PORTLAND, Ore. — Maturity is realizing that a bad moment or a bad day or a bad season has no bearing on what you do with your next opportunity. You flush it and move on. Such is the task ahead of the Portland State women's basketball team for the 2024-25 season in which the Vikings will be looking to bounce back after an 8-23 campaign in 2023-24.

"We don't want to look back," Portland State head coach Chelsey Gregg said of her team turning the page on last year. "Our first year did not affect our second year when we knocked off number two [at the Big Sky tournament] and we finished in the semis. That success then did not translate or affect – due to injuries and other things – the next season. So, last year isn't going to directly affect our season."

Everybody starts a new season 0-0, after all. So, the 2024-25 season represents fertile ground for the Vikings, who can rewrite the narrative from the previous year.

Eight newcomers have already changed the dynamics in the Vikings' locker room. They join forces with eight returners, six of which will be upperclassmen this season. That group includes returning starters Rhema Ogele, Alaya Fitzgerald and Lana Wenger. Ogele and Fitzgerald will be starting for a fourth straight year, while Wenger enters her second year in the Vikings' starting five.

The mix of newcomers and returners came together over the summer for the Vikings. A focus on team bonding saw the Vikings couple basketball with team bonding experiences that included a Willamette Jetboat tour, blindfolded croquet, and a lip sync battle.

The team fine-tuned their new dynamic at their fall retreat where they defined who they wanted to be as a team. Every Portland State women's basketball team under Gregg adheres to the program's Four R's – Relational, Resilient, Reliable, Ready – but she noted that each team chooses words that define their unique dynamic as a group. That's the work that the Vikings did at the retreat.

"In the morning [at the retreat], we had each of them pick one word that was super meaningful to them. And they painted it on a 5x7 or 8x11 canvas. They shared their why and the reason for their design and all that. They'll have those in their lockers [all season]," Gregg said.

"In the afternoon and evening, we talked about, well, what do we want to be known for? And we went around the room and each person gave, you know, several words as what they thought this team was and what we want to strive to be. And we collected all of those and then from there decided, well, what ones keep popping up? What ones fit together? And we came up with accountable, driven, commitment, trust and together."

The task then became to make that digestible. It's one thing to define yourself by certain words, but you have to make them actionable. To that end, the team settled on a mantra for the season, which is:

"TOGETHER we rise, DRIVEN by TRUST and COMMITTED to ACCOUNTABILITY."

Gregg credits the exercise to Trevor Moawad, who wrote about it in his book It Takes What It Takes: How to Think Neutrally and Gain Control of Your Life.

Holding the team to the mantra will be key throughout the season. Gregg noted that part of those checks will come at their weekly individual meetings on Mondays. They'll set intentions with the players for each week at those meetings, and the intentions will always serve the mantra.

The Vikings have also opted not to elect a captain this year. Instead, they'll name a leadership team, which will keep the team focused on the mantra throughout the year.

So, the Vikings have set their foundation for the 2024-25 season. The next task? Making sure fans see that foundation in their play on the court.

The first word of the manta – together – has already been seen in practice. There's a renewed chemistry amongst the team that jumps off the court.

"Visibly, all five quarters that we played today in our closed-door scrimmage, you could see everybody was super excited. Cheering for each other, good communication, and I just think we have a desire to get better. When we've had an off day, they've come back the next day with a great response," Gregg said of her team.

Practically speaking, the Vikings reflect their togetherness and trust with better passing. The Vikings ranked 10th in the Big Sky with only 10.2 assists per game last year. Togetherness and trust can fuel better passing, which should see that number grow.

"You just feel a different connectedness than we've had in the past," Gregg said. "It's not going to be one pass, shot. We want to be able to work the ball around and look for a good shot."

Helping the Vikings increase their assists number will be a lineup that often features more than one point guard on the court at a time. Newcomer Taylor Moffat is expected to start at the point, but she'll play alongside freshman Kyleigh Brown, another point guard, while a third point guard – returner Laynee Torres-Kahapea – can replace either one.

"I was talking to a retired coach and he was joking, 'is it a bad thing to have point guards on the floor? No.' They're the best decision makers typically with good vision, really good passers, and leaders. So, I'm excited," Gregg said. "Sharing the load between them. If Taylor is getting heavily pressured, then we have Laynee bring it up or Kyleigh bring it up. They're all really confident and great ball handlers, and they all bring something a little different."

The multiple ball handlers will have the luxury of working with posts who have matured in Ogele and Wenger. Both had moments last year in their time playing together, but didn't do it consistently.

For Ogele, she finished last season with her best game as a Vik, scoring a career-high 27 points on 7-of-10 shooting from the field against Weber State in the first round of the Big Sky tournament. She won't need to do that every night, but even scoring half of that consistently would greatly help the Vikings.

"I think there's just been a change in the mentality about how she approaches the game," Gregg said of Ogele. "We've seen a lot of maturity from her. She's been consistent with her effort and getting into the gym. In the spring and summer, she's put in so much work in her game."

Wenger, meanwhile, started to turn a corner late last season. She scored in double figures in three of the Vikings' last six games of the regular season, after only doing so three times through the first 22 games of the season. If that progression continues, then Wenger should be in double figures a lot more as a senior.

"I think Lana is a lot more comfortable in the system," Gregg said of Wenger. "Last year, she was playing with her national team in the summer, and so we didn't get a lot of run with her and then she got hurt and so she missed a lot of preseason. And then she was expected to do a lot right away with some injuries at her position. It was a lot [last year] and so I think having a whole spring and summer together, and now fall, has helped. She'll have a large roll for us."

Fitzgerald should add a scoring threat from the outside along with Brown and Moffat. Fitzgerald averaged 1.67 three-pointers made per game a season ago despite dealing with injuries all year.

"Alaya, coming back as a four-year starter. We're just asking her to bring it to another level," Gregg said of Fitzgerald. "She's been solid for us, but now we're asking her for consistency. A scoring consistency and in our defensive effort. With her length and athleticism, she can really change the game on both ends of the floor and we'll need her to do that."

Further threats from three-point range could come from returners Sofía Llanos, Brooklyn Strandy and Alani Encinas. Newcomers Jamia Carter, Avery Kraft, Kirstine Munk and Cici Ellington give the Vikings more options at the guard position.

