LADY STATESMEN BASKETBALL: SECOND TO NONE

Welcome to the Delta State University Women's Basketball Recordbook. Since the program's formation in 1925, the Lady Statesmen have been one of the nation's most successful women's basketball programs - boasting six national championships and 16 Gulf South Conference titles.

Delta State is the only women's basketball program in NCAA Division II with 1,000 wins, as the Lady Statesmen boast a 1,181-333-3 all-time record. DSU has also dominated play in the Gulf South Conference since joining the league in 1986, sporting a 825-201 mark with 16 titles.

The Lady Statesmen also have ties to the beginnings of major college women's basketball, as legendary coach Margaret Wade helped pioneer the game's new era. According to former Delta State sports information director, Langston Rogers, "Her first four years back in coaching have been called one of the most amazing accomplishments in sports history."

Under Coach Wade's leadership, the Lady Statesmen zoomed into the national spotlight, winning four Mississippi state championships, three regional titles, and three AIAW national championships. Her record during the first four years was a jaw-dropping 109-6, a .947 winning percentage.

Her six seasons at Delta State were simply remarkable, going 157-23.

Wade not only ushered the Lady Statesmen into the modern era of collegiate basketball, but proved to be the matriarch for the thousands of coaches who followed in her footsteps. In 1978, the Women's Basketball Coaches Association dubbed Wade the "Mother of Modern Women's Collegiate Basketball" and named its yearly player of the year award in her honor - The Lily Margaret Wade Trophy.

Wade found a large deal of success with one of the game's early greats, Lusia Harris-Stewart. The 6-foot-3 center powered the Lady Statesmen to its first three national titles, while scoring 2,981 points and pulling down 1,662 rebounds; both of which remain Mississippi collegiate records.

In 1988, coach Wade became the first woman to be inducted into the Naismith National Basketball Hall of Fame. Harris followed suit in 1992, becoming the first female player to be enshrined.

Building off the success of the past, coach Lloyd Clark shepherded the Lady Statesmen into the NCAA and its transition to Division II during the mid-1980's. Over the next 19 seasons, Clark led the program to three NCAA Division II national champions and 11 Gulf South Conference titles.

The Vicksburg, Miss., native was equal to the task, as he posted a career 494-98 record during his time patrolling the sidelines at Sillers Coliseum. Clark, who was inducted into the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame in 2006, had the court named in his honor at Delta State during the 2014-15 year. He remains one of the nation's all-time leaders in career winning percentage, having won 83.6 percent of his games at DSU.

Following Clark's retirement in 2002, the program turned to former assistant coach Sandra Rushing. The Biloxi, Miss., native led the Lady Statesmen to a 254-58 record in her 10 seasons as head coach - including four straight GSC championships from 2005-2009. Her 2007-08 team went 33-1, tying the program record for wins in a season as they marched to the NCAA Final Four.

David Midlick succeeded Rushing as head coach in 2012-13 and led the program to back-to-back GSC regular season titles and championship game appearances.

Veteran coach Craig Roden took over the program in 2014-15 and led the Lady Statesmen to a 19-10 finish and an appearance in the league's title game. In his second season, the Guntersville, Ala., native led the Lady Statesmen to a 22-7 record and the program's 16th GSC championship.

Since DSU defeated Grenada College, 16-7 on March 16, 1926 for its first recorded victory, the Lady Statesmen have set the standard for excellence in women's collegiate basketball in Mississippi, the southeast region and in NCAA Division II.

We invite you to flip through our history, as we continue to etch memorable moments and record-setting performances into its' pages.

CLARK

No single individual has had a larger impact on a sport than Margaret Wade. Coach Wade retired following the 1978-79 season with a career record of 465-85. The "Mother of modern women's college basketball" guided the Lady Statesmen to three-consecutive A.I.A.W. National Championships in 1975, 1976 and 1977. Her winning percentage (.789) remains one of the greatest of all-time.

Wade began her odyssey with basketball as a forward on the Lady Wildcat basketball team at Cleveland High School in the mid-1920s. After her career at CHS, she became a standout on the court for the Lady Statesmen basketball team in 1929. In 1932, DSU disbanded the program and ended a beautiful career for Wade. Quoting a statement released by DSU officials in 1932, "Intercollegiate basketball could not be defended on sound grounds." Coach Wade stated, "We really didn't have a choice, and it was especially tough on me since I had another year remaining." Wade added, "Administration thought the game was too tough for young ladies, so we burned our uniforms."

