Mission & Goals Statement of the Department of Athletics

The Georgetown University Department of Athletics, as part of a university with roots in the Jesuit tradition of education, commits itself to the comprehensive development of the student. The interdependence of the physical, emotional, moral and intellectual aspects of personal growth requires simultaneous and balanced focus. This objective does not imply that each facet of an individual's psychological, social and academic growth is of equal importance. It does require that Georgetown provide the means and encouragement for each person to develop according to his or her own interests and abilities. This is especially true in athletics, whether at the recreational, intercollegiate, intramural or instructional level. In addition to physical development, the Department of Athletics promotes principles of character, development and sportsmanship within the framework of an abiding and broadened commitment to community. Accordingly, the Athletics Department is committed to, fosters and pursues the fair and equitable treatment of both men and women, and the provision of equitable access and opportunities for minority students and institutional personnel.

NCAA Position on Gambling

The NCAA opposes all forms of legal and illegal sports wagering. Sports wagering has the potential to undermine the integrity of sports contests and jeopardizes the welfare of student-athletes and the intercollegiate community. Sports wagering demeans the competition and competitors alike by a message that is contrary to the purposes and meaning of "sport." Sports competition should be appreciated for the inherent benefits related to participation of student-athletes, coaches and institutions in fair contests, not the amount of money wagered on the outcome of the competition. For these reasons, the NCAA membership has adopted specific rules prohibiting athletics department staff members and student-athletes from engaging in gambling activities as they relate to intercollegiate or professional sporting events.

Title IX and NCAA Peer Review

The Georgetown University Athletics Department has recently undergone two extensive reviews of its athletic programs: an audit by the Department of Education concerning Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and Georgetown's inaugural review under the NCAA's new Athletics Certification program. The Department of Education has found Georgetown's athletic programs to be in compliance with Title IX, and the University was certified by the NCAA in November of 1995.

Anti-Discrimination Policy

In accordance with the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the implementing regulations promulgated under each of these federal statutes, Georgetown University does not discriminate in its programs, activities, or employment practices on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age or disability. The University's compliance program under these statutes and regulations is supervised by Rosemary Kilkenny, Special Assistant to the President of Affirmative Action Programs. Her office is located in Room G-10, Darnall Hall, and her telephone number is (202) 687-4798.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Combining the tradition of being the oldest Catholic institution of higher learning in the United States with an awareness of ever-changing educational needs, Georgetown University continues to challenge the minds of young men and women eager to learn.

Founded in 1789 as Georgetown College, a small gathering of 12 students and a handful of professors, it has grown into a major international university that includes four undergraduate schools, respected graduate programs, a law school and a medical school.

Georgetown's 104-acre Main and Medical Center campus, located in a historic neighborhood of our nation's capital and overlooking the Potomac River, houses 64 buildings including a hospital and hotel, athletic fields and student residences that can accommodate more than 6,000 students.

Ranked among the nation's most distinguished institutions of higher learning, the success of the University's philosophy and endeavors is reflected in its enrollment and applicant pool. Its student body, one of the most geographically diverse in the country, consists of individuals from all 50 states and 132 foreign countries, while only 21 percent of its applicants for the freshman class of 2011 were accepted.

In the classroom, the University offers state-of-the-art facilities, while holding less than an 8-to-1 student-to-faculty ratio. Today more than 14,000 students are enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs at Georgetown University, served by more than 1,200 full time and 450 part time faculty.

700 full-time and 350 part-time professors teach undergraduates on the main campus. Distinguished professors include former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, former Director of the CIA George Tenet, best-selling author and linguist Deborah Tannen, former National Security Advisor Anthony Lake, and former Spanish Prime Minister Jose Maria Aznar. Recent visiting faculty include Grammy-winner Bobby McFerrin and acclaimed author Mario Vargas Llosa.

ATHLETICS AT GEORGETOWN

Georgetown University's varsity athletics programs are a major component of the undergraduate experience. Georgetown offers 27 varsity sports that compete at the Division I level, most of them in the nationally-recognized BIG EAST Conference. Georgetown's 700-plus student-athletes are a major portion of the University's enrollment, with more than one of every 10 undergraduates competing on a team.

Athletics at Georgetown enjoys a rich history dating back to the first documented athletic contest, a baseball game on May 10, 1870. Georgetown's tradition includes a total of 17 team and 18 individual national championships, while boasting numerous Olympians, National Players of the Year and All-Americans.

The success continued for Georgetown athletics during the 2006-07 academic year.

Eighteen student-athletes earned All-America honors, while an additional 60 earned all-conference recognition, including six major conference award winners, and 254 received academic acknowledgement.

The story of the year was the men's basketball run to the NCAA Final Four. Celebrating its 100th Year, the Hoyas won the BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament titles for the first time since 1989. Head coach John Thompson III was named the Black Coaches Association and the NABC National Coach of the Year, while forward Jeff Green was the BIG EAST Player of the Year, earned All-America accolades by three publications and was the No. 5 pick in the 2007 NBA Draft.

