HUE JACKSON

HEAD COACH

University of the Pacific, 1986

1st Season as Grambling State Head Coach

Hue Jackson became the 14th head coach in the Grambling State University football program on December 10, 2021.

Jackson comes to Grambling State after spending the past year as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Tennessee State University.

Jackson, who has more than 30 years of coaching experience at both the collegiate and professional levels, began his coaching career in 1987 at the University of the Pacific, his alma mater, and spent a majority of the next 13 years in the college ranks. He then moved to the professional ranks in 2001 and remained in the National Football League until 2019.

Jackson spent three years as a graduate assistant at Pacific from 1987-1989 before working two seasons as the running backs coach and special team's coordinator at Cal State Fullerton.

In the spring of 1991, Jackson experienced the professional level for the first time, coaching the running backs, wide receivers and special teams for the World League's London Monarchs.

Jackson returned to the collegiate level in 1992 where he spent four years (1992—1995) at Arizona State University. He coached the running backs for his first three seasons at ASU and worked with the quarterbacks in his fourth year.

Jackson was appointed offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at California in 1996, leading the Bears to the Aloha Bowl. The following year, Jackson began a four-year stint as the offensive coordinator at the University of Southern California (USC)

While at USC, Jackson helped guide the Trojans in 2000 to the top of the Pac 10 in total offense. In addition, he was responsible for recruiting two Heisman Trophy-winning quarterbacks to USC — Carson Palmer (2002) and Matt Leinart (2004).

The first opportunity in the NFL for Jackson came with the Washington Redskins (now the Washington Commanders). He handled the running back corps for two seasons before being named offensive coordinator in 2003.

In 2004, Jackson began a three-year stretch coaching the wide receivers with the Cincinnati Bengals. Under Jackson's tutelage, Chad Johnson and T.J. Houshmandzadeh combined for 175 receptions for 2,388 yards in 2005, helping the Bengals secure the AFC North title and a playoff berth for the first time in 15 years. The following year, Johnson (1,369 yards) and Houshmandzadeh (1,081 yards) became the first pair of Bengals to eclipse the 1,000-yard receiving mark in a single season.

Jackson left Cincinnati to become the offensive coordinator with the Atlanta Falcons in 2007 before spending two seasons as the quarterback coach with the Baltimore Ravens.

In 2010, Jackson became the offensive coordinator for the Oakland Raiders. After leading the Raiders to a top five finish in scoring (25.6 points/game), Jackson was named head coach for the 2011 season. Oakland finished the year at 8-8.

JOHN SIMON

ASSISTANT HEAD COACH OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/WIDE RECEIVERS

Louisiana Tech University, 2001

1st Season as Grambling State Offensive Coordinator/Wide Receivers Coach

John Simon enters his first season as the assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach at Grambling State University.

Simon comes to Grambling State from Memphis, where he served as the program's recruiting coordinator, passing game coordinator and wide receivers coach. He joined the staff in January 2019.

In his first campaign with the Tigers, Simon helped develop one of the most prolific passing attacks in program history. For only the second time in school history, Memphis rolled up more than 4,000 yards through the air. The Memphis passing game ranked nationally in total yards (seventh), yards/completion (ninth), efficiency (10th), touchdowns (17th) and yards/game (17th). The passing game helped the Tigers rank in the top 10 in scoring offense (eighth) and total offense (10th).

The passing game's success partly relied on Simon's corps that had four Tigers with more than 600 receiving yards. Damonte Coxie, an All-American Athletic Conference second team pick, led the conference with 1,276 yards and was eighth nationally. Coxie's 1,276 yards were the third-highest for a season in program history and also made him one of only two Tigers with multiple 1,000-yard receiving campaigns in school history (Anthony Miller).

Simon's receiving attack, though, didn't stop with Coxie. Antonio Gibson, another All-AAC second team selection at wide receiver, piled up 735 yards, and Kedarian Jones added 609 yards. Kenneth Gainwell, The American's Rookie of the Year, hauled in 610 receiving yards out of the backfield.

In his role as recruiting coordinator, Simon helped elevate those efforts to unprecedented levels in program history. Memphis' 2020 signing class was the third-best outside the ACC, Big Ten, Big 12, Pac-12 and SEC, according to 247sports.com. Simon and the rest of the staff continued to ride that recruiting wave of momentum into head coach Ryan Silverfield's first full campaign, as the 2021 class ranks in the top 35 entering the 2020 season.

Prior to coming to the Bluff City, Simon spent two seasons as the associate head coach and running backs coach at Arizona State. Simon, a former NFL back, also had stints in the college game at Louisiana-Lafayette and Southern Miss and in high school football in Dallas, Texas.

Hailing from Baton Rouge, Simon played his college ball at Louisiana Tech from 1998-2001. He gained more than 4,000 all-purpose yards and caught a pass in a then-NCAA record 36 consecutive games. In his senior season (2001), he helped the Bulldogs to the program's first Western Athletic Conference (WAC) championship and a bowl appearance in 11 seasons. Simon, who moved to wide receiver his senior campaign, received the 2001 Humanitarian Award at the Humanitarian Bowl and was the recipient of the Louisiana Tech President's Award.

After college, Simon spent three seasons in the NFL. He was a member of the Tennessee Titans roster in 2002 and spent the 2003-04 season with the Washington Redskins (now the Washington Commanders). Following his professional career, Simon worked as a motivational speaker and created his own non-profit organization, I.M.A.G.E., which focused on improving minority areas and helping at-risk youth.

In 2008, Simon began coaching at Franklin D. Roosevelt High School in Dallas. After a stint as the receivers coach in 2008, he moved to the team's defensive coordinator role in 2009. He then spent the 2010 season as the special teams coordinator, secondary coach and athletics director. In 2011, he capped his high school coaching career as the interim head coach and athletics director. He moved into administration full-time in 2012, serving as the school's athletics director.

In 2013, Simon entered the college coaching ranks at Southern Miss as the program's running backs coach. Under his guidance, running backs Jalen Richard and Ito Smith combined for more than 3,000 total yards, including 2,200 yards on the ground, and 29 total touchdowns in 2015. Southern Miss was one of just five programs in FBS to have two running backs with 1,000 rushing yards in 2015. Smith ranked 18th nationally with 134 all-purpose yards per game that same season.

Richard and Smith, an all-conference duo under Simon's tutelage, also combined for more than 800 receiving yards in 2015. That season, the Golden Eagles set five season records, grabbed 10 wins and the Conference USA West Division title and earned a Zaxby's Heart of Dallas Bowl berth against Washington.

Simon joined the staff at Louisiana-Lafayette in 2016 as the program's wide receivers coach. He then moved to Arizona State in 2017. On the Sun Devils staff, Simon served as an associate head coach and worked with the running backs, helping the group account for 27 rushing touchdowns in 2017 and 26 rushing touchdowns in 2018. Kalen Ballage finished 26th in the nation and second in the Pac-12 with 14 rushing touchdowns in 2017. In a win over Texas Tech, Ballage tied an FBS record with eight total TD (7 rush/1 receive). Both Ballage (44 catches) and Demario Richard (17 catches) finished with double-digit receptions.

According to Pro Football Focus, the Sun Devils finished the 2017 regular season with the 30th-highest graded rushing game, an improvement of 11 spots from the 2016 campaign. In 2018, sophomore Eno Benjamin rushed for 1,642 yards, an Arizona State season record, and scored 16 touchdowns. He earned All-Pac-12 first team honors.

Simon and his wife, Cecelia, have two children — John IV and James.

Cedric Thornton enters his first year as the defensive coordinator at Grambling State University.

Prior to coming to Grambling State, Thornton developed and guided the Alcorn State defense to two SWAC Championships and a pair of Celebration Bowl Appearances.

While at Alcorn State, Thornton, who was promoted to Assistant Head Coach in 2019, saw his defense rank among the best in the nation in both interceptions (21) and turnovers gained (36). In the SWAC Championship, the Braves forced six turnovers including three interceptions. Additionally, Alcorn ranked fourth in the FCS in fumbles recovered (15), seventh in turnover margin (+0.92) and 7th in red zone defense (.689).

Thornton developed linebacker Solomon Muhammad into becoming a STATS FCS All-America Third-Team and HBCU All-America First-Team selection.

In 2018, Thornton's defense ranked first in the FCS in both sacks per game (4.0) and tackles for a loss per game (9.5). The defense was also third in the country in rushing (91.2 ypg), eighth in total defense (291.4 ypg), 10th in red zone defense (.714), 18th in scoring defense (21.5 ppg), 22nd in third down percentage defense (.324) and 24th in interceptions (14).

Thornton coached a pair of 2018 HBCU All-Americans - defensive back Qwynnterrio Cole and defensive lineman Terry Whittington. Cole was also named to the HERO Sports Sophomore All-America Team. Thornton also coached five All-Conference First-Team selections on defense.

Prior to being promoted to defensive coordinator, Thornton spent two years at Alcorn as the linebackers coach.

As the linebackers coach, he developed Darien Anderson to becoming an HBCU All-American in 2016 and an All-Conference First-Team selection.

Thornton coached three All-Conference linebackers in two seasons. Under Thornton's guidance, Anderson and All-SWAC Second-Team honoree Michael Hurns combined for 159 tackles in 2016. This past season, Trae Ferrell was tabbed to the Second-Team and was top-10 in the FCS in fumbles recovered.

Additionally, Thornton heavily aided in the Braves ranking first in the conference and in top-five in the country in red zone defense with a 64.5 percent mark.

It was the second year in a row that he coached an All-Conference selection as Trae Ferrell was tabbed to the Second-Team this past season.

Prior to Alcorn, Thornton was the defensive coordinator at Alabama State. He had the Hornets ranked 12th in the FCS in scoring defense and 18th in passing defense. Thornton also spent three seasons as the linebackers coach at Texas Southern.