Coach Wade would go on to graduate from Delta State and later earned a postgraduate degree from the University of Alabama and further studied at Duke University and Columbia University of New York.

In 1972, after a storied 25-year career as head coach of the Cleveland High Lady Wildcats, Margaret Wade, who was working as an instructor at DSU, was selected to take over the Lady Statesmen program that she so loved as a player. "That first meeting was something. I was stunned," stated Wade. The legend added, "I had been away from coaching for 14 years." Wade admitted that reinstating the program brought back a lot of memories, "(Losing the program) was hard since basketball had been a major part of my life during my youth." What Wade did not realize that it would also play a major part in her future as well.

According to former Delta State sports information director, Langston Rogers, "Her first four years back in coaching have been called one of the most amazing accomplishments in sports history." Under Coach Wade's leadership, the Lady Statesmen zoomed into the national spotlight, winning four Mississippi state championships, three regional titles, and three national championships. Her record during the first four years was a jaw-dropping 109-6. That is an astonishing (.947) winning percentage.

Wade received numerous awards during her career, including AIAW National Coach of the Year, "Kellogg's Mississippi Coach of the Year," and she was elected chairman of the Mississippi Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

In addition to being the most recognizable name in women's college basketball in Mississippi, the Women's Basketball Coaches Association named its player of the year award after the Mississippi Delta legend. The "Lily Margaret Wade Trophy" is annually awarded to the nation's top women's basketball player. In 1978, Wade awarded the first-ever trophy to Montclair State guard Carol Blazejoski.

Coach Wade retired to Cleveland following the 1979 season. In 1986, Wade became the first woman and first women's coach to be inducted into the National Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts. She is also a member of the Delta State and Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame.

Wade left this world on February 12, 1995. However, her dedication to DSU as a 20-year instructor and her legacy as possibly the greatest coach women's college basketball has ever seen, will never be forgotten.

Lloyd Clark was no stranger to Delta State when he took the reigns of the Lady Statesmen program in 1983. Clark received his bachelor's degree in Social Science in 1970 and later earned his Master's in Education in 1977.

The storied program in 1982-83 (13-16) had suffered its first losing season since reinstatement. The administration knew exactly where to turn to and that was Vicksburg and Warren Central High School. Coach Clark had made quite a name for himself at the school, compiling an overall record of 245-42 in eight seasons.

The team that went 13-16 the year before, quickly rebounded and ended the 1983-84 season with a 20-8 record at the Division I level. Clark's mark was easily seen on the team. Defense, tenacious ball-control offense, and smart play highlighted the team. These would become traits his teams were known for.

Over the next 19 seasons, his teams would compile one of the best records in women's basketball history (494-98) and solidify his name as one of the all-time greats in college basketball coaching. He currently is the Lady Statesmen's all-time winningest coach, having put together five 30-win seasons, and 11 20-win seasons.

Clark became the sixth coach in the program's history on July 1, 1983. The program played in NCAA Division I but was beginning to transition to the Gulf South Conference and NCAA Division II. In his two years against Division I competition, the Delta State posted an impressive 39-15 record. After the move to Division II, the Lady Statesmen claimed five straight GSC titles and amassed a record of 70-4 during the first four years.

His 1988-89, 1989-90, and 1991-92 teams claimed the NCAA Division II National Championship. The Lady Statesmen came very close to repeating the feat Margaret Wade's clubs had done during the 1970's, but fell a little short in the 1990-91 season.

During his 19 years at the helm, Clark guided teams to the NCAA tournament 16 times. Eleven of those years DSU advanced to the NCAA Division II Elite Eight. In those 16 appearances, the Lady Statesmen compiled a 39-14 (.736) record.

Clark's record in the Gulf South Conference is just as impressive. Over his career, DSU amassed a record of 206-38 (.845) in Gulf South Conference play. The GSC recognized his excellence as a coach, awarding him the Coach of the Year honor five times. He has also won numerous NCAA Region Coach of the Year honors as well.

Walter Sillers Coliseum was one of the most feared venues in America under his watch. In 19 seasons, the Lady Statesmen dominated play in Sillers going an amazing 264-22 (.923). DSU also became the first school in NCAA history to win a National title on its home floor.

