Bobcat Storylines

+ The Bobcats are coming off three straight trips to the NCAA Tournament. In 2021-22, Montana State went 27-8, which included an undefeated stretch in January, a 13-1 record at home and a program-record 16 wins in conference play. In 2022-23, Montana State went 25-10, collected a 12-1 record at Worthington Arena, went 15-3 in conference action, and won at least 25 games in two straight seasons for the first time since 1927-1929. In 2023-2024, the Cats navigated a new coach and a new roster to a 9-9 mark in conference play before making a furious run through the Big Sky Tournament that was capped with an 85-70 win over Montana in the championship game.

+ Montana State is looking to return to the NCAA Tournament this season after making the Big Dance each of the past three years. In 2022, playing as the No. 14 seed, the Bobcats bowed out of the first round in San Diego, Calif., as the No. 3 seed Texas Tech Red Raiders won 97-62. Texas Tech would advance to the Sweet Sixteen, where it let a late lead slip away in a loss to Duke. In 2023, The 14-seed Bobcats hung tight with 3-seed Kansas State in Greensboro, N.C., before falling 77-65 to the Wildcats, who would go on to the Elite Eight. In 2024, Montana State played in the First Four for the first time in program history, falling to fellow 16-seed Grambling State, 88-81, in overtime in Dayton, Ohio.

+ The Bobcats are the Big Sky's three-peat champion since Weber State in 1978-80. The Big Sky has never had a four-peat champion.

+ Montana State has had a .500 or better record in Big Sky play for six straight seasons

+ Montana State has gone 35-9 at home over the past three seasons

+ Montana State has played in four straight Big Sky Tournament championship games

+ First-year head coach Matt Logie came to Montana State after four seasons at Point Loma in California, where his teams rolled up an 82-23 record with three conference championships. His 13 seasons as a head basketball coach include eight at Whitworth University in Spokane (2011-19), where his Pirates compiled a 194-35 record.

+ Logie's 293-76 career mark in 13 seasons is good for a .794 winning percentage, eighth-best among active coaches at four-year schools and the 11th-highest winning percentage in the history of all NCAA men's college basketball coaches.

+ Coach Logie's teams have qualified for the NCAA Tournament in 12 of his 13 years as a head coach at two different institutions, and his teams have won at least 21 games in every full season but one that he has coached in his career.

+ Logie is believed to be just the second-ever coach to lead teams to the NCAA Tournament at the Division I, Division II, and Division III levels (Tobin Anderson)

+ The Bobcats' non-conference schedule features three teams who were single-digit seeds in last season's NCAA Tournament, including No. 5 Wisconsin, No. 9 Northwestern, and No. 9 TCU. Eight of the 12 teams the Cats face in the non-conference finished with records of at least .500 or better and/or played in the postseason.

+ Returning production from 2023-2024:
Percent of Scoring Returning: 61.0%
Percent of Rebounding Returning: 54.6%
Percent of Assists Returning: 48.8%

+ The Bobcats have eight newcomers on the roster, with five transfers and three freshmen joining second-year head coach Matt Logie in Bozeman

+ Montana State makes its return to the court on November 7 when the Bobcats take on Wisconsin at the Kohl Center in Madison. The Badgers were a No. 5 seed in last year's NCAA Tournament, going 22-14 and advancing to the Big Ten Tournament championship game.

+ Montana State's home opener is set for November 11 against Northwest Indian College at Worthington Arena. The Bobcats will unveil their 2024 Big Sky Tournament Championship banner.

+ The Cats will be an experienced group, featuring 12 upperclassmen--including seven in the projected rotation that are seniors or graduate students

+ Tyler Patterson has played in 128 career games in a Bobcat uniform--a program-record. Patterson's 117 career starts entering 2024-25 ranks second all-time behind former teammate Jubrile Belo, who started 123 games

+ Brandon Walker (13.1 ppg) and Brian Goracke (13.5 ppg) were both named to the Big Sky Preseason All-Conference Team. Walker ranked among the nation's leaders in field goal percentage last year after transferring from UT Arlington, while Brian Goracke was one of the best shooters in the Big Sky after following his head coach Matt Logie from Division II Point Loma

+ Two former four-star recruits and top-125 players in high school in Max Agbonkpolo and Jabe Mullins come to Bozeman to play for Montana State in their final year of college eligibility. Agbonkpolo played in 100 games for USC over three seasons before stops in Wyoming (2022-23) and Utah State (2023-24). Mullins played in 53 games for Saint Mary's (2020-22) before spending the last two years at Washington State (2022-24), playing in 54 games for the Cougars

+ Jabe Mullins and Tyler Patterson grew up playing on the same AAU teams in Snoqualmie, Washington, and were teammates at Mount Si High School where they won a 4A state championship together in 2020. Patterson went on to Montana State, Mullins went to Saint Mary's and then Washington State--but both will close their career

+ Senior forward Patrick McMahon is primed for a big year after missing the bulk of the last two seasons with injuries. The native of Palmer, Alaska, averaged 13.0 ppg in three games last year, scoring 10 points in a win over California in November in his final game of the season

+ Montana State ranked 26th in the country in three-point percentage last season (37.0%), 35th in made 3-pointers per game (9.1), and 59th in 3-pointers attempted per game (24.7). The Bobcats had three players in the top-8 of the Big Sky in made 3-pointers, with Tyler Patterson (6th, 72) and Brian Goracke (8th, 69) returning in 2024-25

COACHING STAFF

Head Coach
Matt Logie

Second Season
Hometown: Mercer Island, Wash.
Alma Mater: Lehigh, 2003

Matt Logie enters his second year at the helm of the Montana State men's basketball program in 2024-25.

Logie's 293-76 career mark in 13 seasons is good for a .794 winning percentage, eighth-best among active coaches at four-year schools and the 11th-highest winning percentage in the history of all NCAA men's college basketball coaches.

Logie's teams have qualified for the NCAA Tournament in 12 of his 13 years as a head coach at three different institutions, and his teams have won at least 21 games in 12 of the 13 seasons he has coached in his career.

Logie is believed to be only the second men's coach in college basketball history to lead a team to the NCAA Tournament at the Division I, Division II, and Division III levels (Tobin Anderson).

In 2023-24, Logie was named a finalist for Joe B. Hall National Coach of the Year, which is presented annually to the top rookie, first-year head coach in Division I college basketball, after orchestrating the Bobcats' third straight Big Sky championship title and third straight trip to the NCAA Tournament.

The native of Mercer Island, Washington, took the reigns at Montana State on April 17, 2023, the last hire of the Division I men's coaching cycle, and was tasked with reloading a team that had lost four starters and 78.6% of the Cats' scoring output from a year prior.

The Cats took down the University of California on November 16, 2023, Logie's first Division I win and the program's first road victory over a Power Five opponent since 2011. Montana State would finish fifth in the Big Sky, tallying wins over each of the top four teams in the conference while going 9-9 in Big Sky play. Montana State's 70-60 home win over Eastern Washington on February 1, 2023, snapped the Eagles' seven-game unbeaten streak to start Big Sky Conference play. The Cats' finished the regular season with a 76-64 win over Weber State on ESPN2.

