The 2007 Lions:

THIS IS THE YEAR

LMU volleyball returns six starters plus its libero. And Lion fans return with hope for a fourth NCAA appearance in five seasons.

After a 2006 season that saw Head Coach Steve Stratos coach his 500th career match and Heather Hughes earn All-West Coast Conference honors for the third straight year, the Loyola Marymount University volleyball team will look to return to the top of the West Coast Conference in 2007.

2006 Review

With an overall record of 19-12, the 2006 Lions posted their 17th consecutive winning season under Stratos. The Lions got off to an impressive start to their 2006 campaign, winning 12 of their first 15 matches, including a road victory over then-12th-ranked Santa Clara and a 10-match winning streak that lasted throughout most of September.

LMU then hit some roadblocks during conference play in the highly competitive WCC, losing five matches to nationally-ranked opponents. Despite a 5-9 conference record, they were rewarded for some impressive individual performances. Three times in 2006, the Lions were awarded WCC Player of the Week honors, as Emily Day received the award on November 27, and Heather Hughes earned it twice, on September 11 and October 23. Hughes and fellow junior Christianna Reneau both earned further WCC accolades, when they were named first-team and honorable mention selections respectively.

Head Coach Steve Stratos

Stratos completed his 17th season at the helm of the program with a 17th straight winning season, coaching his 500th career match in the process. In his tenure at LMU, Stratos has led the Lions to nine 20-win seasons and 11 postseason appearances. He has posted a career record of 343-165, the most victories in LMU volleyball history and second among current WCC coaches. His .675 winning percentage also places him among the top-50 active Division I coaches. In conference play, he has accumulated 162 wins, which again ranks him second among active WCC coaches.

