*-Cascade Collegiate Conference Contest

All Times Pacific

Schedule Subject to Change

Northwest University Men's Soccer Notebook

INTRO: Northwest meets Caltech for the first time in Salem. The last time the Eagles played a team for the first time, NU blasted 15 goals.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK: Jordan Travis sees his first action since earning Cascade Collegiate Conference Offensive Player of the Week honors. Travis had back-to-back hat tricks in NU's sweep of Pacific Union and Cal State Maritime, adding an assist in the latter contest.

ROADIES: This game marks the fourth installment of a six-game road swing for the Eagles. Northwest will spend 41 days without a home match before getting back to the Kirkland pitch Sept. 27.

HARD ACT TO FOLLOW: The Eagles scored 20 goals last weekend with a 5-0 win at Pacific Union and a 15-0 win at Maritime. Northwest scored 19 goals all of last season. The 2019 Eagles now have 22 goals on the season.

TRAVIS AMONG NAIA LEADERS: Now with seven goals, Jordan Travis is fourth in the NAIA and fifth with 1.75 goals per game. He is eighth nationally with 15 points, ninth in points per game (3.75), 29th with 2.5 shots on goal per game, and 35th in game-winning goals. Jordan leads the Cascade Collegiate Conference in goals, goals per game, points, and points per game.

SCORING FRENZY: Northwest has three players in the top 10 and six in the top 15 of the Cascade Conference's points per game statistic. Jordan leads at 3.75. Noah Prophet and Justin Harden are tied for ninth at 1.75, Elliot Misic is tied for 11th at 1.67, and Gian Herrera and Dmitry Zorchenko are tied for 14th at 1.5.

WE CAN HELP: With four assists each, Dmitry Zorchenko and Kyle Han are tied with Nolan Sherwood of Rocky Mountain for the Cascade

Collegiate Conference lead. Han, who missed the first two games for NAIA administrative reasons, averages two assists per game and would lead the conference in that category but for a minimum games-played requirement.

TAKING HIS SHOTS: Noah Prophet has launched a team-leading 15 shots this season and is second in the Cascade Collegiate Conference at 3.75 shots per game.

NO-GO IN GOAL: The Eagles have posted back-to-back shutouts, with Alexander Thiehofe getting a four-save shutout against Pacific Union and Brandon Karberg blanking Maritime on two saves. Karberg has not allowed a goal this season, and Thiehofe is at 1.00 goals-against. NU is third in the league with its 1.00 goals-against average.

CHECKING ON CALTECH: The Beavers are 1-1 this season. They lost 3-2 at home against San Diego Christian before evening their record with a 4-1 win at home against Providence Christian. Caltech plays at Willamette Friday before their game against the Eagles Sunday. Richard Mirchandani and Sam Klauer have two goals each to lead the Beavers. Gianfranco de Castro leads the team with a goals-against average of 1.00.

McINTOSH LEADS: NU Head Coach Gary McIntosh returns for his school-record 17th season. He has 134 wins on the Eagles' sidelines and 184 in his career. McIntosh has been the all-time leader in men's soccer coaching wins at NU since 2008.

COMING UP: The Eagles finish off the 41-day road trip with games next weekend in Montana (Sept. 20 and 22) while also beginning Cascade Collegiate Conference action. Northwest plays Providence in Great Falls that Friday and Carroll in Helena on Sunday.
