56 YEARS OF TRADITION
IDAHO STATE FOOTBALL'S (MINI)DOME

Originally named the ASISU Minidome—named after the Associated Students of Idaho State University, who funded construction with a student fee increase—it opened 54 years ago in 1970 at the north end of the ISU campus. The indoor facility replaced the outdoor "Spud Bowl", now known as Davis Field, as the Bengals' home football stadium, Its first event was the Bengals' spring football game on May 9, held on a rainy Saturday night.

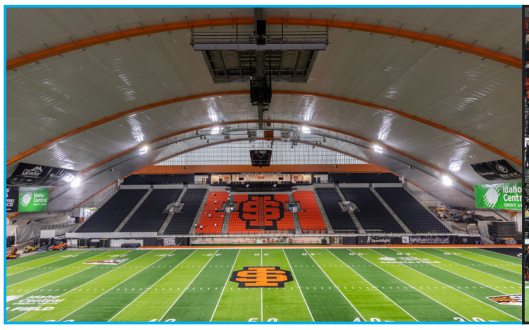

The venue was renamed in 1988 to honor Milton W. "Dubby" Holt (1914–2007), ISU's athletic director from 1967 to 1989. As assistant athletic director, Holt conceived the indoor arena in 1966 and it was designed by architect Cedric M. Allen. Although a controversial design proposal for the time, ISU students voted to appropriate not more than $2.8 million to the project two years later. The arena was built entirely with these voluntary student funds. With over 56% in favor, ISU students approved a $12 increase in semester fees to fund the stadium in early 1968.

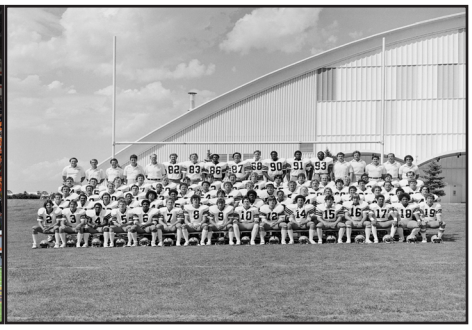

The Dome is the oldest enclosed stadium on a college campus in the United States and the second-oldest overall. Only the Astrodome in Houston, completed in 1965, predates it. Since the Astrodome's closure in 2006, Holt Arena has been the oldest enclosed stadium in use. The football field is aligned east-west and the arched roof runs length-wise; maximum height is above midfield and decreases toward the endzones.

Holt Arena also serves as home for the ISU indoor track and field team and men's basketball team. It also hosts high school football games, the famous Simplot Games high school indoor track meet, along with other sporting events, rodeos, concerts, and other activities.

During ISU's run in basketball to the Elite Eight in 1977, they won the Big Sky regular season title, which allowed them to host the four-team conference tournament, which they also won. The Bengals were allowed to stay home for the first round of the 32-team NCAA tournament, as the Minidome had a pair of first round games (sub-regionals) on Saturday, March 12. UCLA defeated Louisville and hometown ISU beat Long Beach State. (Five days later, Idaho State stunned UCLA in the Sweet Sixteen at the West regional in Provo, Utah.)

It is one of three indoor football stadiums currently in use in the Big Sky Conference, along with the Kibbie Dome and Walkup Skydome. During the final six seasons of Idaho's absence from Big Sky football (2012–2017), the Alerus Center at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks was another indoor stadium used in Big Sky football, but UND left the Big Sky after the 2017 football season for the Missouri Valley Football Conference

In early 2024, Idaho State University and Idaho Central Credit Union announced a landmark naming-rights partnership to rename the facility the 'ICCU Dome' for six million dollars over the course of the next 12 years. The money received from the naming rights will allow the Bengala football team to only play one FBS opponent each year over the next decade, leaving room on the schedule for more home games and more FCS level opponents.

The beginning of 2010 marked a new era in Idaho State's ability to train and compete when Jared Allen donated $200,000 to renovate the ISU weight room. The newly remodeled center was named in honor of Allen and is now known as The Jared Allen Strength and Conditioning Center at the Idaho Orthopaedic and Sports Center.

In 2023, thanks to an anonymous $500,000 gift embarked on a renovation of the facility including new, professional level, PLAE equiment and weights.

Allen's contributions included the replacement of all the strength and conditioning equipment, all-new rubber flooring and a new paint job. In the fall of 2017, The Jared Allen Strength and Conditioning Center at the Idaho Orthopaedic and Sports Center received $27,000 worth of equipment upgrades as part of the Everything Matters campaign.

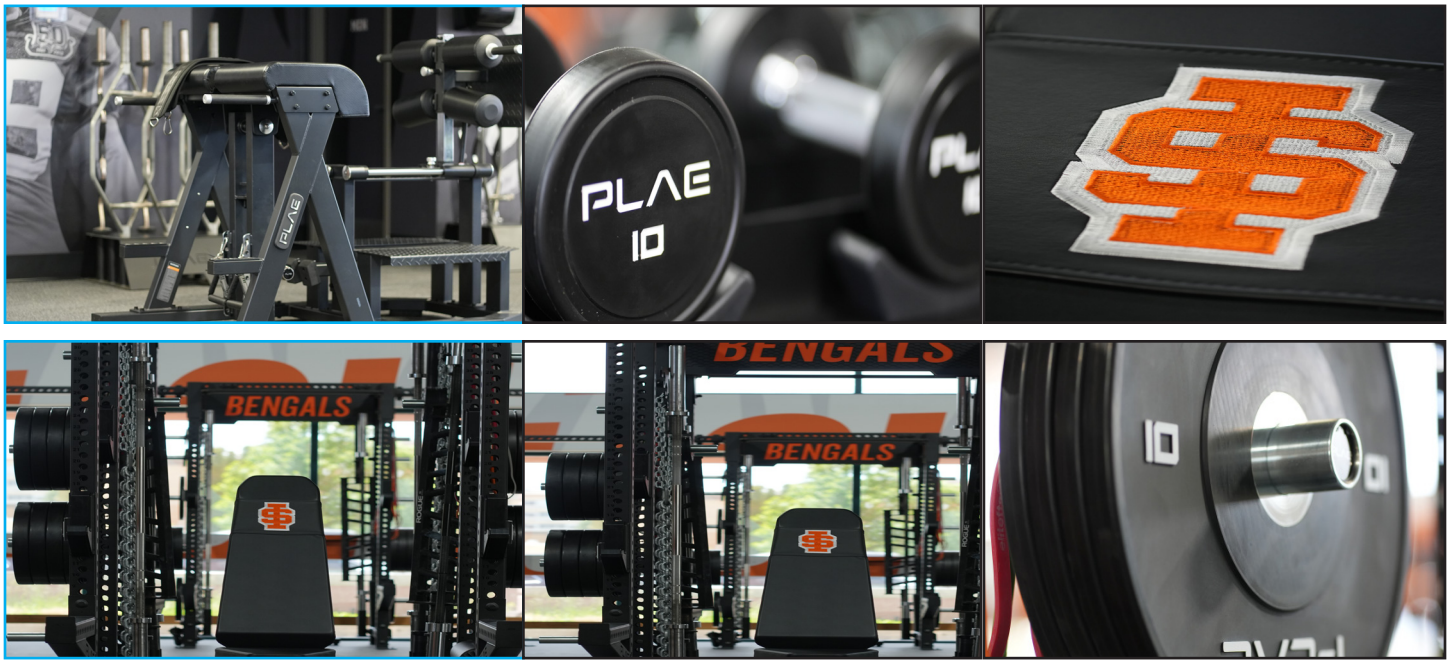

The Powerade Foundation also contributed to recent 2017 upgrades including a mural of Allen in addition to refueling and recovering stations.

As a player at Idaho State, Allen was twice named All-America, including consensus first team honors in 2003, a year in which he broke the Idaho State single season and career sack records, leading the nation in sacks, tackles for loss, and forced fumbles. All was honored at the end of his senior season by being named the 2003 winner of the Buck Buchanan Award from the Sports Network as the I-AA Defensive Player of the Year.

Allen went on to have a successful career in the National Football League. Allen was drafted by the Kansas City Chiefs in the fourth round of the 2004 NFL Draft. In 2008, Allen was traded to the Minnesota Vikings where he played until 2013 until he joined the Chicago Bears from 2014-15. Allen played his final season in 2015 with the Carolina Panthers as part of the team that advanced to Super Bowl 50. Before his retirement, Allen signed a one-day contract with Minnesota so he could retire as a Viking.

Idaho State University athletics has announced the opening of the Bengal Nutrition Fueling Station creating yet another advantage for all 15 NCAA Division I teams and placing the Bengals ahead of its peers.

Thanks to the generous support of Dairy West and local dairy farm families, this state-of-the-art space is located directly adjacent to the Jared Allen Strength and Conditioning Center as well as the athletic training room inside the ISU Sports Medicine Building. Serving as the distribution hub for all nutrition and dietary products for all 340+ student-athletes, this addition maximizes the work of ISU's sports dietitian, Natalie Christensen, and dietetic staff interns.

Director of Athletics Pauline Thiros is excited to offer this resource to Bengal student-athletes, "The nutrition and recovery of our student-athletes is a big priority for us. The generosity of these committed partners is not only elevating the performance of our teams, it is safeguarding their health. No matter what time limitations they have between training and class, we know our students can get the right nutrition, and get it quick, before jumping to their next obligation. They work hard and they deserve the opportunity to fuel properly. We are so grateful to our partners for making the best nutrition program in the Big Sky Conference possible."

The Bengal Nutrition Fueling Station features a full line of BlackLabel Supplements products as well as various every day foods such as smoothies, fruit, bagels, sandwiches, string cheese, yogurt, trail mix, and granola bars among other options thanks to the financial generosity and in-kind gifts from countless groups including: Portneuf Health Trust, Harper's Homemade, Ridley's Family Markets, 5th Street Bagelry, Jamba Juice, Kate's Real Bars, and Coca-Cola.

"We are incredibly grateful to all of our community partners for supporting this fueling station. It will be instrumental in helping our athletes fuel and nourish their bodies around exercise," says Idaho State Univesity Sports Dieitican Natalie Christensen. "It creates a safe space that prompts athletes to prioritize caring for themselves in the midst of their intensely busy schedules. Oftentimes this leads to them seeking more nutrition information where I can really help them hone in on their individual needs."

In addition to serving as the main vehicle for powering the Bengals, the Bengal Nutrition Fueling Station has been specifically designed to educate Idaho State University student-athletes about nutrition and healthy eating habits while providing conveniently located dietary and nutritional support 24 hours a day to meet student-athletes demanding schedules.