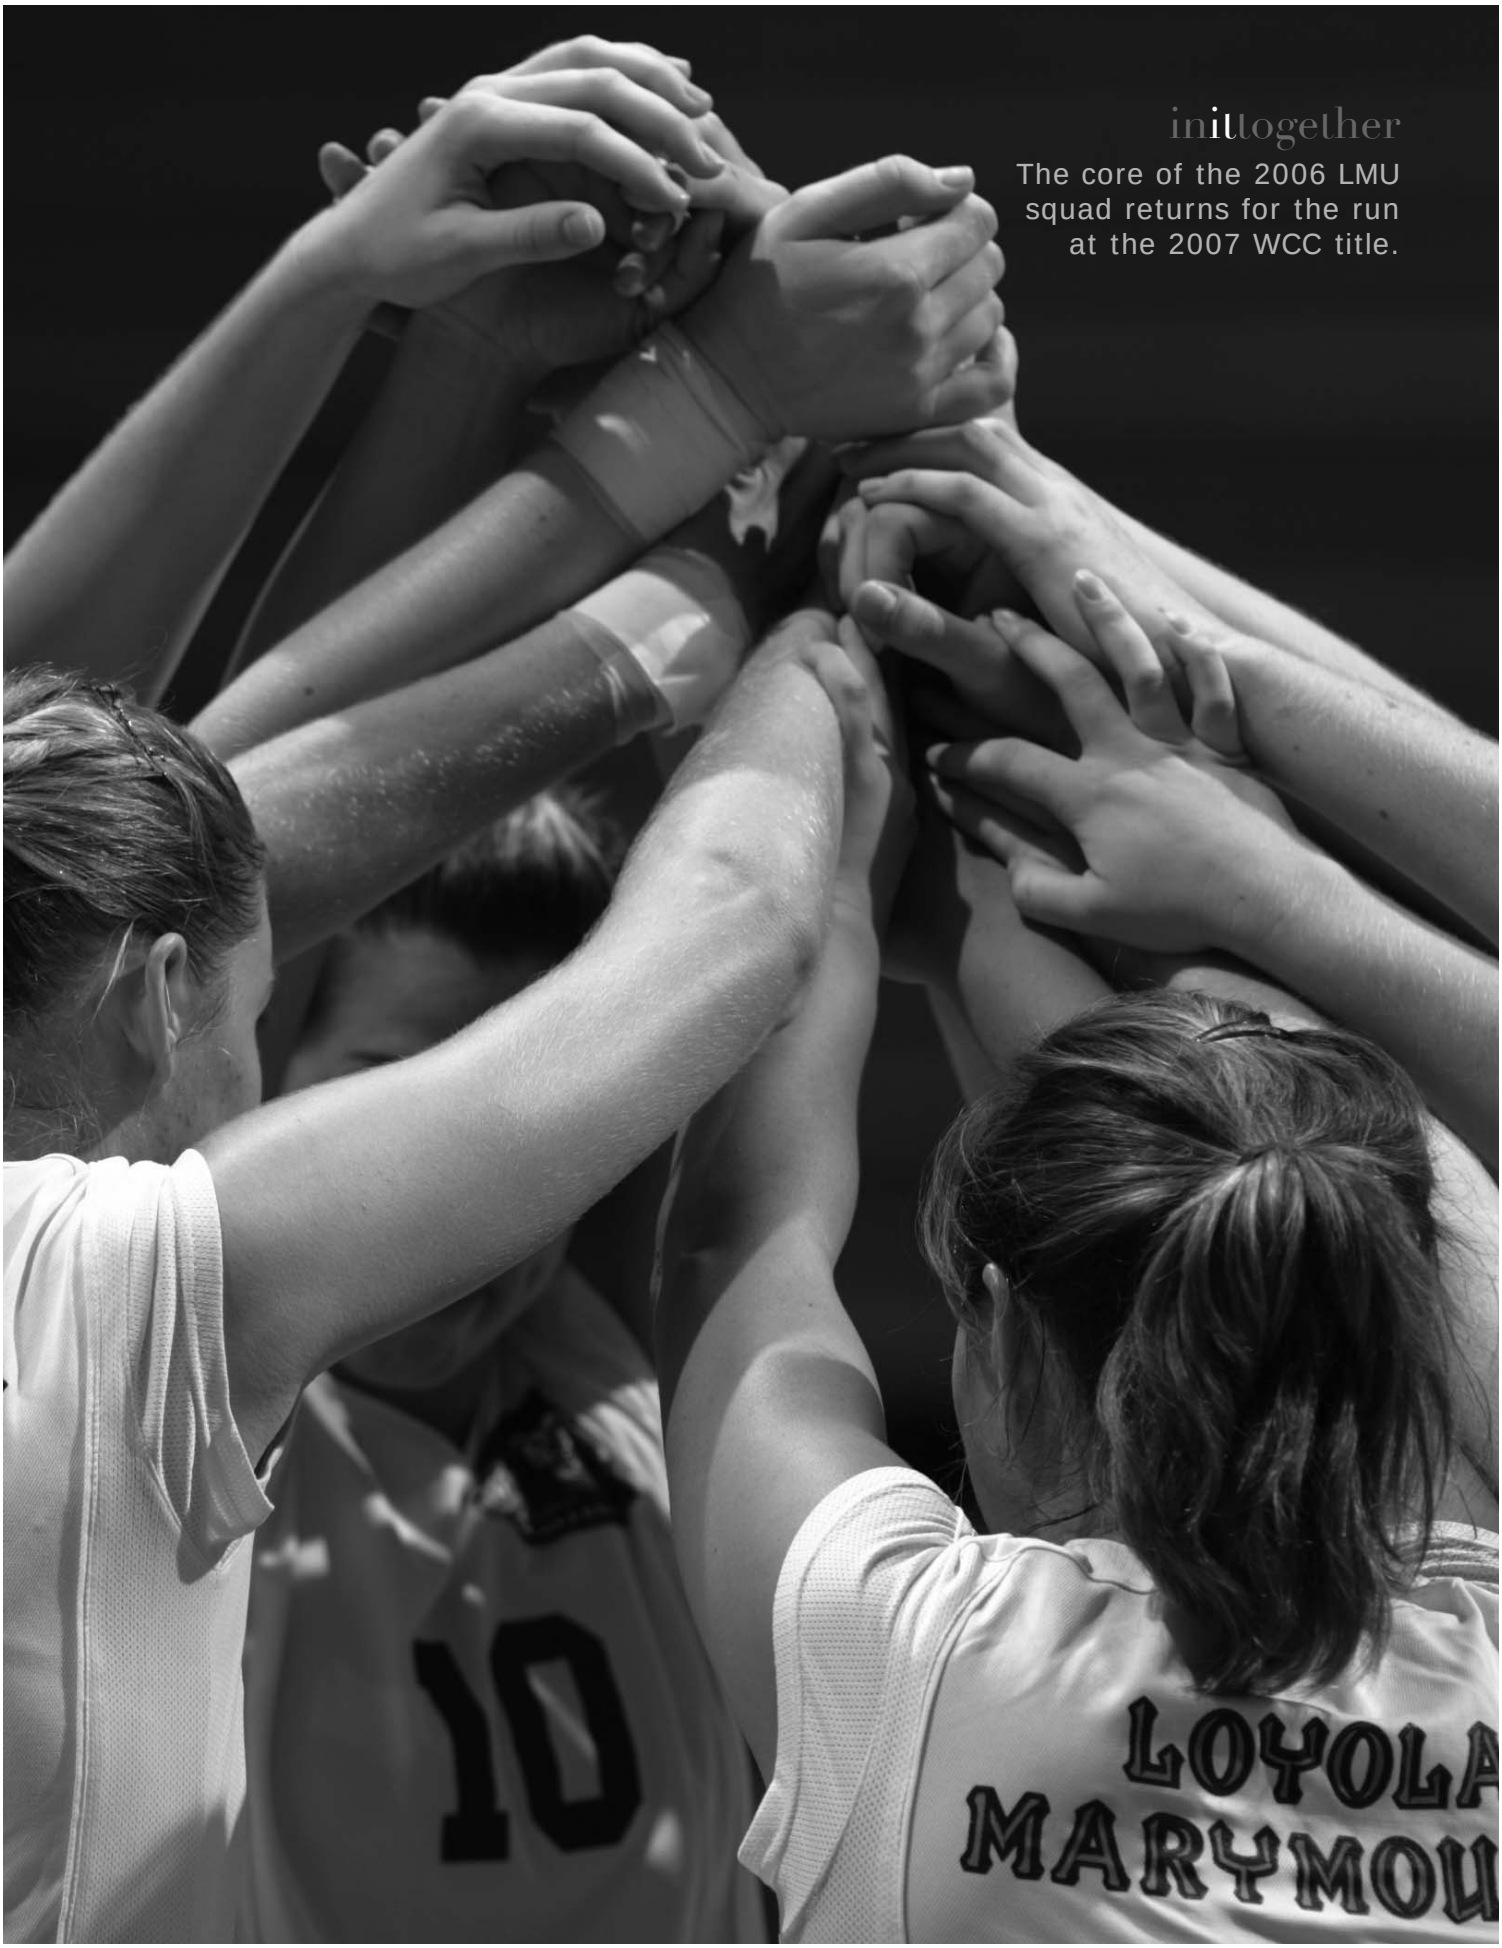

Class of 2006

With the departure of graduated seniors Sandy Krone and Cat Svorinich, the Lions will have some major shoes to fill in 2007. Most notably, the Lions will be without the leadership of Krone, the 2006 co-captain. Krone had the best season of her LMU career in 2006, starting 30 matches and posting career-highs in nearly every statistical category. She was also named the LMU Female Strength Athlete of the Year for the second consecutive year. Svorinich also had her most productive season for the Lions, playing in all but two matches seeing time at both setter and libero.

The 2007 LMU Lions

This year, led by a group of experienced and talented returners and a few highly-touted newcomers, the Lions will try to improve upon a sixth place finish in the WCC and return to the NCAA tournament. LMU will look to seniors and All-WCC selections Hughes and Reneau to continue the legacy of 17 consecutive winning seasons and get the Lions into the NCAA tournament for the fourth time in five seasons. Hughes and Reneau, the team leaders in digs and kills in 2006, highlight a veteran squad that also features seniors Ashley Dutro and Jania Motton, and juniors Day and Lauren Kirk, all of whom figure to be major contributors in 2007.

in it together

The core of the 2006 LMU squad returns for the run at the 2007 WCC title.

Newcomers

Coach Stratos and his staff have put together a roster that includes three new options for the Lions in freshmen Whitney Leonard, Renee Horton, and Liberty McEntee. Leonard comes to the program from Archbishop Mitty High School, where she won a state championship in 2004. Leonard was an All-WCAL and All-American libero last season, and will likely compete for the starting job.

"We have been recruiting Whitney for many years knowing that she's one of the very best liberos in the nation in her class," Stratos said. "She has done nothing but win for the last three years, both at Archbishop Mitty and with her volleyball club. We are happy that she's bringing that experience with her into our program."

Horton is a setter from Wildomar, Calif., and will also likely compete for a starting position in 2007. She was a four-year varsity starter, a two-time All-Sunbelt League selection, and a first-team All-CIF selection.

"Renee, as an incoming freshman, may be the best pure setter that we've ever had come into LMU," Stratos said. "We've had a number of great setters in our program, and we feel that Renee is going to end up being one of the top setters by the time she leaves, in terms of her accomplishments."

Liberty McEntee also joins the Lions after an impressive high school career. A defensive specialist, McEntee started for three years at Rosary High School and was twice named All-Serra League.

"Like Whitney and Renee, Liberty has a bright future in our program," Stratos said.

The 2007 LMU Lineup

The three newcomers join a program that returns six starters plus the libero, losing just one starter to graduation in Krone. Although the 2007 Lions were picked to finish fourth in the WCC standings, this year's lineup gives them impressive depth at several positions and allows the coaches to consistently have veteran players on the court.

Outside Hitter

Familiar faces return to the Lions this year at outside hitter. Led by All-WCC honorable mention pick Reneau and WCC All-Academic selection Day, the returners give the coaches strong options outside. Reneau recorded double-digit kills in 28 of LMU's 31 matches last year and posted 13 statistical double-doubles. Meanwhile, Day reached the double-digit kill mark in 19 matches. Sophomore Morgan Kelly played in 10 matches last year and is another option outside for the Lions in 2007.

Opposite

The 2007 season will mark Hughes' fourth year as a starter for the Lions, and she will once again play opposite the setter. She led the team in kills, digs, and service aces in 2007. Hughes posted a team-high 20 double-doubles, and recorded double-digit kills in 24 consecutive matches. The first team All-WCC selection is the Lions' sparkplug and team leader on the floor.

Setter

LMU fans will be able to enjoy the battle for the starting setter position in 2007, because the Lions have two talented options in the senior Dutro and freshman Horton. Dutro took over the primary setting duties last season and went on to lead the team in assists. She had double-digit assists in every match, and eclipsed the 40-assist mark 10 times.

Horton comes in to the program highly-touted, and the coaches feel that she is a very gifted setter who will have an immediate impact on the program.

Defensive Specialist/Libero

The Lions find themselves with an impressive amount of depth at the defensive specialist position this year. Lauren Kirk was the primary libero in 2006 and enters this season as the favorite for the starting job. She tallied double-digit digs in 11 matches. Kirk will compete with a talented crop of young players that includes newcomers Leonard and McEntee. Returning sophomore Tina Moger will also likely see time as a defensive specialist.

Middle Blocker

The Lions have several veteran options at middle blocker this season. Senior Jania Motton and sophomore Megan Nash both saw substantial time starting in the middle in 2006. Motton was second among the Lions in blocks and Nash was second in attack percentage in 2006. They will likely be joined in the middle by returners Erin Downey, Lindsay Banas, and Becky Stehling, in what should be a deep position for the Lions in 2007.

2007 Schedule

Lion fans always see an impressive schedule for LMU volleyball, and this year will be no different. The Lions will play eight matches against teams ranked in the 2007 AVCA Preseason Top-25 poll, and 12 matches against teams that qualified for last year's NCAA tournament. An additional five matches will come against teams earning votes in the preseason poll.

The Lions will play in four tournaments again this season, two of which they will host at Gersten Pavilion, where the Lions posted a 12-5 record in 2006. LMU will also travel to USC and Pacific for tournaments against some of the nation's top teams. The tournament setting has proved a lucrative one for the Lions recently, as LMU has racked up a 9-0 record on neutral floors since 2004.

And as always, the Lions will also have to contend with a tough schedule in the extremely competitive West Coast Conference. For four straight seasons, at least three WCC programs have qualified for the NCAA tournament. In 2007, LMU will look to be among that group as they begin their quest for a fifth WCC crown.

A 2003 LMU Hall of Fame honoree, House proved to be one of LMU's great athletes in two seasons with the Lions. A two-time All-WCC first-team selection, House was the first LMU volleyball player to earn Volleyball Magazine All-America honorable mention accolades. She still ranks first among LMU's all-time leaders in career dig average (4.89 dpg), season dig average (5.36 dpg - 1990), single-season attacks (1,898 - 1990) and digs (740 - 1990). Following her senior campaign, House was also honored as LMU's Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year. Her career dig average still ranks third all-time in the NCAA record book.

Tracy Holman

- 1994-1997

A 2005 LMU Hall of Fame honoree, Holman became the all-time career assist leader (5,362 assists, 13.24 apg) at LMU and second in WCC history. After leading LMU to its third-straight WCC title as a junior, she earned Volleyball Magazine All-America honorable mention accolades. She was a four-time All-WCC first-team selection and started her career as the 1994 WCC Freshman of the Year. Holman was honored on the AVCA All-West Region second-team in 1994 and the All-District VIII team in 1996. Upon graduation, she was named the WCC and LMU Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year, an honor she also earned at LMU in 1996-97.

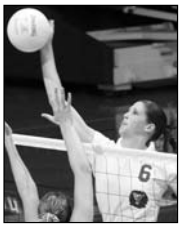

Julie Greer

- 1992-1995

Following her senior season, LMU's Julie Greer became the second women's volleyball athlete to earn Volleyball Magazine All-America honorable mention accolades. In 1995, Greer ranked 15th in the nation in attack percentage (.388) and led the team in block average (1.15 bpg). Greer also earned All-District VIII honors and was named WCC Co-Player of the Year as a senior.

Kelli Nerison

- 2001-2004

A breakout upperclassman career earned Nerison AVCA honorable mention All-America honors in 2003 and 2004, making her just the second Lion to receive the national distinction in back-to-back seasons. Collegiate Volleyball Update named the two-time All-WCC first-team selection one of the top five middle blockers in the nation in 2004. Also a two-time first-team AVCA All-Region pick, Nerison was a two time WCC All-Academic pick and finished her career setting 10 new program records.

Kim Blankinship

- 1993-1996

Blankinship led LMU to three WCC championships and NCAA postseason appearances. Following her senior campaign, she was named to the Volleyball Magazine All-America third-team and became the third athlete in program history to earn such an honor. In 1996, Blankinship was also named WCC Co-Player of the Year after garnering Defensive Player of the Year accolades as a junior. Blankinship was honored as the LMU Female Athlete of the Year upon graduation in 1996. She was posthumously inducted into the LMU Athletics Hall of Fame in 2007.