At the Big Sky Tournament in Boise, Montana State defeated No. 4 Weber State in the Big Sky quarterfinals and No. 10 Sacramento State in the semifinals to set up a showdown with No. 3 Montana in the Big Sky Championship game--the first time the rivals had met in the title contest since 1986.

The Cats' 85-70 win over the Griz sent Montana State dancing, with the Cats being the lowest seeded team to win the Big Sky Tournament since 1994. A week later, Montana State came within a few minutes of the program's first-ever NCAA Tournament win, ultimately falling to Grambling State in overtime, 88-81, at the First Four in Dayton, Ohio.

Logie helped develop the talents of 2024 Big Sky Tournament MVP Robert Ford III, who was named Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year, First Team All-Big Sky, NABC Second Team All-District, and Big Sky All-Defensive Team after finishing second in the country in steals with a program-record 100 thefts. One year after averaging 4.4 points and 3.2 rebounds in 2022-23, Ford averaged 16.2 points, 7.6 rebounds, and 2.9 steals per game in 2023-24,

Additionally, forward Brandon Walker earned Honorable Mention All-Big Sky honors after ranking 11th in the conference in scoring (13.1 ppg) and third in field goal percentage (56.3%).

Logie arrived at Montana State after four seasons at Point Loma in California, where his teams rolled up an 82-23 record with three conference championships. Logie also spent eight seasons at Whitworth University in Spokane (2011-19), where his Pirates compiled a 194-35 record.

Logie capped his four seasons at Point Loma in 2022-23 with a 29-4 season, including a 20-0 PacWest Conference record. His Sea Lions teams won PacWest regular season titles in 2022 and 2023, and won the league tournament in 2020 and 2023.

In 2022-23, Logie was named both the PacWest and NABC DII West District Coach of the Year as Point Loma became the first team in PacWest history to finish the conference regular season a perfect 20-0. PLNU earned the No. 1 seed in the NCAA West Regional for the second time in program history, before reaching the regional championship game which the Sea Lions lost to No. 6 and national semifinalist Cal State San Bernardino, 83-89.

In that game, PLNU fought back from a double-digit deficit to tie the game with under a minute remaining despite being down injured All-West Region and First Team All-PacWest selection Luke Haupt and having All-American Kaden Anderson hobbled after suffering an injury just a few minutes into the first half.

Point Loma was ranked No. 4 in both the NABC Coaches Poll and D2SIDA Media Poll entering the postseason, finishing No. 7 in the final D2SIDA Media Poll that was released.

In his first year at the helm, Logie guided the Sea Lions to a 24-6 record (18-4 PacWest) and made conference history by becoming the first men's basketball team to win back-to-back PacWest Tournament Championships. Point Loma was ranked multiple times during the sea Logie joined Point Loma after spending the previous eight seasons as the head coach at Whitworth. During his tenure, the Pirates won .847 percent of their games and his teams earned a bid to the NCAA Tournament in seven of his eight seasons. He guided Whitworth to five straight Northwest Conference Regular Season Championships from 2011 to 2016, and six Northwest Conference Tournament titles (2011-16 & 2017-18), while going 113-17 (.869) against Northwest Conference opponents. Logie's Whitworth teams never finished lower than second in the Northwest Conference.

MATT LOGIE

He was a three-time NWC Coach of the Year and a two-time finalist for the Glenn Robinson National Coach of the Year. Logie led Whitworth to a No. 1 national ranking in 2015-16, and he is the only coach in NCAA Division III history to win 100 games in his first four years. His teams were also strong in the classroom with a 3.30 grade point average over his eight years at the helm.

Prior to joining Whitworth, Logie played and was an assistant coach at Lehigh. He was a student-athlete for the Mountain Hawks from 1999-2003 and graduated as the school's seventh all-time leading scorer (1,524 points). During his playing days at Lehigh, Logie hit 262 three-point field goals, the most in school history. In addition, Logie is the top free throw shooter in the history of the Patriot League at 90.7 percent.

Logie re-joined Lehigh's coaching staff for his second stint prior to the 2007-08 season after spending the 2006-07 season as the Director of Basketball Operations at Kent State. He had previously served on the Lehigh staff from 2003-06, first as the Director of Basketball Operations and then as an assistant coach. He was instrumental in the Mountain Hawks' 2004 Patriot League Championship and NCAA Tournament appearance. During his four-year span on Lehigh's staff, the Brown and White won the most games in school history.

He would work for five seasons at his alma mater before being promoted to associate head coach for two years. While there he recruited CJ McCollum, the 2013 NBA Draft pick and current member of the New Orleans Pelicans and helped lead the Mountain Hawks into the 2010 NCAA Tournament. The team whom Coach Logie helped to build at Lehigh before leaving for Whitworth in 2011 would go on to beat Duke in the 2012 NCAA Tournament in one of March Madness' greatest upsets.

Logie graduated Lehigh with an undergraduate degree in Journalism and a master's in Educational Leadership. He is married to Julia, and the couple has two children, Addy and Luke.

Assistant Coach
Sam Scholl

Second Season
Hometown: Gig Harbor, Wash.
Alma Mater: San Diego, 2001

Sam Scholl enters his second season on Matt Logie's staff at Montana State in 2024-25.

Scholl's first year as an assistant coach for the Bobcats saw Montana State secure their third straight Big Sky Tournament championship and make their third straight NCAA Tournament appearance.

With Scholl on the bench in 2023-24, the Cats took down the University of California on November 16, 2023, the program's first road victory over a Power Five opponent since 2011. Montana State would finish fifth in the Big Sky, tallying wins over each of the top four teams in the conference while going 9-9 in Big Sky play. Montana State's 70-60 home win over Eastern Washington on February 1, 2023, snapped the Eagles' seven-game unbeaten streak to start Big Sky Conference play. The Cats' finished the regular season with a 76-64 win over Weber State on ESPN2.

At the Big Sky Tournament in Boise, Montana State defeated No. 4 Weber State in the Big Sky quarterfinals and No. 10 Sacramento State in the semifinals to set up a showdown with No. 3 Montana in the Big Sky Championship game--the first time the rivals had met in the title contest since 1986.

The Cats' 85-70 win over the Grizzlies sent Montana State dancing, with the Cats becoming the lowest seeded team to win the Big Sky Tournament since 1994. A week later, Montana State came within a few minutes of the program's first-ever NCAA Tournament win, ultimately falling to Grambling State in overtime, 88-81, at the First Four in Dayton, Ohio.

Scholl worked closely with Montana State's wings, helping develop Brian Goracke and Tyler Patterson into the top shooting tandem in the Big Sky Conference.

Goracke had a career year in transitioning from the Division II level, averaging 13.3 points and 4.2 rebounds per game while ranking third in the conference in free throw percentage (86.5%). Goracke was named to the Big Sky All-Tournament Team after averaging 12.0 points per game in Boise, including a heroic 25-point outburst on 8-of-12 shooting to help carry the Cats past Weber State in the quarterfinal. Meanwhile, Patterson set career-highs in scoring average (8.2 ppg) and field goal percentage (40.8%) while becoming just the fourth Bobcat in program history to hit 200 career 3-pointers.