In his first season as coordinator at Alabama State, Thornton led one of the top defenses in the SWAC and the nation:

- Scoring defense (18.6/ppg): second in SWAC/12th in FCS
- Total defense (317.4/ypg); third in SWAC
- Passing defense (165.7/ypg); third in SWAC/18th in FCS
- Pass efficiency defense (96.0 rating): second in SWAC/fifth in FCS
- Takeaways 35: first in SWAC/4th in FCS
- Interceptions (19): Tied for first in SWAC/Tied for fifth in FCS
- Fumble recoveries (16): Tied for second in SWAC/Tied for eighth in ECS
- Sacks (29): second in SWAC

Thornton's teams held seven of its opponents to less than 20 points, including a shutout of Savannah State, the Hornets' first official shutout since 1994.

After spending time playing in the NFL, he began his coaching career in the high school ranks.

A native of Jackson, Mississippi, Thornton graduated from ASU with a degree in recreational therapy in 1996. Thornton played football at Alabama State (1991-95) before moving on to a professional career with the Jacksonville Jaguars. After playing for the Jags, Thornton began his coaching career at Sidney Lanier High School in Montgomery

Thornton helped to found the varsity team at Andrew Jackson High (2002-03), serving as defensive coordinator. He was named defensive coordinator at Raines High in Jacksonville, Fla., the next season. He later became Raines' head coach and was twice recognized as Coach of the Week by the Jacksonville Jaguars.

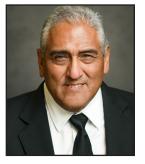

Thornton is married to Arkansas-Pine Bluff head women's basketball coach Dawn Thornton and the couple has one child, Camden Lyon Thornton.

RICHARD J. GALLOT, JR. PRESIDENT

6th Year at Grambling State University

The Tenth President in Grambling State University History

Richard "Rick" Joseph Gallot, Jr., JD assumed the role of the tenth of Grambling State University President on August 1, 2016. The fourth alumnus to hold the prestigious position, he received a bachelor's degree from Grambling State University in 1987. He continued his education at the Southern University Law Center in Baton Rouge where he earned a law degree.

President Gallot has a leadership style reminiscent of the university's second president, Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones. His transformational vision, engaging personality, and student-oriented focus has garnered him the title of Prez to all that encounter him.

Over the past six years, President Gallot has overseen several initiatives that reinvigorated the academic enterprise at Grambling State University. Some of the most significant include: reaffirmation of accreditation by SACSCOC, an increase in the first-to-second year retention rate from 60 percent to 77 percent; 200% improvement in the fiscal health score, relaunch of the undergraduate nursing program, launch of Louisiana's only bachelor's degree programs in cloud computing and cybersecurity, and approval of the first PhD program in criminology and justice administration. President Gallot's vision of what Grambling State can be extended beyond the classroom and materialized into several campus-wide construction and renovation projects that foster the environment scholars deserve. He is particularly proud of the nearly-completed digital library, the first of its kind in the state of Louisiana and among all HBCUs in the nation; expansion of the intramural center, completion of the C.D. Henry Natatorium, resurfacing of the football field at Eddie G. Robinson Memorial Stadium, razing of several dilapidated buildings, upgrades to the drainage system, and much needed enhancements to campus-wide WIFI.

Prior to taking the helm at GSU, the Grambling native served the constituents of North Louisiana as a representative and senator in the Louisiana Legislature for 15 years and also enjoyed a thriving law practice in the neighboring city of Ruston as an attorney.

When he is not serving as Tiger-In-Chief at "The Place Where Everybody is Somebody" he enjoys spending time with his wife Christy and their four sons.

Armed with the resolve to continually raise the profile of the institution that prepared him to achieve, President Gallot is unwavering in his belief that there is no vision too big or too bold for Grambling State University.

The University expects that all persons who matriculate and who are employed at Grambling will reflect through their study and work that the University is indeed a place where all persons are valued, "where everybody is somebody."

HISTORY

Grambling State University opened on November 1, 1901 as the Colored Industrial and Agricultural School. It was founded by the North Louisiana Colored Agriculture Relief Association, organized in 1896 by a group of African-American farmers who wanted to organize and operate a school for African Americans in their region of the state.

In response to the Association's request for assistance, Tuskegee Institute's Booker T. Washington sent Charles P. Adams to help the group organize an industrial school. Ad- ams became its founding president.

In 1905, the school moved to its present location and was renamed the North Louisiana Agricultural and Industrial School. By 1928, after becoming a state junior college and being renamed the Louisiana Negro Normal and Industrial Institute, the school began to award two-year professional certificates and diplomas. In 1936, the curriculum emphasis shifted to rural teacher ducation; students were able to receive professional teaching certificates after completing a third academic year. The first baccalaureate de- gree was awarded in 1944, in elementary education.

In 1946, the school became Grambling Col- lege, named after P.G. Grambling, the white sawmill owner who had donated the parcel of land where the school was constructed. In addition to elementary educators, Grambling prepared secondary teachers and added cur- ricula in sciences, liberal arts and business, transforming the college from a single pur- pose institution of teacher education into a multipurpose college. In 1949, the college earned its first accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

In 1974, the addition of graduate programs in early childhood and elementary education gave the school a new status and a new name — Grambling State University. The university expanded and prospered between 1977 and 2000. Several new academic programs were in- corporated and new facilities were added to the 384-acre campus, including a business and computer science building, school of nursing, student services building, stadium, stadi- um support facility and an intramural sports center.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENTS

Following Founding President Charles P. Adams, who served for 35 years, Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones became the second president in 1936. Five presidents served from 1977 to 2001: Dr. Joseph Benjamin Johnson, Dr. Harold W. Lundy, Dr. Raymond Hicks, Dr. Leonard Haynes III and Dr. Steve A. Favors. Grambling State University's first female president, Dr. Neari Francois Warner, served a three-year interim term until the selection of Dr. Horace Judson, who became the in-stitution's seventh president in 2004. After leading an ambi-tious five-year campaign to rebuild the institution's facilities, Judson resigned in 2009. After Judson's resignation, Frank G. Pogue, Ph.D., a highly respected educator and administrator with a distinguished 47-year career in higher education was named GSU's president.

Prior to his selection as president, Dr. Pogue served as the president of Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, interim president at Chicago State University and State University of New York (SUNY)-Cobleskill. Dr. Pogue retired after serving a five-year term as president, and Dr. Cynthia Warrick, Ph.D., RPh. was named as interim president in 2014 during the presidential search.

Warrick ventured into higher education 16 years ago serv-ing in multi-faceted leadership roles as an administrator, public servant, healthcare professional, environmental re-search scientist, faculty member, and accreditation reviewer.

Dr. Willie D. Larkin, Ph.D. was named ninth university president in 2015 (May) and server a one-year term. Dr. Larkin had previously served as Chief of Staff to leaders of Morgan State University and the University of Wisconsin Colleges, where he worked directly with the chancellor, and the president at Morgan State University, to provide oversight of nearly 3,000 employees and an operating budget of more than $300 million. CAMPUS LIFE

Grambling State University recognizes that clubs and social organizations are an important part of college life. By joining one of these, students discover an avenue to meet new faces with similar interests and have the opportunity to learn about new subjects. As students' commitments to their clubs develop, leadership positions may be another step within the activity's hierarchy that a student can explore.

One of the most popular campus organizations is the Tiger Marching Band, touted as the number one collegiate show band in the world. Formed in 1926 by President R.W.E. Jones, the Mighty Tiger Marching Band has become a household name. The band has been featured in television ads, the major motion picture Drumline, appeared as guest entertain- ment on televisions shows, and entertained Liberian President William R. Tolbert at his 1972 inauguration. In 1999, the band was selected to represent the Pageantry of Bands section of the NCAA Hall of Fame. Through an impressive list of accomplishments and honors, the Grambling Tiger Band has become known as "The Best In The Land"

Intercollegiate athletics has also made Grambling State University a household name among national universities. The football program has been successful in landing prominent coaching staffs over the years. Professional football player, Doug Williams, a Super Bowl Most Valuable Player, served as head football coach, succeeding Coach Eddie Robinson, the "winningest coach in the history of football." Known as the "Cradle of Pros," Grambling also produced the first black football player in the NFL and the first black quarter-back to start in the NFL.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Under the watch of Provost and Vice President Dr. Robert M. Dixon, the Office of the Provost & Vice President for Ac-ademic Affairs is designed to provide leadership and super-vision for all undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Continuing education initiatives, the military science pro-gram, and a variety of support and outreach units also fall under its auspices.

The office espouses a philosophy of excellence from which a rigorous plan for enhancing and strengthening the academ- ic environment continuously evolves. The office is committed to realizing the overarching goals of preparing students for success in their chosen careers, motivating them to pursue graduate and advanced study, and equipping them with skills for effective interaction with diverse groups of people. To this end, the instructional program is delivered through four academic colleges and two professional schools. Within this structure, one certificate program and seventy-two degree programs, ranging from associates to the doctorate, are offered.

This office is committed to providing faculty with opportunities and activities for professional growth and develop-ment. Moreover, the office is responsible for monitoring and maintaining the integrity of the academic program.

EDDIE G. ROBINSON MEMORIAL STADIUM • GRAMBLING, LOUISIANA OCTOBER 2, 2021 • ATTENDANCE: 6,714

GRAMBLING, La. | Noah Bodden made his first career start at quarterback and shook off some early jitters as the Grambling State University football team scored 24 unanswered points in an explosive second quarter as the Tigers picked up their first Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) victory with a 37-28 win over Alabama A&M on Saturday afternoon at Eddie G. Robinson Memorial Stadium.

Grambling State (2-3 overall, 1-1 SWAC) fell behind 14-0 early in the second quarter, but capitalized on three Bulldog turnovers and cashed them all into 21 points before taking a 24-14 advantage into the break.

Alabama A&M (3-1, 1-1) took the opening kickoff and marched 87 yards in 10 plays as Aqeel Glass tossed the first of his four touchdowns to Dee Anderson, an 8-yard score, to give the Bulldogs a 7-0 lead with 11:49 remaining in the opening quarter.

The Bulldogs added to the lead early in the second quarter as Anderson caught an 8-yard touchdown strike from Glass, extending the margin to 14-0 with 13:15 left in the first half.

After a Grambling State punt, the Tiger defense went to work as Glass was picked off by Brendan Vaughn and returned it to the AAMU 20.

