Navy Blue and Gold

The Beginnings

The first organized rowing at the Academy began in the late 1860s, when intramural crews raced in craft similar to whale boats. By 1869 the Midshipmen had progressed to what was considered then-standard four-oared racing rigs which enabled them to race other boat clubs. The Naval Academy Boat Club was the first group of Midshipmen to represent the Academy in outside competition when they faced the Quaker City Boat Club in Philadelphia. In that first year of racing, the crew was coached by William Blakie and included John Hubbard, Class of 1870, whose name would eventually adorn the permanent Navy Boathouse when it was built in 1930.

There was no organized crew between 1870 and 1892, and a gale carried the Navy boathouse and equipment away in 1877. It was not until 1892 that the sport resurfaced at the Academy under the leadership of future noted American author Winston Churchill. In 1893, Navy purchased its first eight-oared shell from contributions made by the Brigade of Midshipmen. A year later, a new boathouse was built and two new eights were added.

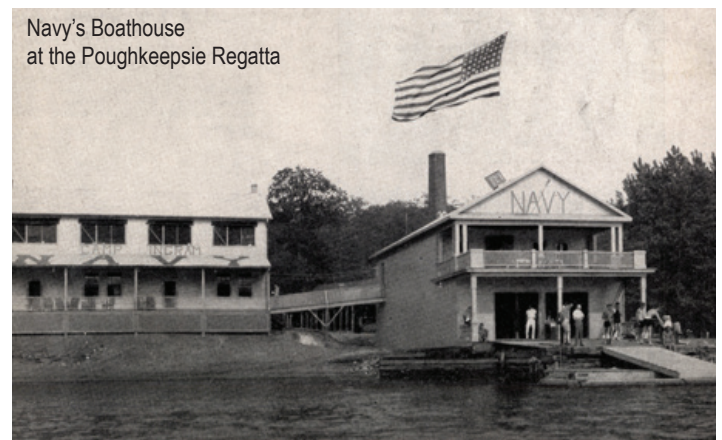

The crews were given a new boathouse at the mouth of Dorsey Creek in 1899 at a site not far from the present Navy rowing facilities. For five years around the turn of the century, Navy had a new coach each year, including the well-known Jim Ten Eyck. Finally in 1904, some stability was infused when Richard A. Glendon took over and laid the groundwork for Navy's winning heritage. A member of those early Glendon crews was future Admiral Chester Nimitz, who stroked the 1904 varsity. Then, in 1907, Navy made its first appearance in the Poughkeepsie Regatta, today's IRA, finishing third.

In 1918 and 1919, as WWI drew to a close, Glendon's crews began a run of success, twice winning the American Regatta Association Championship which was held in place of the Poughkeepsie Regatta in those years. The 1918 Championship was held in Annapolis, where Navy won on the home waters of the Severn. The following year, Navy recorded an undefeated season en route to the championship in 1919. That same year, the lightweights debuted as Coach Glendon also brought a lightweight crew to the 1919 Championship, marking the first time that Navy competed in Lightweight crew. This first Navy Lights shell defeated Pennsylvania to win its inaugural race.

A year later, the championship regatta returned to Poughkeepsie. The 1920 Varsity suffered its only loss of the season there, to Syracuse, but rebounded to defeat the Orangemen in the National Regatta in Worcester, Mass., thus earning the right to represent the United States in the 1920 Olympics in Belgium. Navy rowed to the Olympic Gold Medal by driving past Great Britain in the final 500 meters. The Midshipmen who rowed in the boat were the toast of the Brigade and, in 1921 and '22, Navy recorded its first two wins in the varsity eight at the Poughkeepsie Regatta.

A year later, young Dick Glendon took over for his father as head coach of Navy Crew and the Midshipmen responded with an undefeated season, but were second at Poughkeepsie to a Western crew, Washington. The younger Glendon directed Navy to another unbeaten season in 1925 and its third varsity championship in five years at Poughkeepsie.

Navy crews next triumphed at Poughkeepsie in 1931 with the elder Dick Glendon back at the helm. In 1932, Buck Walsh stepped in as head coach and the Midshipmen once more were among the eastern powers, winning the IRA in 1938.

The lightweight rowing program competed regularly during a four-year stretch in the early 1930's with action in 1931, 1933, 1934 and 1935. On three occasions, the Navy Lights raced at the American Henley Regatta in Philadelphia.

1940's

The war years of the 1940s were lean for Navy Crew and saw several opponents drop the sport, as well as the cancellation of the Poughkeepsie Regatta for four years. There was one spark when, in 1947, the Mids were the Poughkeepsie winners. In 1950, Walsh passed away, and the reins of Navy's crew program were handed to his close coaching associate, Russell "Rusty" Callow.

