 STREAK..... W1

QUICK STORYLINES

- The Crimson 2025-26 season was be comprised of 13 non-conference and its annual 14-game Ivy League slate. Harvard played nine of its non-conference games in November and eight of them took place outside of Cambridge, Mass. In its regular season finale the Crimson defeated Columbia to improve to 10-4 in league play and record double-digit conference wins in back-to-back seasons for the first time in a decade.
- Harvard will look to win its second consecutive Ivy League Tournament title this weekend beginning this weekend in the semifinals against Columbia on Friday, March 13 at 7:30 p.m. ET in Ithaca, NY.
- In last weekend's win, the Crimson came back from down 16 to defeat the Lions, 68-64, and deny them a share of the Ivy League regular season championship on their home court.
- Karlee White led the comeback with a team-high 24 points, nine rebounds, and three steals. Saniyah Glenn-Bello (12) and Olivia Jones (11) also added double figures in the contest.
- The Crimson outscored the Lions 24-8 in the final 5:58 of the third quarter to tie the contest heading into the third quarter.
- The rivalry between the two teams has been brewing for years as 13 of Columbia's 16 all-time wins against Harvard have come his 2019. Since Carrie Moore's arrival in Cambridge the two teams have faced off an unprecedented 12 times including in the postseason in all four years.
- Karlee White is having a breakout junior season and ranks fifth in scoring (15.4) and first in field goal percentage (55.5%) in the conference. Wright is also putting up career numbers and ranks seventh in scoring (13.5) and rebounds (6.3) in the Ivy League. In the nation, Wright ranks as the 27th-best offensive rebounder with an average of 3.7 o-boards per game. Saniyah Glenn-Bello and Katie Krupa are both putting up numbers on either end of the court as they both rank inside the top 20 for assists and the top 10 for blocks in the conference. Olivia Jones ranks 10th in the conference for rebounding (6.1), assists (2.9), and steals (1.6) and has the best assist/turnover ratio (1.8) in the league.
- Jones capped off a strong first-year in Cambridge by being named the unanimous Ivy League Rookie of the Year. She is the eighth Rookie of the Year in program history and one of eight players in league history to win at least nine Rookie of the Week honors. White and Wright also earned their first All-Ivy nods being named unanimous First Team All-Ivy and Second Team All-Ivy, respectively.
- Prior to the season, the Crimson elected juniors White and Wright as captains of the 2025-26 Harvard women's basketball team.
- The Crimson currently has the third-best NET in the Ivy League at 65 and is receiving votes in the most recent Mid-Major Top 25.
- Harvard is coming off one of its best season in program history in 2024-25 as it accumulated a program-record 24 wins, won its first Ivy League Tournament Championship in program history, and returned to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2007.
- Despite losing two historic players just a season ago, the Crimson still welcomed back 11 players from its championship roster and added five first-years in a highly touted recruiting class.
- Jones, Aubrey Shaw, Maya Nahar, Ava Krumweide, and Sam Wills make up Harvard's Class of 2029. Prior to arriving in Cambridge, Shaw was a top-65 recruit out of Blue Valley North High School in Kansas.
- Moore has continued to lead the Crimson back into the national spotlight and build her legacy at the helm of the program. With a victory over Penn on January 20, 2026, Moore became the fastest coach to 50 wins in program history. Also in her third year at the helm, Moore recorded her first ranked win as a head coach and led the Crimson to a program-high three total power conference wins.
- Prior to this season, Carrie Moore was named to the preseason watch list for the 2026 Kathy Delaney-Smith Mid-Major Coach of the Year Award. Moore was one of the five finalists for the award last season.
- The Crimson was picked to finish third in the Ivy League Preseason Poll, receiving 126 points, including one first-place vote. Harvard trailed only Princeton (163) and Columbia (147).

