Credits: The 2008 NIU Men's Soccer Media Guide is a publication of the NIU Media Relations Office. It is designed to assist the media in its coverage of the Huskie men's soccer program. Copies are available to the public for $10. The guide was written, designed and edited by Russell Houghtaling and Donna Turner, with assistance from Ben Killam. Covers: Russell Houghtaling. Photography: NIU Media Imaging: Jay Orbik, Scott Walstrom, George Tarbay, Don Butler, Wade Derkes, Gordon Means, Barry Stark, Keith Lowman, and Don Banke.

Though the rules of the game have been in place for nearly 150 years, everything about soccer continues to evolve, including the facilities and playing surfaces. Northern Illinois has taken the next step in that evolution with the NIU Soccer/Track and Field Complex.

The new facility is home to the men’s and women’s soccer programs, as well as the Huskie track and field team, and is highlighted by a world-class quality artificial soccer turf.

“When you take a hard look around the northern half of the United States, you see a lot of Division I institutions shifting to turf, because it makes sense financially, and for our student-athletes,” Head Men’s Soccer Coach Steve Simmons said.

The field will be built to the specifications of a FIFA 2-Star pitch, which means it is able to pass a series of vigorous tests to ensure it fits in FIFA’s parameters for ball roll, bounce, rebound, shock absorption and 22 other properties.

“We’re getting a Fifa 2-Star quality surface, and that’s quite significant,” Simmons said. “What that means is you can play top-level matches on it. For us, in particular, we can host NCAA events as if the surface were natural grass.”

The surface will allow for a consistency that grass does not guarantee, and open the field up for training for more of the year. Simmons added that artificial turf helps neutralize the sometimes unpredictable weather in northern Illinois.

“The advantages are going to be pretty significant considering the climate we’re in,” he said. “There’s a good share of time during the year when natural grass is difficult to train and play on, and it becomes unproductive. With the turf that we have now, we are able to utilize that

Several layers underneath the playing surface help keep the field ready for action in almost any weather. When rain falls on the new turf, it will quickly move through the pitch thanks to a foot-thick layer of P-210 stone. A herringbone channel drainage system then directs the water to a retention pond, keeping the field ready for play.

“So much of what makes this facility great is what you can’t see,” Simmons said. “It’s tough to appreciate the difference a sophisticated drainage and anti-freeze system makes by attending a match. But the difference for us when it comes to training and playing is undeniable.”

And when the Huskies play at home, fans will be able to enjoy amenities not available at the former Huskie Soccer Stadium. The Huskie faithful will find an entrance on the northwest side of the complex, with nearly unlimited parking available in the Convocation Center lot. A new concession stand resides on the northwest corner of the facility. Bleachers line the east side of the field, giving up to 1,989 spectators a clear line of sight to the action. To keep track of the game, a new scoreboard stands on the north side of the field, and is capable of displaying both soccer and track and field information. For the 2009 season, lights will be added to the complex, allowing fans to enjoy soccer in prime time.

“The new facility is much more fan friendly,” Simmons said. “And when lights are installed for 2009, it’s going to have the big-time atmosphere that will add to our already tremendous home field advantage.”

For the Huskie women’s track and field team, the complex includes an eight-lane track, separate pole vault and high jump areas, three long jump pits, and a throws area immediately to the south of the track. Like the soccer field, the new track surface will be nearly impermeable to damage from rain and snow, thanks to a water-proof “sandwich system” that layers two synthetic materials.

HERRINGBONE CHANNEL DRAINAGE SYSTEM

The complex includes a herringbone channel drainage system, with a ribbed design that quickly directs water to a nearby reservoir. The system is a key factor in keeping the field dry and playable in almost any weather conditions.

P-210 STONE LAYER

A foot-thick layer of P-210 Stone, a golf-ball sized chunk of rock, enables water to filter through the field to the Herringbone Channel Drainage System.

FIFA 2-STAR CERTIFICATION

The playing surface is of the highest quality in the world, able to pass a series of rigorous certification tests and become one of less than 100 FIFA 2-Star Certified fields world-wide.

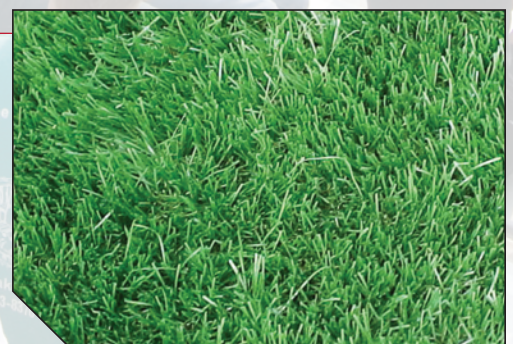

FAN-FRIENDLY FACILITY

In addition to seating for up to 1,989 fans, the complex features a new concession stand, nearly unlimited parking, and a scoreboard capable of displaying both soccer and track and field information.

PITCH PERFECT

The artificial turf provides a level surface that remains nearly perfect through almost any weather. Turf also thaws more quickly than grass after a freeze, allowing more time for training.

With over a decade of experience bringing programs to the top, Northern Illinois' Steve Simmons is recognized as one of the top coaches in collegiate men's soccer.

With the conclusion of the 2007 season, Simmons' team capped a four-year run in which the Huskies won 45 matches, equaling a school-record for the most wins in four seasons. In that time, NIU has won a Mid-American Conference Championship, gone to the second round of the NCAA Tournament, defeated a top-10 team, and had players honored 21 times with All-MAC accolades.

The 2007 year saw some of Simmons' best career highlights. The Huskies upset then-No. 9 Northwestern, 2-1, in double overtime, and played to stalemates with No. 9 Notre Dame and No. 22 Akron. Seniors Marcus McCarty and Steve Algozino were awarded All-MAC honors, and sophomore Kyle Knotek was named Academic All-MAC for his 4.0 GPA in business.

