Requests for press credentials should be made in writing on company stationery to Roderick Mosley no later than the Wednesday prior to the game. Requests may be e-mailed to mosleyr@gram.edu. Grambling State University reserves the right to refuse any credential request deemed not in the best interest of the university. E-Mail: mosleyr@gram.edu

PRESS BOX WILL CALL

Every effort will be made to meet late requests; in case time does not permit, credentials will be left at the will call gate window (Booth One) on the west side of Robinson Stadium on the day of the game or a prearranged designated area.

Proper ID will be required.

PRESS BOX SERVICES

Game programs, game notes, rosters, depth charts and updated statistics will be provided before each contest. Play-by-play game accounts will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter with abbreviated statistics at the end of each half. Complete individual and team statistics will be provided after the game.

FACILITY

Robinson Stadium has a seating capacity for 19,600 fans, a natural grass playing field and mercury vapor lighting. The Collie J. Nicholson Press Box is located at the top of the home (west) side of the stadium and seats 20 working press members. The press box has radio booths for both home and visiting radio broadcasts, coaching booths, restrooms, a media center and television booths. The photo deck offers an unobstructed view for television and video cameras. The elevator service is located directly behind the pass gate. The stadium is located in the southwest corner of the campus on R.W.E. Jones Drive. Interstate 20 and U.S. Highway 80 are accessible from the stadium.

MEDIA CREDENTIALS

Working press and photographer credentials for GSU's home games will be handled by GSU Assistant Sports Information Director Roderick Mosley contact him at (318) 274-6562 or mosleyr@gram.edu.

All credential requests should be made in writing by sports editors or sports directors of accredited media outlets on company letterhead. All requests should be made as early as possible and should be limited to working press only.

The credential authorizes the use by an accredited organization for news coverage of the game for which it was issued. Any unauthorized use of credentials subjects the bearer to ejection from the stadium and subjects the accredited organization to revocation of its credentials for future GSU athletic events.

The following policies have been adopted by Grambling State University for credentials and allowing access to practices and interviews for internet sites:

Only GSU's site and the official web site of the opponent will be issued passes for those events that require credentials. Other than official sites of those two entities, the following guidelines must be met for minimum consideration:

The agency requesting credentials is the official online service of a national over-the-air or cable network or established publication and is staffed by full-time employees (ESPN, CNN/SI, CBS Sportsline, etc.).

Web sites that sponsor "message boards," "message centers," or "chat rooms" where people are allowed to post anonymous information and rumors are automatically ineligible for consideration for credentials. If a medium has an online site and it sponsors these anonymous forums, it may continue to request credentials under its traditional medium (newspaper, magazine, radio, and television).

Any online service that places an emphasis on the recruitment of potential student-athletes will not qualify for credentials. This is defined by an organization that is recognized as an outlet intended primarily for the purpose of recruiting news where 50 percent or more of the information relates to this kind of information.

Credentials will not be granted to any online agency operating sites that are in any way affiliated with gambling, or to "freelance" or "fan-based" sites that are not affiliated with legitimate news gathering organizations.

Due to space and facility restrictions, seat assignments on press row as well as sideline photography will be made on a space available basis.

UNAUTHORIZED USE OF MEDIA CREDENTIAL

Media credentials are not transferable and use by anyone other than members of the working media is unauthorized. Press credentials used in an unauthorized manner will be revoked immediately. News organizations allowing unauthorized individuals to use credentials will have their credentials revoked for the remainder of the year.

All media credentials remain the property of the GSU Athletics Department and must be returned upon request.

CITY OF GRAMBLING

So there is a city named Grambling?

This is the typical response a Gramblinite gets after answering the question “Where is Grambling State University located?”

The town of Grambling, historic in its own right, is dwarfed in recognition by the world-renowned school that bears its name.

And while many are surprised to learn that a town called Grambling does exist and comprises an African-American constituency that has lived independently for more than a century, this small, rural north central Louisiana community is an American success story created by the best and worst circumstances in U.S. history. With not many other places to go, newly-freed African-American captives settled here in their quest for jobs and the American dream. Beginning around the late 1800's, they worked to realize that dream by purchasing land and becoming adept farmers.

At one time the fastest growing municipality in Lincoln Parish, Grambling has a population of more than 5,000. Among the many distinguished residents have been the late Paul “Tank” Younger, the first black NFL player, legendary coach Eddie Robinson, and Conrad Hutchinson, Jr.; an American icon in collegiate band competition who have all proudly called it “home”.

The community, however, extends beyond the limits of the incorporated city. Grambling's growth and spiritual vitality through the years has been fed from surrounding church communities such as Mt. Olive, Liberty Hill, Mt. Harmony, Mt. Calm, Fellowship and other areas with large African-American populations. Grambling has historically been the political, economic and social hub for surrounding African-American communities.

GRAMBLING HISTORICAL ATTRACTIONS

WHAT MANNER OF PEOPLE

Grambling is a living lesson in African-American history. Institution, street and building names, the university and the community itself speak eloquently of significant accomplishments of African Americans.

Grambling tells the story of a people and the circumstances that brought them to an otherwise remote part of the U.S. hinterland. Following is a listing of sites in Grambling that have been recognized nationally, statewide or locally for historical significance.

GRAMBLING ORIGINAL TRAIN STOP-MARKER

Downtown Main Street near railroad

This is the site from which the present incorporated city grew; location of the original train stop for P.G. Grambling's sawmill. African-American workers began to build homes and businessmen opened stores near this railroad stop. A city eventually grew.

COLORED CHAUTAUQUA-MARKER

Immediately outside Grambling city limits at railroad across street from Ruston State School African-Americans in the Grambling area were wrapped up in the spirit of the Chautauqua movement that swept the country in the late 1800s to 1905. Ruston was the state headquarters for the movement that promoted popular education and summer school for the masses. Originating in Chautauqua, New York, the movement was credited with inspiring the development of public universities at that time. Louisiana Tech and Grambling State Universities are products in this area of the Chautauqua movement.

GRAMBLING STATE UNIVERSITY FOUNDER'S HOME AND HALL OF FAME-MARKER AND HOME

The family home of university founder, Charles P. Adams, is on the U.S. National Register of Historical Places. The home was donated to the Grambling State University Foundation by the family of Charles P. Adams. It also houses the GSU Hall of Fame that recognizes individuals who have made contributions to the university. The home has been restored to its original 1930s charm when it served as the residence of Charles P. Adams. The home was occupied until the early 1960s.

ORIGINAL ALLEN GREENE SCHOOL SITE, BIRTHPLACE OF GRAMBLING STATE UNIVERSITY-MARKER

On the grounds of the Liberty Hill Baptist Association, 118 Bennett Road at West Martin Luther King Blvd.
According to the marker, the Allen Greene Normal and Industrial Bible Institute operated from 1896 to 1901. From 1901 to 1905, Charles P. Adams operated a school at this site, the birthplace of Grambling State University. In 1905, the school was moved to its present location 1.5 miles southwest of the former location. This site was purchased by the North Louisiana Colored Agricultural Relief Association Union for the purpose of an industrial training school for Black children.

WORLD WAR II GERMAN PRISONER OF WAR CAMP BUILDINGS

On the grounds of the Ruston Developmental Center, just outside the city limits on West Martin Luther King Blvd.

During World War II, Camp Ruston was one of 510 prisoner of war camps in the United States. It is the present site of the Ruston Developmental Center. In 1992, the two remaining buildings of the POW camp were placed on the National Register of Historical Places by the federal government. More than 500 of the 750 acres of land for this camp were purchased by the U.S. government from African-American landowners-Gene Younger, Richard Staff and Robert Youngblood. Tours can be arranged by calling Vince Spion, president of Camp Ruston Foundation, at (318) 247-3721.

The Eddie G. Robinson Museum

A Source of Education and Inspiration for Generations to Come

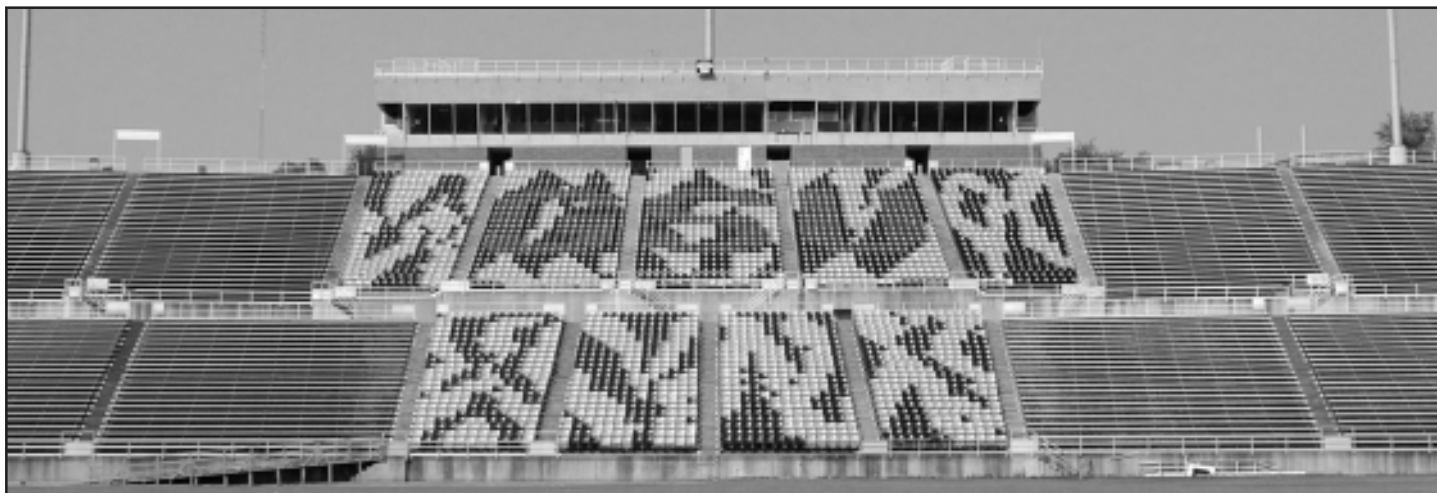

Senate Bill No. 919 of the 1999 Louisiana Legislature recognized that it was appropriate to establish a museum to honor the legendary football coach Eddie G. Robinson. The purpose of this museum is to collect, preserve and exhibit, as an educational resource, objects of art, documents, archives and other artifacts that reflect the history of the life and coaching domain of Eddie G. Robinson.

