The Montana women's basketball team, coming off a one-sided 90-45 victory over Providence (MT) on Tuesday at Lady Griz School Day, will put the confidence gained from that performance to the test on Saturday night when it hosts mid-major heavyweight South Dakota.

The Lady Griz (1-1) and Coyotes (4-1) will tip off at 7 p.m. at Dahlberg Arena.

To date (Montana): After opening the season with a 76-52 loss at Gonzaga, another mid-major heavyweight, a game the Lady Griz trailed 42-17 at the half, Montana rebounded nearly two weeks later with a thorough dismantling of Providence on Tuesday, 90-45.

Montana had seven players score between nine and 15 points -- three of them true freshmen -- as the Lady Griz shot 51.1 percent, just the second time they've shot better than 50 percent in 63 games under third-year coach Shannon Schweyen.

To date (South Dakota): The Coyotes, ranked eighth this week in the CollegeInsider.com Mid-Major Top 25 poll, are off to a 4-1 start, their lone setback coming on the road at Drake, 76-64, against a team ranked first in the mid-major poll.

South Dakota opened the season with a 77-65 road win at Creighton, added a pair of home blowouts over Incarnate Word and the College of Saint Mary, and handed Wichita State its first loss of the season, 73-64, on Wednesday night in a game played in Sioux Falls, 60 miles from USD's campus in Vermillion.

Coverage: Saturday's game can be watched on either Pluto TV or WatchBigSky.com or heard locally on KMPT 930 AM/99.7 FM, with Tom Stage and Dick Slater calling the action.

Upcoming: Montana will host the 38th edition of the Lady Griz Classic next weekend, when UC Davis, Nevada and Northern Illinois make their way to Missoula. Games will be played at noon and 2 p.m. next Saturday and Sunday, with Montana opening against Northern Illinois.

Twelve things to know for Saturday:

1. South Dakota State women's basketball has more cachet -- the Jackrabbits made a faster move from Division II national power to Division I mid-major power -- but South Dakota has slowly been closing the gap, making the Coyotes one of the best teams you've probably yet to pay much attention to.

One of those teams went a perfect 14-0 in the Summit League last winter, and it wasn't the Jacks. Instead it was the Coyotes, who twice defeated SDSU during the regular season to become the first Summit team to go undefeated in 24 years.

But as a reminder that South Dakota State is -- for now -- still the boss of I-29, the Jackrabbits won the Summit League championship game over the Coyotes 65-50, relegating South Dakota once again to the WNIT for the fourth straight year, despite winning 110 games the last four seasons.

2. South Dakota is 56-17 under third-year coach Dawn Plitzuweit, the 2017-18 Summit League Coach of the Year. She led the Coyotes to 29 wins last season and the quarterfinals of the WNIT.

USD enters Saturday's game having won 27 of its last 30 games dating back to last December.

3. A brief history: South Dakota made the move from Division II to Division I beginning in 2008-09 under coach Ryun Williams. After leading the Coyotes to the WNIT in his fourth year, Williams left for the head job at Colorado State, where he still is.

He was replaced by Amy Williams, who got things rolling a little bit more. USD went to the NCAA tournament in 2014, in Williams's second year, and won the WNIT in 2016 after losing to South Dakota State in the Summit League title game.

Williams turned that into the head job at Nebraska, her alma mater.

Enter Dawn Plitzuweit, who is in Year 3. She played at Michigan Tech under now Wisconsin-Green Bay coach Kevin Borseth. She coached under him at Tech and Green Bay before going out on her own and coaching at Grand Valley State for five seasons. She led the Lakers to the 2006 Division II title.

She left Grand Valley State to rejoin Borseth when he took the Michigan job in 2007. The staff spent five years in Ann Arbor.

When Borseth returned to Green Bay in 2012-13 -- which he got after SDSU's Aaron Johnston agreed to the job, then reconsidered on the trip from Brookings to Green Bay to be announced as the Phoenix's next coach -- Plitzuweit took the head position at Northern Kentucky, where she was when USD called.