Simmons' most outstanding professional recognition came after guiding his team to the 2006 Mid-American Conference Championship, when he was honored with the Great Lakes Region Coach of the Year Award from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. The honor made him Northern Illinois' first finalist for the NSCAA Coach of the Year Award. He has also filled his shelf with Mid-American Conference hardware, winning the MAC Gary V. Palmisano Coach of the Year Award twice (2004, 2006) in five years at NIU.

Simmons earned the 2006 awards after his team achieved the best season in Huskie men's soccer history. NIU's first MAC Men's Soccer Champion, the team finished the season with a school-record 15 wins, including a perfect 9-0-0 mark at home, and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Simmons' defense-first philosophy led to the unprecedented success of the 2006 campaign. Goalkeeper Joe Zimka set an NCAA Division I record by allowing just 0.21 goals against per match, and the Huskies notched 14 shutouts, tied for the most in the country. Seven of those shutout performances came during an eight-match unbeaten streak in which NIU played No. 21 Notre Dame to a double-overtime tie, and defeated conference foes Bowling Green, IPFW, Western Michigan, and two-time defending MAC champion Akron. The 15-win 2006 season saw the Huskies ranked as high as 19th on the NSCAA's Top-25, and punctuated an impressive three-year run in which the Huskies won 38 matches.

Eleven of those 38 wins came from the effort in 2005. The Huskies rode a 736:31 shutout streak to a seven-match unbeaten run that peaked with a No. 22 national ranking. Driven by conference victories over Bowling Green, Western Michigan, Buffalo and IPFW, Northern Illinois finished as the runner-up in the MAC for the second straight season. It was the first time the Huskies had finished in the top two in their conference in consecutive seasons since 1989-90.

That 11-6-2 campaign of 2005 was a solid encore to 2004's impressive 12-7-0 record. The Huskies won eight more games in 2004 than the year before, the nation's second-best turnaround. Northern Illinois rose to second-place in the MAC regular-season standings at 4-2-0. Simmons' second-year results were highlighted by a 1-0 victory over defending MAC champion Kentucky.

The 2004 season saw the MAC award Curt Zastrow with Freshman of the Year honors, and place five other NIU players on its All-MAC teams. The turnaround engineered by Simmons made him Northern Illinois' first winner of the Mid-American Conference Gary V. Palmisano Coach of the Year Award.

The foundation for Simmons' reconstruction efforts can be traced back to 2003, his first season in DeKalb. Faced with a program slowed by graduation and injuries, Simmons utilized a line-up with six freshmen. The Huskies won three contests in 2003, including MAC wins over Marshall and Buffalo, and lost nine matches by a single goal.

Prior to coming to NIU, Simmons spent two seasons as associate coach for Oregon State, where he worked with defenders and goalkeepers under Beaver coach Dana Taylor. His teaching was evident in 2002 when OSU climbed to No. 18 in the national polls during a nine-week run in the top-25. Oregon State earned its first trip to the NCAA College Cup as part of a 13-8-0 campaign that was highlighted by victories over No. 6-rated California and No. 12 Tulsa.

Simmons moved to Corvallis after a successful five-year stint as head men's and women's coach at Linfield College in McMinnville, Ore. He took over a men's program coming off a 1-15-0 campaign in 1995 and built the Wildcats into a successful program. After an 8-11-0 debut in 1996 and a 7-12-1 mark in 1997, his team reached double digits in victories for the first time with a 10-10-0 record in 1998. Simmons' team followed that up with 12-7-1 record in 1999, and made a trip to the 2000 Final Four, where a loss to the eventual national champion ended a 21-1-1 season.

Simmons began his coaching career as an assistant at Gonzaga University in 1994 and gained his first head coaching post the following summer at Division III Whitworth College (Spokane, Wash.). His 9-8-2 record that year gave him Northwest Conference Coach of the Year honors and led to his move to fellow Northwest Conference member Linfield. With the Wildcats, he gained his second NWC Coach of the Year plaque in 2000. Between Linfield and Whitworth, Simmons compiled a head coaching record of 67-49-5 (.574).

As a collegian, Simmons netted First-Team All-America honors from the National Christian College Athletic Association as well as NAIA Academic All-America recognition as a senior at Concordia University-Portland. He was a two-time (1988, 1989) NAIA Northwest All-Region selection and gained Concordia's Male Athlete of the Year Award in 1990 before earning a spot on the school's Athletics Wall of Fame in 1993.

A graduate of Chugiak High School in Eagle River, Alaska, Simmons completed a bachelor of arts degree in business administration from Concordia in June, 1990. He was awarded his Master of Arts in physical education from Gonzaga in 1996.

Simmons is married to the former Maria Ballantyne of Salem, Ore. The couple has three children: sons Keagan, 11, and Jordan, 7, and daughter, Katey, 10.

QUOTES ON SIMMONS

"In a relatively short period of time Coach Simmons has established a high standard for our men's soccer program. He has had our team nationally ranked and they are consistently at the top of our conference and competing for the MAC Championship. His teams have been very successful in the classroom and have been active in our community. He is highly regarded in the collegiate coaching community and is a fierce recruiter. I am looking forward to great season under his leadership."

Jeff Compher
NIU Athletic Director

"He's an excellent coach, also a class person and a class individual; he has a great deal of integrity; he knows the game, and knows players. When you roll all these qualities into one, you see you've got a very good coach. He's put Northern Illinois right into being a serious contender, and certainly one of the hardest matches on our schedule, and we play a pretty tough schedule."

Bobby Clark
Head Coach, Notre Dame

"He knows the game. Steve is always reading, watching games, thirsting for knowledge. The highest honor you can pay someone is to call somebody your friend, and I'd bend over backwards and go to the ends of the earth for Steve Simmons. He's that great of a friend to me."

Dana Taylor
Head Coach, Oregon State

"All around, he's a class guy. The type of guy who is a model for any coach, at any level, in any sport. Since Steve has come to NIU, he's moved Northern back into the limelight of Division I soccer. He separates himself from others because he will roll up his sleeves and work hard. It's no wonder Northern is the number one or two choice as a soccer school in Illinois."