Coach Robinson won 408 games at Grambling during a football coaching career that stretched from 1941-1997 and is the namesake for the Football Writers Association of America’s National Coach of the Year Award. During his illustrious career, Coach Robinson won nine Black College National Championships and 17 Southwestern Athletic Conference championships. The College Football Hall of Fame inductee graduated over 80% of his players and saw more than 200 of his athletes play in the NFL, including four who are now enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

The Eddie G. Robinson Museum is housed inside the old Women’s Memorial Gymnasium, an 8,000-square-foot building on Grambling’s campus. The museum recognizes Coach Robinson’s extraordinary life and achievements, on and off the field.

The museum opened February 13, 2010, and in June 2011 was named Louisiana museum of the year.

2011 SEASON OUTLOOK

“The second time around... Ooh, the second time is so much better... and I’ll make it better than the first time,” goes the lyrics of Shalamar’s 1978 hit Second Time Around and so lies the sentiments of Grambling Head Coach Doug Williams, a 1978 draft pick of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, as he embarks on his second tour at the helm of the Tigers football program.

“I think coming back the second time around is a lot better than the first time for me because at least there is something more to work with but we still have a long way to go,” said Williams.

Williams and his staff will be immediately faced with the task of replacing the running back tandem of Frank Warren and Cornelius Walker who combined for 1,958 yards. However, with a rock solid defense and a seasoned line in place the Tigers offense will look to mature on the fly as they grasp the new system in place.

“I understand the expectance. That comes with Grambling football. The most important thing is to get the kids ready to play and if the coaches and myself do what we are supposed to do as far as preparing the guys I think we have enough athletes, enough nucleus to have a very competitive season,” Williams said.

QUARTERBACKS

The Tigers will open fall camp for the second consecutive year with the quarterback spot up for grabs as they look to replace last year’s starter Anthony Carrothers. Carrothers completed 93-of-170 passes for 1,443 yards and seven touchdowns, now in his absence the Tigers will look for the emergence of D.J. Williams and Frank Rivers to battle for the starting role.

“Because of system change offensively we still have to find “that” quarterback, the leadership aspect, the guy that we are going to hang our hat on; we still haven’t been completely sold at the position as of yet.” Williams continued, “It’s a real question mark, we could be playing with a freshman in Frank Rivers or D.J. Williams, nobody knows at this time.”

RUNNING BACKS

For the first time in four years the running back position will be a question mark for the Tigers as they head into fall camp with an inexperienced backfield.

“We lost 2,000 yards on the ground, which is telling me that you controlled the football, so have to find ‘that’ back and at this point we don’t have that back yet but I think help is on the way,” Williams stated.

OFFENSIVE LINE

Undoubtedly the strength of the Tigers offense will lie in a veteran offensive line. Led by center Julian Wyndon and first team All-SWAC performers Sanford Banks and Bennie Peoples the offensive line is tailor made for protecting a young group of backs as they navigate through a new offensive scheme.

“Hopefully they will provide the opportunity for our running back and quarterbacks to grow.

No doubt the biggest standout on offense to me this spring was the center Julian Wyndon. To me he had a terrific spring...he proved to me that we are pretty set in the middle of the line. Clint Marsh showed me some ability and will certainly help us.” Williams added, “There’s no doubt I feel that the offensive line is the strength of our offense at this time and hopefully they will provide the opportunity for our running back and quarterbacks to grow.”

WIDE RECEIVERS

The wide receiving corps will look to undergo a rebirth as the season unfolds. A once dynamic and exciting group, the great air game of Grambling has in recent years given way to a methodical ground control attack. As the Tigers look to the air they will welcome the return of Mario Lewis and Bakari Maxwell to pave the way. Lewis recorded 16 receptions for 284 yards and a score last season, while Maxwell added nine catches for 196 yards.

“I think because the system was more of a run first system over the last few years the receivers have not been as potent as they were when we were here. I told Sammy (Sammy White, receivers coach) that he has his work cut out for him,” said Williams. “We want to run the football, but we certainly want to be able to throw the ball. Mario and Spivey (Dezmond Spivey) stood out in the spring, but we still have to get better.”

DEFENSIVE LINE

As with the offense it all starts up front in the trenches for the defense with the front seven. Led by Antonio Leonard, Antoine “Blade” Rogers and Jomarcus Savage the defensive line will return a solid, experienced group that had an outstanding spring. Leonard was named second team All-SWAC after recording 28 tackles (12 for loss of yards) with five sacks and one forced and recovered fumble. Savage had 27 tackles and an interception; while Rogers added 22 tackles.

“Savage stood out like a sore thumb during the spring. He and Blade were all over the field. They basically didn’t allow the offense to do anything because of their quickness and strength and ability to get to the football. I have to give those two credit more than anything,” said Williams.

LINE BACKERS

The heart of the Tigers defense will ultimately lie in the line backing corps. Led by 2010 All-SWAC selectee Cliff Exama, the Tigers’ defense, a perennial strong hold, should once again prove as stingy as ever after ranking in the top three of several SWAC categories a year ago. Individually, Exama recorded 106 tackles and three interceptions in only nine and a half games.

“Defensively I feel pretty good with the front seven for sure. Jarcarde Carter showed the most consistent play at linebacker and if they play up to the capability of what I saw in the spring with the pass rush and playing the run and with Cliff (Exama) returning it will be a plus for us,” Williams stated.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

After struggling at times last year, the Tigers’ defensive backs will have something to prove as they look to return to the state when they terrorized opposing offenses. To their advantage they will return a savvy, veteran group that is fully aware of what is expected and demanded of them.

Leading the pack will be seniors Bruna’ Foster, Jabari Powell and Dominic Bell. Foster had a backfield high 48 tackles with three interceptions; Powell added 36 tackles (six for loss of yardage) with three sacks, while Bell recorded 26 tackles, two interceptions and three pass breakups in eight games.

“I think we need help at safety and definitely need help and depth at the cornerback. Hopefully help is on the way; we have some young guys coming in.” Williams added, “In this league I can see it becoming a track meet starting with Alcorn on day one. You definitely want some guys who can run with the receivers and play the football.”

SPECIAL TEAMS

A constant for the Tigers’ program through the years has been a successful special teams. With the return of kicker Zoltan Riazso and punter Fabian Carter the kicking game should once again prove solid although the team looks to replace perennial All-SWAC return specialist Kiare Thompson. Riazso, named second team All-SWAC last year, lead the conference in scoring by a kicker (second overall in conference), in PAT’s made and finished second in field goals, making 11-of-15.

“They tell me Fabian can really boom it and we are going to need him to. We are going to need him to pin some people back. In the spring Zoltan showed a leg on kickoff; he showed that distance that we need. I think it’s important now that we get the guys that are going to fly down the field and keep the return guys pinned in,” said Williams.

NEWCOMERS

Along with the veteran group returning, Williams will welcome a host of fresh faces some of whom he looks to make an immediate impact.

Williams stated, “Anthony Cherry (6-4, 275) who’s an offensive tackle, showed great athletic ability. He just needs to get a little stronger and put a little more meat on his bones, but I certainly like him. We have a running back coming in that’s a relative of Willie Brown, Delvin Flynn (5-10, 180), not a speed merchant but definitely is an athlete and knows how to run the football. We also have a young man coming out of Chicago’s DeLasalle High, Juwan Martin (5-9, 210) that played quarterback but is actually a running back. A lot of people were recruiting him but we were fortunate to get him.

Tim Oliver (6-2, 175) out of Texas City, Texas, is probably one of the purest receivers, athletic and smooth and will go up and pluck the ball out of the air. He reminds me a lot of Scotty Anderson. We signed another receiver Octavious Andrew (6-1, 180) out of Atlanta that early on committed to West Virginia before injuring a knee. We were able to get a safety, LeAndre Vallot, that’s a pure hitter and corner back De’Vontay Hogan (6-1, 190) out of East Feliciana. We were also able to get two safeties, Giovanni Randolph and Stephon Lanigan, that can play strong safety or rover in our defense and you can depend on in your special teams because they don’t mind hitting and will hit, I like that.”

Head Coach

Doug Williams is poised to begin his second stint at the helm of the Tigers program. During his first campaign Williams finished six seasons leading the team to three straight NCAA Division I-AA National Black College and Southwestern Athletic Conference Championships.

Williams left the university in February 2004 to take on a new role as a Personnel Executive with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. On June 21, 2010, it was announced that Williams would become General Manager of the Norfolk expansion franchise in the United Football League.

History was made in December of 1997 when Williams returned to his alma mater to take over for retired legend Eddie Robinson as the first new head coach at Grambling for more than 50 years. Williams was a natural for the position, having been the most prolific quarterback in Grambling State's history combined with an outstanding professional career. He brought a new sense of youth, vitality, intelligence and determination to the football program.

In addition, Williams also brought several intangibles to the football program, including his vast football knowledge built on a wealth of experience and a love for Grambling that is unmatched by anyone, anywhere.

Williams' impact on the football program was immediate as the Tigers went from a 3-8 record in 1997 to a 5-6 mark in his first season in 1998. His second season saw even more success as the Tigers finished with a 7-4 mark. Williams' third season proved to be the charm with a 10-2 mark en route to their first SWAC title since sharing it with Alcorn State in 1994 and the first outright title since 1989. The Tigers were also named the 2000 National Champions in the NCAA Division I Black College Football Poll.

In 2001, Williams proved that the previous year's success was no fluke as he guided the Tigers to a 10-1 mark en route to both undisputed SWAC and National Black College championships.

