HEADLINES

- With the Owls' win at Tulane last Sunday, they earned the American Athletic Conference regular season title outright with a record of 14-4. Temple's previous win, a 72-62 home victory over Memphis on March 3, had already clinched the #1 seed for the Owls in the tournament.
- Temple's regular season conference title is its first since 2012 in the Atlantic 10, and its 11th all-time shared or outright regular season conference title since joining the A-10 in the 1982-83 season.
- Senior guard Quenton DeCosey has been named a unanimous selection to the 2015-16 American Athletic Conference First Team. DeCosey is Temple's leading scorer with 15.9 points per game, ranking fourth in the conference, and has scored in double figures in 27 of 30 contests. He has scored 1,459 points to tie for 22nd all-time in program history. When he scores at least 15 points, the Owls are 14-1 this season.
- Sophomore Obi Enechionya, who is averaging 15.5 ppg over the last 12 games, led Temple with 18 points in the Tulane win. Senior Jaylen Bond notched his ninth double-double with 10 points and a season-high 16 rebounds.
- Enechionya hit 6-of-9 from long range en route to a career-high 26 points in a win at Houston on Feb. 21, and has been the Owls' leading scorer in four of the last five games.
- With 8.3 rebounds per game, Bond leads the team and ranks sixth in the conference.
- Temple's win at Tulane was its 20th of the season, marking the 36th time in program history the team has won at least 20 games. Head coach Fran Dunphy has now led the Owls to eight 20-win seasons in his 10 years at the helm.
- Five players scored in double figures in the Memphis win, as the Owls achieved that feat for a second time this season after also doing so in a win vs. USF on Feb. 14. Leading the way was Bond who scored a team-high 15 points and grabbed a team-high 10 rebounds for his eighth double-double of the season.
- The Owls have won three in a row, with the first being a nail-biter, 63-61 against UCF on Feb. 27. Senior Quenton DeCosey drained a 15-foot jumper with three seconds remaining to break a tie and lift the Owls to victory.
- The Owls finished the regular season with 11 home wins, and have now won 10 or more games at home in eight of the last nine seasons.
- Overall, the Owls have won 12 of their last 15 games including a streak of five straight, and they have a 7-2 record against the next five teams in the conference standings.
- With a win vs. #8 SMU on Jan. 24, Temple has now taken down a Top 10 team in seven of the last eight seasons.
- The Owls rank third in the nation in fewest turnovers per game at 9.2. They have recorded single digit turnovers in 18 of 30 games, tallying as few as five (vs. Delaware on Nov. 29, at USF on Jan. 31 and vs. Memphis on March 3).
- With 7.9 made three-pointers per game, Temple leads all teams in the American Athletic Conference.
- The Owls have three regular-season wins over Top 25 teams, the most since 1999-00. This season also marks the first since 1998 that the Owls have beaten two Top 25 opponents on the road. Temple has beaten at least one ranked opponent for nine straight seasons.

TEMPLE VS. USF

- Temple and USF have met seven times, with the Owls leading 5-2 in the all-time series.
- The Owls have won five in a row including a regular season sweep this season with a 70-63 win on January 31 at USF and a 77-65 win at home on Feb. 14. Temple senior Quenton DeCosey scored a career-high 30 points in the firsts of those victories for the Owls, while senior Jaylen Bond and sophomore Obi Enechionya scored 18 points apiece in the second win.
- Temple won both meetings last season. The Owls won 73-48 on Jan. 22 at home, and later won 61-48 at USF on Feb. 4.
- The teams split meetings in 2013-14, with each winning on the other's home court. On Jan. 9, USF used a late run to beat the Owls 82-75 in Philadelphia. Two months later on March 8, Temple edged the Bulls 66-65 in Tampa after a thrilling comeback over the last eight and a half minutes.
- The first meeting in the series was three years ago in the NCAA Second Round at Bridgestone Arena in Nashville, Tenn. The Bulls won by a score of 58-44 after trailing Temple 19-15 at halftime.
- The NCAA win was an upset for the Bulls, who were seeded 12th against the fifth-seeded Owls.

TEMPLE VS. EAST CAROLINA

- Temple and East Carolina have met four times after beginning the all-time series last season. The Owls are 3-1 after winning the first three meetings but losing 64-61 at ECU on Jan. 27.
- The Owls swept the series last year and won 78-60 at home earlier this season on Jan. 9.
- In 2014-15, Temple earned a 66-53 victory at home on Feb. 14, and followed it up with a 70-56 win on the road on March 5.

TEMPLE MEN'S BASKETBALL

LAST TIME OUT: TEMPLE 64, TULANE 56 (MARCH 6, 2016)

- Picked sixth in the preseason coaches' poll, Temple put an exclamation point on its tremendous regular season with a 64-56 win at Tulane to capture the American Athletic Conference regular season title.
- It marks the 36th 20-win season for Temple, the fifth winningest program at the NCAA Division I level, and the eighth in Dunphy's 10-year tenure. It is also the first American Athletic Conference title in the Owls' three seasons in the league and the 11th regular season title for the program since 1982-83.
- Temple jumped all over the hosts early, taking a 22-5 lead in the first seven-plus minutes on the strength of four three-pointers, including two by Obi Enechionyia. Red hot the last 11 games (15.3 ppg), the Owls' sophomore forward finished with a team-high 18 points.
- Playing on its Senior Day, Tulane did not go away quietly. The Green Wave cut the Owls lead early in the second half, closing to as many as five points, 45-40, with just under 15 minutes to play. The Owls built the margin back to a dozen, 56-44, courtesy of a 9-4 run over the next seven minutes.
- The Owls kept the margin above double figures until the final three minutes. With Temple looking to take time off the clock, the Green Wave cut the margin to 59-53 with 37 seconds left on the strength of a 6-0 run capped by consecutive layups from senior Louis Dabney (16 points).
- Senior Devin Coleman (1-2 FTs) and junior Josh Brown (2-2) then converted three free throws over the final 15 seconds to seal the victory. Brown finished with six points, nine rebounds and a game-high six assists for the Owls.
- Seniors Quenton DeCosey and Jaylen Bond each had big games to help secure their first title. DeCosey topped double figures for the 27th time in 30 games with 15 points while grabbing five rebounds and dishing four assists. Bond secured his ninth double-double of the season, tallying 10 points to go along with his game and season high 16 rebounds.

Owls Win 14th Regular Season Conference Championship

With the Owls' win at Tulane on Sunday, Temple clinched the American Athletic Conference regular season championship outright. The achievement marks the 11th time Temple has won a regular season title since joining the East Coast Conference in the 1974-75 season. The Owls' last such title came in 2011-12, their second-to-last season as a member of the A-10. Five of Temple's 10 A-10 regular season titles were followed by tournament victories, and the Owls earned NCAA Tournament berths in nine of the 10 seasons in which they won an A-10 regular season title.

Head coach Fran Dunphy led Temple to A-10 regular season titles in 2010 and 2012, and has won 13 such titles all-time after leading Penn to 10 Ivy League Championships.

Quenton DeCosey Unanimously Selected to All-Conference First Team

Temple senior guard Quenton DeCosey was a unanimous selection to the 2015-16 American Athletic Conference First Team, announced on Tuesday, March 8 by the league office. DeCosey, who has scored in double figures in 27 of 30 games, leads the Owls and ranks fourth in the conference this season with 15.7 points per game. He also ranks in the fifth in the league in minutes played per game (34.2), eighth in free-throw percentage at .780, 10th in three-point field goal percentage (.388), 12th in steals per game (1.2), and 17th with 5.9 rebounds per game.

Three-Conference Winner

With the Owls' regular season title in the American Athletic Conference, head coach Fran Dunphy has now led teams to shared or outright titles in three different conferences (Ivy League, Atlantic 10, American). Dunphy is now one of just eight coaches to achieve this in the past 20 years.

Thriving in Thrillers

Temple is 9-4 this season in games decided by five points or fewer, and has found plenty of success in close games lately. Of the Owls' last eight wins, five have been by a margin of five or less including two by a margin of just two points. In similar games last season, Temple was just 5-3 overall.

The Force is With Obi

Sophomore forward Obi Enechionyia has come on strong in the Owls' last 12 games. After averaging just 8.5 ppg in his first 17 games played this season, Enechionyia has put up 15.5 ppg over his last 12 contests to rank second on the team. He has scored in double figures in all but one of those games, including a career-high 26-point performance in a win at Houston on Feb. 21. From long range, Enechionyia has been outstanding in this stretch, hitting 30-of-70 (42.9 percent), and his overall percentage is .466 (69-of-148). He has led or tied for the team lead in scoring in six of the 12 games, including a recent streak of three straight (26 points at Houston, 17 points at Tulsa and 18 points vs. UCF).

Comeback Kids

Three times this season, Temple has been down by 10 or more points in the second half and come back to win the game. All three games occurred in the month of February, starting with the Owls' first meeting against Tulsa at home on Feb. 4. They trailed by 12 with 10 minutes remaining before coming back to win 83-79 in overtime. One week later, Temple again trailed by 12 at home against UConn before coming back to win 63-58 on Feb. 11. The third time the Owls achieved a big comeback was at Houston on Feb. 21. They were down by 10 at 11:05 of the second half and used a late push to win 69-66.

Loaded Schedule

Temple faced Top 25 teams in three of its first four games for the first time in program history. Twice before, in 1990-91 and 1993-94, the Owls faced ranked teams in three of their first five games. The Owls now have three regular-season wins over Top 25 teams, the most since 1999-00. On Dec. 29, Temple won 77-70 at #22/23 Cincinnati, and on Jan. 5 the Owls edged out #23/24 UConn, 55-53. Temple got its first home win of the season over a ranked team when the Owls beat #8 SMU 89-80 on Jan. 24.

Four of Temple's 10 losses have come to teams that were ranked in the Top 25 at the time of the game (#1/1 Villanova, #1/1 North Carolina, #22/20 Butler and #16/16 Utah) with another coming on the road against 2015 NCAA finalist Wisconsin, now ranked 25th in the USA Today/ESPN Coaches Poll. The combined won-loss record of all nine teams the Owls have lost to is 212-95 (.691).

Home Sweet Home

The Liacouras Center has proven to be a tremendous home court advantage. Since the arena opened its doors in 1997, the Owls have posted a 197-60 (.767) all-time record, and set the record for wins in a single season with 16 in 2014-15.

This season, the Owls reached the 10-win mark for an eighth time in the last nine years. Temple is 103-24 (.811) at home since the start of the 2007-08 campaign. To the right is a list of 10-win seasons in the building (bold under Dunphy).

All-Time Winningest Coach in Big 5 History

With Temple's win at UCF on Feb. 6, head coach Fran Dunphy surpassed former Owl coach John Chaney to become the all-time winningest coach in Philadelphia Big 5 history. Dunphy, who became the fifth coach to win 200 games at two schools while taking each to six NCAA Tournaments, is the one of eight coaches to have won 200 or more games at a Big 5 school since the city league was formed in 1955. Below is the list of 200-win coaches in city-series history.

In Good Hands

Junior point guard Josh Brown leads the American Athletic Conference in minutes played at 35.7 minutes per game, and it's not hard to see why. Brown has proven that the Owls' are in good hands, literally, when he has the ball. Over the past nine games, Brown has dished 49 assists while turning the ball over just seven times. He recorded zero turnovers in four of those contests, and recently tied his career high with nine assists in a win vs. UCF on Feb. 27. Brown's 4.8 assists per game this season rank third in the league, while his assist to turnover ratio of 3.7 is tops in the conference and 10th in NCAA Division 1. With 145 assists, Brown is five away from becoming just the ninth player in program history to record 150 assists in a season.

Balanced Attack

For the first time in two seasons, five Temple Owls topped double figures in scoring in the team's 77-65 win over USF on Feb. 14. Jaylen Bond and Obi Enechionyia led the way with 18 points each. Quenton DeCosey scored 12 points while Josh Brown added 11 and Devin Coleman chipped in with 10. The last time prior to this game Temple had five players reach double digits in the scoring column was on Feb. 9, 2014, when Dalton Pepper (17), DeCosey (14), Anthony Lee (14), Will Cummings (12) and Devontae Watson (11) topped the mark in an 88-74 loss at Houston.

Temple achieved the feat for a second time in the 2015-16 season in a 72-62 win vs. Memphis on March 3. Bond led the way with 15 points, followed by DeCosey with 13, Brown and Coleman with 12 and Enechionyia with 10.

DeCosey Hits 1,000

Temple senior guard Quenton DeCosey had scored 998 points heading into the Puerto Rico Tip-Off, and a three-pointer early in the Owls' opening-game win vs. Minnesota made him the 51st player in program history to reach the 1,000-point plateau. DeCosey, who was honored for his milestone prior to the FDU game on Dec. 2, led Temple with 22 points that night and has now scored 1,459 career points (tied for 22nd all-time).