The Tigers cashed the turnover into seven points as Tony Forrest Jr. caught a 13-yard touchdown pass from Bodden, as GSU cut the deficit to 14-7 with 7:58 remaining.

On the ensuing kickoff, GSU kicker Garrett Urban's kick fell in between the 20 and 30 yardline and was recovered by Rey Estes as the Bulldog 15.

Grambling State turned the good field position into three points as Urban booted a 39-yard field goal with 6:16 left, trimming the margin to 14-10.

The Tiger defense came up big again as Quincy Mitchell picked off Glass and returned the interception to the

On the very next play, Bodden found Dorrell James for a 15-yard touchdown strike, giving Grambling State a 17-14 lead with 5:22 remaining.

Grambling State's defense again caused havoc on Alabama A&M's next drive as Glass was sacked by Sundiata Anderson as the ball came loose. Cameron Richardson came up with the ball and rumbled 21 yards for the score as the Tigers extended the advantage to 24-14 with 4:38 left.

The Tigers pushed the advantage to 31-14 after Bodden connected with Kobe Ross for a 60-yard touchdown down the right sideline with 3:25 left in the third, which set up a wild fourth quarter.

Urban's 27-yard field goal with 11:37 left gave Grambling State a 34-14 advantage, but that left a lot of time for Glass and the offensive passing attack for the Bulldogs.

Glass threw a 66-yard touchdown strike to Idieu Hilare and an 8-yard touchdown to Anderson to close the gap to 34-28 with 5:31 remaining.

Grambling State marched 55 yards on six plays, but Bodden was picked off by Jamal Irby, giving one last hope for the Bulldogs.

However, on the very next play, Glass was intercepted by Richardson and returned to the AAMU 17.

The interception set up Urban's third field goal of the day, a 27-yarder, which sealed the game with 43 seconds left

EDDIE G. ROBINSON WWW.WWW.WW

For legendary Grambling State University football coach Eddie G. Robinson, football was always the driving force motivating one of the most successful men to ever have set foot on a football field.

Coach Robinson spent 57 seasons consistently fielding stellar football teams and guiding his young charges to successful lives both on and off the gridiron. He earned an unprecedented 408 college football victories to set the NCAA's benchmark for wins in Division I. Coach Robinson retired with an overall record of 408 wins, 165 losses and 15 ties. More than 200 of his players went on to play in the National Football League, including Super Bowl XXII MVP quarterback Doug Williams, who would ultimately succeed Robinson as Grambling's head coach in 1998.

Though the ultra-successful Coach Robinson has always remained humble, crediting his players, his family, his loving wife Doris, the media and football fans from all over the world with making the name Eddie Robinson synonymous with the best that college football has to offer.

On October 7, 1995, Coach Robinson became the first college football coach to break the 400-win barrier, a mark once thought to be unreachable. The 42-6 triumph over Mississippi Valley State came before a national television audience on ESPN2.

"Nobody has ever done or will do what Eddie Robinson has done for this game," legendary Penn State football coach Joe Paterno said. "Our profession will never, ever be able to repay Eddie Robinson for what he has done for this country and the profession of football."

Time after time Coach Robinson proved that hard work, dedication and determination could lead to unimaginable accomplishments.

Neither of Coach Robinson's parents graduated from high school, but they encouraged their son's desire to stay in school and earn a college degree. A young Robinson moved on from high school to become a quarterback at Leland College under Reuben Turner, a Baptist preacher who introduced Robinson to the concepts of playbooks and coaching clinics.

With no coaching opportunities available following college, Robinson took a job in the Baton Rouge feed mill before learning from a relative that there was an opening for a football coach at Louisiana Negro Normal and Industrial Institute, later to become Grambling State University. After an interview with school president Dr. Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, Robinson was chosen as the sixth head football coach of the Tigers.

It didn't take Coach Rob, as he is affectionately known, long to prove his worth. Following his initial season, Coach Robinson took command and dismissed some players who he felt were not living up to expectations. The results came soon thereafter, as the next season Coach Robinson's team posted a perfect 9-0 season with the team going undefeated, untied and unscored upon. Grambling was only the second collegiate team to have shut out every opponent, a feat which has not been repeated since.

By 1949, Grambling's football program was receiving national acclaim after former Tigers running back Paul "Tank" Younger signed with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, this becoming the first player from a historically black college to be taken to the NFL.

In 1955, Grambling claimed the National Black College Championship by going 10-0 (the best record in school history) and outscoring opponents by a 356-61 margin. After picking up his 100th career coaching victory against Bethune-Cookman in 1957, Coach Robinson and his Tigers joined the Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) in 1959. The following season he led the Tigers to the first of 17 SWAC titles under his guidance.

Another of Robinson's former Tigers made NFL waves in 1963, as the late Junious "Buck" Buchanan became the first player from a Historically Black College and University (HBCU) to have been chosen first overall in the NFL Draft.

By 1984, Coach Robinson was poised to become college football's winningest coach. After surpassing Amos Alonzo Stagg's 314 coaching victories that year, he tied legendary coach Paul "Bear" Bryant's 323-win mark with a 23-6 win over Oregon State before becoming the career wins leader the next week with a 27-7 win over Prairie View A&M.

Coach Robinson finally relinquished his reigns to the tigers following the 1997 season, but his contribution to the game will be remembered forever. Also during the same year, he was officially inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

The Football Writers of America's Coach of the Year award is named after Coach Robinson. Grambling also named its football stadium, Robinson Stadium.

Robinson graduated from McKinley Senior High School in Baton Rouge, Louisiana in 1937. He went on to earn his bachelor's degree from Leland College of Baker, Louisiana, then went on to obtain his master's degree from the University of Iowa in 1954. He passsed away on April 3, 2007.

COLLIE J. NICHOLSON WWW.

Sports Information Director Legend (1948-1978)

It was a simple twist of fate just after World War II, a lack of communication never connected.

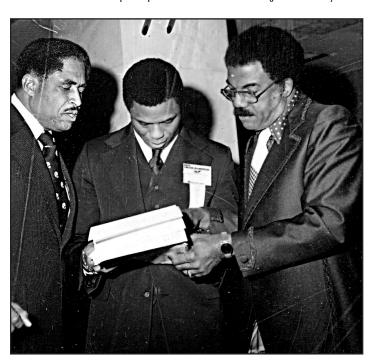

The end result, however, was the building of an award-winning career in sports information that spanned 30 years and played an immeasurable role in developing the world-wide reputation of one of America's best known black colleges, Grambling State University.

Collie J. Nicholson was fresh out of the Marines finishing a three-year stint in the South Pacific during World War II when he and a friend made a stop at Grambling State. They were really on their way north to the University of Wisconsin, but it was years before anyone at Grambling knew the story.

Nicholson, who had started school at Grambling before the war, ran into the school's president, Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, during his brief stopover. Having known Collie when he first attended Grambling, "Prez", as he was affectionately known, invited him to his office to discuss some ideas for the young journalist.

Not wanting to tell Prez he was actually on his way to another school, Collie went to the bus stop, grabbed his bags and headed to the dorm. More than 30 years later, in 1978, Collie J. Nicholson retired as the school's only sports information director and more than that, one of the profession's most creative members.

In the summer of 2002, nearly 25 years after retiring, Nicholson was named the recipient of the prestigious College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) Trailblazer Award. This award is given annually to a pioneer in the field of sports information who has mentored and helped improve the level of ethnic and gender diversity within CoSIDA Nicholson was honored at the organization's annual workshop on July 2, 2002, in Rochester, New York.

What Collie accomplished was to put Grambling on the map around the world. When he started his job Collie convinced Prez all he really needed were stamps, envelope and stationery, plus a trusty typewriter.

He began by sending advances to 400 black newspapers nationwide. After football games, he would drive 75 miles to Shreveport Western Union Station, where he would wire the stories to selected newspapers across the country. Collie's reports made every game, regardless of the outcome, sound exciting. Through his creative writing style, more and more papers ran accounts of Grambling's games.

But Nicholson with the support of President Jones and Eddie G. Robinson, envisioned a much bigger picture, and he rarely accepted a no when it came to developing ideas that would further spread the word about Grambling athletics.

In the 1960's he pounded the pavement of New York City, looking for sponsors who would help stage a football game in Yankee Stadium, pitting Grambling against another team from a black college. It wasn't easy, but Collie with his "never quit" efforts found the sponsors and in 1968 Grambling and Morgan State played before 64,000 fans in a packed-to-the-brim Yankee Stadium.

Television was another target Collie set in his sights. Some might say he hounded the national networks, but whatever he did, it worked. ABC signed on and televised its first football game between the two black colleges.

Collie also believed Grambling could take its football team and well-known marching band on the road to capture attention. Over the years and through his persistence, Grambling broke ground with appearances in huge venues like Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, Detroit Silverdome and the Louisiana (New Orleans) Superdome.

The now traditional Bayou Classic was also a product of Collie's efforts. In 1974, he convinced officials at both Grambling and Southern University that they could create something special by moving their annual game to New Orleans. Before long, the classic was born, and the game was played before capacity crowds.

Nicholson also took great pride in the Tiger Marching Band. He considered the band and the athletic teams as a marriage and promoted them as one package. It was Nicholson who garnered exposure for the band in three Super Bowl games and a 14-day tour to Liberia. He also arranged for Grambling State football games to be played in Tokyo, Japan, in 1976 and 1977 with part of the draw the now well-known Tiger Marching Band. While building support for the Tokyo package in the mid-1970's, Collie learned Japanese so he would not embarrass himself, the school or his hosts in Japan.

It is Nicholson's efforts that helped the Los Angeles Rams discover Paul "Tank" Younger, the first player from a black college to make it in the National Football League. He launched the Heisman and All-America campaign for Doug Williams when he finished fourth in the Heisman race and was a first team All-America selection by the A.P. — which was a first for any athlete from a black school.

When Collie was not knocking on doors, he was producing unique and award-winning press guides, with recognition from the NCAA, NAIA and CoSIDA. Two of his publications were voted best in the nation. He also served for several years as the sports information director of the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

Nicholson is a member of the Grambling State University Hall of Fame and following his career was recognized with numerous awards, including the Distinguised Service Award in Sports Journalism by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association in 1990.