In 2002, Williams completed the hat trick by leading Grambling State to its third straight SWAC and National Black College championships with an 11-2 record. At the conclusion of each of those three seasons, the Tigers finished in the top ten in several national polls as well as finishing ranked in several Division I-AA football polls in 2000, 2001, 2002 and 2003 .

Also during this stretch, Williams brought home some serious Coach of the Year hardware such as the SWAC Coach of the Year awards for three straight years; 100% Wrong Club of Atlanta and the Pigskin Club of Washington, D.C. In addition, he was named the Street and Smith's Magazine Black College Coach of the Year (2000); Shutt Sports Division I-AA Coach of the Year (2000) and the Sheridan Broadcasting Network Black College Coach of the Year (2001, 2002).

Growing up as a young boy in the 1960s, Williams could only dream of the day he would get the chance to play in the NFL, let alone quarterback a team to a world championship and earn MVP honors. It was a day and age when black men and women gave up much just to achieve basic equality, and imagining a black man a leader of champions was only a dream in the minds of greats like Martin Luther King Jr. But he would end up turning that dream into his life's story.

Williams attended Chaneyville High School in Zachary, Louisiana, in the early 1970s and became a star quarterback for the football team. He was recruited out of high school by Coach Robinson, who was coaching one of the most successful black college football programs at the time at Grambling State.

After spending time as a backup early on during his freshman year at Grambling, Williams finally got his chance to start in which he wasted no time in leading the team to victory in the fifth game of the season with a 21-7 victory over Tennessee State. In his first year, he would help to lead the team to a 10-2 record en route to both the 1974 SWAC Co-Championship and the National Black College Championship. The Tigers were Williams' team from that point on as he would go on to start every game that he played at Grambling State. In his sophomore season as a full-time starter, he helped to lead the team to a 10-2 season en route to another National Black College Championship in 1975.

In his senior season of 1977, Williams' passing statistics were staggering, and he led the Tigers to a 10-1 record en route to both the SWAC and National Black College Championships while earning SWAC Player of the Year and All-America honors. As a direct result of his efforts, this vaulted him to a fourth place finish in the Heisman Trophy race behind the University of Texas running back Earl Campbell.

That spectacular college career earned Williams plenty of attention from NFL scouts and the changing times saw him get selected in the first round of the 1978 NFL draft by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Williams turned in a strong career at Tampa Bay which included a playoff berth before the fledgling United States Football League gave the young signal caller the respect that he deserved for so long. The Oklahoma Outlaws signed him to a lucrative contract and showed a resounding vote of confidence in him as a true team leader in 1984. Williams led the Outlaws into first place before a knee injury sidelined him halfway through that initial USFL season. He played a second season with the Outlaws until the league suddenly folded in 1985.

In 1986, Tampa Bay traded the NFL rights to Williams to the Washington Redskins and a year later he shared the starting quarterback position with Jay Schroeder. But it was Williams who shined in the postseason, leading the Redskins through the playoffs en route to a 42-10 Super Bowl XXII victory over the Denver Broncos in 1988. He was the first black quarterback to ever start in a Super Bowl and he made the most of a monumental opportunity by setting several Super Bowl passing records en route to being named the game's Most Valuable Player.

The 2010 season would prove to be a memorable one for the G-Men and their followers. Players, coaches and supporters alike ran an emotional gambit; that witnessed the birth of a classic, shattering of records and a gut-wrenching, nail biter that ended at the goal line in overtime.

As the season opened, history was made in the first ever meeting between the Tigers and the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs staged in none other than inaugural Port City Classic, Labor Day weekend in Shreveport, Louisiana. The Tigers put up a strong fight early but ultimately fell, 20-6, to their interstate rivals.

Game two would pit the first “battle of the big cats” of the season when the G-Men hosted the Tigers of Jackson State in their conference opener. In what would prove to be a tight contest Grambling would begin an eight-game winning streak with a 28-21 victory. Frank Warren was named SWAC offensive player of the week after picking up 256 yards rushing with two touchdowns.

The Tigers would head west in game three to the lone star state to face the Panther’s of Prairie View A&M in the Dallas, Texas Cotton Bowl.

In a game that has rapidly become a grudge match, the Tigers dealt out a 34-17 pounding of the Panthers. Quarterback Anthony Carrothers was named SWAC newcomer of the week after completing 16 passes for 152 yards and a touchdown.

Over the next two weeks Grambling would sweep the state of Alabama holding off the Bulldogs of Alabama A&M 25-22 before pelting the Alabama State Hornets 22-7 in Robinson Stadium. Kick returner Kenneth Batiste was named SWAC special teams player of the week following the A&M game in which he returned a kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown.

An old school rivalry was rehashed in game six when the Alcorn State Braves came to town. Tiger fans were thrilled in another classic battle that saw the two teams combining for 24 fourth quarter points with Grambling coming out on top 38-28. Warren was again named SWAC offensive player of the week after scorching the Braves for 202 rushing yards and a total of five touchdowns including one receiving.

The Tigers would again put their show on the road as they headed to Greenville, Mississippi, and defeated a displaced Mississippi Valley State 35-14, followed by a return trip to Little Rock, Arkansas, and the Delta Literacy Classic where they out dueled the Golden Lions of Arkansas-Pine Bluff 35-25. Warren would post a SWAC offensive player of the week for performance against the Delta Devils and then find himself passing Walter Payton on the SWAC All-Time Rushing list against the Golden Lions.

Grambling would return to Robinson Stadium for Homecoming 2010 to hand the Hornets of Concordia College a 35-0 thrashing as they prepared for their biggest game of the season, an ESPNU showdown for the top spot in the SWAC western division, against Texas Southern. A much hyped and anticipated game lived up to all its expectations while going down to the wire as the Tigers came up short at the goal line on the final play of the game in a 41-34 overtime loss.

As the season came to an end the G-Men would once again finish in New Orleans in grand fashion with a 38-17 victory over the Jaguars of Southern University in the Bayou Classic.

Warren, who rushed his way into the record books with 3,910 career yards, finished the season as Grambling’s leading and the SWAC’s second All-Time leading rusher en route to being named the conference offensive player of the year. Also named to the All-SWAC first team were offensive linemen Sanford Banks and Bennie Peoples, linebacker Cliff Exama and return specialist Kiare Thompson.

Receiving second team honors were defensive lineman Antonio Leonard and place kicker Zoltan Riazzo.

As the second half began the Panthers made their final attack when KJ Black found Shaun Stephens for a 17-yard touchdown strike (Mathews, PAT Good). On the ensuing possession Warren would once again stroke pay dirt this time on a 12 yard burst (Riazso, PAT Blocked)

In the fourth quarter Kiara Thompson scored on a 59 yard pass from Carrothers (Riazso, PAT Good); while Cornelius Walker sealed the win with a 66 yard dash down the Prairie View sideline for a touchdown (Riazso, PAT Good).

Game IV

October 2, 2010 (Louis Crews Stadium, Huntsville, AL 12,328)
Grambling 25, Alabama A&M 22

Huntsville, AL—For the second time in three years the Grambling State Tigers have played spoiler of Alabama A&M's Homecoming as they handed the Bulldogs a 25-22 loss before an electric crowd of 12, 328 in the Bulldogs' Lewis Crews Stadium.

Down 7-0 early in the first period, GSU quarterback Anthony Carrothers found tailback Frank Warren for a 66-yard reception to set up a one yard touchdown pass to tight end Larry Donnell (Zoltan Riazso, PAT Good). The Tigers would go on to stake their first lead of the game at the 12:49 mark of the second quarter, 13-7, on a two-yard Warren run (Riazso, kicked failed).

AAMU's Tony Green found pay dirt for the second time in the game to give the Bulldogs their final lead at 14-13.

Alabama A&M controlled much of the final statistics, as they had 25 first downs to GSU's 14 and won the total offensive yards' battle 404-375. However, Grambling's 13 points on special teams with two 25-yards Riazso field goals and a kickoff returned by Kenneth Batiste 87 yards for a touchdown kept the Bulldogs at bay.

Warren, the FCS leading rusher, went on to lead all rushers with 136 yards on the ground. He also tallied two receptions for a team high 75 yards for a total all-purpose yardage of 211. Carrothers completed eight passes for 191 yards. Derrick Wilhite and Cliff Exama recorded 13 and 10 tackles, respectively, to lead the Tigers defense.

Grambling 22, Alabama State 7

Grambling, LA—The Grambling State Tigers football team moved to 4-0 in the Southwestern Athletic Conference with a 22-7 win over the Hornets of Alabama State.

It was a rough homecoming of sorts for former GSU head coach, now Bama State offensive coordinator Melvin Spears, as his offensive unit was held to barely 200 yards of total offense including a dismal 71 on the ground. The Tigers, in contrast, led by freshman quarterback Anthony Carrothers, had an offensive explosion as they poured out over 400 yards on offense en route to the victory.

Carrothers completed 14 of 23 passes for 210 yards and a score. He also had 44 yards rushing with a touchdown. Frank Warren continued his stellar season pounding put 107 yards on 24 carries. Defensively Cliff Exama had nine tackles.

Game VI
October 16, 2010 (Robinson Stadium, 6, 980)
Grambling 38, Alcorn State 28

Grambling, LA—Grambling State’s senior running back Frank Warren scores all five Tigers touchdowns as the G-Men power past Alcorn State in a 38-28 win over the Braves.

Grambling broke the ice when Warren scored the first of two first quarter touchdowns midway through the period on a 23 yard run, the second came from five-yards out, and after two Zoltan Riazso PAT’s, the Tigers led 14-0.

The Braves made their way to the scoreboard on a 44-yard pass from Brandon Bridge to Christian Perkins with 5:53 left in the second quarter. However, the Tigers would get the score back with 37-seconds remaining in the half on a Danny Reyes touchdown pass to Warren.

Leading, 21-7, Grambling opened the second half with an 18 yard Warren touchdown. Bridge would connect with Ryan Singleton from 25 yards out for the Braves second score with 2:51 remaining in the third, and the Tigers would take a 28-14 lead into the fourth quarter.

