JOE GIRARDI

Joe Girardi is the most decorated baseball player in school history. A 1986 graduate, Girardi was an ABCA All-American, a two-time first-team All-Big Ten selection and was named a CoSIDA Academic All-American three times during his time at Northwestern.

He ranks third on the NU career lists for doubles, walks and runs batted in, fourth in total bases, fifth in home runs, seventh in hits and ninth in batting average. He went on to play 15 seasons of Major League Baseball with the Chicago Cubs, Colorado Rockies, New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals. A 2000 All-Star selection while with the Cubs, Girardi earned three World Series rings during his time with the Yankees.

Following his playing career, Girardi was named the 2006 National League Manager of the Year after his first and only season at the helm of the Florida Marlins. In October of 2007, he was named the manager of the New York Yankees.

Pictured with ESPN college basketball analyst STEVE LAVIN, Girardi earned one of the top honors a student-athlete can receive when he was inducted into the CoSIDA Academic All-America Hall of Fame in 2007.

In October of 2007, JOE GIRARDI was named to one of the most prestigious positions in all of professional sports—the manager of the New York Yankees.

During the 2000 season, JOE GIRARDI made an All-Star appearance as a member of the Chicago Cubs.

JOE GIRARDI, seen here with the 2008 Northwestern baseball team, returned to Evanston on Jan. 24 to serve as the keynote speaker at the First Pitch Dinner.

Former Northwestern coach FRED LINDSTROM was a third baseman for the Giants, Pirates, Cubs and Dodgers from 1924-36. A lifetime .311 hitter, in 1924 he became the youngest player ever to appear in a World Series. He was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1976.

NU's first nine (1869) were nicknamed LA PURISSIMAS, because, according to one alumnus, "they were the finest bunch of ball tossers in any part of the farming country adjacent to Chicago."

Players in italics advanced to the major leagues

MARK LORETTA has played 14 seasons in the Major Leagues and this off-season signed to play for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 2009.

Above: J.A. HAPP captured a World Series ring last season as a member of the pitching staff of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Left: MARK ORI was named the Houston Astros' 2008 Minor League Position Player of the Year after enjoying an outstanding season for the Salem Avalanche.

ROCKY MILLER PARK

The 2009 season marks the 51st year of Rocky Miller Park and the 26th season since its rededication.

Northwestern baseball has been played at the site of Rocky Miller Park at Wells Field since 1943, but it was not until 1958 that the University formally dedicated the park. The area is named after Harry L. Wells, a former vice president and business manager at Northwestern. A 1913 graduate of NU, Wells served the University for 20 years before retiring in 1954.

Long the home of Northwestern baseball, Rocky Miller Park underwent renovation in 1983 and was rededicated during ceremonies in May of 1984.

Rocky Miller Park features 600 stadium seats, a press box, as well as an electronic scoreboard.

The Wildcats' attraction to their stadium goes beyond its beauty and utility; the team seems to play better there as well. Since the 1984 rededication, NU has posted a 304-209-2 (.592) record at Rocky Miller.

THE BULLPEN CLUB

The Bullpen Club is a booster organization devoted specifically to the support of the Northwestern baseball team. This year's list continues to provide critical financial support to the Wildcat baseball program. A minimum $35 donation makes you a member of the Bullpen Club and entitles you to various club exclusives, including invitations to special events and a copy of the team's media guide. In addition, Bullpen Club member receive "In From the Bullpen," a periodic newsletter that details the success of the team and keeps its members abreast of club activities. If you are interested in learning more about the Bullpen Club, please call 847-491-4651. Be a part of the Bullpen Club and help support the Wildcats in their effort to win the Big Ten Championship!
