rushing mark (4,841 yards) in 2006, breaking a 35-year-old league record of 4,715 yards, which had been held by Cornell's Ed Marinaro since 1971.

Equal Footing

Though Ed Marinaro played just three seasons of varsity football (freshmen were not eligible for varsity competition then), he had 918 career rushing attempts — only two fewer than Clifton Dawson '07 had when Dawson broke the league record.

Miscellany

Harvard has won 136 national team championships in 18 different sports, most recently the 2006 men's and women's combined fencing title.

Harvard is the nation's oldest university, founded in 1636.

The Price Is Right

In welcoming the Harvard College Class of 2012, Harvard ushered in a dramatic expansion of our financial aid programs. Through a series of reforms over the past few years, families with incomes up to $60,000 are no longer expected to contribute to the cost of their children's undergraduate education; families earning up to $180,000 will be asked to contribute just a modest fraction of their incomes (generally 10 percent or less); and grants have replaced loans for all undergraduates receiving aid. Harvard has long sought to attract the most talented and promising students, whatever their financial means. It remains a paramount priority to make that ideal real.

That is true not just in the College but across the University. The Medical School initiated a new financial aid program, designed to reduce the cost of a four-year medical education by an average of $50,000 for families earning $120,000 or less. Newly entering JD students at the Law School can look forward to a tuition-free third year if they commit to at least five years of public service after graduation. Throughout the Schools we have substantially increased our investment in financial aid--by nearly 30 percent in the past three years alone. Harvard will continue to strive not only to enroll the very best students from across the economic spectrum, but also to ensure that the burden of excessive debt does not deter Harvard graduates from pursuing careers reflecting their highest aspirations.

Tradition

Harvard boasts one of the oldest and most successful college football programs in America, with numerous national and Ivy League Championships in its history. Since helping inaugurate intercollegiate competition more than 150 years ago, Harvard has become synonymous with excellence in athletics and academics. Success.

Academics

Harvard is universally regarded as the top academic institution in America and also has the highest graduation rate (approximately 98 percent). Harvard student-athletes pursue a wide range of academic courses along with their peers. Over the past two seasons alone, the football team graduated an award-winning opera singer in Noah Van Niel and a dual-degree holder with a bachelors and master's degree in Andrew Berry who was named the nation's Student-athlete of the Year.

Diversity

Harvard students are regular kids, who come from all corners of the country. With its diverse student body and metropolitan environment, Black Enterprise ranks Harvard as one of the nation's top colleges and universities for African-Americans.

Boston/Cambridge

Boston is the unrivaled "College Town, USA" with more colleges and universities than any metropolitan area in the country. The Sporting News dubbed the city the nation's best sports town in 2002, 2004 and 2005.

Offense

A system that has smashed numerous school and Ivy League records and annually ranks among the top-performing units in the nation. Harvard became the first school in Ivy history to average over 500 yards per game in Ivy League play, when it did so in the 2000 season.

IT'S ALL ABOUT THE GAME

News and Notes About The Harvard-Yale Rivalry

The Rivalry's Origin

Harvard and Yale met in the first intercollegiate sporting event in American history. On August 3, 1852, the schools faced each other in a two-mile crew race on New Hampshire's Lake Winnepesaukee that Harvard won by two lengths. The annual event is now a four-miler held on the Thames River in New London, Conn. Harvard leads that series, 88-53.

Just Win, Baby

The series pits the first and second-most winning teams in FCS against each other. Yale has 857 wins to rank first, while Harvard's 804 wins are second.

125 And Counting

With its 126th game this weekend, the Harvard-Yale rivalry is the third-most played series in all of college football. Only Lehigh-Lafayette (145 meetings) and Princeton-Yale (132) have played more often.

The First Meeting

Harvard and Yale first met in football Nov. 13, 1875 at Hamilton Field in New Haven. The Game, played under rugby rules, was won by the Crimson, 4-0. Yale leads the series, 65-51-8.

Little Red Flag

Little Red Flag is a Harvard pennant that has been waved following every Crimson score in The Game since 1884. Carried by Harvard's "most loyal fan," it is currently in the possession of William Markus '60, a resident of Pittsburgh who nonetheless attends every Harvard football game, home and away.