Under Scholl's shooting guidance, the Cats had three of the top-eight three-point shooters in the Big Sky Conference behind Robert Ford III (3rd, 84 made 3-pointers), Patterson (6th, 72), and Goracke (8th, 69). As a team, Montana State led the Big Sky Conference in both three-point percentage (37.0%), three-point attempts (863), and made three-point field goals per game (9.2). Montana State also finished 26th in NCAA Division I in three-point percentage (37.0%).

A long-time college coach in San Diego, Scholl enjoyed a first-hand look at San Diego State's run to the NCAA Men's Basketball Championship Game during the 2022-23 season as the Aztecs' Basketball Performance Advisor.

The Aztecs (32-7) captured the MW regular-season title with a 15-3 record, then won all three MW Tournament games en route to claiming the tournament championship. Earning a No. 5 seed in the South Region, SDSU defeated No. 12 College of Charleston and No. 13 Furman in Orlando, Florida, before downing the overall top seed Alabama in the Sweet 16 and No. 6 Creighton in the Elite Eight in Louisville, Kentucky, to win the South Regional and make its first Final Four. At NRG Stadium in Houston, San Diego State edged No. 9 Florida Atlantic on a buzzer beater by Lamont Butler before falling to UConn in the NCAA national championship game.

Scholl has been coaching men's basketball on the West Coast for the last 24 years. In that time, he has guided his teams to seven postseason appearances, including three NCAA bids and one NIT bid.

The Gig Harbor, Wash., native was head coach of the University of San Diego Toreros from the 2018-19 to 2021-22, after accepting the position of interim head coach late in the 2017-18 campaign. In two of his four-plus years at the helm, he guided the program to the postseason.

A 2001 graduate of USD, Scholl spent the first seven seasons (2000-07) of his coaching career as an assistant at his alma mater. In that timeframe, he helped guide the Toreros to the championship game of the 2003 West Coast Conference (WCC) tournament and then, for just the third time in program history and the first since the 1986-87 campaign, onto that year's NCAA tournament. In six of his initial seven seasons on the San Diego bench, the team finished with a winning record.

Sandwiched between his two stints at San Diego, Scholl spent eight seasons as an assistant on the Santa Clara University bench.

Scholl competed for two years at Tacoma (Wash.) Community College, then transferred to USD to play for the Toreros and completed his degree in 2001. He led Gig Harbor High School to the 1996 2A Washington State championship.

Sam and his wife, Heather, have three daughters - Riley (2008), Reese (2010), and Regan (2014).

Assistant Coach
Zach Payne

Second Season
Hometown: Danville, Calif.
Alma Mater: Whitworth, 2014

Zach Payne enters his second season as an assistant coach for the Montana State men's basketball program in 2024-25.

Payne's memorable first year on the bench with Matt Logie saw the Bobcats secure their third straight Big Sky Tournament championship and make their third straight NCAA Tournament appearance.

The Bay Area native arrived in Bozeman with five prior seasons of experience in the Big Sky Conference, including four winning campaigns during his time at Montana from 2019-2023 and a winning regular season at Portland State in 2018-19.

During Payne's first season in Bozeman in 2023-24, the Cats took down the University of California on November 16, 2023, the program's first road victory over a Power Five opponent since 2011. Montana State would finish fifth in the Big Sky, tallying wins over each of the top four teams in the conference while going 9-9 in Big Sky play. Montana State's 70-60 home win over Eastern Washington on February 1, 2023, snapped the Eagles' seven-game unbeaten streak to start Big Sky Conference play. The Cats' finished the regular season with a 76-64 win over Weber State on ESPN2.

At the Big Sky Tournament in Boise, Montana State defeated No. 4 Weber State in the Big Sky quarterfinals and No. 10 Sacramento State in the semifinals to set up a showdown with No. 3 Montana in the Big Sky Championship game--the first time the rivals had met in the title contest since 1986.

The Cats' 85-70 win over Payne's former team sent Montana State dancing, with the Cats being the lowest seeded team to win the Big Sky Tournament since 1994. A week later, Montana State came within a few minutes of the program's first-ever NCAA Tournament win, ultimately falling to Grambling State in overtime, 88-81, at the First Four in Dayton, Ohio.

Working primarily with the posts, Payne helped develop the talents of sophomore Brandon Walker, who was named Honorable Mention All-Big Sky after averaging 13.1 points and 4.0 rebounds per game. Under Payne's eye, Walker went from shooting 36.9% from the field in 2022-23 to shooting 56.3% in 2023-24, third-best in the Big Sky and 39th in all of NCAA Division I.

Payne also spearheaded the development of John Olmsted, a former four-year walk-on who had scored 11 career points prior to arriving in Bozeman as a graduate transfer. Over an unforgettable final eight games of the 2023-24 season, Olmsted averaged 24 minutes per contest and scored in double-figures in four of those games, including 15 points against league-leading Eastern Washington, 15 points against Weber State on ESPN2, a career-high 16 points against Montana in the Big Sky Championship game and ten points against Grambling State in the NCAA Tournament.

Payne helped coach 2024 Big Sky Tournament MVP Robert Ford III, who was named Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year, First Team All-Big Sky, NABC Second Team All-District, and Big Sky All-Defensive Team after finishing second in the country in steals with a program-record 100 thefts. One year after averaging 4.4 points and 3.2 rebounds in 2022-23, Ford averaged 16.2 points, 7.6 rebounds, and 2.9 steals per game in 2023-24, shooting a career-best 48.9% from the field and 44.0% from beyond the three-point line. The 6-foot guard's 7.6 rebounds per game were the second-most in the country by any player shorter than 6-foot-4.

Payne graduated from Whitworth in 2014 after playing the final two years of his collegiate career under Matt Logie, winning a pair of conference championships. He then began his coaching career at his alma mater in 2013-14 as a volunteer assistant under Logie before becoming a Pirates graduate assistant the next two seasons.

Payne moved to Western Oregon in 2016-17, when the Wolves advanced to the GNAC Championship Game. The next year WOU finished with a 31-2 record, winning the GNAC regular season and tournament titles and rising to a No. 3 NCAA Division II ranking. Payne coached at Portland State in 2018-19 before moving to UM.

During his four seasons in Missoula, Montana posted winning records all four years, including a Big Sky Conference tournament semifinal appearance in 2021. He helped develop two of the best freshman classes in school history, including a trio in 2020-21 that set school records for scoring, minutes and starts.

Payne's coaching career began in 2013-14, as a volunteer assistant coach at Whitworth, his alma mater. Payne stayed in Spokane as a graduate assistant coach from 2014-16, with the Pirates going a combined 74-12 (.860), winning three conference titles and advancing to the second round of the NCAA Division II tournament.

In high school, Payne was an East County All-Star while helping notable De La Salle High School to a USA Today top-25 ranking. He then played at Diablo Valley College where, as a team captain as a sophomore, he led the Vikings to a California Community College Athletic Association quarterfinals appearance. Payne spent the final two seasons of his playing career at Whitworth (Division III), winning a pair of conference championships.

Payne comes from a basketball family, with his father, Harry Payne, playing for Northern Arizona from 1984-87 and ranking in the top-12 in Big Sky history for career assists. Payne graduated from Whitworth in 2014 with a degree in business administration. He and his girlfriend, Emily, have three daughters: Avery (2019), Cameron (2021), and Maya (2023).