Ellington joins Brown as one of two former Oregon State Players of the Year on the Vikings' roster. Ellington was named the OSAA 6A State Co-Player of the Year in 2019 when she led Benson Polytechnic to a state title. Brown, meanwhile, was the OSAA 5A State Player of the Year this past season when she led Silverton High School to the 5A title.

In the post, Joy Haltom and Courtney Turner can change the energy of a game with their effort at the three or four spot in the lineup. Freshman Katelyn Best, at 6-3, can also spell Ogele or Wenger at the four or five.

Everyone will be tasked with replacing the scoring the Vikings lost from last season. The Vikings returned just over 50 percent of their scoring from a season ago. The Vikings will have to find an answer for that missing production early in the season.

"It's going to be a team effort, which I think is great. It's going to be about sharing the basketball," Gregg said of the new offense.

"It's going to be a little bit of everything. We have guards who can get to the basket and score. We have players who can catch and shoot. With our post presence with Lana and Rhema, I think we really have the ability to play inside-out. It'll come from a variety of different ways."

The Vikings will also need to get better defensively and on the glass. A season ago, they ranked last in the Big Sky in rebounds per game, rebounding margin and field goal percentage defense.

"I anticipate the standard for both of them will be to go get double-doubles," Gregg said of Ogele and Wenger.

Defensively, the Vikings have added some versatility to their repertoire. The Vikings played zone almost exclusively last season, but worked on man-to-man principles over the summer. That's a fundamental part of their zone, so they're by no means abandoning it, but they want to be able to give teams a different look at times this season.

"I think we needed to get back to basics. While I'm still fully confident in our zone, we had to switch it up and really focus," Gregg said of the team's defensive work. "Our zone is based on man-to-man principles, and so we needed to get better at that. That was our focus in the summer and fall, and so now we're throwing a little bit of zone back in here or there. We know it works, and it's been effective, and we just need to do it the right way."

Carter drew praise from Gregg for her defensive energy. She should be a reliable stopper as an on-ball defender.

"Jamia just brings it. She's a dog. She wants to get after it and she can," Gregg said of Carter. "We're continuing to just push her, not just offensively where she can get to the basket, but defensively, she can really disrupt and so we're really excited about the energy that she's bringing to the table."

Wenger also emerged as a shot blocker last season, while Haltom provided energy off the bench at times. But the Vikings will need to go 15-deep – or 16-deep in the case of this year's super-sized roster – to foster a strong defensive culture.

Accountability and trust are two of the team's chosen words, after all. Both play into defensive principles, and so if the Vikings stay true to their mantra, then they should improve defensively.

Basketball is a long season. The Vikings started 4-2 last year with a quality road win over Fresno State to close November, but then followed with a couple of tough months in a row. Gregg remains confident that won't happen again this season, however, with the culture they've fostered between their eight returners and eight newcomers.

"Continued communication will be key. We laid the foundation really well this summer. We should be able to stay consistent throughout the long season as long as we keep clarity in roles, clarity in expectations," Gregg said. "I think it's important that we have those things. And going forward, just checking in. We talk about, you get what you give, right? So, what are we putting into it? Are we continuing to stay committed, and I think those check-ins and the staff is a big part of that."

And if the Vikings do get off at any point, then they have a defined culture to fall back on. Together. Driven by trust. Committed to accountability.

VIKING PAVILION

Portland State University held Grand Opening ceremonies for the new Viking Pavilion at the Peter W. Stott Center on April 9, 2018. It was the culmination of a multi-year project to bring a first-class sporting venue and event center to the PSU campus.

The Pavilion, which replaces the old Peter W. Stott Center main gym, will begin hosting Viking athletic events in August with the start of volleyball season. The first major athletics event was on Apr. 28 when PSU hosted a Grand Opening Gala (Wine and Roses) fund-raiser.

The Viking Pavilion, a 141,700 square foot facility, will be home to the Portland State volleyball and basketball teams in an arena that seats just over 3,000 people. Seating is more than double the size of the old Stott Center main gym. The facility also has a new weight room, locker rooms, academic center and administrative offices as well as the new OHSU Sports Medicine Center. A new Viking Athletics Hall of Fame display will be completed this fall.

The $52.1 million project, which was part renovation and part rebuild, was designed by Woofter Architects/Perkins+Will. Fortis Construction was the general contractor. $19.1 million came from private gifts and PSU project funds, $7.5 million was a sponsorship from OHSU, $24 million are from state bonds and $1.5 million are from student fees. None of the funding came from general operating funds or tuition dollars. Formal fund-raising began in 2013. An official ground breaking took place on April 23, 2016.

Graduate studies were added in 1961, doctoral programs began in 1968, and the institution was granted university status in 1969.

EDUCATION

Portland State University is a nationally acclaimed leader in community-based learning. Located in downtown Portland's tree-lined South Park Blocks, the University is the largest, most diverse and only urban university in the Oregon University System. It is Oregon's fastest growing public institution, serving more students and conferring more graduate degrees each year than any other school in the Oregon University System.

Student-athletes work with an academic advisor and have access to the Skills Enhancement and Tutoring Center to ensure they are able to get the most out of their education. Student-athletes are also able to attend seminars given by the career center.

GREEN. IT'S MORE THAN OUR SCHOOL COLOR.

At Portland State we do more than just study sustainability. We engage directly with our community to make sustainability real. Our goal is to harness the strengths of our urban university - our new ideas, our innovative partnerships, our academic rigor - toward solving the environmental, social, and economic problems of our time.

In September 2008, Portland State University received the biggest donation in its history: $25 million from the James F. and Maron L. Miller Foundation for research and projects focused on sustainability.

ABOUT SUSTAINABILITY

If you're encountering the concept of sustainability for the first time, you may be asking yourself what all the buzz is about. When pressed to provide a definition, most sustainability professionals offer some variation on the following definition: Sustainability means meeting the economic, social, and environmental needs of the present without compromising the similar needs of future generations.

Sustainability is a process. By thinking about sustainability as a continuum rather than an endpoint, we as a University are better positioned to identify our successes while simultaneously focusing on future goals. Portland State aims to be a living laboratory of sustainability, with our efforts at research and education fully integrated with the community around us.