20/20 Vision

Temple has recorded its 36th 20-win season in 2015-16. It marks the eighth time (in 10 seasons) that head coach Fran Dunphy has led the Owls to a 20-win campaign. From 2007-13 Temple recorded six straight 20-win seasons, tying the program record for consecutive 20-win seasons, set under Hall of Fame head coach John Chaney (1995-01). Chaney posted 15 20-win seasons (24 seasons) while fellow Hall of Fame coach Harry Litwack compiled eight (21 seasons).

Handle With Care

Temple has proven adept at handling the ball in each of the last two seasons, ranking in the top 10 nationally in fewest turnovers. This year Temple leads the nation in fewest turnovers overall at 276, and ranks third in the nation with just 9.2 turnovers per game. Last season the Owls led the league and ranked eighth among all Division I teams at the end of the season with 9.5 turnovers per game. Temple led the nation in fewest turnovers 11 times under Hall of Fame head coach John Chaney. (n.b. - NCAA records only date back to the 1993 season).

Starting Lineup Remix

After the first two games of the season, head coach Fran Dunphy used the same starting lineup for 10 games in a row. That group included sophomore Obi Enechionyia (out for season opener due to injury), junior Josh Brown, senior Jaylen Bond, senior Devin Coleman and senior Quenton DeCosey.

Dunphy then mixed up his lineup for five straight games, replacing Coleman and Enechionyia with a combination of freshmen Ernest Aflakpui, Levan Shawn Alston, Jr. and Trey Lowe, redshirt junior Daniel Dingle and junior Mark Williams. Aflakpui started in six straight games, the most of anyone outside the five who started in 10 straight. The Owls went 5-1 while switching up the lineup each game.

They then kept the same lineup three games, going 2-1 including a win over #8 SMU. The starters switched yet again for the Tulsa game on Feb. 4, a lineup that was used in four straight games and eight of the last 10, all but one of them wins for the Owls (Brown, Bond, DeCosey, Dingle, Enechionyia).

Bond Doubling Up

Senior forward Jaylen Bond notched five double-doubles for Temple last season, and has surpassed that total with nine in 2015-16. Bond put up back-to-back double-doubles earlier in the season, scoring 12 points and grabbing 10 rebounds at both Wisconsin and Penn. In the Owls' win at #23/24 UConn on Jan. 5, he added a game-high 10 rebounds to 11 points and hit 5-of-7 from the field.

Bond notched his fifth double-double at Memphis on Jan. 13, adding a season-high 14 rebounds to 14 points, and got double-double number six in a win vs. Tulsa on Feb. 4 with 13 points and a game-high 13 rebounds. On Feb. 14, Bond made it seven double-doubles with 18 points and 14 rebounds (tying his season high) in a win vs. USF. He put up team-highs of 15 points and 10 rebounds in a win vs. Memphis on March 3 to record his eighth double-double, and notched his ninth double-double with 10 points and a season-high 16 rebounds in a win at Tulane on March 6. After his back-to-back double-doubles, Bond was named co-Big 5 Player of the Week and was also named to the American's Weekly Honor Roll.

TEMPEL MEN'S BASKETBALL

Mascot Double Trouble: Hooter and Stella

Temple Athletics has both a traditional and a live mascot cheering on its teams, as Hooter the Owl and Stella can both often be found on the sidelines. To honor Temple's beginning as a night school for ambitious young people, the nocturnal owl was adopted as its mascot. The owl represents wisdom and knowledge and is known for being perceptive, resourceful and courageous. Hooter the Owl is a part of Temple's Spirit Squad, making appearances at games, alumni events and more. Each February, mascots from all over the city of Philadelphia come to Temple to celebrate Hooter's birthday at a home basketball game, which will take place this season on Saturday, Feb. 27 against UCF.

Stella, a great horned owl, began her career as Temple's live mascot in 2013. Though she's small—just 2 feet tall and only 3 pounds—Stella is a mighty predator, with an impressive 60-inch wingspan and talons capable of crushing prey with 28 pounds of force per square inch. She currently resides in the Elmwood Park Zoo in Norristown, Pa., where she also is a wildlife conservation teacher. Stella originally hails from Washington state. Her favorite foods include rodents, rabbits and snakes.

Perfect Game

Perfection is a rarity in basketball or in any sport, but senior guard Devin Coleman couldn't miss in a recent big win for the Owls. Hitting 8-of-8 from the field including 7-of-7 from beyond the arc, Coleman scored a career and game-high 23 points in leading Temple to an 89-80 upset of #8 SMU on Jan. 24.

Coleman's performance from long range tied the school record for three-point percentage in a game, matching Pepe Sanchez's 100% (7-7) game against Rhode Island on February 16, 1997.

In the Owls' five biggest conference games so far (SMU, two against UConn, two against Cincinnati), Coleman is a combined 21-of-34 (.618) from three-point range.

Assistance From Brown

Junior point guard Josh Brown has reset his career high in assists twice this season before tying it for a third and fourth time. In the Owls' win at Penn on Dec. 9, he dished a career-high nine assists while recording just a single turnover. He matched his nine assists in a win vs. USF on Feb. 14 and again in a win vs. UCF on Feb. 27. Brown currently ranks third in the American in assists per game (4.8) and is ranked first in assist/turnover ratio (3.7).

Double-Digit Debut

With his 12 points against #1/1 North Carolina, Levan Shawn Alston, Jr., became the first true freshman to score in double figures in his Temple debut since Mark Tyndale tallied 19 points in an 80-78 home loss to Auburn on Nov. 19, 2004. Redshirt freshman Ramone Moore also scored in double figures with 11 points in 20 minutes in a 79-65 win over East Tennessee State at Charleston Classic on Nov. 14, 2008. Alston's father, Levan Alston, scored six points in 34 minutes off the bench in his first game as an Owl, a 65-54 win over USC at the Martin Luther King Classic in Memphis on November 27, 1994. A transfer from New Orleans, Alston was a junior at the time.

500th Win for Dunphy

Temple head coach Fran Dunphy became the 24th active Division I men's basketball head coach to reach the 500-win mark with the Owls' 80-75 win over Memphis on March 13, 2015. He joined Hall of Fame Owl legend John Chaney as the only two coaches in Philadelphia Big 5 history to record 500 wins. Chaney compiled 516 in his 24 years patrolling the Temple sidelines (1982-2006).

Magic Number

The magic number for Temple's offense over the past two seasons has proven to be 70. When the Owls have scored 70 or more points, they are a perfect 27-0 since the start of the 2014-15 season. Temple went 16-0 when scoring 70+ points last year, and has gone 11-0 when doing the same so far in the 2015-16 season.

The Battle of Broadcasters

While Temple was playing at USF, there was an historic event going on simultaneously on the University's main campus. "The Battle of Broadcasters," a contest to pick two Chinese students to be Mandarin-language broadcasters for Owls' men's basketball games, came to a conclusion. The idea originated from Temple President Neil Theobald in an effort to engage the University's nearly 1,300 Chinese students. The contest involved the five finalists each getting a shot at providing play-by-play and analysis of the Temple-USF game in Mandarin. The winners, listed below, did their first audio broadcast in Mandarin for the Tulsa game on Feb. 4, and will continue to do broadcasts and highlight videos for future Temple games.

Meet the Battle of the Broadcasters winners:

James Yuan, Fox School of Business '19, went to high school in California and Connecticut. Played varsity basketball in high school—was only Chinese player in league. Lived with high-school coach who taught him ins-and-outs of NCAA sports. Emcees Chinese Student Scholars Association events. Wanted to win the contest to help other Chinese students understand sport's rules.

Javi Yuan, School of Media and Communication '19, Wants to be a sportscaster—calls it his dream. Provides commentary on Chinese game-streaming website; has 2,000 followers. Played high-school basketball.

Alums Return to Fran Dunphy's Staff

Two Temple alums joined head coach Fran Dunphy's staff in the offseason, while a third was promoted within the staff. Chris Clark ('08), who helped lead the Owls to the first of six straight NCAA Tournaments under Dunphy, now serves as video coordinator for the team. Luis Guzman ('10), who played a significant role in three Atlantic 10 Champion teams and made four NCAA Tournament appearances with the Owls, joined the program as a graduate manager. Former basketball manager Raheem Mapp ('09), who has worked with the team in various capacities since 2006, was promoted to director of basketball operations after serving five years as the administrative/video coordinator for the team.

Temple vs. the Polls

For the first time since the 1997-98 season, Temple has won two road games against opponents ranked in the Top 25. Last season, the Owls faced Top 25 teams just four times. This season, they have already faced seven ranked opponents.

In Elite Company

With Temple's seventh win of the season at #23/24 UConn on Jan. 5, head coach Fran Dunphy joined Roy Williams, Eddie Sutton, Lou Henson and Rick Pitino as the only coaches in NCAA Division I history to win 200 games at two different schools while also reaching the NCAA Tournament six times with each program.

Trey Lowe Sustains Upper Body Injuries in Accident

Freshman guard Trey Lowe is likely to miss the remainder of the 2015-16 season due to injuries sustained in a one-car accident early on Feb. 28.

Lowe, a native of Ewing, N.J., is receiving medical care at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick, N.J. for upper body injuries suffered in the accident.

"I visited Trey and his family on both Sunday and Monday at the hospital," said Temple head coach Fran Dunphy. "Our thoughts and prayers are with them at this time and we are hopeful that he will make a full recovery."

Temple's Sixth Man

Senior Devin Coleman started in the first 12 games of the season, but has since come off the bench for 16 of 17 games (all but Senior Night) and has thrived in that role. Coleman has scored 276 points this season, surpassing his 207 points combined over the previous three seasons (two at Clemson). A candidate for The American's Sixth Man of the Year, he leads the Owls with 61 three-pointers and is fourth in scoring at 9.2 ppg.

Winning Percentage

When Temple has shot 40 percent from the field or better in games so far this season, the Owls have gone 14-1. Ten of those performances have come in Temple's last 13 games, including a 46.6 field goal percentage in the win over #8 SMU. When the Owls shoot less than 40 percent from the field, they are 6-9 so far.

Giant Killers

Temple's 89-80 upset of #8 SMU on Jan. 24 was the program's seventh win over a Top-10 team in the last eight seasons. The Owls achieved the feat for five straight years from 2018-09 to 2012-13, and began a new streak in 2014-15 with a 77-52 defeat of #10/10 Kansas on Dec. 22.

On Dec. 13, 2008, Dionte Christmas scored 35 points to lead the Owls to an 88-72 win over #8/8 Tennessee. On Dec. 13, 2009, Juan Fernandez delivered a career-high 33 points in a 75-65 win over #3/3 Villanova. On Dec. 9, 2010, Ramone Moore exploded for a career-high 30 points in a 68-65 win over #9/10 Georgetown. On Jan. 4, 2012, it was Khalif Wyatt with 22 points to propel the Owls to a 78-73 win over #3/5 Duke. He did it again with a career-high 33 points in an 83-79 win over #3/3 Syracuse on Dec. 12, 2012.

After a season without a Top 10 win, Temple made 18 of its final 23 shots for a dominant win vs. #10/10 Kansas at the Wells Fargo Center in 2014-15. Senior Devin Coleman sparked the recent upset vs. #8 SMU, hitting 8-of-8 field goals including 7-of-7 from long range for a career and game-high 23 points.

In addition to beating a Top 10 team in seven of eight seasons, the Owls have beaten at least one Top 25 team for nine straight seasons. Their three victories over ranked opponents this year are the most in the regular season since 1999-00.

Devin Coleman Named American Player of the Week

After his career and record-setting performance in leading Temple to an 89-80 upset of previously undefeated and eighth-ranked SMU, senior guard Devin Coleman was named the American Athletic Conference Player of the Week on Jan. 25. The honor is the first-ever for Coleman, who was named to the conference's weekly honor roll earlier this season.

In the SMU win, Coleman shot a perfect 8-of-8 including 7-of-7 from beyond the arc, finishing with a career and game-high 23 points. His three-point shooting effort tied the school record for 3-point percentage in a game set by Pepe Sanchez on Feb. 16, 1997. In the Owls' other game of the week, a 62-49 win at La Salle, Coleman scored six points and tied his season high with six rebounds.

TEMPLE MEN'S BASKETBALL

1987-88 Team to be Inducted into Big 5 Hall of Fame

The 1987-88 Temple men's basketball team that finished as the AP's #1 ranked team and advanced to the NCAA Elite 8 with a 32-2 overall record, will be one of five teams inducted into the Philadelphia Big 5 Hall of Fame on April 11, 2016 at the league's annual awards banquet.