Warren opened the fourth quarter with the last of his touchdowns, an eight-yard scamper for a 35-14 Tiger lead, before Bridge would connect on touchdown passes of 18 and 25 yards to Singleton and Terrance Lewis, respectively.

Riazso connected on a 27-yard field goal with 1:26 remaining to seal the GSU victory.

Warren’s 202-yard effort against the Braves places him only 67 yards shy of 1,000 yards. With a total of 933 yards on the season, Warren finds himself within striking distance of several GSU records including most rushing yards by a senior, most rushing yards in a season and the all-time career rushing record.

In the midst of Grambling’s offensive explosion Tiger’s linebacker Cliff Exama turned in a career night with 17 total tackles and an interception.

Game VII

October 23, 2010 (Charles-Kerg Field, Greenville, MS 3,197)
 Grambling 35, Mississippi Valley 14

Greenville, Miss.—The Grambling State Tigers defense proved stingy as the G-Men offense ate up big chunks of yardage in a 35-14 win over the Delta Devils of Mississippi Valley State to move to 6-0 in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

The Tigers, led by linebacker Cliff Exama, held the Delta Devils to only 285 yards total offense (91 rushing) with the bulk of that coming on two big plays for scores; while, in contrast, quarterback Danny Reyes led the Tigers' offense as Frank Warren went over a 1,000 yards rushing on the season as they pounded out 516 yards of offense.

The Tigers opened the scoring midway through the first quarter when Reyes connected with Kiare Thompson on a 77 yard strike and, after a Zoltan Riazso extra point, led 7-0.

Neither teams would score again in the half; however, with just under ten minutes remaining in the third quarter, Reyes found Ryan Allen for his only reception of the game, a 16-yard dump over the middle for a score (Riazso, PAT).

Down, 14-0, the Delta Devils quickly responded and capped off a three-play 89-yard drive with an 89-yard touchdown pass from Oliver Hughes to Paul Cox, Jr. (Carlos Sanchez, PAT).

The fourth quarter would prove to be action packed as Reyes called his own number on a one-yard plunge for a score, followed by an 85 yard sprint to the end zone by Warren (Riazso, PAT) to put Grambling up 28-7.

Down but not out, Valley answered with a 41-yard touchdown pass from Hughes to Cox (Sanchez, PAT) to pull within two touchdowns. But a 39-yard scoring run from Warren (Riazso PAT) would ultimately seal their fate.

Warren led the Tigers strike with 27 carries for 209 yards and two scores, while Reyes connected on 11-of-15 passes for 259 yards and two scores. Defensively, Exama turned in four solo and six assisted tackles for a total of 10.

The Golden Lions, who were held to a minus one yard in rushing, got out to an early lead connecting on a 46 yard Chris Ewald field goal with 6:53 in the first quarter, followed by a three-yard touchdown run by Adrian Moore (Ewald, PAT) to open the second quarter.

Down 10-7, Walter Payton Award Candidate, Frank "Sweet Feet" Warren, would use identical plays to find pay dirt twice on rushes of 15 and 8 yards respectively with Riazso connecting on extra points. Trey Williams would pick up a Josh Boudreaux fumble (an incomplete backwards pass that laid on the ground) and streak 71 yards to the end zone (Riazso, PAT) with 3:44 left in the quarter to give the Tigers a, 28-10 lead at the break.

On the opening drive of the second half Warren would take a left toss up the GSU sideline six-yards to pass Walter Payton as fifth on the SWAC career rushing list. He would go on to cap off the historic drive as he walked into the endzone untouched from five yards out (Riazso, PAT) to end the Tigers scoring for the game and seal Grambling's seventh consecutive win.

Boudreaux would connect on an 80-yard scoring play to Raymond Webber (Ewald, PAT) and a two-yard dump to T. Shelton, Jr. (Moore rush, two-point conversion) in a failed comeback attempt.

Game IX RECAP

November 6, 2010 (Robinson Stadium., 14,543)
 Grambling 35, Concordia 0

Grambling, LA — It was a homecoming celebration on the Grambling State campus, but the Tigers defense wouldn't let Concordia College join the party as they held the Hornets to 60 yards of total offense in a 35-0 thrashing.

Today also served a Senior Day for Grambling with 16 seniors playing in their final home game, and it was the seniors that showed up and showed out, scoring three of the Tigers' five touchdowns.

After a scoreless first quarter, senior running back Frank Warren broke the ice on a 23-yard run off left tackle, and following a Zoltan Riazzo PAT, the Tigers led 7-0 with 12:51 remaining in the half. GSU quarterback Anthony Carrothers would then find senior receiver Tommy White from 16 yards out for his first touchdown of the season (Riazzo, PAT).

Sporting a 14-0 lead, the G-Men defense would turn offensive as they took advantage of a Concordia comeback attempt when linebacker Cliff Exama snatched his second interception of the game taking this one 43 yards to the end zone (Riazzo, PAT) at the 5:28 mark and the Tigers would take a 21-0 lead into the break.

On the opening drive of the third quarter the Tigers would again find pay dirt when Warren took a left toss 43 yards inside the Hornets five yard line to set up Cornelius Walker for an easy four-yard plunge for the score (Riazzo, PAT). Defensive lineman Asti Burdis would close out the Grambling scoring when he forced and then recovered a Jeremy Roberts fumble in the end zone (Riazzo, PAT) with 12:22 remaining in the quarter as they cruised to victory.

In 1920, eight men representing six colleges from the state of Texas met to discuss collegiate athletics and the many challenges that faced their respective institutions. By the time the session in Houston had concluded, they had founded an athletic league that went on to become one of the leading sports associations in the world of collegiate athletics, the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

Duer Sharp
Commissioner

The founding fathers of the original “Super Six” were C.H. Fuller of Bishop College, Red Randolph and C.H. Patterson of Paul Quinn, E.G. Evans, H.J. Evans and H.J. Starns of Prairie View A&M, D.C. Fuller of Texas College and G. Whitte Jordan of Wiley College.

The Southwestern Athletic Conference’s current members include Alabama A&M University (Huntsville, AL), Alabama State University (Montgomery, AL), Alcorn State University (Alcorn State, MS), Grambling State University (Grambling, LA), Jackson State University (Jackson, MS), Mississippi Valley State University (Itta Bena, MS), Prairie View A&M University (Prairie View, TX), Southern University and A&M College (Baton Rouge, LA), Texas Southern University (Houston, TX) and the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff (Pine Bluff, AR).

Former members of the SWAC include Bishop College (1920-56), Paul Quinn College (1920-29), Sam Houston College (1920-59), Texas College (1920-68), Wiley College (1920-68), Langston University (1931-57) and Arkansas AM&N (1936-70).

Paul Quinn became the first of the original members to withdraw from the league when it did so in 1929. When Langston University of Oklahoma was admitted into the conference two years later, it began the migration of state-supported institutions into the SWAC. Southern University entered the ranks in 1934, followed by Arkansas AM&N in 1936 and Texas Southern in 1954.

Rapid growth in enrollment of the state-supported schools made it difficult for the church-supported schools to finance their athletics programs, and one by one they fell victim to the growing prowess of the tax-supported colleges. Bishop withdrew from the conference in 1956, Langston in 1957 and Sam Houston in 1959, one year after the admittance of two more state-supported schools – Grambling College and Jackson College.

The enter-exit cycle continued in 1961 when Texas College withdrew, followed by the admittance of Alcorn A&M in 1962. Wiley left in 1968, the same year Mississippi Valley State entered. Arkansas AM&N exited in 1970, and Alabama State entered in 1982. Arkansas-Pine Bluff (formerly Arkansas AM&N) rejoined the SWAC on July 1, 1997, regaining full-member status one year later. Alabama A&M became the conference’s 10th member when it became a full member in September 1999 after a one-year period as an affiliate SWAC member.

Today, the SWAC ranks among the elite in the nation in terms of alumni playing with professional sports teams, particularly in the sport of football. On the gridiron, the conference has been the biggest draw on the Division I-AA level of the NCAA, leading the nation in average home attendance for 26 of the 27 years the I-AA division has been in existence. In fact, in 1994, the SWAC fell just 40,000 fans short of becoming the first non-Division I-A conference to attract one million fans to its home games.

GSU ALL-TIME NFL ROSTER

The following is a rundown on the Grambling State University football players who have actually played in the National Football League. Players who may not have appeared in official league games for the team(s) of mention - i.e. were drafted by, went to training camp and then released or were carried on reserved (R) taxi squads.

As an added note, the AFL and NFL were merged in 1970. There was a school record of 43 former Grambling State football players in NFL training camps during the 1971 season.

THE LIVING LEGEND...
408-165-15 (57 Seasons)

For legendary Grambling State University football coach Eddie G. Robinson, football was always the driving force motivating one of the most successful men to ever have set foot on a football field.

Coach Robinson spent 57 seasons consistently fielding stellar football teams and guiding his young charges to successful lives both on and off the gridiron. He earned an unprecedented 408 college football victories to set the NCAA's benchmark for wins in Division I. Coach Robinson retired with an overall record of 408 wins, 165 losses and 15 ties. More than 200 of his players went on to play in the National Football League, including Super Bowl XXII MVP quarterback Doug Williams, who would ultimately succeed Robinson as Grambling's head coach in 1998.

Though the ultra-successful Coach Robinson has always remained humble, crediting his players, his family, his loving wife Doris, the media and football fans from all over the world with making the name Eddie Robinson synonymous with the best that college football has to offer.

On October 7, 1995, Coach Robinson became the first college football coach to break the 400-win barrier, a mark once thought to be unreachable. The 42-6 triumph over Mississippi Valley State came before a national television audience on ESPN2.

"Nobody has ever done or will do what Eddie Robinson has done for this game," legendary Penn State football coach Joe Paterno said. "Our profession will never, ever be able to repay Eddie Robinson for what he has done for this country and the profession of football."

