New Orleans

The Crescent City

The History of New Orleans reads like a fantastic novel.

In 1718, the Sieurs d'Iberville and de Bienville founded a port city near the juncture of the Mississippi River and the Gulf of Mexico. The city was named La Nouvelle Orleans after Philippe, Duc d'Orleans, and centered around the Place d'Armes (Jackson Square). The area was then confined to what is now known as the French Quarter (Vieux Carre).

The society who first inhabited the area was French in origin. However, in 1762, Louis XIV gave Louisiana to his Spanish cousin, King Charles III. Before the end of a short Spanish reign, the French Quarter suffered significant structural damage due to a fire that destroyed the city. Much of the original French architecture was replaced by Spanish styles. Soon thereafter, Louisiana was ceded back to France and was finally sold by Napoleon Bonaparte to the United States as part of the Louisiana Purchase in 1803.

Since its infancy and through the ownership of three different nations, New Orleans has evolved into one of the most unique cities in the world. A mix of European, African, Caribbean and American influences, the Big Easy has its own atmosphere.

Everything from the music to the architecture to the food is a delight to the senses.

When most people think of New Orleans, the first thing that comes to mind is the world famous French Quarter, known to the natives as the Vieux Carré (the old square). An amalgamation of stunning French and Spanish architecture, the Quarter is a natural gathering place for residents and visitors alike. And with a wide variety of restaurants, shops and entertainment, anyone who doesn't enjoy a trip to the Vieux Carré simply isn't trying.

Just to the west of the French Quarter is the Garden District. Along with a beautiful and historic collection of mansion homes, the Garden District is also home to the campus of Tulane University.

New Orleans is one of the world's most extraordinary cities. Star-studded events like Mardi Gras and Jazz Fest draw thousands of visitors to the city each year. World-class museums display renowned artworks and artifacts. Shopping options range from vintage shops and antique stores to high-end boutiques and galleries. Sports fans can find something to cheer for year-round with New Orleans' many professional teams. The educational experience at Tulane University is interwoven with this rich cultural tapestry.

New Orleans' line-up of sporting events and sports venues is sure to live up to every fan's expectations. The city is home to several sports teams showcasing premier events in football, basketball, baseball and soccer including the Saints, Pelicans, Baby Cakes and the Jesters. The state of Louisiana, "known as the "Sportsman's Paradise," is also renowned for its fishing and hunting hot spots.

New Orleans recently hosted a succession of unprecedented sporting events making the Crescent City the sports capital of the nation with such events such as the 2012 BCS National Championship, 2012 NCAA Men's Basketball Final Four, 2013 Super Bowl, 2013 NCAA Women's Final Four, 2015 College Football Playoff National Semifinal game, 2017 NBA All-Star Weekend and the annual Allstate Sugar Bowl, R+L Carriers New Orleans Bowl and Bayou Classic.

Over the last two years, the city has hosted the College Football Playoff National Championship (2020), the NCAA Men's Final Four (2022) and the Louisiana Kickoff Classic (2022) with plans to host Super Bowl LVIII (2024).