In 2006, Clark was inducted into the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame, an honor most deserving for the winningest coach in Lady Statesmen basketball history. Clark joins Margaret Wade and Lusia Harris-Stewart in the Hall.

The Drew native was also a noted history instructor during his time at Delta State University. "I have truly enjoyed my retirement, but I would be wrong if I didn't say I missed being around the kids." Clark added, "It's much easier getting up in the morning and not having to worry about that next team, or reviewing your performance from the night before."

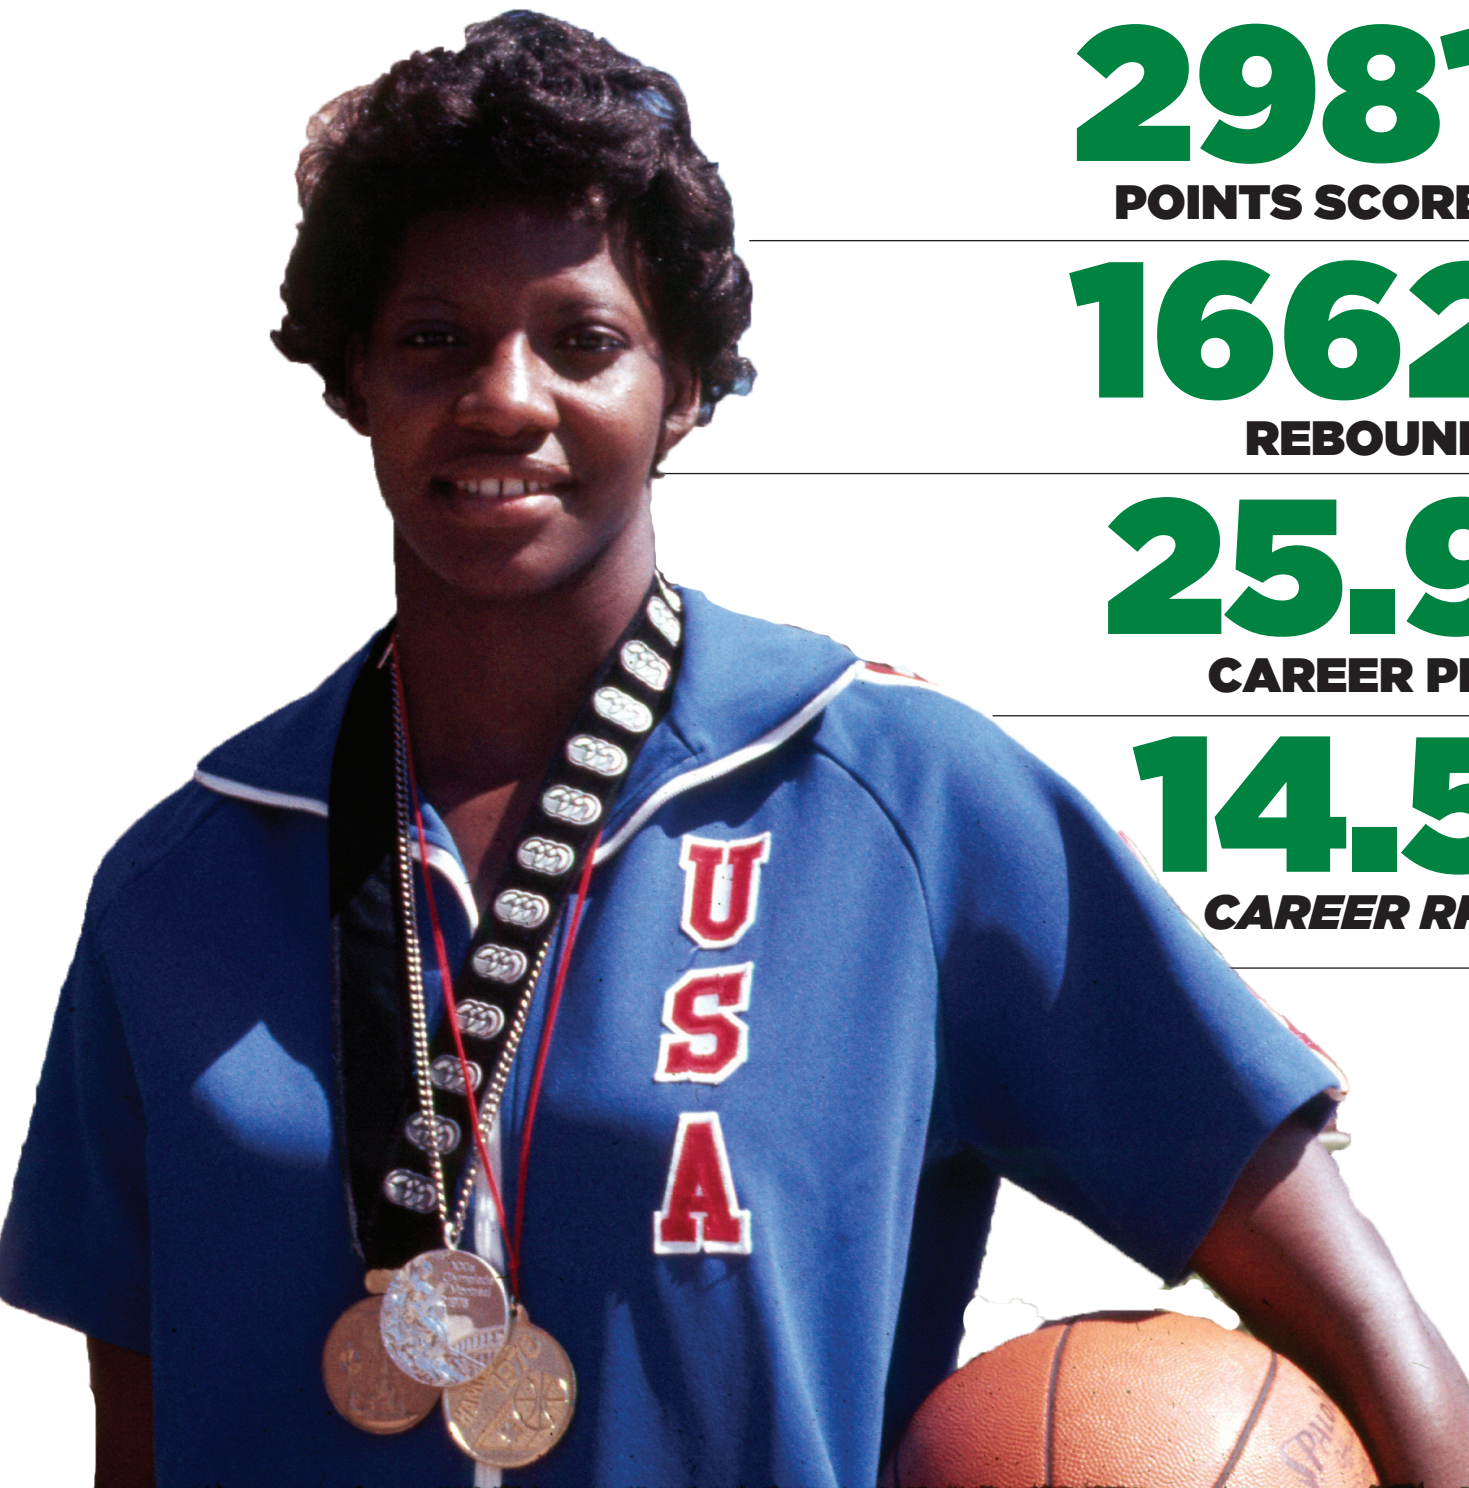

Clark is married to the former Babs Walker of Drew, Miss. They have two sons, Scottie and Brady, both DSU graduates, and four grandchildren, Walker, Will, Conner and Katelyn. The Clark's currently reside in Vicksburg.

6-TIME NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

1974-1975 • 28-0 • A.I.A.W National Champions
Coach Margaret Wade

The second year of the Margaret Wade regime would pave the way for over 30 years of success on the hardwood, as coach Wade guided the Lady Statesmen to an undefeated 28-0 record and the program's first national championship. The Lady Statesmen walked through the A.I.A.W. Mississippi State Tournament with victories over Ole Miss (76-52) and Mississippi College (89-87). In the A.I.A.W. National Tournament, the Lady Statesmen reeled off four straight wins to claim the title in Harrisburg, Penn. DSU defeated Federal City (77-75, OT), Tennessee Tech (88-66), Southern Connecticut (71-68), and Immaculata (90-81) en route to the national championship.