GRIT | INTEGRITY | UNITY | JOY

THE LAST TIME OUT

- The Crimson came back from 16-down to defeat Columbia, 68-64, in the regular season finale, denying the Lions a share of its fourth straight Ivy League title.
- Karlee White willed the Crimson to victory, tallying a team-high in points (24), rebounds (nine), and steals (four). After struggling in the first half, White fueled Harvard's comeback with 20 second half points on 7-of-9 shooting.
- Olivia Jones rose to the occasion against the Lions with 11 points on 4-of-8 shooting, three rebounds, three steals, and two assists. The first-year, who leads the league in assist/turnover ratio, committed zero turnovers in a career-high 35 minutes played.
- Saniyah Glenn-Bello added 12 points, a block, and two steals and had the team's best plus/minus at +13.
- Katie Krupa added solid minutes with eight points, two rebounds, a block, two steals, and a team-high four assists.
- Harvard shot over 60% from the field and forced 15 turnovers in the second half to help secure its largest comeback since 2023.
- The Crimson's defense forced 23 Lions turnovers, their third-highest turnover total this season. Harvard capitalized for 19 points off Columbia's miscues.

A RIVALRY RENEWED

- The Crimson and the Lions will meet for an unprecedented 13th time in four years this Friday.
- Harvard is 4-9 against Columbia since Carrie Moore arrived in Cambridge but some of those Harvard wins have come in some of the highest stake games.
- In 2023, the Crimson got its first win over the Lions under Moore, recording the first upset in Ivy Madness history with a 72-65 overtime win. The semifinals defeat would ultimately deny Columbia an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament.
- It would be nearly two years later that Harvard would get its next win over Columbia, defeating the Lions 60-54 on their home court in the regular season last year.
- Harvard then faced Columbia with an Ivy League Tournament championship on the line last season. The Crimson again denied the Lions a chance at its first tournament crown, winning a nail-bitter, 74-71.
- Looking to halt another championship, Harvard went into a sold-out Levien Gymnasium last weekend and dropped the Lions, 68-64. With a win, Columbia would've earned a share of its fourth straight Ivy League title and been the one-seed in Ivy Madness. Instead, the Crimson came from down 16 to close the regular season in the win column.

ALL-IVY

- Harvard earned a handful of All-Ivy year-end honors headlined by Olivia Jones being named the unanimous Ivy League Rookie of the Year. The captain duo of Karlee White and Abigail Wright capped off breakout junior seasons with a unanimous First Team All-Ivy and a Second Team All-Ivy selection, respectively. Katie Krupa rounded out the honors with her second selection to the Academic All-Ivy Team.
- Jones wasted no time making a name for herself in the Ivy League as she is one of eight players in conference history to win nine Rookie of the Week honors and is now the unanimous choice for Rookie of the Year. The Pennsylvania native was a consistent, steady presence for the Crimson throughout the season, averaging 5.6 points, 6.1 rebounds, 2.9 assists, and 1.6 steals per game.
- White elevated her game in every aspect this season, averaging a team-best 15.4 points on 55.5% shooting from the field and 46.7% from three along with 5.1 rebounds, 1.8 assists, and 2.0 steals per game. It is the first All-Ivy nod of her career. Wright also stepped into a starring role for the Crimson this season, averaging 13.5 points on 45.7% shooting, 6.3 rebounds, 1.6 assists, and 1.0 steals per game. It is the first All-Ivy nod of her career.

CALM IN THE MADNESS

- Harvard has made ever Ivy Madness that has been held since its inception in 2017.
- Of those eight years of the tournament, the Crimson has been the three seed seven times, including this season.
- Harvard won its first Ivy Madness title in program history and was the first non-No. 1 seed to win the tournament last season.
- It was a Harmoni Turner masterclass in the semifinals as she recorded a tournament and program record 44 points to lift Harvard over Princeton, 70-67.
- The Crimson trailed by as many as 13 midway through the third quarter but eventually took its first lead since the first quarter at 62-61.
- After pulling in front again at 66-64 with 2:45 remaining, Harvard never again relinquished its lead.
- The following day, Harvard took down the top-seed Columbia in a 74-71 thriller.
- The Crimson received contributions from all down its lineup as eight different players added points to the box score.
- Turner was named the Most Outstanding Player with another show-stopping performance of 24 points, four assists, and three steals against the Lions. Elena Rodriguez (13) and Karlee White (12) also added double-digit points in the contest.
- The Crimson hold the only three upsets by seed in the tournament's history. Outside of its two upsets last season, Harvard also knocked off Columbia as a three-seed in 2022-23.