This marks the first time the Big 5 has inducted teams into its prestigious Hall of Fame. The other teams are: the 1968-69 La Salle Explorers (23-1, #2 national ranking); the 1970-71 Penn Quakers (28-1, #3 national ranking); 2003-04 Saint Joseph's Hawks (30-2, #1 national ranking) and 1984-85 Villanova Wildcats (25-10, NCAA Champions).

John Chaney earned his second straight USBWA National Coach of the Year award following the season while freshman guard Mark Macon was named to the AP All-America Second Team. Macon was joined on the all-Atlantic 10 First Team by his backcourt mate, senior Howard Evans, and fellow senior forward Tim Perry, who earned A10 Player of the Year accolades. Junior forward Mike Vreeswyk earned second team all-conference honors.

1991 Elite Eight Team Honored on Feb. 14

On Valentine's Day, Temple celebrated by bestowing love on its 1991 men's basketball Elite Eight team. At the Owls' Feb. 14th game against USF, Temple honored the players, coaches and managers on the 25th Anniversary year of this special team.

Hall of Fame coach John Chaney's 1990-91 Owls, led by the program's all-time leading scorer in senior guard Mark Macon (2,609 points) entered the NCAA Tournament as the 10th-seed in the East Region. They opened the tournament, held at College Park, Md., by knocking off 7th-seed Purdue, 80-63, with Mik Kilgore scoring a game-high 25 points. Macon led the way in the second round with 20 points while Kilgore added 18 in a 77-64 decision over #15-seed Richmond, who had upset #2-seed Syracuse in its first round game.

Macon treated the crowd at the Meadowlands to a show in a 72-63 overtime win against #3-seed Oklahoma State, scoring 26 points to lift the Owls to their second of five Elite Eight appearances under Chaney. Mark Strickland rejected eight Cowboy shots to tie former Owl Tim Perry for third on the NCAA Tournament single-game blocked shots list.

Despite one of the best performances in Macon's brilliant career, a 31-point, 9-rebound effort, Temple fell to #1-seed North Carolina, 75-72. It was the closest the Owls would come to the Final Four under their legendary coach.

Macon, who led the team with a 22.0 scoring average, was named the Most Outstanding Performer of the East Region for his efforts while Kilgore (14.6 ppg) earned a spot on the all-Region team. Donald Hodge (11.6 ppg) and Vic Carstarphen (10.4 ppg) also averaged double figures while Strickland (7.7 ppg) rounded out the starting five.

Cincinnati and UConn Season Sweeps

Just six games into its American Athletic Conference schedule, Temple completed a regular season sweep of Cincinnati, a team that was ranked in the Top 25 in the first meeting. The Owls won 77-70 at #22/23 Cincinnati in the conference opener on Dec. 29, and earned a 67-65 double overtime win at home against the Bearcats on Jan. 16. Temple's seven shots from long range made the difference in the game. Cincinnati came in as the conference's leader in three-pointers made per game at 7.9, and ranked third with a .366 three-point field-goal percentage. The Owls held them to just a single trey, as the Bearcats finished at 1-of-18 (5.6 percent). Cincinnati has appeared in five straight NCAA Tournaments, advancing to the third round in 2015.

On Feb. 11, the Owls completed a regular season sweep of UConn after the Huskies were also nationally ranked in the first meeting (#23/24 on Jan. 5). Josh Brown hit the game-winning jumper with two seconds remaining for a 55-53 road win in that first meeting, and Quenton DeCosey scored a team-high 15 points. In the second meeting at home on Feb. 11, the Owls trailed by as many as 12 in the second half before coming back to win 63-58. DeCosey led the Owls with 23 points, and Daniel Dingle's second-half heroics included four 3-pointers as he finished with a career-high 15 points.

Alums Will Cummings and Micheal Eric Selected to NBA D-League All-Star Game

Temple alums Will Cummings and Micheal Eric were among the 24 players selected to play in the 2016 NBA D-League All-Star Game presented by Kumho Tire. The two former Owl standouts represented the East squad in the 10th annual game at Toronto's Ricoh Coliseum on Saturday, Feb. 13.

Cummings, who is a rookie with the Rio Grande Valley Vipers, has had an incredible start to his professional career. The 2015 First Team All-American Conference honoree ranks seventh in the league in scoring (20.1 ppg), fourth in steals (2.0 spg), seventh in minutes played (37.7 mpg) and 14th in assists (5.3 apg).

Eric, who played at Temple from 2008-12, is in his second full season in the D-League, earning All-Rookie Second Team honors while playing for the Canton Charge in 2012-13. Now with the Texas Legends, he is averaging 12.4 points per game and ranks third in the league in blocks (2.0 bpg) and seventh in rebounding (8.7 rpg). His season high of 22 points came on January 2 while playing against Cummings' Rio Grande Valley squad.

Three's For Hunger

Temple Men's Basketball, Learfield Sports' Temple Sports Properties and The Fresh Grocer of Progress Plaza are working together to give back to Philabundance, Philadelphia's largest food bank. For every three-point basket made during the 2015-16 men's basketball season, The Fresh Grocer of Progress Plaza will donate one case of non-perishable food and goods to Philabundance.

TEMPLE MEN'S BASKETBALL HEAD COACH FRAN DUNPHY

10TH SEASON • LA SALLE '70 523-281 Overall • 213-118 at Temple

One of 25 active NCAA Division I coaches with 500 victories, Fran Dunphy is in his 10th season at the helm of the Temple men's basketball program. The all-time winningest coach in Philadelphia Big 5 history, Dunphy is also just the fifth coach to win 200 games at two different Division I programs while also taking both schools to six or more NCAA Tournaments. He has joined Lou Henson (New Mexico, Illinois), Rick Pitino (Kentucky, Louisville), Eddie Sutton (Arkansas, Oklahoma State) and Roy Williams (Kansas, North Carolina) in this elite club.

A part of Big 5 Basketball for the last six decades, Dunphy starred at La Salle as a player (1967-70) and served on the Explorer staff as an assistant coach before embarking on a 17-year stint as the head coach of the Penn Quakers (1989-06). He became the first person to serve as the head men's basketball coach at two Philadelphia Big 5 institutions when he took over the reins of the Temple program from Hall of Fame coach John Chaney on April 10, 2006.

All he has done at Temple is win. He ranks third on the school's all-time coaching win list with a 213-118 record while guiding the Owls to six NCAA Tournaments, four conference titles and a trip to the 2015 NIT Semifinals in his nine years at the helm. His Temple teams have defeated seven Top 10 teams in his tenure and have appeared in the Top 25 during 24 weeks.

Dunphy recorded his historic 500th coaching win in impeccable fashion last season by knocking off Memphis, 80-75, in the American Athletic Conference Quarterfinal round on March 13. His overall record stands at 523-281 which includes 17 20-win seasons, 15 NCAA Tournament appearances, 14 conference championships, eight Big 5 titles and one NIT trip.

Named Philadelphia Big 5 Coach of the Year in four of his nine seasons at Temple, Dunphy led his second Owl squad on a late-season run to the Atlantic 10 Championship. He guided the Cherry and White to a 21-13 overall mark in 2007-08, including a second place A-10 regular season finish with an 11-5 conference record. He followed that by directing his charges in 2008-09 to a 22-12 record, 11-5 in league play, and another conference championship.

The 2009-10 season is one that will go down as one of the best in Temple lore. Picked tied for fifth in the A-10 preseason poll, Dunphy motivated his charges to their first A-10 regular season title (9th overall) since 2002 with a 14-2 record. The 2010 A-10 and NABC District Coach of the Year brought the Owls back into the national spotlight with the program's first national ranking since 2001, with the team staying in the polls for 13 consecutive weeks. His Owls would go on to become just the second A-10 team to win three consecutive conference championships while also posting just the fifth perfect Philadelphia Big 5 season in the program's history.

The number one accomplishment achieved by the 2009-10 Temple team, that finished the season with a #12 ranking in the Associated Press poll, was its 29 victories (against six defeats), which ranks third in the school's history.

In 2010-11, Dunphy led the Owls to a 26-8 record, including another 14-2 mark in A-10 play, and a fourth straight trip to the NCAA Tournament. This time the Owls, the 7-seed in West Region, defeated 10th-seeded Penn State, 66-64, in the second round for the program's first NCAA win since 2001. The Cherry and White game second-seeded San Diego State all they could handle in the next game before falling to the #5/6-ranked Aztecs, 71-64, in double-overtime.

It was a great season for Temple as the Owls were ranked among the nation's Top 25 for eight weeks during the season, climbing as high as #19 in the January 10 Associated Press poll. The Owls also overcame mid-February injuries to two starters, closing the season with seven wins in their final 10 games. The only losses in that stretch came to NCAA Sweet 16 participants Duke, Richmond and San Diego State.

In 2011-12, despite losing projected starter Scootie Randall for the season and center Micheal Eric for 13 games, Dunphy guided his charges to a 24-8 mark and the program's first outright A10 regular season title since 1989-90. The Owls finished 13-3 in league play and Dunphy earned his second A10 Coach of the Year honor for his efforts. Temple defeated #3/3 Duke to mark its fourth straight season with a win over a Top 10 opponent, and later cracked the national polls for the third straight year.

Temple, which also shared the Big 5 title, earned an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament for the second straight season, and was the fifth-seed in the NCAA Midwest Region.

In 2012-13, Dunphy again guided the Owls to another 20-plus win campaign with the Cherry and White becoming one of eight teams to compete in the last six straight NCAA Tournaments. Temple also knocked off a Top 10 team, this time #3/3 Syracuse, 83-79, at Madison Square Garden (12/22/12) to extend its current nation's best record to five straight seasons of defeating a Top 10 foe while being unranked at the time.

Temple would finish the campaign with a 24-10 record, advancing to the third round of the NCAA Tournament before narrowly falling to top-ranked Indiana, 58-52. The Owls capped their final season in the Atlantic 10 Conference with a thrilling 84-76 win over #19/21 VCU on CBS to finish tied for third in the league with an 11-5 record.

The program struggled in 2013-14, its first season in the American Athletic Conference. In a classic rebuilding year, the Owls posted a 9-22 record. The Cherry and White did continue its streak of wins over a nationally-ranked program to seven with a 71-64 upset over #23 SMU.

In 2014-15, Dunphy led his team to the best turnaround among all Division I teams, posting 17 more wins than the previous season to finish at 26-11 overall and 13-5 in the conference. A signature win over #10 Kansas was among the total as the Owls posted a 77-52 victory over the Jayhawks at the Wells Fargo Center (12/22).

The Owls finished the regular season 23-10, but were surprisingly left out of the NCAA Tournament. As the #4 overall seed in the NIT, Dunphy, in his time coaching in the tournament, guided Temple to wins over Bucknell, George Washington and Louisiana Tech to reach the semifinals, before falling to Miami at Madison Square Garden.

Dunphy was named American Athletic Conference Coach of the Year, marking his third conference coach of the year honor (A-10: 2010, 2012). He also joined Chaney (516) as one of only two coaches to win 500 or more games at Big 5 schools.

One of the most respected coaches in the nation, Dunphy has coached eight Conference Players of the Year, three Conference Rookies of the Year, five perfect Conference seasons and 53 All-Conference honorees.

Prior to joining Penn's coaching staff, Dunphy served as an assistant under Speedy Morris at his alma mater, La Salle University (1985-86 through 1987-88). The Philadelphia native's coaching career began at the United States Military Academy (1971-72), where he served as an assistant under head coach Dan Dougherty. In 1975, he became head coach of his high school alma mater, Malvern Prep. He remained there until becoming Lefty Ervin's assistant at La Salle University (1979-80).

The following year, Dunphy joined current Maryland head coach Gary Williams' staff at American University. He served as an assistant two seasons under Williams, and the final three years under Ed Tapscott, the former head coach of the NBA's Washington Wizards (2008-09). He returned to La Salle in 1985, serving one more season under Ervin and assisting Morris for two seasons. He left La Salle to become Tom Schneider's assistant at Penn in 1988.

In 1989, Dunphy was named the 16th head coach at Penn. He would compile a 310-163 overall record in his 17-year career. His Quaker teams won an unprecedented 48 straight Ivy League games and four league titles from 1992 through 1996. His 1993-94 team posted a 25-3 record and earned a Number 25 ranking in the CNN/USA Today Coaches' Poll, the program's first such ranking since the 1978-79 campaign. That year also included a 90-80 first round upset of sixth-seed Nebraska in the NCAA Tournament.