HEAD COACH CHELSEY GREGG

BIOGRAPHY

Chelsey Gregg was elevated to head coach of the Viking program on April 16, 2021, and will coach her fourth year at the helm during the 2024-25 season.

In her three previous years as head coach, as well as her six years as an assistant (2015-18) then associate head coach (2018-21), the Vikings have made the semifinals of the Big Sky tournament four times, including a conference tournament title in 2019. She's also guided players to two All-Big Sky first-team selections (Sidney Rielly, 2019; Esmeralda Morales, 2024), a Big Sky tournament MVP (Ashley Bolston, 2019), and a Big Sky Preseason MVP (Morales, 2023).

GROWTH MINDSET

The best coaching job of Gregg's career came in her second year at the helm when she orchestrated the biggest year-to-year turnaround in program history. After an 0-20 conference campaign during their 2021-22 season, the Vikings went 8-10 during the 2022-23 season. That +8 win differential was not only the largest turnaround in program history, but also one win off the biggest year-to-year turnaround in Big Sky Conference history.

It was a mindset change that helped key the resurgence for the Vikings. A year after the Vikings lost three Big Sky games by five points or less, they went 5-0 in such games during the 2022-23 season. Additionally, the Vikings responded well to losses throughout the season. Three of the team's eight conference wins that year came over teams that beat them in their previous meeting. That carried over to the Big Sky tournament, where the Vikings beat Idaho State and Montana State – two teams that beat the Vikings in their last regular-season meetings – to advance to the conference semifinals for the first time since 2019. The Vikings beat Montana State, 77-65, just eight days after the Bobcats – the defending Big Sky tournament champions – beat the Vikings 63-34.

The Vikings also saw dramatic improvements defensively between the 2021-22 and 2022-23 seasons. The Vikings gave up 10 fewer points per game than they did a season ago, a turnaround that saw them go from 322nd in the NCAA for scoring defense to third in the Big Sky in 2022-23. The Vikings also had standout three-point shooting all season, finishing the year ranked second in the Big Sky for three-point field goal percentage (.350) and fifth in three-pointers made per game (7.48). The Vikings' 232 made three-pointers as a team ranked as their third-highest total in program history.

PLAYER SUCCESS UNDER GREGG

In addition to team success, Gregg has led several individuals to record seasons and accolades, both in her time as head coach and an assistant.

As head coach, Gregg helped lead Morales to All-Big Sky first team honors in 2024, making her the first Viking to make the first team since Rielly – another player Gregg coached closely – in 2019. Morales earned the honor after becoming the first Viking ever to lead the Big Sky Conference in scoring (16.5 points per game). Morales also earned All-Big Sky second-team honors following the 2022-23 season.

As an assistant, Gregg led Viking players to 11 all-conference honors between one first team (Rielly, 2019), three second team (Bolston, 2017, 2018, 2019), six third team (Rielly, 2017, 2018; Kylie Jimenez, 2020, 2021; Desirae Hansen, 2020, 2021) and one honorable mention (Jimenez, 2019).

Outside of the all-conference teams, several Vikings have earned individual awards during Gregg's tenure. Bolston earned the highest honor when she was named MVP of the 2019 Big Sky tournament. Bolston led the Vikings to the tournament title that year after averaging 14.3 points and 8.0 rebounds per game in three tournament wins. Courtney West was named Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year that same season while Hansen was co-recipient for the conference's Top Reserve award. Additionally, Gregg helped lead Bolston to Top Newcomer honors in 2017 and Jimenez to Freshman of the Year honors in 2018.

From an on-court standpoint, the Vikings have consistently been one of the better three-point shooting teams within the Big Sky Conference under Gregg. Morales led the Big Sky Conference and ranked in the top 20 nationally with 87 three-pointers during the 2023-24 season. Her 87 three-pointers were the second most by a Viking player in school history.

During the 2019-20 season, the Vikings shot 37.3 percent from three-point range to set a new Big Sky-era program record. The .373 mark crushed the old record of .359 that the Vikings set two years earlier in 2017-18. The Vikings broke the single-game record with 15 three-pointers against Eastern Washington on Feb. 15 that season, breaking a mark that had stood since Dec. 29, 2007. The Vikings matched the record two weeks later while going 15-of-31 (.484) from deep against Weber State. The Vikings also set a new overall program record with 261 made three-pointers as three different Vikings moved into the single-season top 10 between Belle Frazier (64), Jimenez (63) and Hansen (60).

Three of the top five seasons for three-point makes have come in Gregg's three years as head coach. That includes Morales' 87 in 2023-24, as well Jada Lewis' 80 makes from the 2022-23 season and Morales' 77 makes from the same year.

Three of the top 10 scorers all-time have also now played under Gregg. Morales entered the top 10 most recently, finishing her PSU career eighth all-time with 1,365 career points. Bolston and Rielly entered the top 10 during the 2018-19 season. Rielly finished fourth (1,501 points) on the all-time scoring list after becoming just the fourth PSU player to score over 1,500 points her career, while Bolston now ranks 10th with 1,334 career points.

Academically, several Vikings have earned honors under Gregg. In her time as head coach, 17 players have been named to the Academic All-Big Sky teams. Morales is also a two-time Academic All-District honoree from the College Sports Communicators, earning the honor by herself in 2023 and then again in 2024 alongside teammate Sofía Llanos.

As a team, the Vikings made the WBCA Academic Top 25 Honor Roll for the first time ever following the 2020-21 season. The Vikings ranked tied for the 12th highest GPA in the nation that season with a 3.672 team GPA. They have since earned Special Mention from the WBCA each of the past two seasons.

TIME SERVED

Before taking over as head coach, Gregg spent six seasons first as an assistant (2015-18) and then associate head coach (2018-21) under Lynn Kennedy. The highlight of her time on Kennedy's staff came in 2019 when she helped lead the Vikings to their best season as a Division I program.

The Vikings won only their second Big Sky tournament title that season, advancing them to the NCAA Division I Tournament for the second time in program history. The 2018-19 Vikings also made history while going 25-8 overall, the most wins in a season during the program's Big Sky era. Additionally, the Vikings tied Big Sky era records for home wins (14) and Big Sky wins (14), and set a new Big Sky era record for road winning percentage (.615).

