SPARTANS PREVIEW

The 2019-20 season was one of transition for the Spartans. With many new faces joining that year, the team intended to build for the future. Now, the 2021-22 Spartans see most of their players return from their last season of Canada West conference play in 2019-20. With more experience, talent, and physical ability, the Spartans will surely be looking to make waves this year. The Spartans are ranked NO. 10 in CW preseason poll.

The majority of scoring will be coming from Nicole Fransson (Edmonton), Kianna Wiens (Regina, Sask.), Jolen Vlieg (Leduc, Alta.) and Jayden Gill (Abbotsford, B.C.) who combined for 42.8 PPG in the 2019-20 season.

Vlieg will also play an important defensive role for the Spartans as the third-year provides immense versatility for the Spartans. Although her role on the court will be important in securing results, Vlieg and Kianna Wiens have taken on important leadership roles off the court for the team.

Every TWU women's basketball game will be available live and on demand this season on Canada West TV – the official streaming home of the conference. Passes are now on sale.

HEAD COACH CHERYL JEAN-PAUL

"We're excited for the season after being out for two years. It's a transition, as we have a lot of new faces on the team. We're going to have new challenges, but our team is ready to take these on. Our roster has a many players that can be game changers for us, so it should be fun."

BACKCOURT

The Spartans backcourt sees a plethora of players who can provide various attributes to both ends of the court. Kianna Wiens and Jayden Gill will act as important scorers for the Spartans, while Hailey Van Roekel (Langley, B.C.) and Shemaiah Abatayo (Vancouver, B.C.) will provide valuable minutes in their playmaking, and defensive roles. First-year Jenna Gill (Abbotsford, B.C.) could also shape up to be the X factor for TWU's perimeter offence as she develops and accustoms herself to the competitiveness of U SPORTS basketball.

FRONT COURT

Nicole Fransson has been a menace in the paint since her 2018-19 rookie season which saw her win Canada West Rookie of the Year. Fransson, who has vastly improved since her first season with TWU, will be looking to continue her strong preseason averages of 17 PPG and 15 RPG. Beside Fransson stands Jolene Vlieg, who brings her incredibly versatile skillset to the table on both sides of the floor. Vlieg is known to be a nightmare for opposing offences, using her quickness and strength to keep the ball out of TWU's basket. As Vlieg and Fransson will be providing various lessons for the younger members of the team, keep an eye out for first-year forward Gracie Corneau (Abbotsford, B.C.) to bring valuable minutes off the bench.