In his last eight seasons at Penn, Dunphy guided the Quakers to six Ivy League titles and a 93-19 league record. From 1999-2001, he led Penn to 25 straight league wins, including a perfect 14-0 mark in 1999-2000. In 2001-02, Dunphy's Quakers posted a 25-7 record and won the school's first outright city-series title with a perfect 4-0 mark since 1973-74.

A full-time educator on and off the court, Dunphy is in his eighth year teaching in Temple's prestigious Fox School of Business. He is team-teaching an honors course with Dr. Lynne Anderson, entitled, Management, Theory & Practice: From the Locker Room to the Board Room. He previously had served as a lecturer in the Wharton Executive Education program and in the management department of the Wharton School.

Dunphy is one of the leaders in the local Coaches vs. Cancer campaign and was named to the National Council of Coaches vs. Cancer. He was also honored as the 2002 National Coaches vs. Cancer Coach of the Year for his service and tireless dedication to those in need. On September 23, 2008, he joined four other coaches to speak to legislators on Capitol Hill on the need for more funding for cancer research.

The Owl mentor also devotes time to Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Greater Philadelphia's Board of Directors, and his Penn and Temple teams have participated in the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program each year. He is also a member of the Philadelphia CYO Hall of Fame.

A 1970 La Salle graduate with a degree in marketing, Dunphy was an outstanding player under Explorers' head coach Tom Gola. As a junior, he helped the Explorers to a 23-1 record. He served as a co-captain his senior year when he averaged 18.6 ppg and led the team in assists, while also being named the MVP of the annual Quaker City Basketball Tournament. In 1979, he earned a Master's degree in counseling and human relations from Villanova University.

Mr. Big Five

Temple head coach Fran Dunphy is synonymous with the Philadelphia Big 5. Dunphy, who lived his first 10 years in Southwest Philadelphia before moving to nearby Drexel Hill, Pa., starred at La Salle from 1967 through 1970. He would later serve as an assistant at his alma mater (1979-80; 1985-88) before taking the assistant coaching job at Penn for the 1988-89 season. After one season he would take over as the Quakers head coach, compiling a 310-163 record in 17 seasons. He is now in his 10th season at Temple. He received a master's degree in counseling from Villanova, and currently resides in Villanova, Pa.

A Man For All Causes

Dunphy has been a major contributor of his time and energy to the American Cancer Society through Coaches vs. Cancer. He has spearheaded the local efforts of the six Division I coaches that have led to raising over $1 million to benefit the American Cancer Society. Named the Coaches vs. Cancer National Coach of the Year for his efforts, Dunphy has helped to steer events in the area such as the Coaches vs. Cancer Golf Outing; the Coaches vs. Cancer Basketball; coordinated open practices with the six area teams and holding a March Madness Breakfast to raise awareness for the cause. He was honored in 2008 as a local hero by Bank of America for his role with Coaches vs. Cancer.

Another cause that Dunphy champions is Big Brothers/Big Sisters. The Owl coach devotes his time to Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Greater Philadelphia by serving on the organization's Board of Trustees. His Penn teams participated in Big Brothers/Big Sisters programs each year during his tenure at the school. His Temple teams have been actively participating in the program the past three seasons.

Dunphy is also a member of the Philadelphia CYO Hall of Fame.

Clutch Shooter

Junior Josh Brown hit a jumper in the lane with 2.6 seconds remaining at #23/24 UConn on Jan. 5, lifting the Owls to a 55-53 win. It was the second such game-winning shot for Brown in his career, as he also hit a shot with two seconds left that gave the Owls a 61-60 win at Memphis on Feb. 7, 2015.

Summer Session

Freshman guards Levan Shawn Alston, Jr., and Trey Lowe are playing their first season at Temple together, but it is not the first time they have been teammates. The Owl duo played together on the AAU squad Team Final Basketball in the summer of 2014.

Quenton DeCosey Named American Athletic Conference Player of the Week on Jan. 11

Senior Quenton DeCosey was named the American Athletic Conference Men's Basketball Player of the Week after leading the Owls to a pair of conference wins. Temple won 55-53 on the road at #23 UConn on Jan. 5, and followed it up with a 78-60 home win over East Carolina on Jan. 9.

DeCosey averaged 19.5 points per game, 3.5 rebounds per game and 3.0 assists per game in the two victories. He shot 51.9 percent from field and improved that to 72.7 percent from three-point range (8-of-11). In the UConn win, DeCosey led the team with 15 points. He was the game-high scorer against ECU, tying his season high with 24 points while hitting 5-of-8 from long range.

Temple Picked Sixth in American Preseason Poll

Temple was picked to finish sixth in the 2015-16 American Athletic Conference men's basketball poll in voting by the league's head coaches, but the Owls proved the poll to be quite far off by winning the conference outright. The Owls were also picked to finish sixth in 2014-15, but bettered that pick by three spots to tie for third in the league.

SMU is the overall preseason favorite in 2015-16 for the first time in league history, tallying 98 points and eight of 11 first-place votes. The Mustangs entered the season returning seven letterwinners and three starters from last year's squad that went 27-7 and posted a 15-3 mark in league play.

UConn garnered two first-place votes and was picked to finish second with 87 points. The Huskies return eight from last season's squad and welcome four newcomers in 2015-16. Cincinnati had one first place-vote and was picked third with 84 points. The Bearcats return nine student-athletes, including all five starters, from last year's 23-win team.

Tulsa was chosen fourth in the preseason standings with 76 points. The Hurricane returns five starters and nine letterwinners from last season's 23-win squad. Memphis (59 pts.), Temple (54 pts.) and Houston (48 pts.) were picked fifth, sixth and seventh in the preseason poll, respectively. East Carolina (31 pts.), UCF (30 pts.), USF (20 pts.) and Tulane (11 pts.) were tabbed eighth, ninth, 10th and 11th to round out the tallies.

Alani Moore, Damion Moore and Quinton Rose Sign National Letters of Intent

Temple head basketball coach Fran Dunphy has announced the signing of three highly-touted recruits, Alani Moore, Damion Moore and Quinton Rose, to National Letters of Intent.

"We are excited to welcome these three to the Temple Basketball family," said Dunphy. "These are not only talented young men on the court, but outstanding citizens who will be a great fit as teammates. They will play a big part in helping the program continue its storied history of success."

Alani Moore, a 5-10, 150-pound point guard, will play at Friendship Collegiate Academy (Washington, D.C.) this season after starring at Montrose Christian in 2014-15. The Hyattsville, Md., native averaged 17.4 points per game for Montrose as junior to earn first team All-Met honors.

Damion Moore, a 6-10 center from Callaway (Miss.) High School, is a three-star prospect who averaged 3.9 points, 4.6 rebounds and 1.1 blocks per game on Callaway's state championship squad as a junior. He showed his enormous potential in Callaway's 2015-16 season opener when he led the Chargers with 25 points and 10 rebounds.

Rose, a 6-6, 175-pound guard out of Bishop Kearney in Rochester, N.Y., averaged 15.4 points, seven rebounds and seven assists during the 2014-15 season. The three-year varsity performer earned a spot on the 15-player Democrat and Chronicle All-Greater Rochester Team in 2015.

Jaylen Bond Named 2015-16 Temple Men's Basketball Team Captain

Senior forward Jaylen Bond, the leading returning rebounder in the American Athletic Conference, has been named the Temple men's basketball team captain for the 2015-16 season. Bond becomes the first solo team captain at Temple in Fran Dunphy's 10 seasons at the helm. The last Owl to be a solo captain was David Hawkins during his senior season in 2003-04.

"Jaylen was the consensus choice by a vote of his teammates," said Dunphy, the 2015 American Athletic Conference Coach of Year. "He is everything a coach wants in a captain. He is a hard worker, who leads by example, and most importantly he has earned the respect of his teammates."

Bond, a Philadelphia native (Plymouth-Whitemarsh HS), transferred to Temple prior to the 2013-14 season after playing his first two seasons at the University of Texas. After sitting out his first year at Temple, he averaged 7.6 points and 7.9 rebounds per game while starting 29 of 35 games played. The 6-8 forward was named second team all-Philadelphia Big 5 and honorable mention all-conference. He was second on the team and sixth in conference in steals (1.4 spg).

For Three

Temple has made at least one three-pointer in 670 consecutive games. The last time the Owls did not make a three-pointer in a game was February 1, 1996. Temple missed all 16 three-point attempts that day in dropping a 59-35 decision to #1 UMass at McGonigle Hall. In 2015-16, Temple is currently leading the American Athletic Conference with 7.8 three-pointers made per game.

Temple to Compete in 2016 NIT Season Tip-Off
Temple will be among four teams headlining the NIT Season Tip-Off as it returns to Barclays Center in 2016. The Owls will be joined by Florida State, Illinois and West Virginia in the championship round.

The 2016 Preseason NIT marks the sixth time that Temple has participated in the prestigious tournament. The Owls placed third in the 1986 tournament and were runners up in the 2000 event. The Cherry and White also competed in 1990, 1995 and 2005.

In its second year under the ESPN Events umbrella, the 2016 NIT Season Tip-Off will maintain its format with Florida State, Illinois, Temple and West Virginia each hosting two games at home against designated campus-site teams prior to traveling to Brooklyn. The full schedule, remaining four teams, and campus-site games will be announced at a later date.

On the Radio

For the 15th straight year Temple men's basketball is being broadcast live on 1210 AM WPHT. All the Owls' games will be carried on the radio with Harry Donahue handling play-by-play and John Baum providing color commentary.

Chairman of the Boards

Junior forward Jaylen Bond made an immediate impact in his first season at Temple after transferring to the school from Texas. The Philadelphia native led the American Athletic Conference with a 7.9 average. Temple forward Anthony Lee led The American in 2013-14 in rebounding (8.6 rpg). Prior to that, the last Temple player to lead a conference in rebounding was Duane Causwell, who averaged 8.9 boards during the 1988-89 season to top the Atlantic 10 Conference. Tim Perry was the only other Owl to lead the A-10 in rebounding, doing it twice (8.6 rpg in 1986-87; 9.5 rpg in 1985-86).

Hometown Hero

Redshirt sophomore Daniel Dingle returned to his high school, St. Raymond's, Jan. 25 to have his Temple jersey hung in the gym. Dingle is one of 36 former St. Raymond's players to go on and play at NCAA Division I schools and his jersey joins his brother's, Dana Dingle, who starred at UMass from 1992-96.

Temple Advances to 2015 NIT Semifinals

The Owls are coming off a 26-11 season that marked the best turnaround in NCAA Division I, as they won 17 more games than in the previous season. After barely missing out on an at-large NCAA Tournament berth in 2014-15, the Owls made a run through the NIT all the way to the semifinals at Madison Square Garden, where they fell 60-57 to Miami (FL).

Training Techniques

Temple head coach Fran Dunphy employed some unique training methods this off-season to make sure his team was mentally and physically ready for the upcoming season. The Owls worked out at the Joe Hand Boxing Gym in Philadelphia for four sessions in July. The team even was counseled by World Champion Bernard Hopkins, who trains at the gym. The Owls then had cross-fit and spinning training workouts in the summer to improve their cardiovascular fitness before embarking on hour-long yoga sessions the last three weeks to work on their mental approach.

Six Owls Represent Temple at Big 5 60th Anniversary

The Philadelphia Big 5 turns 60 this year and there was no better way to celebrate than with the Big 5 doubleheader at the Palestra on Jan. 20.

Six all-decade teams were honored, with Temple being represented by the following six star players: 1950s: Jay Norman (1955-58); 1960s: John Baum (1966-69); 1970s: Ollie Johnson (1969-72); 1980s: Mark Macon (1987-91); 1990s: Aaron McKie (1991-94); 2000s: Lynn Greer (1997-02).

Temple Defeats Tulsa in a Thriller

Down 12 points in the second half and never leading for a single moment of the entire period, Temple forced overtime and earned an 83-79 win against visiting Tulsa on Feb. 4. Senior Quenton DeCosey scored a team-high 21 points, all in the second half and overtime, and had the assist on a Devin Coleman three-pointer with two seconds remaining in regulation to force the extra period.

Big 5 History

The Owls earned a share of their 27th Big 5 title in 2012-13, with that total (21 shared, six outright) leading the Big 5. Temple's 134-94 record in city series games ranks second, and the Owls have won four Big 5 titles in head coach Fran Dunphy's nine seasons. Temple has now finished Big 5 play this season with a record of 2-2, as the Owls did in 2014-15 as well. They got a 77-73 win over Penn and a 62-49 victory against La Salle, but lost by a point in overtime to Saint Joseph's and then closed out the city series schedule with a home loss to #1/1 Villanova on Feb. 17.