The Vikings led the Big Sky in eight different statistical categories during the 2018-19 season, and ranked second in the conference in five more. The Vikings led the Big Sky in scoring margin (+10.4), field goal percentage defense (.356), free throw percentage (.790), defensive rebounds per game (28.1), assists per game (17.2), turnover margin (+1.39), steals per game (9.8) and blocks per game (5.3).

The Vikings' .790 free throw percentage in 2018-19 ranked them fourth nationally in the category. They also ranked in the top 25 of the nation for assists per game (13th, 17.2), field goal percentage defense (13th, .356) and blocks per game (15th, 5.3).

Additionally, the Vikings earned national recognition for their standout 2018-19 season, as they twice were ranked eighth in the espnW Mid-Major Poll and made two appearances in the CollegeInsider.com Mid-Major Top 25. The Vikings had never appeared in either poll before the season.

Earlier in her time on the Park Blocks, Gregg helped the Vikings post the nation's biggest turnaround in team field goal percentage in 2016-17. The Vikings shot .450 as a team that season after shooting .358 from the field in 2015-16. Rielly posted the top field goal percentage in the nation by a guard that year, as she shot .530 from the field.

The Vikings' .450 field goal percentage in 2016-17 was the team's best shooting mark since joining the Big Sky Conference before the 1996-97 season.

PREVIOUS COACHING STOPS AND PLAYING CAREER

Gregg came to the Park Blocks after serving two seasons as an assistant coach under Kennedy at Southern Oregon University, where she also played collegiately. While at Southern Oregon, Gregg served as the travel coordinator and was responsible for student-athlete academic standards, monitoring, and retention.

During her time in Ashland, Gregg was part of two of the best teams in program history, both as a player and as a coach. Gregg and the Raiders went 29-5 during her senior season in 2007-08, and then went 27-5 in 2014-15 with Gregg as an assistant. The Raiders also made the NAIA Sweet 16 in 2014-15, and were ranked as high as eighth in the nation that season.

Gregg also spent four years as an assistant coach at the University of Great Falls (now the University of Providence). Gregg assisted with scheduling, scouting, player development, academics, budgeting and on-court coaching while at Great Falls, and served as the program's camp director. Gregg coached a pair of future NAIA All-Americans while at Great Falls, and helped the team rank among the best academic teams in the NAIA with a 3.65 GPA in 2013.

Gregg graduated from the University of Great Falls with an M.A. in Secondary Education in 2011. Gregg graduated from Southern Oregon in 2009 with a B.S. in Health and Physical Education and a minor in Spanish.

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH KEITHAN GREGG

BIOGRAPHY

Part of the Portland State women's basketball program for the past 10 years, Keithan Gregg will serve his fourth year as associate head coach of the Vikings during the 2024-25 season. Gregg spent his first two years as the Vikings' director of basketball operations, before serving as a full-time assistant for the next four seasons.

Gregg helped orchestrate the biggest year-to-year turnaround in program history during his second year as associate head coach. After an 0-20 conference campaign during their 2021-22 season, the Vikings went 8-10 during the 2022-23 season. The +8 win differential was not only the largest turnaround in program history, but one win away from the biggest year-to-year turnaround in Big Sky Conference history.

A WIZ WITH A WHITE BOARD

An expert in defensive scheme and end-of-game scenarios, the Vikings leaned on Gregg's knowledge in both areas during their turnaround 2022-23 season. While the Vikings were 0-3 in Big Sky games decided by five points or less during the 2021-22 season, they went a perfect 5-0 in such games in 2022-23. That included a pair of one-point games over Weber State and Idaho State, as well as a come-from-behind overtime win over Montana. Defensively, the Vikings gave up 10 fewer points per game than they did the previous year, a turnaround that saw them go from 322nd in the NCAA for scoring defense to third in the Big Sky Conference in 2022-23.

Gregg works closest with the team's guards and has made a significant impact in that regard during his time with the Vikings. Portland State has consistently been one of the better three-point shooting teams within the Big Sky Conference during Gregg's tenure. Esmeralda Morales led the Big Sky Conference and ranked in the top 20 nationally with 87 three-pointers during the 2023-24 season. Her 87 three-pointers were the second most by a Viking in a single-season in program history.

During the 2019-20 season, the Vikings shot 37.3 percent from three-point range to set a new Big Sky-era program record. The .373 mark crushed the old record of .359 that the Vikings set two years earlier in 2017-18. The Vikings broke the single-game record with 15 three-pointers against Eastern Washington on Feb. 15 that season, breaking a mark that had stood since Dec. 29, 2007. The Vikings matched the record two weeks later while going 15-of-31 (.484) from deep against Weber State. The Vikings also set a new overall program record with 261 made three-pointers as three different Vikings moved into the single-season top 10 between Belle Frazier (64), Kylie Jimenez (63) and Desirae Hansen (60).

At the 2023 Big Sky tournament, the Vikings shot their way past defending Big Sky champion Montana State, upsetting the Bobcats to advance to the Big Sky semifinals for the first time since 2019. The Vikings tied their single-game record with 15 three-pointers in the upset win, with Morales and Jada Lewis accounting for 11 of those 15.

Those efforts have helped rewrite the Portland State record book. Three of the top five seasons for three-point makes have come in Gregg's three years as associate head coach. That includes Morales' 87 in 2023-24, as well Lewis' 80 makes from the 2022-23 season and Morales' 77 makes from the same year.

Three of the program's top 10 scorers all-time have also now played during Gregg's tenure. Morales entered the top 10 most recently, finishing her PSU career eighth all-time with 1,365 career points. Ashley Bolston and Sidney Rielly entered the top 10 during the 2018-19 season when Gregg was an assistant coach. Rielly finished fourth on the all-time scoring list after becoming just the fourth PSU player to score over 1,500 points her career (1,501), while Bolston now ranks 10th with 1,334 career points.