Mike Matkovich
Assistant Coach, Chivas USA

"I had the privilege of being coached by Steve. He is a genuine guy and cares about players, a good-hearted person who brings out the best in those he coaches. And it wasn't all about wins and losses. It was about being a better person on the field as well as off of it."

Alan Gordon
Midfielder, L.A. Galaxy

Simmons led the Huskies to the 2006 Mid-American Conference regular season and tournament championships, and guided his team to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Q&A WITH COACH SIMMONS

What are the team goals for the upcoming season?

"As always, we look to compete for the MAC Championship. Additionally, we want to perform consistently with our tough non-conference schedule as this will prepare us for a difficult MAC campaign."

How do you see the competition in the Mid-American Conference this year?

"I see the MAC as tough as it has been in a long time. As a conference our goal is to have multiple teams make the NCAA's. The 2008 MAC teams are geared up for just that."

Who is the ideal Huskie soccer player?

"The ideal Huskie player is a player with ability who is 'coachable' and strives to achieve their highest standard possible academically, athletically and socially. In the end, he is honest and rolls his sleeves up to get to work."

What's the key to your ability to quickly turn programs into winners?

"I've been fortunate enough to be able to help good coaches establish winning cultures. Additionally, most programs I've coached at had good qualities like location, state school, academic reputation, conference affiliation."

How do you incorporate your coaching philosophies into day-to-day activities like practices and meetings?

"Everything we do as a staff has to come back to positively address our core values. We do our best to focus on issues that positively contribute directly or indirectly to the experience of our student-athletes through our core values."

What are the principles that have put the Huskies among the top defensive teams in the nation?

"Our players have a warrior-like mentality that comes with fine-tuned decision-making. It helps to have returning players in back to challenge for defending spots. Good players help make defending principles shine."

What draws so many top students, athletes and coaches to DeKalb and Northern Illinois University?

"I think there are three areas that draw so many top students, athletes and coaches to DeKalb and Northern Illinois University. The first is Chicago. The talent pool in the Chicagoland area is rich and enormous. NIU gives people an opportunity to get a great experience close to home. The second is opportunity. Being a large state school in the Chicagoland area gives NIU a chance to be on the regional and national stage. The third is leadership in the athletic department. Our athletic director, Jeff Compher, has experience at the highest levels of athletic administration, and brings the knowledge and work ethic to match."

ASSISTANT COACHES

kylie STANNARD

Assistant Coach | Fourth Season | Creighton 2001

Teamwork is a central part of Steve Simmons' philosophy, and that is reflected on the sideline, where assistant coach Kylie Stannard begins his third campaign as part of the Northern Illinois University coaching team.

Stannard, who has a United States Soccer Federation (USSF) National "A" Coaching License, came to Northern Illinois after four letterwinning NCAA campaigns with Creighton University.

The Bluejays were ranked No. 1 during his 1999 senior campaign before an 11-5-2 season ended in a first-round

NCAA tournament setback. Creighton was ranked No. 25 in that year's final regular-season balloting. His junior season saw Creighton reach the NCAA Elite Eight and the 16-4-2 year ended with Creighton rated seventh.

As a sophomore, he was part of the Bluejay squad which went 16-5-1 before a second-round NCAA tourney exit and No. 15 final ranking. As a freshman, he played for Creighton's Final Four unit which compiled a 17-5-2 ledger and was rated No. 3 in the year's final poll.

"Coming from a Final Four program, Kylie has firsthand knowledge of what it takes to compete at the highest collegiate level," Simmons said. "And as a four-year member of the staff, he's familiar with NIU and the type of work ethic and core values that are the cornerstone for our men's soccer program."

Coinciding with his stay in Omaha, he logged a five-year stint with Nebraska FC, which included three state titles and two runner-up finishes. His time in Nebraska also saw him start as an assistant coach from 2001-03 before being elevated to head coach until June of 2005. From 2003-04, he doubled as co-director of the organization. Stannard is currently the trainer for Northern Illinois FC U-13 boys and U-15 girls teams and is working with the Illinois and Region II Olympic Developmental Program.

A native of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the first-team all-state, all-metro, and all-district standout for Washington High School was also the MVP of the 1995 Iowa ODP State Championship tournament. Stannard, who earned accountancy and finance degrees from Creighton in 2001, is currently pursuing his master's degree in sports management at NIU.

eric LUZZI

Assistant Coach | Third Season | St. Mary's (Minn.) 1997

When Northern Illinois University head men's soccer coach Steve Simmons began his search to fill an assistant coaching vacancy, his criteria included experience, goalkeeping expertise, solid recruiting skills, a great work ethic, and familiarity with Midwest soccer.

He found all of those and more in Eric Luzzi, the former head coach of Saint Mary's University of Minnesota.

As the goalkeepers coach for the Huskies, Luzzi helped guide the 2006 group to 14 shutouts, the most in school history. Under his leadership, Joe Zimka set the NCAA Division I record for goals against average in a season, allowing just 0.21 shots per match to reach the net. As a team, NIU allowed only 15 total goals on the season, half what the team scored.

"Eric's coaching has been a key asset for our defense," Simmons said. "Additionally, his experience in the Midwest greatly expands our recruiting networks."

A Chicago native, Luzzi followed up a stellar prep goalkeeping career at St. Ignatius High School as a four-year letterman and starting keeper at Saint Mary's. His résumé includes two campaigns as head coach for Schaumburg High School prior to his return to his alma mater, where he spent five seasons guiding the Division III Cardinals, who were 26-48-9 during that timespan.

The son of Illinois High School Soccer Coaches Association (IHSSCA) Hall of Famer and long-time St. Ignatius head coach Jim Luzzi, the NIU assistant has also logged seven summers working with the Olympic Development Program (ODP), including the United States Soccer Federation's Region II camp which has been held at NIU. In the winter of 2006, Luzzi was named head goalkeepers coach for USSF Region II ODP. During the summer of 2007, Luzzi travelled to France with the U-18 ODP squad as an assistant coach.