Champions

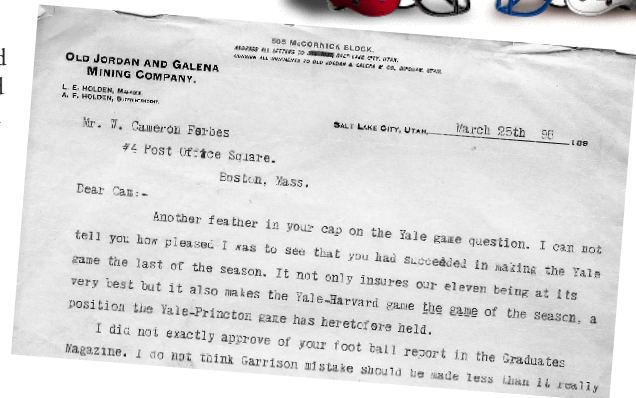

Harvard won its first national championship in 1890 with a season-ending 12-6 victory over Yale.

Who's Selling?

In 1891, counterfeit tickets surfaced for the first time. Numbers vary on how many were admitted with the phony ducats, but history shows the Elis won the Game, 10-0, in Springfield.

A Game By Any Other Name ...

The first mention of this as "The Game" came in 1898 (above) when former Crimson captain A.F. Holden '88 wrote Harvard coach Cam Forbes. He congratulated on moving the Yale contest to the final one on the schedule, for "it not only insures our eleven being at its very best, but it also makes the Yale-Harvard game the game of the season ..." Columnist Red Smith used "The Game" reference in the late 40s. The title was first placed on the cover of the Harvard-Yale program in 1960 and has been a fixture there since.

The Captains

Since 1961, the captains from Harvard and Yale have met at the site of the forthcoming Game to pose for the photos to be used on the program's cover in November. The photo session is followed each year by an informal lunch with both captains, the host head coach and staff members of the host school.

Music To My Ears

Harvard's and Yale's fight songs both refer to the other school. The Crimson's song, "Ten Thousand Men of Harvard," features the line, "So then we'll conquer old Eli's men, and when the game ends, we'll sing again ..." Yale's song, "Down the Field," concludes with, "Harvard's team may fight to the end, but Yale will win."

The Flying Wedge

Harvard introduced the infamous flying wedge in the second half of the 1892 Game. It was conceived by Harvard's Lorin F. Deland, a chess expert. The momentum formation couldn't stop Yale from claiming a 6-0 victory, and it was outlawed the following season because of its brutality.

Brief Interruption

The 1894 Game was so brutal that the schools called off relations for the next two years. Seven players were carried off the field in "dying" condition. Yale won the contest, 12-4.

Motivational Technique

Legend has it that in his locker room pep-talk for the 1908 Game, Crimson head coach Percy Haughton 1899 choked a bulldog to death with his bare hands and hurled it at the feet of his players. It is just a story, but the Crimson did

Pete Varney's two-point conversion with no time left completed Harvard's 16-point comeback in the last 42 seconds in the 29-29 'win' against Yale in 1968 win the game, 4-0, to complete a 9-0-1 season.

Upset Specials

Harvard has faced Yale with a perfect season on the line 17 times, most recently in 2004. Harvard has won six of those meetings, while the Crimson has lost or tied 11 times. The last time Yale spoiled Harvard's bid for a perfect season was in 1968, when the squads played to the famous 29-29 tie, leaving both schools at 8-0-1. Harvard spoiled Yale's bid for perfection in 2007 with a 37-6 thrashing and, in doing so, won an Ivy title itself.

Upset, Part Two

In 2007's game, Yale entered play ranked 11th and the Bulldogs were searching for their first 10-0 season since 1909. Harvard, ranked 25th, was undefeated in the Ancient Eight marking just the fourth time in league history that two unbeaten teams would meet in the final week of the season. The contest, set up to be a classic between two national powers, ended a one-sided drubbing instead as the Crimson prevailed, 37-6.

Harvard moved the ball all afternoon against what had been the nation's top-ranked passing defense to the tune of 434 yards. The Crimson defense did its part as well, stymieing the Bulldogs' vaunted running game and holding the host team to a paltry 109 yards of offense.

The 29-29 Win

The most famous Game in the series is Harvard's 29-29 "win" in 1968. Yale was poised to complete a perfect season as the Bulldogs held a 29-13 lead in the final minute, but the host Crimson scored 16 points in the final 42 seconds. The last points came on a two-point conversion with no time left, leaving both teams with 8-0-1 records. Actor Tommy Lee Jones '69 was an All-Ivy offensive tackle for the Crimson that season.

Fine Ending

The career of Harvard legend Charlie Brickley '15 came to a conclusion with a 36-0 rout of Yale in New Haven in 1914. Brickley, injured most of the year, kicked a PAT in the win, his 215th and final point. The record stood until the 2005 season, when it was broken by Clifton Dawson.

The Last In Line

In every formal season since 1898, Harvard's final opponent has been Yale. There is only one exception, as the 1919 campaign was completed with a 7-6 Rose Bowl victory over Oregon. Harvard got there with a 10-3 decision over the Elis.