The record-setting performances have resulted in a number of Vikings receiving all-conference honors during Gregg's tenure. As an associate head coach, Gregg helped lead Morales to All-Big Sky first team honors in 2024, making her the first Viking to make the first team since Rielly in 2019. Morales earned the honor after becoming the first Viking ever to lead the Big Sky Conference in scoring (16.5 points per game). Morales also earned All-Big Sky second-team honors following the 2022-23 season.

As an assistant, Gregg led PSU players to nine all-conference honors between one first team (Rielly, 2019), two second team (Bolston, 2018, 2019), five third team (Rielly, 2018; Jimenez, 2020, 2021; Hansen, 2020, 2021) and one honorable mention (Jimenez, 2019).

A CHAMPIONSHIP HISTORY

Gregg's defensive work with the Vikings reached its pinnacle during the program's championship run in the 2018-19 season. The Vikings led the Big Sky while ranking 13th in the nation in field goal percentage defense that season, holding opponents to only 35.6 percent shooting from the floor. The Vikings also led the Big Sky in steals per game (9.8), blocks per game (5.3) and turnover margin (+1.39) that season, and ranked second in scoring defense (60.3 points allowed per game) and three-point field goal percentage defense (30.4%).

The 2018-19 title marked only the second Big Sky tournament title for the Vikings, and advanced them to the NCAA tournament for only the second time in program history. The 2018-19 Vikings also made history while going 25-8 overall, the most wins in a season during the program's Big Sky era. Additionally, the Vikings tied Big Sky era records for home wins (14) and Big Sky wins (14), and set a new Big Sky era record for road winning percentage (.615).

The Vikings led the Big Sky in eight different statistical categories during the 2018-19 season, and ranked second in the conference in five more. The Vikings led the Big Sky in scoring margin (+10.4), field goal percentage defense (.356), free throw percentage (.790), defensive rebounds per game (28.1), assists per game (17.2), turnover margin (+1.39), steals per game (9.8) and blocks per game (5.3).

The Vikings' .790 free throw percentage in 2018-19 ranked them fourth nationally in the category. They also ranked in the top 25 of the nation for assists per game (13th, 17.2), field goal percentage defense (13th, .356) and blocks per game (15th, 5.3).

Additionally, the Vikings earned national recognition for their standout 2018-19 season, as they twice were ranked eighth in the espnW Mid-Major Poll and made two appearances in the CollegeInsider.com Mid-Major Top 25. The Vikings had never appeared in either poll before the season.

March runs have been common during

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH KEITHAN GREGG

Gregg's tenure at Portland State. The Vikings are 11-8 at the Big Sky tournament in Gregg's nine previous years on the Park Blocks, having won at least one game at six of the last eight conference tournaments. Besides the 2019 tournament title, the Vikings made the semi-finals in 2017, 2018 and 2023, and made the quarterfinals in 2020 and 2021.

In his first year as a full-time assistant in 2017-18, Gregg helped assist in the development of All-Big Sky guards Bolston and Rielly. Rielly joined the 1,000-point club during the 2017-18 season, making her just the third Viking to ever reach the benchmark after only two years in the program. Rielly went over 1,000 points while leading the team with 24 points in the Viking's Big Sky first-round win over Northern Arizona on March 5, 2018.

Gregg was also instrumental in Jimenez being named the 2018 Big Sky Freshman of the Year, making her the first Viking to earn the honor since Kelli Valentine in 2008. Jimenez earned the honor while leading the Big Sky with a 2.7 assist-to-turnover ratio, and also ranked fourth in assists per game (4.5) and seventh in steals per game (1.8).

PREVIOUS STOPS AND PERSONAL

A native of Cut Bank, Mont., Gregg played three years of basketball at the University of Great Falls (now the University of Providence) from 2005-2006 and then from 2007-2009. He led the NAIA in assists during the 2005-06 season.

He became the assistant coach at Great Falls in 2009 and coached there for five seasons, helping the team get as high as No. 21 in the nation in 2013. He recruited the 2013 and 2014 Frontier Conference Player of the Year in Marcel Towns.

Gregg became the Ashland High School Head Boys' Basketball coach for the 2014-15 season, and led the team to a 12-12 record and a first-round appearance at the Oregon 5A state tournament, two years removed from a one-win season. Gregg coached Collin Malcom, an All-Midwestern conference first-team selection who went on to become an NAIA honorable mention All-American at Warner Pacific in 2017-18. Gregg also led the Ashland High School Girl's Tennis team to the 2015 Oregon 5A State Championship as its head coach.

Gregg earned a Master's Degree in organizational management from the University of Great Falls in 2013. Gregg also earned his Bachelor's Degree in elementary education from Great Falls in 2010.

ASSISTANT COACH ASHLEY BOLSTON

BIOGRAPHY

One of the recent greats within the Portland State women's basketball program, Ashley Bolston – the 2019 Big Sky tournament MVP – re-joined the Vikings as an assistant coach ahead of the 2022-23 season. The 2024-25 season will be her third year as an assistant and fourth overall on staff.

As an assistant coach during the 2022-23 season, Bolston helped orchestrate the biggest year-to-year turnaround in program history. After an 0-20 conference campaign during their 2021-22 season, the Vikings went 8-10 during the 2022-23 season and advanced to the Big Sky semifinals for the first time since Bolston was a player herself in 2019. That +8 win differential was not only the largest turnaround in program history, but one win away from the biggest year-to-year turnaround in Big Sky Conference history.

ALL-TIME GREAT MAKING GOOD

A standout guard in her own time at Portland State, Bolston has brought her expertise to the Vikings' current players now as an assistant coach. During the Vikings' turnaround 2022-23 season, the Vikings got outstanding guard play that saw them rank second in the Big Sky for three-point field goal percentage (.350) and fifth in three-pointers made per game (7.48). The Vikings' 232 made three-pointers as a team ranked as their third-highest total in program history.

This past season, Bolston helped lead Esmeralda Morales to All-Big Sky first team honors in 2024, making her the first Viking to make the first team since Sidney Rielly – a teammate of Bolston's – in 2019. Morales earned the honor after becoming the first Viking ever to lead the Big Sky Conference in scoring (16.5 points per game).

Morales also earned All-Big Sky second-team honors following the 2022-23 season when she ranked in the top 15 of the Big Sky Conference in nine different statistical categories. She now has two of the top five three-point shooting seasons in program history between her 87 makes during the 2023-24 season and 77 in 2022-23. Jada Lewis also posted a top five season in 2022-23 with 80 makes.