4. South Dakota returned three starters this season: senior guard Allison Arens, junior guard Ciara Duffy and junior guard Madison McKeever.

Arens and Duffy were both first-team All-Summit League selections a year ago and made the conference's six-player preseason team last month. McKeever, honorable mention a year ago, made last month's five-player preseason second team.

Through five games, it's junior forward Taylor Frederick leading the team in scoring at 13.6 points on 56.5 percent shooting.

She is one of four players averaging in double figures. McKeever is averaging 12.0 points, Duffy 11.4 points and sophomore Hannah Sjerven, who played one year at New Mexico before transferring to USD and sitting out last season, 10.2 points on 67.7 percent shooting.

"They are very talented, very experienced, very composed. They've played in front of some big crowds and in some big games," said Montana coach Shannon Schweyen.

"They have five good basketball players on the floor at all times. They all shoot it, they all do things pretty well. They are very balanced in their attack, so it's hard to focus on just one person. We'll be tested for sure."

5. Montana and South Dakota are playing for the first time. Note: The Lady Griz played that other team -- South Dakota State -- in Iowa City early in the 2016-17 season and lost 84-43.

6. In the most recent CollegeInsider.com Mid-Major Top 25 poll, Drake is No. 1, South Dakota State No. 2, Gonzaga No. 4, Green Bay No. 5, South Dakota No. 8. Idaho is the lone Big Sky Conference team to make the top 25, coming in at No. 18.

7. So, yes, Saturday is going to be a good measuring stick. Is Montana better now than the team that got beat handily at Gonzaga two and a half weeks ago? Was Tuesday's victory over Providence a big step forward or just the expected result over an NAIA opponent? Saturday will reveal much.

8. There was plenty to like on Tuesday. After finding itself tied 10-10 midway through the first quarter against a team that was 7-0, Montana outscored Providence 35-11 the rest of the half, then controlled play throughout the final 20 minutes, putting up another 45 points.

Montana shot 51.5 percent not because of easy putbacks -- the Lady Griz had only five offensive rebounds for the game and six second-chance points -- or because it was getting to the basket at will. Instead it came from some efficient -- and effective -- offensive execution.

Fifteen of Montana's first 16 baskets came by way of assist.

2018-19 MONTANA WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

"No. 1, it was great for us to get back on the floor (after nearly two weeks between games)," said Schweyen. "You're always concerned about a layoff like that. How are we going to play? How are we going to respond to having that much time off?"

"I really felt like the girls were fired up to get out there, and they transferred that into offensive execution and knocking down shots."

9. Lost amid the din of 5,000-plus school-age kids and the intoxicating point total was this: the team's lone senior, Jace Henderson, scored four points on 1-of-7 shooting and junior Madi Schoening, who had started the first 62 games of her career, was sidelined with an injury.

"For us to put up 90 without Jace having a big game and Madi not being out there, I'm not sure we could do that that often," said Schweyen, whose team reached 90 points for the first time with her as head coach.

"It was great to see so many people get out on the floor and make baskets. Our bench came in and really played well and gave us a big spark and big lift. It was encouraging."

10. Montana's bench scored just seven points in the season-opening loss at Gonzaga. On Tuesday: 37 points on 15-of-25 shooting.

Freshman Carmen Gfeller, who didn't play against the Bulldogs as Schweyen considered redshirt options, made her debut and looked college-ready, scoring a game-high 15 points on 6-of-8 shooting.

Fellow freshmen Katie Mayhue, who got the start in place of Schoening, and Jordyn Schweyen, combined for 19 points and 4-for-4 shooting from the arc.

Taylor Goligoski and Emma Stockholm both had 13 points and six rebounds, McKenzie Johnston had 13 points, six assists and five rebounds, and Gabi Harrington made another splash off the bench, totaling 13 points, six rebounds, five steals and three assists.