Margin Call

The Crimson's largest margin of victory over Yale was a 41-0 win in 1915 at The Stadium.

Home Field Advantage?

Harvard is 22-22-1 at the Yale Bowl; the Bulldogs are 25-22-3 at Harvard Stadium. The visiting team has won 13 of the last 21 Games.

The Blessing Of The Bambino

Baseball great Babe Ruth was a big fan of Harvard.

Milestone Win

In 1954, Harvard won its 500th game by topping Yale, 13-9, at the Stadium.

Champions

Harvard completed its first 7-0 Ivy League season with a 17-7 victory over Yale in the 1997 Game.

In 2008, Harvard became just the seventh team in the Ivy League to win the Ivy title after losing its opening game (9Brown). The Crimson topped Yale, 10-0, in bone-chilling conditions at The Stadium to seal its improbable title comeback.

Double Duty

Wayne Johnson, Jr. (Harvard A.B. '44, L.L. B. 48) is the only player to have lettered for both Harvard and Yale in football. In 1942, Johnson played fullback for the Crimson and, against Yale, dropped a critical pass in a 7-3 defeat to the Elis. Soon after, he joined the Marines, where the Corps assigned him to Yale in a program that permitted undergrads to continue their studies while preparing for a commission. He played just one game for the Elis before an injury ended his season, but was still awarded a letter.

The Senior Senator

Former Massachusetts senator Ted Kennedy '56 caught Harvard's lone touchdown pass in the Crimson's 21-7 loss to Yale in 1955.

Playing Spoiler

Harvard foiled Yale's bid for an undefeated season in 1979. The Crimson scored a 22-7 upset at the Bowl.

Another Good One

In 1974, a 95-yard TD march, led by quarterback Milt "Pineapple" Holt '75, in The Game's final minutes helped Harvard to a 21-16 win and a share of the Ivy League championship with Yale. It also spoiled the Elis' bid for a perfect season.

Celebrating The Centennial

Harvard won its first outright Ivy League championship with a 10-7 victory at Yale in 1975. Mike Lynch '77, currently a sports anchor at WCVB-TV 5 in Boston, kicked a 26-yard field goal in the final moments to deliver the win. It was the 100th anniversary of the first Game.

Celebrating The 100th

The Crimson won the 100th Game, in 1983, by taking a 16-7 decision at Yale. The victory gained Harvard a share of the Ivy title.

We Interrupt This Game

In 1982, The Game was interrupted for several minutes when MIT pulled its most successful prank. Just after a second-quarter Harvard score, a huge black weather balloon bearing the letters "MIT" rose, inflated, and exploded on the 45-yard line. By the way, the host Crimson went on to a 45-7 win and earned a share of the Ivy League championship.

Another For The Ages

Harvard's 30-24 triple-overtime win in the Bowl Nov. 19, 2005 stands as the only overtime Game in series history. The Crimson rallied from a 21-3 second-half deficit and forced three Yale turnovers in OT before Clifton Dawson won it with a two-yard touchdown run in the New Haven twilight.

Making Their Points

The 1993 Game, played at Yale, is the highest-scoring in series history. The teams combined for 64 points in a 33-31 Yale victory.

Perfection

Harvard's 35-23 win in the 2001 Game wrapped up Harvard's first unbeaten, untied season since 1913.

Super-fection

Ricky Williamson '05's 100-yard interception return for a touchdown in the 2004 Game stands as the longest play in the rivalry's history. It propelled Harvard to a 35-3 win, which completed a 10-0 season for the Crimson. Harvard finished the year as one of just five undefeated teams in all of college football.

Ironman

Barry Wood '32 threw a pair of touchdown passes and played the entire 60 minutes when Harvard blanked Yale, 13-0, in 1930.

Scoreboard Watching

The aggregate score of the 125 previous Harvard-Yale games is 1,676-1,528 in favor of Yale.

On The Charts

The Harvard-Yale rivalry was tabbed as the sixth-best rivalry in college athletics, according to Sports Illustrated On Campus. Alabama-Auburn was first on the list, followed by Duke-North Carolina, UCLA-USC, Army-Navy, and Cal-Stanford.

On Television

This year marks the sixth consecutive season in which the Harvard-Yale game will be carried on national television.

Perfect Until The Seventh

A season-ending unbeaten Ivy matchup has occurred just four times including 2007 when Harvard defeated Yale, 37-6.:

Nov. 17, 2007 — #25 Harvard 37, #11 Yale 6 (at ale Bowl in New Haven, Conn.)

Nov. 22, 1986 — Penn 31, Cornell 21 (at Schoellkopf Field in Ithaca, N.Y.)

