Jeff Long (10) became Navy's all-time leading scorer in 1977 thanks to his unselfish play. He earned nearly half of his points on assists and left as Navy's all-time leader in season assists (53), as well as career assists (149).

THE HISTORY OF NAVY LACROSSE

Of the 30 sports which thrive at the Naval Academy, perhaps none possess a heritage as rich and as storied as that of lacrosse. Ninety-three years, 17 national championships, 331 All-Americans. Seven of the most admired, gifted and revered coaches to ever grace the stick sidelines. A chronicle of a solitary sport whose modest beginnings would escape the boundaries of the ordinary and become superior.

Navy lacrosse history began in 1908 with a big assist, ironically enough, from Johns Hopkins. Navy lacrosse, if it existed at all, was an informal thing in 1907 when a couple of young Baltimore lawyers, fresh out of Johns Hopkins, volunteered to help organize and coach a team there. The men Frank Breyer and Bill Hudgins journeyed to Annapolis three times a week for practice and for games on Saturday.

In 1908, when Navy made its debut in college lacrosse circles, the opponent was a natural Hopkins. The first regularly scheduled lacrosse game in Navy history took place against Hopkins on April 4, 1908. The Blue Jays spoiled Navy's stick lidlifter by pinning a 6-1 setback on the rookies. It wasn't a promising season, as the Mids finished 1-2, but it was only the beginning of what would become one of the most successful and respected programs in the history of the sport.

In its first season under an official coach, Navy downed Harvard, 6-3, and in 1910 it turned on its mentors, defeating Hopkins, 7-6. Navy, coached from 1911-1935 by George Finlayson from Canada, compiled the best record of all college teams in 1914, basking in its first ever undefeated season.

The outbreak of World War I put a damper on the 1917 season for all college teams. But before being forced to cancel their schedule, the Midshipmen defeated Penn, 4-1. Abortive as was that schedule, it started a saga unique in college annals. The Midshipmen would not taste defeat for seven seasons.

In that seven-year span, Navy stood supreme among the college teams of the nation. In 1920, Navy allowed only six goals in nine games, an incredible performance which still stands as a record for a full season. The following year saw Navy breeze through yet another all-victorious season, accumulating 94 goals against just three for opponents.

Finlayson piloted the Mids through two more consecutive unbeaten seasons, but in 1924, Maryland handed Navy its first defeat in eight years, 5-3. This snapped a 40-game unbeaten streak. It was also the year of the initial Army-Navy game, and the Mids downed the Black Knights, 5-0 at West Point, handing the Cadets their only reverse of the season.

Finlayson's Midshipmen resumed their winning ways in 1925, playing through an all-victorious 7-0 season. Once again, Navy handed Army its only defeat of the season, in a 3-2 game described in a radio broadcast as the most tense, the most thrilling, the most beautiful athletic contest ever seen on a field of sport.

After the birth of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse

Association in 1926, Navy shared its first title with Hopkins, Maryland and Rutgers. Navy and Union College were awarded gold medals in 1929, each team winning all games played.

George Finlayson left the Naval Academy in 1935 after teaching the Midshipmen for a quarter of a century, during which time he produced 13 unbeaten teams.

THE MOORE YEARS

Replacing Finlayson in 1936 was William H. Dinty Moore III, founder and coach of St. John's College lacrosse.

The next 23 years at Navy were the Moore years, and Dinty added six national titles to his impressive resume. Moore's 1938 squad registered a perfect 7-0 slate to lay claim to the Wingate Trophy which was initiated in 1936 by the U.S.I.L.A.

It took only four years for Moore's Mids to reach the top again, as his 1943 squad won the national title outright. R.J. Booze established an Academy record for goals in a game with eight in a 20-6 thrashing of Drexel, a record that has not been equalled in the years since. Navy then won or shared the national title five times within the 12-year span between 1943 and 1954.

The next title came just two years later in 1945, but the Mids were forced to settle for a co-championship with Army after battling the Cadets to a 7-7 deadlock through two extra periods.