Lewis and Morales ranked 1-2 in the Big Sky Conference with 2.58 and 2.48 three-pointers made per game.

Three-point shooting helped lead the Vikings to the semifinals of the Big Sky tournament in 2023, the Vikings' first appearance in the semifinals since Bolston led the Vikings to the title in 2019. The Vikings tied a program record with 15 made three-pointers in their upset win over defending champion Montana State in the quarterfinals. Morales set a program tournament record with 28 points in the upset win over the Bobcats, while she was named to the Big Sky's All-Tournament Team after averaging 16.3 points per game.

PLAYING CAREER

As a player, the highlights of Bolston's PSU career came when she led the Vikings to the Big Sky tournament title as tournament MVP in 2019. Bolston averaged 14.3 points and 8.0 rebounds per game during the tournament, including a game-high 16 points in the championship game against Eastern Washington.

Bolston's tournament MVP honors provided a fitting cap to her standout senior season in 2018-19. Bolston ranked in the top 15 of the Big Sky Conference for points per game (12.6), assists per game (4.5), free throw percentage (.821), steals per game (2.5) and assist-to-turnover ratio (1.5). She also became only the second Big Sky athlete ever to record two different triple-doubles during a single season. Bolston recorded 21 points, 12 rebounds and 11 assists against UC Davis on Nov. 16, 2018, and then came within a steal of a quadruple-double while recording 19 points, 10 rebounds, 12 assists and nine steals against the University of Portland on Dec. 1, 2018.

From a career perspective, Bolston finished in the top 10 all time at Portland State for points (9th, 1,334), points per game (8th, 14.8), free throw percentage (6th, .832), assists (7th, 381) and steals (5th, 216) despite only playing three years for the Vikings. Only two other players rank in the top 10 for points, assists and steals, and both of them – Claire Faucher and Kim Manifesto – have been inducted into the Portland State Hall of Fame.

In addition to her tournament MVP honors as a senior, Bolston was the Big Sky's Top Newcomer during the 2016-17 season, as well as a three-time All-Big Sky second-team selection and a three-time All-Big Sky tournament team honoree. She also served as team captain during all three years she played at Portland State, and was a three-time Academic All-Big Sky honoree.

PREVIOUS STOPS AND PERSONAL

Bolston earned her Bachelor of Science in Criminology & Criminal Justice at Portland State, with a minor in Black Studies. She worked a year within the Department of Human Services in Child Protective Services, which she did in between her stints as the Video Coordinator at Portland State (2019-20) and an assistant coach at McNeese State (2021-22).

ASSISTANT COACH GRAHAM MCFALL

Former Portland Community College head coach Graham McFall will add some local flavor to the Portland State women's basketball coaching staff in his first year as an assistant coach, working primarily with the team's post players, during the 2024-25 season.

McFall stepped in to lead the PCC program in 2020, taking the Panthers from a one-win season the year before he arrived to a program-record 21 wins this past season. McFall led the Panthers to winning seasons in two of his three seasons at the helm. He led the Panthers to what was then a program-best 18-12 record during the 2021-22 season before topping that with a 21-7 record in 2023-24. McFall's 2021-22 team also recorded PCC's first postseason win in program history when it beat Centralia, 86-75, in the first round of the NWAC Championship Tournament.

Overall, McFall went 49-35 over his three seasons at PCC when the Panthers had been 9-66 in the three years before he arrived.

McFall's winning record was a tribute to his success developing players. In just three seasons at PCC, McFall saw 14 players move on to four-year schools at the end of their tenure with the Panthers. McFall led 6-2 forward Iris Cubit to first-team All-Region honors twice. Cubit averaged 15.1 points and 9.7 rebounds per game in South Region play this past season while leading the Panthers to their program-best win total.

McFall previously served from 2018-20 as an assistant coach for the women's basketball team at Lincoln University, an NCAA Division II school in Missouri. Additionally, he worked with men's teams at Indiana University Kokomo and IUPUI at the NAIA and NCAA Division I levels. McFall served as an assistant coach for Indiana University Kokomo during the 2016-17 season, while he was a student assistant video coordinator with IUPUI during the 2014-15 season.

McFall also has coaching stops in Australia where he holds dual citizenship along with his U.S. citizenship. McFall served as the Team Australia head coach for the Alexander Basketball Academy Global Squad, an AAU program, and was an assistant coach for the Caboolture Suns in Australia in 2016. While in Australia, he also worked with the OzSwoosh Academy, a basketball player development academy.

McFall holds a bachelor's degree in sports leadership from the University of Wisconsin Superior. He earned a master's of arts degree in higher education from Lincoln University, where he coached as an assistant.

DIRECTOR OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS KHLOE SNAIR

Khloe Snair followed new assistant coach Graham McFall to Portland State from Portland Community College, joining the Vikings as their new Director of Basketball Operations ahead of the 2024-25 season.

Snair served as an assistant coach under McFall at PCC from 2021-23. During that time, Snair helped McFall turn around a PCC program that won one game during the 2019-20 season. Two years later, with Snair in her first year with the Panthers, the team won a program-record 18 games. The 2021-22 Panthers also recorded the program's first postseason win with an 86-75 triumph over Centralia at the NWAC Championship Tournament.

Snair spent the 2023-24 season as a graduate assistant with the Mississippi University for Women. There, she coordinated scheduling for the women's basketball team while also leading individual and group skill development sessions.

She served in a similar role in her time at PCC where in addition to her coaching duties, she fulfilled operational tasks such as recruiting visits, academic schedules, fundraising, travel itineraries, scouting reports and practice plans.

Snair's other coaching stops include working as a floor coach at Shoot 360 under longtime Concordia University-Portland head men's basketball coach Brad Barbarick. Snair also interned at West Coast Elite from June 2020 to December 2021.

Snair played under longtime Warner Pacific head women's basketball coach Matt Gregg, spending two years with the Knights from 2019-21. Snair averaged 7.4 points per game during her second year with the Knights. She scored a career-high 18 points to go with seven rebounds in her season debut at Multnomah on March 17, 2021.