Nicholson, 85, died peacefully in Shreveport, Louisiana on September 13, 2006.

Dennis the Menance (GSU: 1948-1978)

Albert Dennis III was born June 24, 1951, at Independence in south Louisiana and honed his skills as an Iarrupin' lineman at Greenville Park High School in Hammond.

"His daddy was a tackle, too, and was captain of the team with 'Tank' Younger," recalls Eddie Robinson. "We were in a hot battle with Tulane trying to get young Albert but we hung on and signed him. His daddy was upset over publicity. He said we were making Albert an All-American and he had not played one down."

There were photos in the newspapers on the signing, and the press. His daddy said he had never gotten that kind of recognition.

Like his father, Albert as a senior would captain the Tigers and would also be named a second team All-American by the Pittsburgh Courier. And this was not just a "Fat Albert." He was solid and tough, big and quick. He came on like gangbusters after a leg injury sidetracked his sophomore campaign, crashing onto the All-SWAC team as a junior.

Albert was easily recognizable with a "curious straddling gait," and he was conscientious when it came to protecting quarterback Matt Reed. Eager to learn and easy to teach, Albert was a devastating tackle on a 1972 club that won 10 of 12 game including a 56-6 walloping of North Carolina Central in the Pecan Bowl.

The Tigers of 1972 were overloaded with standout lineman. On offense there were Willie Robinson, Andrew Jackson, Bobby Simon and Dennis. On defense the front four included Robert Barber, Gary Johnson, Jesse O'Neal and Sylvester Bates.

Dennis was also sharp in the classroom, an honor student who earned his degree in marketing. Paired down to 250 pounds, with an eye on playing guard in the NFL, Albert hooked on with the Cowboys as a free agent in 1973, but before he could pack his bags for Dallas he was waived and claimed by San Diego. He played in seven games for the Chargers and caught the eyes of line coach Forrest Gregg. When Forrest joined Cleveland the following season, young Dennis was given a brief trial in September. When Gregg took over as head coach of the Browns in 1975, he remembered Al, who would see guard service in 1976 and 1977.

Albert Jr., in the meantime, would have to content himself with recognition as an outstanding high school coach in New Orleans and at BTW and Green Oaks High School in Shreveport.

In November of 2000 Dennis was appointed director of athletics at Grambling State University after serving a 10 month stint as the interim AD. Dennis, a veteran of the Grambling athletic department for over 25 years, brought an extensive background and keen sense and knowledge of the Grambling athletic program, having served as business services manager, athletic coordinator and auxiliary/athletic accountant.

He received his bachelor's degree in business administration from Grambling in 1972 and a master's in sports administration in 1982. Dennis is a member of several organizations, including the College Athletic Business Management Association, the Louisiana Athletic Business Management Association and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Dennis is married to the former Sarah Dangerfield and is the proud father of three GSU graduates, Swanie (1995), Kadar (2002, 2004) and Blythe (2011).

"The Buck" stops here (GSU: 1959-1962)

Junious "Buck" Buchanan. That says it all. "Our first, first round draft choice," reminds Eddie Robinson.

For thirteen years he was an awesome defensive tackle for the Kansas City Chiefs. But, it was not Kansas City that made Buck the first ever player chosen in the inaugural American Football League Draft in 1963.

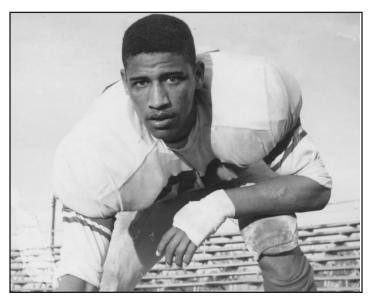

That honor went to Oakland; the Raiders subsequently transferring their claim on Buck to the Chiefs. He was the first player from Grambling State to have ever been selected in the first round of the NFL Draft.

With that generally-ignored fact disposed of, turn your attention to now one of the greatest defensive linemen who ever tightened a chin strap. He came in at 6-foot-6 and 225 pounds as a freshman, class of '59 at Grambling. He went out a 6-foot-7 and 275-pound behemoth as a 13-year Chief in 1975.

In between, he demolished everything in sight and climbed the peak of his profession in two Super Bowls. "Someone called me one night," remembers Eddie of his introduction to Buchanan, who was born September 10, 1940 in Gainesville, Ala., but would play his prep ball at Parker High School in Birmingham. "The man said, 'There is a football player here you need.' I said, 'Who?' He said, Junious Buchanan."

Arrangements were made for Buchanan to enroll at Grambling in mid-semester. "He came in and weighed 210 pounds," fondly recalls Robinson. "Ernie Ladd was coming off of a knee injury. Ladd, before Buck got here, was our fastest interior lineman. When Buck got here, he and Ladd would be fighting to the tape.

"But to be honest, I didn't think Buck would be much of a ball player because he had his foot in a bucket. It didn't look like he could move with lateral movement. Then we would start running our plays. If we went to the right he would tackle us. If we went to the left he would tackle us. . . Boy, he was really tough."

Buchanan checked in at Grambling with a skilled freshman group that included the ill-fated Stone Johnson, Lane Howell, Fred Collins, Bob Burton, Willie Brown, Charles Cook and colorful Willie "Special Touchdown" Houston. Older backfield star Jamie Caleb, fullback Preston Powell, punter Curtis Cotton and the ponderous Ladd. There also a half-dozen scintillating sophomores—Clifton McNeil, Jerry Robinson, Roosevelt Taylor, Garland Boyette, Leon Simmons and Eugene Hughes.

It was, for the most part, a young ball club in the making. After struggling through a 4-6 season in 1959, the Tigers took off on the turn into the '60s. They posted a 23-5-2 record during Buck's three seasons through 1962. Buck was named an All-American all three seasons, was elected team captain and in 1961 was voted lineman of the year in the Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC). That same year, he was named to the SWAC All-Academic team for maintaining a 3.20 grade point averagewhile majoring in physical education.

Also while at Grambling State, Buck participated in both basketball and track and field as a member of the sprint relay teams in addition to playing football. In 1968, he was inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame.

He was just starting to make waves. After playing for the 1963 College All-Star squad that upset Green Bay's mighty Packers, he joined the Chiefs. It was Buchanan who cemented the tremendous defenses fashioned by Coach Hank Stram. Up front, Buck would battle ferociously for a decade alongside Jerry Mays, Paul Rochester, Aaron Brown, Curley Culp and for brief stretches Grambling teammates Al Dotson and Ernie Ladd. Behind them roamed linebackers Bobby Bell, Willie Lanier, "Beast" Holub and Jim Lynch. Further back would lurk Dave Grayson, Willie Mitchell, Johnny Robinson, Fred "The Hammer" Williamson, Emmitt Thomas, Jime Marsalis, Jim Kearney and Grambling ex Goldie Sellers. Right there in the middle of it all was team captain Buck Buchanan. Among his feats: -Played in the first AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game in 1970, also the first Pro Bowl of 1971.

- Voted the Chiefs' Most Valuable Player in 1965 in 1967.
- Named to All-AFL teams in 1967 through 1969 and the All-NFC squad in 1970.
- Played in six straight AFL All-Star games from 1964 through 1969.
- Played in AFL Championship games in 1966 and 1969, followed by Super Bowls I and IV.

Those were just samplings. It was worth noting that Buck also played in all but one of 182 regular season games scheduled by the Chiefs. He missed his first game in 1974 with a broken hand. Despite the injury, he played in 13 of the team's 14 games.

Away from the playing fields, Buck was active in civic affairs, serving as director of the Kansas State Special Olympics for mentally and physically retarded children in 1972 through 1975.

After peeling off his pads a final time, Buck hooked on as an assistant coach with the New Orleans Saints. Buck had finally stopped here in Louisiana. He was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1990. He passed away on July 16, 1992, after a long battle against lung cancer.

Buchanan was inducted into the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame on August 17, 1996. He was also inducted into the American Football League, Louisiana Sports and Southwestern Athletic Conference Hall of Fame.

The Sports Network national news service named its national NCAA Division I-AA Defensive Player of the Year award in his honor.

WILLIE BROWN WILLIE BROWN

He was no 'Assassin' (GSU:1959-62)

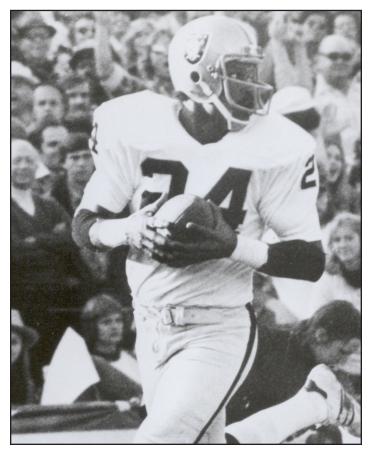

Yazoo City, Mississippi, is probably best know in these parts for three native sons. . . country philosopher Jerry Clower, positive thinker Zig Zigler and football cornerback William Freddie Brown.

Willie Brown played 16 years in the American and National Football Leagues and picked off a record 54 interceptions. He was the only player in NFL history to intercept at least one pass in 16 consecutive seasons, which puts him three years up on the nearest challengers Emlen Tunnell, Dick "Night Train" Lane, Larry Wilson and Jimmy Johnson.

That, in itself, is very select company in the NFL. Beyond that, Willie also played a dozen seasons in an Oakland defensive backfield with two of the most ferocious head-hunters in the business — George Atkinson and Jack Tatum.

It was Tatum who wrote the book, "They Call Me Assassin."

Brown was never an "assassin" all those years he dressed out as one of the guys who wore black with the Raiders. Willie would hit you hard enough, but his forte was finesse. Steal the ball and run. Twice he scored touchdowns on interception returns in playoff games against Miami in 1970 and Pittsburgh in 1973. However, the play that he is most recognized for was the 75-yard interception that he returned for a touchdown in the Raiders' 32-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl XI in 1977.

Willie did not even look malicious. He looked like a guy who you would vote for as senior class president, which he was at Grambling.

"Tom Williams recruited Willie Brown," recalls Eddie Robinson. "He went into Mississippi and got him over some other schools. From the very beginning, Willie was just a clean-cut athlete, extremely fast. We played him as an end. He was one of the guys with great ability. It was not real important where we put him. He could have been a great running back, or a great tight end, because he was an exceptional blocker. And he had character."