Luzzi holds a USSF National "A" License, NSCAA Advanced National Diploma and Level III National Goalkeeping License, a USSF Youth License and a Dutch Soccer Federation Youth Coaching Certificate. A 1997 graduate of Saint Mary's, Luzzi earned a bachelor of arts in social science education and is pursuing a master's in human development from SMU.

As Steve Simmons enters his sixth season as Northern Illinois' head men's soccer coach, he is focused on a new theme for the 2008 team: family.

"Coming together as a team, that is going to be the mantra for us," Simmons said.

Not that teams in the past haven't been on the same page, as winning a school-record 45 games in the last four seasons shows. But developing a close-knit bond among teammates has moved to the forefront of Simmons' priorities.

"The family mantra has been important, but, more so this year than ever, it has got to be that way," he said. "We have to take that concept, which is very important, to a heightened level."

Simmons said the movement must be shouldered by his veteran players who have been through the highs and lows of college soccer.

"Our juniors and seniors have experienced winning MAC titles and have gone through a disappointing season," Simmons said. "They've experienced the spectrum, and I think nothing can replace experience."

Two seasons ago, the Huskies won a school-record 15 matches, winning a MAC Championship and making the second round of the NCAA Tournament along the way. Last year, NIU finished with seven wins, placing fifth in the MAC.

"(Former NIU Football Coach) Joe Novak said it very succinctly when he said 'winning is fragile,' and I agree," Simmons said. "I feel confident that we'll take the lessons from the past, good and not so good, and use them to our advantage."

Simmons hopes his 17 returning letterwinners will help pass the knowledge they've gained onto the younger players. Senior Drew Jeskey, who has started in his last 41 appearances, will help shepherd the team through the upcoming year.

"Drew is looked upon as a good natural leader," Simmons said. "I'm excited for him to have that responsibility."

Jeskey will be the key member of a defense that lost three seniors to graduation.

"We did lose three seniors on the backline, but we have players who have apprenticed underneath those three," Simmons said. "The transition is going to be more seamless than people think."

While Simmons always keeps his starting spots open for competition, juniors Josh Karsten and Danny Lopez, who combined for 18 starts last year, and sophomore J.C. Aikenhead, who saw time in 11 matches, could see a majority of time on the back row.

Senior goalkeeper Joe Zimka will direct the defense from the box, where he has been the Huskies' primary net-minder for the last two seasons. In 2006, he set an NCAA record for goals allowed average, and he has recorded 15 career shutouts, fifth-most in NIU history.

"Joe has had a very good spring," Simmons said. "He has had a chance to train with Chivas and the Columbus Crew this summer and you can sense a very quiet confidence because of what he's been doing in his preparation."

Providing goals to give the defense room for error will be up to a mix of returning players and newcomers. Senior Chris Johnson, the Huskies' top returning scorer, will be a prime factor in the offense.

"The way Chris strikes the ball when he gets in the danger area, he doesn't shoot, he finishes," Simmons said.

Johnson, who Simmons' described as "the most athletic player in the conference," tallied three goals and two assists in 2007, his first season of division I soccer. Jeskey complimented those efforts with two goals, as did junior Ben Thomas. Sophomore Juan Hoyos rounds out NIU's returning goal-scorers. The Aurora, Ill. native put in the game-winner against Western Illinois.

"With scoring, sometimes you look to individuals who are going to be able to do it, sometimes by committee," Simmons said. "I think having one or two players who can score gives us goal support, which I equate it to run support in baseball."

In addition to counting on his returners, Simmons could look to a bevy of newcomers to shoulder some of the attack. NSCAA All-American Brad Horton, who scored eight hat tricks as a high school senior, spent the spring practicing with the Huskies, which should give him an edge in the fall. The Colony, Texas native Jason Guehler could factor into the offense, as well. Guehler won the Golden Boot at the USYSA National Tournament for leading his club Andromeda to its second-straight national championship. Simmons said Norwegian forward Finn Jor or Mundelein High School tgraduate Johnny Tyma may also find time in the offense.

"The only thing that the newer players don't have as an advantage is that experience playing in college games and playing a MAC schedule," Simmons said. "But they are certainly talented."

The Huskies are also full of talent in the midfield, where competition for starting spots will be intense throughout the year. Senior Steve Kolzow and junior Kyle Knotek were stalwarts in the middle last season, playing in 19 and 17 matches, respectively, and combining for three assists. Sophomores Luis De La Cerda, Engebret Faerden, and Luis Mojica all made significant contributions in their freshman campaigns, and should also factor in. As should senior Brian Abdallah, who has appeared in 30 matches in the Cardinal and Black.

Simmons expects to tinker with the midfield on a game-by-game basis.

"We have guys that are versatile," he said. "Depending on how we align the midfield systematically, we'll shuffle people in and out based on matchups and so forth."

The way all the players on the team are used could change from the relatively conservative tactics Simmons has used in the past. Both a new surface and a new roster will influence the team's style in the upcoming year.

"Any top-notch coach, I believe, will be picking the kids who fit in their puzzle," Simmons said. "However, sometimes the pieces you have coming in aren't the ones you're expecting; it could be a good piece but different. And I think that's important to your identify. If you have a couple pieces that are different or can offer more, you make sure your puzzle fits with those pieces."

For Simmons and the Huskies, the right players and right tactics are only half the battle. This season, it will all come back to family.

"At the end of the day, a good friend of mine and I were talking about tactics this summer, and he said, 'Confidence and motivation fuel tactics,'" Simmons said. "For NIU this year, it's going to be coming together as a family at a level we haven't done before. That is the key. That is the fuel."

HAT TRICKS

NIU's first hat trick belongs to Eric Roy vs. Illinois (Nov. 4, 1967, DeKalb).