The men's lacrosse program continued its string of six-straight appearances in the NCAA Quarterfinals and won the ECAC title for the second-consecutive season. The Hoyas dominated the league awards as Coach Dave Urick was Coach of the Year, Brendan Cannon was Offensive Player of the Year and Jerry Lambe was Defensive Player of the Year. The women's lacrosse team won the BIG EAST Regular Season

UNIVERSITY MISSION STATEMENT

Georgetown is a Catholic and Jesuit, student-centered research university.

Established in 1789 in the spirit of the new republic, the University was founded on the principle that serious and sustained discourse among people of different faiths, cultures, and beliefs promotes intellectual, ethical and spiritual understanding. We embody this principle in the diversity of our students, faculty and staff, our commitment to justice and the common good, our intellectual openness and our international character.

An academic community dedicated to creating and communicating knowledge, Georgetown provides excellent undergraduate, graduate and professional education in the Jesuit tradition for the glory of God and the well-being of humankind.

Georgetown educates women and men to be reflective lifelong learners, to be responsible and active participants in civic life, and to live generously in service to others.

title for the seventh-straight year and saw Coco Stanwick earn BIG EAST Attacker of the Year and Maggie Koch win BIG EAST Defensive Player of the Year.

Women's track & field had one of their best seasons in recent memory, winning the BIG EAST Indoor and the ECAC Outdoor Championships. Melissa Grelli topped off the seasons by finishing second in the 10,000m at the NCAA Outdoor Championships. Across the indoor and outdoor seasons, the Hoyas also totaled six BIG EAST and four ECAC individual champions. Both the men's and women's cross country teams placed second at the BIG EAST Championships, while the men won the NCAA Mid Atlantic Regional and the women placed second.

The men's lightweight crew team advanced to the quarterfinals of the Henley Regatta for the first time and medaled at IRA Regatta, while the lightweight women finished fourth in the country, marking one of the best seasons for the Hoyas.

Football's Charlie Houghton was the first Hoya to win a major Patriot League postseason award when he took home the league's Rookie of the Year honor. Aside from Jeff Green, two other Georgetown student-athletes were selected in their respective professional drafts - Matthew Bouchard (baseball) and Ricky Schramm (men's soccer). Women's cross country, field hockey, and men's and women's swimming and diving earned team academic honors from their respective coaching associations.

HISTORY

For more than 215 years, Georgetown University has overlooked the banks of the Potomac River. Georgetown owes its existence to Father John Carroll, whose desire for an academy to educate the Catholic youth of the nation that gave root to the founding of Georgetown.

Construction began on the first building in 1788, but the first student, William Gaston, arrived from North Carolina in 1791 before it was even completed. Two years later, Charles and George Dinnies, brothers from New York, were awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts and became the College's first graduates.

By 1871, Georgetown had expanded to include two professional schools: medicine and law, and gradually moved towards establishing itself as a university. During this time, the school was guided by the efforts of Patrick F. Healy, S.J., who is often referred to as its second founder. The son of an Irish immigrant and a former slave, Father Healy became the first African-American to earn a Ph.D. and the first to head a predominantly white university. President from 1874 until 1882, he is credited with guiding Georgetown from a small liberal arts college to a modern university.

Women began to study at Georgetown when the School of Nursing was founded in 1903. Their enrollment increased gradually through the first part of the century and by 1952 was admitted to all schools but the College of Arts and Sciences. At the end of the 1960's, the University became fully coeducational, as women were admitted to the college.

The 1980's were highlighted by intense growth and prosperity through the leadership of its 46th President Timothy S. Healy, S.J. Its academic reputation improved, its endowment increased five-fold, minority enrollment grew and a host of building were constructed including Yates Field House, the Intercultural Center and the Leavey Center.

FACILITIES

A major new addition to Georgetown's campus is the Southwest Quadrangle, a $188.5 million initiative that was the largest construction project in Georgetown history. Part of an ongoing effort to enhance the quality of campus life, the project provided a new 784-bed residence hall, a multi-level underground parking facility, a 1,200-person Leo J. O'Donovan S.J. dining hall, and a new home for Georgetown's Jesuit Community. Additionally, the Davis Performing Arts Center and the Wagner Alumni House opened in Fall 2005, and a new home for the McDonough School of Business is under construction.

In October of 1988 the Leavey Center was constructed to house the Office of Student Affairs, the University Bookstore, a cafeteria, several restaurants, a Marriott hotel with 150 rooms, and a parking garage.

For recreation and relaxation, students and faculty head to Yates Field house, a four-level sports complex. Among the features of this facility are 12 multi-purpose courts for tennis, basketball, racquetball, squash, and volleyball; a four-lane, 200-meter indoor jogging track; a dance studio; and an eight-lane swimming pool with separate diving area.

The Edward B. Bunn Intercultural Center is an example of Georgetown's look to the future. The center brings together, under the

SCHOOL COLORS

Blue and gray were adopted as the official school colors in 1866 following the Civil War, to symbolize the reunification of the North and the South. The war had such a profound impact upon the University, which housed the Union Army as it moved south to occupy the surrounding area.