BIG SKY CONFERENCE

The Big Sky Conference enters its 72nd year overall and 37th year of women's competition during the 2024-25 academic year.

The venerable Division I Big Sky Conference observed its 50th birthday on July 1, 2013.

Four of the current league members – Idaho State University, The University of Montana, Montana State and Weber State – have been with the league since its birth. Fellow charter member -- the University of Idaho -- returned most of its sports to the Big Sky on July 1, 2014. Northern Arizona University enters its 49th season in the league, giving the league five members with at least 40 years of continuous membership.

UC Davis and Cal Poly joined as football affiliate members. Eastern Washington University, the University of Northern Colorado, Portland State University and Sacramento State round out the current membership.

The league has become one of the strongest Division I conferences in the West and is a national leader in the Football Championship Subdivision. Six times, Big Sky teams have won the Division I National Championship, including Eastern Washington in 2010. The Big Sky is one of three conferences in the western United States playing Division I football.

Northern Arizona University helped the league capture its first non-football national championship, as the Lumberjacks won the 2016 NCAA Division I Men's Cross Country Championship. The Lumberjacks followed with NCAA titles in 2017, 2018, 2020 and 2021.

The Big Sky Conference was established in 1963 by six charter members – Idaho, Idaho State, Gonzaga, Montana, Montana State and Weber State. Those six schools formed the foundation of the Big Sky before the league expanded in 1970 by adding Boise State and Northern Arizona. Gonzaga left the Sky in 1979 and was replaced by Nevada, which gave the league eight members. The conference grew to nine schools in 1987 with the addition of Eastern Washington.

The 1990s saw change in the makeup of the league, beginning in 1992 when Nevada departed and put the Big Sky back at eight teams. In 1996 Boise State and Idaho left and at the same time the conference added Portland State, Sacramento State and Cal State Northridge. The Big Sky maintained nine teams for five years before Cal State Northridge departed in the spring of 2001.

The Big Sky's full members represent nine states spanning from the Pacific Ocean to the Red River Valley of North Dakota. The league is represented along the entire west coast with institutions in Washington, Oregon and California. League schools also range up and down the Rocky Mountains with institutions in Montana, Idaho, Utah, Arizona and Colorado.

The University of Idaho, which was a member from 1963-96, will once again compete in the Big Sky in the majority of its sports. Idaho's football program will also begin competing in the Big Sky Conference in 2018. The University of North Dakota will begin leaving the Big Sky Conference after the 2017-18 season.

On Feb 25, 1963, the name Big Sky was adopted by the six presidents of the charter members as the name of the new conference.

The name Big Sky originated in a novel written by the late A.B. (Bud) Guthrie of Great Falls, Mont., in 1947 entitled "The Big Sky." Jack Hollowell, a former Montana advertising director, promoted the Big Sky theme for the Treasure State. While on a track and field trip from Pocatello, Idaho, to Missoula, Mont., legendary Dubby Holt of Idaho State saw a "Welcome to Big Sky Country" sign as his team entered Montana. Holt, and his athletes thought "Big Sky" would be a perfect name for the new conference. Harry Missildine of the Spokane Spokesman-Review called for the newly formed league to be named the Big Sky Conference in his column dated Feb. 20, 1963.

The Big Sky sponsors championships in 16 sports, including men's and women's cross country, indoor and outdoor track and field, basketball and tennis. In addition, there are also championships in football, and women's volleyball, golf and soccer. The Big Sky sponsored softball for the first time in 2013. Men's golf returned as a championship sport in 2014-15 for the first time since 2002. The University of Hartford and Binghamton University have joined the Big Sky as affiliate members in golf.

In 1988-89, the Big Sky Conference first began sponsoring women's sports. The former Mountain West Conference existed from 1982-88, sponsoring championships for women's sports at the same institutions the Big Sky had men's programs. The Big Sky merged with the Mountain West in 1988, forming one league for both men and women.

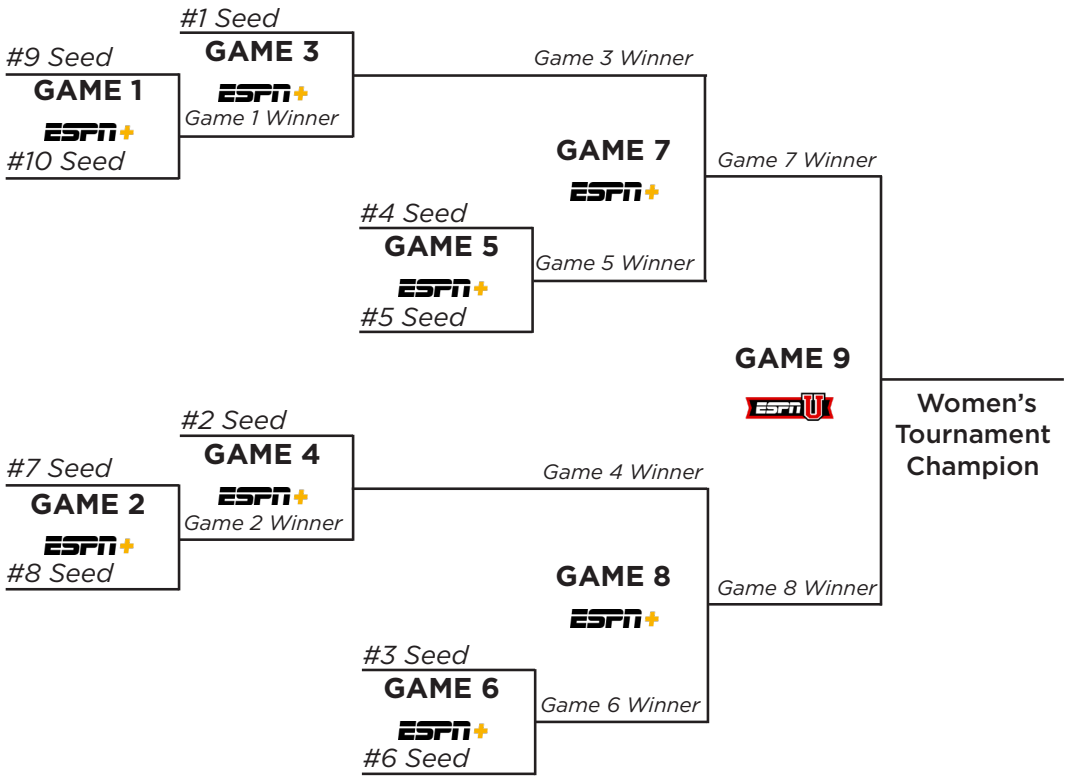

Andrea Williams, the sixth commissioner of the Big Sky Conference, is in her second year at the helm. Williams took over the Big Sky on July 1, 2016, replacing longtime commissioner Doug Fullerton. Fullerton served the league for 21 years. Ron Stephenson, who passed away in 2011, preceded Fullerton. Serving as commissioner from 1981 through June 1995. Steve Belko was the commissioner from 1977-81, while John Roning held the post from 1971-77. The first league commissioner was Jack Friel, who served from 1963-71.