Assistant Coach
Xavier Bishop

First Season
Hometown: Springfield, Ill.
Alma Mater: Montana State, 2022

One of the most decorated players in Montana State men's basketball history is back in Bozeman.

Xavier Bishop enters his first season on the Montana State men's basketball coaching staff in 2024-2025.

Bishop was named the 2022 Big Sky Tournament MVP after helping lead the Cats to the first of now three straight NCAA Tournament appearances. The two-time All-Big Sky selection spent three seasons at MSU from 2019-2022 after starting his college career at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

As a fifth-year senior in 2021-22, Bishop led the Big Sky in assists and was named First Team All-Big Sky after averaging 13.9 points, 4.2 assists, and 3.9 rebounds per game. With the veteran point guard orchestrating, the Cats won the Big Sky regular season title with a program-record 16 conference victories.

Montana State's regular season title was their first in 20 years, and catapulted them into a postseason run that culminated in a Big Sky Tournament championship win over Northern Colorado and their first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1996. Bishop averaged 15.7 points per game over the three games in Boise, punctuated by a 19-point, 8-assist performance in the championship game.

The Cats finished the year 27-8 after falling to No. 3-seed Texas Tech in San Diego.

In 2020-21, the native of Springfield, Illinois, claimed Second Team All-Big Sky accolades after ranking among the top 10 in the Big Sky individually in points, assists, minutes played, assist/turnover ratio, free throws made and free throws attempted. Montana State advanced to the Big Sky Tournament championship game, the first of now four straight trips to the title game in Boise.

After playing overseas for Bayer Giants Leverkusen in Germany during the 2022-23 season, Bishop spent the 2023-24 campaign working under his former head coach Danny Sprinkle at Utah State. While in Logan, Bishop contributed to a staff that helped lead the Aggies to a Mountain West Conference Championship and an NCAA Tournament win over No. 9-seeded TCU.

Bishop followed Sprinkle to the University of Washington following the 2023-2024 season, serving on their men's basketball staff during the offseason before coming to MSU.

Bishop returns to Bozeman to coach a trio of his former teammates in current seniors Tyler Patterson, Patrick McMahon, and Sam Lecholat.

Director of Basketball Operations
Shamrock Campbell

Second Season

Shamrock Campbell enters his second season on staff at Montana State and his first as the director of basketball operations in 2024-2025.

The native of Spokane, Washington, worked as a graduate assistant on the 2023-2024 Montana State team that beat California on November 16, 2023, the Cats' first road win over a Power Five team since 2011, and defeated three of the top four teams in the Big Sky during the regular season. At the Big Sky Tournament in Boise, Montana State defeated No. 4 Weber State in the Big Sky quarterfinals and No. 10 Sacramento State in the semifinals to set up a showdown with No. 3 Montana in the Big Sky Championship game--the first time the rivals had met in the title contest since 1986.

The Cats' 85-70 win over the Grizzlies sent Montana State dancing, with the Cats becoming the lowest seeded team to win the Big Sky Tournament since 1994. A week later, Montana State came within a few minutes of the program's first-ever NCAA Tournament win, ultimately falling to Grambling State in overtime, 88-81, at the First Four in Dayton, Ohio.

Campbell played for Matt Logie at Point Loma in 2022-2023, starting in 28 games and averaging 9.9 points, 3.0 rebounds and 1.7 assists. The guard put up 14 of his 17 points in the second half of the 2023 PacWest championship, helping him earn a PacWest All-Tournament Team honor.

Prior to Point Loma, Campbell starred at Carroll College, where he was an NAIA All-American and held career averages of 11.8 ppg, 2.7 apg, 3.2 rpg. The Spokane native helped lead the Saints to the NAIA Championship as a freshman.

Graduate Assistant
Reed Brown

First Season
Hometown: Portland, Oregon
Alma Mater: Whitworth, 2021

Reed Brown enters his first season as a graduate assistant for Montana State men's basketball in 2024-2025.

The native of Portland, Oregon, spent the 2023-2024 season as an assistant coach at Whitworth University in Spokane, Washington, helping the Pirates go 20-9 with a Northwest Conference tournament title and a second round appearance at the NCAA Tournament.

In his role as assistant coach, Brown helped with player development, created scouting reports, tracked all offensive possessions, assisted with practice planning and in-game adjustments, and helped identiy prospective student-athletes.

Brown, who competed for the Pirates from 2017-2021, was a Northwest Conference Scholar Athlete in 2018, 2019, 2020, and 2021, and graduated with a degree in business administration in 2021. He is currently pursuing a master's degree at Montana State in sport and coaching sciences

Since January 2010, Dr. Waded Cruzado has served as the 12th President of Montana State University, and during that time she has significantly reshaped the face and future of the state's first land-grant institution.

An articulate and inspirational speaker on the role of the public university, President Cruzado is well known for her understanding of the Morrill Act, which created the land-grant university system nearly 160 years ago. She is a passionate champion of the land-grant's tripartite mission of education, research and public outreach, as well as the important role higher education plays in the development of individuals and the prosperity of the nation.

Montana State University has set new student enrollment records under President Cruzado's leadership, becoming the fastest-growing and largest university in the state. MSU enrollment increased from 11,760 in 2010 to nearly 17,000 in 2018. During this period the ACT and SAT scores and GPA of Montana State University students also rose to record levels. In addition, Montana State's retention rate – the percentage of first-year students returning for their second year – has continued to climb. In 2020, it hit its highest mark in more than 30 years of modern record keeping at 78.2% percent. First-year to second-year retention is a key indicator as it is highly predictive of how many students will continue to graduation. In addition, the number of Presidential scholarships has almost quadrupled during President Cruzado's tenure, with nearly 700 applicants in the fall of 2020.

Montana State University students routinely win prestigious national awards. During President Cruzado's tenure, Montana State University has produced three Rhodes Scholars, two Gates-Cambridge Scholars, one Marshall Scholar, four Schwarzman Scholars, eight Truman Scholars and eight Udall Scholars, among many other impressive student recognitions. With 82 Goldwater Scholars, Montana State is among the nation's top recipients of the prestigious scholarship for students who demonstrate excellence in math, science and engineering. In 2015, Montana State saw a first: Two students won the Truman Scholarship, making Montana State one of only four universities to have double winners in that year. In 2018 and 2020, two Montana State students again won the Truman Scholarship, including, in 2020, the university's first Native American student to receive the award.

Montana State University's research enterprise has flourished under President Cruzado. The university announced in 2020 that it had tallied an all-time high for total research expenditures in 2019–2020, totaling $167 million. It marked the seventh year in a row that research expenditures have topped $100 million. The university's research activity is distributed across a range of fields, including the four Grand Challenges identified in MSU's strategic plan.

MSU is classified as R1 in the Carnegie Classification for "very high research activity," making it one of only 131 universities nationwide in that category and the only one in the five-state region of Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and North and South Dakota — and one of only two nationally also classified as Very High Undergraduate enrollment.

During President Cruzado's tenure, Montana State University has competitively won more than $650 million for sponsored research projects. Notable projects include the renovation of Cooley Lab, which was completed thanks to a $15 million grant from the National Institutes of Health, and a $67 million grant from the Department of Energy for the Big Sky Carbon Sequestration Partnership, which was housed at Montana State. In 2015, the Montana Legislature approved an Executive Research Initiative of $15 million, with faculty at Montana State receiving $9 million, more than all other state university campuses combined. In 2014, the National Institutes of Health awarded MSU $10.7 million to fund its Center for Health Equity Research, which looks for ways to provide better health care to rural Montanans.

