IUP HEAD COACH PAUL TORTORELLA

Paul Tortorella enters his eighth season at the helm of the Crimson Hawks in 2025 and has put together the best start by any head coach in program history.

The 2025 season marks the 31st overall season at IUP for Tortorella. He is 61-19 at IUP since taking over as head coach in 2017, winning seven or more games in a season six times.

The Crimson Hawks secured a 14th consecutive winning season in 2024 with a 7-3 overall record.

Over the last few seasons, IUP has been well represented in the professional ranks. In 2024, the Crimson Hawks had a pair of former players on NFL rosters - Irvin Charles (Jets) and Dondrea Tillman (Broncos).

The 2022 PSAC West Coach of the Year, Tortorella helped the Crimson Hawks to a sterling 10-2 record that included a PSAC Championship and a bye in the opening round of the 2022 NCAA DII Football Playoffs.

Tortorella reached 30 wins faster than any other coach in IUP history, hitting the mark in just 35 games during the 2019 season. College Football Hall of Famer and legendary IUP head coach Frank Cignetti (1985-2005) took 38 games to reach his first 30 victories back in the mid '80s.

Through his first six seasons, Tortorella posted a 55-14 (.797) overall record with three NCAA playoff berths; regional, two PSAC and two division titles; and a 10-5 record against ranked opponents. The .797 win percentage is the fifth-best mark of any Division III team and best of any PSAC program - during that time.

He's earned Division II, Super Region One, and two PSAC West Coach of the Year honors.

Tortorella also had the Crimson Hawks ranked in the top-25 in 50 of the possible 64 national polls during his first five seasons, including three-week run at No. 1 in the media poll during the 2017 season.

IUP began the 2022 season with seven consecutive victories, notching a 10-2 mark overall. The Hawks won the PSAC Western division with key victories over rival Slippery Rock and Cal U throughout the season, advancing to the "State Game."

The Crimson Hawks held off Shepherd for a 24-21 victory at rainy Miller Stadium on November 12, 2022. The Crimson Hawks recorded two shutout victories in 2022, eventually earning the top seed and a bye in the 2022 NCAA DII Super Region One Playoffs. IUP opened its playoff run with a 19-13 home victory against Ashland on November 26, 2022 at Miller Stadium.

Tortorella got his coaching start on the prep level in 1985, serving as linebackers coach at Mount Lebanon High School. He then began a nine-year stint as an assistant coach at a pair of Division I universities, including six at Maryland and three at Akron.

During his career, Tortorella has coached two players who went on to successful NFL careers. Defensive back Victor Green (Akron) played with the New York Jets from 1993-2001, the New England Patriots in 2002 and the New Orleans Saints in 2003 while tight end Frank Wycheck (Maryland) retired after the 2003 season following an 11-year pro career which saw him catch 505 passes.

Tortorella is a 1985 graduate of Slippery Rock with a bachelor's degree in health and physical education. He and his wife, Michele, are the parents of Luke, Annalise, Zachary and Michael.

ENDOWED SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

The endowments listed below have been established and have created a permanent legacy of support for IUP Athletics. Endowed gifts are invested and managed by the Foundation for IUP in perpetuity. A portion of the investment earnings are awarded for scholarships, while the original gifts are preserved as principal to grow over time. In this way, endowed gifts have great earning power — a one-time gift lasts forever. For this reason, many donors choose to name endowments in honor of a family member, an influential professor, a coach or mentor, or to create a personal legacy. If you are interested in learning more, contact David Maudie, Executive Director for Development and Planned Giving at 724-357-2243 or david.maudie@iup.edu. IUP Athletics thanks the following individuals and organizations who have invested in the future of IUP's student-athletes by creating an endowment.

After his graduation from IUP in 1965 with a degree in mathematics education, Whitey became a teacher and football coach, ultimately serving as the wrestling coach at Dickinson College. He played for the IUP football team for four seasons as a running safety and was chosen as a member of the All 70's Team as a defensive back. He is currently a financial advisor at Merrill Lynch. One of Nick's favorite memories of playing football in the 70's was the game - day ritual. After pre-game warmup drills, the entire team would gather in the locker room beneath George P. Miller Stadium to check their equipment, gather their thoughts, and await the coach's pep talk. Back then, they were known as the "Big Indians" and the IUP marching band would come down Fisher Hill playing the fight song, "Cherokee," which would get the team's adrenaline pumping. They would then file out to the edge of the field for the late, great Marv Goslin to announce the starting lineup one by one, followed by, "and now here is Coach Neal and the Rest of the Big Indians!" The "Rest of the Big Indians" came to be known as the "RBIs," which symbolizes the team mates who practiced hard and prepared to be ready when their opportunity came along. The starting lineup couldn't perform to their potential without the help of their backups, coaches, and the supporting cast. As with most things, the best results come from organizations that pull together and work as a team. Mr. Palombi is so thankful for the opportunity to have played at IUP with the "RBIs" and hopes that the Nick Palombi "RBI" Football Scholarship will help another young man pursue his dreams, too!

C.J. Spadafora's family has a long history in the Indian community. His grandfather, Cecil Spadafora, started a car dealership business in Indian in 1946 featuring Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs. In 1973, C.J.'s father and uncle, Chuck Spadafora and W.H. Spadafora, returned to Indian to take over the family business and grew from one location to three. Then in 2000, C.J., the third generation of Spadafora's, returned to the Indian area and worked with his father until his passing in August 2019. The Spadafora's have a long legacy of supporting IUP Athletics. Their family created one of the first IUP Football endowments and established the annual Cecil Spadafora's Golf Invitational. C.J. and his family feel that without the Indian and IUP communities, their business wouldn't have thrived and achieved the success it has to date. C.J. feels very fortunate of what IUP has made possible for him and his family and wants to give back to the community by supporting the IUP Swim Team and future generations of student athletes through the Spadafora IUP Swim Team Enhancement Fund.

CRIMSON HAWKS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The IUP department of athletics is committed to building nationally competitive athletic programming by providing a premier student-athlete experience with championship-level resources necessary to compete in the field of play, in the classroom, and in our community.

With that vision in mind, it is essential for IUP varsity programs to recruit and develop high-caliber student-athletes; those who can excel in all phases of life and athletic competition. In order to be successful, it is paramount that we continue to work towards delivering a premier student-athlete experience that includes excellent academic and collaborative support services, competitive operating resources, and first-rate athletic facilities and accommodations for competition, practice, training, recovery and nutrition.

Our student-athletes come to campus from all areas of the state, from across the country, and different parts of the world. They boast diverse backgrounds, cultures, experiences, and are attracted to the IUP campus and athletic experience due to the academics, promise of social growth, and opportunity to compete for and win championships. This is made possible by the philanthropic support we receive from former student-athletes, external constituents, and our university.

With more of our varsity programs competing on the national level, combined with the addition of numerous outside events each year, a direct economic impact will be felt by our department, the university, and the Indiana community, and can serve as a point of pride for our IUP alumni.

We appreciate your support of Crimson Hawk Athletics, your dedication to our premier student-athlete experience and the championship culture we aspire to attain on an annual basis. In support of IUP Athletics vision, we are asking that you join us and be a part of achieving our goals this academic year.

Thank you,