Time after time Coach Robinson proved that hard work, dedication and determination could lead to unimaginable accomplishments. Neither of Coach Robinson's parents graduated from high school, but they encouraged their son's desire to stay in school and earn a college degree. A young Robinson moved on from high school to become a quarterback at Leland College under Reuben Turner, a Baptist preacher who introduced Robinson to the concepts of playbooks and coaching clinics.

With no coaching opportunities available following college, Robinson took a job in the Baton Rouge feed mill before learning from a relative that there was an opening for a football coach at Louisiana Negro Normal and Industrial Institute, later to become Grambling State University. After an interview with school president Dr. Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, Robinson was chosen as the sixth head football coach of the Tigers.

It didn't take Coach Rob, as he is affectionately known, long to prove his worth. Following his initial season, Coach Robinson took command and dismissed some players who he felt were not living up to expectations. The results came soon thereafter, as the next season Coach Robinson's team posted a perfect 9-0 season with the team going undefeated, untied and unscored upon. Grambling was only the second collegiate team to have shut out every opponent, a feat which has not been repeated since.

By 1949, Grambling's football program was receiving national acclaim after former Tigers running back Paul "Tank" Younger signed with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, this becoming the first player from a historically black college to be taken to the NFL.

In 1955, Grambling claimed the National Black College Championship by going 10-0 (the best record in school history) and outscoring opponents by a 356-61 margin. After picking up his 100th career coaching victory against Bethune-Cookman in 1957, Coach Robinson and his Tigers joined the Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) in 1959. The following season he led the Tigers to the first of 17 SWAC titles under his guidance.

Another of Robinson's former Tigers made NFL waves in 1963, as the late Junious "Buck" Buchanan became the first player from a Historically Black College and University (HBCU) to have been chosen first overall in the NFL Draft.

By 1984, Coach Robinson was poised to become college football's winningest coach. After surpassing Amos Alonzo Stagg's 314 coaching victories that year, he tied legendary coach Paul "Bear" Bryant's 323-win mark with a 23-6 win over Oregon State before becoming the career wins leader the next week with a 27-7 win over Prairie View A & M.

Coach Robinson finally relinquished his reigns to the tigers following the 1997 season, but his contribution to the game will be remembered forever. Also during the same year, he was officially inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

The Football Writers of America's Coach of the Year award is named after Coach Robinson. Grambling also named its football stadium, Robinson Stadium.

Robinson graduated from McKinley Senior High School in Baton Rouge, Louisiana in 1937. He went on to earn his bachelor's degree from Leland College of Baker, Louisiana, then went on to obtain his master's degree from the University of Iowa in 1954. He passed away on April 3, 2007

collieNICHOLSON

A Sports Information Legend (GSU: 1948-1978)

It was a simple twist of fate just after World War II, a lack of communication never connected.

The end result, however, was the building of an award-winning career in sports information that spanned 30 years and played an immeasurable role in developing the world-wide reputation of one of America's best known black colleges, Grambling State University.

Collie J. Nicholson was fresh out of the Marines finishing a three-year stint in the South Pacific during World War II when he and a friend made a stop at Grambling State. They were really on their way north to the University of Wisconsin, but it was years before anyone at Grambling knew the story.

Nicholson, who had started school at Grambling before the war, ran into the school's president, Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, during his brief stopover. Having known Collie when he first attended Grambling, "Prez", as he was affectionately known, invited him to his office to discuss some ideas for the young journalist.

Not wanting to tell Prez he was actually on his way to another school, Collie went to the bus stop, grabbed his bags and headed to the dorm. More than 30 years later, in 1978, Collie J. Nicholson retired as the school's only sports information director and more than that, one of the profession's most creative members.

In the summer of 2002, nearly 25 years after retiring, Nicholson was named the recipient of the prestigious College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) Trailblazer Award. This award is given annually to a pioneer in the field of sports information who has mentored and helped improve the level of ethnic and gender diversity within CoSIDA Nicholson was honored at the organization's annual workshop on July 2, 2002, in Rochester, New York.

What Collie accomplished was to put Grambling on the map around the world. When he started his job Collie convinced Prez all he really needed were stamps, envelope and stationery, plus a trusty typewriter.

He began by sending advances to 400 black newspapers nationwide. After football games, he would drive 75 miles to Shreveport Western Union Station, where he would wire the stories to selected newspapers across the country. Collie's reports made every game, regardless of the outcome, sound exciting. Through his creative writing style, more and more papers ran accounts of Grambling's games.

But Nicholson with the support of President Jones and Eddie G. Robinson, envisioned a much bigger picture, and he rarely accepted a no when it came to developing ideas that would further spread the word about Grambling athletics.

In the 1960's he pounded the pavement of New York City, looking for sponsors who would help stage a football game in Yankee Stadium, pitting Grambling against another team from a black college. It wasn't easy, but Collie with his "never quit" efforts found the sponsors and in 1968 Grambling and Morgan State played before 64,000 fans in a packed-to-the-brim Yankee Stadium.

Television was another target Collie set in his sights. Some might say he hounded the national networks, but whatever he did, it worked. ABC signed on and televised its first football game between the two black colleges.

Collie also believed Grambling could take its football team and well-known marching band on the road to capture attention. Over the years and through his persistence, Grambling broke ground with appearances in huge venues like Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, Detroit Silverdome and the Louisiana (New Orleans) Superdome.

The now traditional Bayou Classic was also a product of Collie's efforts. In 1974, he convinced officials at both Grambling and Southern University that they could create something special by moving their annual game to New Orleans. Before long, the classic was born, and the game was played before capacity crowds.

Nicholson also took great pride in the Tiger Marching Band. He considered the band and the athletic teams as a marriage and promoted them as one package. It was Nicholson who garnered exposure for the band in three Super Bowl games and a 14-day tour to Liberia. He also arranged for Grambling State football games to be played in Tokyo, Japan, in 1976 and 1977 with part of the draw the now well-known Tiger Marching Band. While building support for the Tokyo package in the mid-1970's, Collie learned Japanese so he would not embarrass himself, the school or his hosts in Japan.

It is Nicholson's efforts that helped the Los Angeles Rams discover Paul "Tank" Younger, the first player from a black college to make it in the National Football League. He launched the Heisman and All-America campaign for Doug Williams when he finished fourth in the Heisman race and was a first team All-America selection by the A.P. – which was a first for any athlete from a black school.

When Collie was not knocking on doors, he was producing unique and award-winning press guides, with recognition from the NCAA, NAIA and CoSIDA. Two of his publications were voted best in the nation. He also served for several years as the sports information director of the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

Nicholson is a member of the Grambling State University Hall of Fame and following his career was recognized with numerous awards, including the Distinguished Service Award in Sports Journalism by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association in 1990.

Nicholson, 85, died peacefully in Shreveport, Louisiana on September 13, 2006.

alDENNIS III

Dennis the Menace (GSU: 1948-1978)

Albert Dennis III was born June 24, 1951, at Independence in south Louisiana and honed his skills as an Iarrupin' lineman at Greenville Park High School in Hammond. "His daddy was a tackle, too, and was captain of the team with 'Tank' Younger," recalls Eddie Robinson. "We were in a hot battle with Tulane trying to get young Albert but we hung on and signed him. His daddy was upset over publicity. He said we were making Albert an All-American and he had not played one down."

There were photos in the newspapers on the signing, and the press. His daddy said he had never gotten that kind of recognition.

Like his father, Albert as a senior would captain the Tigers and would also be named a second team All-American by the Pittsburgh Courier. And this was not just a "Fat Albert." He was solid and tough, big and quick. He came on like gangbusters after a leg injury sidetracked his sophomore campaign, crashing onto the All-SWAC team as a junior.

Albert was easily recognizable with a "curious straddling gait," and he was conscientious when it came to protecting quarterback Matt Reed. Eager to learn and easy to teach, Albert was a devastating tackle on a 1972 club that won 10 of 12 game including a 56-6 walloping of North Carolina Central in the Pecan Bowl.

The Tigers of 1972 were overloaded with standout lineman. On offense there were Willie Robinson, Andrew Jackson, Bobby Simon and Dennis. On defense the front four included Robert Barber, Gary Johnson, Jesse O'Neal and Sylvester Bates.

Dennis was also sharp in the classroom, an honor student who earned his degree in marketing. Paired down to 250 pounds, with an eye on playing guard in the NFL, Albert hooked on with the Cowboys as a free agent in 1973, but before he could pack his bags for Dallas he was waived and claimed by San Diego. He played in seven games for the Chargers and caught the eyes of line coach Forrest Gregg. When Forrest joined Cleveland the following season, young Dennis was given a brief trial in September. When Gregg took over as head coach of the Browns in 1975, he remembered Al, who would see guard service in 1976 and 1977.

Albert Jr., in the meantime, would have to content himself with recognition as an outstanding high school coach in New Orleans and at BTW and Green Oaks High School in Shreveport.

In November of 2000 Dennis was appointed director of athletics at Grambling State University after serving a 10 month stint as the interim AD. Dennis, a veteran of the Grambling athletic department for over 25 years, brought an extensive background and keen sense and knowledge of the Grambling athletic program, having served as business services manager, athletic coordinator and auxiliary/athletic accountant.

He received his bachelor's degree in business administration from Grambling in 1972 and a master's in sports administration in 1982. Dennis is a member of several organizations, including the College Athletic Business Management Association, the Louisiana Athletic Business Management Association and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Dennis is married to the former Sarah Dangerfield and is the proud father of three GSU graduates, Swanie (1995), Kadar (2002, 2004) and Blythe (2011).

“The Buck” stops here---(GSU: 1959-1962)

Junious “Buck” Buchanan. That says it all. “Our first, first round draft choice,” reminds Eddie Robinson. For thirteen years he was an awesome defensive tackle for the Kansas City Chiefs. But, it was not Kansas City that made Buck the first ever player chosen in the inaugural American Football League Draft in 1963. That honor went to Oakland; the Raiders subsequently transferring their claim on Buck to the Chiefs. He was the first player from Grambling State to have ever been selected in the first round of the NFL Draft.