Nov. 23, 1968 — Yale 29, Harvard 29 (at Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, Mass.)

Nov. 20, 1965 — Dartmouth 28, Princeton 14

A crowd of roughly 57,000 was on hand for the 1913 edition of The Game at Harvard Stadium,

(at Palmer Stadium in Princeton, N.J.)

The (Numbers) Game

-10: Wind-chill factor during the 1987 Game in New Haven, when Harvard iced Yale in a 14-10 thriller for the Ivy League crown and an 8-2 overall record..

0: Number of Harvard varsity letters awarded in 1897. That's because Crimson players, disgusted by their performance in that season's 0-0 deadlock with Yale at Soldiers Field, voted not to accept their coveted H's.

2: Number of times MIT pranksters covertly tried to disrupt The Game with Stadium hijinks. In 1948 explosives were planted beneath midfield which they planned to blow up before kickoff — to inscribe giant "MIT" letters on the gridiron (and make a lasting impression on 57,495 in the stands). That twisted stunt was discovered and defused, but another neighborly gesture wasn't in 1982. Techsters interrupted action after a second-quarter Harvard score — a large black weather balloon marked "MIT" suddenly rising from the turf at midfield, inflating and exploding in a cloud of smoke.

3: Number of overtime periods in the 2005 Game, which stands as the longest Ivy League game on record. A two-yard touchdown run by Clifton Dawson '07 in the third OT with dusk falling on New Haven gave Harvard its fifth straight series win, 30-24.

4: Number of turnovers forced by Harvard's defense — all after the start of the fourth quarter — to spark the Crimson's come-from-behind win in the 2005 game.

4: Number of touchdowns passes by Harvard's Larry Brown '79 (in 1978's 35-28 loss at the Stadium), Neil Rose '03 (in 2001's 35-23 win at the Yale Bowl), Ryan Fitzpatrick '05 (in 2003's 37-19 win in New Haven) and Chris Pizzotti '08-09 (in 2007's 37-6 win at the Yale Bowl).

4: Current number of consecutive road wins by Harvard in the series.

5: Number of field goals kicked by Charley Brickley '15 for all of Harvard points in the Crimson's 15-5 victory in 1913 at the Stadium.

7: Number of Harvard students fined $5.29 apiece for disturbing the peace in New Haven while celebrating a Crimson triumph in The First Game 134 years ago last week (11/13/75).

8: Number of interceptions in 2007 for Harvard's Steven Williams '08 following a third quarter pick against the Bulldogs to tie Harvard's single season record and move him into first place on the Crimson's career list with 16.

10: Number of Rhodes Scholar who have played in The Game — five for Harvard, five for Yale.

13: Number of catches by Carl Morris '03 against Yale in 2000 — at the time equaling the Harvard single-game record, shared with Pat McNally '75 and Jim Curry '78.

21: Number of catches by Yale's Eric Johnson in the Bulldogs' dramatic 24-21 win in 1999. The last catch was a four-yard touchdown from Joe Walland in the closing seconds that sent a share of the Ivy League championship to New Haven.

26: Distance, in yards, of Mike Lynch '77's last-second field goal that won the 1975 Game for the Crimson, 10-7, and clinched Harvard's first outright Ivy League title.

29: Number of points scored by Eddie Mahan '16 in his 1915 Stadium farewell to lead a 41-0 whitewash of the Bulldogs. The three-time first-team All-American rushed for four touchdowns and kicked five conversions. The previous November, Mahan accounted for 15 points, catching one TD pass, throwing for another and adding a field goal in a 36-0 romp that spoiled Yale Bowl's christening. "Yale had the Bowl," wrote one journalist, "but Harvard had the punch."

39: Number of carries by Gino Gordon in the 125th edition, a 10-0 Harvard win in 2008. Gordon finished with 168 net rushing yards while adding 19 receiving yards and a bruising block against Yale's standout linebacker Bobby Abare.

42: Record number of points scored in a wild first half of the 1978 Game — 28 by Yale, 14 by

Harvard — in the 35-28 Stadium shootout won by the Bulldogs.

45: Number of points Harvard scored during its 45-7 triumph in 1982 at the Stadium. That's the most points Harvard has scored against Yale.

50: Price, in cents, of a ticket to the first Game Nov. 13, 1875, at Hamilton Field in New Haven. One hundred fifty Harvard faithful made the train trip and were rewarded by the Crimson's 4-0 win, witnessed by about 2,000. (Harvard's contract guaranteed $70 from gate receipts).

54: Number of points by Yale during its shutout of Harvard in 1957 at the Bowl — the largest margin of victory for either side in the series.