WHAT IS A HOYA?

The Georgetown mascot, the Hoya, is derived from the Greek and Latin phrase "Hoya Saxa," which, loosely translated, means "What Rocks!" Some say it originated in a cheer referring to the stones that comprised the school's outer walls; others say it began in the 19th century with the birth of Georgetown's Stonewalls baseball club; a third version has a "hoya saxa" cheer arising after an impressive goal-line stand by the defense of the Hoya football team. The name proved popular and the term "Hoyas" was eventually adopted for all Georgetown teams.

WHO IS JACK?

Georgetown's mascot is Jack the Bulldog. The name "Jack" and the breed of English Bulldog was formally adopted in 1962, after a long line of breeds "auditioned" for the position during the first half of the century. Georgetown was one of the first schools to employ a "human mascot." A familiar blue and gray costumed student appears at all major athletic and social events and is one of the most recognizable college mascots in the nation.

world's largest solar electric roof, all of the University's teaching programs in comparative and regional studies, international affairs and diplomacy, and foreign languages. The building houses one of Georgetown's three computer centers, an interactive teaching lab, a television studio, language laboratories, and an interpreter training facility using state-of-the-art equipment for simultaneous interpretation.

DIVERSITY

Georgetown University's commitment to diversity is manifested in its student body – which includes people of many different ethnic and religious backgrounds – and in its commitment to the recruitment of outstanding women and minorities to join its community of faculty and staff. Georgetown is an equal opportunity employer, and makes a concerted effort to achieve ethnic and gender diversity throughout its workforce.

The January 2003 issue of Black Enterprise magazine ranked Georgetown third after Stanford and Columbia among non-historically black colleges and universities as a place where African American students feel that their aspirations are supported. In November 2003, the Journal of Blacks in Higher Education ranked Georgetown 19th out of the top 50 highest academically ranked universities in the nation for its percentage of black students.

and medical schools. Georgetown currently sponsors more than 100 community service initiatives that involve countless students, faculty, staff and alumni, and range from teaching children to offering pro bono legal services and providing health care for the medically underserved.

As a Catholic, Jesuit university, Georgetown undergraduates have historically chosen service careers in high numbers after graduation; in 2003, according to a voluntary survey of graduating seniors, more than 139 chose jobs in the public sector – non-profit institutions, volunteer service, education, government service, Jesuit

The Office of International Programs at Georgetown fosters the international character of the University by promoting, supporting and developing a wide range of international and intercultural opportunities for members of the Georgetown community. Through study abroad and internationally focused study, students can increase their awareness of the global community, learn about another country's culture and history and broaden their language and communication skills.

Approximately 54 percent of Georgetown University students decide to participate in academic programs overseas. Students who study overseas return with valuable new per-

U.S. News and World Report ranked Georgetown 23rd in the magazine's annual list of top undergraduate programs at national universities.

The magazine ranks McDonough School of Business 26th among top undergraduate business programs and 11th in the international business specialty.

Georgetown University has long been a leader among America's most selective institutions in promoting a diverse student body. Nearly 22 percent of Georgetown's undergraduate population is from a minority ethnic background; the breakdown is as follows: African American, 6.7 percent; Asian American, 9.1 percent; Hispanic, 5.8 percent; and Native American, less than one percent.

Additionally, international students, researchers, and faculty are an extremely important part of the Georgetown community. Nearly 2,000 individuals, including 250 undergraduates, from more than 130 foreign countries study, conduct research, and teach at Georgetown.

International students make up approximately 11 percent of the Georgetown student body. The Office of International Programs provides a variety of support services to international students, researchers, and faculty at Georgetown, including cultural and educational programming, immigration advising and personal counseling.

SPORTS IN D.C.

The Washington, D.C. metropolitan area has it all when it comes to sports – a team from every major league is represented, and in some cases fans are divided among area rivals.

Since Baltimore and Washington, D.C. are only 30 miles apart, members of the metropolitan area gear up for fall in either purple and black to support the Baltimore Ravens or burgundy and gold to cheer on the hometown Washington Redskins. The Redskins still make FedEx Field in Landover, Md. their home, while the Ravens play less than an hour away at M&T Bank Stadium in the heart of Baltimore.

When winter comes and Georgetown is on the road, fans can still venture to Verizon Center to see the NBA's Washington Wizards or the Washington Capitals of the NHL.

After March Madness, fans are still not in a drought for sports action, as the Washington Nationals and the Baltimore Orioles return from spring training for their opening day celebrations. Until the Nationals complete the home of their own, they share RFK Stadium with the D.C. United of Major League Soccer through the summer and into the fall. Since the Nationals are a new addition to the D.C. sports scene, many loyal fans still make the short trip to Baltimore to watch the Orioles in Camden Yards.

If a fan prefers the farm system instead, nine minor league baseball teams call the D.C. metropolitan area their home, including Single-A, Double-A and Triple-A affiliates for the Atlanta Braves, Boston Red Sox, New York Mets, Pittsburgh Pirates, Nationals and Orioles.