Montana State University received legislative support under President Cruzado's leadership to grow by 50% the WWAMI cooperative medical education program, the program's first expansion in 38 years. Founded in 1973, the program lets students from Washington, Wyoming, Alaska, Montana and Idaho complete the foundational 18 months of medical school in their home states and then finish their medical degrees at the University of Washington School of Medicine. The Legislature also supported the creation of a Veterinary Medicine Program at MSU in partnership with Washington State University. Modeled after WWAMI, it is the only Veterinary Medicine Program in the state.

President Cruzado has consistently reaffirmed the importance of a campus environment that places student success as the top priority. To that end, she has made student retention a major priority of the university by funding numerous programs and appointing an executive officer to oversee related initiatives in increasing students' financial literacy, helping more students graduate in four years and providing more student support services such as tutoring, mentoring and advising. In 2012, President Cruzado launched the "Freshman 15" program, an initiative that incentivizes all students to enroll in more credits, adding more "weight" to their class schedules. In the fall of 2015, Bloomberg News featured a 5-minute segment devoted to MSU's "Know Your Debt Letter," an initiative that has resulted in students taking more credits, reducing their debt and graduating in a timely manner. President Cruzado has also enhanced MSU's responsiveness to students' needs and aspirations with the creation of two Family Care Rooms and a Veterans Center that has helped Montana State earned the designation of a "Military Friendly Institution."

In 2016, MSU welcomed its inaugural class of Hilleman Scholars. Named for Montana State alumnus and vaccinologist Maurice Hilleman, the Hilleman Scholars Program provides assistance to 50 incoming students from Montana who demonstrate evidence of significant academic, leadership and career potential. The program is motivated by a desire to provide Montana students more opportunities.

During President Cruzado's tenure, the campus has seen the completion of numerous major construction and renovation projects. In 2019, the Legislature approved $25 million for the renovation and repurposing of MSU's Romney Hall, a $32 million project that is proceeding on time and on budget. When complete, Romney will have gone from a disused facility to one of the most heavily used classroom buildings on campus, seating more than 1,000 students each hour. The Legislature also approved that year $4.25 million for the expansion of the dental hygiene program at Great Falls College MSU and $2 million for the construction of four greenhouse laboratories for agricultural research around the state as part of MSU's Montana Agricultural Experiment Station.

In 2018, Montana State University announced that funds had been secured for a new $20 million American Indian Hall. The 31,000-square-foot-facility will serve as a home to MSU's Native American community as well as a bridge between American Indian culture and other cultures on campus. First proposed in 2004, MSU secured the majority of the funding for the building in 2018 with a pledge of $12 million from the Kendeda Fund. Several other pledges followed, including $2 million from the Associated Students of MSU, the university's student government. Jim and Chris Scott of Billings and the Terry and Patt Payne family of Missoula each gave $1 million to complete the fundraising campaign. A ground blessing ceremony was held in 2019; the American Indian Hall is now under construction and is planned to open in late 2021.

Montana State University's Norm Asbjornson Hall, home of the Norm Asbjornson College of Engineering and the Honors College, opened in 2018. A $50 million gift from 1960 Montana State alumnus Norm Asbjornson – the largest private gift in the history of the state – funded the design and construction of the building. The gift also inspired other donors to round out the university's South Campus project at $70 million. The innovative classroom and laboratory facility enables collaborative, hands-on learning and leadership. The building promotes dynamic interdisciplinary engagement, meaningful student-faculty interaction, and accelerated innovation that responds to and anticipates emerging trends in education, industry and society.

In 2016, MSU received a pledge of $8 million from Greg and Susan Gianforte, funding that supported MSU's newly renamed Gianforte School of Computing and its South Campus initiative.

Jabs Hall, a new home for the Jake Jabs College of Business and Entrepreneurship, opened in 2015. Jabs Hall was made possible thanks to a $25 million gift from 1952 Montana State alumnus Jake Jabs, president and CEO of American Furniture Warehouse in Denver. In her first year, President Cruzado also welcomed a $3 million gift to MSU from Jabs, who generously funded the Jabs Entrepreneurship Center at Montana State University.

In the fall of 2010, the university reopened one of its most heavily used classroom buildings on campus, Gaines Hall, after a $32 million renovation funded by the Montana Legislature. That same fall, the university opened its new, 40,000-square-foot Animal Bioscience Building. The $15.7 million building was funded, in part, by donations from Montana's livestock and grains industry. In addition to classroom and teaching laboratory space, the building is home to the MSU College of Agriculture's Department of Animal and Range Sciences.

Additional philanthropic support has grown for Montana State University under President Cruzado's leadership. MSU's comprehensive fundraising campaign, "What It Takes," raised more than $413 million for the university's people, places and programs. The total is well above the campaign's original $300 million goal, which was met more than two years before the scheduled conclusion of the campaign in 2018. "What It Takes" was MSU's first comprehensive fundraising campaign.

In 2020, construction began on Montana State University's Bobcat Athletic Complex, a donor-funded $18 million addition to the north end of Bobcat Stadium that will become the new home of the university's football program. The 40,000-square-foot facility, expected to open in 2021, is the result of the largest fundraising campaign in the history of Bobcat Athletics. The two-story building will house football locker rooms, team rooms, equipment storage and offices for coaches, as well as sports medicine, training and rehabilitation spaces that will help all student-athletes. In addition to supporting the continued growth of MSU's football program, the project will support all student-athletes thanks to the renovation of the former football offices in the Brick Breeden Fieldhouse. That space will become an expanded and accessible Academic Excellence Center, providing MSU's roughly 350 student-athletes with additional space for tutoring, group study and advising.

In April 2012, President Cruzado announced a goal of becoming the first university in the nation to raise $1 million in endowed, private support for its rodeo program. By the following spring, this goal had been achieved for Bobcat Rodeo. A large portion of the funds have been invested to fund 18 scholarships, including 16 new scholarships.

Not a year into her administration, President Cruzado also launched an ambitious campaign to raise $10 million for a 7,200-seat renovation of the south end zone of Bobcat Stadium. The funds were raised in a record amount of time and the renovation was completed for the 2011 football season, a 10-month project from start to finish. The end zone project greatly enhanced the game-day experience of all MSU students in attendance, while improving the practice and competition environment for the MSU Track and Field Complex. Importantly for President Cruzado, the expansion serves to strengthen a sense of community between MSU's students, faculty and staff with its alumni, fans and friends.

President Cruzado has made improvements to student facilities a priority. Hyalite Hall, a new $50 million, 510-bed residence hall, opened in 2020. Also in 2020, student voters approved a fee to construct a new Student Wellness Center that will integrate all student health services in a single facility alongside recreational and fitness spaces. In 2018, the university's new $18.2 million Rendezvous Dining Pavilion opened. In the fall of 2015, MSU reopened the renovated Miller Dining Commons, a $15 million project.