With that generally-ignored fact disposed of, turn your attention to now one of the greatest defensive linemen who ever tightened a chin strap. He came in at 6-foot-6 and 225 pounds as a freshman, class of ‘59 at Grambling. He went out a 6-foot-7 and 275-pound behemoth as a 13-year Chief in 1975.

In between, he demolished everything in sight and climbed the peak of his profession in two Super Bowls. “Someone called me one night,” remembers Eddie of his introduction to Buchanan, who was born September 10, 1940 in Gainesville, Ala., but would play his prep ball at Parker High School in Birmingham. “The man said, ‘There is a football player here you need.’ I said, ‘Who?’ He said, Junious Buchanan.”

Arrangements were made for Buchanan to enroll at Grambling in mid-semester. “He came in and weighed 210 pounds,” fondly recalls Robinson. “Ernie Ladd was coming off of a knee injury. Ladd, before Buck got here, was our fastest interior lineman. When Buck got here, he and Ladd would be fighting to the tape.

“But to be honest, I didn’t think Buck would be much of a ball player because he had his foot in a bucket. It didn’t look like he could move with lateral movement. Then we would start running our plays. If we went to the right he would tackle us. If we went to the left he would tackle us. If we went right at him, he would tackle us. . . Boy, he was really tough.”

Buchanan checked in at Grambling with a skilled freshman group that included the ill-fated Stone Johnson, Lane Howell, Fred Collins, Bob Burton, Willie Brown, Charles Cook and colorful Willie “Special Touchdown” Houston. Older backfield star Jamie Caleb, fullback Preston Powell, punter Curtis Cotton and the ponderous Ladd. There also a half-dozen scintillating sophomores—Clifton McNeil, Jerry Robinson, Roosevelt Taylor, Garland Boyette, Leon Simmons and Eugene Hughes.

It was, for the most part, a young ball club in the making. After struggling through a 4-6 season in 1959, the Tigers took off on the turn into the ‘60s. They posted a 23-5-2 record during Buck’s three seasons through 1962. Buck was named an All-American all three seasons, was elected team captain and in 1961 was voted lineman of the year in the Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC). That same year, he was named to the SWAC All-Academic team for maintaining a 3.20 grade point averagewhile majoring in physical education. Also while at Grambling State, Buck participated in both basketball and track and field as a member of the sprint relay teams in addition to playing football. In 1968, he was inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame.

He was just starting to make waves. After playing for the 1963 College All-Star squad that upset Green Bay’s mighty Packers, he joined the Chiefs. It was Buchanan who cemented the tremendous defenses fashioned by Coach Hank Stram. Up front, Buck would battle ferociously for a decade alongside Jerry Mays, Paul Rochester, Aaron Brown, Curley Culp and for brief stretches Grambling teammates Al Dotson and Ernie Ladd. Behind them roamed linebackers Bobby Bell, Willie Lanier, “Beast” Holub and Jim Lynch. Further back would lurk Dave Grayson, Willie Mitchell, Johnny Robinson, Fred “The Hammer” Williamson, Emmitt Thomas, Jime Marsalis, Jim Kearney and Grambling ex Goldie Sellers. Right there in the middle of it all was team captain Buck Buchanan. Among his feats:

- Played in the first AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game in 1970, also the first Pro Bowl of 1971.
- Voted the Chiefs’ Most Valuable Player in 1965 in 1967.
- Named to All-AFL teams in 1967 through 1969 and the All-NFC squad in 1970.
- Played in six straight AFL All-Star games from 1964 through 1969.
- Played in AFL Championship games in 1966 and 1969, followed by Super Bowls I and IV.

Those were just samplings. It was worth noting that Buck also played in all but one of 182 regular season games scheduled by the Chiefs. He missed his first game in 1974 with a broken hand. Despite the injury, he played in 13 of the team’s 14 games. Away from the playing fields, Buck was active in civic affairs, serving as director of the Kansas State Special Olympics for mentally and physically retarded children in 1972 through 1975.

After peeling off his pads a final time, Buck hooked on as an assistant coach with the New Orleans Saints. Buck had finally stopped here in Louisiana. He was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1990. He passed away on July 16, 1992, after a long battle against lung cancer.

Buchanan was inducted into the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame on August 17, 1996. He was also inducted into the American Football League, Louisiana Sports and Southwestern Athletic Conference Hall of Fame.

The Sports Network national news service named its national NCAA Division I-AA Defensive Player of the Year award in his honor.

willieBROWN

He was no ‘Assassin’---(GSU:1959-62)

Yazoo City, Mississippi, is probably best known in these parts for three native sons. . . country philosopher Jerry Clower, positive thinker Zig Zigler and football cornerback William Freddie Brown.

Willie Brown played 16 years in the American and National Football Leagues and picked off a record 54 interceptions. He was the only player in NFL history to intercept at least one pass in 16 consecutive seasons, which puts him three years up on the nearest challengers Emlen Tunnell, Dick “Night Train” Lane, Larry Wilson and Jimmy Johnson.

That, in itself, is very select company in the NFL. Beyond that, Willie also played a dozen seasons in an Oakland defensive backfield with two of the most ferocious head-hunters in the business—George Atkinson and Jack Tatum.

It was Tatum who wrote the book, “They Call Me Assassin.”

Brown was never an “assassin” all those years he dressed out as one of the guys who wore black with the Raiders. Willie would hit you hard enough, but his forte was finesse. Steal the ball and run. Twice he scored touchdowns on interception returns in playoff games against Miami in 1970 and Pittsburgh in 1973. However, the play that he is most recognized for was the 75-yard interception that he returned for a touchdown in the Raiders’ 32-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl XI in 1977.

Willie did not even look malicious. He looked like a guy who you would vote for as senior class president, which he was at Grambling.

“Tom Williams recruited Willie Brown,” recalls Eddie Robinson. “He went into Mississippi and got him over some other schools. From the very beginning, Willie was just a clean-cut athlete, extremely fast. We played him as an end. He was one of the guys with great ability. It was not real important where we put him. He could have been a great running back, or a great tight end, because he was an exceptional blocker. And he had character.”

Solidly built at 6-foot-1 and 210 pounds, Willie was spotted at split end “because he was beating everybody on the deep passes with his speed” and he played outside linebacker on defense. He was a Tiger from 1959 through 1962, won four letters and picked up another two block G’s with the track team. In the classroom, he earned a degree in health and physical education.

Willie could run with the best in his day, but hardly anyone noticed because his college career paralleled those of Olympian sprinter Stone Johnson and “Gray Ghost” Jerry Robinson. The team’s tailback Don Stephenson, once returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown in Shreveport.

“On that particular team, almost the whole defensive group got into pro football,” reminds Robinson. “(Ernie) Ladd, (Buck) Buchanan, Lane Howell, Simmons, Boyette, Wilson, (Goldie) Sellers and Rosey Taylor.”

It was easy to see why Willie got lost in the crowd. And it explains why the Houston Oilers landed him as a free agent in 1963. But he was cut loose by the Oilers—we all make mistakes—and picked up by Denver during that same August. Willie played four seasons with the Broncos, intercepting nine passes as a professional sophomore in 1964 and holding a school reunion in 1966 when he was joined in the Denver secondary by old mates Goldie Sellers and Nemiah Wilson.

That may have been Grambling’s finest hour for producing defensive backs, three regulars on the same pro club. The old gang was broken up a month after the season ended, however. Willie and Louisiana Tech quarterback Mickey Slaughter were traded to Oakland. It was a start of a lasting relationship. Willie, born December 2, 1940, was 26 years old when he joined the “pride and poise” Raiders. When he hung up his tack, he was 38.

Using guile, a dash of speed and a bushel of experience, Willie in 12 seasons with the Raiders intercepted a total of 39 passes, which is a club record. One year, he helped the Raiders to set an all-time theft record at 35. He played in five AFL All-Star games and four NFL Pro Bowls. He captained the Raiders on defense and in 1969, won the Gorman Award as the “player who best exemplifies the pride and spirit of the Oakland Raiders.”

He still shares an NFL record with four interceptions in one game November 15, 1964 against the New York Jets.

Willie Brown was a winner all the way. Eight years in postseason championship playoffs including Super Bowl II. “He was just a real good football player,” says Eddie Robinson.

Brown was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1984. In addition, he was honored as one of the Best Black College Athletes of All-Time by Family Digest magazine in July of 2004. He is also a member of the American Football League, Louisiana Sports, Grambling State, SWAC and Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame.

The Means to an End---(GSU:1952-55)

Was there ever a more awesome sight on the playing fields of the NFL than the sweeping strength thrown into battle by the Green Bay Packers of the 1960's? The legions drummed together by Vince Lombardi six times barreled into the league's championship game during the decade and five times emerged triumphant, including a string of three in a row from 1965-67.

Ten years later there would come another dynasty, forged by the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Steelers would hit with the big play. The Packers would hurt you for sixty minutes. Little finesse, more like brute strength. Bart Starr operated with surgical precision, handing the ball off to Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung behind pulverizing blocks laid down by Jerry Kramer, Fuzzy Thurston, Forrest Gregg and Bill Curry.

And the defense. In the 14-game season of 1966, the Packers gave up 163 points, less than twelve a game. Nobody ran through much daylight against the likes of Ray Nitschke, Lee Roy Caffey, Dave Robinson, Herb Adderly, Herb Adderley, Willie Wood and Willie Delford Davis.

A legendary football game, and Willie Davis was right there in the middle. Actually, Willie hung around the fringes. He played end, a gentle giant at 6-foot-3 and 245 pounds. Gentle, that is, until he strapped on his helmet.

Willie was a classic performer as a defensive lineman, probably the best he has ever seen, says Eddie Robinson. Born in Lisbon, Arkansas on July 24, 1934, he prepped at Booker T. Washington High School in Texarkana. "We finally convinced his Mama," Robinson recalls of the recruiting. "We promised her that we would see that he got to Sunday school and church. When we told her that, he didn't have a chance."