Or if they can't stand the heat of the summer, D.C. sports fans can head inside to Verizon Center to watch the Washington Wizards or the Washington Mystics of the WNBA compete.

An exercise enthusiast's paradise in the middle of the city, Rock Creek Park contains 1,754 acres of trees and forest, including a nature center, riding stables, tennis courts, a golf course, 30 picnic areas, playing fields and an extensive network of trails for walking, jogging and cycling.

2007 PREVIEW

The 2007 Georgetown University men's soccer team returns eight starters but just three seniors while the youthful Hoyas lost 62 percent of last season's scoring output. Georgetown will rely on 16 freshmen and up his share of the scoring offense with the graduation of three-time All-BIG EAST selection Ricky Schramm.

Grasso played himself into a starting forward role with a strong spring season.

Freshmen Jose Colchao, Chandler Diggs and Tom St. George will compete for minutes up front or out wide. Colchao and Diggs should threaten opposing defenses with smart running off the ball and excellent pace. St. George is a local product with an enthusiastic personality who reads the game very well. Colchao had 41 goals and 16 assists in three high school seasons. Diggs was named Texas Soccer Coaches Association First Team All-State, District MVP and was named to the Texas University Interscholastic League All-Tournament team.

SCOTT LARRABEE

sophomores to contribute to second-year head coach Brian Wiese's talented squad.

"As a coaching staff, this is our first recruiting class," said Wiese. "We've added a lot of talent, athleticism and team speed to the roster and we expect a lot of these boys to come in and make immediate impacts."

The Hoyas will square off with nine teams that appeared in the NCAA Tournament a year ago and will play their first seven games on the road.

FORWARDS

Georgetown will look to program veterans senior Mike Glaccum and junior Peter Grasso to lead the offensive attack. Glaccum is a co-captain who ranked third on the team with nine points (3 G, 3 A) last season. The talented forward has started 21 times in his career and is hoping to pick up his share of the scoring offense with the graduation of three-time All-BIG EAST selection Ricky Schramm.

Grasso played himself into a starting forward role with a strong spring season.

MIDFIELDERS

Junior Corey Zeller will most likely return to his customary center midfield position starting in 16 of 17 games as a sophomore. Zeller totaled five points including the game-winning overtime winner vs. Marquette.

Sophomore Scott Larrabee, coming off a successful freshman season, will most likely anchor the left side of the midfield. Larrabee totaled three points a year ago and started in the last four games using his versatility and aggressiveness.

Junior Conor Neusel adds the ability to play all four midfield positions and started in 13 of the team's 17 games. After transferring from Vanderbilt following his freshman year, Neusel gave Wiese options with his versatility last season.

Junior Hunter Joslin started in seven of the 13 games he appeared in and is excellent up and down the wings of the field. Joslin possesses good speed and good defensive instincts.

PETER GRASSO

2007 PREVIEW

Newcomer Seth C'deBaca can break down defenders his 1 v 1 abilities. The 2006 New Mexico state Player of the Year has an attacking mindset with the ability to connect passes and create scoring opportunities.

Five Hoyas have the ability to play in the midfield or in the back and preseason will dictate their specific positions.

Junior Sean Bellomy stated in every game last season at right back but spent a lot of time playing in the defensive midfield spot last spring.

Freshman Ibukun Otegbeye, who comes to the Hilltop highly-touted out of the Winter Park, Florida area, possesses a great burst of speed and quickness.

Newcomer Ben Slingerland is a NSCAA/adidas All-American and Gatorade Massachusetts Player of the Year.

Rookies Robert Burnett and Alex Verdi are both skilled, athletic and physical players who will compete for midfield and defensive spots left by former Hoyas Tim Convey and Benjamin Jefferson-Dow.

DEFENDERS

Six GU student-athletes will most likely man the back line.

Senior Richard Diaz started in every game as a freshman but has been hampered by knee injuries in each of the last two seasons. Despite the setbacks, when on the field, Diaz has proven effective.

Sophomore Lenny Coleman made 14 starts in 15 games as a rookie and established himself as one of the league's more aggressive and effective players. Junior Alex Pangraze should anchor one of the two center back positions after gaining more and more confidence playing a lot of minutes last spring.

Sophomore Bill Byers is exceptionally fit and determined will add depth to the defense.

Freshman Mostafa Ebrahimnejad has the ability to compete for any of the back line starting jobs. The Columbia, Maryland native earned All-State accolades as a high school senior and is referred to as "one of the most complete players in the region" by Wiese.

GOALKEEPERS

In goal, the Hoyas return senior co-captain Joe Devine. In 2006, Devine split time with senior Andrew Keszler last season accumulating 39 saves in almost 800 minutes of action to go along with two shutouts. Devine will get the opening day nod but can and will be pushed by freshmen Matthew Brutto and Mark Wilber. Brutto is a three-time Pennsylvania All-State selection while Wilber, who stands at 6-4 and closing in on 200 pounds, is a two-time All-New Mexico State honoree with plenty of potential. The duo will be expected to push Devine for minutes.