NIU's first back-to-back hat tricks came in 1968 as Eric Roy scored four goals vs. Western Illinois (Oct. 23, 1968) and Jerold Terhune tallied three vs. Ball State (Oct. 26, 1968), both in DeKalb.

The first Huskie to record back-to-back hat tricks was Eric Roy who found the net three times vs. Michigan (Sept. 13, 1969, Ann Arbor) followed by four goals vs Wisconsin (Sept. 20, 1969, DeKalb).

The NIU career record for hat tricks is shared by Eric Roy and Ed Kositzki, who both chalked up five hats during their respective careers.

Northern Illinois' hat trick club currently features 21 different players who have accounted for a total of 32 hatters in NIU men's soccer history.

The most recent Huskie hat trick belongs to Bernhard Hagevik who registered the feat in a Mid-American Conference match at Marshall (Oct. 25, 2002, Huntington).

PETE MANNOS
 1985 Inductee
 (1972-75 / Wilmette, Ill.)

Pete Mannos was the first two-time All-American soccer player in the history of Northern Illinois University, earning first-team All-America status in both 1974 and 1975. He was a first-team All-Midwest Region honoree for both of the campaigns and his 1975 senior year included being named a finalist for the College Player of the Year award, a Senior Bowl All-Star participant, NIU MVP and co-captain. He was credited with 13 shutouts in 14 career matches with 10.7 saves per match. His final year saw him average 10.8 saves per match while yielding 1.8 goals as the Huskies went 7-2-2. Drafted by the San Antonio Thunder in 1976, Mannos shut out the New York Cosmos and Pelé in his professional soccer debut as the Thunder posted a 1-0 upset triumph.

ERIC ROY
 (1967-69 / Homewood, Ill.)

Nicknamed "Mr. Hat Trick," Eric Roy became the initial 'mega scorer' in Northern Illinois University men's soccer history. He established school records for goals in a match (four), a season (16) and a career (43) during his three-season varsity tenure. While those hallmarks have since been surpassed, he continues to share the record for most hat tricks (five) along with honorable mention All-America pick Ed Kositzki. Roy scored the school's first-ever hat trick with three goals against Illinois on Nov. 4, 1967. The team MVP as a sophomore (1967) and junior (1968), he lettered on teams that produced a cumulative 21-3-0 record under Bill Healey (1967-68) and Dave Bucher (1969). In addition, he won three letters as a Huskie wrestler.

ALLAN ZELECHOWSKI
 (1968-70 / Chicago, Ill.)

Was Northern Illinois' first men's soccer All-America selection. Renown as the set-up man for NIU's No. 1 (Ed Kositzki in 1969-71) and No. 3 (Hall of Fame Eric Roy in 1967-69) all-time scorers. Earned varsity letters on Huskie squads that finished 22-5-2 overall for head coach Dave Bucher (8-1-0 in 1968, 8-1-0 in 1969, and 6-3-2 in 1970). Named National Soccer Coaches Association of America honorable mention All-American and honorable mention All-Midwest as a senior (1970). Starred at center halfback and sweeper but had one goal and five assists in final NIU campaign. Played for Hakoh (64-67) in National Soccer League, the Croatians (1981-84), and the famed Chicago Lions (1983-87), including city championship squad in 1986.

HUSKIE ATHLETICS NORTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

Northern Illinois University is among the nation's premier regional public universities.

Located in one of the most dynamic regions of the country, NIU is a comprehensive teaching and research institution with a diverse and international student body of more than 25,000.

▶ NIU has been ranked in the top four percent of all American universities by the Carnegie Foundation, having received the agency's highest possible designation – "Doctoral/Research University Extensive."

▶ The American Chemical Society (ACS) has ranked the NIU Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry among the top 25 in the nation for the number of ACS-certified bachelor's degrees awarded annually. The department also is well known for producing highly sought-after chemistry and science teachers.

▶ U.S. News ranks the NIU Master's in Public Administration (MPA) program as fourth-best nationally in the field of city management and eighth for public finance.

▶ The NIU MPA program has been a major force behind efforts to professionalize municipal staffs in Illinois and advance the national good government movement. About one-third of Illinois city managers are graduates of the program.

▶ NIU's Department of Accountancy has been ranked in the nation's top 10 by the Public Accounting Report for the last four years, while its graduate program has become a fixture in that ranking's top 20.

The Holmes Student Center sits near the center of the Northern Illinois campus.

Top: Altgeld Hall houses the university administration offices and is Northern Illinois University's oldest, and most iconic, building.

Bottom: The Barsema Alumni and Visitors Center is used for a variety of campus gatherings and events.

▶ Last year, U.S. News and World Report placed NIU Accountancy among the top 25 accounting programs in the country.

▶ NIU's marketing program is ranked among the top five percent in the nation by Chicago-based Professional Society for Sales and Marketing Training.

▶ NIU's Professional Selling program was the first collegiate sales program in the nation certified by SMT.

▶ The NIU College of Business was ranked 65th in BusinessWeek's 2007 ranking of best undergraduate business programs in the country. The college received especially high marks for the quality of its faculty, its job placement services and for its facilities. According to the survey, "With dedicated professors and extraordinary facilities, students say NIU provides a private school education on a state school budget."

▶ In 2006, Crain's Chicago Business asked local MBA graduates to rate their schools. Nobody was more pleased than NIU alumni, who reported the highest overall satisfaction and gave the highest marks to the teachers in their program. With endorsements like that, Crain's placed the NIU MBA program among the top seven in Chicago.

▶ Black Issues in Higher Education magazine consistently ranks NIU in the top 100 institutions nationwide for graduating minority students, including No. 1 in the country for number of graduate degrees in education awarded to African-Americans.

▶ NIU's College of Engineering and Engineering Technology ranked in the top 40 among engineering master's degree programs nationwide this year, according to U.S. News and World Report.