Bright Lights

At least 29 national television games highlight Temple's 2015-16 schedule. Temple will appear on ESPN entities a total of at least 21 times during the course of the season.

Record-Setting Defense

Temple's stifling defense held Tulane to a Liacouras Center record-low eight points in the first half of a 55-37 win on Jan. 31, 2015. It was the lowest scoring total in a half for any team ever in the building. Tulane's 37 points matched the lowest total for an opponent in the Fran Dunphy era, with the Owls also achieving that feat against American in the 2014-15 season opener. For the program, it marked the first time since 1993-94 that Temple had held two opponents to under 40 points in the same season.

Going Overtime

Temple is 58-49 overall in overtime contests and has won 16 of its last 21 overtime tilts. Prior to the 2013-14 season's Dec. 7 OT loss vs. Texas, the Owls had won five straight OT games dating back to a double overtime loss to San Diego State (71-64) in the third round of the 2011 NCAA Tournament. TU had won 12 straight single OT games dating back to a 73-69 win over Marist (11/18/08).

The Owls won their only overtime game of the 2014-15 season, a 57-53 decision at defending NCAA champion UConn in the American Athletic Conference opener on Dec. 31.

Temple is 2-1 in overtime games in 2015-16. The Owls fell by just a single point to Big 5 foe Saint Joseph's, 66-65 at home on Dec. 13, but beat conference foe Cincinnati 67-65 in double overtime on Jan. 16. Most recently, the Owls won 83-79 in OT vs. Tulsa on Feb. 4 after not leading at any moment of the second half.

Practice Palace

Temple's $10 million basketball practice facility was completed in January, 2012, and the Donald and Nancy Resnick Court was officially dedicated on October 5. Part of the $48 million renovation to Pearson and McGonigle Halls, the new state-of-the-art facility, features separate courts for the Owls' men's and women's basketball teams.

A Dynamic Duo

Temple has two Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame coaches. The first inductee was Harry Litwack, who coached the Owls from 1952 to 1973 and registered 373 wins. Litwack was inducted on April 26, 1976. John Chaney, who retired March 12, 2006 after 24 seasons and 516 wins at Temple, was inducted on October 5, 2001. Temple is only one of nine universities who have two coaches in the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame. The center jump circle at the Liacouras Center is jointly named in honor of these two coaching legends.

Devin Coleman, Temple use long ball to hand No. 8 SMU 1st loss

Dave Zeitlin, Associated Press (Jan. 24, 2016)

Devin Coleman ended SMU's perfection with a little bit of his own.

Coleman made all seven of his 3-point shots and Temple handed No. 8 SMU its first loss of the season, 89-80 Sunday.

"When I had an open look, I just put it up there," Coleman said. "And it went in."

Coleman finished 8 of 8 overall from the field and scored 23 points.

"Spectacular," Temple head coach Fran Dunphy said. "There was nothing cheap about any of the balls that went in the baskets. They were dead in the hoop, each one of them."

"If you're going to win a game like this against this good of a basketball team, you've got to get those special performances. And certainly his was special," he said.

The Mustangs (18-1, 7-1 American Athletic Conference) became the last team in Division I to lose this season.

Quenton DeCosey added 19 for the Owls (11-7, 5-2) in their highest-scoring game of the season.

The crowd at the Liacouras Center was smaller than usual after the game was pushed back a day because of the winter storm that blanketed the East Coast.

But that didn't stop the fans from making their voices heard as Temple stretched its lead to 19 in the second half. The students rushed the court when the game ended.

"I think this does a lot for our (NCAA tournament) resume," DeCosey said. "It shows people we can beat anybody."

Sterling Brown scored 19 points to lead SMU. Jordan Tolbert added 15 points on 7-for-9 shooting and Ben Moore had 13 for the Mustangs, who shot just 3 for 14 from 3-point range.

After SMU pulled within five midway through the second half, Coleman made two straight 3s to cap an 11-0 spurt and help Temple pull away.

Coleman matched the school record for long-distance accuracy, tying the 7-for-7 performance on 3s by Pepe Sanchez on Feb. 16, 1997 vs. Rhode Island.

"He was playing 'Horse,'" SMU coach Larry Brown said. "Once he got going, he was unstoppable."

Overall, the Owls shot 14 for 29 on 3-pointers, the most they've hit all season. Daniel Dingle added 14 points for Temple, which has won five of its last six games.

Tip-ins

SMU: Brown returned to Philly for a third time with the Mustangs. He coached the Philadelphia 76ers from 1997-2003 with current Temple assistant Aaron McKie as one of his top players.

The game also marked a homecoming for senior Markus Kennedy, a Philly native who played for Villanova before transferring to SMU in 2012. He finished with six points. The Mustangs shot 15 for 23 from the free throw line.

Temple: This was Temple's sixth game against a ranked opponent this season. They have won their last three — all AAC matchups. Temple has beaten a Top 10 team in seven of its last eight seasons. The Owls had 10 steals and 22 points off turnovers.

No Bond, no problem

Most people probably expected the Owls to be in trouble without senior forward Jaylen Bond, Temple's top rebounder who missed the contest with a lower back injury.

But despite getting outscored in the paint, 48-22, the Owls dominated the perimeter with their smaller lineup.

"We're not a big paint-scoring type of team anyway," Dunphy said. "I think you are who you are."

Revenge game

After losing to SMU three times last season, including once in the conference tournament semifinals, the Owls were especially excited to deal the Mustangs such a big loss.

"That probably kept us out of the (NCAA) tournament last year," DeCosey said. "That definitely motivated us to seal the victory."

Another sterling defensive effort by Temple's Josh Brown in win over SMU

Marc Narducci, Philadelphia Inquirer (Jan. 25, 2016)

The obvious key to Temple's 89-80 win over previously unbeaten SMU in Sunday's American Athletic Conference game at the Liacouras Center was the unconscious shooting of Devin Coleman, who hit all eight field goals attempts, including seven from beyond the arc.

Yet another major factor was the play of point guard Josh Brown, especially on the defensive end.

Brown had nine points, four rebounds, four assists and one turnover in 39 minutes, but his biggest contribution was the way he defended reigning American Athletic Conference Player of the Year Nic Moore.

SMU's senior point guard, who entered the contest averaging 15.6 points, was held to 10. He shot 3 of 8 from the field, and missed all three from beyond the arc. Moore had seven assists, but also three turnovers in 37 minutes.

"I thought they lost an unbelievable point guard (Will Cummings) but Brown played great," SMU coach Larry Brown said. Josn Brown was effective in limiting Moore's drives to the basket.

"I thought he did a great job of keeping Moore out of the lane and limiting how many times he hurt us on dribble penetration," Temple coach Fran Dunphy said.

This came a game after Brown guarded La Salle's Jordan Price, who shot 4 for 21 from the field in the Owls' 62-49 win.

"I thought he did a good job the other night on Jordan Price," Dunphy said.

What is interesting is that Moore is 5-9 and quick, while Price is 6-5 and strong. Brown, who is averaging an AAC-best 35.1 minutes per game, is proving to be able to handle a wide variety of offensive players.

Dunphy says it could be an added role for Brown, not only to run the offense but to guard the opponent's top guard or small forward.

"We need that and it is part of what we have to have as a basketball team," Dunphy said. "We need stoppers and he did a great job today."

Fran Dunphy deserves place in Big 5 Hall of Fame now

Mike Kern, Philadelphia Daily News (Jan. 26, 2016)

IT'S TIME.

Time to do the right thing. For a most deserving guy, for all the obvious reasons.

From 1982-2006, John Chaney went 516-253 at Temple. It's the most wins by any coach in Big 5 history. But not for much longer. Soon, the record will belong to Chaney's successor on North Broad. Now in his 10th season, Fran Dunphy is 204-115 with the Owls. After going 310-163 at Penn. Which means that he's three victories away from passing a legend. And even at 67, it's like not he's retiring tomorrow. Besides, he continues to look much younger, especially now that he's no longer sporting his trademark mustache.

So why isn't Dunph, as he's universally known, in the Big 5 Hall of Fame? Particularly when it seems like almost everyone else who's had a decent career is. Of course he's going to get enshrined someday. But why not sooner? Dick Jerardi and I raised this point a few years ago to the powers that be, and it seems there's a stipulation that someone has to be retired before it can happen. I say it's time to break the rules. Because it simply makes sense. What more reason do you need?

It should have happened already. A lot of people were hoping it could have happened before his mother passed away in June 2013. That would have meant a great deal to both of them. But apparently it wasn't meant to be. Which is a shame, since you easily could have made the case that Dunphy had done more than enough by then to join the club.

Is there anyone who's been more a part of city hoops than him? As a junior at La Salle, he was the first backcourt sub (behind future pros Bernie Williams and Roland "Fatty" Taylor) on a 23-1 team that many still consider to be the Big 5's best ever. The following season, when he was a co-captain, he averaged 18.6 points (second on team behind Big 5 Player of the Year Kenny Durrett), led the Explorers in assists and was the MVP of the annual Quaker City Tournament.

Dunph got his Master's degree from Villanova in 1979. He was an assistant at his alma mater for four seasons, first under Lefty Ervin and later Speedy Morris. In his second stint he helped recruit Lionel Simmons to 20th and Olney. In 1989 he went to Penn, where he inherited a program that hadn't won more than 15 games in any of the previous six seasons. Four years later he won the first of 10 Ivy League championships (in 14 seasons), with a backcourt of Jerome Allen and Matt Maloney.

When it finally became time for Temple to replace Chaney, there were those who weren't convinced that Dunphy was the right choice. And there are some who remain skeptical, for whatever reasons. But when Dunphy arrived the Owls hadn't been to the NCAA Tournament in five seasons. In his second season they won the first of three consecutive Atlantic 10 titles, something even Chaney never did. He's beaten a Top 10 opponent in seven of the last eight seasons. When they were 9-22 in 2013-14 they still managed to knock off ranked SMU late.

If Dunphy had won a few more NCAA Tournament games, there would understandably be less scrutiny of his resume. So be it. Many of his Penn teams weren't supposed to win. There was a four-point loss to John Calipari and Massachusetts in 1993, an overtime against Antonio McDyess and Alabama in 1995, and the 2003 game in which they were tied with Oklahoma State with eight minutes left. (The same OSU that would lead eventual national champ Syracuse in the next round by 17 in the first half.) Or even his last one with Penn three years later, where they were down one with 5 minutes to go vs. LaMarcus Aldridge and Texas - in Dallas.

But the last thing Dunphy - who went to double OT with San Diego State and Kawhi Leonard in 2011 despite being down two starters - needs is defending. He's never made excuses. And he'd probably tell you that he should have made it to a Sweet 16 or two along the way.

Didn't happen. But he's not done yet.

Ask any of his colleagues and they'll tell you Dunphy can "X" and "o" with the best. And it seems like his reputation around the country is even better than it is here. He's old-school and loyal, sometimes maybe to a fault. Nobody questions his integrity. And he's a role model of an ambassador, for his school and the Big 5 as an institution. Not to mention his work with the Coaches for Cancer cause, which goes way beyond anything he's accomplished on the court.

It's almost impossible to find many who've done more. And perhaps the best part about Dunph is, it's never about him. So why wait? His unique journey should be celebrated for everything it's been. Because there doesn't figure to be another one quite like it, at least not any time soon. It's nothing short of first-ballot stuff.

If good friend Phil Martelli lets him sit on the Saint Joseph's bench for a game, it would make Dunph's city-wide affiliation complete. Just a thought.

This year, the Big 5 correctly decided to honor the best team from each school as its inductees for the 60th anniversary. Former Penn athletic director Steve Bilsky is the man in charge these days. And he's done a commendable job trying to put together more Big 5 doubleheaders or possibly even a tournament to stoke interest in something specifically special to Philly's DNA. Next year he should make an exception. Put Dunphy in. Do it because he belongs. Coaches go into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame when they're still active. I can understand why such a protocol exists. But the time has come to break precedent. It's the only right thing to do.

Temple subs getting it done

Joe Juliano, Philadelphia Inquirer (Jan. 26, 2016)

Temple coach Fran Dunphy realizes that when a team has a bench like the Owls - one that includes a fifth-year senior, a red-shirt junior, a third-year junior, and a sophomore who started 10 straight games earlier this season - frustration can seep in at some point.

But a major reason the Owls have won five of their last six games, including Sunday's 89-80 upset of No. 8 ranked and previously unbeaten Southern Methodist, is because their non-starters have accepted their roles.

"There's frustration involved with sacrifice, and that comes with the territory," Dunphy said. "But in the end, if you're thinking, 'Whatever is best for the team, I'm willing to do. I would like to get out there. I want to play,' I'm OK with the frustration. Control it and understand it, and let's talk about it."