BRIAN WIESE

Head Coach
Second Season

The 2007 season is the second on the Hilltop for head coach Brian Wiese. Following the 2006 season, Wiese and his staff brought in one of the biggest recruiting classes in school history as the Hoyas welcome 11 newcomers to the program this fall.

Wiese earned his first head coaching job at Georgetown after a successful stint as the associate head coach at the University of Notre Dame.

"It's a privilege to coach at one of the best universities in the world," said Wiese. "Georgetown is a truly special place to be a student-athlete."

From 1996 until 2005, Wiese worked under nationally-recognized coach Bobby Clark, for five seasons at Stanford University and then for five years at Notre Dame. In those 10 seasons, the teams posted a combined record of 136-48-25, advanced to nine-straight NCAA Tournaments and made one trip to the championship match. Wiese has worked with 11 All-America selections, eight Academic All-American selections during his career and four players who were candidates for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy, recognizing the Division I national player of the year.

Wiese joined Notre Dame as an assistant in 2001 and was promoted to associate head coach in 2005. During his time with the Irish, he helped guide the team to five NCAA Tournament appearances (reaching the Sweet 16 in 2003 and 2005), to the 2003 BIG EAST Tournament title and the 2004 BIG EAST regular season title. He was named to CollegeSoccerNews.com's Top Assistant Coaches List in 2001 and was part of the BIG EAST Coaching Staff of the Year on two occasions (2001 and 2003).

Prior to his stint at Notre Dame, Wiese spent five years (1996-2001) as an assistant coach at Stanford University. The Cardinal posted a 71-21-12 record during that time and made four NCAA Tournament appearances. The team posted a 10-4-4 record in 1996, its first winning season in four years, were ranked No. 2 in the country in 1997 when they went 13-5-2 and finished the 1998 season No. 2 in the country after reaching the NCAA title game and finishing 18-5-2. In 2000, Stanford was ranked No. 1 in the country during the season, finished 18-3-1 overall and advanced to the Elite Eight of the NCAA Tournament. That year, the Cardinal posted a 0.44 goals-against average, the best in the country, and were second in the country with 68 goals scored.

During his time at Stanford, Wiese earned a master's of science degree in product design (mechanical engineering) in 1998.

A 1995 graduate of Dartmouth College in New Hampshire, Wiese earned a bachelor of arts in mechanical engineering. A goal-keeper, he was a three-time All-Ivy League selection, two-time Academic All-Ivy League honoree, was named the team's most valuable player in 1993 and captained the team as a senior.

Wiese played professionally briefly for the Bulawayo Highlanders in Zimbabwe. He began his coaching career in 1995, serving as the head coach of the Upper Valley Lightning boys U-15 club team in New Hampshire. Following that, he moved out West, taking over as the head coach of the Del Mar Tsunami girls U-17 club team from 1995-96.

Wiese and his wife Becky have three children Morgan (6), Ted (4) and Maya (2).

ZACH SAMOL

Assistant Coach
Second Season

Zach Samol is entering his eighth season of coaching and his second season on the Hilltop. He is no stranger to success as he has helped both Yale University and Boston College to league titles and NCAA Tournament appearances.

ZACH SAMOL

Prior to joining the coaching staff at Georgetown, Samol spent 2002-2005 as an assistant coach at Yale University. The Longmeadow, Mass. native helped guide the team to its first Ivy League Title since 1991 and an appearance in the 2005 NCAA Tournament.

From the summer of 2000 through the summer of 2002, Samol was an assistant coach at Boston College and played an integral role in helping the Eagles to the BIG EAST Championship in 2000 and consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances in 2000 and 2001.

Samol played his collegiate soccer at Dartmouth College, graduating in 1998 and was a 1997 All-Ivy League selection before earning a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Following his graduation, Samol played professionally from 1998-2003 with the Connecticut Wolves (A-League), the Cape Cod Crusaders (D-3 Pro League), the Boston Bulldogs (A-League) and the Western Mass Pioneers (D-3 Pro League), where he concluded his pro career.

Samol, who holds a USSF "B" National Coaching License, is a resident of Washington, D.C. and will also be the Head Coach of the Potomac Cougars 93 team.

JOSH SHAPIRO

Assistant Coach
Second Season

Josh Shapiro is now in his second season with the Hoya program.

Shapiro spent the 2005 season at cross-town rival American University, helping the Eagles to the Patriot League regular-season championship and defender Phil Purdy to the league's Rookie of the Year award.

In the spring of 2005, the Leonia, N.J. native was an assistant coach at George Mason University, where he was responsible for directing the recruiting effort and planning the Fran O'Leary Indoor Tournament.

Shapiro was the top assistant coach at Lafayette College in 2003 and 2004, helping lead the team to the 2003 Patriot League Championship and a NCAA Tournament appearance. Shapiro was a key component in recruiting 13 student-athletes into the Leopards program, including Patriot League Rookie of the Year, Scott Hawkins.

JOSH SHAPIRO

Shapiro earned a psychology degree from Middlebury College (Vt.) where was a four-year letterwinning midfielder. Shapiro played a major role in helping the Panthers to three NCAA Division III Tournaments, including two appearances in the Sweet 16.