54: Number of punts during the 1923 Game at the swamped Stadium — 29 by Yale, 25 by Harvard on "a gridiron of 17 lakes, five quagmires, and a water hazard," legendary sportswriter Grantland Rice wrote. Fittingly, "Ducky" Pond scored the only TD, wading 63 yards with a Crimson fumble Yale gained only one first down all day, yet prevailed, 13-0.

62: Number of times one foe has shut out the other — Yale has done it 35 times, Harvard 27. That includes the rivals' doing it on the same day on seven occasions — the most recent 0-0 deadlock occurring here 81 Novembers ago when the 3-to-1 favored Elis continually threatened, but didn't score — a "scoreless victory" for Harvard as declared by the Harvard Crimson.

67: Number of passes hurled by Yale Joe Walland in the 1999 Bowl thriller. He completed 42 for 437 yards and three TDs — the last one with 29 seconds left to put Harvard in a Blue funk, 24-21.

77: Number of yards covered by six-foot-four end John Spagnola's surprise scoring pass to Bob Krystyniak in the 1978 Game. Versatile Spag later wrestled Pat O'Brien's 59-yard pass from a defender's grasp for the deciding score in Yale's 35-28 victory.

78: Number of yards Franny Lee '42 returned a Yale punt for a touchdown that helped ice

Harvard's 28-0 win in 1940 at the Bowl. It stands as the longest punt return in series history.

85: Distance, in yards, of Chet Boulris's pass to Hank Keohane (both Class of 1960) for a spectacular touchdown that ignited Harvard's 35-6 win at Yale in 1959 — the longest-scoring aerial in 133 years of Harvard football.

94: Distance, in yards, of Chuck Nwokocha '01's series-record kickoff return for the Crimson in a 34-24 loss at the Stadium in 2000.

95: Distance, in yards, of the famed scoring drive engineered by Milt "Pineapple" Holt '75 in the final five minutes as Harvard forged a tie with Yale for the Ivy League title in the 1974 Game, referred to by many as the best in the series.

99: Jersey number worn by Charley Yeager, Yale's five-foot-five, 138-pound senior manager, when he caught a two-point conversion pass, capping a rubbing-it-in 41-14 hammering of Harvard at the Stadium in 1952.

100: Distance, in yards, of the interception return by Ricky Williamson '05 which iced the Crimson's 35-3 win at the Stadium in 2004, capping Harvard's 10-0 season. It stands as the only 100-yard play in the Harvard-Yale series.

109: Total yards of offense by Yale in a 37-6 loss in the 2007 game. Yale completed just three of 22 passes for 43 yards and two interceptions and the nation's leading rusher, Mike McLeod, was held to 50 yards.

123: Number of receiving yards for Matt Luft, on five catches, in the first quarter alone during Harvard's 37-6 whitewashing of 11th-ranked Yale in 2007 in New Haven, Conn. Two of Luft's first quarter receptions went for touchdowns against what had been the nation's top-ranked passing and scoring defense entering the game. He finished with eight catches for 160 yards.

125: The number of times Harvard and Yale have met on the gridiron, making it college football's third-most played rivalry, behind only Lehigh-Lafayette (145) and Princeton-Yale (132).

1995: The last time a Harvard-Yale game was decided by a single point. The Crimson won at the Bowl when star back Eion Hu '97 burst through with a 2-yard TD run with 29 seconds remaining to earn a 22-21 victory.

2,112,154: Number of fans who have attended the Harvard-Yale game at the stadium over the years.

Highlights In The Harvard-Yale Rivalry

1875: First contest played at Hamilton Park in New Haven, Conn. Yale guaranteed Harvard $75 to play; tickets sold for 50 cents. (Harvard 4, Yale 0)

1885: The Harvard faculty bans football, calling it "brutal, demoralizing to teams and spectators, and extremely dangerous."

1889: The bulldog owned by Andrew Graves (Yale class of 1892) and named Handsome Dan becomes Yale's mascot. (Yale 6, Harvard 0)

1903: First game is played at Harvard Stadium (Yale 16, Harvard 0)

1908: Percy Haughton is named Harvard's head coach. The story that he once tore a live bulldog to pieces in front of his team cannot be proved. (Harvard 4, Yale 0)

1914: First Yale-Harvard game played in the Yale Bowl. (Harvard 36, Yale 0)

1916: Students "shot off Roman candles and fireworks, writhed in snake dances, and caroused far into the night," wrote the New York Times of Yale's 6-3 win.