Callow became a popular figure at the Academy. After winning only one race in 1951, his varsity eight was unbeaten in 1952 en route to the IRA title and then won the Olympic Trials in Worcester, Massachusetts to become the second Navy crew to represent the United States at the Olympic Games. In Helsinki, Finland, Navy's "Great Eight" went on to defeat the Soviet Union for the gold medal. Upon their return, the crew--nicknamed "The Admirals"--were the guests of honor at a Naval Academy Parade, the first time a group of Midshipmen had been so honored. The varsity crew would remain unbeaten in 1953 and 1954, winning 23 consecutive collegiate races (29 races overall) and two consecutive IRA Varsity Eight Championships.

In 1955, the first varsity lightweight team was formed. Coach Buck Herzog, led the Mids in their inaugural season. The team's second coach, Hubbell Davidson, arrived in 1956 and led the squad to its first EARC gold medals with the JV and Freshmen in 1957.

In 1960, Callow was succeeded by Louis Lindsay. His crew that year finished second at the IRA, but a week later reversed its placing and beat California to win the Olympic Trials and the right for a Naval Academy eight to once again represent the United States in the Olympics. Navy and the University of California are the only two collegiate programs to have been the U. S. eight-oared representative three times in the Olympic Games.

In the 1960s, Navy continued to vie for national honors under Paul Quinn, who took over from Lindsay after one year. The Mids won the Eastern Sprints in 1961 and then took the Varsity Challenge Cup at the IRAs in 1965 as part of the famous "Clean Sweep," in which Navy won the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen eight competitions.

During this same time period, the Navy Lightweights, coached by Lt. Robert White, completed an undefeated 1962 season to win the first EARC Lightweight Championship in the history of Navy Crew.

At the close of the decade in 1969, Carl Ullrich became the heavyweight mentor at the boathouse. The man who later would become Assistant Director of Athletics at Navy, Director of Athletics at Army, and Executive Director of the Patriot League, guided the Midshipmen to the Eastern Sprints title in the varsity eight in 1971.

In the lightweight ranks, the 1970's began with the Navy JV and first plebe boat winning bronze medals at the 1970 EARC Sprints. Navy finished third in the Jope Cup team standings at the Sprints that year. This was the beginning of a standout decade for the lightweights as they finished third in the Jope Cup standings in 1971 and 1972 before taking second place at the 1975 regatta. The Varsity 8, under the direction of head coach Jon Van Amringe, earned a silver medal at the 1975 Sprints. In total, the Lights collected 13 victories at the Sprints during the 1970's.

In 1974, one of Ullrich's former plebe coaches, Rick Clothier, returned to the Academy as the new head coach of the heavyweight program. Clothier would go on to an illustrious career with the Midshipmen over the next four-plus decades. During Clothier's tenure as head coach of the Midshipmen, he achieved a career mark of 216-101-2 (.680) and the Navy Heavyweights would go on to capture seven Ten Eyck Trophies (overall team champions), three Varsity Challenge Cup titles (varsity national champions) and five Kennedy Trophy Cups (second varsity national champions).

Women's rowing started at Navy in the spring of 1978, the second year women were allowed to attend the Academy. In that first spring, the Midshipmen competed on the junior varsity level, racing Washington College, Trinity of Washington, D.C., and Virginia's second varsity boats, winning all three regattas.

Women's crew was elevated to varsity status the following year and the Midshipmen won two varsity races while racing at the Division II level.

In 1980, in only its second year of varsity status, Navy women's crew competed in the Dad Vail Regatta. The varsity eight was third in the Grand Finals that first year and the second varsity also earned a third-place finish. Seven years later in 1987, Navy found that next level of success at the Dad Vail Regatta and won the first of six-consecutive Seitz Trophies for outstanding performances by women's crews at the Dad Vail Regatta.

The Navy Heavyweights began the 1980's by winning the varsity eight at the 1980 IRA National Championships and won four straight Championship Eight titles at the Head of the Charles between 1980 and 1984. During those years, Coach Clothier's program won three consecutive Ten Eyck Trophies. The last of these, in 1984, was clinched by the Varsity 8's IRA victory, giving Coach Clothier his second national title of the decade.

The Heavyweights were back on top of the team standings at the 1990 IRA Championships with the fourth Ten Eyck Trophy in nine seasons. The fifth and sixth Ten Eyck Trophies of Clothier's reign came back to Hubbard

Hall with heavyweight team victories in 1992 and 1993. The 1992 regatta was noteworthy for the Mids' win in the varsity eight race. Clothier and the program later collected a seventh Ten Eyck at the 1996 IRAs.