Sarah McFarland

- 1997-2000

McFarland, a three-time All-WCC first-team selection and two-time LMU Female Athlete of the Year (1999-2000, 2000-01), became the first athlete in program history to earn AVCA All-American honors in consecutive seasons (1999, 2000). In 1999, it was a second-team All-America selection, but by 2000, she was a first-team All-American. She led the nation in kills for two straight years, posting an incredible 762 kills in 2000. McFarland's single-season kill total is tops in the LMU and WCC record books. Her 6.43 kill per game average still ranks first in NCAA history. She had a 52-kill performance at home against No.14 Ohio State on Sept. 10, 1999, a mark that came just four shy of the NCAA five-game record of 56 kills and led her to her first of two career AVCA National Player of the Week awards. Overall, she holds five NCAA national records, the most by any one player.

Sarah Noriega

Described by many as "one of the top players in the country" during her career at LMU, Noriega elevated standards for the future of LMU women's volleyball in her four seasons with the Lions. In 1997, Noriega became the first player to earn AVCA All-America first-team honors as well as Volleyball Magazine All-America second-team accolades. She was the WCC Player of the Year in 1997 after being named an All-WCC first-team selection for the third consecutive season. Noriega was a three-time All-District VIII honoree, LMU's Female Athlete of the Year (1997-98), a participant at the U.S. Olympic Festival (1995), a World Games participant, and 2000 Olympian. In her final year as a Lion, Noriega was recognized as the AVCA National Player of the Week twice (Oct. 6 and Nov. 10). On November 7, 1997, Noriega set the NCAA record for most kills in a four-game match with 47 against San Diego, a mark which still stands today.

LMU Head Coach Steve Stratos holds high standards of excellence for his teams and players. One way to recognize his former players as exceptional athletes is with the Wall of Fame, which continues to grow in his office. Reaching the wall is not easy, with the minimum requirement for admittance being named first-team All-WCC or AVCA All-Region. From all-conference to All-American, the Wall currently showcases 15 athletes. The 15 were named first-team All-WCC a combined 31 times. Among them are seven All-Americans, three WCC Players of the Year and seven AVCA All-Region honorees.

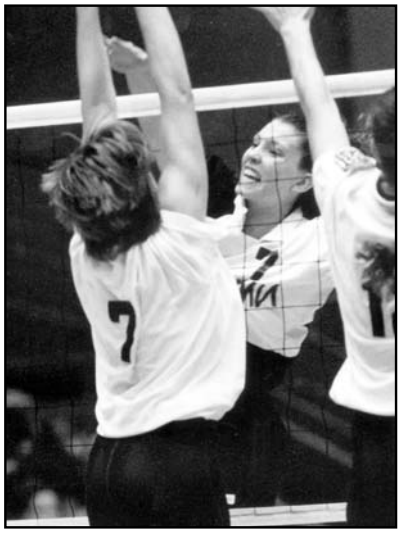

Dana Bragado (1989-1992) earned first-team All-WCC during her senior season, leading the league in hitting percentage at .379. She still ranks among the school's top-10 in five statistical categories. Following her LMU career, Bragado went on to a very successful career on the AVP circuit.

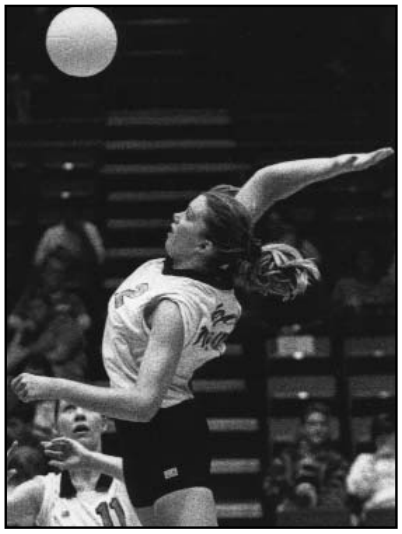

Kerry House (1989-1990) was a two-time All-WCC first-team selection and became the first LMU player to earn Volleyball Magazine All-America honorable mention. She ranks first among LMU's all-time leaders in career and season dig average, single-season attacks and digs. After her senior year, House was also honored as LMU's Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

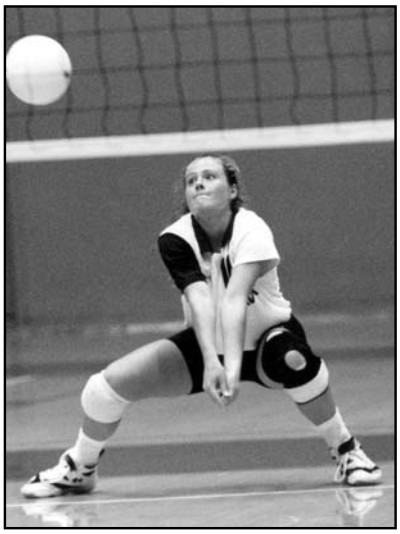

Deanna Doolittle (1990-1993) was named first-team All-WCC following her sophomore season after earning All-WCC freshman team accolades in 1990. She holds the school record with 1,440 career digs and is fifth all-time with 1,274 kills.

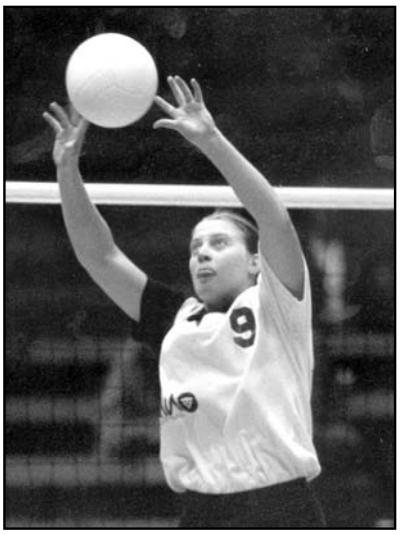

Julie Greer (1992-1995) was a two-time first-team All-WCC selection in 1994 and 1995 and following her senior season, became the second LMU athlete to earn Volleyball Magazine All-American honorable mention accolades. In 1995, Greer ranked 15th in the nation in attack percentage (.388) and led the team in block average (1.15 bpg). Greer also earned All-District VIII honors and was named WCC Co-Player of the Year as a senior.

Mardell Wrensch (1992-1995) was a WCC first-team selection for three consecutive seasons. She was voted team MVP twice and named the LMU Student-Athlete of the Year as a junior. Wrensch holds the school's all-time single season record for attack percentage (.422). She also ranks among LMU's top 10 in eight other categories.

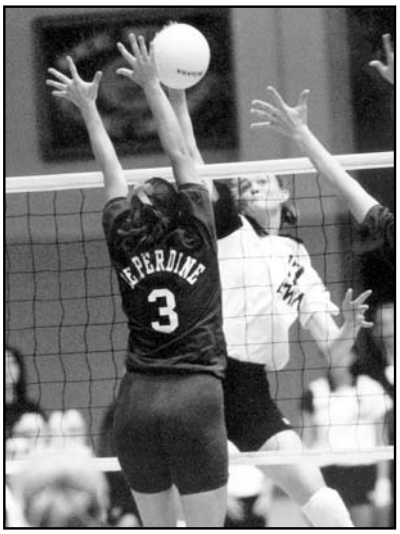

Kim Blankinship (1993-1996) was named to the Volleyball Magazine All-America third-team after her senior season. Blankinship was also named WCC Co-Player of the Year after garnering the Defensive Player of the Year in 1995. She was honored as the LMU Female Athlete of the Year in 1996.

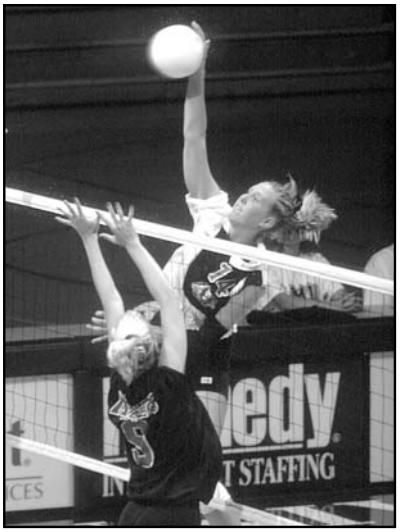

Tracy Holman (1994-1997) set the all-time career LMU assist record with 5,362. Holman garnered Volleyball Magazine All-American honorable mention accolades after her junior season. She was a four-time All-WCC first-team selection and 1994 WCC Freshman of the Year. She was named the WCC and LMU Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 1998, an honor she also earned at LMU in 1996-97.

Sarah Noriega (1994-1997) became the first Lion to earn AVCA All-America first-team honors, as well as Volleyball Magazine All-America. She was the WCC Player of the Year in 1997, after being named All-WCC first-team for the third straight year. She was named LMU's Female Athlete of the Year and was a United States national team member, becoming the third Lion to participate in the Olympics.

Karissa Meith (1995-1996) earned first-team All-WCC as a senior. Her 109 block assists, 1.30 block average, and 134 total blocks in 1996 still rank in the season records' top-five. She averaged 3.42 kills per game as a senior.