Two-time All-America and team captain Charles Guy became Navy's first recipient of the Schmeisser Memorial Cup, awarded annually to the outstanding defenseman in Division I.

Navy responded the following season by reclaiming the Wingate Trophy, this time keeping it all for itself. The Mids finished the 1946 season 8-1, falling only to Johns Hopkins early on before closing out the year with a 12-10 triumph over the Cadets. Stewart McLean became the first-ever recipient of the Jack Turnbull Memorial Award, given to the outstanding attackman in Division I.

James Chambers was only a plebe on that 46 championship squad, but his contributions earned him a spot on the first-team All-America roster. Chambers appeared on the first-team his final two years, along with a host of other achievements. Captain of the 1949 Midshipmen, Chambers guided the squad through a perfect 11-0 season, the most victories for a Navy team. The Mids shared the title with Hopkins that year, with Chambers receiving the Turnbull Award as outstanding attackman in collegiate play. His 148 goals in four years still stands as an Academy record.

After a four year absence from the spotlight, Moore's 1954 squad made winning the national championship look simple. The Mids opened the season with an 18-0 rout of Washington College, followed by a 21-2 thrashing of Harvard and a 23-1 dumping of Penn State. Maryland fell to the Mids, 12-7, and that five goal spread was the closest any team would come in a perfect 10-0 season.

While the winning may have seemed easy on the field, the coaching took on a new angle literally during a mid-season contest with Duke. It seems a Navy attackman hit Moore from the side during play, breaking the coach's leg. Only after Navy had disposed of the Blue

Tom Mitchell

Devils, 17-3, was Moore carried to the hospital for x-rays. He was confined to bed for three months, being allowed to get up only once weekly in a wheelchair. It was from that wheelchair that Moore coached his 54 team to a national title over Army. Ten members of that championship team were accorded All-America honors, including first-team selection Stanley Swanson, who was also awarded the Schmeisser Cup.

Moore's teams lost only 10 games in his final five seasons. Dinty retired after the 58 campaign, taking with him an impressive 23-year record of 157 wins, 46 losses and two ties. There were 31 first-team All-Americans under his tutelage, two outright titles, two shared championships and three undefeated squads.

THE BILDERBACK YEARS

It was the Golden Age in Navy lacrosse, an era never to be equalled. The 1960s belonged, undeniably, to Navy. From 1960-67, the Midshipmen won at least a share of eight national championships, including winning the title outright in 1960, 62, 63, 64, 65 and 66. In 1961, the Mids were co-champions with archrival Army, while in 67, Navy stood alongside Johns Hopkins and Maryland as the tri-champions. During that eight-year span, Navy produced a 72-3 (.960) record and a decade mark of 85-7 (.924). The Mids won 33-consecutive games beginning with a season-opening victory over Rutgers on March 28, 1964 and ending three-quarters of the way through the 67 season.

Navy was a modest 6-3 in 1959, the year Willis Bilderback succeeded Moore after serving as Navy's Plebe coach for 12 years. But it didn't take him long to take Navy to the top. His 1960 squad finished with an unblemished 10-0 slate and reigned atop the lacrosse world for the first time since 1954 and at the expense of Army. Navy took the game by a 10-7 margin and with it, the 1960 championship. In only his second year as the Mids' mentor, Bilderback received the Touchstone Award as the Division I Coach of the Year. It was only the beginning of what would become a dynasty.

In 1961, the Mids swept through their first-nine opponents, before the Black Knights of Army handed Navy its first loss, a 10-8 decision, in the final game of the season. The Mids and Black Knights stood together as the national co-champions. In his senior year, Tom Mitchell received the Turnbull Award as the nation's top attackman.

From 1962 until the end of the 66 campaign, the Mids lost only one game, while claiming five-consecutive national championships. It stands as the longest consecutive string of outright championships to date.

The 62 squad went undefeated, downing Army to claim the title. The 63 team extended its dominance with an 8-1 season and another national championship. Navy won 18-straight games from 1962-63 before dropping an 11-9 verdict to Army in the season finale.

