Program History

- Water polo has been played at Harvard since as early as 1902, when matches would be contested at swim meets. It existed sporadically with official or club sport status from the early 1900s through 1979, sometimes being discontinued for years because of a shortage of players or lack of practice facilities.
- The first-ever Harvard men's varsity water polo match took place on Wednesday, Sept. 17, 1980. Held in Harvard's Blodgett Pool, the Wildcats of the University of New Hampshire traveled to Boston to take part in this historic contest. The Crimson pulled out a dominating 19-1 victory.
- On Sept 26, 1980, a significant step towards building the Crimson program was taken when Harvard went up against UCLA, the NCAA runner-up from the year before. UCLA won, 29-5.
- Harvard began playing in 1980 as a Division II team.
- From 1980 to 1992, the top-two finishers at the New England Championships were advanced to the Eastern Championships.
- Before the 1993 season, the New England Water Polo Association and a number of other small associations were merged to form the Eastern Water Polo Association, which changed its name to the Collegiate Water Polo Association in 1996 to reflect the geography of its member teams. The CWPA is divided into a Northern and Southern Division, and the top four teams from each division's championship are advanced to the Eastern Championships. Harvard has played in the CWPA Northern Division from 1993 through 2010.
- Five Harvard water polo players have earned All-America distinctions in the history of the program: Mike Masterso '03, Rick Offsay '05 and Mike Zimmerman '99. Most recently, Dennis Blyashov (Third team) and Austin Sechrest (honorable mention) were recognized in 2017.
- 25 of the team's 36 seasons through 2012-13 have finished with winning records.
- Harvard's 100 matches played against Brown are the most of any school in the program's history through 2012.
- A second-place finish at the 2004 EWPA Northern Championships was the program's best showing at the event.
- Harvard's best postseason finish at the Eastern Championships were in 2001 and 2015 where it placed third.
- Harvard recorded a historic season in 2016, finishing with a program-best 27-7 overall record while winning the first Northeast Water Polo Conference Championship and making its first-ever NCAA appearance.
- The 2016 Crimson went on to win two NCAA tournament games with victories over then-No. 12 Bucknell and No. 9 UC Davis to earn a spot in the Final Four. Harvard recorded a third-straight season with 20-plus wins for the first time in school history and defeated a program-record 13 ranked opponents.
- Harvard earned back-to-back Northeast Water Polo Conference titles in 2016 and 2017. The Crimson finished the 2017 season with an overall record of 24-8. Harvard earned a second-straight NCAA Tournament appearance after winning the conference, beating George Washington in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament before losing to Southern California in the NCAA Quarterfinals in Los Angeles. Dennis Blyashov was named to the All-America third team (and was named NEWPC Rookie of the Year), while Austin Sechrest was named an All-America honorable mention.
- Harvard finished the 2018 season 22-8, going 10-2 in conference, while tallying its fifth consecutive season with 20 or more wins. The Crimson concluded its season at the NWPC Championship game. Junior Austin Sechrest and sophomore Dennis Blyashov were garnered All-America Honorable Mention, the second year the pair have received All-America recognition.
- Harvard went undefeated during the 2019 regular season, achieving a 27-0 record while going 10-0 in conference play. This marks Harvard's sixth consecutive season with 20 or more wins. Harvard defeated then-No. 19 Princeton in the NWPC Championship match to advance to its third NCAA Tournament appearance in four years. A program-high four members captured All-America honors with senior captains Charlie Owens and Austin Sechrest, junior Dennis Blyashov and sophomore Noah Hodge all receiving honorable mentions.
- Harvard did not compete in the 2020 season due to the Ivy League canceling athletics amidst the COVID-19 pandemic. Harvard returned to play in 2021, after 644 days without competition, posting the third-highest win total in program history with a 26-6 record. Junior Alex Tsotadze received NWPC Most Valuable Player following his 71-goal season and joined juniors Noah Hodge and Gabe Putnam on the NWPC All-Conference First Team. The same trio captured All-America honors following the campaign.
- In 2022, senior Noah Hodge and first-year James Rozollis-Hill broke program records after Hodge set the all-time program saves record while Rozollis-Hill broke the single season goal record. Both Rozollis-Hill and Hodge earned All-America Honors at the end of the 2022 season.