Sarah McFarland (1997-2000) is a two-time All-American, while also being named the school's Female Athlete of the Year twice. She was a three-time first-team All-WCC and AVCA All-Region selection. She led the nation in kills for the second straight year posting an incredible 762 kills in 2000. McFarland's single-season kill total is tops in the LMU and West Coast Conference record books, while her kill average is an NCAA record. Overall, she holds five NCAA national records, the most by any one player.

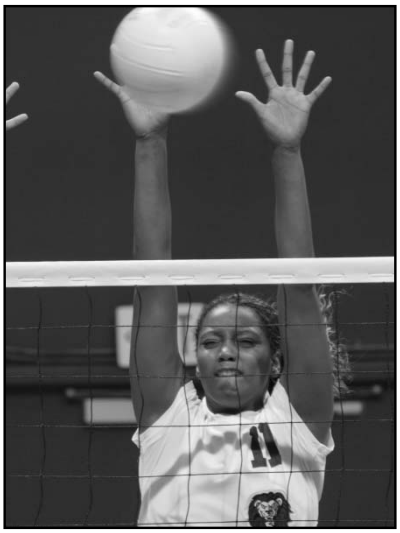

Kristen Gallup (1999-2002) posted 4.81 kills per game, which ranked second in the conference and 15th in the nation earning first-team All-WCC honors in 2001. As a senior, she led the Lions in total kills, attacks, kills per game, digs and service aces.

coachstratos'walloffame

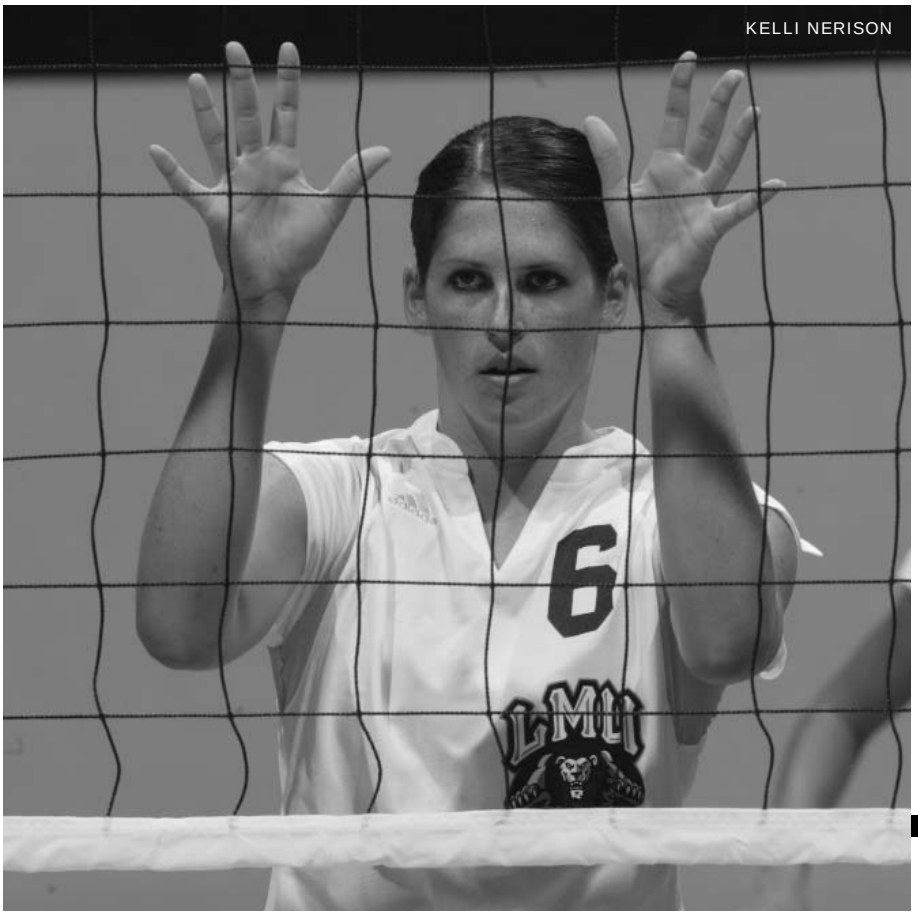

An All-WCC first-team selection for three straight seasons, Kealani Kimball (2000-03) completed regular season play in 2003 as a leader in several WCC categories: digs (4th), kills (6th), service aces (12th), and hitting percentage (23rd). She is just the fourth Lion to surpass both the 1000 kill and the 1000 dig milestone.

Tiana Newsome (2000-03) completed her four seasons owning almost every LMU all-time blocking category, as she was the career leader in solo blocks, block assists, and total blocks. A 2002 first-team All-WCC honoree, Newsome averaged a team-high 1.44 blocks per game, which was second in the WCC and tied for 18th in the nation.

One of only two freshmen to be named to the AVCA All-Region team in 2000, Nicole Oehlman (2000-04) earned second-team All-WCC honors that season as well. Her 13.41 assist per game average ranked her 25th in the nation and second in the WCC. Oehlman went on to earn All-WCC honorable mention recognition in each of her next three seasons.

A breakout upperclassman career earned Kelli Nerison (2001-04) AVCA honorable mention All-America honors in 2003 and 2004. Collegiate Volleyball Update named the two-time All-WCC first-team selection one of the top five middle blockers in the nation in 2004. Also a two-time first-team AVCA All-Region pick, she was a two time WCC All-Academic pick and finished her career setting 10 new program records.

Be in Gersten Pavilion when Sarah Noriega's LMU jersey #16 is retired on October 13, 2007!

As a member of the U.S. National Volleyball team that qualified for the 2000 Olympics in Sydney, Australia, Sarah Noriega became the third Lion to participate in the Olympic Games. Noriega became a key member of the U.S. National team in 1998. In her inaugural year with the team, she played in 68 games and tallied 191 kills on 498 attacks. She also added 26 aces and 43 stuff blocks. Noriega had an even better sophomore season with the national team, as she played in 144 games and led team USA in kills (409), blocks (82) and aces (28). She was named team MVP for her efforts that season. As a member of the 2000 Olympic squad, Noriega finished the summer fourth on the team with 185 kills and a .393 kill percentage. Her serves wreaked havoc for opponents throughout the Summer Games as her 17 service aces ranked second best on the team.

Q&A with Olympian Sarah Noriega

LMU: What was your favorite Olympic moment?
SN: I have so many, but I think the opening ceremonies was the most memorable. It was so incredible being able to represent my country in the greatest sporting event in the world. The feeling of first stepping foot on the field after coming through the tunnel is indescribable. Then seeing the Olympic flame lit topped the whole experience off. It is something I will always cherish.

LMU: Why did you choose LMU?
SN: LMU, Texas and Nebraska were the three main schools I had narrowed my decision down to. LMU seemed like the best fit for me because I got along with the players and coaching staff the best. LMU's academics played a big factor, as well as the location of the school. I wanted to experience LA, and this was the best way I saw to be able to do that.

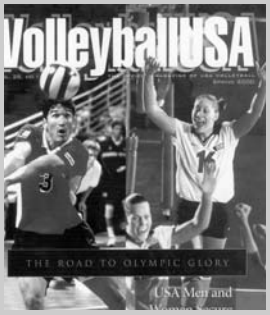

LMU: What did you like about the local area surrounding LMU?
SN: I came from a small midwest town so moving to Los Angeles was a little intimidating at first. LMU's location, though, is perfect. Not only are you minutes away from the beach cities, airport, and major freeways, but you have the peace and tranquility of the school itself and its surrounding residential community. LMU is located in a small, safe community, but close enough to the things that make college memorable.

LMU: What were the academic advantages of attending LMU?
SN: I liked that LMU offered the opportunity to not only know my peers, but to develop relationships with the professors as well. I never felt like I was just a number in an auditorium full of students. LMU and its sister schools stem from a long tradition of academic excellence, therefore, allowing the university to be connected with the top personnel in nearly every field of study it offers.

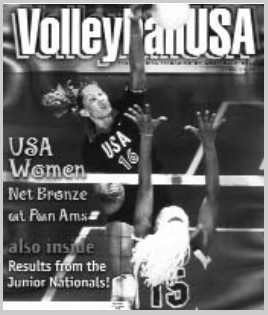

LMU: What were some of the academic support services available to you at LMU?
SN: Going from high school to collegiate academics was a big adjustment for me, but easy access to helpful staff and materials helped me a great deal. I frequently took advantage of the Learning Resource Center where I met with advisors. The LRC helped me tremendously and was able to set up personal tutoring whenever I needed it.