1975-1976 • 33-1 • A.I.A.W National Champions
Coach Margaret Wade

The Lady Statesmen became the first major college women's basketball team to claim back-to-back A.I.A.W. championships with a 33-1 record. Led by the "Fab Five" and consensus All-American Lusía Harris, the Lady Statesmen proved to be better than advertised. Delta State shook off a 64-53 loss to Immaculata on Feb, 23, 1976 to refocus and begin an improbable march to history. Coach Wade wasted little time with four straight wins at the A.I.A.W Mississippi State Tournament to advance to nationals. Once again faced with hostile road crowds, DSU reeled off seven straight wins, including a 69-64 victory over Immaculate for the crown.

1976-1977 • 32-3 • A.I.A.W National Champions
Coach Margaret Wade

Dynasty is a word too often used to describe one school's dominance in a sport. With Margaret Wade and the Lady Statesmen, it's understood. The Lady Statesmen erased any doubt of a potential let-down after two straight national championships by rolling to their third straight and a 32-3 overall record. Lusía Harris and the "Fab Five" etched their names in the annals of sport with wins over Minnesota (87-43), Southern Connecticut (75-49), Tennessee (62-58) and Louisiana State (68-55) to claim the nation's first women's collegiate basketball three-peat. DSU went 14-0 at home that year and all five starters were named "All-Americans."

6-TIME NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

1988-1989 • 30-4 • NCAA DII National Champions Coach Lloyd Clark

In his fourth season at the helm of the Lady Statesmen basketball program, coach Lloyd Clark returned Delta State Women's Basketball to the top's of NCAA Division II as national champions. With a nucleus of Crystal Hardy, Jo Lynn Davis, and many others, the Lady Statesmen rolled to a 30-4 finish en route to the national title. DSU defeated Jacksonville State (76-67), and West Georgia (77-72, OT) to claim the GSC title. Both teams would factor into the national tournament as well. After fighting off four regional foes, DSU blasted California-Poly Pomona, 88-58, for the title and became the first school in NCAA history to win a title at home.

1989-1990 • 32-1 • NCAA DII National Champions Coach Lloyd Clark

Building off the legacy of Margaret Wade and the great teams of the 1970s, coach Lloyd Clark and the Lady Statesmen captured a second straight national title in 1989-1990. The Lady Statesmen posted an impressive 32-1 overall record, and successfully defended Walter Sillers Coliseum 16 times with no home defeats. DSU would do more than enough to win the Gulf South Conference, out right, posting a 16-0 GSC record. Entering the Division II National Tournament, the Lady Statesmen obliterated Albany State by a score of 74-42. Delta State defeated Bentley, 77-43, to claim a second straight national championship.

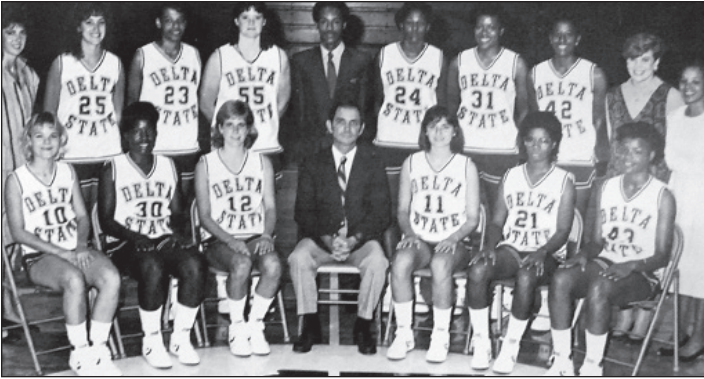

1991-1992 • 30-4 • NCAA DII National Champions Coach Lloyd Clark

Coach Lloyd Clark and the Lady Statesmen collected their third title in four years in 1991-1992 with a 30-4 overall record and a narrow 65-63 victory over North Dakota State in Fargo, N.D. After failing to claim the program's second three-peat in the 1990-1991 season, the Lady Statesmen were focused and ready to return Delta State to the national championship. After losing to West Georgia in the GSC title game, DSU regrouped and marched to the national title led by NCAA Tournament MVP Leslie McKiernon. DSU downed Fla. Tech (97-70), West Georgia (73-53), North Dakota (63-53), and Bentley (68-66) en route to the title game with NDSU.