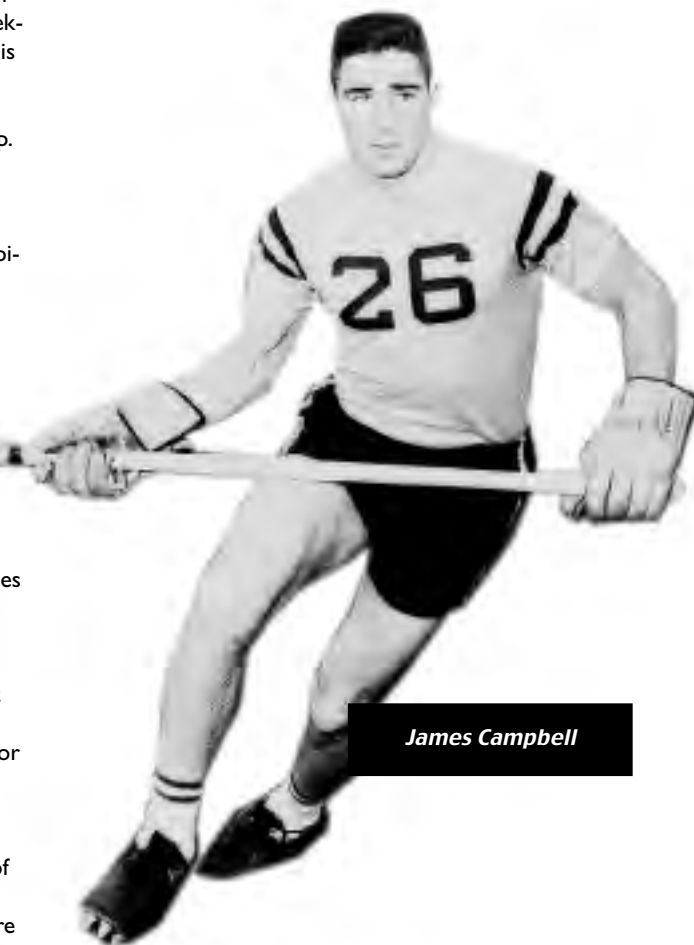

Navy was once again the class of college lacrosse in 64, finishing 9-0. The following year was no different, as the 65 season belonged to Navy from day one. The season finale was a record-setting 18-7 win over Army before 14,000 June week fans. Navy finished the season 10-0.

From an 18-3 thrashing of Washington College in the season opener to a convincing 16-7 defeat over Army in the finale, Navy's 1966 national championship team left no room for doubt.

The talent that graced Navy's rosters during the golden age reads like a list of Who's Who in College Lacrosse. Three-time First-Team All-America attackman James Lewis was the recipient of the Turnbull Award three-consecutive years from 1964-66, the only individual to ever receive that honor three times.

While Navy claimed the nation's top attackman from 1964-66, it also boasted the best defenseman from 1963-65. In 63, Mike Coughlin was awarded the Schmeisser Cup, with James Campbell claiming the honor in 64 and Patrick Donnelly in 65. In addition, Dennis Wedekind was the recipient of the 1964 and 65 Ensign Kelly Award, given to the top Division I goalkeeper.

The 67 Midshipmen ran the unbeaten string to 33 before falling to

James Campbell

Johns Hopkins, 9-6, late in the season. Navy finished the year 7-1, tri-national champions with the Blue Jays and Terrapins. Two-time All-American Carl Tamulevich became Navy's seventh recipient of the Schmeisser Cup, and Malcolm Ogilvie shared the Kelly Award in 68.

Leonard Supko, the 1970 recipient of the Kelly Award, helped lead the Mids to their ninth championship under Bilderback in 11 years, sharing the title with Virginia and Hopkins.

In 1971, the first year of the NCAA Tournament, Navy advanced to the second round before falling to Maryland.