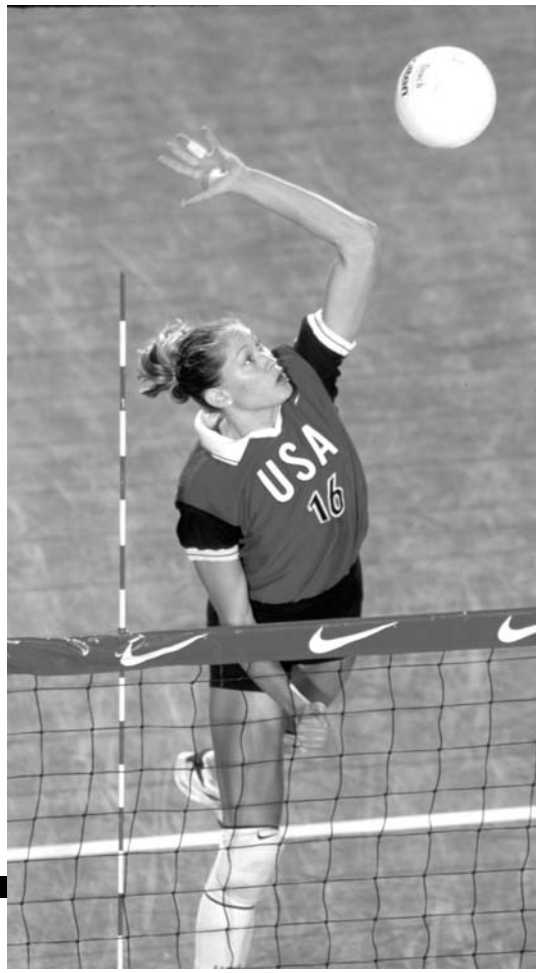

LMU: How did playing at LMU help you reach your goals of being an All-American and an Olympian?
SN: First and foremost, being in a safe and productive environment allowed me to relax and feel comfortable to give my best effort. I owe the majority of my success to Coach Stratos and to Coach Smoot. They were the ones who recognized the potential of a skinny girl and took a chance in developing her into a great athlete. They constantly supported, encouraged and challenged me. They worked so hard to help me realize my dreams. I owe them big time!

LMU: Is there anything you would change about your playing career?
SN: There have been times in my career when I haven't enjoyed playing and experienced some terrible moments. At the time I wished I could change things or that I didn't have to endure those bad times, but in retrospect I needed to experience them. It was those moments of self doubt, fatigue, mental and physical exhaustion that helped me to learn more about myself. I think that every athlete experiences moments like that; but it's athletes that choose to persevere through those times that succeed and excel. So, in short, no I wouldn't have changed any part of the road that I have traveled. I know that there are still many more obstacles and I hope I have learned enough to endure and overcome those challenges as well.

Home of the LIONS

A new crimson and navy interior design and an improved court surface are among the most recent reasons the Lions are fortunate to call Gersten Pavilion home.

One of Southern California's premier athletic facilities, Albert Gersten Pavilion begins its 26th year as home of the Loyola Marymount Lions. Since opening night, the Pavilion has become one of toughest places to play in the West Coast Conference.

The 63,000-square foot facility boasts a functional design, featuring rounded columns at each corner, separated by mirrored glass. It houses the athletic programs' extensive weight rooms, state-of-the-art training and medical facilities and is the home site of all indoor athletic events including women's volleyball and men's and women's basketball games.

The volleyball Lions first moved into the facility in 1982 and recorded 14 wins in Gersten's inaugural season. Under Head Coach Steve Stratos, the Lions have posted an overall record of 167-58 (.742) in the friendly confines of the Pavilion. In conference play, the record reflects the same success with an 89-31 (.742) home record in WCC action. In 25 years, the 1996 (WCC volleyball championship team) and 2003 (NCAA 2nd round appearance) squads have been the most successful with 14-1 marks, for .933 winning percentages.

One of the largest regular season crowds in program history gathered just three seasons ago in 2004 to see LMU top local rival Pepperdine 3-1 in West Coast Conference action. With 1,142 fans in attendance, it was the largest Gersten Pavilion volleyball crowd since LMU hosted the playoffs during the 1996 Sweet Sixteen season.

Built to accommodate the 1984 Summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles, the Pavilion served as the host site for the weightlifting competition of the Games. More than 1,000 people were involved with the staging of the event which, at that time, attracted the largest number of weightlifting competitors in the history of the Olympics. More than two million people were brought into the Pavilion through television, radio, newspapers and wire services that attended the competition.

Prior to the Olympics, Gersten was the site of the McDonald's Gymnastics Classic in 1983, featuring the best male and female gymnasts from the United States and the former Soviet Union. In 1991, the Pavilion was the venue for the men's and women's volleyball and boxing preliminaries at the U.S. Olympic Festival. It has been host to top basketball camps in the country, hosting LMU alumnus Pete Newell and his Big Man's Camp for NBA players. It has served as one of the official practice homes of the L.A. Lakers and L.A. Clippers, and continues to welcome visiting NBA franchises. The Pavilion also hosted Kiki Vandeweghe's Individual Instruction Camp with some of the best in the NBA participating.

Gersten Pavilion was named in honor of Albert Gersten, father of LMU regent Albert Gersten, Jr., a 1974 LMU graduate. The Gersten family was the largest single donor to the construction project.

What do you know about LMU?

The mission of the Loyola Marymount University Athletics Department is to provide an environment for student-athlete development that supports the pursuit of the highest level of success athletically and academically for the growth of the whole person in the tradition of the Jesuit and Marymount ideals.

Maybe that we're the only Catholic University in Los Angeles and one of the world's renowned Jesuit institutions, a group that includes 28 U.S. universities and over 100 schools worldwide.

Or that Loyola Marymount University has been called a Hidden Gem by the Washington Post and ranked among the Best in the West by U.S. News & World Report.

Or that our serene campus, overlooking Marina del Rey, offers one of the most exhilarating academic locations anywhere.

Or that our five colleges, all connected to Los Angeles, enable students to make current contacts in technology, business, politics, art, music, and naturally, the entertainment industry.

Yet there's something more to consider. If you're looking for a place to acquire facts and skills that will help you get along in the world, you have many choices. But if you're looking for a place where God fits in, a place that honors faith as well as reason, Loyola Marymount University may be the place for you.

At LMU, we inspire you to take ideas apart and learn how they fit together. You'll test your limits, forge enduring friendships, promote justice and become a contributing citizen of the world.

Our curriculum is broad and deep. Our pace is demanding. Our expectations are high. Our plans are ambitious. And we're looking for curious, accomplished, enterprising, visionary students eager to...

embrace the challenge

whatit'sabout

IT'S ABOUT THE SUPPORT
Throughout an LMU education, students enjoy the support of instructors who know each individual by name and who make classes challenging, fascinating and fun. Class sizes are 13 to 1 and give each student a chance to exceed even their own expectations.

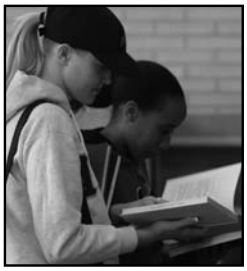

IT'S WHO YOU ARE WITH
Looking for camaraderie? When it comes to providing friends and mentors, you won't find a university surpassing LMU. The campus population comes from all 50 states and 70 countries. Better still, LMU offers more than 100 extracurricular organizations that hone the students skills and help them find like-minded colleagues for life. Whatever the religious belief, the university pays attention to individual spirit. "I've thought a lot about what makes my friends at college different than those from high school, and I've realized that the people at LMU live up to the mission of being men and women for others," said a sophomore. Students are free to examine faith in social or service activities.

IT'S WHERE YOU LIVE
Every fall, nine out of 10 first-year students take advantage of LMU housing and for some very good reasons. Some of the benefits of LMU living are simple: an active social scene, meal plans that allow students to dine at various campus locations, and easy access to classes and campus facilities. But university housing offers much more than simple convenience, it also give students an edge. As a resident, students are immediately plugged into programs that help them achieve better grades, meet new friends, develop professional contacts and graduate in a timely manner.

IT'S WHERE YOU'RE BOUND
"We're trying to get rid of you," so professor Kelly Younger, who directs the Honors Program, likes to tell LMU students. He's referring to the study abroad opportunities, scholarships, internships, academic conferences and competitions that take students off campus and into the world. When it comes time to graduate, students will have the knowledge, the confidence, and the strength of spirit to achieve anything the students can imagine.

LMUfacts

- average GPA for incoming freshmen is 3.62
- over 70% of students receive financial aid
- student housing: 16 residence halls for 2,898
- LMU has a highly diverse student population: nearly 1,000 Asians, nearly 500 African Americans, and about 1,400 Latinos
- founding communities: Society of Jesus (Jesuits); Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary (Marymount Sisters); Sisters of St. Joseph of Orange (CSJ)

VIEW TO A PROMISING FUTURE

The Chronicle of Higher Education notes that at Jesuit institutions, this precept "translates into a large amount of individual attention from faculty members and accessibility to high-level administrators, including the president." At LMU, students don't simply benefit from cura personalis; they practice it, too, carrying out the Jesuit ideal of "men and women for others." The Marymount sisters contribute a history of educating women and teaching through the arts, with a deliberately international perspective that encourages respect for all cultures. LMU brings these gifts together in five colleges: Business Administration, Communications and Fine Arts, Film and Television, Liberal Arts, and Science and Engineering.

• At LMU, real-world experiences benefits any discipline-even literature. Students in the BELLARMINE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS don't just read Jack Kerouac. They go on the road. English professor Kelly Younger explains: "I teach a course called Road Read in which we study not only the literature of Los Angeles and California, but also the city itself as text. After reading Nathanael West's The Day of Locust, we take a walking tour of downtown L.A., focusing on the architecture of the 1920s and 30s. We read Kerouac's Big Sur and drive up the coast, spending a week reading, writing and sharing on the intellectual adventure.

• Under the direction of award-winning entrepreneurship professor Fred Kiesner, for instance, students in our COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION participate in an internship program that places them with social entrepreneurs who are working to better society. "More and more, students are saying, 'Hey, I can use my abilities to do good for others by doing business," said Kiesner.

• The COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING is committed to delivering science, engineering, and mathematics education through individual attention with emphasis on self-learning, service to society, and ethical behavior. Students experience close interactions with the faculty as a result of small class sizes. Students conduct sophisticated state-of-the-art research by working closely with their professors, and they participate in various student research conferences and design competitions.