WHITE HOT

- Karlee White has smoothly transitioned into her leading role, averaging 15.4 points, 5.1 rebounds, and 2.0 steals.
- Not only is White averaging a career-best for scoring but she is also doing so at an efficient rate, shooting 55.5% from the field.
- White ranks first in the league in field goal percentage, fourth in steals, fifth in scoring, and 15th in rebounds. The field goal percentage also ranks 30th in the nation.
- The junior reached double figures in five of the first six games after having done so just five times total in her first two seasons.
- White has been on a heater as of late, making a case for Ivy League Player of the Year. The junior has tallied 13-straight games in double figures and has totaled 19 10+ outings this year. Additionally, White has scored 20+ points five times including 24 points in the regular season finale versus Columbia.
- The California native is one of seven players in the conference since 2009-10 to improve their scoring by 10.0 points per game from one season to the next.
- White is one of 16 players in the country that is averaging over 15.4 points per game and shooting over 55.5% from the field.

TRENDING IN THE WRIGHT DIRECTION

- Abigail Wright has had a breakout season averaging a career-best for points (13.5), rebounds (6.3), and assists (1.6).
- The junior captain is currently leading the Crimson in rebounding and is second in scoring while also ranking seventh in the league for points and rebounds.
- Wright has recorded three double-doubles this season, most recently with 14 points and 10 rebounds against Penn.
- Wright is currently the 27th-best offensive rebounder in the nation with her averaging of 3.7 per game.

- Wright's 99 offensive rebounds this season tied for seventh in a single season in program history.
- Wright has posted 20 or more points in six games this season.
- Recently, Wright surpassed her career-high with 29 points on 12-of-18 shooting against Brown. The junior also went 3-for-4 from three after having only made one three during the season entering the contest.

STUFFING THE STAT SHEET

- Saniyah Glenn-Bello has consistently provided a presence all over the court during her senior season.
- Glenn-Bello is averaging a career-high in nearly every statistical category by averaging 11.3 points, 3.9 rebounds, 2.3 assists, 1.7 steals, and 1.2 blocks per game.
- The senior ranks third in the league in blocks (1.2), ninth in steals (1.7), and 14th in scoring (11.3).
- After not scoring in double figures in the first four games, Glenn-Bello has now done so in 16 of the last 20 games.
- After averaging 17.5 points on 54.2% shooting and 77.8% from three and averaging 4.0 rebound, 1.0 blocks, 1.5 steals, and the game-tying and winning threes against Brown, Glenn-Bello recorded her first career Ivy League Player of the Week honor.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

- Olivia Jones made her mark in the league early and continued to impress often. The Pennsylvania native won the first Ivy League weekly honor and went on to win eight more throughout the season. She is one of eight players in league history to earn at least eight Rookie of the Week honors and joins Allison Feaster '98 and Temi Fagbenle '15 as the only Harvard players to do so.
- To cap off an all-around first-year in Cambridge, Jones was unanimously selected as the Ivy League Rookie of the Year.
- Overall, she averaged 5.6 points, 6.1 rebounds, 2.9 assists, and 1.6 steals per game.
- The first-year appeared in 24 games and stepped into a starting spot in the final 12 games of the season.
- In the regular season finale, Jones was instrumental in the Crimson's comeback win, tallying 11 points on 4-of-8 shooting, three rebounds, two assists, and three steals.

CARRIE MOORE

The Kathy Delaney-Smith Friends of Harvard Women's Basketball Head Coach, The Ragatz Family Harvard Coach of Excellence
Fourth season at Harvard
77-39 Overall | 39-17 Ivy League

Carrie Moore was named The Kathy Delaney-Smith Head Coach For Harvard Women's Basketball, Erin McDermott, The John D. Nichols '53 Family Director of Athletics, announced on Wednesday, April 6, 2022. Moore, the fourth head coach in program history, arrives in Cambridge from Michigan where she helped the Wolverines to the Elite 8 round of the 2022 NCAA tournament.