The 1972 campaign would be Bildy's last, but what a legacy he would leave behind. In 14 seasons, Bilderback compiled one of the most amazing records in stick history. His teams fashioned a 117-18-2 record, winning 86.1 percent of the games he coached. Five of his teams finished unbeaten, directing Navy to at least a share of the national championship title in nine of his 14 seasons. Along the way, he helped mold 31 First-Team All-Americans. Bilderback left the coaching helm in 72 for reasons of health.

The greatest experience of my life has been coaching the midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy, Bilderback said in a letter to the Athletic Director. It is a way of life that is extremely difficult to end.

THE SZALSA YEARS

Although a storied era had ended with Bildy's retirement, the tradition of winning and excellence would be sustained. For the next decade, lacrosse at Navy would continue to produce winners, and at the head of it all was Dick Szalsa.

Over the next decade, Szalsa would direct the Midshipmen to 10-consecutive NCAA Tournament berths.

Navy won six of its nine regular-season games in 1975 and advanced to the championship game, where a tough Terrapin team doused the Mids' hopes for a national title. The banner season did not go unrecognized, however, as Szalsa was the recipient of the Touchstone Award for Coach of the Year and firstie John Lawlor won the Schmeisser Cup.

THE RECORD BOOK

It was also about the time an attackman by the name of Jeff Long began to make his presence known. Long earned third-team honors in 1975 and recorded a school-record nine assists in a victory over Hofstra the following year, garnering second-team honors. But his best was yet to come.

Although Navy was once again defeated in the semifinal round in 1977, Long established himself as one of the greatest attackmen ever to play the game. Earning first team honors as a senior, Long's name is splashed across the record pages for most assists in a game (nine), season (53) and career (149), while also standing as Navy's all-time career scoring leader with 233 points.

In 1978, Michael Buzzell appeared on the All-America team for the first time, registering a school-record 13 points in a single game. The following year he also grabbed the medal for most points in a season with 85.

Szalsa ended his 10-year tenure as Navy's mentor after the 1982 season, and took with him an 85-44 record along with a decade of memories of yet another era in a history of greatness.

THE MATTHEWS YEARS

When Bryan Matthews accepted the position of head lacrosse coach at Navy, his record and reputation as a winner preceded him. After taking the reins in 1983, Matthews' early teams struggled amidst the competition, but soon returned to winning form. The '86 Mids darted out to a perfect season before dropping the final three games of the season. Navy received its first invitation to the NCAA Tournament since 1982, falling to Virginia by a 12-9 margin in the second round. But the Mids were back to stay, and Matthews earned the Touchstone Award for the second time in his career. Midfielder Glen Miles received the McLaughlin Award as the nation's top midfielder while appearing on the All-America roster for the third-consecutive year.

The '87 Midshipmen ended the season with a 9-4 mark and the most victories for a Navy squad since 1979. Johns Hopkins edged the Mids, 10-9, in the final regular-season game, but Navy was tournament-bound. Five Midshipmen were named to the All-America roster that year. Paul Basile set an NCAA Tournament record for assists in a play-off game with eight. Navy's national championship hopes were thwarted by Syracuse, who rolled past the Mids, 19-5, en route to claiming the title. The following year saw Navy finish the regular season with a 7-4 record before downing Harvard in the first round of the tournament and again falling to Syracuse in the finals.

Navy's squad of 1989 advanced to the NCAA playoffs for the fourth-consecutive year. Named to the All-America first team was second classman Brian Keith at midfield, the first Midshipmen to receive top honors since 1986. Among the regular-season victories was a 21-1 thrashing of Army to tie the largest margin of victory ever in an Army-Navy matchup. The Mids played host to Penn in the opening round of the tournament, earning a 21-11 victory and a trip to the Dome to once again face the top-ranked Orangemen. Although the result, a defeat, was the same for the third-straight year, Navy never gave up the fight. The Orangemen handled Navy in the end, 18-11, on their way to another title. Basile closed out his career as the Mids' third all-time career scoring leader. Navy made NCAA appearances from 1992-94 and six more Mids were named All-Americans under Matthews. The 1994 season would be the final season under Matthews' direction and Richie Meade became only the seventh head coach in the history of the sport at Navy.