"The more positive plays you make, the less frustration you're going to have because you're going to be in the game. Typically I'm not so much worried about who's starting the game, I'm very concerned with who's finishing it."

After starting the season's first 12 games, Devin Coleman, the fifth-year senior who is in his second season with Temple after transferring from Clemson, has been the catalyst of the bench brigade. He knocked down all seven of his three-point attempts and scored 23 points in the Owls' win over SMU and was named the American Athletic Conference player of the week.

"I don't think I've ever seen a performance like that," said red-shirt junior Daniel Dingle, another member of the Owls' potent bench. "Actually, I got a rebound, and we were in transition. I saw an open lane for myself, but when he spotted up, I was like: 'Hey, his three is just like my layup.' I passed him the ball, and he knocked it down."

The 6-foot-7 Dingle provides another dimension for the Owls when he enters the game. He can play any position from point guard to power forward. He can guard the opposition's shortest or tallest player. He can score if needed, as he did Sunday with 14 points in 16 minutes against SMU.

Dingle's role changes from game to game, and he observes from the bench once the game begins to figure it out.

"It's staying engaged, active, talking, acting like I'm on the court," he said. "It's just observing the weaknesses of the opposition, seeing if there are gaps I can fill in. Being a student of the game on the bench and being very active so when I get in the game, I'm already ready."

Dunphy not only appreciates Dingle's versatility but also his high basketball IQ.

"He knows the game so well," the coach said. "His versatility has really helped us. Like [Sunday], he had a terrific game for us - scored the ball well, passed the ball well, put the ball in the right people's hands, and defended it well."

"Would he like to have more minutes and start the game? Probably. But he's understanding of his role, and he's performed it great."

Dingle starred at St. Raymond's High School in the Bronx, where he was the 2012 New York Catholic High School Athletic Association player of the year. But he learned to fit in on his AAU team, the New York Lightning, where he played with Kareem Canty of Auburn, Kevin Punter of Tennessee, and Kamari Murphy of Miami.

"It's doing whatever it takes to win," he said. "I've learned how to fit in, definitely."

So have the other bench players - junior forward Mark Williams and sophomore forward Obi Enechionyia, who replaced the injured Jaylen Bond in the starting lineup on Sunday, his 11th start of the season. The bench against SMU also included senior Devontae Watson and freshman Levan S. Alston Jr.

"Those guys coming off the bench, there's moments now where we're playing five subs, which never happened to us," Dunphy said. "And you're feeling comfortable about it, which is great."

Aflakpui's long road to recovery

Owen McCue, Temple News (Feb. 2, 2016)

Ernest Aflakpui and Archbishop John Carroll High School's basketball team had one more practice before a trip to Fort Myers, Florida for the City of Palms Classic Basketball Tournament.

The Temple commit and the rest of his team were finishing a transition drill at the end of a Dec. 14, 2014 practice, when Aflakpui went up for a rebound and collided with two teammates.

The 6-foot-10-inch center landed awkwardly on his right leg and collapsed to the floor.

"I messed up my footing, so it kind of buckled a little bit," Aflakpui said. "It ended up being a torn meniscus in my right knee."

The Accra, Ghana native had surgery four days after the injury, but one month later, problems struck again when he discovered an infection in his knee. The setback required additional surgery and forced Aflakpui to drain the area three times per day.

"It was scary," Aflakpui said. "I didn't know. I was thinking 'Am I done? What does this mean?'"

"There were some really tough days and some days where, even someone as strong as Ernest and as faithful as Ernest, had to kind of question, 'What's going on here? Why me?'" Archbishop Carroll coach Paul Romanczuk added. "But he kept plugging through."

While at Archbishop Carroll, Aflakpui lived with Sean and Jennifer Finnegan and their four children. Pat Finnegan, a senior marketing major at Temple, remembers Aflakpui sitting on the couch, unable to do anything.

"He was all right with it for a little bit, then you could start to tell he started to get real anxious, really, really anxious, just kind of like moaning around," Finnegan said. "But right when he was able to start moving again, he was off, always doing something."

When he arrived at Temple in July, Aflakpui did physical therapy in the morning at Edberg-Olson Hall and worked with assistant athletic trainer Shawn Cameron while the team did conditioning drills later in the day.

Doctors cleared the freshman center to play before the start of the Owls' season in mid-October 2015, and Aflakpui played in five of Temple's first 12 games, totaling more than four minutes once.

Coach Fran Dunphy approached him with the idea of redshirting.

"It just didn't look like he was making the necessary progress, so I just talked to him about the possibility of maybe doing it," Dunphy said. "I said, 'Just think about it.'"

After the team's Jan. 2 loss to Houston, Aflakpui came into Dunphy's office with an answer.

An MRI showed his knee was completely healthy, and he had no intentions of sitting out the rest of the season.

"I told him I wanted to play," Aflakpui said. "He was like, 'Great.' If I wanted to redshirt or play it didn't make a difference. Whatever I wanted to do he was right behind me."

Since his conversation with Dunphy, Aflakpui has started in every game for the Owls. In the team's past five contests, he is averaging 4.6 points and 3.8 rebounds per game, including an eight-point, 10-rebound performance in Wednesday's loss to East Carolina.

"Most of the time he looks pretty good," Dunphy said. "But you can see there's times where he favors [his knee] just a little bit, as you would expect somebody coming off that serious of a knee injury."

Aflakpui, a former soccer player, began playing basketball as an eighth grader in Ghana after his cousins pushed him into the sport because of his height.

Aflakpui's injury came three games into his senior year at Archbishop Carroll, his fifth year playing basketball. The center scored 16 points in all three contests and said he was playing the "best basketball" he ever played.

Finnegan recalls watching Aflakpui play in a game before his senior season against Thon Maker—a 7-foot center, currently ranked as a five-star recruit by Rivals.com.

"He had a really good game against him, and that one I was like 'He's made a lot of improvements,'" Finnegan said. "I thought he was going to have a huge season."

Quenton DeCosey knocks off final team from AAC bucket list

Max Buchdahl, City of Basketball Love (Feb. 4, 2016)

Coming into Thursday night, Quenton DeCosey had beaten every team in the American Athletic Conference at least once, except for the Tulsa Golden Hurricane.

In two meetings with Tulsa last season, the Owls came away short both times.

Given how close Temple was to an at-large tournament bid last season, DeCosey knows just how meaningful those two losses were.

"Both those games, especially the game here last year, we should have won," DeCosey said. "Losing to them twice, that hurt. Especially keeping us out of the tournament."

The two losses were definitely on DeCosey's mind on Thursday night in the first matchup between the teams this season.

"Any team that beats me two times, the next time I play them, I want to win," DeCosey added.

Despite going scoreless in the first half, the senior forward stepped up in the second half and overtime period, helping his team to an 83-79 victory.

DeCosey, who went on to lead the team with 21 points, also had the assist to an open Devin Coleman on the 3-pointer that tied the game and sent it into overtime.

Temple then used 3-pointers from Obi Enechionya and Daniel Dingle, as well as two big free throws from DeCosey, to pull out an 83-79 victory.

The win improves Temple to 13-8 on the season and 7-3 in AAC play. Tulsa, meanwhile, drops to 14-8 overall with a 6-4 mark in AAC play.

It's the first win over Tulsa in program history for Temple. The Owls were 0-4 previously.

The win also moves Temple into second place in the conference standings. Due to SMU's violations, however, Temple would be the first seed in the conference tournament, if the season ended today.

It was a tough first half for the Owls, as both Enechionya and Jaylen Bond committed two fouls within the first 10 minutes. Temple was without Ernest Aflakpui, who is day-to-day with a knee injury, and was therefore restricted in their options up front.

Still, using seven points from junior point guard Josh Brown, the Owls were able to stay in the game and went into halftime tied at 27-27.

Enechionya knows the struggles he has had while in foul trouble, but is working to correct it.

"Earlier in the season when I got in foul trouble, it got me out of my game and I usually didn't play well for the rest of the game," he said. "I think I'm better at handling that now and I play just as well as if I didn't have any fouls."

The sophomore forward finished with 17 points, which marks his third consecutive double-digit game, the first such streak for him this season.

Enechionya's streak is a source of optimism for Owls fans, as they hope for more production from a player who was expected to be a major contributor at the start of the season.

Similar to the hopes of fans, Temple's coach Fran Dunphy is hoping that the victory over Tulsa can propel the Owls forward.

Dunphy had previously hoped for the win over SMU would launch the team in the right direction, but after the loss at ECU, he now hopes that this win can do the trick.

"We talked about that in the locker room," Dunphy said. "We want this to propel us to bigger and better things."

Even though Temple was trailing for much of the second half, the team never quit, and clawed their way back into the game to add another signature win to their resume.

"This is big," he said. "Especially how we were down and how we were struggling. Anytime we come back like that in the last few seconds, it's a big win."

Temple will now have to deal with the dreaded hangover game immediately following a big win.

After defeating Cincinnati on the road to begin conference play, the Owls turned around and were blown out at home by Houston. Then, more recently, they followed up the upset over SMU with a disappointing road loss to ECU.

Next, Temple travels to Central Florida for a matchup with the 11-9 Knights on Saturday afternoon.

"We have to be ready in a very short period of time," Dunphy said. "We talked about that a lot. Hopefully this win tonight helps us with our confidence."

A win on Saturday night would lift Dunphy above John Chaney for the most wins as a Big 5 coach. He'll be looking for his 517th win, but he knows that it won't come easily.

"They are going to play us tough," Dunphy said. "They are going to play hard, and they are going to want to win just as much as we do."

Bond's stellar play was key to Temple's win over Tulsa

Marc Narducci, Philadelphia Inquirer (Feb. 5, 2016)

Against a guard-oriented team, the work of Temple 6-8 senior Jaylen Bond was crucial in the Owls' 83-79 win over Tulsa in Thursday's American Athletic Association game at the Liacouras Center.

This was a true character win for Temple, which three different times trailed by 12 points in the second half and was down by 5 with just under 26 seconds remaining in regulation.

Bond played just five minutes in the first half after picking up two quick fouls. He had just two points and two rebounds in the first half, but turned it on after intermission, finishing the game with 13 points and 13 rebounds.

When asked about Bond's rough first half, coach Fran Dunphy said he was happy with the overall performance

"Jaylen can give us 13 and 13 every night and I would be a happy camper," Dunphy said.

It's important that Bond gets his rhythm back. He missed two games with a back injury and returned in Sunday's 70-63 win at South Florida, totaling eight points and three rebounds in 24 minutes.

Despite the foul trouble against Tulsa, Bond ended up playing 28 minutes, shooting 5 for 11 from the field and 3 for 4 from the foul line. (Considering that he is shooting 13 for 31 from the line this year, his foul shooting was one of the crucial parts of Temple's win).

Bond also added three assists, one steal and committed just one turnover.

He now has six double-doubles, surpassing his total of five last season. A return to form by Bond will be a major key for the Owls in their last month of regular season games.

Enechionya hitting stride at crucial point for Temple

Rob Cochran and Aron Minkoff, City of Basketball Love (Feb. 5, 2016)

Entering the season amidst high expectations, sophomore forward Obi Enechionya had yet to realize his anticipated potential through the first few months of the season.

Through 19 games, the 6-foot-9 big man started 13 of them, yet only scored 10 or more points in eight games.

All of the sudden it appears that things may be on the rise for Enechionya, who finished with 17 points, his third-most of the season, in Thursday night's 83-79 victory over Tulsa.

"My confidence is pretty high right now," Enechionya said. "It didn't really drop off much, I just wasn't hitting shots. That happens sometimes but I feel like I'm back in my groove."

After scoring a career-high 25 points against Saint Joseph's on December 13, Enechionya went on an eight-game stretch in which he averaged 4.9 ppg. Finally, in the last trio of games, the sophomore forward seems to be playing with a renewed consistency.

The victory over Tulsa marked his third consecutive game in which he scored double digits in points. This is the longest streak of that nature on the season.

The level in which Enechionya played at in Thursday night's overtime win, including three 3-pointers, really helped the Owls overcome a deep second-half deficit.

Perhaps the most improved aspect of his game is his 3-point shooting. On the season, he is connecting on 38.9 percent of his 3-point attempts, 11 percent higher than last year.

However he is connecting on just 40.6 percent of his field goals, a 4.3 percent drop since last season.

"When he squares his feet as a jump shooter, he's terrific," Temple coach Fran Dunphy said. "He has worked really hard at it (his jumpshot), and his next step is to work at other parts of the game, including his defensive end, rebounding end, and playmaking end."

He is averaging 9.2 ppg on the season, which on paper would indicate a successful jump for a sophomore who averaged just 5.3 ppg as a freshman. However, Enechionya has not played nearly as well as anticipated.