▶ All December 2005 NIU School of Nursing graduates passed the state board exams with scores in the 100th percentile on the National Council of State Boards of Nursing Licensure Examination. Comparatively, the pass rate is 86 percent for all nursing programs in Illinois and for all U.S. programs.

NIU FAST FACTS

▶ The main campus in DeKalb (population 40,000) spans 755 acres. NIU also operates outreach centers in Hoffman Estates, Naperville, Rockford and Oregon, Ill.

▶ NIU has seven degree-granting colleges, 55 undergraduate majors, and 75 graduate programs, including 10 Ph.D. programs, doctoral degrees in education and the Juris Doctorate.

▶ The student to faculty ratio is 17 to 1. 91 percent of NIU students are from Illinois, 46 percent are men, 54 percent are women, 26 percent ethnic minorities and there are 862 international students from 88 nations.

▶ NIU has 1,279 faculty members and the average class size is 28 students (18 in senior-level classes). There are 40 academic departments.

▶ Founders Memorial Library and its seven branch libraries contain more than 2 million books and 6,000 electronic journals.

▶ Altgeld Hall, opened in 1899 and rededicated in 2004, is NIU's oldest building.

HUSKIE ATHLETICS AN IDEAL LOCATION

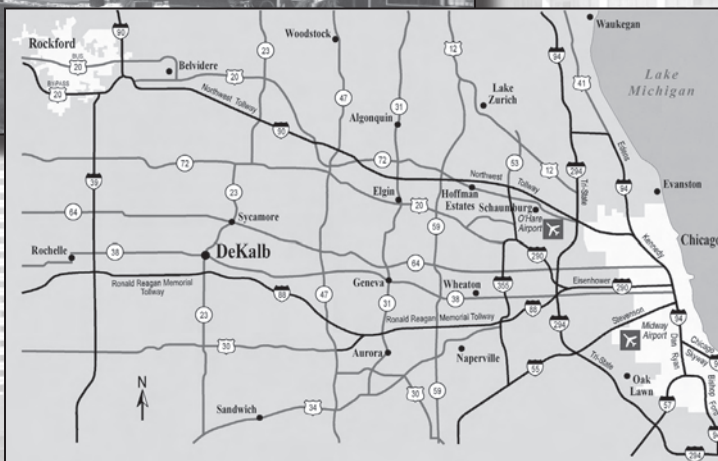

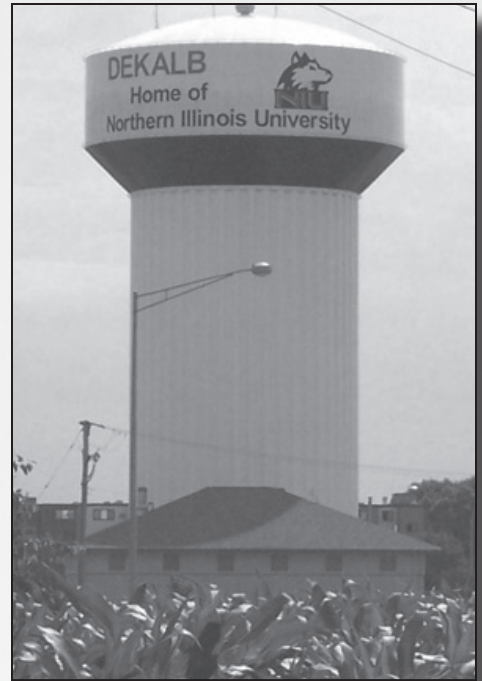

The home of Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Illinois provides NIU students with a college-town atmosphere in the shadow of one of the world's great cities. Located just 65 miles west of downtown Chicago and less than half that distance from the city's ever-expanding western suburbs, DeKalb maintains a unique character and offers a quality existence to its nearly 45,000 residents.

▶ DeKalb is successfully combining the old and the new as brick-paved streets and historic homes co-exist with a growing business sector and brand new residential and commercial developments.

▶ The proximity of Chicago, the third-largest city in the United States, means that local citizens, including NIU student-athletes, have easy access to the city's many offerings, including cultural events and festivals, professional sports, restaurants, theatres and recreational facilities. Three airports – O'Hare, Midway and Rockford – are within an hour's drive of the NIU campus.

▶ In addition to many activities, including athletics, available on campus, DeKalb is famous for its annual "CornFest," welcoming students back to town in late August. During CornFest, streets in downtown DeKalb are closed, bands play and vendors open their doors to the returning population. Nearly 10,000 ears of sweet corn from fields that surround the city are given away free at the Corn Boil.

▶ A comprehensive bus service, proposed high-speed fiber-optic cable installation and a young population (25% are age 20-25) make DeKalb a growing and vibrant community in which to live, work and play.

Top: A view of the DeKalb water tower when heading into town.

Bottom: Thousands of people flock to DeKalb each August for the annual "CornFest" celebration that coincides with the return of NIU students to campus.

Above right: DeKalb is situated between Rockford and Chicago and can be easily accessed from several major highways and three airports.

HUSKIE ATHLETICS MID-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

Commissioner Rick Chryst

Providing leadership in education and in diversity, the Mid-American Conference moves into its 62nd year of service to the student-athlete in 2008-09.

Since its inception in 1946, the Mid-American Conference has progressively grown and developed into one of the most aggressive Division I conferences in the country. Under the guidance of Commissioner Rick Chryst, the seventh commissioner in the history of the league, the MAC has responded to the ever-changing landscape of membership issues and member standards in the fast-paced environment of collegiate athletics.

In its partnership with ESPN, the worldwide leader in sports, an unprecedented 25 football games involving MAC schools will be televised in 2008. That number includes regular season and post season events on ESPN, ESPN2, ESPNU, ESPN Classic and ESPN360. In addition, an eight-game MAC Game of the Week will be syndicated on ESPN Plus and available on over-the-air network affiliates to more than 22 million homes in the Midwest.