A NEW ERA

Meade's first year (1995) saw Navy go 6-6 as both the team and coach adjusted to a new system. Midfielder Andy Ross earned honorable mention All-America status in the process. In 1996, the Mids finished a disappointing 4-8, but hopes were not dashed as several young players gained valuable experience for the years to come. Once again, Ross was the offensive catalyst for the Mids and earned Honorable Mention All-America recognition for the second-straight year.

The 1997 and '98 campaigns turned in average results with 6-4 and 7-6 records respectively. A positive to the '98 campaign was the resurgence of Navy's dominance over Army. After losses in 1996 and '97, Navy claimed an 11-5 victory over its arch rival, sparking a current seven-year winning streak on the part of the Midshipmen.

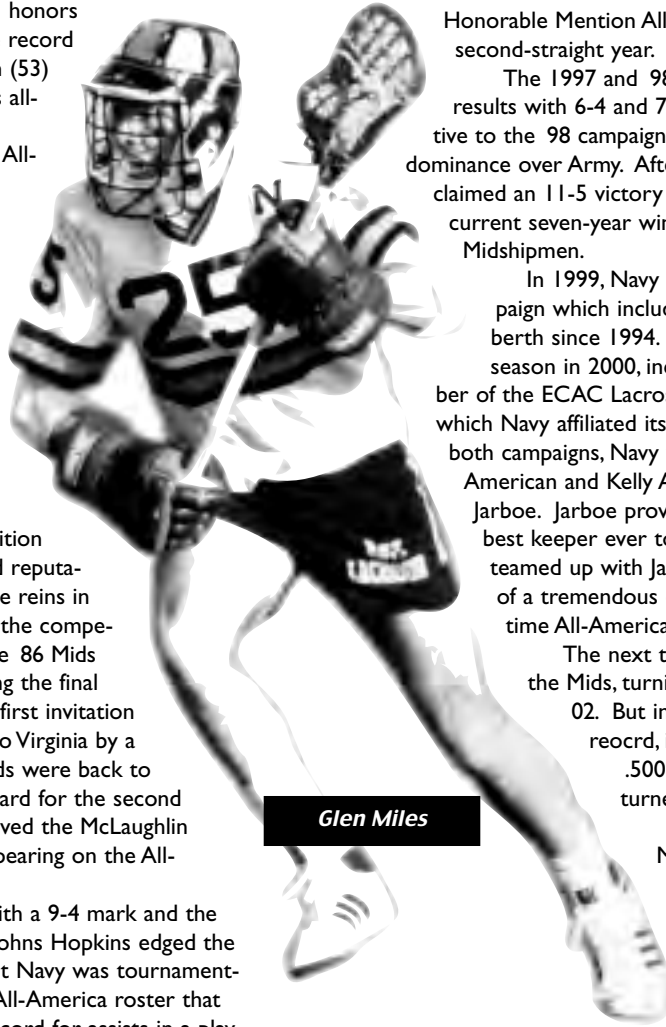

In 1999, Navy broke through with a 7-7 campaign which included its first NCAA Tournament berth since 1994. The Mids followed up with a 9-4 season in 2000, including a 5-1 record as a member of the ECAC Lacrosse League, the first year in which Navy affiliated itself with a conference. During both campaigns, Navy was led by First-Team All-American and Kelly Award-winning goalie Mickey Jarboe. Jarboe proved that he could well be the best keeper ever to play at Navy. Chad Donnelly teamed up with Jarboe to create the cornerstone of a tremendous defense. Donnelly was a three-time All-American for the Mids at close defense.

The next two years were solid seasons for the Mids, turning in 8-5 records in 2001 and '02. But in 2003, Navy produced a 6-7 record, its first season posting a sub-.500 record since the '96 squad turned in a 4-8 mark.