When the game came down to the wire, Enechionya kept his cool and did not force an errant shot. He trusted that his teammates around him would come through.

"I really wasn't worried," Enechionya said. "I'm pretty confident with him [Devin Coleman] and Q [Quenton DeCosey] knowing that when they have the ball I'm pretty sure anything they put up is going to go in."

It was a good day at the office for the sophomore. In addition to his 17 points, he shot well, going 7-12 from the field.

He also looked solid defensively, coming up with four defensive rebounds and two blocks in tonight's effort.

He may not be having the breakout season that the Owls had hoped he would, but Dunphy knows he has a great and dedicated player.

"He's a good guy, a great teammate, and he made a couple of big plays tonight," Dunphy said.

The Owls still have a lot of work to do in order to make a run at the NCAA Tournament, and Enechionya will certainly need to maintain his level of high-play that he has displayed over the last stretch of games. But the win over Tulsa is certainly a step in the right direction.

"It's a big win," Enechionya said. "We are kinda on a run right now, we lost a bad game at ECU, but this is big too, it picks us up and gets us back into it."

"Especially how we were down and how we were struggling. Anytime we come back like that in the last few seconds, that's a big win," Enechionya continued. "I think we were all pretty confident we were going to come back and win the game so I don't think that is a problem for us."

The confidence is high up on Broad Street and Owls fans everywhere are hoping to see Enechionya and the confident Owls dancing come March.

Dunphy becomes Big 5's best with dramatic win

Chris Hays, Philadelphia Inquirer (Feb. 6, 2016)

ORLANDO -- Temple coach Fran Dunphy said after the Owls' 62-60 victory Saturday over Central Florida, "No game is easy."

That was certainly the case at CFE Arena, as Temple needed an official's review at the end of regulation to survive a pesky UCF squad.

The win made Dunphy the all-time winningest coach in the history of the Big Five, surpassing former Temple coach John Chaney with victory No. 517, a milestone Dunphy had kept under wraps from his players.

"Oh, I did not know that, but we will congratulate him as soon as we get on that bus," said junior forward Mark Williams, who posted a season-high 16 points Saturday. "Coach Dunphy is one of those coaches who is very well-known and well-respected. Since I've been here he's reached about three or four milestones, and it's truly a blessing to play for him."

"As much as he gets on us and yells at us, we look back and still say he's a great guy and a great coach."

There were nine lead changes in the game, and it was tied seven different times.

It appeared UCF had managed an eighth tie at the regulation buzzer, when A.J. Davis put back a missed shot. Game officials, however, reviewed the replay, and it was quickly determined the shot was late and the basket was waved off.

The last lead change of the game came courtesy of Temple's Quenton DeCosey, who converted a traditional three-point play at the 1-minute, 8-second mark to give the Owls a 61-58 lead. A pair of free throws from UCF's Tanksley Efianayi pulled the Knights within 61-60, and Temple's Devon Coleman hit 1 of 2 free throws with 18 seconds left to set up the game's final drama.

Coming out of a timeout with 12 seconds left, A.J. Davis missed an open three-pointer, which caromed long and was rebounded by Shaheed Davis, who shot a wild three while falling out of bounds. The miss, however, was put back in by A.J. Davis to give Knights' fans brief cause to celebrate.

"We didn't play our best basketball, but we just hung in there, hit timely shots, and made plays in order to win the game," Williams said.

The victory kept Temple in second place in American Athletic Conference play at 8-3. The Owls improved to 14-8 overall. Central Florida is 11-10, 5-5.

With eight games remaining on the regular-season schedule, every victory will go a long way in building the Owls' postseason résumé, but Dunphy said that's no concern at this point.

"It's not something anybody is thinking about," Dunphy said of his team, which has won eight of its last 10 games. "We're going to turn our thoughts to breaking down this game, a little bit of the Tulsa game, and then we're going to go crazy [preparing for] UConn for the next couple of days."

Saturday's win was Dunphy's 207th at Temple. He won 310 games at Penn.

"It's not really something I put much thought into," Dunphy said afterward. "It just means I've been around a long time."

Dingle comes up big down stretch as Temple wins fourth straight

Josh Verlin, City of Basketball Love (Feb. 12, 2016)

Daniel Dingle picks his spots to step up for Temple, and he picks them carefully.

Because when the redshirt junior forward from the Bronx is playing at his best, he makes a world of difference for the Owls.

Dingle stepped up in another big way on Thursday night, hitting several crucial shots and chipping in with some big defensive plays as well to help Temple to a 63-58 win over UConn that kept the Owls' momentum rolling in the American Athletic Conference play.

"Just an unlikely finish to the game," Temple head coach Fran Dunphy said afterwards.

He was talking about a game-closing 21-4 run by his Owls, one that saw an offense that had been stymied by a tough Huskies defense for the first 30-plus minutes suddenly wake up in large part to one player who seems to be popping up at the right moments.

Dingle's career-high 15 points marked only the third time that he's hit double figures this season. The previous two times came in two of Temple's biggest wins of the year, a 77-70 win at then-No. 22 Cincinnati on Dec. 29 and a Jan. 24 win over previously-unbeaten and then-No. 8 Southern Methodist at home on Jan. 24; he had 14 on each occasion.

Dingle couldn't pinpoint a reason why he seemed to rise to the occasion when his team needed him the most.

"Each game I take the opponent the same way as the next," he said. "So I just play, go out there and whatever happens."

He's not the only reserve to have stepped up in the recent past for the Owls (15-8, 9-3 American), who tied Southern Methodist atop the league with the win.

Backup forward Mark Williams, who didn't see any time against UConn had 16 points and five rebounds the prior outing against Central Florida, and freshman Trey Lowe had 11 points against South Florida two games before that.

"It would be great if we could count on (Dingle) to step up the last seven games and do what he did for us tonight," Dunphy. "We need him, we need everybody...it's not easy being a reserve in a situation like that but if they keep their heads about them, then we can have a chance to do things like we did tonight."

Every win is big this time of year for Temple, who began the year 6-6 against a brutally tough schedule but is now rallying with a strong conference slate to put itself in the NCAA picture with Selection Sunday less than five weeks away.

But it looked like a three-game winning streak would end at the hands of UConn (17-7, 8-4), who led by 12 with under six minutes to play as Temple had mustered just 42 points through the game's opening 34 minutes.

Then Dingle caught fire, knocking down three 3-pointers in just under two minutes, with senior guard Devin Coleman adding one of his own to help turn that dozen-point deficit into a two-point disadvantage with a full 3:45 left on the clock.

"We know he was a capable 3-point shooter," Conn head coach Kevin Ollie said of Dingle, being kind to a forward who'd made only 21.2 percent (7-of-33) of his 3-pointers coming in. "But we were trying to run them off the 3-point line--especially when you're up 12, you know the 3-point line is going to get them back in the game. We just didn't execute."

Suddenly, a Liacouras Center with 8,316 in attendance was rocking, and all the momentum was firmly on Temple's side.

Dingle's contribution wasn't limited to one side of the court, either. A crucial shut-down of UConn grad student Sterling Gibbs on the possession after his final 3-pointer of the evening helped Temple tie it up on a Quenton DeCosey jumper with 1:49 left, the game's first tie since it was 31-31 early in the second half.

DeCosey, who led the Owls with 23 points in the win, hit the game-clinching bucket, putting some improbable spin on a layup through contact that resulted in a 3-point play and a 59-58 lead with 70 ticks on the clock.

"I don't know how that went in," DeCosey said. "I'm just very thankful that it went in."

Temple forced three turnovers to finish things off. A steal by Josh Brown on the ensuing possession led to two DeCosey foul shots, and then a Rodney Purvis double-dribble and bad pass from Jalen Adams (after two more DeCosey freebies) closed out the game.

The Huskies did a good job of shooting themselves in the foot down in the second half, even as they were expanding their lead. One possession saw three missed layups in a five-second span at an open rim, and on another UConn big man Amidah Brimahhad a ball elude his grasp as he went up for a dunk.

Those buckets cost the Huskies dearly down the stretch.

"We missed a couple of layups, Amidah had the ball in his hands—it just slipped out of his hands, I think because of the tape on his hands but if you're out on the court, you've got to make that play," Ollie said.

By beating second-place UConn, the Owls are currently a game and a half up on every other AAC team that's postseason eligible; SMU won't be playing in either the AAC or NCAA Tournaments this spring due to a self-inflicted ban.

That would be a great finish for a team that was predicted to finish sixth in the league's preseason standings--and they already have wins over four of the five squads picked in front of them, Memphis excluded.

"We're at the top of the conference, number one, so I think we're one of the best teams in the conference," DeCosey said. "We've got to stay focused, we're on a bit of a roll right now."

Temple living dangerously with recent close victories

Greg Paone, CSN Philly (Feb. 12, 2016)

The good news for Fran Dunphy's Owls is that, following Thursday's come-from-behind 63-58 win over Connecticut, they're riding a four-game win streak and have won seven of their last eight games as they surge toward March and the American Athletic Conference tournament.

The four-game win streak has obviously come at the right time, but it also comes with unsettling feelings because Temple could have easily lost all four games.

Temple needed a career-high 30 points from senior point guard Quenton DeCosey to beat a bad South Florida team, 70-63, on Jan. 31.

A waved-off tip-in at the buzzer allowed Temple to escape Central Florida with 62-60 win last Saturday.

And, of course, there was Thursday night's win over Connecticut that needed a game-closing 21-4 run over the last 5:38 of regulation to overcome a 12-point deficit.

"It's not how you want to live your life, living on the edge," Dunphy said. "But it's a great part of our DNA that we are resilient and we're not a giving-up kind of group."

The win streak comes as the Owls have fought back from an uneven start to the year to place themselves in the same position they were at this time last season – squarely on the NCAA Tournament bubble.

And if any team knows how dangerous of a place that is to be, it's this group of Owls.

You may recall that last season's Owls spent the late part of the year on the bubble and were ultimately the last team left out of the tournament by the selection committee.

The consolation prize was the top seed in the NIT, which eventually saw Temple bow out with a semifinal loss to Miami at Madison Square Garden.

What hurt last season's team was the inability to earn more than a couple of quality wins. There was the demolition of No. 10 Kansas at the Wells Fargo Center in December 2014, but, outside of that, nothing really to write home about.

There were three losses to SMU, two losses to Tulsa and losses to Cincinnati, Duke, UNLV and Villanova mixed in. Nine chances to earn another quality win were squandered.

This year's Owls have a handful of quality wins. They've swept both Connecticut and Cincinnati, with one win against each when each was ranked. Their signature win this season is a victory over previously undefeated No. 8 SMU on Jan. 24.

As cliché as it sounds, Temple's good wins are really good but Temple's bad losses are really bad.

After winning at Cincinnati, they were pummeled at home by Houston, 77-50, on Jan. 2.

There was the 67-65 defeat at Memphis on Jan. 13 that happened thanks to an inexplicable foul by Temple redshirt junior guard Daniel Dingle on an inbound play after the Owls had tied the game in its waning seconds.

After toppling SMU, Temple went to East Carolina and lost, 64-61, to a team that enters the weekend with a 10-14 record and 2-9 conference record.

There was also an overtime loss to St. Joe's on Dec. 13 that the Owls let slip away and a dud of a performance in a 76-60 loss at Wisconsin on Dec. 5.

This Temple team has the feel of one that can beat any team on any given night but can also lose to any given team on any given night.

The hard-fought comebacks and never-say-die attitude make you want to believe, but grit alone doesn't get a team into the NCAA Tournament.

This season's bad losses combined with the fact Temple could have easily dropped the last four games makes it difficult to say the Owls have "turned the corner" with any real conviction.

How can they add more conviction to that statement?

By taking care of business over the last seven games, starting with Sunday's visit by South Florida, which has a conference-worst 5-20 record. With the way the Owls have looked against inferior competition at times this season, it could be a waiting trap if they aren't careful and look ahead to Wednesday's matchup with No. 1 Villanova.

To a man, the Owls promised to be ready.

"We just have to go into practice and work hard, be ready to work and push each other," DeCosey said. "Just prepare for the next team as best you can. We can take no team lightly. We have to go in with the same mindset and just play hard."

"I think we're one of the best teams in the conference. We have to stay focused. We're on a roll right now with these four straight wins. We just have to stay together."

"We'll be bunkered down or hunkered down or whatever the terminology is," Dunphy said.

"We'll be thinking about South Florida."

They better be, because if this group of Owls learned anything from last season, it's that you if play with fire long enough, it's just a matter of time before you get burnt.