Other renovation projects completed under President Cruzado's leadership include a renovation of the first floor of the MSU Library, an expansion of the Writing Center in Wilson Hall, numerous projects to modernize classrooms and to improve campus accessibility, and $9 million in energy conservation projects, which will upgrade all residence halls and other auxiliary facilities. The MSU Brick Breeden Fieldhouse was modernized in 2014 and the Strand Union ballrooms were renovated in 2015. President Cruzado oversaw the addition of hundreds of parking spots around campus for students, faculty, staff and visitors. Also under President Cruzado's leadership, a new $12.5 million, 550-space parking garage building opened in 2017.

Prior to MSU, President Cruzado served as executive vice president and provost at New Mexico State University, a post she had held since Sept. 1, 2007, and served as NMSU's interim president from 2008 to 2009.

LEON COSTELLO

In his seven years since arriving as Montana State's 13th Director of Intercollegiate Athletics in the summer of 2016, Leon Costello turned a comprehensive vision into the greatest period of success in Bobcat history.

The historic "Year of the Bobcats" in 2021-22 transitioned seamlessly into a 2022-23 academic year that saw similar success. The athletics facilities plan grows at a rate that mirrors Montana State University as a whole, as well as MSU Athletics' achievement. During the year that just passed, the Bobcats:

Claimed Montana State's third Big Sky Conference Presidents' Cup, signifying the best combined success in athletics and academics during an academic year in the league, while finishing 76th in the national Learfield Directors' Cup competition among all NCAA Division I programs;

--Earned MSU's second straight Big Sky Conference Men's All-Sports Trophy, the seventh in school history;
--Captured the Brawl of the Wild Series trophy, which counts all qualifying athletic competitions against the University of Montana, for the seventh straight year;
--Won 12 football games for the second straight year, matching the most in program history, while advancing to the FCS Semifinals for the third straight season, which includes an FCS Championship Game appearance in 2022;
--Captured the Big Sky Men's Basketball Tournament Championship for the second straight season, marking back-to-back appearances in the NCAA Tournament for the first time in history;
--Grabbed a share of the Big Sky Women's Basketball regular season crown, the third season in the last four the Bobcat women have won the league's regular season or tourney title or both;
--Won Big Sky Conference team championships in football, men's basketball and women's basketball;
--Finished second in the women's competition at the 2023 College National Finals Rodeo.
--Individual accomplishments abounded during the "Year of the Bobcat" sequel. Senior distance runner Duncan Hamilton earned All-America honors at the 2023 NCAA Indoor and Outdoor Track and Field Championships, finishing second in the 3,000 meter steeplechase. Paige Rasmussen cemented her place as a Bobcat rodeo legend by capturing the goat tying national championship at the 2023 College National Finals Rodeo, while Tayla Moeykens finished as reserve champion in the barrel racing.

In 2022-23, 15 Bobcats compiled 17 All-America honors, and and five student-athletes combined for six individual Big Sky Championships.

The wide range of Montana State's athletics success follows a proven formula for Costello, who formulates decisions to enhance the development of MSU's 350-plus student-athletes form thorough planning with the help of the department's stakeholders. The entire process is rooted in Montana State University's commitment to excellence, progress and growth.

The results in the past two academic years stand as undeniable proof of that success – in 23 opportunities, Bobcat men's and women's athletics teams finished in the top three of the Big Sky standings 21 times. In addition, the men's and women's rodeo teams won the Big Sky Region in each year, while the ski team finished fourth in the powerful Rocky Mountain Skiing Association twice.

The success enjoyed by Bobcat Athletics since Costello took the helm on June 15, 2016, is unprecedented. The efforts of Bobcat student-athletes have led Montana State to Brawl of the Wild Series wins against the University of Montana in all seven of Costello's years leading MSU Athletics, and MSU now owns a 7-3 record since that competition began in 2013-14. The 2021-22 academic year marked the third time in history an athletic program finished in the top three of the Big Sky standings in every sport in which it participated, and two of those seasons belonged to MSU.

While the success of Bobcat Athletics in competition has been impressive, it begins in the classroom. The Department has strung 44 consecutive semesters with a combined team grade point average of better than 3.0, with this year's grade point average hitting an all-time high at 3.37, and in Costello's time seven Bobcat student-athletes have earned CoSIDA Academic All-America honors and four student-athletes earned NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarships. In 2022-23, Lucy Corbett capped her brilliant Bobcat Track and Field career with Second Team All-America honors at the 2023 NCAA Indoor Championships and Third Team CoSIDA Academic All-America honors.

Several Bobcat teams have reached new heights since Costello's arrival. The 2021 Bobcat football team advanced to the FCS Championship Game for the first time since 1984, the men's basketball team made back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances (2022 and 2023) for the first time in history, the 2021-22 men's tennis team played in the Big Sky Championship Match for the first time since 2006 after winning a share of the league's regular season title, and sent players to the NCAA Championships for the first time since 2006.

Montana State has also extended strings of success in several areas. MSU has finished in the top 10 in the NCAA Ski Championships each year during Costello's time at the school (13 straight years in all), while the women's basketball program has claimed at least a share of four of the six most recent Big Sky Championships. The football team has advanced to the FCS Semifinals for three straight seasons for the first time in Bobcat history, and the four straight playoff appearances is also a program best. Camila Noe became the first Bobcat women's cross country runner ever to earn All-America honors in the fall of 2019, and added track and field honors to that list in 2023.

The University's commitment to Bobcat student-athletes is evident in the program's athletic facilities. In September 2021 the Bobcat Athletics Complex opened, featuring state-of-the-art strength training, nutrition and sports medicine facilities to benefit each of the department's 350-plus student-athletes. That facility also includes a hydro-therapy area with cold and hot tubs, and a Bozeman Health Clinic. While the football program enjoys new and innovative meeting and office spaces, Fieldhouse renovations upgraded the departments' Academic Services and Student-Athlete Wellness areas that place the MSU program among the most progressive in the nation at its level.

Bobcat volleyball enjoys an upgraded locker room, and all student-athletes benefit from a new Bobcat Wellness Center which includes a lounge, meditation room and office for the athletics mental health clinician. The 2023-24 academic year brings brand new men's and women's basketball locker rooms and renovations to the Brick Breeden Fieldhouse weight room and athletic training room spaces. In recent years the MSU Track and Field Complex received a new track surface, grandstand and video board and Bobcat Stadium's playing surface was replaced and then enhanced.

The success and growth of Bobcat Athletics under Costello's direction mirrors that of Montana State University. Bobcat Club giving in the past six years has more than doubled, from $1.4 million to $2.9 million. Concurrently, more than $20 million was raised for the new Bobcat Athletic Complex to house the school's football program and provide all student-athletes improved academic support space. Enhanced revenue hasn't ended with fund-raising efforts, as Bobcat Athletics has reached new agreements with Under Armour, Learfield and Shorts Travel. Costello also forged a partnership with Montana PBS/KUSM to professionally produce all home football and basketball events on campus. The Blue & Gold Gala generated over $500,000 in one night, highlighting a year in which the Bobcat Club Annual Scholarship brought in over $3 million in gross revenues. In addition to the fund-raising efforts, the revenue surge is driven by a sellout of football all football season ticket being sold out in 2023, coming off back-to-back regular seasons in 2021 and 2022 where all home football games were sold out, as well as record sponsorship revenues through the athletic department's Learfield contract.