• Students in the SCHOOL OF FILM AND TELEVISION produce their own short films and TV pilots, with acting and music often supplied by student performers from our COLLEGE OF COMMUNICATION AND FINE ARTS. When our talent pool can't accommodate them, Hollywood can. "For my junior thesis, I teamed up with two other people to make a two-part, 10-minute sitcom," says a TV production major. "We developed an idea and asked a senior in screenwriting to write a script. When it came to casting, we ran an ad in Backstage West and received 300 head shots. It was like a real casting audition."

HONORS PROGRAM

• The University Honors Program provides an intensive and innovative academic experience for the serious student. The program combines four interdisciplinary University Honors core courses with an intensive year-long sequence in writing, critical thinking and American Cultures. A second year-long sequence in the history of civilization and a course in natural philosophy are also a part of the curriculum. All honors students are required to display proficiency in a foreign language, take an upper-division ethics course, an interdisciplinary seminar in the junior year and a senior thesis. Interested students should apply to the University Honors Director.

All first semester student-athletes are required to meet weekly with a Student-Athlete Mentor to ensure they assimilate to life as a student-athlete at LMU. In addition, they are expected to attend study hall for a minimum of 4 hours weekly, in 2 hour blocks. Students are also encouraged to form study groups with fellow students. Finally, first year students will be enrolled in a one-unit class, LIBA 125, Foundations of Academic Achievement. BO KIMBLE

LMU has grown considerably over the years and offers a diverse range of 21 varsity sports, 18 of which compete at the Division I level within the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). Twelve sports, including baseball, men's and women's basketball, women's crew, men's and women's cross country, men's golf, men's and women's soccer, men's and women's tennis and women's volleyball, compete in the prestigious West Coast Conference.

In addition, women's swimming participates in the Pacific Collegiate Swimming Conference and men's and women's water polo compete in the Western Water Polo Association. Women's softball competes in the Pacific Coast Softball Conference while the men's and women's track program (added in 2006) is an independent to round out the 18 programs competing at the NCAA D-I level. Men's crew is affiliated with the Western Intercollegiate Rowing Association and the LMU cheer program was added as a varsity sport in 2005.

The success of Lion Athletics has never been stronger, claiming some of its crowning moments since 2000. Since Athletics Director Dr. William Husak took the reigns of the program in 1998, the Lions have sent 32 teams to the NCAA tournament while winning 22 conference championships in the process. With the success, 52 individual student-athletes have earned All-America honors since 2000.

1986 COLLEGE WORLD SERIES

Traditions of championships has been set from the beginning. One of the most memorable runs in NCAA history was that of the Paul Westhead lead men's basketball programs from 1985-1990. The Lions won two WCC tournament titles and two regular season titles. As the Lions set the all-time NCAA Division-I record with 122.4 points per game in 1990, it was the people that made the Lions special. What Bo Kimble, Hank Gathers, Jeff Fryer and the rest of the up-tempo Lions did for the men's basketball team continued a long-standing tradition of a basketball legacy at LMU. Two Loyola basketball alumni, Pete Newell and Phil Woolpert, have been inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts. Newell coached the 1960 U.S. Olympic basketball team to a gold medal and led California to the 1959 NCAA Championship. Woolpert coached the University of San Francisco to the 1955 and 1956 NCAA Championships and a 60-game win streak, the second longest in college basketball history.

Speaking of championships, Bob Boyd, former Loyola football and track great, captured the 1950 NCAA men's track championship in the 100-yard dash. He later played seven seasons as a tight end for the NFL's Los Angeles Rams, and led them to the 1951 World Title.

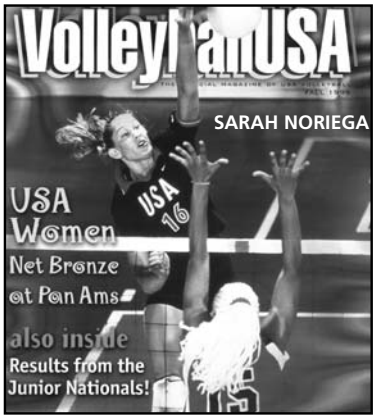

The 1980s saw LMU's athletic success propel to the national and international level. Just four years after pitching the LMU baseball team to the 1986 College World Series, Tim Layana was a vital member of the 1990 World Series Champion Cincinnati Reds. Five members from the 1986 LMU team eventually played in the major leagues.

Like Boyd in the NFL and Layana in MLB, many former LMU student-athletes have gone on to the next level in their respective sports. Entering the 2007-08 season, 14 Lions currently play professional baseball with an MLB organization, including current major leaguers C.J. Wilson with the Texas Rangers and Billy Traber with the Washington Nationals. Additionally, four men's soccer players have played in the MLS the last four years, including Arturo Torres playing for Chivas USA.

Over the years, nine former women's volleyball players have played professionally, including 2000 Olympian Sarah Noriega. The 1996 first-team All-American was just one Lion to make an appearance in the Olympics. This past 2004 Summer Olympics former and three-time men's volleyball All-American Reid Priddy burst on the international scene and led the U.S. Men's Volleyball team. Women's water polo players Rachel Riddell and Christine Robinson both played for the Canadian National Team in the Olympics and fellow water polo player Katie Hicks made the U.S. National Team roster in 2006.

Nearly 100 years ago, the Lions began Building Champions.The work continues in 2007-08.

The athletic facilities at Loyola Marymount University have seen a little of everything in the almost 80 years while in its current Westchester location. From the 1984 Olympic games to LMU basketball to the World Cup and everything in between, the LMU athletic facilities have become home to the best.

The complex continues to grow and improve with each year. The facilities include Albert Gersten Pavilion, George Page Stadium, Sullivan Field, the Burns Recreation and Aquatics Center, the Jane Bove Boathouse, Smith Field, the LMU Tennis Complex, which includes the George P. Kading and Morris A. Pivaroff Tournament Court completed in 2004, and the Thomas Higgins Short Game Center, a pracitice facility for the golf program. Also completed in 2004 was the addition of Pride Park, the entrance to baseball's Page Stadium.

Most recently joining the family of facilities was SMITH FIELD, home to the LMU softball team, and the HIGGINS SHORT GAME CENTER for the golf team.

Smith Field is complete with inset dugout, state-of-the-art scoreboard, natural grass seating for more than 500 and batting cages. The short game center is a pitch and putt practice facility behind the centerfield fence of Smith Field. It includes a pair of bunkers and plenty of space for putting at different angles.

The existing centerpiece to the LMU athletics facilities and the home of Lion volleyball is ALBERT GERSTEN PAVILION, entering its 26th year as the home to LMU's indoor athletic events.

Hosting men's and women's basketball and volleyball, the Pavilion has seen its share of memorable moments. One came as the men's basketball team posted a 16-game winning streak that spanned three seasons from Feb. 25, 1987 through Nov. 28, 1988. On Feb. 20, 1988, during the winning streak, Gersten Pavilion set the attendance record with a standing room only crowd of 4,525 in a 142-127 win over rival Pepperdine.

Built to accommodate the 1984 Summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles, the Pavilion served as the host site for the weightlifting competition. It is named in honor of Albert Gersten, father of Albert Gersten, Jr., a 1974 LMU graduate.

Now in its 26th season as the home of Lion baseball, GEORGE C. PAGE STADIUM has established itself as one of college baseball's most unique ball parks. The park continues to distinguish itself thanks to the addition of Pride Park. However, the biggest enhancement came in 2001 with the Mikos Blue Monster, a new wall in left field that contains a manual scoreboard, complete with out-of-town scores reminiscent to Boston's Fenway Park. The wall was built thanks to a gift from Paul Mikos '66.

The BURNS RECREATION AND AQUATICS CENTER opened in the fall of 2000 and has become the home of some of the best water polo in the NCAA. The Olympic size pool is part of the $18-million Burns Rec Center, and serves as the home venue for men's and women's water polo and women's swimming. Showing that it is one of the finest facilities in the country, LMU hosted the Men's Water Polo NCAA National Championships in December of 2002 and 2006.

Throughout the last decade, SULLIVAN FIELD has been host to some of the best in soccer from around the world. With the development of the soccer program at LMU, Sullivan Field has become one of the top facilities in the soccer-rich WCC. Sweden, Italy and Argentina used Sullivan during the 1994 FIFA World Cup, and four years later, the field was used as a practice site for the World Cup exhibition Gold Cup Tournament.

The LMU Tennis Center grew to six courts in 2004 with the KADING AND PIVAROFF TOURNAMENT COURT, the centerpiece of the facility. A new Daktronics scoreboard was added to the facility in 2006.

Completed in 2002, JANE BROWNE BOVE BOATHOUSE is the only athletics facility not on the grounds of the Westchester campus. The facility includes two boat bays, a work area, an office, a dock, and restrooms. The boathouse is part of beautiful Marina del Rey, Calif. Conditions are generally ideal. The water is protected within the marina, temperatures are nice throughout the year, and boat traffic is low.