In her third year as the leader of Harvard women's basketball Moore led the Crimson to historic new heights. The Crimson won a program-best 24 games, won its first Ivy League Tournament Championship, and returned to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in 18 years. As part of its 24 wins in 2024-25, the Crimson defeated three power conference opponents including its second win in 20 years over a ranked opponent with its 72-68 overtime victory over No. 25 Indiana. On January 20, Moore's first ever win inside the Palestra also marked win No. 50 as the head coach. With the 73-44 win over the Quakers Moore became the fastest head coach to 50 wins in program history. After battling for a title each of Moore's first two seasons the Crimson were crowned champions at the 2025 Ivy League Tournament. In the semifinal game against Princeton Harvard erased a 13-point deficit to defeat the Tigers 70-67. The following day Harvard battled to a 74-71 victory over the top-seed Columbia Lions to win the title. With the conference crown, the Crimson punched its ticket to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2007. Making even more history, Harvard received its lowest seed in program history, entering March Madness as a 10-seed. The Crimson historic season ultimately came to a close in the opening round of the tournament, falling to the seven-seed Michigan State Spartans. Moore established a defensive identity in 2024-25, coaching the Crimson to become one of the best defensive teams in the nation. Through many weeks in the season Harvard was the top scoring defense in the country and ultimately finished the season as the fifth best by holding opponents in 52.9 points per game. Individually, Moore was named the 2025 World Exposure Report Mid-Major Coach of the Year and a semifinalist for the 2025 Kathy Delaney-Smith Mid-Major Coach of the Year. Moore's 60 total wins throughout her first three seasons marks the most in program history through any coaches' opening three years.

In year two under Moore, the Crimson finished 16-12 overall and 9-5 in conference play. Harvard once again earned a spot in the Ivy League Tournament as the three-seed before falling to Columbia on the Lions home court, 63-61. Moore helped lead three players to All-Ivy honors including Harmoni Turner who earned First-Team All-Ivy for the second straight season and Lola Mullaney and Katie Krupa who both received Honorable Mention All-Ivy. Moore's 36 total wins throughout her first two seasons marks the most in program history through any coaches' opening two years.

In her first season at the helm in Cambridge, Moore led the Crimson to historic heights. The team compiled a record of 20-12 overall, a win total that was a program best for a first-year head coach. Following a third-place finish in the Ivy League regular season, the Crimson defeated two-seed Columbia, 72-65, to advance to the Ivy League Tournament Championship game. Despite falling in league play, the Crimson went on to the WNIT where it would go on a historic run to the fourth round, the Great 8. In 2023, Moore coached three players to All-Ivy accolades including Harmoni Turner who earned First-Team All-Ivy, Lola Mullaney (Second-Team All-Ivy), and Elena Rodriguez (Honorable Mention All-Ivy)

In her one season as an assistant coach and recruiting coordinator in Ann Arbor, Moore guided Michigan to a 25-7 record (13-4 Big Ten) and a No. 3 seed in the NCAA tournament. The Wolverines entered the postseason ranked 12th in the Associated Press Top 25 Poll, marking the program's highest regular-season-ending ranking in school history.

At the individual level, Moore helped Naz Hillmon become Michigan's first player to garner AP All-America First-Team honors, while coaching five All-Big Ten selections in 2021-22.

Prior to returning to her home state of Michigan, Moore spent two seasons at North Carolina, serving as the program's assistant coach and recruiting coordinator. During her time in Chapel Hill, she guided the Tar Heels to the 2021 NCAA tournament and signed a pair of highly regarded recruiting classes. Her 2019 class was considered the 10th-best nationally, while the 2020 group was ranked third as it featured three McDonald's All-Americans.

Along her path to Harvard included two different stints at Ivy League member Princeton. Before heading to UNC, Moore was an assistant coach for the Tigers, coaching Princeton to back-to-back Ivy regular-season and tournament titles (2017-18, 2018-19) en route to a pair of NCAA appearances, and a berth in the 2017 WNIT. She also served as the Tigers' director of operations for two seasons (2008-09, 2009-10), with the 2009-10 team capturing the Ivy championship and reaching the NCAA tournament.

In between her stints at Princeton was a five-year run at Creighton. As an assistant from 2010-15, Moore helped the Bluejays reach the postseason each year, including consecutive trips to the NCAA tournament in 2012 and 2013, a feat that had never been accomplished in program history.

Before embarking on a successful coaching career, Moore was a standout player at Western Michigan, where she scored a school-record 2,216 points. As a senior in 2006-07, she was named the Mid-American Conference Player of the Year after leading the nation in scoring at 25.4 points per game, marking the first time a MAC player won the Division I scoring title. In addition to her efforts on the court, which included her setting nine school records and four league records, Moore was a star in the classroom, collecting Academic All-America Second-Team accolades and landing on the nominee list for the Senior CLASS Award. She graduated magna cum laude from WMU in 2007, with a degree in journalism.

Once her time as a Division I player was up, Moore signed WNBA free agent contracts with the Phoenix Mercury and Chicago Sky, and then played professionally for one season in Poland.