Furthering the notion of food education and healthy eating habits, all Bengal student-athletes are provided the opportunity to participate in individual consultations, menu planning and meal coordination courses, and cooking classes.

Idaho State University athletics has announced its partnership with BlackLabel Supplements as the presenting sponsor of ISU Sports Performance and the official supplement partner for the Bengals — the first-of-its-kind agreement in the Big Sky Conference.

Based in Chubbuck, Idaho, BlackLabel Supplements was launched in 2018 as a sports performance/supplement company by Troy Bell, and a number of Kulak CrossFit coaches. The group set out to create an all-in-one pre-workout so consumers would not have to buy multiple different supplements and Pre-Hustle (BlackLabel Supplements pre-workout powder) was born. Since then, BlackLabel Supplements has continued adding quality products to its line, with options suitable for both high-level athletes that want every advantage they can get to recreational athletes. From performance to recovery, BlackLabel Supplements offers a wide array of products with the goal of creating new student-athlete inspired offerings in the near future.

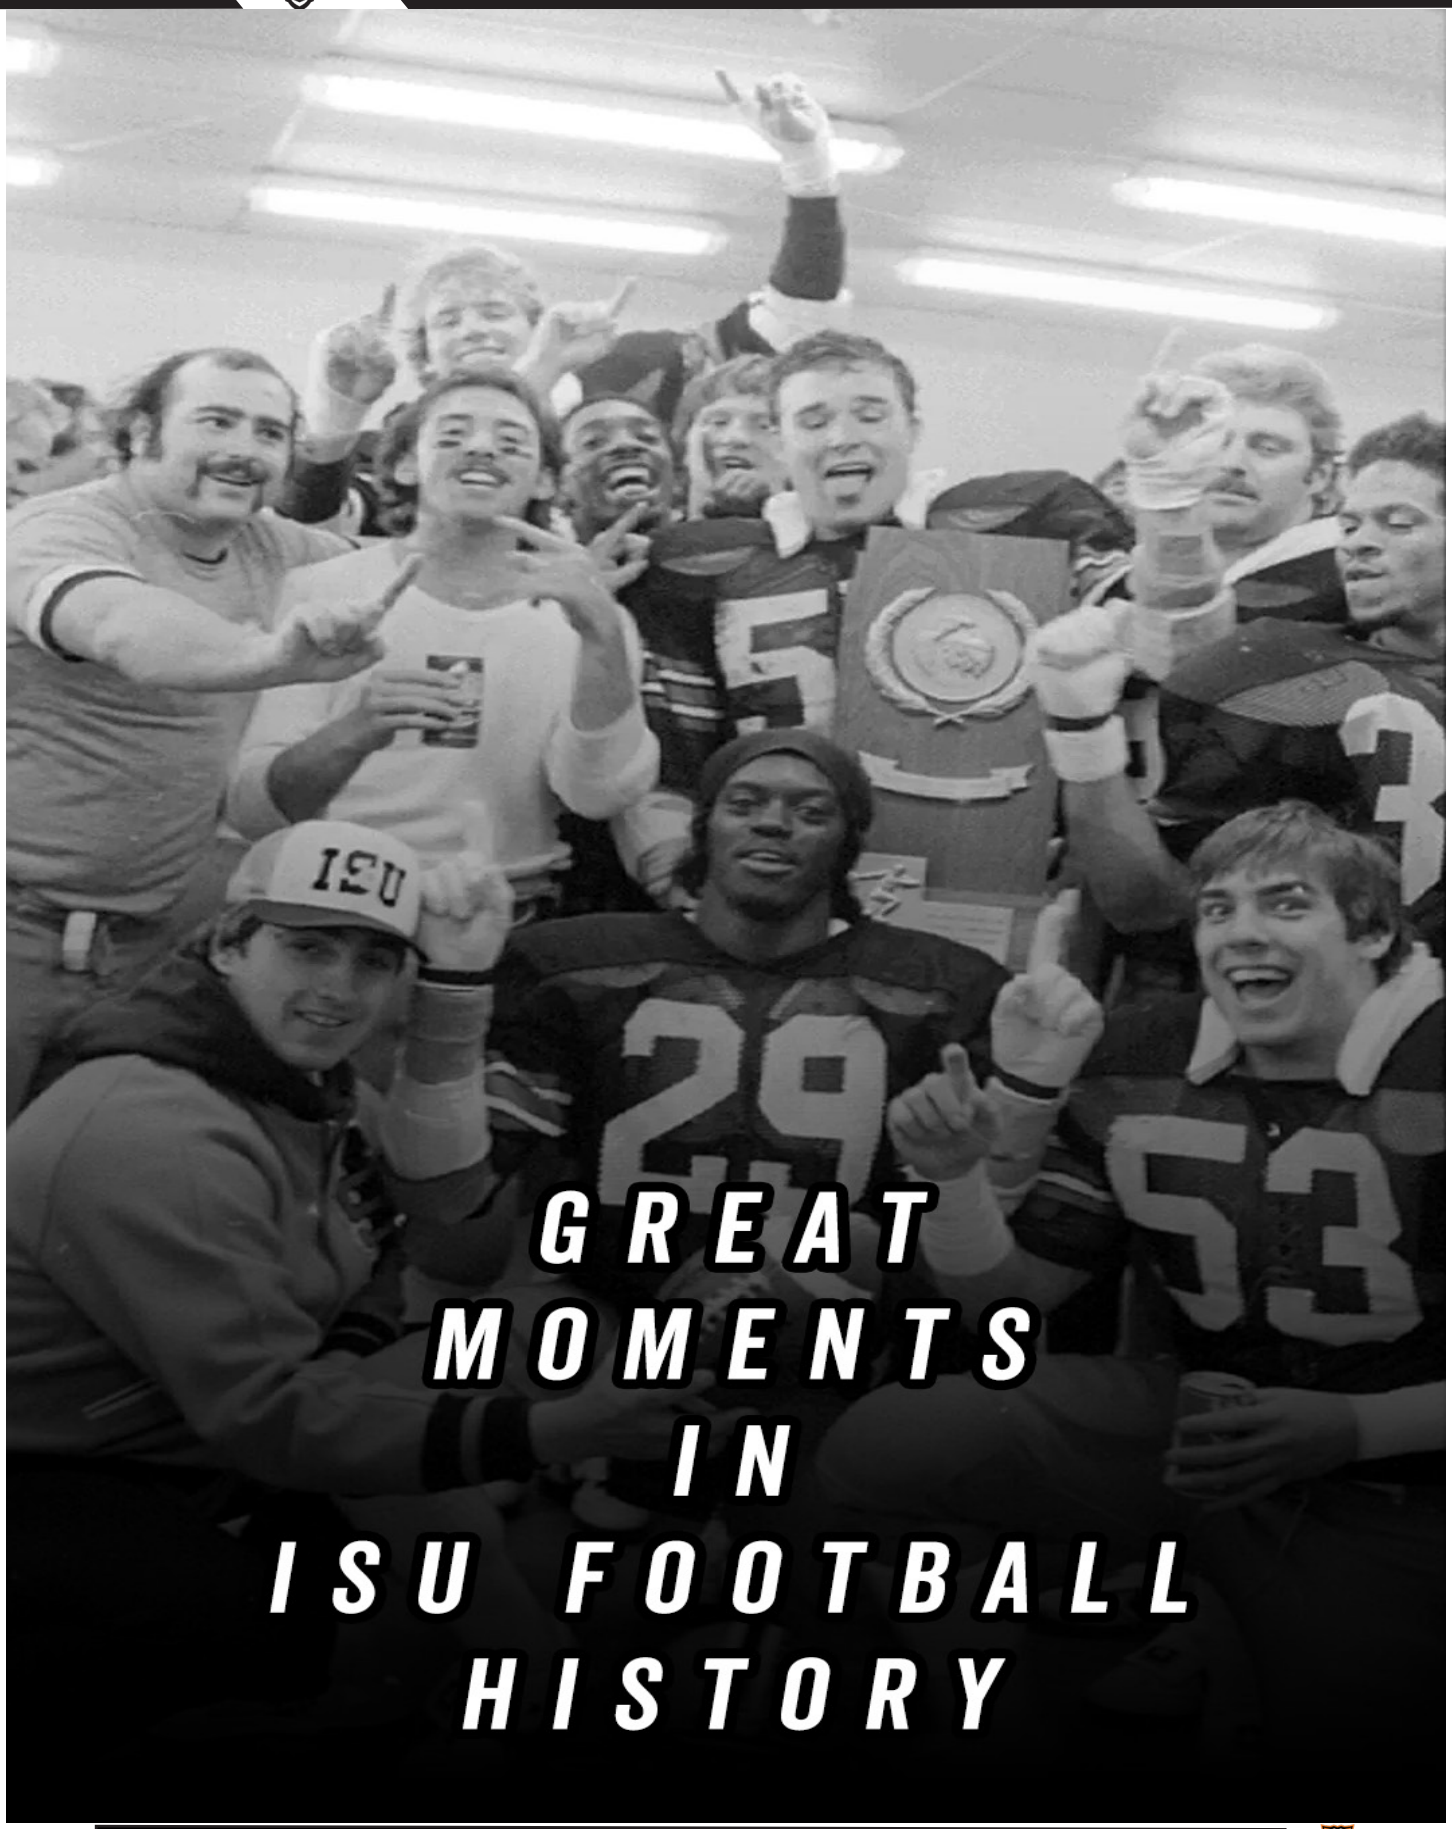

"BlackLabel Supplements is owned by two incredible Idaho State University alumni in Troy and Jamie Bell, both former Bengal student-athletes. Their willingness to step forward with this extraordinary gift is a testament to the Bengal family's renewed desire to support excellence in our programs," said Idaho State University Director of Athletics, Pauline Thiros. "We are so proud to now call Black Label Supplements the Official Supplement Partner for the Bengals, and to literally fuel the growth and successful performance of our teams with a superior product."

BlackLabel Supplements Owner and CEO, Troy Bell shares, "As alumni of Idaho State University and lifetime Pocatello residents, we (Jamie and I) see the BlackLabel partnership as an incredible opportunity to support and promote our alma mater. We are so excited about the future of Idaho State athletics!". Troy goes on to say, "We know that providing the athletes with exceptional supplements and nutrition will make a big difference in performance and their overall success as student-athletes. It is an honor to share our supplement line that we love and are passionate about with Idaho State University — the University we love and have so much passion for."

The multi-year deal, valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars annually, signifies a tremendous investment in the health and nutrition of more than 340 Bengal student-athletes. With BlackLabel Supplements on board, ISU will benefit from products held to the highest manufacturing standard and research proven ingredients.