1920: 80,000 fans are in attendance at the Yale Bowl, the largest crowd ever at The Game. (Harvard 9, Yale 0)

1923: There were 54 punts during The Game, Yale with 29 and Harvard with 25. (Yale 13, Harvard 0)

1930: The Game becomes the first U.S. football contest broadcast to England. (Harvard 13, Yale 0)

1934: Handsome Dan was lured from the Yale campus with hamburger and photographed licking the boots of John Harvard's statue. (Yale 14, Harvard 0)

1945: Ivy League is formed, originally pertaining only to football, to prevent universities from becoming merely a training ground for the pros. (Yale 28, Harvard 0)

1955: Harvard students let three piglets loose onto the field as the Yale band played. (Yale 21, Harvard 7)

1963: For the first time in history The Game is postponed, because of President Kennedy's assassination on Nov. 22. (Yale wins 20-6 on Nov. 23)

1968: The Tie: In what has been known as "The Game of the Century," Harvard comes from behind to tie, 29-29, scoring 16 points in the final 42 seconds and leading to the headline in the Harvard Crimson, "Harvard Beats Yale, 29-29."

1982: Courtesy of MIT, an enormous black balloon rises out of the field in front of the Harvard bench. (Harvard 45, Yale 7)

1983: Led by parachutists before the game, the schools celebrate the 100th playing of The Game. (Harvard 16, Yale 7).

1990: MIT students launch a banner reading "MIT" from the goal posts during the third quarter. (Yale 34, Harvard 19)

2004: Yale students, dressed as the "Harvard Pep Squad," attempt to prank Harvard fans at Harvard Stadium by telling them to hold placards that will read, "Go Harvard." Instead the cards spell out, "We Suck." Although the great majority of fans on Harvard's side of the field do not partake in holding up the signs, Yale takes some solace in the attempt after Harvard completes an undefeated season (Harvard 35, Yale 3)

2005: Harvard's 30-24 triple-overtime win in the Bowl Nov. 19, 2005 stands as the only overtime Game in series history. The Crimson rallied from a 21-3 second-half deficit and forced three Yale turnovers in OT before Clifton Dawson won it with a two-yard touchdown run in the New Haven twilight. (Harvard 30, Yale 24)

2007: In 2007's game, Yale entered play ranked 11th and the Bulldogs were searching for their first 10-0 season since 1909. Harvard, ranked 25th, was undefeated in the Ancient Eight marking just the fourth time in league history that two unbeaten teams would meet in the final week of the season. The contest, set up to be a classic between two national powers, ended a one-sided drubbing instead as the Crimson prevailed, 37-6.

Harvard moved the ball all afternoon against what had been the nation's top-ranked passing defense to the tune of 434 yards. The Crimson defense did its part as well, stymieing the Bulldogs' vaunted running game and holding the host team to a paltry 109 yards of offense. (Harvard 37, Yale 6)

2008: After fighting through swirling winds, single-digit temperatures and first-half miscues, Harvard emerged with a commanding 10-0 victory over the Yale Bulldogs for the program's 13th Ivy League Championship in the 125th edition of 'The Game'

The Crimson defense held Yale to just 90 total yards – the fewest Harvard allowed since the 2007 game, when Yale was held to 123 yards. (Harvard 10, Yale 0)

Summary

Harvard linebacker Jon Takamura batted down a desperation pass in the endzone as Harvard defeated Brown, 24-21, in a battle of defending Ivy League champions. Takamura also had an interception earlier in the game that led to the eventual game-winning touchdown catch by Matt Luft as the Crimson came back from a 14-10 halftime deficit ... One week after missing a 40-yard field goal as time expired, Brown would not attempt one from 42 yards after recovering an onsides kick with 30 seconds left. faced with fourth down from the Harvard 25, the Bears instead opted to try the endzone ... Collier Winters completed 18 of 27 passes for two TDs while running for a game-high 66 yards and another score.

Summary

The Quakers withstood a late charge from the Crimson, stopping them on three consecutive plays within the 5-yard line including a fourth down play frmo the one ... Penn ended the drive, stopping Harvard quarterback Collier Winters at the goal line on fourth down with 2:40 left to play to get the ball back ... An early second half touchdown from Winters to Chris Lodritch was the only blemish on a Quaker defense that has allowed just 14 points in their last 18 quarters of play ... A close fourth down call went Penn's way as well early in the game as Kyle Olson was ruled to have crossed the goal line on a QB sneak before fumbling the ball into the hands of a Harvard player ... Despite driving rain throughout the entire game, Olson and Keiffer Garton combined to go 20-for-32 for 181 yards and one touchdown for the Quakers.

TIM MURPHY

Thomas Stephenson Family Head Coach for Harvard Football

By any measure, Tim Murphy has led Harvard's storied football program to its most prosperous and successful era since the early 20th century — a trend he hopes to continue into 2009 as he enters his 16th year as the Thomas Stephenson Family Head Coach for Harvard Football.