Navy Women's Crew continued its run of success at the Dad Vail with Martin Stone taking over as head coach before the 1991 season. In his second year at the helm in 1992, Stone guided the Mids to their first-ever varsity eight gold medal at Dad Vail, along with another Seitz Trophy triumph, while the second varsity eight won its fifth-straight gold medal.

Stone's assistant coach in 1991 and '92 was Lt. Cmdr. Wendy Lawrence, who was a two-year letterwinner in the sport in its fledgling years at Navy. Later, Capt. Lawrence became an astronaut in the U.S. space program.

In 1994, the Navy women won the varsity eight race at the second annual Champion International Collegiate Regatta, in addition to earning the Anita DeFrantz Trophy for overall team performance. Following its success in the early 1990's, the women's program took a step up in 1995 and was elevated to the Division I level. The Mids joined the Eastern Sprints League, the nation's strongest conference at the time.

As part of the team's move to the Division I level, Mike Hughes came aboard as head coach of the women's program before the 1998 season. No stranger to Hubbard Hall, Hughes was the head Navy lightweight coach from 1991 through 1994 and the plebe heavyweight coach from 1995 to 1997.

1997 also brought about change in leadership in the lightweight ranks as Dale Hurley became the first full-time head coach in program history. Hurley's crews in the late nineties brought the Navy Lights back into contention at both the Eastern Sprints and Head of the Charles, culminating in the lightweights first appearance at the IRA Regatta in 2001.

2004 Lightweight IRA National Champions

2000's

In 2002, Rob Friedrich came to Navy and immediately led the lightweights to the program's best finish at the Eastern Sprints since 1975, as the Varsity 8 finished second. Additionally, the team placed second in the Jope Cup standings.

This new-found improvement for the lightweights reached new levels with the best season in the program's history in 2004. That season the varsity boat ended the regular season with an undefeated record, won the Eastern Sprints title and the IRA National Championship. Navy later went on to reach the semifinal round at the Henley Royal Regatta in England.

For the Heavyweights, the 2004 season saw a return to form when the Varsity eight medaled at the Eastern Sprints and took fourth at the IRA Regatta. With the scholarship era of rowing in full swing, Clothier would still notch three top-ten finishes before the end of the decade.

In 2005, Navy Women's Crew, 10 years after attaining Division I status, joined the Patriot League for the inaugural season of competition in the conference. The Mids flexed their skills off the bat, sweeping the three boat titles and capturing the team championship at the 2005 regatta.

For the Lightweights, the victories continued piling up, as they found themselves back atop the leaderboard at the Eastern Sprints with Navy winning back-to-back Jope Cups in 2006 and 2007. That marked the first time in program history that the lightweights had won consecutive team titles.

In 2012, Clothier retired, after 38 years at the helm of the Heavyweight program, and Rob Friedrich, with 11 combined years as a successful head coach of the lightweight team and as an associate head coach with the heavyweights, was chosen to replace Clothier prior to the 2012-13 school year. Since taking over, Friedrich has led the program to three top-10 finishes at the IRAs, and placed six athletes on the US National team. He shepherded the program through the end of freshmen rowing and the introduction of the new rules that allow freshmen to race in Varsity boats. Friedrich also began the annual Alumni Banquet tradition and oversaw the expansion of the coaching staffs.

Navy Women's Crew earned their second Patriot League championship in 2013 on the strength of titles in the varsity eight and second varsity eight races. This team win gave Navy the Patriot League's first-ever automatic bid to the NCAA Championships. The Mids finished 20th overall in their first appearance at the NCAAs.

2018 Patriot League Champions

Patriot League title number three came in 2015 during Hughes' last season as the Mids' head coach. Navy swept the three-race slate of championship action to earn the team title and an automatic bid into the NCAA Championship.

For the Lightweights, 2013-14 saw a change in leadership as Shawn Bagnall came aboard as head coach. In his first season at the helm, Bagnall helped Navy to qualify both its varsity eight and varsity four boats into the IRA Regatta for the first time since 2011.

Settled in as the head coach and leader of the lightweight ranks, Bagnall helped the Mids earn a pair of important EARC regular season matchups over storied programs such as Harvard in 2016 and Princeton in 2017, while keeping the Mids in contention at the IRA's every season.

In 2016, Navy Women's Crew continued its run of strong performances at the Patriot League Championship under first-year head coach Joe Schlosberg with another team title. They repeated this feat at the 2017 and 2018 Championships. This brought their run of NCAA Championship bids to four straight seasons.

In 2018, the Navy women's rowing program reached a new peak in its performance as the Mids finished 17th overall at the NCAA Regatta. In recognition of its effort in postseason competition, Navy concluded the season ranked 18th in the final NCAA DI poll. The Academy was the only non Power-5 or Ivy League school represented in the top-20 national poll.