Solidly built at 6-foot-1 and 210 pounds, Willie was spotted at split end "because he was beating everybody on the deep passes with his speed" and he played outside line-backer on defense. He was a Tiger from 1959 through 1962, won four letters and picked up another two block G's with the track team. In the classroom, he earned a degree in health and physical education.

Willie could run with the best in his day, but hardly anyone noticed because his college career paralleled those of Olympian sprinter Stone Johnson and "Gray Ghost" Jerry Robinson. The team's tailback Don Stephenson, once returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown in Shreveport.

"On that particular team, almost the whole defensive group got into pro football," reminds Robinson. "(Ernie) Ladd, (Buck) Buchanan, Lane Howell, Simmons, Boyette, Wilson, (Goldie) Sellers and Rosey Taylor."

It was easy to see why Willie got lost in the crowd. And it explains why the Houston Oilers landed him as a free agent in 1963.

But he was cut loose by the Oilers — we all make mistakes — and picked up by Denver during that same August. Willie played four seasons with the Broncos, intercepting nine passes as a professional sophomore in 1964 and holding a school reunion in 1966 when he was joined in the Denver secondary by old mates Goldie Sellers and Nemiah Wilson. That may have been Grambling's finest hour for producing defensive backs, three regulars on the same pro club. The old gang was broken up a month after the season ended, however. Willie and Louisiana Tech quarterback Mickey Slaughter were traded to Oakland. It was a start of a lasting relationship. Willie, born December 2, 1940, was 26 years old when he joined the "pride and poise" Raiders. When he hung up his tack, he was 38.

Using guile, a dash of speed and a bushel of experience, Willie in 12 seasons with the Raiders intercepted a total of 39 passes, which is a club record. One year, he helped the Raiders to set an all-time theft record at 35. He played in five AFL All-Star games and four NFL Pro Bowls. He captained the Raiders on defense and in 1969, won the Gorman Award as the "player who best exemplifies the pride and spirit of the Oakland Raiders." He still shares an NFL record with four interceptions in one game November 15, 1964

He still shares an NFL record with four interceptions in one game November 15, 1964 against the New York Jets.

Willie Brown was a winner all the way. Eight years in postseason championship playoffs including Super Bowl II.

"He was just a real good football player," says Eddie Robinson.

Brown was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1984. In addition, he was honored as one of the Best Black College Athletes of All-Time by Family Digest magazine in July of 2004. He is also a member of the American Football League, Louisiana Sports, Grambling State, SWAC and Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame.

The Means to an End (GSU:1952-55)

Was there ever a more awesome sight on the playing fields of the NFL than the sweeping strength thrown into battle by the Green Bay Packers of the 1960's?

The legions drummed together by Vince Lombardi six times barreled into the league's championship game during the decade and five times emerged triumphant, including a string of three in a row from 1965-67.

Ten years later there would come another dynasty, forged by the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Steelers would hit with the big play. The Packers would hurt you for sixty minutes. Little finesse, more like brute strength. Bart Starr operated with surgical precision, handing the ball off to Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung behind pulverizing blocks laid down by Jerry Kramer, Fuzzy Thurston, Forrest Gregg and Bill Curry.

And the defense. In the 14-game season of 1966, the Packers gave up 163 points, less than twelve a game. Nobody ran through much daylight against the likes of Ray Nitschke, Lee Roy Caffey, Dave Robinson, Herb Adderly, Herb Adderley, Willie Wood and Willie Delford Davis.

A legendary football game, and Willie Davis was right there in the middle. Actually, Willie hung around the fringes. He played end, a gentle giant at 6-foot-3 and 245 pounds. Gentle, that is, until he strapped on his helmet.

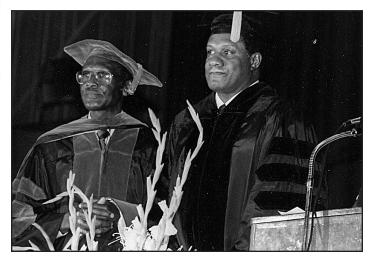

Willie was a classic performer as a defensive lineman, probably the best he has ever seen, says Eddie Robinson. Born in Lisbon, Arkansas on July 24, 1934, he prepped at Booker T. Washington High School in Texarkana.

"We finally convinced his Mama," Robinson recalls of the recruiting. "We promised her that we would see that he got to Sunday school and church. When we told her that, he didn't have a chance."

Young Davis may have been genteel on the Sabbath, but he was less than gentle on Saturdays.

"At first, while he was here," remembers Robinson, "he wanted to play end. He weighed around 210, 215. But we changed him to guard. That was in 1952."

As a guard, Willie was a two-time black college All-American in 1954-55. With him in the lineup in 1955, Grambling would win its first national championship (eleven more would follow through to the present day).

The 1955 season was culminated by a trip to the Orange Blossom Classic.

"We were invited to Tallahassee to play Florida A&M University," reflects Robinson. "They were outstanding with Willie Galimore and Adolphus Frazier. Each of them scored 16 touchdowns that year. They were really tough."

The Rattlers also fielded an All-American guard, Carl Crowell.

Grambling was no slouch, either, having gone unbeaten through nine games without breaking a sweat.

"We had Bo Murray," agrees Robinson. "On the first play of the game Bo went back to throw a pass and he faked a run to fullback Leon Gafford. This tackle from Florida broke it up. He said after the tackle, 'I'm up for All-America, so don't come this way again.' On the next play, Murray called a trap. Willie came form the opposite side and he really trapped this boy. When Willie got up, he said 'You're up for All-American? I can see why you're not going to make it.' Willie had hitting power. And he was our captain, an outstanding leader."

Grambling turned back FAMU by 28-21. More important for Willie, scouts who had been dispatched by the Cleveland Browns to analyze Galimore went back home singing the praises of Davis. The Browns had an inside track. Ruston's Dub Jones, who had been a great running back for Cleveland, once scoring six touchdowns in a single game, had begun working with Willie on the blocking sled.

"And Tank Younger in Los Angeles was predicting that Davis was going to be a player," reminds Robinson.

The Browns, encouraged by their Orange Blossom eyewitnesses and Dub Jones' recommendation, drafted Willie in the 15th round of the 1956 draft, thus making him the first ever player in Grambling history to have ever been drafted. It does not sound like a high ranking now, but this was less than seven years after Younger had become the first black college player to join an NFL team. Before joining the Browns, however, Willie had more pressing business; he picked up his bachelor of science degree in industrial arts in the spring of 1956, then fulfilled a military obligation over a two-year stretch. By 1958 he was free to sign with the Browns.

Cleveland, like Green Bay in later years, was then a powerhouse under coach Paul Brown. Try Jim Brown for starters, and add Bobby Mitchell and Lou Groza. Thrown into a defensive line company with the likes of Paul Wiggins, Bob Gain, Don Colo and Henry Jordan, rookie Davis played in all 24 games over two seasons before being traded to the Packers for end A.D. Williams in 1960.

He would spend ten seasons in Green Bay before his retirement at age 36. Davis never missed a kickoff in his dozen years as a professional player in 286 games including 262 as a Packer. Three times he was tabbed as a Western Conference All-Star, during the glory years from 1965 through 1967. He would play in no less than five Pro Bowls. He was there when Green Bay whipped Kansas City 35-10 in the first Super Bowl, and when the Packers routed Oakland 33-14 in Super Bowl II. He was on the premises, too, when the Packers outskidded Dallas 21-17 in the 1967 Ice Bowl at Green Bay. Willie also captained the Packers.

There were not many places Willie Davis could not go, if he had a mind to. And he had a mind. He received his master's degree in business administration in 1968 from the University of Chicago and is now a successful businessman in Los Angeles, California.

Davis was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1981.

On and On and On, Etc. (GSU:1968-69)

Charles Joiner Jr. was once described as the quintessential professional.

"From the way he conducts himself in each practice each day to the manner in which he runs his precise pass patterns," explained the front office people in San Diego, a western bastion of the National Football League. The Chargers' owner, Eugene Klein, and this is according to the gospel as preached by Eddie Robinson, "thinks the sun rises and sets on Charlie Joiner."

Sufficient reason exists for the affection. Since joining the Chargers in April of 1976—an even swap for defensive lineman Coy Bacon bringing him from Cincinnati—Charlie has grabbed 190 passes as a favorite companion of quarterback Dan Fouts. Net worth of same, 3,213 yards spread over four seasons. It means, too that Charlie has been good for 17 yards a pop every time he gets his sensitive hands on the football.

There is an added dimension, in that Charlie's best season as a wide receiver with the Chargers came in 1979 when he caught 72 passes for 1,008 yards in the wide-open aerial bombardment navigated by Fouts. Charlie at the time was 32 going on 33, and we are not talking about his uniform number.

Charlie for the record, turned 33 on October 14, 1980, and there he was still running those "precise patterns" and eluding defensive backs in San Diego. He knew all the steps, having gone about this business for 12 years since coming off the dusty drillfields at Grambling.

"Charlie goes all out," says an admiring Robinson. "He spends a lot of time with young receivers, too. He has a lot of class."

Joiner, born in Many, LA, turned up at Grambling after impressing his prep coach, Wiley Stewart, at W.O. Boston High School in Lake Charles.

"Stewart once told us Charlie was a good receiver and he could play," Robinson recalls. "He teamed here with James Harris. There it was, touchdown after touchdown."

"Charlie, had some of Dub Jones' influence, too. Dub told me one day that Charlie Joiner ran some of the finest patterns he'd ever seen. Beating the man, that's where he excelled."

Charlie, not overly large at 5-foot-11 and 188 pounds, but blessed with 4.4 speed over 40 yards, learned his trade from the very best while at Grambling. He ran his patterns in summer workouts against Willie Brown, then an established cornerback with Oakland, and he was lectured on offensive strategy by both Dub Jones and Clifton McNeil, at the time an all-league receiver with San Francisco.