Montana State's athletic success in Costello's time centers on developing Bobcat student-athletes in all phases. Since 2017 the department has added a registered dietitian to operate two fueling stations providing for student-athlete nutritional needs while counseling and mentoring in that area, an additional strength and conditioning coach, and an Academic Learning Specialist. The fulcrum of these improvements, the Bobcat Athletics Complex opened in 2021. The movement of all Bobcat Football operations into that center at Bobcat Stadium created the physical resources to enhance operations for every other MSU team through thorough renovations of the Academic Center, the Student-Athlete Wellness Center, and the D'Agostino Family Strength Training Facility within the Brick Breeden Fieldhouse.

Additionally, Bobcat Athletics added a certified mental health clinician to support mental health and performance needs while integrating other phases of development and care for student-athletics, such as sports medicine and strength training, into a unified effort. The Bobcat Wellness Team focuses on the holistic well-being of MSU student-athletes.

Costello came to Montana State after serving six years in roles of progressively increased responsibility at South Dakota State. He rose to the position of Deputy Athletic Director (2014-16) after also serving as Senior Associate AD/External Relations (2010-14). He helped spearhead SDSU's massive facilities improvement project and was involved in sport oversight of nine Jackrabbit programs while managing the department's external operations. He managed the department's digital and sports information operations, served as department liaison with Learfield Sports, and supervised production and distribution of radio and television content. He was also involved in several compliance and student-athlete service initiatives.

Beginning his professional career as a marketing assistant at Northern Iowa in the fall of 2002, he became Director of Athletic Marketing just three months later. In 2005 Costello became Assistant Athletic Director for Marketing and Promotions, and in 2008 was elevated to Associate Athletic Director for External Relations.

Costello grew up in Fairbank, Iowa, and attended Loras College in Dubuque, Iowa. He served as team captain of the DuHawk basketball team and earned Bill Bradley Scholastic All-America honors before graduating in 1998. After two years with the Briggs Corporation in Des Moines (1999-2000), he interned for the John Deere Classic PGA Tournament in 2001 and for the Boston Celtics in marketing and game operations in 2002. He earned his master's degree from Western Illinois in 2002. Costello and his wife Heather have a daughter, Cailin, and sons Michael and Griffin.

Neutral Record: 3-1

- Third straight Big Sky Championship Title
- Three straight NCAA Tournament appearances for first time in Big Sky history since Weber State in 1978-1980
- First road win over Power Five opponent since 2011

■ In 2023-2024, the Bobcats became the Big Sky's first three-peat champion since Weber State won three straight tournament titles from 1978-1980

■ Montana State's first Division I win of the Matt Logie era came in a thrilling 63-60 road victory over California on November 16, the first road win for the Cats over a Power Five opponent since 2011

■ Three members of the 2024-25 roster — Tyler Patterson, Sam Lecholat, and Patrick McMahon — are three of the four Bobcats in history to make three NCAA Tournament appearances during their playing careers. They are tied with Danny Sprinkle, who made two appearances as a head coach and another as a player on the 1996 NCAA Tournament team.

■ First Team All-Big Sky Selection Robert Ford III turned in one of the more memorable seasons by a Bobcat ever, leading the team in scoring (16.2 ppg) and rebounding (7.6 rpg), while ranking second in the country in steals with a program-record 100 thefts. The Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year and Big Sky Tournament MVP was just one of five players since 1979 in NCAA Division I with 250+ rebounds and 100+ steals in a season, joining Clyde Drexler (1982-83), Ron Harper (1985-86), James Posey (1998-1999), and Eric Coley (1999-2000). Ford, who was listed at 6-feet, is the only member of that list under 6-foot-5.

■ Montana State's late season surge was sparked in part by the play of big man John Olmsted, who played just 27 minutes the entire month of February and was averaging less than two points per game before exploding for a career-high 15 points against first-place Eastern Washington on March 1. The 6-foot-11 center scored at least 15 points in three of the last six games, including a career-high 16 points and 5 rebounds against Montana in the Big Sky Championship game

■ Montana State closed the regular season on ESPN2 with a dominant win over Weber State, then scored 66 points in the second half of their quarterfinal matchup against Weber State to erase a 13-point deficit and advance to the semifinal, where they narrowly got by upstart Sacramento State to advance to the title game against the Griz--the first Brawl of the Wild tournament championship since 1986. Using their March trademark "Avalanche Hoops" approach, the Cats went on a 41-9 run in the second half after trailing by 11 points to secure their third straight Big Sky Tournament championship

■ The Cats' memorable March run came to a close in the NCAA Tournament at the First Four in Dayton, Ohio, with an 88-81 overtime loss to Grambling State

NCAA TOURNAMENT TEAMS

2023-24 SEASON

17-18 Overall Record
9-9 Big Sky Conference Record
Coached by Matt Logie

Montana State started the Matt Logie-era with a 63-60 win over Cal in November and defeated three of the top four teams in the Big Sky at home during a roller coaster January and February. The Cats rode a high-powered offense that relied on three-point prowess, with Robert Ford III, Tyler Patterson, and Brian Goracke all ranking in the top-11 in program history for three-point makes in a season. The 6-foot Ford earned First Team All-Big Sky, Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year, and Big Sky Tournament MVP after a memorable season that saw him rank second in the country for steals (100) and second in the country for rebounding among all players shorter than 6-foot-4. When it came to March, the Cats scored 66 points in the second half to erase a 13-point deficit and knock off Weber State in the quarterfinal, then narrowly dispatched of Sacramento State in the semifinal to set up a rivalry showdown with the Griz in the championship game. Again trailing by double-digits in the second half, MSU went on a 41-9 run to clinch the crown and become the first team since 1994 seeded fifth or lower to win the Big Sky Tournament.

2022-23 SEASON

Battle's play down the stretch propelled the Cats through an eight-game winning streak that carried through the Big Sky Tournament before ending in the NCAA Tournament at the hands of No. 3-seed Kansas State

2021-22 SEASON

27-8 Overall Record
16-4 Big Sky Conference Record
Coached by Danny Sprinkle

Led by a trio of seniors (Xavier Bishop, Abdul Mohamed and Amin Adamu) who decided to use their extra year of eligibility due to the novel coronavirus pandemic, the Bobcats overcame early setbacks in the non-conference season to win its first Big Sky regular-season and championship titles since 1995-96. Junior forward Jubrile Belo earned Big Sky MVP and Defensive Player of the Year honors, leading the Bobcats from underneath, and Bishop took over in the Big Sky Tournament to help the Bobcats punch their ticket to the tournament, as they edged Weber State in the semifinals then pummeled Northern Colorado in the championship game, before falling to No.3-seed Texas Tech in the NCAA Tournament

NCAA TOURNAMENT TEAMS

1995-96 SEASON

21-9 Overall Record
11-3 Big Sky Conference Record
Coached by Mick Durham

In retrospect, it might have been inevitable. From the time the Bobcat basketball team began practicing in October 1995, until it left the court after a valiant effort in the NCAA Tournament against Syracuse, the 1995-96 Montana State men's basketball team always had an air of destiny. The team seemed bound for great things. Even two decades later, that team's accomplishments remain startling. The 21 wins made the Bobcat squad the first since 1952 to win 20 games in back-to-back seasons. It won MSU's first league championship since 1986 and its first Big Sky regular season title since 1987. MSU finished third in the nation in team field goal percentage in 1996, 13th in scoring margin and 20th in scoring offense. The Bobcats opened the season 7-5 with victories against Gonzaga and Butler. then went on a tear in Big Sky play. MSU welcomed the conference tournament into its own building and dominated Idaho 91-66 in the semifinals. Facing defending BIg Sky champion Weber State, the Bobcats fell behind early, but a Danny Sprinkle 3-pointer tied the game at 48. MSU wouldn't trail again as the Bobcats punched their ticket to the Big Dance.