Shapiro and his wife Amy Leibowitz have one son, Benjamin who was born in April of 2007.

JOHN J. DeGIOIA

President, Georgetown University

John J. DeGioia became the 48th president of Georgetown University on July 1, 2001. Since graduating from Georgetown in 1979, he has served the University in a variety of roles as a senior administrator and as a faculty member.

As president, Dr. DeGioia is deeply committed to sustaining academic excellence at Georgetown. He has helped to recruit intellectual leaders to the faculty and secured substantial funding for scholarly research and academic programs.

To prepare young people for leadership roles in the global community, Dr. DeGioia has expanded opportunities for intercultural and interreligious dialogue, welcomed world leaders to campus, and convened international conferences to address challenging issues. In 2005, Georgetown's Walsh School of Foreign Service opened the University's first international campus, in Doha, Qatar.

As the first lay president of a Jesuit university, Dr. DeGioia places special emphasis on sustaining and strengthening Georgetown's Catholic and Jesuit identity and its responsibility to serve as a voice and an instrument for justice. He is a strong supporter of University initiatives that seek to improve opportunities for Washington's underserved neighborhoods.

Dr. DeGioia has been involved with Georgetown Athletics since his undergraduate years, when he was a varsity member of both the football team and track and field team (decathlon). He has been active in his support of Georgetown Athletics throughout his administrative career, and he was named chair of the BIG EAST Executive Committee in November 2005.

In addition to his undergraduate degree, Dr. DeGioia earned a PhD in philosophy from Georgetown. He is a Professorial Lecturer in the Department of Philosophy.

He and his wife, Theresa Miller DeGioia, a Georgetown alumna, have one son.

BERNARD M. MUIR

Director of Athletics

Georgetown University named Bernard M. Muir its 13th Director of Athletics, effective July 1, 2005. As Director of Athletics, Muir oversees the operations of all Georgetown University intercollegiate and intramural athletic programs, which include more than 100 coaches and staff who support more than 700 student-athletes participating in 27 sports, the majority of which compete in the BIG EAST Conference.

Muir's success at Georgetown has been recognized nationally, as he was named one of Street & Smith's Sports Business Journal's "Top 40 Under 40" in January 2007.

This past year, the Georgetown athletic program again enjoyed many successes on and off the field. Men's basketball team won the BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament titles and reached the Final Four. Men's lacrosse went to its 11th-straight NCAA Tournament, women's lacrosse won its seventh-straight BIG EAST Regular Season crown, and women's track & field won the BIG EAST Indoor title and the ECAC Outdoors. Muir's first year was highlighted by the Georgetown sailing team winning its second national championship and being named the National Team of the Year.

During his reign, 39 student-athletes earned All-American honors, four were awarded Scholar All-American accolades and 114 received all-conference recognition. Off the field, Georgetown student-athletes are among the best, with more than 300 being named to the BIG EAST Academic Honor Roll over the past two years.

Muir previously served as Deputy Director of Athletics for Administration and Facilities at Notre Dame, where he oversaw campus athletics facilities, game management operations and club and intramural sports and recreation. Muir also was an eight-year staff member at the NCAA and the director of the Division I NCAA Men's Basketball Championship.

A 1990 graduate of Brown University with a bachelor's degree in organizational behavior and management, the Gainesville, Fla., native was a four-year letterwinner and co-captain of the Bears' basketball team.

Born July 22, 1968, he and his wife, Liz, have two daughters – Libby and Millie.

2006 REVIEW

The 2006 Georgetown men's soccer team recorded a 6-11 overall record, 3-8 in BIG EAST Conference play and encountered eight games that were decided by one goal. Georgetown was 3-5 in those nailbiters.

Senior Ricky Schramm led the Hoya attack, scoring 10 goals while recording two game-winning goals. Schramm capped his illustrious career tied for third on the school's all-time list with Raul Ferrer (1992-95) with 39 career goals. Schramm, a two-time team MVP, also concludes his career tied for fourth all-time with Tim Keegan (1990-94) with 93 career points. Schramm was named All-BIG EAST Second Team and earned a spot on the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA) Men's Division I All-Northeast Region Third Team.

Senior Daniel Grasso ranked second on the team with 10 points with all four of his assists coming on Schramm goals.

Junior Mike Glaccum ranked third on the team with nine points. Two of his three goals were game-winners – one coming in the season-opening come from behind win over George Washington and then in mid-October in the win over Lafayette.

Sophomore Richard Frank collected seven points and had a beautiful goal in overtime to top Syracuse, 1-0 in the BIG EAST opener.

Sophomore midfielder Corey Zeller dished out three assists and recorded his only goal of the season in overtime of the season-ending win over Marquette.

SCOTT LARRABEE

Sophomore transfer Conor Neusel and freshman Scott Larrabee combined for eight points and three goals and the duo provided tremendous energy and excitement to the midfield.

Senior Andrew Keszler and junior Joe Devine split the goaltending duties with each logging more the 750 minutes and each notching two shutouts.