It's no wonder Montana upped its points-per-possession from 0.68 at Gonzaga, the team's lowest efficiency rating since early in the 2016-17 season, to 1.13 on Tuesday, a metric exceeded just twice in Schweyen's first two seasons.

"I thought we shared the ball well. We had lots of different people making plays and getting assists, which is always a nice thing to see," said Schweyen.

"It's always fun when that kind of playing is contagious and it rubs off on each other. That's how it felt that day."

11. Lost in those offensive numbers was a pretty salty defensive effort against a team that arrived with some offensive momentum.

The Argos shot 21.9 percent in the first half, 22.2 in the second, and the Lady Griz limited Providence's leading scorer, Parker Esary, a 6-foot-1 post, to four points on 2-of-9 shooting.

Providence went 3 for 21 from the arc.

"They got some good looks and could have shot better than they did, but credit to our defense. I thought we played with some intensity," said Schweyen. "We created lots of turnovers with steals and getting fingertips on passes, which wrecked a little havoc on them."

"They like to get post touches, and we tried to make that difficult. That took away from what they like to do. (Esary's) a nice post player when she gets it in the low block."

12. Montana went a tidy 6 for 11 from the 3-point line on Tuesday. This after going 2 for 15 at Gonzaga and shooting 26.6 percent from the arc the previous two seasons. One game is a small sample size, very, very small, but maybe this can be the team that finally addresses that ongoing weakness.

Game notes:

* Through the first weeks of the season, Montana leads the Big Sky in blocks (6.0/g) and (fewest) personal fouls (15.0/g). The Lady Griz rank in the top 50 nationally in blocks (16th), assists (19th, 20.0/g), assist-to-turnover ratio (35th, 1.29), personal fouls and free throw percentage (49th, .750).

* Teams from the Big Sky lead the nation in three categories: Portland State, field goal percentage defense (.251); Idaho, 3-point field goals made (14.3/g); Sacramento State, turnovers forced (34.0/g).

* Emma Stockholm entered her junior year a 53.1-percent shooter from the free throw line, going 26 for 49 her first two years. This year she is off to an encouraging 7-for-8 start.

* Gabi Harrington has taken 12 shots through two games. Only one has been from the 3-point line, which shows an expansion and maturing of her game. During her freshman season two years ago, more than half of her shots came from the arc.

* Abby Anderson has seven blocks through two games and in just 31 minutes played. That's one rejection every 4.4 minutes.

* On a rare occasion that McKenzie Johnston didn't play nearly every minute at the point -- she got 15 minutes off on Tuesday -- freshman Katie Mayhue took over for stretches and had an effective outing, with 10 points on five shots and four assists against two turnovers.

* South Dakota is averaging 11 made 3-pointers in its four wins. In the Coyotes' lone loss, at Drake, they went 4 for 26 from the arc. They also got to the line only four times that game.

* South Dakota defeated Wichita State on Wednesday night despite shooting a season-low 33.3 percent and the Shockers shooting 52.0 percent and making eight more baskets. The difference came at the line, where South Dakota was 30 for 36, Wichita State 9 for 10.

* The Coyotes have 92 assists this season against just 55 turnovers, but those numbers get inflated by one-sided wins over Incarnate Word and Saint Mary. In their other three games, they have 39 assists, 37 turnovers.

* South Dakota is shooting a healthy 45.9 percent as a team through five games.

* The Coyotes have used the same starting five every game this season: Arens, Duffy, McKeever, Frederick and Chloe Lamb, a senior, three juniors and a sophomore.

Season Storylines

10.18.18 -- Montana is picked fifth in the Big Sky Conference preseason coaches' poll, tying with Montana State, and seventh in the media poll. Idaho and Portland State finish first and second, respectively, in both.