This football education coincided with the arrival at Grambling of a 200-pound quarter-back out of Monroe, the man called James Harris. Harris between 1965 and 1968, would deliver 289 pass completions for 4,705 yards and 53 touchdowns. And Joiner caught his share—78 receptions— along with Bob Atkins, Frank Lewis, Essex Johnson and big tight end Terry Williams.

The Tigers went 23-6-1 in three years with Harris throwing downfield to Joiner and others. An All-Southwestern Athletic Conference finish as a senior drew the interest of Houston, and the Oilers made Charlie a fourth round choice in the combined AFL-NFL Draft of 1969. Joiner as a rookie impressed the Oilers with "fluid moves, excellent hands and the ability to make the tough catch in the crowd," but a broken arm derailed him for most of the 1969 season and part of 1970.

Once healed, he led the Oilers with seven touchdowns and 681 receiving yards in 1971. "Just a matter of time before he reaches stardom," predicted the Oilers.

Patience, however, was not to be an Oiler virtue, and Charlie, along with linebacker Ron Pritchard, was dispatched to Cincinnati six games into the 1972 season in exchange for running backs Fred Willis and Paul Robinson.

Reunited with Essex Johnson and deployed with standout receiver Isaac Curtis, Joiner would be an integral part of the Bengals' attack arsenal for three years, catching 37 passes for 726 yards in 1975. His first season in San Diego, 1976, he hauled in 50 throws for 1,056 yards—better than 20 yards per catch—and played in the Pro Bowl.

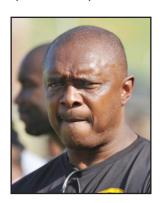

Not bad for a 29-year old gaffer who was back on the same side with old buddy James Harris.

In eleven seasons, Charlie had chalked off 6,156 yards and 38 touchdowns on the payoff end of 354 long shots lobbed behind some of the best deepbacks in the league. And he will keep on catching them because he is good at it. It is something he likes to do. He does not have to do this for a living; he earned his degree in accounting in 1969 and is a ten-year man with Gulf Oil in Houston. Joiner is currently working as the receivers coach with the Kansas City Chiefs.

But quitting in mid-stride, that is not Charlie Joiner. He finished his pro career by catching 750 passes for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns while averaging 16.2 yards per catch. He also had 50 or more receptions in seven years and 70 or more catches for three of those seasons.

Charlie Joiner was officially inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in July 1996.

In the North, A Star (GSU:1972-75)

You could call him Sammie. Or you could call him Sammy. Whatever. But make no mistake about the last name-White.

"Frank Lewis and Sammie White had so much in common," submits Eddie Robinson." Either one could take a screen pass...and score."

Sammie, from 1972 through 1975, scored 43 touchdowns, one more than Frank. Sammie also caught 26 career touchdown passes, eight more than Frank. Where Lewis' name used to be in the record books, it has been replaced by White.

Sammie's tenure at Grambling spanned three quarterbacks - Matt Reed, Joe Comeaux and Doug Williams - and with this arsenal of firepower the Tigers forgot how to lose. They went 10-2 in 1972 and whipped North Carolina Central, 56-6, in the Pelican Bowl; finished 10-3 in 1973 while dumping Delaware, 17-8 in the Boardwalk Bowl; closed at 11-1 in 1974 while routing South Carolina State, 28-7, in the Pelican Bowl; and rumbled to a 10-1 record in 1975. Grand total in wins and losses: 41-7.

One of the 1973 losses came in the NCAA playoff, a 28-20 heartbreaker against Western Kentucky in the Grantland Rice Bowl.

Born March 16, 1954, in Winnsboro, Sammie prepped at Richwood High School in Monroe.

"We watched him all the way," says Robinson. "We knew what he could do. He was almost unbelievable in high school..."

Not as unbelievable as he would become at Grambling. Sammie had deceptive speed his time for the 40-yard dash was 4.6 - but beyond that he had exceptional moves and reflexes.

"His first year he took over at wingback in his fourth game," remembers Robinson. "He was a climax runner and could make the big play."

Sammie was compactly constructed at 5-foot-11 and 189 pounds. Three times he was voted All-SWAC; twice he was named an NCAA Division II All-American. He caught 100 passes as a collegian, a school record matched only by Michael Moore, who would benefit as Doug Williams recipient through 1977.

"Sammie, too, was a fine person," Robinson adds. "He could come into a room and if you didn't ask him, you wouldn't know who he was."

The Minnesota Vikings knew who Sammie White was after his senior season of 1975. He rushed the ball 63 times for 479 yards, caught 37 passes for 802 yards and scored 17 touchdowns, 12 on receptions. In four years he contributed 3,287 yards to Grambling's attack. He had gained 2,169 of those yards on pass catches, a school record. The Vikings made Sammie their second round drafts pick in 1976.

Sammie, with good hands and quick feet, joined the Vikings fresh from the College All-Star game in Chicago. In the four years since, coming into this season, he would catch 187 passes for 3,122 yards. What is remarkable about his performance in the NFL is the reminder that the Vikings have long regarded a dump pass out of the backfield as a significant achievement. Yet he averaged better than 15 yards per catch, holds a club record with touchdown catches in four consecutive games, had caught at least one pass in sixty straight games, and in 1977 hauled in a 69-yard bomb from Tommy Kramer against San Francisco.

As a rookie with the Vikings, White started every game scoring 10 touchdowns and set a team rookie receiving yards record with 906 yards, which stood until it was broken by former Minnesota wideout Randy Moss in 1998. He also held team records for both touchdowns and yards in a game by a rookie which were both broken by Moss in the same year. He was named the NFL Offensive and NFC Rookie of the year in 1976 and has appeared in three Pro Bowls. Although the Viking was humbled by Oakland, 32-14, in Super Bowl XI, White scored one of the losers' two touchdowns on an 8-yard third period pass from Fran Tarkenton.

Following a career with the Vikings, White coached at Carroll High School in Monroe, LA before returning to Grambling where he has enjoyed a stint as an offensive coach with the Tigers. During this tenure on the coaching staff, he has helped the Tigers earn four National Black College and SWAC Championship titles. During those runs, GSU's offense twice led the nation in passing offense, scoring offense and ranked in the top on several occasions in other categories.

White, a member of the Vikings 25th Anniversary team, is married to the former Penny Fortner and they have two children: Sammy III and Samantha and two grandchildren: Lauren and Taylor.

DOUG WILLIAMS

From All-American Quarterback to Head Coach to NFL Executive

History was made in December of 1997 when Doug Williams returned to his alma mater to take over for retired legend Eddie Robinson as the first new head coach at Grambling for more than 50 years. Williams finished six seasons as the "Head Tiger" leading the team to three straight NCAA Division I-AA National Black College and SWAC Championships before leaving the university in February 2004 to take on a new role as a Personnel Executive with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

A natural for the position, having been the most prolific quarterback in Grambling State's history combined with an outstanding professional career, Williams brought several intangibles to the football program, including his vast football knowledge built on a wealth of experience and a love for Grambling that is unmatched by anyone, anywhere.

Williams' impact on the football program was immediate as the Tigers went from a 3-8 record in 1997 to a 5-6 mark in his first season in 1998. His second season saw even more success as the Tigers finished with a 7-4 mark. Williams' third season proved to be the charm with a 10-2 mark en route to their first SWAC title since sharing it with Alcorn State in 1994 and the first outright title since 1989.

The Tigers were also named the 2000 National Champions in the NCAA Division I Black College Football Poll.

In 2001, Williams proved that the previous year's success was no fluke as he guided the Tigers to a 10-1 mark en route to both undisputed SWAC and National Black College championships.

In 2002, Williams completed the hat trick by leading GSU to its third straight SWAC and National Black College championships with an 11-2 record. At the conclusion of each of those three seasons, the Tigers finished in the top ten in several national polls.

Also during this stretch, Williams brought home some serious Coach of the Year hardware such as the SWAC; 100-percent Wrong Club of Atlanta and the Pigskin Club of Washington, D.C. SWAC Coach of the Year awards for three straight years. In addition, he was named the Street and Smith's Magazine Black College Coach of the Year (2000); Shutt Sports Division I-AA Coach of the Year (2000) and the Sheridan Broadcasting Network Black College Coach of the Year (2001, 2002).

Growing up as a young boy in the 1960s, Williams could only dream of the day he would get the chance to play in the NFL, let alone quarterback a team to a world championship and earn MVP honors. It was a day and age when black men and women gave up much just to achieve basic equality, and imagining a black man a leader of champions was only a dream in the minds of greats like Martin Luther King Jr. But he would end up turning that dream into his life's story.

Williams attended Chaneyville High School in Zachary, LA in the early 1970s and became a star quarterback for the football team.

He was recruited out of high school by Coach Robinson, who was coaching one of the most successful black college football programs at the time at Grambling State.

After spending time as a backup early on during his freshman year at Grambling, Williams finally got his chance to start in which he wasted no time in leading the team to victory in the fifth game of the season with a 21-7 victory over Tennessee State. In his first year as a starter, he would help to lead the team to a 10-2 record en route to the both the 1974 SWAC Co-Championship and the National Black College Championship. The Tigers were Williams' team from that point on as he would go on to start every game that he played at Grambling State. In his sophomore season as a full-time starter, he helped to lead the team to a 10-2 season en route to another National Black College Championship in 1975.

In his senior season of 1977, Williams' passing statistics were staggering in which he would lead the Tigers to a 10-1 record en route to both the SWAC and National Black College Championships while earning SWAC Player of the Year and All-America honors. As a direct result of his efforts, this vaulted him to a fourth place finish in the Heisman Trophy race behind the University of Texas running back Earl Campbell.

That spectacular college career earned Williams plenty of attention from NFL scouts and the changing times saw him get selected in the first round of the 1978 NFL draft by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Williams turned in a strong career at Tampa Bay which included a playoff berth before the fledgling United States Football League gave the young signal caller the respect that he deserved for so long. The Oklahoma Outlaws signed him to a lucrative contract and showed a resounding vote of confidence in him as a true team leader in 1984. Williams led the Outlaws into first place before a knee injury sidelined him halfway through that initial USFL season. He played a second season with the Outlaws until the league suddenly folded in 1985.