Situated near the heart of the Delta State University campus is a circular brick building, known as Walter Sillers Coliseum, which is home to some of the most historic athletic programs at Delta State—Statesmen and Lady Statesmen basketball.

Completed in time for the 1961-62 season, Walter Sillers Coliseum was named after Rosedale, Miss., native Walter Sillers, who was a long-time advocate and friend of the University and showed what was termed as "unusual loyalty and devotion to DSU." Sillers Coliseum was dedicated on Jan. 19, 1961, at an elaborate ceremony that featured then governor Ross Barnett and comments from Walter Sillers.

The 3,000-seat arena offers fans a panoramic view from two different levels, including more than 1,000 chair-back seats in the mezzanine level. During the spring of 1997 the bleachers on the lower east level were replaced with luxury seats for fans and lowered almost to floor level in 1999. A large stage dominates the north end of the arena. Though rarely used in theatrical productions, it serves as the focal point for DSU commencement exercises and the stage for Delta State's pep band during home basketball games.

The famed floor that so many DSU greats played on was replaced by a state of the art parquee floor following the 1998 season. Prior to the 2008-09 season, the court was freshly painted and touched up.

The court was later renamed and dedicated in honor of former head coach for the Lady Statesmen Lloyd Clark on Jan. 10, 2015.

Clark took over the program in 1983 after the Lady Statesmen suffered their first losing season since reinstatement. Walter Sillers Coliseum was one of the most feared venues in America under his watch. In 19 seasons, the Lady Statesmen dominated play in Sillers going an amazing 264-22 (.923). DSU also became the first school in NCAA history to win a National title on its home floor. During his career, Clark guided teams to the NCAA tournament 16 times. Eleven of those years DSU advanced to the NCAA Division II Elite Eight. In those 16 appearances, the Lady Statesmen compiled a 39-14 (.736) record.

In its heyday, Sillers Coliseum was one of the finest indoor arenas in the state, and soon became host to every high school and college tournament and event imaginable.

Today, it is still one of the largest arenas in the Gulf South Conference and has hosted conference, regional and national tournaments, including the 1989 NCAA Division II Women's Final Four and the 1998 NCAA Division II Men's South Regional.

The coliseum lobby includes plaques of the school's all-time athletic superstars, and the Wade Trophy, awarded annually to the top collegiate women's basketball player in NCAA Division I.

Offices for men's and women's basketball are located in the coliseum. There are also four spacious locker rooms, a referee's lounge, weight room, media room, and several classrooms.

During the summer of 2008, the player's locker rooms were completely renovated and included the addition of a player's lounge that features a flat screen television, Internet access and luxury couches and chairs.

In the fall 2015, Delta State Athletics announced plans to renovate Walter Sillers Coliseum. Construction has already begun on the south end of the facility.

Standing outside the coliseum is a statue of the "mother of modern women's collegiate basketball" former Lady Statesman and legendary coach Margaret Wade.

A standout player for the Lady Statesmen from 1929 until the program's disbandment in 1932, Wade became head coach in 1972 when the program was finally reinstated.

During her career as a head coach, Wade led the Lady Statesmen to historic success. She finished with a career record of 465-85 and guided the Lady Statesmen to three-consecutive A.I.A.W. National Championships in 1975, 1976, and 1977. Her winning percentage (.789) remains one of the greatest of all-time. She retired as head coach following the 1979 season with a 157-23 record.

Although Wade passed away on Feb. 12, 1995, her legacy lives on through the tradition of Lady Statesmen basketball.

The statue was dedicated in honor of Wade on Nov. 14, 2014. Renowned Mississippi sculptor William Beckwith, who created the sculpture of William Faulkner on the square in Oxford, Miss., was commissioned to produce the Wade piece. The Taylor, Miss., native has created many memorable pieces across the state, including the statue of B.B. King in Indianola, Miss.; Jefferson Davis at Beauvoir in Biloxi, Miss.; Jim Henson and Kermit the Frog at the William Percy Library in Greenville, Miss.; and the Flag Bearer of the Mississippi 11th at the Gettysburg National Military Park in Gettysburg, Pa.