"This gift is a tremendous benefit for our student-athletes. They need nutrition to perform, and the robust delivery of BlackLabel Supplements products from our fueling stations will advance the wellness of every Bengal," Thiros said when the partnership was announced. From football to tennis, men and women, fully scholarshipped students and walk-ons, every student-athlete deserves to have their wellness supported. BlackLabel Supplements is making that possible. This is monumental!"

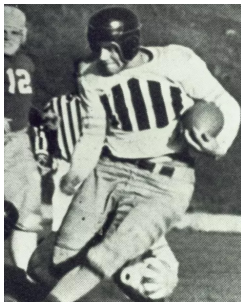

GREAT MOMENTS IN ISU FOOTBALL HISTORY

September 1902. Idaho State's First Game. The University was barely a year old when Idaho State's football team took the field for the first of five games in their inaugural season. The team didn't need to look far for an opponent, as the squad took on the Pocatello High School team and won 17-0. The ISU squad defeated Pocatello three more times during the year, and Idaho Falls High School once to finish their first season with a perfect 5-0 mark.

November 1907. Birth of a Champion. Under the first year of head coach John Morris, the 1907 Bengals won their first-ever recognized title, winning the Idaho Scholastic Championship. Under the direction of Ben Lowrie, the earliest recognized captain in the program's history, the Bengals clinched the title with a 34-0 whitewash of Payette High School.

September 1920. ISU's First Great Coach Debuts. In Idaho State's first 17 seasons, the Bengals went through seven coaches, but in 1920, the Bengals saw the coaching debut of Ralph Hutchinson, and ISU football, and ISU athletics would be forever changed. Hutchinson, who years earlier helped change ISU's nickname from the "Bantams" to the "Tigers", defeated Blackfoot High School 20-7 in his first game. He would go on to coach eight seasons, leading the Bengals to a 25-24-1 record. He also is credited with starting ISU's first booster organization, the "I" Club, as well as helping the school adopt the nickname "Bengals" in 1927.

November 18, 1931. Plasty's Boys Plaster Montana-Western. The 1931 squad headed to Dillon, Montana for the season finale at Montana-Western with a 6-1 record. In Idaho State's first seven games the team had scored 112 points. Against the overmatched Bulldogs, they nearly doubled that total as the Bengals ran all over the place, but mostly in the end zone as they delivered the school's all-time shellacking, handing Western a 111-0 pasting. While it had to be fun, it probably was old hat for head coach Felix Plastino, who saw his Bengals run up 103 points against Montana-Western on Homecoming just one year earlier

November 1935. The Greatest Defense Ever Closes Out the Season. Under first year head coach Guy Wicks, Idaho State's 1935 Bengals were the first team to play an entire season of at least eight games without a loss, going 7-0-1, but it was ISU's defense from that squad that will go down as the best in school history. Over the eight game season, the Bengals pitched four shutouts, allowing just 26 points and four touchdowns all season. The defense actually was a carry over from the 1934 squad, as those two teams combined to allow a paltry 57 points over 15 games with seven shutouts.

October 29, 1937. Dubby Holt's Record Return. Idaho State's 1937 Homecoming victory over the College of Idaho was like most of ISU's other early Homecoming wins, except for the play of Dubby Holt. The man who raced Jesse Owens to a dead heat took a punt on his own 12-yard line, and left everyone in a cloud of dust. When he finally stopped 88 yards later, he owned the longest punt return for a touchdown in school history. In the following 71 years, that record hasn't been topped, and it is still the longest standing individual record in ISU football history.

October, 1940. Atkinson's Last Gasp Pass Stuns Albion. In a game that featured four lead changes, it was the last that was the most dramatic. Trailing 26-24, the Bengals had moved into Albion territory with a chance for one final play. In an era where the forward pass wasn't used by the Bengals all that much, tailback George Atkinson took a pitch and lofted a pass down field and into the end zone, where Pete Gallagher came down with it after the official's gun went off to signal the end of the game. That late score is the first recorded walk-off winning play in ISU's history, and it gave ISU a 31-26 win.

September 30, 1950. Lyle Andersen's Sneak Surprises Everyone. Senior quarterback Lyle Andersen might be Idaho State's least likely 100-yard rusher ever. In a home game against Western State, the Bengals found themselves backed up on their own 1-yard line. Head coach John Vesser called for a quarterback sneak up the middle by Andersen to clear some room on first down. Andersen plowed past his center, and found the field wide open. Amazingly, Andersen went untouched 99 yards for a touchdown, demoralizing Western State and setting the stage for a 53-13 win. Andersen would rush for 109 yards in the contest.

October 11, 1952. Williams wasn't the best, but he was the first. Idaho State has gained a reputation for producing some of college football's best kickers and punters, but that tradition began way back in 1952, during Idaho State's first-ever undefeated season. Carl Williams, a defensive back and a running back by trade kicked a field goal in Idaho State's 17-6 win over Colorado College. That field goal was the first ever in the history of the storied Bengal program.

September 27, 1958. Babe Caccia Becomes ISU's Winningest Coach. Entering the 1958 season, the Bengals were coming off a fourth conference title, and 13 consecutive wins. Also entering the 1958 season, Babe Caccia had won 41 games in his ISU coaching career, equaling the total of the man he replaced, John Vesser, for the most in school history. Opening against the Eastern Washington Eagles, and led by All-American guard Dee Pankratz, the Bengals won 30-7, and Caccia would go on to win 37 more games, giving him 79 in his brilliant 11-year career

CACCIA SPEAKS TO THE TEAM PRIOR TO THE 1951 OPENER

September 27, 1958. The Koetter Era Begins. The 1958 season opener against Eastern Washington marked the college debut of what can be called the first family of ISU football. Jim Koetter lettered in both 1958-59, the first member of the Koetter family to touch ISU football. Jim later coached the Bengals for five years, leading ISU to their second playoff berth. Two of his sons also played for ISU. Dirk Koetter was a quarterback on the 1981 national championship team, and is currently the offensive coordinator for the Jacksonville Jaguars. Brent Koetter twice led Idaho State in interceptions and later coached both Pocatello and Highland High School to state football Titles

THE BENGALS DIVE FOR A TD AGAINST EWU IN 1958

September 19, 1959. The Bengals participate in Hawaiian History. In 1959, America grew from 48 to 50 states with the addition of Alaska and Hawaii to the United States. Hawaii, the 50th state, turned out to be Idaho State's football opponent on Statehood Day. The Rainbows, missing the big celebration back home, had their own at Davis Field as they defeated the Bengals 14-8. Unfazed by the loss, the Bengals wound up winning the final six games of the season, claiming their fifth and final Rocky Mountain Conference championship.

October 8, 1960. The Defense Goes on the Offensive. The 1960 Homecoming game against Colorado College was a 77-8 blitzing by the Bengals, a game that still holds the record for ISU's largest margin of victory at 69 points. However, the game also holds a different distinction. In that game ISU recorded a record six interceptions, and they returned three of those for touchdowns, including an 82-yard score by Burdette Mallack and a 97-yard return by LeRoy Russell. The three scores meant ISU's defense actually outscored Colorado College's offense three touchdowns to one.

November 9, 1963. A Rivalry is Born. The 1963 meeting between Idaho State and Weber State might have been the second meeting between the two schools, but it was the beginning of a rivalry. Trailing 26-8, the Bengals reeled off the final 28 points, including 20 in the fourth quarter as the Bengals clinched the first-ever Big Sky Conference football title with a 36-26 victory.

November 23, 1963. The Bengals Pause to Remember. The 1963 season was one in which the Bengals began play in the Big Sky Conference, winning the first ever Sky title. The season ended with a 5-3 record, but Idaho State's ninth game was supposed to be against Wichita State, the first meeting ever between the two programs. That meeting never took place. The game was cancelled that week as Pocatello, and all of America mourned the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The game was never made up, and the two teams never faced each other again. The 1963 team took part in two major moments in ISU football history, the first ever Division I game with Weber State, and the postponement of the final game of the season due to the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

September 20, 1969. The Flea Buzzes Parsons College. In the 1969 season opening win over Parsons College, Ed "The Flea" Bell torched the competition for a school record 261 yards receiving and a record four touchdowns. Bell's opening onslaught set the stage for his record setting 1969 season in which he set single season records with 20 touchdowns and 1,522 yards, and 96 catches, numbers which may never be equaled.

September 26, 1970. The Birth of Dome Field Advantage. The brainchild of then Athletic Director Milton 'Dubby' Holt, the ASISU Minidome, as it was originally named, opened for ISU football with a game against the UNLV Rebels. What transpired was a 64-34 Bengal win in a slugfest. Ken Warren grabbed a career-high 151 receiving yards in a game that still stands as an ISU record for points in a game at Holt Arena.

December 1972. Steve Beller Becomes ISU's First Academic All-American. The 1972 Bengals under Bob Griffin were successful on the field at 7-3, and kicker Steve Beller proved successful on and off it. Beller hit on 29-of-32 extra points and 6-of-10 field goals during the year, but his work in the classroom earned him Academic All-American honors from the College Sports Information Directors of America, becoming the first Idaho State football player to earn football's highest academic honor.

September 24, 1977. Eastern Montana Lays an Egg. Just looking at the final score among the seasons, Idaho State's 47-15 win over Eastern Montana in 1977 seems like a blip on a non-stellar 3-8 season, but it's what's not there that is so amazing. Despite needing to pass to make a comeback, the Bengals held Eastern Montana to zero yards passing. Even more amazing, the Bengals didn't even allow a completion. That never happened before, and it hasn't happened since.

September 2, 1978. The Land of the Rising Sun. There are home games, there are road games, there are neutral site games, and then there is the 1978 season opener. Idaho State and Utah State, located just 90 miles apart, opened the 1978 season….in Osaka, Japan. As part of a cultural exchange, the two programs traveled halfway around the world to open the season. The travel took its toll on both teams as the Bengals dropped a sloppy game to Utah State 10-0. The travel took its toll coming back too as ISU was shutout the next week, although they finally broke into the win column in their home opener, beating Portland State 27-13.

November 11, 1978. Talk About the Defense Not Showing Up. Idaho State's trip to the University of Idaho for a late 1978 Big Sky game figured to be a leisurely one hour flight. Head Coach Bud Hake had two planes to take the team, offense on one plane, the defense on the other. An hour later the offense's plane touched down, but the defense's plane never left the runway in Pocatello. Mechanical problems forced the cancellation of the flight, and since the team left the day of the game, the Bengals were forced to take a loss, 2-0, against the Vandals, although it was officially recorded by NCAA as a "no contest".