Young Davis may have been genteel on the Sabbath, but he was less than gentle on Saturdays. "At first, while he was here," remembers Robinson, "he wanted to play end. He weighed around 210, 215. But we changed him to guard. That was in 1952."

As a guard, Willie was a two-time black college All-American in 1954-55. With him in the lineup in 1955, Grambling would win its first national championship (eleven more would follow through to the present day).

The 1955 season was culminated by a trip to the Orange Blossom Classic. "We were invited to Tallahassee to play Florida A&M University," reflects Robinson. "They were outstanding with Willie Galimore and Adolphus Frazier. Each of them scored 16 touchdowns that year. They were really tough." The Rattlers also fielded an All-American guard, Carl Crowell.

Grambling was no slouch, either, having gone unbeaten through nine games without breaking a sweat. "We had Bo Murray," agrees Robinson. "On the first play of the game Bo went back to throw a pass and he faked a run to fullback Leon Gafford. This tackle from Florida broke it up. He said after the tackle, 'I'm up for All-America, so don't come this way again.' On the next play, Murray called a trap. Willie came from the opposite side and he really trapped this boy. When Willie got up, he said 'You're up for All-American? I can see why you're not going to make it.' Willie had hitting power. And he was our captain, an outstanding leader."

Grambling turned back FAMU by 28-21. More important for Willie, scouts who had been dispatched by the Cleveland Browns to analyze Galimore went back home singing the praises of Davis. The Browns had an inside track. Ruston's Dub Jones, who had been a great running back for Cleveland, once scoring six touchdowns in a single game, had begun working with Willie on the blocking sled. "And Tank Younger in Los Angeles was predicting that Davis was going to be a player," reminds Robinson.

The Browns, encouraged by their Orange Blossom eyewitnesses and Dub Jones' recommendation, drafted Willie in the 15th round of the 1956 draft, thus making him the first ever player in Grambling history to have ever been drafted. It does not sound like a high ranking now, but this was less than seven years after Younger had become the first black college player to join an NFL team. Before joining the Browns, however, Willie had more pressing business; he picked up his bachelor of science degree in industrial arts in the spring of 1956, then fulfilled a military obligation over a two-year stretch. By 1958 he was free to sign with the Browns.

Cleveland, like Green Bay in later years, was then a powerhouse under coach Paul Brown. Try Jim Brown for starters, and add Bobby Mitchell and Lou Groza. Thrown into a defensive line company with the likes of Paul Wiggins, Bob Gain, Don Colo and Henry Jordan, rookie Davis played in all 24 games over two seasons before being traded to the Packers for end A.D. Williams in 1960.

He would spend ten seasons in Green Bay before his retirement at age 36. Davis never missed a kickoff in his dozen years as a professional player in 286 games including 262 as a Packer. Three times he was tabbed as a Western Conference All-Star, during the glory years from 1965 through 1967. He would play in no less than five Pro Bowls. He was there when Green Bay whipped Kansas City 35-10 in the first Super Bowl, and when the Packers routed Oakland 33-14 in Super Bowl II. He was on the premises, too, when the Packers outskidded Dallas 21-17 in the 1967 Ice Bowl at Green Bay.

Willie also captained the Packers.

There were not many places Willie Davis could not go, if he had a mind to. And he had a mind. He received his master's degree in business administration in 1968 from the University of Chicago and is now a successful businessman in Los Angeles, California.

Davis was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1981.

On and On and On, Etc.---(GSU:1968-69)

Charles Joiner Jr. was once described as the quintessential professional. “From the way he conducts himself in each practice each day to the manner in which he runs his precise pass patterns,” explained the front office people in San Diego, a western bastion of the National Football League. The Chargers’ owner, Eugene Klein, and this is according to the gospel as preached by Eddie Robinson, “thinks the sun rises and sets on Charlie Joiner.”

Sufficient reason exists for the affection. Since joining the Chargers in April of 1976— an even swap for defensive lineman Coy Bacon bringing him from Cincinnati—Charlie has grabbed 190 passes as a favorite companion of quarterback Dan Fouts. Net worth of same, 3,213 yards spread over four seasons. It means, too that Charlie has been good for 17 yards a pop every time he gets his sensitive hands on the football.

There is an added dimension, in that Charlie’s best season as a wide receiver with the Chargers came in 1979 when he caught 72 passes for 1,008 yards in the wide-open aerial bombardment navigated by Fouts. Charlie at the time was 32 going on 33, and we are not talking about his uniform number.

Charlie for the record, turned 33 on October 14, 1980, and there he was still running those “precise patterns” and eluding defensive backs in San Diego. He knew all the steps, having gone about this business for 12 years since coming off the dusty drillfields at Grambling.

“Charlie goes all out,” says an admiring Robinson. “He spends a lot of time with young receivers, too. He has a lot of class.”

Joiner, born in Many, LA, turned up at Grambling after impressing his prep coach, Wiley Stewart, at W.O. Boston High School in Lake Charles. “Stewart once told us Charlie was a good receiver and he could play,” Robinson recalls. “He teamed here with James Harris. There it was, touchdown after touchdown.”

“Charlie, had some of Dub Jones’ influence, too. Dub told me one day that Charlie Joiner ran some of the finest patterns he’d ever seen. Beating the man, that’s where he excelled.”

Charlie, not overly large at 5-foot-11 and 188 pounds, but blessed with 4.4 speed over 40 yards, learned his trade from the very best while at Grambling. He ran his patterns in summer workouts against Willie Brown, then an established cornerback with Oakland, and he was lectured on offensive strategy by both Dub Jones and Clifton McNeil, at the time an all-league receiver with San Francisco.

This football education coincided with the arrival at Grambling of a 200-pound quarterback out of Monroe, the man called James Harris. Harris between 1965 and 1968, would deliver 289 pass completions for 4,705 yards and 53 touchdowns. And Joiner caught his share— 78 receptions— along with Bob Atkins, Frank Lewis, Essex Johnson and big tight end Terry Williams.

The Tigers went 23-6-1 in three years with Harris throwing downfield to Joiner and others. An All-Southwestern Athletic Conference finish as a senior drew the interest of Houston, and the Oilers made Charlie a fourth round choice in the combined AFL-NFL Draft of 1969. Joiner as a rookie impressed the Oilers with “fluid moves, excellent hands and the ability to make the tough catch in the crowd,” but a broken arm derailed him for most of the 1969 season and part of 1970.

Once healed, he led the Oilers with seven touchdowns and 681 receiving yards in 1971. “Just a matter of time before he reaches stardom,” predicted the Oilers. Patience, however, was not to be an Oiler virtue, and Charlie, along with linebacker Ron Pritchard, was dispatched to Cincinnati six games into the 1972 season in exchange for running backs Fred Willis and Paul Robinson.

Reunited with Essex Johnson and deployed with standout receiver Isaac Curtis, Joiner would be an integral part of the Bengals’ attack arsenal for three years, catching 37 passes for 726 yards in 1975. His first season in San Diego, 1976, he hauled in 50 throws for 1,056 yards— better than 20 yards per catch— and played in the Pro Bowl.

Not bad for a 29-year old gaffer who was back on the same side with old buddy James Harris.

In eleven seasons, Charlie had chalked off 6,156 yards and 38 touchdowns on the payoff end of 354 long shots lobbed behind some of the best deepbacks in the league. And he will keep on catching them because he is good at it. It is something he likes to do. He does not have to do this for a living; he earned his degree in accounting in 1969 and is a ten-year man with Gulf Oil in Houston. Joiner is currently working as the receivers coach with the Kansas City Chiefs.

But quitting in mid-stride, that is not Charlie Joiner. He finished his pro career by catching 750 passes for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns while averaging 16.2 yards per catch. He also had 50 or more receptions in seven years and 70 or more catches for three of those seasons.

Charlie Joiner was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in July 1996.

sammy WHITE

In the North, A Star---(GSU:1972-75)

You could call him Sammie. Or you could call him Sammy. Whatever. But make no mistake about the last name-White.

“Frank Lewis and Sammie White had so much in common,” submits Eddie Robinson.” Either one could take a screen pass...and score.”

Sammie, from 1972 through 1975, scored 43 touchdowns, one more than Frank. Sammie also caught 26 career touchdown passes, eight more than Frank. Where Lewis’ name used to be in the record books, it has been replaced by White.

Sammie’s tenure at Grambling spanned three quarterbacks - Matt Reed, Joe Comeaux and Doug Williams - and with this arsenal of firepower the Tigers forgot how to lose. They went 10-2 in 1972 and whipped North Carolina Central, 56-6, in the Pelican Bowl; finished 10-3 in 1973 while dumping Delaware, 17-8 in the Boardwalk Bowl; closed at 11-1 in 1974 while routing South Carolina State, 28-7, in the Pelican Bowl; and rumbled to a 10-1 record in 1975. Grand total in wins and losses: 41-7.

One of the 1973 losses came in the NCAA playoff, a 28-20 heartbreaker against Western Kentucky in the Grantland Rice Bowl.

Born March 16, 1954, in Winnsboro, Sammie prepped at Richwood High School in Monroe. “We watched him all the way,” says Robinson. “We knew what he could do. He was almost unbelievable in high school...”

Not as unbelievable as he would become at Grambling. Sammie had deceptive speed his time for the 40-yard dash was 4.6 - but beyond that he had exceptional moves and reflexes. “His first year he took over at wingback in his fourth game,” remembers Robinson. “He was a climax runner and could make the big play.”

Sammie was compactly constructed at 5-foot-11 and 189 pounds. Three times he was voted All-SWAC; twice he was named an NCAA Division II All-American. He caught 100 passes as a collegian, a school record matched only by Michael Moore, who would benefit as Doug Williams recipient through 1977.

“Sammie, too, was a fine person,” Robinson adds. “He could come into a room and if you didn’t ask him, you wouldn’t know who he was.”