In 1986, Tampa Bay traded the NFL rights to Williams to the Washington Redskins, and a year later he shared the starting quarterback position with Jay Schroeder. But it was Williams who shined in the postseason, leading the Redskins through the playoffs en route to a 42-10 Super Bowl victory the Denver Broncos in 1988. He was the first black quarterback to ever start in a Super Bowl who made the most of a monumental opportunity by setting several Super Bowl passing records en route being named the game's MVP.

Williams is a 1978 graduate of Grambling State. He and his wife, Raunda, are the parents of Ashley, Adrian, Doug Jr., Jasmine, Laura, Temessia and Carmeleta.

Tanks for the Memories (GSU: 1945-1948)

Paul Younger, homegrown, moved up to the college varsity in 1945. Before he ran out of eligibility in 1948 he would score a record 60 touchdowns and 369 points; rush for a nation-leading 1,207 yards in a single season (1947) and 2,631yards in four seasons of eight-and-nine-game schedule; rumble 86 yards for a non-touchdown against Morgan State in 1946, and would become the first of more than 70 Grambling All-American.

"He was the fastest man on our team," appends Robinson. "Most of the time in high school whenever he got the ball he'd score a touchdown. On end-around he was knocking people down. In college he scored a helluva lot of touchdowns, 25 of them as a tackle on end-arounds. His junior year we moved him to running back and defensive halfback."

Eddie Kotal, a scout for the Los Angeles Rams, caught sight of Younger in Birmingham, Alabama, during the now defunct Vulcan Bowl. Tank scored three touchdowns in 28-27 loss to Wilberforce University of Ohio.

There are two popular misconceptions connected with Younger's joining the Rams in 1949. He was not first black player with the Rams, nor was he the first black college player to suit up as a pro in Los Angeles.

As far back as 1946, the Rams - just one year removed from Cleveland - had signed two stellar black athletes out of UCLA - giant defensive end Woody Strode and all-purpose halfback Kenny Washington. Across LA the rival All-American Conference Dons in 1947 signed two black college players, end Ezzret "Sugarfoot" Anderson from Kentucky State and center-linebacker John Brown from North Carolina Central.

Younger, however, would tread new ground as the first black college player in the National Football League.

"Just like the film, 'One Hundred Yards to Glory' if Younger made it, it would open doors for others ball players," Robinson said of that day and age. "We talked about it quite a bit. When he left here to go to report, he was the best conditional athlete in the Rams' camp when he got there. All slimmed, and trained like a fighter. He weighed between 218 and 223."

Eddie also imparted some wisdom to Tank: "In dummy drills run out the play 25 to 30 yards. Don't turn and come back after 10 like the others do. The longer you have the ball under your arm, the longer the man is watching..."

The "man" was general manager Tex Schramm, later to build a dynasty in Dallas, and the head coach was the innovative plotter of the T-formation, Clark Shaughnessy. Tank gained 191 yards on 52 carries while alternating with Fred Gehrke at fullback in his rookie season and the Rams won the Western Conference.

But Younger was not yet being called Tank. His nickname was "Bass Eyes," a label hung on him by another rookie, quarterback Norm Van Brocklin. Younger would tip defenses by rolling his eyes in the direction the play would go, accused the Dutchman. Late in the 1950 season, Younger asked the team's other quarterback, Bob Waterfield, "What do you want for Christmas?"

"I'd like a tank that runs," replied Waterfield. This was the birth of "Tank" Younger.

The Rams fielded the most explosive offense in NFL history in the fifties. There was Waterfield and Van Brocklin throwing long-rang missiles to Tom Fears, Hirsch and track sprinter Bob Boyd. Running the ball were the Bull Elephants and halfbacks Vitamin T. Smith and Glenn Davis. In the 12- game season of 1950, the attack scored 466 points-more then 38 a game-and they would win by score of 45-28 and 45-35. In one period they ran up 41 points against Detroit.

In time, Tank, who stood 6-foot-3, built up to 230 pounds. It was a time of Bull of Elephant. Hoerner led Rams in rushing in 1948-49, Towler from 1951-53 and Younger in 1954 (91 carries, 610 yards).

Tank wore his No. 35 jersey nine years with the Rams and finished up as a Pittsburgh Steelers in 1958. His career totals in the NFL were 770 carries and 3,640, yards, 100 catches for 1,167 yards, and 35 touchdowns. He was also a savage blocker and smashing linebacker, the last player selected to both the offensive and defensive All Star teams in the NFL.

Millions watching Super Bowls and NBA All-Star games have witnessed electrifying and energizing performances. It has been seen and heard in international places such as Liberia, Panama, Korea and Cuba. "It" is none other than the stimulating, exhilarating and invigorating Grambling State University Marching Band.

When the committee for the first Super Bowl wanted a super band and Coca-Cola wanted "the real thing" for its commercial, the Marching Tigers got the call. Since that time many years ago, the band has made two other appearances at Super Bowl games, including Super Bowl 9 (IX).

It has been hailed as the "Number One Band in the Land" for years, but 1997 was a year that holds many fond memories for the Tiger Marching Band. For that was the year the talented musicians received an invitation to play at Super Bowl 32 (XXXII) in San Diego, Calif. and the band started its march to greater heights than before.

In what has been labeled as the "Greatest Super Bowl halftime of all-time," the Tigers electrified the world as they performed with Motown greats such as the Temptations, Smokey Robinson, Martha Reeves and the Vandellas, the Four Tops, Queen Latifiah and Boyz II Men. Performing at the Super Bowl is nothing new for the Tiger Band and the talented students took care of business like seasoned show veterans.

The Grambling State Band got its first big break in 1964 when it performed at halftime of the American Football League's championship game in San Diego.

Members of the news media covering the event labeled the marching band as "The Band that Never Gets Tired." San Diego Union reports jumped on the bandwagon. One article describing the band read, "The band looked better getting on the bus than most bands do on the field."

Since that time, the band has also performed halftime shows for several professional teams.

The Tiger Band continues to be one of the most visible recruiting tools at Grambling State University. Young and old, black and white, foreign and American are all attracted to this band.

Though they work hard on the field, band members work even harder off the field as they go to various high schools to host workshops as well as to perform. That is in addition to the regular school work assigned do as they work on their degrees as university students.

More than 30 years after those first national-attention grabbing performances, the Tiger Band is still the most sought after band in the land. In 2001, they performed at the Delchamps Senior Bowl college all-star football game at Ladd Stadium in Mobile, Ala; the Miami Dolphins' Monday Night Football game; the Black History Parade in Anaheim, Calif. Mardi Gras Celebration in Shreveport and a host of other activities.

While the band has the solid cornerstone of a spectacular past, the Tiger Band's foundation is firmly being made in technology, the band has computerized its field shows and musical arrangements.

"Its all about keep pace with what's happening in the world," Pannell said. "We are making sure that the Grambling State Band sets the pace in the next millennium."

Pannell fully understands about keeping pace. He played in the famed Tiger Band over 35 years ago under the late, great bandmaster Conrad Hutchinson.

Through sheer genius, "Hutch" as he was called by thousands, erected, directed and perfected the matching sensation known as The Tiger Band. During the four decades "Hutch" spent at Grambling State, the Grambling State Hall of Famer directed the Tiger Band during performances and appearances that spanned this country and landed them on foreign soil all over the world.

But forget about the sassy, yet classy Orchesis Dance Troupe. What is a band without dancers?

Thirty-three years ago, the Orchesis became an official band auxiliary, mesmerizing audiences around the world. Today, under the tutelage of Mrs. Diane Grigsby, this ground can still "rock the house," as well as move an audience with their jazzy, classy and upbeat performances.

One thing, though will never change - the Grambling State University Tiger Marching Band will always be the best in the land. Like other greats, it is often imitated, but never duplicated.

>>>>>> THE WORLD FAMED TIGER MARCHING BAND

HISTORY OF THE TIGER MARCHING BAND

BAND STARTED IN 1926

The plot began in 1926 when President R.W.E. Jones struck up an instrument deal with Sears and Roebuck. As the years passed, the script became juicer. So, here is our story: " How a once small, country band became not only the best band in the land, but also a household word...

GRAMBLING STATE WITHOUT A BAND?

Yes, that was the situation in 1926 when then President Charles P. Adams asked new faculty member Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones to form a group of marching musicians. Jones, who later served as the institution's President for over 50 years, began the tough task by obtaining 17 instruments from Sears and Roebuck and the Tigers were ready to take their first giant step.

At that time, there was no Music Department at Grambling, so sharps, flats, lines, spaces, notes and rest were mysteries to members of that initial group. But the inexperienced Tigers persisted, and soon they were performing their first "melody strained" concert.

Later, the action switched from chairs to grassy fields as the tiny group began marching at football games. Since several band members were usually on the arid squad, interesting situations frequently developed. It was a common sight to see Ralph Jones substituting for a band member who had suffered a football injury.

Tiger tunes became more sophisticated during the 1930s, and Grambling musicians began to perform at concerts and dances in neighboring towns. By 1936, Jones, affectionately known as Prez, became the President, but he still directed the band and coached baseball. For the musical aroup to continue its development, Prez decided a full-time director was needed. So "Sarge" A.D. King, former college band leader and big band director, was hired. Tiger musicians were under his direction until 1949 when Langston hand leader J.S. "Pop" Lee took over. Faltering health caused the Oklahoma product to step down and trumpet instructor Sheldon Rooth filled-in as interim director until Conrad Hutchinson Jr. was hired in 1952.

"Hutch Jr.," a Tuskegee institute graduate, had directed high school for over 12 years in Mobile, Ala., Covington, Ky., and Cincinnati, Ohio. The professional musician and jazz band performer frequently performed at theatrical events and stage shows and on television and radio programs.

During World War II the multi-talented musician was in charge of the U.S. Army bands in the China-Burma-India Theater. His years of experience would be put to excellent use at Gramblina

"BEST BAND IN THE LAND"

When Conrad Hutchinson Jr. arrived here in 1952, he had a plan to make the Grambling College Marching Band the best in the land. It didn't happen overnight and it certainly wasn't easy, but "Hutch" and his staff began molding embryo noise makers into superb musicians and magnificent marchers. And today, his prized unit is frequently labeled, "The Best in the Land."