September 27, 1980. The Beginning of a New Era. Before the Bengals could become the greatest, they had to learn how to win, and that moment came early in 1980. In just the third game under new head coach Dave Kragthorpe, the Bengals ended a 19-game losing streak, at the time the longest in I-AA history, with a 59-33 thrashing of Portland State and their five receiver run-and-shoot offense. After 20 games, the Bengals finally tasted victory, and just 20 games later, they would taste a national championship.

November 21, 1981. Case DeBruijn's Kick Ends an Epic Battle. For the finale of the 1981 season, Idaho State and Weber State met at Holt Arena for the Big Sky title. ISU survived a 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Weber State, and the game came down to overtime. After surviving again, this on a missed 32-yard field goal by Roger Ruzek that would have won it for the Wildcats in the second overtime, Hall of Fame kicker Case DeBruijn nailed a 33-yard field goal at the end of the third overtime to give ISU a 33-30 win and the Big Sky title in the longest game in ISU History

December 19, 1981. The Bengals Reach the Pinnacle. Idaho State climbed the long road back from worst to first as All-American quarterback Mike Machurek threw for 330 yards, the last of his eight career 300-yard games as the Bengals defeated Eastern Kentucky 34-23 in Wichita Falls, Texas to win the I-AA National Championship. The win capped a remarkable turnaround from an 0-11 season just two years prior.

November 23, 1985. Merril Hoge Becomes ISU's First 1,000-yard Rusher. Heading into the 1985 season finale against Eastern Washington, Pocatello native Merril Hoge had rushed for 892 yards, and he needed nine yards to better his school record for rushing yards in a season. He also needed 108 to become the first Bengal to ever rush for 1,000 yards. Despite a 42-21 loss, Hoge did his part, rushing for 149 yards, his second-best single-game total ever to get to 1,041 yards, becoming the first ISU rusher to 1,000 yards. To date, he is just one of Eight to accomplish the feat.

September 12, 1987. A Good Ol' Fashioned Texas Shootout. The season opener between Idaho State and Texas A&I (now Texas A&M Kingsville) kept the scoreboard operator busy the entire night. The two teams combined for the first combined 100-point game in Holt Arena history as the Javalinas defeated the Bengals 52-51 in a classic game. Big efforts abounded, including a 93-yard kickoff return for a touchdown and 100 yards receiving by Butch Caston and a 103-yard rushing effort by Corky Federico. Despite ISU's record 28-point third quarter outburst, ISU fell a point short.

November 10, 1990. Jason's Back One Last Time. Jason Whitmer, ISU's starting quarterback from 1987-90, won just nine games in his career, but it wasn't for a lack of trying. Whitmer threw for 300 yards a record 12 times, including a 336-yard performance in his last win, a 30-27 decision over Mesa State. Whitmer's four year career ended with ISU career records for yards, attempts, completions, touchdowns and of course, 300-yard games.

September 12, 1992. The Globe of Death. The Philadelphia Eagles have "The Miracle at the Meadowlands", the San Francisco 49ers have "The Catch", but the Idaho State Bengals have "The Globe of Death". After Boise State scored a touchdown with 22 seconds left to give the Broncos what seemed like a 20-17 win, BSU kicked off, and the Bengals pulled out their bag of tricks. After Carlos Reed received the squib kick, all 11 players huddled together and then sprinted out in different directions. Robert Johnson actually had the ball and returned it to the BSU 42-yard line, and a personal foul moved the ball into field goal range (the play was confusing for the statisticians too, as Sylvester Jones was officially credited with the return). Going for the win, backup quarterback Paul Putnam hit Rommie Wheeler for a touchdown with five seconds left for an improbable 24-20 win.

September 21, 1996. Marcus Jackson Suffers a Tragic Injury. It was a simple tackle late in the first half of an otherwise non-descript 47-0 rout of Montana-Western. It was a tackle that would change a life and touch a community. Marcus Jackson suffered a traumatic spinal injury on the tackle, becoming paralyzed from the neck down. Jackson, however, returned to school the following year, and in the summer of 1999, he truly became one of the most heroic figures in ISU history when he battled to earn a bachelor's degree, despite what some would say was an insurmountable handicap. Insurmountable to most, but not to Marcus Jackson.

November 16, 1996. Ed Coleman's Shining Moment. Ed Coleman played only one season for Idaho State University, as a reserve running back who basically was not even on the two-deep during the season. But, pressed into service in the next-to-last game of 1996, Coleman had his day in the sun as he rushed for 232 yards against Portland State, the second-most in school history at that time. The game would prove to be the only 100-yard rushing game of Coleman's career.

October 23, 1997. James Ferrell Kicks ISU into an Inadvertent Controversy. Leading 43-31 over Southern Utah with four seconds left, Idaho State kicker James Ferrell stood on the sidelines with four made field goals, seemingly settling for a tie of the ISU single-game record. However, head coach Tom Walsh called timeout to allow Ferrell, a fifth-year senior, an opportunity to set the record. Ferrell kicked that record breaking field goal, but Walsh's timeout infuriated Thunderbird head coach C. Ray Gregory, who felt that ISU had tried to run up the score. Gregory publicly announced he was giving up potatoes for a year, and he would only eat them again after defeating ISU the next season. Gregory's potato fast lasted another year as ISU dealt the T-Birds a 50-33 loss the following season.

September 19, 1998. A Game Without a Touchdown. Big Sky football usually means lots of offense and lots of scoring, unless it's the 1998 meeting between the Bengals and the Weber State Wildcats. Despite a 254-yard rushing effort by Wildcat Morgan Welch, neither the Wildcats nor the Bengals could find the endzone. Weber State got two Scott Shields field goals, and ISU got only a Pete Garces field goal in a 6-3 loss to Weber State. The game remains the only game in Holt Arena history without a touchdown being scored.

PETE GARCES TIED THE NCAA RECORD FOR THE LONGEST FIELD GOAL WITHOUT A TEE WHEN HE KICKED THIS 60-YARD FIELD GOAL AGAINST CAL STATE NORTHRIDGE IN THE 1998 SEASON FINALE, A WIN THAT KNOCKED NORTHRIDGE FROM THE I-AA PLAYOFFS

November 21, 1998. Pete Garces's Big Boot. Pete Garces was a late signee to the Idaho State roster, but he might have been 1998's most important. Possessing arguably the strongest leg in school history, Garces would go on to tie an NCAA record for most career 50-yard field goals with 11. In the '98 finale against Cal State Northridge, ISU tight end Robert McBride dropped a sure touchdown pass on third down from the Matador 42. With the crowd still buzzing, Peter Garces trotted out for a 60-yard field goal. The ball was hit with such force that it crossed the goalposts midway up, giving him the longest I-AA field goal without a tee at that time. The points were the difference in the season ending 32-29 win.

September 4 & 11, 1999. The Mackay Missile Runs Rampant. Entering 1999, junior running back Nick Whitworth wanted to show ISU's new coaching staff he could be an impact running back. Mission accomplished. Whitworth opened the season with a 221-yard effort against Eastern Oregon, the most rushing yards by an ISU back in Holt Arena history, bettering the old record that had stood for eight years. Whitworth's record never made it to eight days as he rolled up a Holt and school record 273 yards on the ground against Ft. Lewis the very next week. His 494 yards in back-to-back games easily stands as a school record.

October 16 and 23, 1999. McCarthy's Back-to-Back Explosion. The son of ISU Hall of Fame tight end John McCarthy, quarterback Kevin McCarthy spent most of his career as a backup quarterback, but he was thrust into a starting role in 1999, and McCarthy showed everyone what he could do. McCarthy threw for the second-most yards in ISU history with a 477-yard performance against Eastern Washington. Just one week later, McCarthy was at it again, throwing for 553 yards against Southern Utah. The 1,030 yards ranks as the most ever by an ISU quarterback in back-to-back games.

September 9, 2000. A Personal Comeback for DeRonn Finley. In an otherwise forgettable 58-10 season opening thrashing of Montana Tech, DeRonn Finley returned to the Bengal lineup nearly two years after suffering multiple leg fractures in a spring break car accident that claimed the life of his teammate Jacori Rufus. Finley, who was told he would never walk again, would go on to lead the 2000 team in receptions, receiving yards, punt return average, kickoff return average, and all-purpose yards and was a finalist for the Disney Most Inspirational Athlete Award.

November 18, 2000. Nick Whitworth's Career Capper Quite the Effort. The Mackay Missile, running back Nick Whitworth, ended his career in grand style. With ISU at 5-5, the Bengals traveled to frozen Logan, Utah for a finale with 5-5 Utah State. Whitworth rushed for 201 yards, and caught a critical seven-yard pass on 4th-and-7 that led to the go ahead touchdown as the Bengals shocked the FBS Aggies 27-24. Whitworth's 200-yard game was the third of his career, a school record.

November 16, 2002. Eddie Johnson's Record Setting Night. Punter Eddie Johnson entered his final career home game with one last shot to set a Holt Arena punting record. He ended up setting five. Johnson uncorked six punts for a ridiculous 61.5-yard average, and a 61.3-yard net average, setting both ISU and NCAA single-game records in the process. Included in those six punts were a 67-yard boot, a 70-yard boot, and a Holt Arena record tying 80-yard kick, which traveled off his foot at the ISU 8-yard line and landed on the Cal Poly 10 before bounding through the end zone, past the Bengal Dancers, and off the wall beyond the field of play. Johnson was eventually drafted in the sixth round by the Minnesota Vikings in 2003 NFL Draft.

October 4, 2003. Idaho State and Eastern Washington Ignite Offensive Fireworks. It was what Big Sky football was all about….offense. Idaho State and Eastern Washington hooked up for 958 yards, 165 plays, 15 touchdowns, 107 points, and one heck of a comeback. Down 42-28 with just over five minutes left, the Bengals scored and forced an Eagle punt. Emery Beckles returned it 65 yards, setting up the tying touchdown with three minutes left. Running back Isaac Mitchell gave the Bengals a 55-52 win in the second overtime with the team's eighth and final touchdown of the night.

October 18, 2003. Mark Hetherington's Heroics Cap a Homecoming Epic. In a game that will go down as one of the all-time classics, the Bengals ended 10 years of frustration with a 43-40 double overtime win over fifth-ranked Montana. In a game that featured six lead changes and six ties, the Griz tied the game at 34 on a 54-yard field goal with no time left. After both teams traded field goals, Montana was up 40-37 in the second overtime when quarterback Mark Hetherington, who threw for 398 yards in the contest, found sophomore Shedrack Okoebor for a 13-yard touchdown, giving the Bengals a 43-40 win, and the capacity crowd a Homecoming to remember.