With game in his hands, DeCosey delivers for Temple

Mike Jensen, Philadelphia Inquirer (Feb. 28, 2016)

Fran Dunphy's exact words in the last huddle, as Temple's coach remembered them later, were directed at Owls senior Quenton DeCosey: "I'm going to give you the ball, and you're going to win the game. Are you ready for that?"

The response, Dunphy said, was kind of a laugh from DeCosey, which Dunphy interpreted as: "What, are you kidding?"

"It's kind of like asking a 4.0 student how he's doing in school," Dunphy said later, after DeCosey had pulled off another A. "What are you asking me for?"

By the time the Temple senior crossed over between his legs for the fifth time, it was clear the game Saturday at the Liacouras Center, tied in final seconds, was going to stay in DeCosey's hands. It didn't matter that he had missed his previous two jumpers.

"I got him up in the air," DeCosey said of his Central Florida defender. "As soon as he came down, I rose up to take it."

The result of that pull-up 15-footer with 3.1 seconds left, a 63-61 victory, avoided a resumé-denying upset. DeCosey practically set up the scenario the day before, when he had said in an interview, "I think my confidence is at an all-time high, so it makes everything easier, I guess."

That answer was a little startling because although DeCosey leads Temple with 15.9 points a game, he had made just 8 of 34 shots in his three previous games.

"He's earned it," Dunphy said of why he called DeCosey's number. "He's been around a long time. He's as good a scorer as we have. . . . He has no fear. That's the other thing. He thinks he's going to make everything. I felt pretty confident he would at least get us a good look. If it wasn't him, he could dish to someone else. But he stepped up and made a great shot."

DeCosey had worked toward that moment. He studies tapes of Michael Jordan. ("That's like my main guy.") He looks at the footwork, how Jordan created his space, also his defensive work, which is a much-improved part of DeCosey's game. "You can find anything on YouTube," DeCosey mentioned.

He doesn't just study Jordan on the court. DeCosey likes to watch Jordan interviews, to get more clues to Jordan's mind-set. His other favorite YouTube mentor is Houston's James Harden. DeCosey tries to incorporate Harden's dribble penetration moves, his isolation footwork - "Whenever I get at the top of the key, like 10 seconds left [on the shot clock], quick moves to try to get in the lane: a Euro step move in the lane, to avoid shot-blockers; a crossover to try and shake defenders; between-the-legs crossover."

DeCosey was saying this Friday morning, the day before his own between-the-legs crossover. When was the last time he had looked at Harden on YouTube?

"Last night," DeCosey said Friday.

If you see some Harden and a little Jordan in DeCosey's moves, throw in a sprinkle of Khalif Wyatt, who was making space for himself as a star Owls guard when DeCosey first got to Temple. "The little pump fake move I use," DeCosey said of Wyatt's influence. "Also, just finding ways to use my body to shield defenders off. I definitely use that."

Asked about DeCosey's seeing the court so much better now than he did his first couple of seasons on North Broad, Dunphy said: "Oh yeah, no question," mentioning "the ultimate example" as a play at the end of the first Tulsa game Feb. 4. "He drove it in there, they were trying to foul him, but he had enough athleticism to not get fouled at that point, jumped up in the air - and I don't know how he saw Devin Coleman."

DeCosey's pass that night found Coleman in the corner, and Coleman's three-pointer sent that one into overtime, where the Owls found another by-the-seat-of-their-pants victory.

"Very few people could have made that play," Dunphy said of DeCosey's pass.

That probably includes DeCosey early in his time at Temple.

"It's very real that he's come a long way," Dunphy said. "You know what, I think he's much, much more unselfish at this point in time. I think he was looking for his own stuff early in his career. That's a young person's attitude sometimes. But I think he's come full circle. He has as much fun passing it as he does scoring it."

These days DeCosey usually sees all the options and typically weighs them properly. His confidence? Earned the hard way. To answer his coach's question, he seems ready for anything.

Temple's Josh Brown becoming 1 of nation's steadiest PGs

Dave Zeitlin, CSN Philly (Feb. 28, 2016)

Josh Brown saw the basketball bounce off the rim and knew what had to be done. Acting quickly, he raced to the ball and secured a critical offensive rebound in the final minute of Saturday's game with UCF.

That allowed Temple to hold for one shot in a tie game, and for his teammate, Quenton DeCosey, to sink a game-winning jumper with 3.1 seconds left.

"Just a winning play," Brown said of his big-time offensive rebound following the Owls' 63-61 win Saturday. "I had an opportunity. The ball bounced my way and I knew it was under 30 seconds, so we had a chance to take the last shot."

They may sometimes get overlooked, but Brown has made a lot of "winning plays" this season. He's currently among the leaders in Division I in assist-to-turnover ratio, ranking 12th in the nation with a 3.57 ratio. He boosted that ranking with nine assists and one turnover against UCF on Saturday.

"He's taking care of the ball greatly," Temple coach Fran Dunphy said. "I thought he made one terrific [pass] to DeCosey where he got in the lane and shoveled it back to him.

"He made a nice pass to Obi (Enechionyia) when Obi made his three in transition. He's working hard at it. He's come a long way in terms of taking responsibility of being a very good point guard. His assist-to-turnover numbers are off the charts."

They certainly are and that's something Brown takes great pride in. He's logged nine assists three times this season — in wins over Penn, South Florida and UCF — and had six or more in seven other contests.

His turnover numbers might be even better as Brown has never committed more than four in a game (he's done that only twice) and didn't turn the ball over at all in nine contests this season, including in the Owls' loss to top-ranked Villanova, one of the nation's premier defensive teams.

"The one thing this team does is we try not to hurt ourselves," Brown said. "If we don't turn the ball over, we know we're not hurting ourselves. Turnovers are crucial. You don't want to give the other team points off turnovers, so we just try to limit those as much as we can while still being aggressive."

That might be a difficult balance but Brown knows how to pull it off well, especially on Saturday, when the junior point guard concentrated on drawing UCF 7-foot-6 center Tacko Fall away from the basket and dishing to his teammates. Dunphy did admit that he'd like to "get more scoring" from Brown, who's averaging 8.2 points per game, but quickly added, "I'll take the nine assists and one turnover."

And for what it's worth, the junior point guard seems happy distributing the ball to the team's top scorers like DeCosey, Enechionyia and senior captain Jaylen Bond.

"I know we've got a lot of good scorers, a lot of shooters, a lot of good people that can put the ball in the hole," Brown said. "So I just try to put them in the right spots and get them the ball so they can make the plays — and we can hopefully win."

The Owls have done a lot of winning recently, having emerged victorious in 11 of their last 14 games heading into March — a month they hope will be good to them. And their smart point guard who rarely makes mistakes is certainly a big reason why. "It's great, man," Brown said. "We take any win and run with it and enjoy it for the day — and then get ready for the next one."

Bond makes a lasting home appearance as Temple beats Memphis

Marc Narducci, Philadelphia Inquirer (March 3, 2016)

Temple's Jaylen Bond left a lasting impression in his final regular season game at the Liacouras Center, putting up several impressive statistics in the Owls 72-62 American Athletic Conference win over visiting Memphis.

The 6-foot-8 Bond had 15 points and 10 rebounds for his eighth double-double of the season. He shot 7 for 13 from the field and also had two assists, two steals and two blocked shots.

More impressively, he played 36 minutes, his most since logging 38 minutes and totaling 18 points and 14 rebounds in a 77-65 win over South Florida on Feb. 14.

In the four games after that, leading into the Memphis contest, Bond had averaged just 22.2 minutes. Foul trouble contributed to the decreased playing time. Bon averaged 3.5 fouls per in those four games.

Against Memphis, he didn't commit a single foul.

And that was quite an accomplishment since he was playing against 6-9 Shaq Goodwin, a powerful force down low.

Goodwin had 14 points and three rebounds in the first half, but was limited to two points and two rebounds over the final 20 minutes.

At halftime, even with Temple leading 39-30, coach Fran Dunphy had a talk with Bond about hitting the glass. Bond had just two rebounds in the first half, including none on the defensive boards.

"Jaylen had no defensive rebounds in the first half and got seven in the second half so that was part of what his process was and he knew he had to get that done and that was really good," Dunphy said.

Bond was able to defend Goodwin aggressively because he wasn't in foul trouble.

"He is a great player, he is a big, physical player down low and I tried to play him the best defensively that I could," Bond said. He also tried to make Goodwin work on defense.

"I tried to attack him on offense the best I could," Bond said.

Temple, which visits Tulane on Sunday, clinched the No. 1 seed for next week's AAC tournament.

For Bond, it was the second big game he had against Memphis. In a 67-65 loss at Memphis on Jan. 13, Bond had 14 points and 14 rebounds.

This one meant more because it came in a win and also in his final regular season game at the Liacouras Center. (The only way he can play another game there is if Temple is in the NIT and is awarded a home game).

"Coming out with double-double on this special night was great for me and great for family," Bond said.

A local product from Plymouth Whitemarsh, Bond was clearly boosted by having his family in attendance.

"This being my last game at the Liacouras Center, I had to play the best game I could and help my teammates come out with a win," he said.

And he was able to do that by staying out of foul trouble and playing aggressively for 36 high intensity minutes.

Temple's NCAA tourney fate in its own hands

Mike Kern, Philadelphia Daily News (March 4, 2016)

That's the way Temple coach Fran Dunphy described his basketball team a few weeks ago.

Who would know better?

The Owls have played 29 games this season. Thirteen have been decided by five points or fewer. They've won nine of them.

For a program that's trying to make it into the NCAA Tournament for the first time in three years, that's a good thing. Maybe even mandatory.

They've also won eight of their last 10. Maybe the selection committee looks at that stuff. But I'm not a bracketologist. Thursday night at the Liacouras Center, in their last home game unless they are playing in the NIT, they won a game that didn't come down to the last possession.

They beat Memphis by 10. Of course, it was a three-point game with 4 1/2 minutes left. Doesn't matter. What it does for their RPI will have to be somebody else's guess. I'm not that smart. But at this point a loss would have seriously derailed their at-large resume. Especially against a team that's 1-8 on the road.

"Our goal is to make the NCAA Tournament," said senior forward Jaylen Bond, who hopefully closed out his home career with 15 points and 10 rebounds in 36 minutes. "Our work is never done."

The best thing the Owls have going for them is they clinched the top seed in next week's American Conference Tournament in Orlando, after being picked to finish sixth. And they've done that by going 7-2 against the next five teams in the standings. That includes sweeps of Cincinnati and Connecticut, two teams that for whatever reasons seem to be slightly ahead of them in the latest field projections. And as someone duly pointed out, when was the last time anyone who won the regular-season title in a Top 10 RPI league didn't make the Madness?

Sorry, I didn't have time to look up an answer. Just tossing it out there.

This much is certain: On Sunday, they close at Tulane (10-20, 3-14). If they don't take care of business, it might put them in a position where they need to win the AAC tourney.

The Owls, who improved to 19-10 and 13-4, had lost by two at Memphis in mid-January on two late free throws.

"We're just living in the moment," said senior guard Quenton DeCosey, one of five double-digit scorers (13 points) despite getting in foul trouble. "We have to continue to win and make our bid."

A year ago, the Owls were supposedly the last team out. That didn't make them feel any better. Dunphy has been doing what he does since 1989. Only two times have his teams failed to make the NCAAs three consecutive years: his first three seasons at Penn, before they won 10 Ivy titles in 14 years; and from 1996-

98. But the Quakers did tie Princeton in 1995-96 as the three-time defending champs before losing the playoff game.

Last year, the Owls struggled against the other top AAC teams. It might have made the difference.

"If we could have got one win against SMU or Tulsa, we were probably in," DeCosey said. "Every game's important."

If they win Sunday in New Orleans and get to the AAC title game, that would appear to be enough. If they lose in the semifinals, it might not. Sometimes it depends on what else happens around the country. If nothing else, that would make for a long wait until the brackets are announced. And who wants to go through that?

Then again, they could just hoist the trophy and be done with it. The Owls last did that in 2010, when they won their third straight Atlantic 10 crown.

It could be an interesting week or so.

"We want to make a run," said junior guard Josh Brown, who had 12 points, eight assists, seven boards, two steals and zero turnovers, which gives him 44 assists and five TOs in his last eight games. "We hope to get our name called."

Once again, they look to be squarely on the bubble. Last year they left the decision in the hands of others, and it didn't go their way. They'd like to make it an easy choice this time. The good news is, they very much control their destiny.

Maybe the hardest part is ignoring all the noise.

"I'm sure it's out there," Dunphy said. "We're talking about Tulane. It's the only thing on our mind . . . We are who we are."

"We need to finish. We're in a situation where we need to win as many as we can."

That's how it is on the edge.