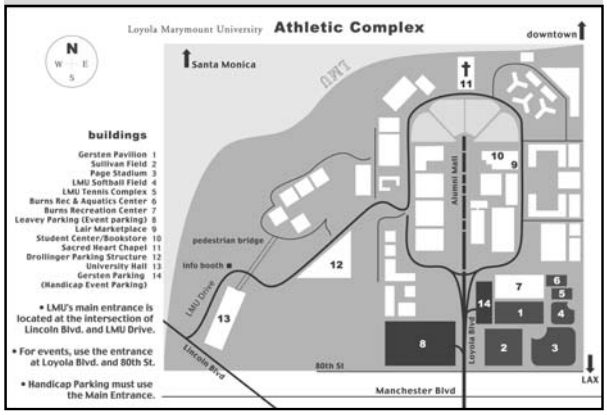

More is on the horizon. In 2005, the Athletics Department was included as part of a major LMU campaign that will ensure that LMU Athletics will Build Champions well into the future. Follow LMULions.com for the latest on the newest LMU facilities.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Rev. Robert B. Lawton, S.J., was named the 14th president of Loyola Marymount University on June 1, 1999. Father Lawton leads LMU into the next millennium after serving as the dean of Georgetown College at Georgetown University since 1989.

Lawton, a classicist, scripture scholar, administrator, and priest, was born in Cumberland, Maryland, and entered the Society of Jesus in July 1965.

Possessing a wealth of experience in both university teaching and administration, Fr. Lawton comes to LMU after giving 20 years of service to Georgetown University. Serving as the assistant Dean from 1984-89, Fr. Lawton also taught in the Theology department as an adjunct assistant professor during that period. He started at the University in 1977 as an assistant professor of Theology and worked in that capacity until 1979.

He earned his bachelor of arts degree in classics from Fordham University in 1971, graduating Phi Beta Kappa (summa cum laude). Fr. Lawton went on to attend Harvard University where he completed his doctorate in Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations in 1977. Fr. Lawton was a Danforth and Woodrow Wilson Fellow at Harvard. He was ordained in 1981.

Following his preparation for ordination from 1979-81, Fr. Lawton traveled to Germany to conduct independent study in both German and theology. In 1982, he accepted an assistant professorship teaching Hebrew and Aramaic at the Pontifical Biblical Institute in Rome, Italy, a post he held until 1984.

In addition to his teaching and administrative duties at Georgetown, Fr. Lawton served on numerous campus committees examining such areas as campus planning, student life, freshman and transfer student admissions, and community relations. Outside of the University he has served as a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Scranton and Fairfield University.

Father Lawton holds the rank of professor in LMU's Departments of Theological Studies and Classics.

ATHLETICS DIRECTOR

Dr. William S. Husak is in his 10th year as the Athletics Director at Loyola Marymount University. Since taking over the program in 1998, LMU has reached a new level of success. While the Lions' success has been some of the best in program history, Husak firmly believes the program has "just scratched the surface."

His administrative efforts have focused on developing a team of coaches, support staff and administrators who believe that LMU's athletics program can be among the elite in the nation. This period of time has been marked by enhancing the support of the athletic teams through the creation of the Student-Athlete Academic Center and the Lions' Strength and Conditioning Center, increased scholarship and operational support and enhancing the coaching and support staff.

The past nine years have been some of the most successful seasons in school history as the Lions won over 57 percent of its dual competitions in that span and claimed the school's first ever Commissioner's Cup. Since 1998, LMU has claimed 22 conference championships and 32 NCAA postseason appearances. Off the field, the Lions have had a 50 percent increase in national scholar-athletes as 155 claimed the honor in the 2006-07 academic year.

Husak attributes the current success and the future growth of the program to the staff that is in place. Since he took over the program, the coaching and administrative staffs that lend support to the more than 375 student-athletes has more than doubled in size. A full-time head coach will lead 19 of the varsity sports sponsored at LMU. When Husak took over, only nine of the programs were led by full-time coaches.

In addition, support for the student-athletes was enhanced with the addition of eight brand new staff positions, which included an athletic academic coordinator, marketing/promotions manager, corporate relations manager, two assistant athletic trainers, a strength and conditioning assistant coach and an assistant media relations director.

Husak comes from a long and accomplished background as an administrator, fundraiser and professor during a 19-year career at California State University, Long Beach. Between 1993-1998, he served as the Senior Associate Athletics Director and was mainly responsible for Athletics fundraising. While at CSULB between 1983 and 1997, Husak served as an assistant commissioner for the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). Between 1986 and 1993 he served as chairman of CSULB's physical education department. As an associate professor of physical education at CSULB between 1979 and 1986, he established the university's Motor Behavior Laboratory. A 1972 graduate of State University of New York (SUNY) at Cortland, Husak holds a master's degree and Ph.D. in Physical Education from Texas A&M University. He and his wife of 34 years, Tish, live in Long Beach and have three sons, Greg, Todd and Jon.

origin of "lions"

Although its origin is somewhat clouded, the Lion mascot has been synonymous with Loyola Marymount University for more than 80 years. According to the October 5, 1923 edition of the school newspaper, the Los Angeles Loyolan, the Lion mascot was suggested by an enthusiastic fan after 1919 when St. Vincent's College became Loyola College. Noting the Loyola football players' fierce competitiveness, that fan described the Loyola players as Lions. The name did not generate too much popularity and the Loyola athletic nickname remained "Loyolans" until 1923.

At that time, the article explains, the college wished to inspire new pride in its athletes and fans. Noting the success of nicknames for other colleges, Loyola College opted to give the "Lions" nickname a rebirth.

Calling the old Lion mascot "mistreated and forgotten," the article explains that the Lion would officially find its way into all college songs and cheers. The Lion has remained firmly entrenched in Loyola lore to this day.

An alternative origin story traced the nickname to the abundance of actual mountain lions which roamed Westchester when Loyola College moved here in 1927. The area remained widely unpopulated and teemed with wildlife when the school moved atop the bluffs. School officials reportedly adopted the nickname because mountain lions inhabited the area when ground was broken.

lmu fight song

Fight on Loyola,
Fight to win!
Roar on you Lions,
Roar again!
Keep up the spirit born of old,
Our loyalty will ne'er grow cold!
Fight on Loyola,
We're all here
Backing you with a cheer!
We're beside you,
Here to guide you
So Fight! Fight! Fight!

WHAT CAN I RECEIVE FROM LMU
You (or your family) may not receive any benefit, inducement or arrangement such as cash, clothing, cars, improper expenses, transportation, gifts or loans to encourage you to sign a National Letter of Intent or attend an NCAA college. Loyola Marymount University may offer you a one-year scholarship that covers room and board, tuition and fees, and required course-related books, or any part of these. The institution can recommend that this aid be renewed each year, as is the general practice at LMU.

What do I need to do in order to play at LMU as a freshman?
If you intend to participate in Division I or II athletics as a freshman, you must register and be certified by the NCAA Initial-Eligibility Clearinghouse. You can register by going on-line on the internet at www.ncaaclearinghouse.net. You will need a major credit card to complete the registration. The registration fee is $50 for domestic prospects ($75 for foreign prospects). When you're finished, print out the registration form, sign it and present it to your high school counselor. They will send the form along with an official copy of your high-school transcripts to the NCAA Clearinghouse for processing. Additionally, you must arrange for official SAT or ACT scores to be sent to the Clearinghouse directly by the testing agency. This can be done on-line at the testing agency's website. If you have questions, you or your high school counselor can obain assistance by calling the NCAA Clearinghouse toll-free at 877-262-1492. After graduation and before the school closes for the summer, your counselor must send the Clearinghouse a copy of your final transcript that confirms graduation from high school.

How do I know if I'm being recruited?
You become a "prospective student-athlete" when you start ninth-grade classes. Before the ninth grade, you become a prospective student-athlete if a college gives you (or your relatives or friends) any financial aid or other benefits that the college does not provide to prospective students generally. You become a "recruited prospective student-athlete" at a particular college if any coach approaches you (or any member of your family) about enrolling and participating in athletics at that college. Activities by coaches that cause you to become a recruited prospective student-athlete are: (1) providing you with an official visit; (2) placing more than one telephone call to you or any other member of your family; or (3) visiting you or any other member of your family anywhere other than the college campus; or (4) issuing to you a National Letter of Intent or written offer of athletically related financial aid.

Boosters: In addition to general recruiting regulations, no alumni, boosters or representatives of a college's athletics interests can be involved in your recruitment. There can be no phone calls or letters from boosters. If an LMU booster is contacting you, please call the LMU Compliance Office as soon as possible at (310) 338-7789. Don't risk your NCAA eligibility!

When can I talk to the coach and have him/her see me play?

This restriction includes your relatives or legal guardians, but does not include any contact made during your official visit to campus. Further, all communication between you, your relatives, legal guardians, your coach, or anyone else involved with your participation in basketball, directly or indirectly, and a college coach during the month of July is prohibited.

EVALUATIONS
An evaluation is any off-campus activity used to assess your academic qualifications or athletics ability, including a visit to your high school (during which no contact occurs) or watching you practice or compete at any site. Currently in all sports other than football and women's basketball, a college coach is limited to seven opportunities (contacts and evaluations combined) to recruit you and not more than three of the seven opportunities may be contacts. In women's basketball, coaches have a limit of five opportunities with which to recruit you (contact and evaluations combined) off the college campus. Not more than three of those five opportunities may be contacts. Head Coach Steve Stratos

PROVEN SUCCESS

Posting 17 winning seasons in 17 years, Coach Stratos has the Lions poised for a fourth NCAA appearance in five years.

In his 17 seasons as head coach of the Loyola Marymount women's volleyball program, Steve Stratos has maintained a high level of excellence throughout his program, both in the classroom and on the court. Having coached six All-Americans, as well as numerous academic all-conference selections, Stratos continues to maintain one of the top volleyball programs in the nation.