Seniors Tim Convey and Ben Jefferson-Dow, sophomore Sean Bellomy and freshmen Len Coleman and Mark Zeman were strong on the back line all season.

Georgetown started the season with a 5-2 win over George Washington in the D.C. College Cup. The Hoyas trailed 2-0 at halftime but battled and scored five second half goals, their highest goal output since September 2004.

The Hoyas won a real tight game over visiting Syracuse in the BIG EAST opener on a blast by Richard Frank in the 105th minute.

Schramm gave Georgetown a 1-0 win with a goal in the 88th minute on a sloppy track at Villanova on September 15. It marked the third straight win over the Wildcats in Philadelphia.

After a tough four-game losing streak, Georgetown won two of their next three games with convincing home wins over Howard and Lafayette.

The Hoyas then dropped consecutive games to sixth-ranked West Virginia and at Pittsburgh that eliminated GU from the BIG EAST Tournament.

Georgetown finished the season strong on Zeller's game-winner over Marquette to send the five seniors off with a victory.

"It's good way to go out," said Jefferson-Dow following the season ending win against Marquette. "It's happy and sad at the same time. It was a challenging four years but a good four years and I'm thankful for my time here."

GEORGETOWN ATHLETICS COMPLIANCE PROGRAM

The Athletics Compliance Office coordinates the athletics compliance efforts of Georgetown University and acts as a resource and solution center concerning NCAA regulations and compliance issues.

The primary functions of the Athletics Compliance Office are to coordinate, administer, monitor and verify the accurate and timely completion of NCAA-required procedures and to assist in maintaining institutional compliance with all NCAA, Conference and University rules. In addition, the Athletics Compliance Office provides educational programming and interpretive support to ensure that all individuals involved with the athletics program fully understand the University's compliance expectations.

The following general information is provided by the Georgetown University Athletics Compliance Office for supporters and friends of Georgetown Athletics as well as prospective student-athletes who may be recruited by Georgetown University.

KEY DEFINITIONS

Prospective Student-Athlete: A prospective student-athlete ("prospect") is a student who has started classes for the ninth grade, regardless whether he or she participates in athletics. A prospective student-athlete maintains his or her identity as a prospect, even after he or she signs a National Letter of Intent or financial aid agreement, until he or she attends the first day of classes of a regular term or participates in an official team practice, whichever is earlier.

Representative of Athletics Interests:

A representative of the institution's athletics interests (a.k.a. Booster) is an individual who:

- has ever made a financial contribution to the athletic department or any organization that promotes Georgetown's athletics (e.g., HOYAS UNLIMITED).
- is a member of an organization that promotes a HOYA athletic team.
- has or is involved in promoting Georgetown's athletics program in any way.
- has been otherwise in promoting the institution's athletics program.

Once an individual is identified as a representative, the person retains that identity forever.

WHO IS PERMITTED TO RECRUIT FOR GEORGETOWN?

Only Georgetown University coaches who have successfully completed the NCAA Recruiting Rules Examination on an annual basis may be involved in the recruitment process. Boosters may not make any recruiting contacts. This includes letters, telephone calls or face-to-face contact on or off campus with a prospect or the prospect's parents.

Representatives of Georgetown's Athletics Interest MAY:

- Offer summer employment to prospective student-athletes who have signed a National Letter of Intent and to enrolled student-athletes, after contacting the Athletics Compliance Office.
- Support Georgetown's athletics program by attending HOYA athletics contests and by making financial contributions to Georgetown athletics.

Representatives of Georgetown's Athletics Interest MAY NOT:

- Be involved in the recruitment of prospective student-athletes in any way.
- Provide extra benefits (i.e., discounts, gifts, transportation) to prospective student-athletes, enrolled student-athletes or their parents, legal guardian(s), relatives or friends; and
- Provide any financial assistance to prospective student-athletes, enrolled student-athletes or their parents, legal guardian(s), relatives or friends.

For more information, please contact the Georgetown University Athletics Compliance Office at (202) 687-6573 or (202) 687-8262.

GU SOCCER CELEBRATES THE 10-YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF THE 1997 TEAM'S NCAA TOURNAMENT BERTH

The 2007 season marks the 10-year anniversary of the 1997 Hoya squad that made the program's second NCAA Tournament berth.

A decade ago, the Hoyas posted a 15-7 overall record and a 9-2 mark in BIG EAST action. The nine league wins is a school record that still stands.

Keith Tabatznik was tapped BIG EAST Coach of the Year after leading the team to the program's first-ever NCAA Tournament victory, a 2-1 victory over VCU.

Junior forward Eric Kvello was named 1997 BIG EAST Co-Offensive Player of the Year while senior defender Greg Dillard also earned All-BIG EAST First Team honors. Sophomore goalkeeper Tyler Purtil was named all-league second team and midfielder Kyle Rakow was named to the All-Rookie Team.

Kvello and forward Tom Greaser earned a spot on the South Atlantic Region Third Team and Greaser, Billy Bednarz and senior defender Dan Helfrich gained all-academic honors.