December 17, 2003. Jared Allen Wins the Buchanan Award. Jared Allen's 2003 season was monstrous by anyone's standards, leading the nation with a school record 17.5 sacks. Allen also led the nation in forced fumbles, and ranked third in tackles for losses. His season's crowning moment however came off the field, when he was awarded the Buck Buchanan Award as the national best defensive player in I-AA football. He became Idaho State's first major college football award winner, and was later drafted in the fourth round by the Kansas City Chiefs, which interestingly, is where Buck Buchanan spent most of his professional career.

JARED ALLEN AT THE BUCHANAN AWARD CEREMONY

November 6, 2005. Jaret Johnson's Miracle Kick. Things looked bleak when Portland State's Eric Azorr kicked a field goal for a 34-33 Viking lead, and ISU got the ball at their own 35 with no time outs and 23 seconds left. However, the Bengals ran off five plays, including a key 12-yard completion by Matt Hagler to Akilah Lacey to the PSU 37 with seven seconds left. Out trotted senior kicker Jaret Johnson, who was having an All-American season, other than a signature kick. Johnson lined up for a career-long 54-yarder, and drilled it home, giving the Bengals a 36-34 win, and Johnson the longest game-winning kick in Idaho State history. It also gave him his signature kick on the way to First Team All-American honors.

November 8, 2014. Idaho State knocked off a ranked team for the first time since beating No. 5 Eastern Washington 34-30 in 2005. The Bengals had lost 24 straight games against a ranked team before the win. The victory also marked the first five-game win streak for the Bengals since 1995 when the team started 5-0.

Nov. 22, 2014. Idaho State knocks off Weber State for the first time since 2002. The 46-28 victory gave ISU an 8-4 record and a 6-2 Big Sky Conference mark. This is only the seventh time in program history ISU has won eight games or more. ISU finished 6-0 at home for the first time since 2003 and senior Daniel McSurdy rushed for 266 yards and two touchdowns in his final home game. The 266 yards was the third-best rushing performance in school history. Idaho State also broke a 57-year old single-season rushing record with 2,718 rushing yards. The previous mark was 2,442 by the 1957 team.

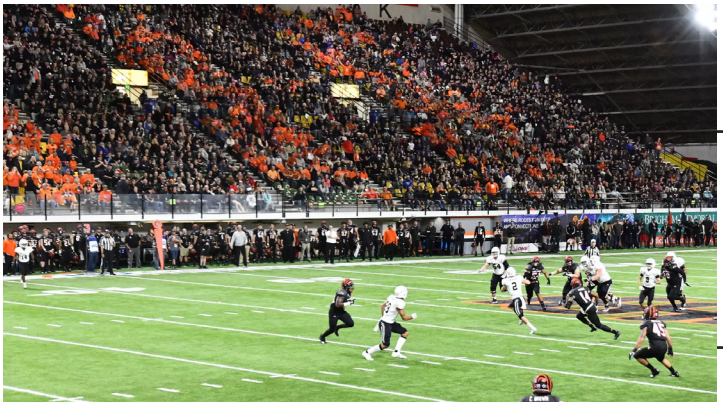

Dec. 15, 2014. Justin Arias was named a finalist for the Walter Payton Award, an honor that goes to the Most Outstanding Player in FCS football. Arias was invited to Philadelphia where he finished third in the voting. Arias wasn't added as a candidate until November 4 when the Bengals were 6-3.

January 12, 2015. Idaho State finished the 2014 season ranked No. 25 in the final Sports Network Poll. It marked the first time ISU was ranked to end the season since 2003 when they were No. 22 in the Sports Network and ESPN/USA Today polls.

Sept. 16, 2017: Idaho State 30 Nevada 28
The Idaho State football team knocked off Nevada 30-28 on Saturday evening at Mackay Stadium. The Bengals led the entire game and fought off a late Wolf Pack rally to earn the victory. The victory is first win over an FBS team since beating Utah State 27-24 in 2000. The win ended a 27-game losing streak against FBS team. The last win over an FBS team was 27-24 at Utah State in 2000.

Oct. 6, 2018: Welcome Back Vandals. Prior to the 2018 football season, the Idaho Vandals became the first team in NCAA history to drop from FBS back to FCS affiliation as they rejoined the Big Sky. The two teams were set to meet in the middle of the seaon and ISU's Holt Arena would be the home for the contest. Excitement was in the air and over 11,000 people came to Pocatello to watch the Bengals thrash the Vandals 62-28 in their first meeting in years. Bengal QB Tanner Gueller threw for a team-record 8 touchdown passes and the win was featured on ESPN and CBS Sports.

Oct. 14, 2023: A comeback for the Ages - Coming off of a Homecoming win over UNC and a narrow loss to the Griz in Missoula, first-year head coach Cody Hawkins and the Bengals welcomed the #22 Eastern Washington Eagles to Holt Arena. With 1:48 to play in the 3rd, the Eagles held a 41-14 lead over the Bengals and the game seemed good as over. The Orange and Black had other ideas, scoring four straight toudowns over the final 15 minutes of the game, capped by Hunter Hays' 1-yard rushing touchdown to put the Bengals up 42-41. The Eagles missed their potential game-winning field goal and the Bengals completed the 27 point comeback, one of the best in Idaho State University history.

Nov. 19, 2024 : The Train Bell is Coming Home - The 2024 Idaho State Bengals traveled south to Ogden, Utah in 2024 and did what 40 years of Bengals previously couldn't, defeat the Wildcats in Ogden. The Bengals beat the Wildcats 43-35 behind a 348 yard, four touchdown performance from quarterback Kobe Tracy. The Bengals hoisted the Train Bell Trophy high, cheered on by the 500+ Idaho State Faithful, including a student bus who made the trip to Ogden for the game.

November 1, 2025. The Kick Heard Across Davis.- For the first time since 2021, Idaho State toppled a Top-10 opponent, edging No. 6 UC Davis 38–36 on the road in one of the most dramatic finishes in program history. After the Aggies took a late 36–35 lead, sophomore kicker Trajan Sinatra split the uprights from 50 yards out with 52 seconds remaining to seal the win. The kick capped an all-around performance that saw Idaho State pile up 471 yards of total offense, including 219 rushing yards and two touchdowns from Dason Brooks. The Bengal defense forced three turnovers, highlighted by Nathan Reynolds' game-clinching interception. The victory marked ISU's first road win over a ranked opponent under Head Coach Cody Hawkins and snapped a four-game skid in emphatic fashion.

ISU QB JORDAN COOKE RUNS IN A TD IN THE 37-16 WIN OVER IDAHO

November 22, 2025 - Mashed Potato Supper - The Bengals strolled into the Kibbie Dome in Moscow, Idaho with one goal in mind, take down the Vandals and bring the Potato State Trophy back to Pocatello. The Benagls left no doubt, after just one half of play, Idaho State was up 27-0 over the crushed Vandals and, to the dismay of the Moscow fans in attendance, cruised to a 37-16 win over Idaho. The Bengals hoisted the Potato State Trophy over their heads and headed back to Pocatello, having finished the season with four straight wins and control over both Idaho and Weber State Rivalry Trophies.

College football fans throughout southeastern Idaho had never witnessed anything like it before. For those who experienced it, 1981 remains the stuff of which dreams are made.

It remains an understatement to say Idaho State University's 1981 championship campaign came from nowhere because just the season before, the Bengals snapped a 19-game losing streak.

In 1979, ISU suffered through an 0-11 season, the last of a three-year journey of mediocrity which saw ISU win just five of 33 games.

Yet, on Dec. 19, 1981, Idaho State polished off a 12-1 campaign with a national championship. In Wichita Falls, Texas, Idaho State easily defeated No. 1-ranked Eastern Kentucky 34-23 for the FCS (formerly I-AA) Championship. The miracle of Portneuf Valley was complete. The national title ranks 28th on the list of the Big Sky Conference's "50 Greatest Men's Moments."

"Surreal is the appropriate word to describe it," said Brent Koetter, a Pocatello native and a defensive back for the 1981 Bengals. "We were having fun and kept on winning, kept climbing up the polls and just kept getting better.

Turns out, winning the Big Sky Conference championship was a lot tougher than the playoffs, which became a three-week long coronation. Idaho State outscored its three playoff opponents 126-35, including a 51-0 rout of Rhode Island.

It was a continuation of an offensive juggernaut which averaged nearly 30 points a game.

"We expected to dominate every game," said Mike Machurek, ISU's quarterback who would lead the Big Sky in nearly every passing category and would go on to play for the Detroit Lions. "The first two playoff games were easy."

In 1981, Idaho State's lone loss in 13 games came at Montana, 24-21, when Machurek was benched with a bout of mononucleosis.

Other than that, Weber State was the only team to get close to the Bengals. With more than 13,000 spontaneous fans going nuts in what was then known as the Minidome, the season finale saw the Wildcats push ISU into three intense, thrilling overtimes before a Case deBruijn field goal settled the game and the conference championship, 33-30.

"In 1979, nobody asked for tickets to the games. People didn't talk about football, we were the crazy relative who lived in the attic," said former ISU sports information director Glenn Alford. "In 1981, it would be all smiles. Everyone had a snap in their step."

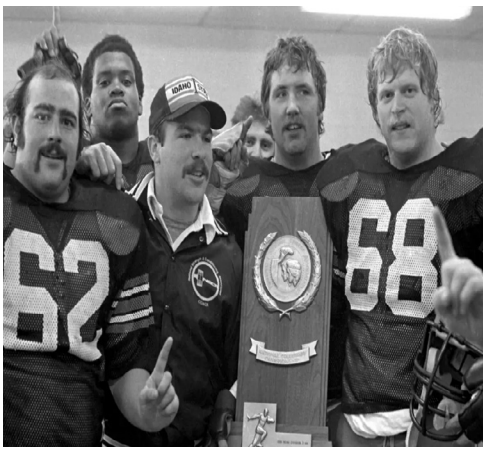

It took a perfect storm to create that snap.

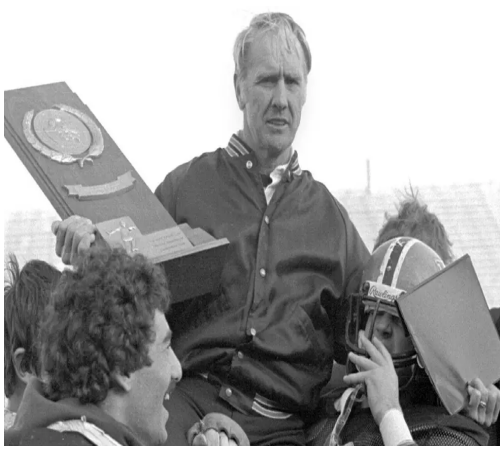

First, ISU athletic director Babe Caccia, on his own without the benefit of a hiring committee, struck gold by grabbing Dave Kragthorpe from BYU's coaching ranks. Kragthorpe put together a talented staff that included future NFL coaches Marvin Lewis and Mike Sheppard.