In 1996, Stratos became the first coach in West Coast Conference history to be tabbed Coach of the Year three straight seasons after leading the Lions to their third consecutive conference title. In addition, he earned AVCA District VIII Coach of the Year honors after directing the 1996 squad to a 26-3 mark, advancing to the NCAA Sweet Sixteen and a No. 9 final national ranking, the highest finish in program history.

His teams have averaged more than 20 wins a season and have made nine NCAA postseason appearances, including four consecutive in the NCAA Championships from 1994-97. Recently, the Lions made three straight NCAA appearances in 2003, 2004, and 2005.

Stratos has posted a career record of 343-165, for a .675 winning percentage, the highest in LMU volleyball history. That mark also ranks him 42nd in the nation among active NCAA DIvision I head coaches. In West Coast Conference action, he owns a record of 162-76, for a .681 winning percentage. With 162 career conference victories, Stratos ranks second all-time among WCC coaches.

Stratos is currently a member of the AVCA Coaches Top-25 Poll Committee (since 1993) and is the WCC representative on the Pacific Regional Ranking Committee. He is also in his second term on the District VIII Regional Poll Committee (1995-96, 1999-present) and recently completed his service on the All-District VIII Selection Committee, which he was a member of since 1996.

Winning has become a tradition for the LMU volleyball program. In a five-year span (1994-98), Stratos' teams combined for a string of 61-straight weeks being nationally-ranked in the AVCA/USA Today Top 25 Poll.

Despite high expectations upon entering the 1998 season, the No. 25-ranked Lions were left out of the NCAA postseason tournament for the first time since 1993. They ended the 1998 regular season ranked No. 25 in the nation.

Using 1998 as a learning experience, Stratos and the Lions jumped back into the NCAA tournament in 1999, advancing to the second round, and were ranked as high as No. 22 in the AVCA rankings (Sept.28).

In 2000, Stratos and the Lions continued their pursuit of excellence by starting the season on a seven-match winning streak which propelled them to a season-best No. 21 AVCA ranking (Sept. 4).

2002 saw the Lions start the season with an 11-3 mark, which handed the program its 13th straight winning season under Stratos.

During Stratos' first season (1990), the Lions posted a 21-16 record and made a postseason appearance in the NIVC (National Invitational Volleyball Championship). In 1992, he led the team to its second NIVC appearance and a 22-13 record. The following year (1993), the Lions accumulated a 23-7 overall record and finished second in the WCC (11-3). For the first time in program history, LMU entered the nation's top-25, ranked No. 24 in the AVCA Coaches' Poll and No. 22 by Volleyball Monthly.

In 1994, the Lions garnered the first of three consecutive WCC Championships with a 19-10 overall mark and a 12-2 conference record, earning a NCAA tournament appearance.

Stratos led LMU to its second straight WCC title and NCAA tournament appearance in 1995 with a perfect 14-0 record, the first in school history. After their tremendous success in 1996, the Lions posted a 22-7 record the following year (1997) and again advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Under Stratos' guidance, the Lions won in the first round of the tournament with a 3-0 victory over Hawaii.

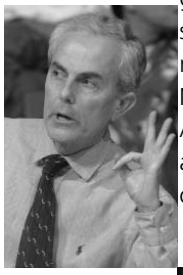

Stratos and the Lions put up three straight NCAA appearances again from 2003 to 2005, advancing to the second round in 2003 before falling to the eventual national champion.

The 2004 campaign saw Stratos reach the 300 career win milestone in front of the home crowd at Gersten Pavilion. Stratos has turned the Lions' home court into one of the toughest places for opponents to visit, with a lively student section and exciting home schedules year after year. The Lions have enjoyed a .742 winning percentage in Gersten Pavilion under Coach Stratos.

Success of the program has carried over into individual honors as well. Among the program's top athletes and graduates, Stratos coached Loyola Marymount's two AVCA All-America first-team honorees, Sarah Noriega (1994-97) and Sarah McFarland (1997-00). He has guided nine All-West Region players, 41 all-conference players, three WCC Freshmen of the Year and one Freshman All-American.

Stratos also coached Kelli Nerison (2000-2003) to one of the greatest breakthroughs in program history. After seeing brief playing time in a total of just 12 matches during the first two seasons of her career, Nerison went on to honorable mention All-American performances as a junior and senior. As a senior, Collegiate Volleyball Update named her one of the nation's top five blockers.

Among these, Tracy Holman (1994-97) garnered the award twice as an LMU student-athlete, and was named WCC Scholar-Athlete of the Year at the completion of the 1997-98 academic year.

Stratos began his coaching career as an assistant coach for the boys' junior varsity basketball team at Torrance High School in 1976, and became an assistant coach for the varsity squad the following year. He moved on to Woodbridge High School in Irvine, Calif., in 1983, where he served as head coach of the boys' volleyball team, as well as a boys' basketball assistant.

Concentrating on volleyball, he took over the reins of both the girls' and boys' volleyball programs in 1984. There, he led both programs into prominence during his tenure, taking each to the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) playoffs. 2006seasoninreview

...the year in pictures

1 LMU posts its 17th straight winning season under Head Coach Steve Stratos at 19-12.

2 LMU finishes the season ranked in the nation's top-20 in kills per game. The Lions' 16.53 digs per game also ranked second in the WCC.

3 The Lions post 3-0 sweeps over 2006 NCAA Tournament teams Florida A&M and then-12th-ranked Santa Clara on the road.

4 Coach Stratos coaches his 500th career match October 27 against Gonzaga.

5 The Lions sweep Pepperdine 3-0 in Gersten Pavilion. The match was played in honor of Lion alumna Kim Blankinship (1993-96), who had passed away at the age of 31 earlier that week. Blankinship was wearing a Lion uniform the last time LMU had swept the Waves in 1995.

6 Junior Heather Hughes becomes the ninth Lion all-time to reach the 1,000 career kill mark against San Francisco on October 14.

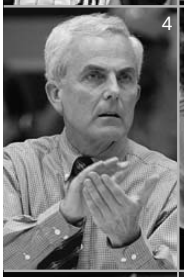

7 The Lions take home tournament titles at the Miami Hurricane Invitational and the LMU Four Points Sheraton-LAX Classic.

8 Heather Hughes highlights the Lions' All-WCC selections, as she is named to the first-team.

9 Emily Day is a WCC All-Academic pick for success on the court and in the classroom.

2006wccreview

When the West Coast Conference first got its start back in 1952, the founders really had one goal in mind… to create a convenient way for five Bay Area schools to play basketball. What has grown from that original vision is a cohesive athletics league which is competitive at the national level.

The WCC is made up of eight private institutions in California, Oregon and Washington which compete at the NCAA Division I level in 13 different sports. The original five schools -- the University of San Francisco, Santa Clara University, Saint Mary's College, San Jose State Univeristy, and the University of the Pacific -- expanded the membership in 1955 to include Pepperdine University and Loyola Marymount University in Southern California. At that time, the league changed its name from "California Basketball Association" to the "West Coast Athletic Conference."

The current alignment, which also includes Gonzaga University, the University of Portland and the University of San Diego, has remained unchanged since 1978. Only two other conferences (the Pacific-10 and the Ivy League) have stayed together longer.

The WCC, which changed its name to the current "West Coast Conference" in 1990, sponsors six championships for men in baseball, basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, and tennis, and seven for women in basketball, cross country, golf, rowing, soccer, tennis, and volleyball.

1 Those Lions who have had their jersey numbers retired are honored in Gersten Pavilion.

2 MARDELL WRENSCH Wrensch was a WCC first-team selection for three straight seasons, earning WCC Scholar-Athlete honor all four years. She was also voted team MVP twice and named the LMU Student-Athlete of the Year as a junior. She ranks among LMU's top-10 in 10 career and season statistical categories.

9 TRACY HOLMAN Holman set the all-time career LMU assist record with 5,362. After leading the Lions to their third-straight WCC title as a junior, Holman garnered Volleyball Magazine All-American honorable mention accolades. She was a four-time All-WCC first-team selection and 1994 WCC Freshman of the Year. She was the WCC and LMU Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 1998, an honor she also earned at LMU in 1997.

14 SARAH McFARLAND McFarland was LMU's first two-time All-American, while also being named the school's Female Athlete of the Year twice. She was a three-time first-team All-WCC and AVCA All-Region selection. She led the nation in kills for two straight years, posting an incredible 762 kills in 2000. McFarland's single-season kill total is tops in the LMU and WCC record books.

18 KEALANI KIMBALL An All-WCC first-team selection for three straight seasons, Kimball also received Academic All-District VIII honors for her achievements on the court and in the classroom. She is just the fifth LMU volleyball player to receive the first-team honor three consecutive seasons, and the fourth Lion to surpass both the 1000 kill and the 1000 dig milestone in her career.

16 SARAH NORIEGA A fifth Lion will have her number retired this season when Sarah Noriega's number 16 will be retired prior to the Lions' match against San Diego on October 13. An All-American and an Olympian, Noriega's accomplishments are forever etched into the LMU record books.

2007 opponents

Lion fans always see a high-octane schedule for LMU volleyball, and this year will be no different. The Lions will play 12 matches against teams who advanced to the NCAA Tournament last season.

All broadcasts will be archived within 72 hours of their original airing and will include both the pre-game and post-game shows. Since its debut, the audio network has broadcast nearly 600 events, including all men's basketball, women's basketball, and baseball games, and selected events for volleyball, soccer, softball, water polo, and cross country.