The 1997 Hoyas' 15 victories is still the second-highest single-season win mark in school history. Six of the team's seven losses came by a 1-0 score. Purtil finished the season with a goal-against-average of 1.06 and was ranked among the nation's leaders, anchoring a defense that allowed one goal or fewer in 20 of 22 contests.

THE BIG EAST CONFERENCE

In 2007-08, the BIG EAST will be in its third academic year as a 16-member conference. While many outside the league were curious and sometimes skeptical of the long-term prospects of the largest Division I-A conference, the student-athletes concentrated on their tasks at hand and continued the league's proud tradition of success.

BIG EAST teams earned plenty of recognition at the highest levels in 2006-07. In basketball, the Georgetown men's team and the Rutgers women's team each advanced to their respective Final Fours with Rutgers playing in the national championship game.

The 2006 football season was the BIG EAST's best ever. Louisville, West Virginia and Rutgers all finished in the top 12 in the final national polls. The BIG EAST posted a 5-0 bowl record and won the ESPN Bowl Challenge Cup.

On the diamond, the Louisville baseball team played its way to the College World Series. In softball, DePaul also participated in the College World Series. The Notre Dame women's soccer team advanced to the NCAA title game and the Connecticut field hockey team made it to the Final Four.

The BIG EAST took the men's and women's M.A.C. Hermann Trophy, the top individual award in soccer. The winners were Joseph Lapira and Kerri Hanks, both of Notre Dame.

The goals of the BIG EAST have never changed. The league aims and expects to compete at the highest level and does so with integrity and sportsmanship.

The BIG EAST became the nation's largest Division I-A group in 2005-06 when five new members began competing. The new schools were: University of Cincinnati, DePaul University, University of Louisville, Marquette University and the University of South Florida.

BIG EAST institutions reside in nine of the nation's top 34 largest media markets, including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., Tampa, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Milwaukee and Cincinnati. With its newest members, BIG EAST markets will contain almost one fourth of all television households in the U.S.

Since opening its doors in 1979, the league has won 25 national championships in six different sports and 124 student-athletes have won individual national titles.

The BIG EAST has always been able to boast that some of its best students are also some of its best athletes. More than 350 student-athletes have earned academic all-America honors. Last year in football, Brian Leonard of Rutgers won the Draddy Award, known as the academic Heisman. In addition, Rhema Fuller of Connecticut and Jay Henry of West Virginia were named national scholar-athlete award winners by the National Football Foundation.

Louisville field hockey standout Jessica Javelet, the 2006 BIG EAST Offensive Player of the Year, was named first team academic all-America. The Louisville team, which earned a berth in the NCAA Championship, was recognized by the National Field Hockey Coaches Association for the highest team GPA in the nation for a second straight year.

The BIG EAST has continued its basketball success in the 21st century. In 2003-04, Connecticut became the first school in NCAA history to win the men's and women's NCAA titles in the same season. In '02-03, the BIG EAST became the first conference in NCAA history to win the men's and women's titles in the same year when the Syracuse men and the Connecticut women took home the NCAA crowns. In men's basketball, BIG EAST squads have won three of the last nine NCAA championships. BIG EAST women's teams have taken five of the last eight NCAA titles.

Proactive movement has been a signature strategy for the conference that was born in 1979. The BIG EAST continually turns challenges into opportunities to become stronger.

In the spring of 2001, the BIG EAST added women's lacrosse and rowing to its growing list of sports. The first women's golf championship was held in the spring of 2003.

The BIG EAST became a reality on May 31, 1979, following a meeting of athletic directors from Providence College, St. John's, Georgetown and Syracuse Universities. Seton Hall, Connecticut and Boston College completed the original seven-school alliance.

While the membership has both increased and changed, the focus of the BIG EAST has not wavered. The conference reflects a tradition of broad-based programs, led by administrators and coaches who place a constant emphasis on academic integrity. Its student-athletes own significantly high graduation rates and their record of scholastic achievement notably show a balance between inter-collegiate athletics and academics.

Any successful organization needs outstanding leadership. Michael Tranghese, the league's first full-time employee, and for 11 years the associate to Dave Gavitt, became Commissioner in 1990. In his first year, he administered the formation of The BIG EAST Football Conference.

The league has long been considered a leader in innovative concepts in promotion and publicity, particularly regarding television. Those efforts have resulted in unparalleled visibility for BIG EAST student-athletes. The conference has enjoyed long-standing relationships with CBS, ESPN, Inc. and ABC.

While BIG EAST basketball games are regular sellouts at campus and major public arenas, including the annual men's BIG EAST Championship in Madison Square Garden, attendance figures also are significant in soccer, women's basketball and baseball games.

More than 550 BIG EAST student-athletes have earned all-America recognition and dozens have won individual NCAA national championships. The BIG EAST has been well-represented in U.S. or foreign national and Olympic teams. Several athletes earned gold medals in each of the last five summer Olympiads.

The BIG EAST has its headquarters in Providence where the conference administers to more than 5,500 athletes in 23 sports.