GROUP ENTERTAINS USO AUDIENCES

Having made a name for themselves in the states, the Grambling College band members began developing international reputations in the mid-1960s when the "Mixed Notes" toured numerous foreign countries.

The 15-member group was composed of comedians, musicians, dancers, actors, actresses, and singers, and it entertained USO audience in Panama, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Korea, the Philippines and the Bahamas Islands.

Directed by Conrad Hutchinson Jr., the touring party included Peetie McDaniel, Erleen Borne, Norma Watson, Gene Davis, Inez Reddo, Leon Dickerson, George Herts, Dock Edwards, Conrad Hutchinson III, Isaac Paggett, Maurice Johnson and Charles Minifield.

WORLD TRAVELERS

During the early 1960s, the Grambling College Marchina Band, a unit known for its sedentary habits, became restless and hit the road. No longer would it be known as a small, country band, for it was soon to become the "traveling band from tiger land." Initially, only a few felines ventured afar. They were known as the "Mixed Notes" and they performed in 1964 during USO shows in the Caribbean and later in the Far Fast

GRAMBLING UNIT IN FIRST SUPER BOWL

When the old AFL and NFL decided to stage Super Bowl I, they realized that a super unit was also required for halftime. What was needed was a well-disciplined collection of musicians, who could hypnotize the crowd with their delicious music and aerodynamic movements. Of course, Grambling College received the invitation, and the rest was history. In early 1975, another Conrad Hutchinson creation took the field in Tulane Stadium for a halftime happening during Super

A SUPER "SHOW BAND"

Band members captured the hearts and souls of Super Bowl I and IX fans with sensational shows that had the Los Angles Coliseum and Tulane Stadium spectators swaving in their seats

During the 1967 California game, feet started stomping early as Grambling College, University of Arizona, and UCLA units put on a pre-game show.

Then the "Bayou Band" staged one eye-opening halftime happening before it combined with other units for the finale. "The Band That Never Gets Tired" certainly lived up to its reputation.

In January of 1975 the the G-Men once again entertained Super Rowl fans. This time, the scene was Tulane Stadium in New Orleans. From the initial balloon releasing ceremony to the final delightful dance routine, Super Bowl IX observers had all the heart-throbbing excitement they could possibly absorb without medical

GSU WINS "BATTLE OF BANDS"

Although there are no longer any nationally organized collegiate band contests, the marching Tigers were winners of one such event in 1972. Held in Dallas. Texas by Braniff Airlines, the "Battle of the Bands" featured competition between GSU, Southern, Jackson State, Mississippi Valley State, Kentucky State, and Bishop. The Tigers won the overall trophy as well as awards for showmanship and continuity.

TIGERS CUT TWO ALBUMS

As a tribute to its outstanding sound, two records have been cut from the Gramblina State University Marching Band.

Mercury Records produced the first soundtrack in 1972 and it featured such numbers as "Ball of Confusion," "Six-Fifty East" and "The Love You Saved." Entitled "Tiger Time," the album was recorded in T.H. Harris before a live audience.

A Japanese company produced the other soundtrack prior to Mirage Bowl I. The 1977 album included that year's top hits and was targeted for the Japanese mar-

BICENTENNIAL BAND

Over one million people watched the Grambling State University Marching Band perform during the nation's bicentennial celebration in Washington D.C.

The gyrating Tigers marched in the July 4, 1976, parade and then performed at the Washington Monument that evenina

"COKE, BAND ARE IT"

When Coca-Cola began filming a commercial featuring the Grambling State University Marching Band, no one imagined it would become that firm's highest ranking advertisement.

Sub-freezing temperatures greeted the film makers in December of 1981, and it took a while to crank those Tigers engines. But once in motion, there was no stonping them. The commercial, which dubbed GSU as, "The No. 1 Band in the Land," became Coke's most popular promotional piece.

PIONEER BOWL

The GSU band first stepped foot on Japanese soil during the autumn of 1976 when it performed during the first Pioneer Bowl in Tokyo.

TIGERS JAM IN JAPAN

Take exotic Japan, a country deeply-rooted in ancient traditions. Stir in a lot of jazz. Finally, blend with the GSU Marchina Band.

What have you created? It's a happening and it's been happening since 1976 when the Tigers performed in the Pioneer Bowl, but this time after having participated in the Osaka Mitsubishi Jazz Festival.

ORCHESIS DANCERS JOIN THE GSU SQUAD

Women have played an important part in the Grambling State University Marching Band, serving as musicians, majorettes, featured twirlers, and most recently as Orchesis dancers

Members of the latter group were phased into the band routines in 1977, and they have been electrifying audience ever since.

Actually, females were part of Prez's first band and they continued as Marching Tigers until the 1963-64 school year when travel and lodging arrangements forced the band to go "all-male."

Except for featured twirlers, the unit was without women until 1977 when they were once again allowed to try out.

BASKETBALL MUSICIANS

Another first was recorded by the Marching Tigers during the winter of 1984. They performed for the first time on a professional basketball court. Fans at the Dallas Mavericks-Philadelphia 76ers' game got their money's worth that night.

ALWAYS A TIGER

A feeling of "togetherness" surrounds the marching band, and that special closeness remains even after graduation. The band has a very dedicated alumni following that frequently returns to campus, especially for homecoming. Time is turned back during homecoming halftime as Alumni Band members recreate their magical performances of yesteryear.

It's their way of proving they still "have what it takes," and also saying, "Thanks for the memories."

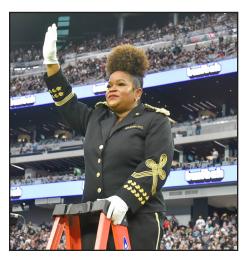

FROM HUMBLE BEGINNINGS TO JAMMIN' WITH THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

During the week of GSU's Presidential Performance. the hand received a call from the NCAA. The hand had been selected to represent the Pageantry of Bands section of the NCAA Hall of Fame. A request was made that the band send a drum majors uniform. Strange enough the uniform didn't fit. A day later GSII's Rand Staff and a call from the NCAA requesting permission to fly up one of the bands drum majors to cast a mold of the actual Dianitary's from across Louisiana and surrounding areas gathered in Grambling's Robinson Memorial Stadium to hear the President's speech. President Bill Clinton's commencement address was well received. Not only did The President get a chance to interact with some of the finest minds of Historically Black Institutions, he also picked up something extra while he was GSU's Band staff presented the President a jacket making him an honorary director of bands at the university. "The President says he's always been a fan of our band," Dr. Larry Pannell, Director of Bands GSU said at the time, "He mentioned that he'd been following us since his days as governor in Arkansas".

In addition, thanks to Ensilon Rho (K.K. Psi), Members of Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma will also be proud to know that on that same day the President became a member of their Honorary Band Fraternity.

INTRODUCTION \\\

FORMED: 1920

Charter members: Bishop College, Paul Quinn, Prairie View A&M, Texas College and Wiley College

Commissioner: Dr. Charles McClelland HISTORY AT A GLANCE

In 1920, athletic officials from six Texas HBCUs — C.H. Fuller of Bishop College, Red Randolph and C.H. Patterson of Paul Quinn College, E.G. Evans, H.J. Evans and H.J. Starns of Prairie View A&M, D.C. Fuller of Texas College and G. Whitte Jordan of Wiley College — met in Houston, Texas, to discuss common interests. At this meeting, they agreed to form a new league, the SWAC.

Paul Quinn became the first of the original members to withdraw from the league when it did so in 1929. When Langston University of Oklahoma was admitted into the conference two years later, it began the migration of state-supported institutions into the SWAC. Southern University entered the ranks in 1934, followed by Arkansas AM&N (now the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff) in 1936 and Texas Southern University in 1954

Rapid growth in enrollment of the state-supported schools made it difficult for the church-supported schools to finance their athletics programs and one by one they fell victim to the growing prowess of the state-supported colleges. Bishop withdrew from the conference in 1956, Langston in 1957 and Huston-Tillotson (formerly Samuel Huston) in 1959, one year after the admittance of two more state-supported schools: Grambling College and Jackson State College.

The enter-exit cycle continued in 1961 when Texas College withdrew, followed by the admittance of Alcorn A&M (now Alcorn State University) in 1962. Wiley left in 1968, the same year Mississippi Valley State College entered. Arkansas AM&N exited in 1970 and Alabama State University entered in 1982.

Arkansas—Pine Bluff (formerly Arkansas AM&N) rejoined the SWAC on July 1, 1997, regaining full-member status one year later. Alabama A&M University became the conference's tenth member when it became a full member in September, 1999 after a one year period as an affiliate SWAC member. Most of the former SWAC members that have left the conference are currently a part of the Red River Athletic Conference of the NAIA.

Current championship competition offered by the SWAC includes competition for men in baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, indoor track, outdoor track & field and tennis. Women's competition is offered in the sports of basketball, bowling, cross country, golf, indoor track, outdoor track & field, soccer, softball, tennis and volleyball.

THE MISSION AND PURPOSE OF THE SWAC

The Southwestern Athletic Conference, Inc. (the "SWAC", the "Conference") is organized exclusively for the purpose of encouraging, promoting, advancing, and conducting intercollegiate sports activities and other recreational and not-for-profit activities among the members of the Conference. Its purposes are:

- To uphold the principles of institutional control of, and responsibility for all collegiate sports conducted by the members of this organization in conformity with the Constitution and Bylaws hereof;
- To stimulate and improve intercollegiate athletic sports;
- \bullet To comply with satisfactory standards of scholarship and amateur standing and good sportsmanship;
- To preserve and maintain the collegiate athletic records of the members of the Southwestern Athletic Conference, and make them available upon request;
- To cooperate with other amateur athletic organizations in the promotion and conduct of intercollegiate athletic contests;
- To maintain fiscal management: and
- To legislate through Bylaws or Resolutions on subjects of general concern to the membership.

The members of the conference are committed to the philosophy of maintaining intercollegiate athletics as an integral part of the overall educational program. To this end, the conference believes in and subscribes to the fundamental principles of amateurism, institutional control, sound academic standards, financial aid, recruiting, and ethical conduct that governs intercollegiate athletics, and the enforcement of rules and regulations as adopted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.