11.15.18 -- Montana signs two prep players to National Letters of Intent: Jamie Pickens of Helena (Helena HS) and Shelby Schweyen of Missoula (Sentinel HS). It will give the Lady Griz their first sister pairing next season since Cheryl and Juliann Keller in the early 2000s.

HEAD COACH ::: THIRD YEAR (27TH YEAR ON STAFF)

MONTANA ('93) ::: CAREER RECORD: 22-41

The 2018-19 season is Shannon Schweyen's third year as head coach at Montana and 27th year on staff. She was named longtime coach Robin Selvig's successor on Aug. 10, 2016, after working under Selvig for 24 years as an assistant.

Montana went 531-203 with Schweyen as an assistant coach while winning 14 Big Sky Conference regular-season titles and advancing to 13 NCAA Tournaments. As a head coach, Schweyen has a two-year record of 21-40.

The Lady Griz went 7-23 in Schweyen's first year as head coach in a season marked by setbacks. The team lost Kayleigh Valley, the preseason Big Sky Conference Player of the Year, to a season-ending knee injury the first week of practice and Alycia Sims to the same injury in the season's first game.

Having to rely largely on freshmen and other inexperienced players, Montana played its best basketball late in the season, winning four of its final seven regular-season games.

The team's top five scorers were true or redshirt freshmen, its top seven scorers were underclassmen, and freshmen made more than 67 percent of the team's starts.

Montana again lost Valley to the same injury, this time for good, early in the 2017-18 season, not long after she was voted preseason Big Sky Conference Player of the Year for the second year in a row.

But this time the Lady Griz were more prepared to handle it. After opening 0-5, Montana went 11-4 in December and January, and won twice as many games as the season before, going from seven wins to 14.

Montana won its first Big Sky tournament game under Schweyen, defeating Sacramento State in Reno in the opening round, before falling to tournament champion Northern Colorado in the quarterfinals.

A Kodak All-American as a player for the Lady Griz (1988-89 to 1991-92), Schweyen joined the UM coaching staff as a student assistant in 1992-93 and was appointed to a full-time assistant position prior to the 1993-94 season.

As a player, Schweyen led Montana to four NCAA tournaments, three Big Sky Conference regular-season titles and a record of 103-18. As a coach, she has been a part of 13 more NCAA tournament teams, 14 Big Sky regular-season titles and 552 victories.

After earning honorable mention All-America honors as a sophomore and junior, the former Shannon Cate became the Big Sky Conference's only first-team Kodak All-American as a senior in 1991-92. That honor was recognized in 2014 as No. 3 on the list of "25 Greatest Women's Moments" in Big Sky history.

Not long after that honor was announced, Schweyen was voted No. 1 on the list of "25 Greatest Female Athletes" following a yearlong countdown to commemorate 25 years of women's athletics in the Big Sky Conference.

She capped her All-America season and career by scoring 34 points to lead No. 11 Montana to an 85-74 upset victory at No. 6 Wisconsin in the 1992 NCAA tournament.

Schweyen was a two-time Big Sky MVP, a three-time Big Sky tournament MVP and a three-time Lady Griz MVP. She also was a four-time Academic All-Big Sky selection.

Schweyen finished her career as the Big Sky's leading scorer among both men and women with 2,172 points. She still owns numerous school and Big Sky Conference records after averaging 18.7 points, 7.6 rebounds and 3.6 assists per game for her four-year career.

Schweyen, who had her No. 21 jersey retired following her collegiate career and was inducted into the Grizzly Sports Hall of Fame in 1998, played professionally in Spain briefly in 1992 before returning to Montana to join the Lady Griz coaching staff.

Schweyen was a three-time state tournament MVP at Billings Central High School and was the Gatorade Montana Player of the Year in 1988.

She received a bachelor's degree in business administration from UM in 1993.

She is married to Brian Schweyen, a former Big Sky Conference high jump and pole vault champion for Montana State and the current director of track and field for Montana. They have three daughters, Jordyn, Shelby and Sheridan.