The Minnesota Vikings knew who Sammie White was after his senior season of 1975. He rushed the ball 63 times for 479 yards, caught 37 passes for 802 yards and scored 17 touchdowns, 12 on receptions. In four years he contributed 3,287 yards to Grambling’s attack. He had gained 2,169 of those yards on pass catches, a school record. The Vikings made Sammie their second round drafts pick in 1976.

Sammie, with good hands and quick feet, joined the Vikings fresh from the College All-Star game in Chicago. In the four years since, coming into this season, he would catch 187 passes for 3,122 yards. What is remarkable about his performance in the NFL is the reminder that the Vikings have long regarded a dump pass out of the backfield as a significant achievement. Yet he averaged better than 15 yards per catch, holds a club record with touchdown catches in four consecutive games, had caught at least one pass in sixty straight games, and in 1977 hauled in a 69-yard bomb from Tommy Kramer against San Francisco.

As a rookie with the Vikings, White started every game scoring 10 touchdowns and set a team rookie receiving yards record with 906 yards, which stood until it was broken by former Minnesota wideout Randy Moss in 1998. He also held team records for both touchdowns and yards in a game by a rookie which were both broken by Moss in the same year. He was named the NFL Offensive and NFC Rookie of the year in 1976 and has appeared in three Pro Bowls. Although the Viking was humbled by Oakland, 32-14, in Super Bowl XI, White scored one of the losers’ two touchdowns on an 8-yard third period pass from Fran Tarkenton.

Following a career with the Vikings, White coached at Carroll High School in Monroe, LA before returning to Grambling where he has enjoyed a stint as an offensive coach with the Tigers. During this tenure on the coaching staff, he has helped the Tigers earn four National Black College and SWAC Championship titles. During those runs, GSU’s offense twice led the nation in passing offense, scoring offense and ranked in the top on several occasions in other categories.

White, a member of the Vikings 25th Anniversary team, is married to the former Penny Fortner and they have two children: Sammy III and Samantha and two grandchildren: Lauren and Taylor.

From All-American Quarterback to Head Coach to NFL Executive

History was made in December of 1997 when Doug Williams returned to his alma mater to take over for retired legend Eddie Robinson as the first new head coach at Grambling for more than 50 years. Williams finished six seasons as the “Head Tiger” leading the team to three straight NCAA Division I-AA National Black College and SWAC Championships before leaving the university in February 2004 to take on a new role as a Personnel Executive with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

A natural for the position, having been the most prolific quarterback in Grambling State’s history combined with an outstanding professional career, Williams brought several intangibles to the football program, including his vast football knowledge built on a wealth of experience and a love for Grambling that is unmatched by anyone, anywhere.

Williams’ impact on the football program was immediate as the Tigers went from a 3-8 record in 1997 to a 5-6 mark in his first season in 1998. His second season saw even more success as the Tigers finished with a 7-4 mark. Williams’ third season proved to be the charm with a 10-2 mark en route to their first SWAC title since sharing it with Alcorn State in 1994 and the first outright title since 1989. The Tigers were also named the 2000 National Champions in the NCAA Division I Black College Football Poll.

In 2001, Williams proved that the previous year’s success was no fluke as he guided the Tigers to a 10-1 mark en route to both undisputed SWAC and National Black College championships.

In 2002, Williams completed the hat trick by leading GSU to its third straight SWAC and National Black College championships with an 11-2 record. At the conclusion of each of those three seasons, the Tigers finished in the top ten in several national polls.

Also during this stretch, Williams brought home some serious Coach of the Year hardware such as the SWAC; 100% Wrong Club of Atlanta and the Pigskin Club of Washington, D.C. SWAC Coach of the Year awards for three straight years. In addition, he was named the Street and Smith’s Magazine Black College Coach of the Year (2000); Shutt Sports Division I-AA Coach of the Year (2000) and the Sheridan Broadcasting Network Black College Coach of the Year (2001, 2002).

Growing up as a young boy in the 1960s, Williams could only dream of the day he would get the chance to play in the NFL, let alone quarterback a team to a world championship and earn MVP honors. It was a day and age when black men and women gave up much just to achieve basic equality, and imagining a black man a leader of champions was only a dream in the minds of greats like Martin Luther King Jr. But he would end up turning that dream into his life’s story.

Williams attended Chaneyville High School in Zachary, LA in the early 1970s and became a star quarterback for the football team. He was recruited out of high school by Coach Robinson, who was coaching one of the most successful black college football programs at the time at Grambling State.

After spending time as a backup early on during his freshman year at Grambling, Williams finally got his chance to start in which he wasted no time in leading the team to victory in the fifth game of the season with a 21-7 victory over Tennessee State. In his first year as a starter, he would help to lead the team to a 10-2 record en route to the both the 1974 SWAC Co-Championship and the National Black College Championship. The Tigers were Williams’ team from that point on as he would go on to start every game that he played at Grambling State. In his sophomore season as a full-time starter, he helped to lead the team to a 10-2 season en route to another National Black College Championship in 1975.

In his senior season of 1977, Williams’ passing statistics were staggering in which he would lead the Tigers to a 10-1 record en route to both the SWAC and National Black College Championships while earning SWAC Player of the Year and All-America honors. As a direct result of his efforts, this vaulted him to a fourth place finish in the Heisman Trophy race behind the University of Texas running back Earl Campbell.

That spectacular college career earned Williams plenty of attention from NFL scouts and the changing times saw him get selected in the first round of the 1978 NFL draft by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Williams turned in a strong career at Tampa Bay which included a playoff berth before the fledgling United States Football League gave the young signal caller the respect that he deserved for so long. The Oklahoma Outlaws signed him to a lucrative contract and showed a resounding vote of confidence in him as a true team leader in 1984. Williams led the Outlaws into first place before a knee injury sidelined him halfway through that initial USFL season. He played a second season with the Outlaws until the league suddenly folded in 1985.

In 1986, Tampa Bay traded the NFL rights to Williams to the Washington Redskins, and a year later he shared the starting quarterback position with Jay Schroeder. But it was Williams who shined in the postseason, leading the Redskins through the playoffs en route to a 42-10 Super Bowl victory the Denver Broncos in 1988. He was the first black quarterback to ever start in a Super Bowl who made the most of a monumental opportunity by setting several Super Bowl passing records en route being named the game’s MVP.

Tanks for the Memories (GSU: 1945-1948)

Paul Younger, homegrown, moved up to the college varsity in 1945. Before he ran out of eligibility in 1948 he would score a record 60 touchdowns and 369 points ; rush for a nation-leading 1,207 yards in a single season (1947) and 2,631 yards in four seasons of eight-and-nine-game schedule; rumble 86 yards for a non-touchdown against Morgan State in 1946, and would become the first of more than 70 Grambling All-American.

“He was the fastest man on our team,” appends Robinson. “Most of the time in high school whenever he got the ball he’d score a touchdown. On end-around he was knocking people down. In college he scored a helluva lot of touchdowns, 25 of them as a tackle on end-arounds. His junior year we moved him to running back and defensive halfback.”

Eddie Kotal, a scout for the Los Angeles Rams, caught sight of Younger in Birmingham, Alabama, during the now defunct Vulcan Bowl. Tank scored three touchdowns in 28-27 loss to Wilberforce University of Ohio.

There are two popular misconceptions connected with Younger’s joining the Rams in 1949. He was not first black player with the Rams, nor was he the first black college player to suit up as a pro in Los Angeles.

As far back as 1946, the Rams - just one year removed from Cleveland - had signed two stellar black athletes out of UCLA - giant defensive end Woody Strode and all-purpose halfback Kenny Washington. Across LA the rival All-American Conference Dons in 1947 signed two black college players, end Ezzret “Sugarfoot” Anderson from Kentucky State and center-linebacker John Brown from North Carolina Central.

Younger, however, would tread new ground as the first black college player in the National Football League. “Just like the film, ‘One Hundred Yards to Glory’ if Younger made it, it would open doors for others ball players,” Robinson said of that day and age. “We talked about it quite a bit. When he left here to go to report, he was the best conditional athlete in the Rams’ camp when he got there. All slimmed, and trained like a fighter. He weighed between 218 and 223.”

Eddie also imparted some wisdom to Tank: “In dummy drills run out the play 25 to 30 yards. Don’t turn and come back after 10 like the others do. The longer you have the ball under your arm, the longer the man is watching....”

The “man” was general manager Tex Schramm, later to build a dynasty in Dallas, and the head coach was the innovative plotter of the T-formation, Clark Shaughnessy. Tank gained 191 yards on 52 carries while alternating with Fred Gehrke at fullback in his rookie season and the Rams won the Western Conference.

But Younger was not yet being called Tank. His nickname was “Bass Eyes,” a label hung on him by another rookie, quarterback Norm Van Brocklin. Younger would tip defenses by rolling his eyes in the direction the play would go, accused the Dutchman. Late in the 1950 season, Younger asked the team’s other quarterback, Bob Waterfield, “What do you want for Christmas?” “I’d like a tank that runs,” replied Waterfield. This was the birth of “Tank” Younger.

The Rams fielded the most explosive offense in NFL history in the fifties. There was Waterfield and Van Brocklin throwing long-rang missiles to Tom Fears, Hirsch and track sprinter Bob Boyd. Running the ball were the Bull Elephants and halfbacks Vitamin T. Smith and Glenn Davis. In the 12- game season of 1950, the attack scored 466 points-more then 38 a game-and they would win by score of 45-28 and 45-35. In one period they ran up 41 points against Detroit.

In time, Tank, who stood 6-foot-3, built up to 230 pounds. It was a time of Bull of Elephant. Hoerner led Rams in rushing in 1948-49, Towler from 1951-53 and Younger in 1954 (91 carries, 610 yards).

Tank wore his No. 35 jersey nine years with the Rams and finished up as a Pittsburgh Steelers in 1958. His career totals in the NFL were 770 carries and 3,640, yards, 100 catches for 1,167 yards, and 35 touchdowns. He was also a savage blocker and smashing linebacker, the last player selected to both the offensive and defensive All Star teams in the NFL.