Based in Cleveland since July 1999 following a 15-year stay in Toledo, Ohio, the MAC has established historic measurements in both football and men's and women's basketball since its move to Northeast Ohio.

The Mid-American Conference was founded as a five-school league on February 24, 1946 in Columbus, Ohio with Ohio, Butler, Cincinnati, Wayne State and Western Reserve admitted as charter members. Now, the Mid-American Conference has 12 full-time schools and a 13th, Temple, for football only. Comprising the East Division is the University of Akron (joined in 1992), Bowling Green State University (1952), University at Buffalo (1998), Kent State University (1951), Miami University (1947), Ohio University (1946) and Temple University (2007). The West Division members are Ball State University (1973), Central Michigan University (1971), Eastern Michigan University (1971), Northern Illinois University (1975-86, 1997), University of Toledo (1950) and Western Michigan University (1947).

PRESIDENT DR. JOHN G. PETERS

Dr. John G. Peters is the eleventh president of Northern Illinois University, a post he has held since June 2000. As NIU's chief executive officer, Dr. Peters provides strategic direction and oversight for a nationally recognized, comprehensive university serving more than 25,000 students in 120 areas of study at both undergraduate and graduate levels. Under his leadership, NIU has both expanded and refined its institutional vision to more closely align teaching, research and outreach efforts with emerging needs of the northern Illinois / Chicagoland region.

A native of Strongsville, Ohio, Dr. Peters earned his bachelor's degree in political science at Cleveland's John Carroll University, and a master's in government from Ohio University in Athens. In 1974, he received his Ph.D. in political science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Prior to assuming the NIU presidency, Dr. Peters was provost and chief operating officer at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. His distinguished academic career also includes twenty years in teaching and administrative roles at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, where he earned numerous awards for work in and out of the classroom.

Dr. Peters' presidency at NIU has been marked by substantial increases in university reputation and new sources of funding. In his first year as president, he gained admission for NIU to the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC), an honor reserved for the top five percent of universities nationwide. That same year, Dr. Peters secured NIU's largest-ever private gift: $20 million for a new College of Business building. Since that time, President Peters has led efforts to expand federal funding of select NIU research programs - a campaign that has garnered more than $60 million, strengthened key partnerships with state and federal research programs, and enhanced NIU's standing in the prestigious Carnegie Foundation rankings of research institutions. NIU's longstanding commitment to regional service has also received new attention and support under Dr. Peters' leadership. His vision of NIU as "the nation's premier regional public university" has been the basis for substantial enhancement of regional partnerships with schools, business, health care and local governmental agencies.

In 2005, Dr. Peters established an ambitious five-year plan that leverages historic NIU strengths by connecting regional engagement and applied research to the university's well-known focus on real-world learning experiences. Following a year-long strategic planning process involving hundreds of NIU faculty, staff and students, the university emerged with an ambitious blueprint for institutional growth known as the Great Journeys Strategic Plan.

President Peters addresses the media during an athletics press conference.

Fortified by that plan and more than $100 million in private donations, NIU last year launched True North - the university's first-ever comprehensive capital campaign.

Dr. Peters' reputation as a consensus-builder and education policy expert puts him much in demand for leadership roles in statewide and national organizations. He is currently a member of the NCAA Division I Board of Directors and serves on that group's executive committee, as well as its Task Force on Commercial Activity in Intercollegiate Athletics. He has served as chair of the Mid-American Conference Council of Presidents and is a member of that group's executive committee. His leadership in the area of intercollegiate athletics also includes membership on the BCS Presidential Oversight Committee representing the coalition conferences. Dr. Peters served as Illinois' representative to the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU). He is a member of the U.S. Abraham Lincoln Commission on International Education; NASULGC's Commission on Women in Higher Education; and is co-chair of Illinois' Center for Child Welfare and Education. He is a member of the Fermi Research Alliance Board of Directors, the governing board for Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory in Batavia, Illinois, and was appointed by Governor Rod Blagojevich to a task force that promotes funding for Argonne National Laboratory's ambitious Rare Isotope Accelerator project. In 2004, the U.S. Department of Education named Dr. Peters to a special task force studying math and science education, providing a national perspective for his ongoing work with education and economic development groups throughout the Midwest.

A political scientist by training, Dr. Peters specializes in studies of public policy and Congress. He has published widely, including articles in the Journal of Policy Studies, American Politics Quarterly, American Political Science Review, and Legislative Studies Quarterly, and has co-edited two books on American politics. He is a Fellow of the Center for Great Plains Studies and has served as the associate editor of the Great Plains Quarterly. Dr. Peters and his wife, Barbara Cole Peters, have a son, Russell, who lives and works in Knoxville, Tennessee with his wife and young son.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR JEFF COMPHER

Northern Illinois University President John Peters introduced Jeff Compher as the Huskies' new associate vice-president and director of athletics on April 15, 2008 and he began his tenure leading NIU's 17-sport program on June 1.

A veteran collegiate athletics administrator, Compher came to DeKalb after nearly four years at the University of Washington in Seattle, Wash. where he served as executive associate athletic director and was responsible for the general management and daily operations of the athletic department at the Pac 10 school. The Baltimore, Md.

native also brought previous experience as an athletic director to Northern Illinois as he led the athletics program at Western Carolina University from 2000 to 2004.

Peters said Compher's well-rounded background and depth of experience made him the perfect choice to lead the Huskies' athletic program.

"Jeff has it all," Peters said. "His experience in fundraising, athletics administration and overall management of sports programs stood out to me and to the search committee. I am confident that Jeff will take Huskie athletics to the next level in terms of our academic and athletic performance, and his commitment to the welfare of student-athletes is unquestioned."

At Washington, Compher had day-to-day responsibility for a 23-sport, 650 student-athlete department, including direct oversight of the football, men's basketball, baseball and crew teams, as well as facilities and game operations. He also managed the student-athlete welfare areas, including strength and conditioning, athletic training, video services and equipment. Washington won a pair of national championships - in women's volleyball and men's crew - during his time there, and consistently ranked in the top 30 in the Director's Cup standings while surpassing NCAA Academic Progress Rate and Graduation Success Rate standards.