Successful high school coach Jim Koetter, who would later coach the Bengals to their last post-season appearance in 1983, ran the offense. Denny Moller, who would go on to coach in the Pac-10, called the defensive plays.

Kragthorpe brought with him BYU's vaunted passing attack and set out to recruit enough offensive talent to take the program airborne.

"ISU was so down, and our timing was good," Kragthorpe said. "They'd just lost 17 straight games and I was ready [to become a head coach]…Still [in the back of my mind], I thought the people who said I was crazy [to take the job] might be right."

The success in 1981 was born in 1980 as the Bengals went 6-5, breaking the losing streak in a 59-33 shootout against Neil Lomax-led Portland State. The next season was a breakout ready to happen.

Idaho State's now confident – and relatively new – air attack overwhelmed Big Sky defenses and set a new tone that other teams quickly followed.

"We replicated BYU's offense without question," Kragthorpe said. "We were going to throw the football at any time under any conditions."

ISU's confidence can be measured in its third-down conversion rate, 45 percent, far and away the best that season in the Big Sky.

Machurek had a host of targets, including running back Dwain Wilson who led the conference with 61 catches and who gained more than 500 yards receiving and 450 rushing. Tight end Rod Childs and wide outs Charles Ewing and Chris Corp combined to average more than 22 yards a reception.

"Our expectations were very high," Machurek said. "We were pretty explosive. It didn't matter if it was third and 2 or third and 20."

Against Northern Arizona, Machurek completed a record 18 consecutive passes, then ISU picked up a delay of game penalty during the ensuing parade of high fives.

The defense, led by linebackers Lem Galeai and Bill Snapp and defensive backs Willie Allen, John Berry and Matt Courtney allowed the league's fewest points, 13.7.

The defense, however, had one special weapon – Case deBruijn, who averaged more than 45 yards a kick and helped ISU win the battle of field position. For example, despite giving 500 yards of offense against Nevada, the Bengals bend-but-don't break philosophy netted a 23-7 victory.

"It was probably the best year ever," Brent Koetter said. "It was the best time in my life."

More than 40 players and coaches attended the last reunion, an example of how close the 1981 Bengals came to be.

"You never take time to appreciate it," Kragthorpe remembered. "Everything happened so fast…It was miraculous. There's no way any team can go from 17 straight losses to a national championship."

CODY HAWKINS
HEAD COACH

4TH SEASON
ALL TIME AT ISU | 14-21
ALL TIME CONFERENCE | 11-13

Cody Hawkins was named the 20th Head Coach of the Idaho State football program in the winter of 2022, in 2026 he is entering his 4th season at the Helm of the Bengals program

In 2025, Hawkins guided Idaho State through one of the most significant late-season turnarounds in program history. The Bengals finished 6–6 overall and 5–3 in Big Sky Conference play, winning four straight games to close the regular season and earning the program's strongest conference finish since 2018. Idaho State ended the year with the Big Sky's top passing offense, the nation's top net punting unit, and the fewest sacks allowed in the FCS.

HAWKINS HUGS PLAYERS AFTER BENGALS 42-41 COMEBACK VICTORY OVER #22 EASTERN WASHINGTON ON 10/14/23

The Bengals secured rivalry trophy victories over both Weber State and Idaho during the stretch run. Idaho State reclaimed the Train Bell with a dominant 31–3 Senior Day win over Weber State in Pocatello, then closed the regular season with a 37–16 road victory at Idaho in the Battle for the Potato State Trophy. The season was highlighted by a signature road upset at sixth-ranked UC Davis, where the Bengals earned a 38–36 win in Davis, marking one of the program's highest-ranked road victories in team history.

Idaho State placed 11 players on the All-Big Sky teams following the season, its most all-conference selections since 2020. Stryker Rashid earned First Team All-Big Sky honors on the offensive line after anchoring a unit that allowed just three sacks all season, the fewest in the conference and the nation. Kicker Trajan Sinatra also earned First Team recognition after leading the Big Sky in made field goals and delivering multiple clutch performances, including the walk-off kick in the road win at UC Davis.

Five Bengals were named to the Second Team All-Big Sky, including running back Dason Brooks, who surpassed 1,000 rushing yards, wide receiver Tsion Nunnally, defensive lineman Cam'ron Willis, defensive back Rylan Leathers, and punter Gabe Russo. Russo led the Big Sky in punting average and helped Idaho State finish first nationally in net punting.

Four additional Bengals earned Honorable Mention recognition in quarterback Jordan Cooke, wide receivers Michael Shulikov and Damien Morgan, and linebacker Nathan Reynolds. Cooke led the Big Sky in passing yards and ranked fourth nationally, while Reynolds sealed the road victory at UC Davis with a game-clinching interception.

2024 saw a marked improvement in the Bengal program. Picked 10th in the Big Sky preseason poll, Hawkins led the Bengals to a 5-7 overall record and a 6th-place finish in the Big Sky Conference, the highest win total for the Bengals since the 2018 season.

On November 9, 2024 Cody Hawkins led the Bengals to a 43-35 win over Weber State in Ogden and bring the Train Bell Trophy back to Pocatello. Hawkins became the first ISU Head Coach to win in Ogden since Jim Koetter in the 1984 season.

Under Hawkins, the Bengals earned seven Player of the Week awards, five coming from Bengal kickers Ross Bolger and Gabe Panikowski. The Bengals finished the 2024 season with one of the top kicking squads in the nation. Panikowski finished perfect on the year in field goals and was named a first-team All-American and the recipient of the Fred Mitchell Outstanding place-kicker award.

Hawkins also coached two of the top receivers in the Big Sky in the 2024 season. Jeff Weimer and Christian Fredericksen were both named 1st team all-conference for their efforts during the season. Weimer became just the 9th Bengal receiver in program history with over 1,000 receiving yards, ending the season with 1,016. Fredericksen was also on track to pass the 1,000 mark before being sidelined for the final game of the season with a lower-body injury.

Idaho state finished the 2024 season a top-10 passing offense in the nation averaging 298.4 yards per game. 15th in the nation in total offense at 427.9 yards per game, T-9th in 4th down conversion percentage at .333 and 13th in the nation in first down offense. On special teams, the Bengals finished 14th in the nation in net punting. The Bengal offensive line finished the season number 6 in the nation in sacks allowed with only .83 allowed per game and number 7 in tackles for loss allowed.

His first year at the helm of the Bengal program 2023, Hawkins finished 3-8, with a 42-41 win over #22 Eastern Washington.

During the regular season, the Idaho State Bengals held the No. 1 passing offense in the FCS 330.1 passing yards per game. The Bengal passing game was led by first-team All-Big Sky, and Walter Payton Award Finalist wide receiver Chedon James. James finished the 2023 season with 1,045 receiving yards, 7th best all-time in Idaho Staste team history.

Hawkins also earned two other all-conference nods in 2023. Bengal lineback Calvin Pitcher was named 2nd team all-Big Sky and Defensive Lineman David Rowe was named honorable mention.

HAWKINS COACHING DURING PRACTICE

Hawkins came to the Bengals after serving five seasons as a member of the UC Davis Aggie coaching staff, and three years as the offensive coordinator. He brought an extensive and successful coaching career at the youth, high school, collegiate, professional and international levels prior to his arrival at UC Davis in 2017.

Hawkins also brings an extensive knowledge of the game after learning from Washington head coach Chris Petersen, Ohio State head coach Urban Meyer, Texas head coach Tom Herman, former Boise State head coach Dirk Koetter, and former Montreal Alouettes head coach Marc Trestman.

Hawkins began his coaching journey at UC Davis as a volunteer assistant but was elevated to the position of Assistant Director of Football Operations and Recruiting following the team's historic 2018 season. Under his guidance, Aggie wideouts played a crucial role in the team's success, helping UC Davis ranking third nationally in passing offense and eighth in scoring during the 2017 season. He has a great knowledge of the game, and more importantly, cares about developing young men off the field by creating a successful culture. I'm very happy for him and excited to see him put his spin on this talented group of wide receivers, and our offense as a whole."

That year, UC Davis finished as the top offense in the Big Sky Conference, which helped the Aggies set 46 new Big Sky-era records, faced more ranked teams (or teams receiving votes) since joining the league, won five games against Division I competition, equal to the combined total from the previous three seasons, and won five Big Sky Player of the Week awards, matching the total from the last four years.

Junior organizational studies major Keelan Doss highlighted UC Davis' receiving group by ending his season with 115 receptions, 10.5 receptions per game and 136.3 receiving yards, top numbers among all players at the FBS and Football Championship Subdivision levels when the Aggies' season ended. Doss, the Big Sky's Offensive Player of the Year and finalist for the Walter Payton Award which is presented to the most outstanding offensive player in the nation, also led all FCS players with 1,499 receiving yards.

Hawkins joined UC Davis after leading Los Angeles Valley College to its best record in school history (11-0), a conference and state championship at its offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. Under his tutelage, LAVC averaged 43.3 points per game, with numerous players continuing their playing career at the Division I level.

Team USA also experienced a similar level of offensive success and averaged 54 points a game throughout Hawkins' career as its quarterback coach and play caller.

Prior to his tenure with the National Team, Hawkins led Westview High School's offense as its coordinator, and helped develop Ohio State's wide receivers, running backs and quarterbacks.

At WHS (Beaverton, Ore.), Hawkins helped it earned its first playoff appearance in seven years thanks to a new offensive system that he installed. Thanks to his coaching, the team experienced a deep postseason run after leading all Oregon high schools with 3,254 passing yards, in addition to its 36 passing touchdowns.

As a member of the Buckeyes' football staff, Hawkins assisted with the mental and physical development of its offensive players, developed a comprehensive social media strategy, and content, as part of the program's elite recruiting process.

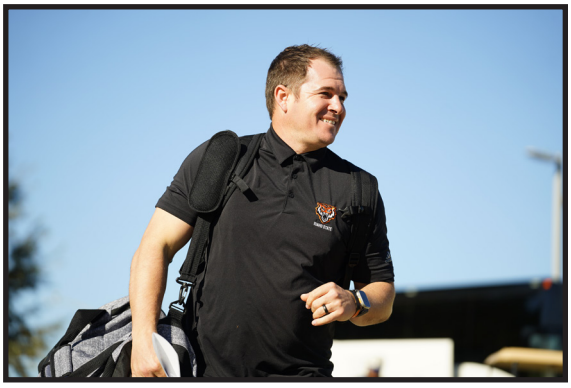

Hawkins' coaching career began in 2011 as a player/coach for the Stockholm Mean Machines, the country's oldest and most successful football organization. When he returned the U.S., he led Bishop Kelly High School (Boise, Idaho), to a 9-2 record and a berth in the state semifinals. That season, the Knights' offense enjoyed one of its most prolific seasons in school history by scoring a conference-high 42 points per game.