One of the game's finest teachers and motivators, Murphy took charge of the Harvard program prior to the 1994 season and has since led the program to a dominant state within the Football Championship Subdivision.

He is the first Harvard coach since the legendary Percy Haughton to lead the Crimson to two unbeaten, untied seasons in his tenure. The 2008 season culminated in Harvard's fifth Ivy League championship under Murphy (13th overall), its second consecutive Ivy crown, and the third in five seasons. The 2008 Crimson finished the year ranked 14th in the FCS Coaches Poll and continued a tradition of winning never before seen in the storied Ivy League.

After accumulating a 9-1 overall record last season, Harvard continued its stretch as the first and only team in Ivy League history to record eight consecutive seasons with at least seven victories. Harvard's current stretch is the program's best eight-year run since a 28-year stretch of seven-plus win seasons came to an end in 1911. The team's eight-year win total of 63 is one shy of its output from 1908-1915.

Just the fourth head coach to man the Harvard sideline in the last 56 years, Murphy enters the game with an 103-55 record with the Crimson. His overall head coaching record stands at 135-100-1 through 22 years, including five seasons as head coach at Cincinnati and two at Maine. He is an impressive 88-32 in his last 120 games with the Crimson and 57-12 in the last seven seasons, marking Harvard's best seven-year run since the 1910-16 seasons.

Equally as impressive, every four-year player recruited by Murphy to Harvard has both graduated from the university and been part of at least one Ivy League championship team.

Murphy enters the 2009 season ranked second in school history in total wins, trailing only the legendary Joe Restic (who won 117 games with the Crimson) on the all-time chart. The two coaches are closely linked and remain close. In the spring of 2008, Murphy joined Restic as Harvard coaches to be honored with the National Football Foundation Eastern Chapter's Ron Burton Distinguished America Award, given to a former football player who has carried the lessons learned on the field to his larger community.

Murphy has guided the Crimson to four outright Ivy League, and five overall, titles in the past 12 years. The 2001 Harvard squad posted its first undefeated, untied campaign since 1913, while the 2004 team went a step further by going 10-0 to mark the first perfect season with at least 10 wins since 1901. Murphy's 1997 Crimson also won the Ivy title, which was Harvard's first in 10 years. In a game that will go down in history as one of equal importance and dominance, the 2007 championship season was capped by a 37-6 victory at Yale against a previously undefeated Bulldog team that was highly ranked in both total offense and defense.

The 2006 season saw Murphy's Harvard squad set another program first as the Crimson registered wins against the Ivy League and Patriot League champions for the first time in the same season in school history.

The 2004 season, meanwhile, still stands as arguably the Crimson's finest in more than 100 years. The Crimson went 10-0 on the year and had an average margin of victory of 20.5 points. Harvard scored at least 31 points in nine of the 10 games, had a double-digit winning margin in eight games, held its last six opponents to 14 points or less, dealt two shutouts and allowed just one touchdown in the last three games.

Harvard finished the year as the only undefeated school in the FCS and one of just five unbeaten in all of college football (along with Southern California, Auburn and Utah from the FBS and Linfield from Division III). The Crimson finished the season ranked No. 13 in the final Sports Network Division I-AA national poll and the ESPN/USA Today poll, marking Harvard's highest finish in the national rankings since the formation of the Division I-AA polls. Harvard's final Sagarin Rating stood 37th among the 239 Division I football schools, ahead of Minnesota, Brigham Young, Clemson, Stanford, Maryland, Alabama, Nebraska, Syracuse, Michigan State and Penn State, among others.

Murphy saw two Harvard players achieve All-America status and one earn Academic All-America recognition in 2004, while the Crimson had 15 players — the most in school history — named All-Ivy League. Harvard's starting quarterback, Ryan Fitzpatrick '05, was tabbed as the league's player of the year and went on to play in the East-West Shrine Game and the Hula Bowl.

Murphy himself was named the American Football Monthly Division I-AA national coach of the year and was a finalist for the Eddie Robinson Award. He was named the New England Division I-AA coach of the year for the fourth time in his career.

Murphy's 2001 Harvard squad finished 9-0 overall and 7-0 in the Ivies, and was ranked No. 19 in the final Sports Network poll.

Harvard committed just nine turnovers, averaged 445.0 yards in offense, and scored at least four touchdowns in every game. Murphy was both New England Division I-AA coach of the year and Grid Iron Club of Boston I-AA coach of the year, and received AFCA District I coach-of-the-year honors. He was also a finalist for the Eddie Robinson Award.