At both UW and Western Carolina, Compher was directly involved with capital projects and facility renovations, including construction of a new track/soccer and tennis complex and a significant expansion of the football stadium at Western Carolina, and the completion of the Football Legends Center at the University of Washington.

While at WCU, he also hired successful head coaches who have since been hired at BCS programs, and saw the operating budget increase by 42 percent and the total budget for athletic scholarships improve by 113 percent. New initiatives at Western Carolina benefited current and former student-athletes as he developed the CHAMPS/Life Skills program and started an organization for former letterwinners. During his tenure in Cullowhee, the Catamount teams improved their individual and conference records and the baseball, women's golf and indoor track and field teams won Southern Conference titles.

As associate and then senior associate athletic director at Vanderbilt University for four years, Compher directed nearly every area of the department, including leading the external areas from 1998-2000 with oversight of fundraising, marketing and promotions, corporate sponsorship and ticket sales and multimedia rights. Prior to that, he oversaw the NCAA compliance, academic support, strength and conditioning, equipment and CHAMPS/Life Skills areas at Vanderbilt.

At each of his previous three stops, Compher has been involved in developing and implementing long-range planning and working closely with constituencies within and outside the university.

He has emphasized the student-athlete experience at every stop of his career. His philosophy on the essential qualities and responsibilities of a Division I director of athletics include: directing a program that honors, serves and enhances the mission of the university; building an effective team; developing effective communication and organizational structure; leading, inspiring and motivating others; creating a success-oriented learning environment and developing the resources to compete on a national level.

Compher spent 13 years in several different positions at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, N.C., both within and outside the athletic department. As assistant athletic director at N.C. State from 1986-92, he managed the student-athlete support services units, established the first life skills program and handled scheduling and travel for the football and men's basketball teams. He also served as director of the Chancellor's Circle in the Office of University Development at NCSU, where he restructured the fundraising and gift club recognition program while doubling membership in the fund. He was the assistant to the chancellor at N.C. State before moving on to Vanderbilt and back into athletics administration.

Throughout his career, the 49-year-old Compher has continued his education, participating in the NACDA Management Institute (1998), the Sports Management Institute Executive Program (1998-99) and the Division I-A Athletic Directors' Institute (2005 and 2006). He served on numerous university committees at each of his previous stops and spent time in the classroom as an instructor at Washington, Western Carolina and N.C. State.

Compher said the fact that Huskie athletics is already positioned for success, along with the leadership of Peters, made the decision to come to Northern Illinois easy.

"This athletic department is in great shape, and that makes it an extremely attractive position," he said. "I believe this university has a chance to really do well in the Mid-American Conference. We can be competitive, and the opportunities are there for success at every level. We have a great academic institution next to one of the top cities in the country."

Compher earned his bachelor's degree in psychology from James Madison University, where he was a football student-athlete, in 1980, and graduated with a master's degree in counseling and student personnel services from Shippensburg University in Pennsylvania in 1982. His first position in collegiate administration was at North Carolina State, where he was the assistant director of Housing and Residence Life from 1982 to 1986.

He and his wife, the former Cathy Fatica, have two sons, C.J. (16) and David (13).

HUSKIE ATHLETICS

JEFFREY & KIMBERLY YORDON CENTER

Opened in August 2007, the state-of-the-art Jeffrey and Kimberly Yordon Center benefits every student-athlete and all 17 programs on campus. The Yordon Center provides Huskie student-athletes with facilities in which to develop their minds, bodies and spirits as they work toward achieving academic and athletic success. It is a cornerstone facility in Northern Illinois' athletic footprint, centrally located adjacent to Huskie Stadium as well as NIU's baseball, softball, tennis and soccer sites.

Every aspect of the Yordon Center is designed to help NIU meet its goal of providing a "world class" experience for its current Huskie student-athletes, and to ensure the ongoing success of the Northern Illinois intercollegiate athletic program. The facility provides an impressive welcome for prospective student-athletes and their families, alumni, donors, guests and visitors.

A few highlights of this state-of-the-art facility:

Frances and George Wilkins Academic Support Center (honoring Carole & Joe Novak): The heart of the 62,000-square foot facility features one-on-one tutorial rooms, a group study room and a fully-equipped computer lab, as well as offices for the counselors of the Student-Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS). This area brings the staff of SAASS into more direct daily contact with NIU's student-athletes.

Strength and Conditioning Center: At 12,500 square-feet, NIU's professional strength and conditioning coaches avoid scheduling conflicts while allowing space for warm-ups, plyometric exercises and speed and agility activities. The spacious area features brand new equipment with a variety and multitude of machines, as well as a four-lane sprint track.

Athletic Training Room: All Huskie student-athletes benefit from the dramatically increased space and improved facilities used by NIU's professional athletic training staff and the team doctors to prevent, treat and rehabilitate injuries. Doctors and trainers alike have been provided all the tools they need, as the Yordon Center's state-of-the-art health center features an X-ray room, doctor's office, two rehabilitation pools, a drug testing area and offices for staff.

Equipment Room: Features include an expandable storage system, laundry drop system, pass through lockers and ample counter and work space for the equipment staff.

Home of Huskie Football: The full-time home of the Huskie football program features new locker rooms for both student-athletes and coaches along with meeting rooms and office space. The beautiful football locker room provides the team with not only 120 lockers, but an informal gathering space and a comfortable area to relax and prepare before and after practice.

On the second floor, the Huskie coaching staff works and meets in new offices with the latest video equipment. The offices include three conference rooms, a head coaching suite and nine assistant coaches' offices overlooking Brigham Field, as well as a video editing room. The second floor also features meeting rooms for each position group, and the tiered McCareins Room with capacity of 150, which is also used by Student-Athlete Academic Support Services for larger group sessions.