Success earned by those teams lead to an opportunity to coach elite quarterbacks from across the country as the quarterback coach for Elite 11/The Opening, where he became the only quarterback in the history of Nike's program to attend as an invitee, college counselor and coach.

It was this experience that led to his opportunity at Ohio State.

An elite quarterback himself, Hawkins compiled a 40-0 record as a starter at Bishop Kelly High School. In addition to leading his school to consecutive state championships, he earned Idaho Statesman State Player of the Year (2004 and 2005) and Gatorade Player of the Year (2005) accolades before continuing his playing career at Colorado.

While competing for the Buffaloes, he earned the Kordell Stewart Career Achievement Award, the Eddie Crowder Award for outstanding leadership twice, and the Derek Singleton Award (leadership, enthusiasm and dedication) on three occasions

BUDDY BLEVINS
CO-OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR
INSIDE RECEIVERS

Arriving in Pocatello in January 2024, Coach Buddy Blevins brings offensive acumen with passing game concepts specifically akin to wide receiver play. His extensive resume has seen him work in rural settings, urban areas, private schools, state universities, Christian based schools, and most recently time at a Historic Black College and University all while elevating offenses at every stop as a play caller.

With Panhandle State in Oklahoma, Blevins help turn around a program that reached it's first top 25 ranking in 31 years by directing an offense that ranked in the top 25 in both rushing and passing. His next foray was in the NAIA ranks in Illinois, directing Trinity International to set three single game schools records in passing yards, passing attempts, and passing completions. His offense set an NAIA single game passing record with 732 yards and ranked 3rd nationally in total passing yards.

While at Fort Valley State D2 in Georgia, he took the offense from last to first in virtually every offensive category: scoring offense, passing offense, total offense, and red zone offense. This helped FVSU to it's first winning season in seven years while increasing points per game going from 131st to 15th in all of D2 football. Blevins then moved onto Central State in Ohio ascending to the role of Assistant Head Coach where his offense scored more than 30 points in five games, had three of the top four Wide Receivers in the conference, and increased the number of first downs, yards per game, and totaled 712 yards in one game. By 2023, the offense again led the way paving the way for a four-game win streak, the first time Central State had more than back-to-back wins in 27 years for the program, and included a victory over FCS Mississippi Valley.

Originally hailing from Wildwood in Missouri, Coach Blevins is no stranger to the Big Sky Conference with previous stints at Northern Colorado and Cal Davis. He graduated from Colorado Mesa in 2012 and is married to his wife Morgan. The couple are proud parents of Olivia.

DIRECTOR OF FOOTBALL S&C AND TEAM CULTURE

With over three decades of work in the weight room, Coach Pit's humble beginning was in rural Idaho where he was part of a 26-member high school graduating class. He would walk on to Boise State, later earning a scholarship, three varsity letters, and anchored the offensive line as a two-year starter at Center culminating in a 10-4 season in 1990 that saw Boise State reach the NCAA Division I-AA semifinals.

Following his playing career, he immediately went to work in the weight room, working as a GA at Minnesota while obtaining his Master's Degree, and would attain his first full-time strength and conditioning position at Montana State. Following time at San Jose State University, responsible for strength and speed for all varsity sports, Pitman returned to his alma mater beginning under head coach Dirk Koetter and eventually Dan Hawkins. After helping Coach Hawkins to a 31-game WAC winning streak and four straight WAC titles the duo moved onto the University of Colorado.

A stint at Western Carolina as Head Strength and Conditioning followed, but a former Boise State quarterback and colleague, Bryan Harsin would enlist Pitman's help at Arkansas State. When Coach Harsin departed Arkansas State for Boise State, Coach Pit began his second tenure this time as Director of Football Performance for the Broncos. With five 10-win seasons at Boise State, Coach Harsin was selected as Auburn's head coach in 2021 and his first hire in the SEC: Jeff Pitman.

Throughout his storied career, Coach Pit has produced numerous NFL draft picks, helping launching over 100 professional football careers, and he holds Level One USA Weightlifting Club Coaching certification and National Strength and Conditioning Association (NCSA) certification. In addition to being a primary catalyst in the expansion of the Jared Allen weight room, Pitman's greatest contributions have been through increased hydration, recovery, and enhanced nutrition for the Bengals. FOOTBALL STRENGTH ASSISTANT

Jonathan LeGrand brings one of the more unique journeys on the Idaho State staff, having served five years in the United States Marine Corps before ever stepping on a college football field.

A Dothan, Alabama native, LeGrand enlisted after high school and served from 2013-2018, earning the rank of Sergeant (E-5) while working in the PRP Security Detail Program and as an infantry rifleman. After completing his military service, he walked on at Auburn, fulfilling a longtime goal of playing college football. He appeared in his first game action against Arkansas in 2022 and served as a game captain against Texas A&M, earning SEC Academic Honor Roll recognition along the way. He was also a standout in the Auburn rugby club, helping the team win a Division 2 national championship while earning first-team all-conference honors.

LeGrand now brings that same discipline and competitive drive to Idaho State, where he serves as an assistant sports performance coach working with both the football and track & field programs, holding a Master's in Education with an emphasis in Positive Coaching.

JARRETT MEEKER
CHIEF OF STAFF

Jarrett Meeker is the Idaho State Bengals' Chief of Staff.

An Ohio native, Meeker began his coaching career while still an undergraduate at Bluffton University. Extremely tech-savvy, Meeker was instrumental in hiring and training the Bluffton film staff — a skill set that has proven valuable throughout his career — while also uploading and intercutting film, monitoring on-field substitutions, and leading recruiting tours of campus.

After graduating in 2021, Meeker was elevated by his alma mater to a Graduate Assistant position focused on tight ends, helping two freshmen develop into starters. He helped manage the equipment room, implemented tight end individual drills, and recruited the Central Michigan and Northwest Ohio areas, all while ascending to JV head coach and running the defensive and special teams scout units. He is also well-versed in the Academic Index, the standard deviation-based evaluation process used by Ivy League institutions.

That familiarity served him well when he arrived in Western New York before fall camp in 2022, joining Ivy League affiliate Cornell as an offensive analyst and assistant quarterbacks coach. He was part of a staff that produced the Big Red's best on-field record in a decade, assisting with offensive game planning and opponent scouting reports while overseeing scout team responsibilities and aiding official visits and on-campus recruiting.

Meeker joined Idaho State in the spring of 2023 as Video Coordinator, overseeing the Bengals' XOS Thunder Cloud technological operations and coordinating the filming of practices and games. He worked closely with the offensive line and helped identify opponent stunts and pressures from the press box, while also playing a key role in camps and clinics. In 2024, Meeker was promoted to Chief of Staff, a role in which he now oversees the day-to-day operations of the football office — coordinating scheduling and communications on behalf of Coach Hawkins, managing administrative support for the assistant coaching staff, and helping guide the program's broader strategic planning.

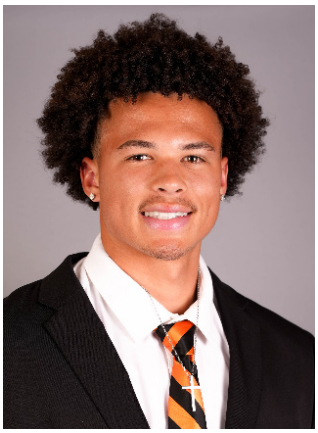

BLAKE MOORE
DIRECTOR OF PLAYER PERSONNEL AND VIDEO

Blake Moore brings a well-rounded operations and video background to his role leading Idaho State's video department, having previously served as director of football operations at Averett University, a position he took on in July 2021.

A Spokane, Washington native, Moore got his start in college football as a student assistant with Washington State from 2017-19, part of a staff that reached three consecutive bowl games and set the program's single-season win record at 11-2. He also gained valuable video and evaluation experience working with Sports Info Solutions as a football video scout, entering data for NFL and NCAA games and assessing college talent through the organization's "Scout School," along with operations experience with the Spokane Indians minor league baseball club.

Moore graduated from Washington State with a bachelor's degree in sport management and a minor in business, and went on to pursue his MBA from Averett before making the move to Idaho State to lead the Bengals' video operations.

Did you know?

Did you know that Idaho State and Utah State, two programs separated by just 90 miles, once opened a football season on the other side of the world? On September 2, 1978, as part of a cultural exchange, the Bengals and Aggies traveled halfway around the globe to kick off the year in Osaka, Japan. The jet lag showed: ISU dropped a sloppy 10-0 decision to Utah State, then got shut out again the following week once they made it back stateside. The Bengals finally found the win column in their home opener, topping Portland State 27-13.

Did you know?

Did You Know? One of the wildest finishes in the ISU-Southern Utah series came on Nov. 16, 1991, in Cedar City. Trailing 35-21 in the fourth quarter on a snow-soaked field, Idaho State QB Trevor Cavanaugh led an 8-for-8 passing surge on the game's final drive, capping an 85-yard march with an 11-yard touchdown pass to WR Al Smith and then finding Smith again on the two-point conversion to tie the game 35-35 with just 41 seconds left. Southern Utah's offense was built entirely on the ground that day, with all five T-Bird touchdowns coming via the run and the Thunderbirds out-rushing ISU 270-92, but it wasn't enough to hold off Cavanaugh's late-game heroics and the game ended in a 35-35 tie, the only one of the series, and the last in ISU History before the tiebreaker rule was implemented in 1996

In a 1987 non-conference thriller at the Minidome, Idaho State rallied from a 14-4 first-quarter deficit against Portland State to force a wild 24-24 tie. the Vikings connected on a desperation 49-yard touchdown pass with just 1:29 left, but the Bengals answered with a late touchdown and two-point conversion of their own to knot the score. A late-game malfunction with the officials' wireless whistle system added to the chaos, briefly stopping play before Idaho State ran out the clock on the deadlock in front of a crowd of 7,325. One of the last ties in Idaho State football history

Series Notes

Founding Big Sky members Idaho State and Montana meet once again on the field in 2026, the 63rd meeting, a series that, while dominated by the Griz, have produced nailbiters in four of the last 5 meetings, all being one score games.

Montana leads the series 13-49 and Idaho State has to, once again, go into Wa-Griz ready for a fight. The Griz homefield advantage has been apparent with the Bengals never bringing home a win from that stadium.

About Idaho State University

Idaho State University President Dr. Robert Wagner

The Idaho State Board of Education has named Robert W. Wagner as the next president of Idaho State University. He begins January 29, 2024.