Previously, Murphy led Harvard to the 1997 Ivy championship, when his squad finished 9-1 overall and 7-0 in League play. It marked the first time in school history that the Crimson had posted a perfect Ivy record. Murphy was named the Scotty Whitelaw ECAC Division I-AA coach of the year and New England coach of the year.

Since 1994, Harvard has had 64 first team All Ivy selections, four Ivy rookies of the year, four Ivy players of the year, six first team All-Americans and sent 11 players on to pro football, including five-time All-Pro Matt Birk '98 of the Baltimore Ravens. In addition, 10 of his players have received national academic recognition (either CoSIDA Academic All-America or the FCS All-Academic Team). Before sending two players to the 2008 CoSIDA Academic All-American team in 2008, Harvard had a national-best six players recognized on the All-District One team.

Murphy, past president of the FCS (Division I-AA) Coaches Association and a member of the Division I-AA Football board of trustees, is Harvard's first endowed coach. In October 1994, Thomas F. Stephenson '64 M.B.A. '66 established a $2 million endowment fund that supports the head football coach in much the same way that an endowed chair supports a professor. Stephenson chose to name the fund for members of his family, who have been active participants in the Harvard community for four generations.

Murphy was named head football coach at Harvard Dec. 6, 1993. He came from the University of Cincinnati, where that fall he had directed the Division I-A Bearcats to their finest record in 17 years. Murphy's first head coaching position was at the University of Maine, where, in 1987, he led the Black Bears to their first NCAA Division I-AA playoff berth.

At Cincinnati, Murphy led the Bearcats to an 8-3 record in 1993, their first winning campaign since 1982 and the school's best overall mark since 1976 (9-2). Cincinnati was the fourth-most improved team in Division I-A (an increase of five wins over 1992), and finished the regular season ranked 27th in the country in the USA Today/CNN poll and 28th in the AP poll. It was the program's highest ranking in school history.

This success came after Murphy inherited a program that had a condemned stadium, no practice facilities, and the loss of 19 scholarships after being placed on probation for infractions incurred by the previous coaching staff. He attained all of his short-term goals, including: NCAA compliance, an improved graduation rate, reconstructing the strength and conditioning program and development of a successful major college team. When Murphy took over at Cincinnati in 1989, he was only 32 years old and was the youngest Division I head coach in the nation (along with Dave Rader at Tulsa).

While improvement was consistent throughout his tenure, it all came together in 1993. In that summer, Cincinnati was recognized by the College Football Association for being one of only 20 Division I schools to graduate a minimum of 70 percent of its most recent recruiting class. On the field, the Bearcats had their third-highest point total in school history (302), and set school marks for offensive plays, first downs and fewest turnovers. In addition, Cincinnati won that year's Independent Football Alliance championship (which included then-independents Memphis, East Carolina, Tulsa and Southern Mississippi).

Murphy started his head coaching career at Maine — in 1987 and 1988 — when he became the youngest head coach in the country (at age 30) upon succeeding current Dartmouth head coach Buddy Teevens. His first team finished with an 8-4 record (the Black Bears' finest record in 23 years), shared the Yankee Conference title, and advanced to the NCAA Division I-AA tournament for the first time in school history. accomplishments, Murphy was named Division I-AA New England coach of the year and the AFCA Northeast Region coach of the year.

Murphy also has extensive experience as an assistant coach. He was the offensive coordinator at Maine in 1985 and 1986, when the Black Bears both rushed and passed for more than 2,000 yards in the same season for the first time in school history. He was the offensive line coach at Boston University for three seasons, from 1982 through 1984, and helped the Terriers to Yankee Conference titles and NCAA Division I-AA playoff berths each year. Murphy was also the defensive line coach at Lafayette (1981), where he worked under Bill Russo when the Leopards posted their best record in school history (9-2), just one season after the squad went 1-10.

Murphy began his coaching career as a part-time assistant at Brown in 1979, and was promoted to assistant varsity offensive line coach the following season. A native of Kingston, Mass., Murphy graduated from Silver Lake High School in 1974. He then attended Springfield College, where he became a four-year starter and was a small college All-New England linebacker as a senior, and graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in 1978. Murphy earned his M.Ed. from Springfield the following year, did additional postgraduate work at Boston University and was accepted to the J.L. Kellogg Graduate School of Business at Northwestern and the Colgate Darden School of Business at Virginia.

Murphy was chosen to sit on the board of trustees of the American Football Coaches Association in January 2005 and was named to Springfield's All-Decade Team in 2006. In October, 2007, the night following Harvard's 27-10 victory over Princeton, Murphy was inducted into the Springfield College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Murphy resides in Wayland with his wife, Martha Kennedy Murphy, and the couple's three children: Molly Kennedy; Conor Timothy; and Grace Katharine.