1985-86 SEASON

14-17 Overall Record
6-8 Big Sky Conference Record
Coached by Stu Starner

The 1985-86 Montana State team was ahead of its time. A young team that played a run-and-gun carefree style, MSU entered the Big Sky Tournament as the seventh seed in a seven-team tournament. The style and growing maturity of the Bobcats had led to some late season success and confidence heading into the Big Sky Championship. MSU had closed the regular season by winning three of its last four, including an 88-76 win over Montana in Bozeman. The Bobcats opened the tournament with an 81-80 win over host Nevada then followed it up with an 80-74 victory over No. 1 seed Northern Arizona. The 'Cats were led in the contest by Kral Ferch's 26 points and Tony Hampton's 19. The Big Sky Championship game featured another clash against the Grizzlies. In front of 4,309 fans at Reno's Lawlor Events Center, MSU stunned Montana for the second time in 10 days with an 82-77 victory. Hampton earned tournament MVP honors. The 'Cats as the 16-seed lost a close 83-74 game versus No. 1 seed St. John's.

1950-51 SEASON

24-12 Overall Record
Coached by Brick Breeden

After safely sealing a Rocky Mountain Conference Championship with only one league loss, the Bobcats earned their fist state basketball title since 1946 with an end of the season sweep of Montana in Bozeman. MSU earned a bid to play in the NAIB tournament, but bypassed it for the NCAA tournament held in Kansas City from March 21-24. The NCAA Tournament hadn't had a team from the RMC participate in it for several years and MSU would be the first institution from Montana to appear in it. The 1950-51 tournament was the first to feature 16 teams after expanding from eight. Montana State matched up against Oklahoma A&M (now Oklahoma State) in its opening West Region First Round game. The Bobcats fell 50-46 to the No. 2 team in the nation. Joe McKethen scored a team-high 15 points and Les Curry followed with 11. McKethen and Curry were chosen to the All-Conference First Five team and Brick Breeden was named the RMC's Coach of the Year.

1928-29 NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

Montana State boasts one of college basketball's legendary teams, the Golden Bobcats of the late 1920s. The school's basketball teams had acclaimed fame throughout that decade by placing "racehorse basketball," becoming one of the first schools in the nation to employ what is now known as the fast break. MSU graduate and coach Ott Romney pioneered the style of play and assembled a team suited to play the up-tempo brand of basketball before Schubert R. Dyche took over ahead of the national championship season. Cat Thompson, Frank Ward, Val Glynn and Max Worthington formed the heart of the Rocky Mountains' best basketball team, as then Montana State College won the Rocky Mountain Conference title three straight seasons, besting powerful outfits from Utah State, BYU, Colorado and Denver each season.

The 1928-29 team reached college basketball's zenith, defeating the AAU Champion Cook's Painters in a two-of-three series and streamrolling to the Rocky Mountain Conference title. The team was named National Champions by the Helms Foundation, which also eventually named Cat Thompson one of the five greatest players in the first half of the 20th century in college hoops.

Thompson and Ward were All-America selections on a team that outscored the opposition 2,293-1,208 during the 1928-29 season. Their 60 points per game average was 20 points higher than the national average.

BRICK BREEDEN FIELDHOUSE/WORTHINGTON ARENA

Montana State University's Brick Breeden Fieldhouse opened as a premiere college basketball and all-purpose facility in 1956. The Fieldhouse has served as the home of Bobcat basketball since it was dedicated prior to the 1957-58 season. Heading into its 63rd season in the arena, MSU has suffered only five seasons with a losing record at home and has a .688 winning percentage over the course of 856 games in Worthington Arena.

The MSU Fieldhouse, as it was then known, was the largest domed structure in the western hemisphere without a center support at the time. With a basketball capacity of 6,772 spectators, Worthington Arena has been the home of many memorable moments in Bobcat history. The venue held the Big Sky Men's Basketball Championships in 1988, 1996 and 2002.

Brick Breeden Fieldhouse has played host to concerts among the most known in the music industry. It also is used for indoor track and field meets and rodeo. The Fieldhouse was named after John "Brick" Breeden, one of MSU's most successful coaches, in 1981. The main arena was named after Max Worthington in 1985. Both were members of the famed 1929 Golden Bobcats.

The Big Sky Conference is entering its 62nd year overall and 37th year of women's competition during the 2024-25 school year.

The Conference was established in 1963 by six charter members – Idaho, Idaho State, Gonzaga, Montana, Montana State and Weber State. The name originated in a novel written by A.B. Guthrie of Great Falls, Mont., entitled "The Big Sky". The name "Big Sky" was adopted by the six presidents of the charter members as the name of the new conference on February 25, 1963.

Four of the current league members - Idaho State, Montana, Montana State and Weber State - have been with the league since its birth. Northern Arizona enters its 50th season in the league, giving the league five members with at least 45 years of continuous membership.

The Conference added UC Davis and Cal Poly as football affiliate members on July 1, 2012. Idaho returned most of its sports to the Conference in 2014, while football returned to the league in 2018. Eastern Washington, Northern Colorado, Portland State and Sacramento State round out the current membership.

Southern Utah departed the Big Sky for the Western Athletic Conference in the summer of 2022, giving the conference 10 full members. Due to the Thunderbirds' departure, the Big Sky men's and women's basketball schedules feature 18 games with each team playing every opponent twice.

The Big Sky is one of three conferences in the western United States playing Division I football and is a national leader in the Football Championship Subdivision. Big Sky teams have won the Division I Football National Championship six times, including Eastern Washington most recently in 2010. In 2016, Northern Arizona won the NCAA Division I Men's Cross Country National Championship, making them the first conference team to win a national championship in a sport other than football. The Lumberjacks followed with national championships in 2017, 2018, 2020, 2021, and 2022.

Currently, the Conference sponsors 15 sports (nine women's and seven men's sports), including football, men's and women's basketball, women's soccer, women's volleyball, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and field, softball, women's golf, and men's and women's tennis.

BRAWL OF THE WILD SERIES

BRAWL OF THE WILD SERIES

The Cat-Griz rivalry is one of the best in college athletics. Montana State and Montana have teamed up along with Learfield for a year-long rivarly series between the two institutions. The Brawl of the Wild Series operates on a point system in which each school can earn a maximum 17 points per based on head-to-head competition.

Points are awarded to the winner of a head-to-head contest OR whoever places higher in the Big Sky Championships if no head-to-head matchups occur. The University that places higher at the Big Sky Championship will earn the point. Should there be a tie at the Big Sky Championship, the point will be split. Head-to-head post-season matchups do not count.