Dr. Wagner is the Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer at Utah State University. A 16-year veteran at USU, Dr. Wagner has overseen various facets of the institution's operations including strategic initiatives, student success, innovative academic programming, scholarship fundraising, marketing and student recruiting and retention. He recently co-chaired the development of USU's first strategic plan in 20 years. He also led USU's online delivery programs, within a multi-campus system and nationwide, which have been ranked in the top 25 in the nation for eight consecutive years by U.S. News and World Report.

Prior to his current position, Dr. Wagner also served in various other positions at USU including Vice President of Academic and Instruction Services and Executive Vice Provost and Dean.

Dr. Wagner holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from State University of New York at Albany, a Master of Public Administration from the University of Utah and a Bachelor of Science in Psychology from Brigham Young University. He has also completed programs in leadership at Harvard University and Arizona State University.

"My own experiences as a student instilled in me a compassion for every student who has embarked on the arduous, demanding and rewarding journey of pursuing a college degree," said Dr. Wagner. "During my career, I feel honored to have witnessed the grit and success of many students who achieved noble goals while conquering individually unique difficulties. One of my challenges was being a non-traditional student, balancing family and work in pursuit of education and opportunity. My wife and I earned our bachelor's degrees with one young child, I earned my master's degree with four small children at home and my doctorate degree with a family of five children while living two thousand miles away from extended family and friends."

Dr. Wagner and his wife, Tracy, have five adult children and three grandchildren.

"To the faculty, staff, and alumni of all of Idaho State University's campuses, across this great state and even reaching Alaska; and to the diverse and vibrant populations and people whose history makes our collaborations richer and more meaningful – I pledge to you my unwavering support and dedication to this great institution," said Dr. Wagner. "And to our students - you are why we are here. ISU will continue to be a student-centric university, finding innovative ways of supporting students and providing the highest caliber education with a focus on affordability, relevance and impact."

Idaho State Director of Athletics Pauline Thiros

After a four-month national competitive search, President Kevin Satterlee announced Pauline Thiros as Idaho State's new Athletic Director.

"We have chosen the right leader who will take Bengal Athletics to the next level," Satterlee said. "I have been impressed with Pauline's ability to enact change and build a culture of excellence. The future vision of Idaho State Athletics will be one that places an utmost value on integrity, always striving for excellence, and a constant focus on creating a positive and inclusive community."

Thiros has held a variety of positions at the University during her 23-year-career. Most recently, she was the associate vice president of development. Thiros began her career at ISU as an assistant volleyball coach and recruiting coordinator in 1995. She played volleyball at ISU and was named All Big Sky Conference Academic Athlete of the Year in 1994. She was inducted to the ISU Sports Hall of Fame in 2006. Thiros began serving as interim athletic director in August 2018.

"I am excited to have this opportunity to serve the University and community I love," Thiros said. "Together, with our dedicated athletics staff, we will build on Idaho State's legacy and create an athletics program we can all be very proud of. ISU will be a force in the Big Sky Conference, and our student-athletes will achieve academic and athletic success. We are going to embrace and reward this community's long support."

Under Thiros' leadership, the Bengals have embarked on a new era of construction and growth in the athletic department including a $12 million dollar rennovation of Davis Field, a $20+ million dollar rennovation of the ICCU Dome, a rennovated weight room, a Bengal fueiling station and increased cost of attendnace for all student athletes on campus.

Big Sky History
The Big Sky Conference completed its 62nd year overall and 37th year of women's competition during the 2024-25 academic year.

The Conference was established in 1963 by six charter members – Idaho, Idaho State, Gonzaga, Montana, Montana State and Weber State. The name originated in a novel written by A.B. Guthrie of Great Falls, MT, titled "The Big Sky". The six presidents of the charter members adopted the name "Big Sky" for their new conference on February 25, 1963.

With 149 teams representing 12 institutions in 15 sports (six men's, nine women's), the Big Sky prides itself on its "#ExperienceElevated" platform that emphasizes the unique traits and lifelong benefits that the conference and its member institutions provide to around 3,300 student-athletes each year. The conference has 10 full members (Eastern Washington University; the University of Idaho; Idaho State University; the University of Montana; Montana State University; Northern Arizona University; the University of Northern Colorado; Portland State University; California State University, Sacramento; and Weber State University) located in eight states across the western United States, plus two football affiliate members (California Polytechnic State University and the University of California, Davis).

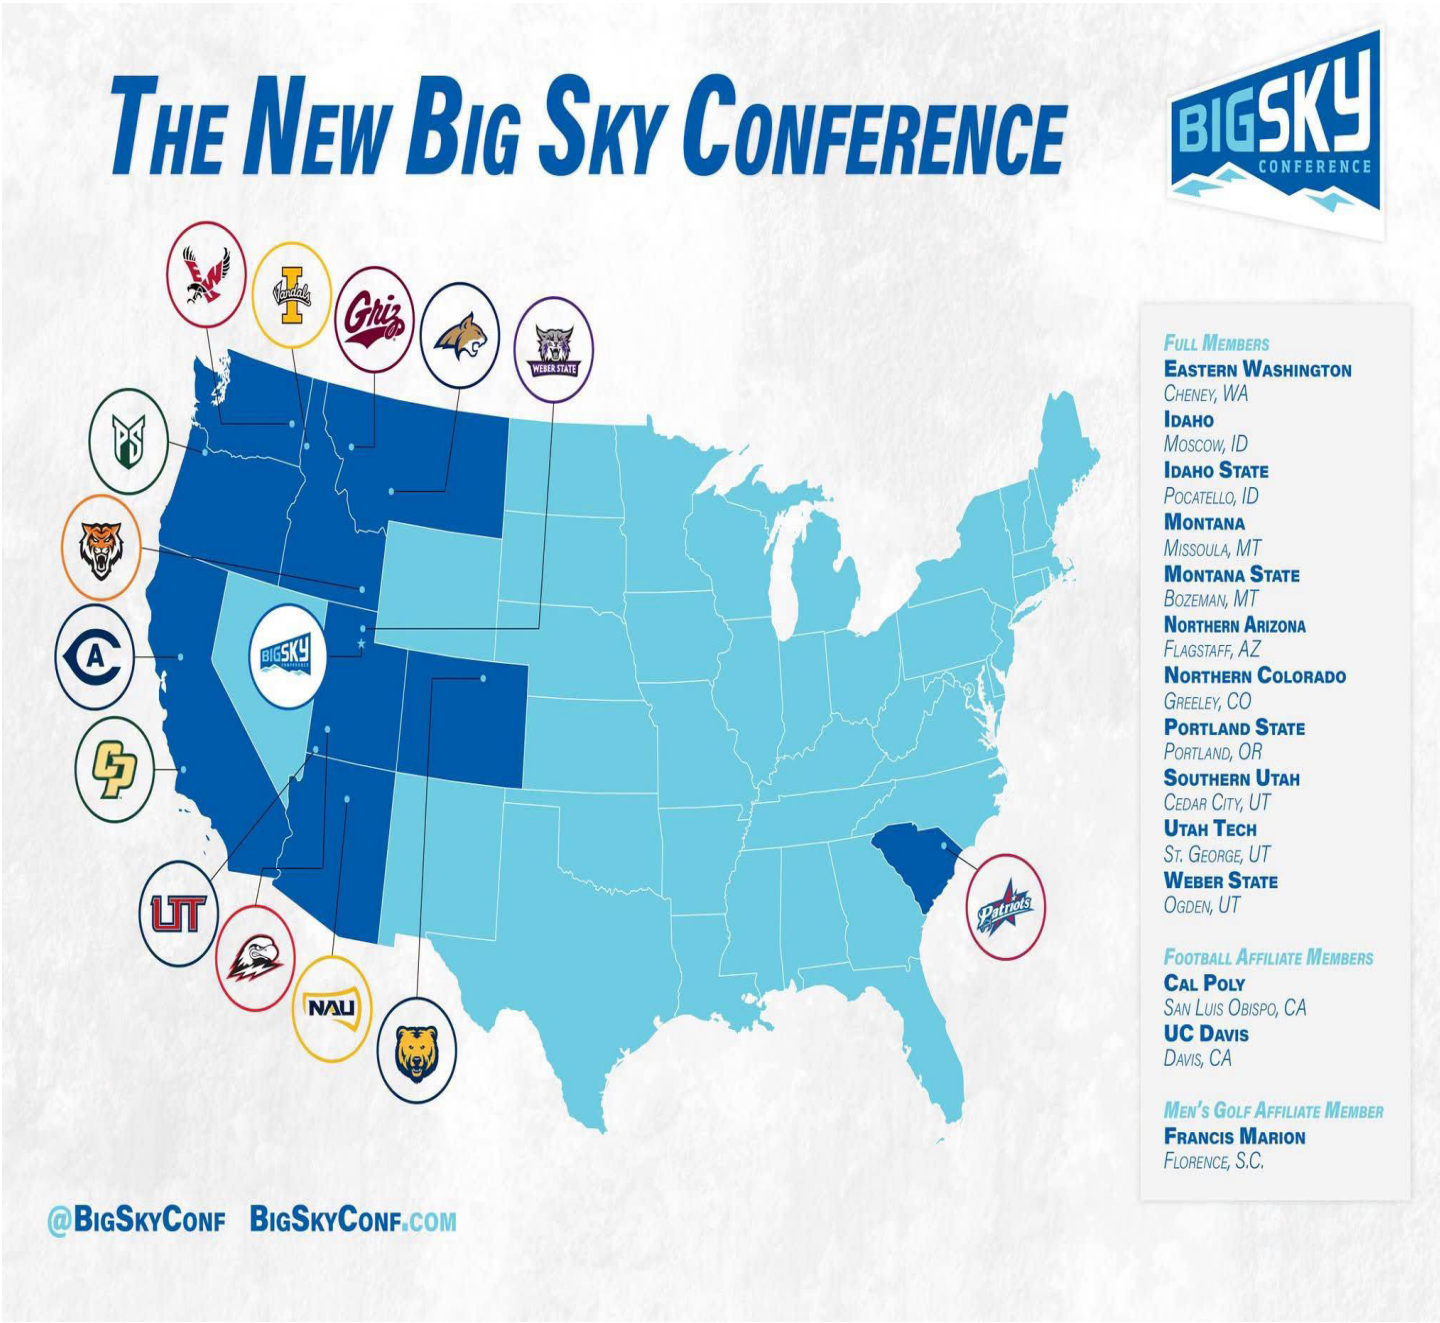

Conference members have won 13 NCAA national championships, including seven in football by five different members as well as six of the last eight men's cross country titles by NAU.
