GEORGE WASHINGTON (1-1) vs. GEORGETOWN (3-0)

GAME PREVIEW

GW women's basketball returns to Charles E. Smith Center on Wednesday for the first of three straight games at home, as the Revolutionaries face the Georgetown Hoyas in a D.C. showdown.

The game will feature Military and Veterans Appreciation Night, along with a mystery license plate giveaway for fans in attendance.

The 1-1 Revolutionaries will look to hand the 3-0 Hoyas their first loss of the season, as Georgetown enters the matchup with wins over Delaware State, American and St. Peter's. To do so, GW will lean on junior guard Alicia Newell, among others, who is coming off her first career double-double with 19 points and 10 rebounds as GW challenged No. 24 West Virginia on the road last week. Newell has been GW's top scorer in each of its first two games, averaging 16.0 points per contest.

A10 Preseason All-Conference First Team selection Gabby Reynolds has also reached double-figure scoring in both of GW's games, averaging 15.0 points per game after scoring 12 vs. UDC and 18 at West Virginia. Reynolds is 11-23 from the floor (47.8%) and an efficient 5-9 (55.6%) from beyond the arc — both percentages tracking higher than her 2025-26 averages.

GW welcomes Georgetown to Foggy Bottom for the first time since Nov. 24, 2020, which resulted in a 52-49 GW win. The Revolutionaries are 20-19 all-time against the Hoyas, and are winners of three straight at home in the series. The teams met last year at Georgetown, which the Hoyas won, 79-50.

Tipoff at Smith Center is set for 6 p.m., and the game will be broadcast on ESPN+ with Byron Kerr and Cami Tapias on the call.

After GW-Georgetown, the Revolutionaries will welcome Long Island University to Smith on Saturday, Nov. 14 (5:30 p.m.), before hosting Temple on Tuesday, Nov. 17 (6 p.m.). GW will retire its first-ever number for the women's basketball program prior to the Temple game, Jonquel Jones' No. 35, in a pregame ceremony set to begin at 5:45 p.m.