Just a calendar year later, Meade and his staff put together a group of players which will undoubtedly be remembered in the record books for many years to come. The 2004 edition of Navy lacrosse produced seven All-Americans, the most since 1975, and made an appearance in the National Championship Game for just the second time in program history. Along the way, Navy captured its first win over a No. 1-ranked team, a 9-6 decision over Maryland, and tied the school record for consecutive wins with nine. Meade was the recipient of the Morris Touchstone Memorial Award, given to the nation's coach of the year, while sophomore Matt Russell earned the Kelly Award as the top goalkeeper in the country. Navy eclipsed nearly every expectation. The Mids, who finished the year ranked No. 2, weren't even ranked at the start of the 2004 campaign.

And so the tradition of excellence continues. A tradition of excellence that began more than 90 years ago lives on. From that first game in 1908 to the last, a rich and storied history that thrives. A legacy that includes some of the greatest names ever to play or coach the game. An era of national championships that may never be matched. From modest beginnings to national domination, Navy lacrosse.

NATIONAL MILITARY HONORS

The lacrosse players of today recognize the heroic and devoted service of those who have come before us. Their examples of honor, courage and selfless service are aspirations for our competitive spirit on the playing fields. It is their fighting spirit and devotion to the ideals of our Academy and committed service to our country that serve for a model for our future naval service. The following are Navy lacrosse players who have been awarded our nations highest awards for Bravery in Battle. We recognize their courage and contribution for giving us the freedom we now enjoy.

MEDAL OF HONOR

For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life, above and beyond the call of duty, in action involving actual conflict with an opposing armed force.

MCDONNELL, EDWARD ORRICK

Rank and organization: Ensign, U.S. Navy.
 Born: 13 November 1891, Baltimore, Md.
 Accredited to: Maryland. G.O. No.: 177, 4
 December 1915. Citation: For extraordinary heroism in battle, engagements of Vera Cruz, 21 and 22 April 1914. Posted on the roof of the Terminal Hotel and landing, Ens. McDonnell established a signal station there day and night, maintaining communication between troops and ships. At this exposed post he was continually under fire. One man was killed and three wounded at his side during the two days fighting. He showed extraordinary heroism and striking courage and maintained his station in the highest degree of efficiency. All signals go through, largely due to his heroic devotion to duty.

BAUER, HAROLD WILLIAM

Rank and organization: Lieutenant Colonel, U.S. Marine Corps. Born: 20 November 1908. Woodruff, Kan. Appointed from: Nebraska.
 Citation: For extraordinary heroism and conspicuous courage as Squadron Commander of Marine Fighting Squadron 212 in the South Pacific Area during the period 10 May 14 November 1942. Volunteering to pilot a fighter plane in defense of our positions on Guadalcanal, Lt. Col. Bauer participated in two air battles against enemy bombers and fighters outnumbering our force more than 2 to 1, boldly engaged the enemy and destroyed 1 Japanese bomber in the engagement of 28 September and shot down four enemy fighter planes in flames on 3 October, leaving a fifth smoking badly. After successfully leading 26 planes on an over-water ferry flight of more than 600 miles on 16 October, Lt. Col. Bauer, while circling to land, sighted a squadron of enemy planes attacking the U.S.S. McFarland. Undaunted by the formidable opposition and with valor above and beyond the call of duty, he engaged the entire squadron and, although alone and his fuel supply nearly exhausted, fought his plane so brilliantly that four of the Japanese planes were destroyed before he was forced down by lack of fuel. His intrepid fighting spirit and distinctive ability as a leader and an airman, exemplified in his splendid record of combat achievement, were vital factors in the successful operations in the South Pacific Area.

A four-year letterman, Robert Bianchi (7) served as captain of the 1983 squad. He played on three NCAA Tournament teams. On March 23, 1987, he lost his life when the helicopter he was piloting crashed in the Philippines. Navy now annually presents the Lt. Robert Bianchi Award to the player who has contributed most to the overall success of the lacrosse team — Navy's MVP Award.