Two-time All-American Kim Manifesto was a starting guard on the night that PSU tallied the largest margin of victory ever in school history, a 63-point (102-39) defeat of Cal State San Bernardino on Dec. 2, 1995. That was also the last time a PSU team eclipsed the 100-point barrier.

Angela Hewlett scored 22 points with 13 assists and five steals.

The Vikings faced Final Four host North Dakota State in the semifinals and fell behind 46-29 at the half and could never come back. All-American Laurie Northrop led the Vikings with 14 points but the loss ended a 25-game winning streak for the Vikings.

Portland State rebounded in the third-place game, defeating Bentley College 72-69, overcoming a 12-point halftime deficit. Sheri Stemple scored 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Vikings to their best finish at an NCAA Tournament.

The following day, a more balanced Viking attack handled UC-Davis. P.J. Hall and Katie Rose each scored 16 points to lead the team. The 2008-09 Portland State squad became the first in school history to advance to the NCAA Division I postseason. Under the direction of second-year Head Coach Sherri Murrell, the Vikings advanced to the second round of the Women's National Invitation Tournament before falling at Oregon State.

After finishing the regular season 14-2 in the Big Sky, the Vikings entered the conference tournament as the No. 2 seed for just the second time ever. They knocked off Montana State, 71-64, before losing to host and top-seeded Montana the next night, 69-62. Even though they fell short of their ultimate goals of winning the Big Sky Championship and reaching the NCAA tourney, the Vikings earned the conference's automatic bid into the WNIT.

In their first round game against cross-town rival Portland at the Stott Center, the Vikings came out on top, 57-51, behind 30 points and 10 rebounds from Kelsey Kahle. The senior forward went 11 of 12 from the field to set a new PSU postseason field goal percentage record (.917), and also went 8 of 8 at the free-throw line to tie the free throw percentage mark. The win was the Vikings' 23rd of the season, which set a new school record at the Division I level.

Two nights later, on March 21, Portland State traveled down I-5 to play Pac-10 foe Oregon State. The Beavers eventually pulled out a 57-49 victory as the Viks were forced to foul down the stretch. Even though Portland State outshot Oregon State, the Vikings were undone by 25 turnovers. Kahle saw her outstanding career come to a close with the defeat. The Aurora, Ore., native finished with eight points, five boards and two blocked shots in her final game as a Viking.

One year after making their first postseason appearance at the NCAA Division I level, the 2009-10 Portland State squad entered the season with high expectations. For the first time ever, the Vikings were picked to win the league title by the coaches and media in the preseason polls, but they stumbled to a 9-7 conference record and entered the Big Sky tourney as the fifth seed.

Behind a season-high 17 steals, the Vikings opened the tournament on March 11 with a 75-61 victory over No. 4 Idaho State. Kelli Valentine and Kelly Marchant each scored 14 points, and Lexi Bishop chipped in a career-best 13. The following night, PSU took down No. 2 Montana, 62-47, allowing the fewest points they ever had in the Big Sky tourney. In front of a hometown crowd in Cheney, Wash., Spokane native Valentine scored 12 points on 6 of 8 shooting. In the tourney championship title, junior Claire Faucher took over and led the Vikings to their first Big Sky Championship and a berth into the NCAA Tournament. PSU became the lowest seeded team to ever win the tourney with their 62-58 win over No. 6 Montana State. Faucher, who was named the tournament MVP, finished with 26 points, six assists and five steals, and set school postseason records with eight 3-pointers made and 16 attempted.

On March 16, the Vikings and their fans gathered at the downtown Portland Buffalo Wild Wings to watch the NCAA Tournament Selection Show on ESPN. PSU got its wish to stay local, earning a No. 15 seed in the West bracket and a trip to Seattle to face No. 2 seed Texas A&M.

In their first ever NCAA Division I Tournament game, Portland State fell to the ninth-ranked Aggies, 84-53, on March 20, at Bank of America Arena. The Vikings hung tough with the Aggies for the opening period and led just before the break, but Texas A&M scored the final eight points of the half and led 39-31 at intermission. Faucher closed out her career in style with 15 points, seven assists and four steals, while Eryn Jones tallied 15 points and made 3 of 4 three-point attempts.

PORTLAND STATE'S THIRD STRAIGHT POSTSEASON TEAM

After a tough preseason schedule that saw the 2010-11 Vikings enter Big Sky play with a 7-6 record, and a 1-3 start in league play, it appeared Portland State's dream of winning their first regular season title would not come true. But the Vikings rebounded to win 11 of their final 12 regular season conference games and on the final night of play, Portland State knocked off Montana State, 65-63, to earn a share of the regular season crown. Eryn Jones made a pair of free throws with four seconds left and with Northern Colorado losing on the road, the Vikings and Bears both finished with 12-4 records. Portland State earned the top seed and right to host the conference tourney because they swept the season series with Montana State, who finished third in the final standings, while UNC split with the Bobcats.

Hosting the Big Sky Tournament for the first time in school history, the Vikings got a bye into the semis and on March 11 they defeated Eastern Washington, 73-62. PSU struggled shooting in the first half, hitting at just a 26.7 percent clip, and the game was tied at the break, 26-26. But they shot 68 percent over the final 20 minutes to earn the win. Kelli Valentine had a double-double with 14 points and 10 rebounds, Courtney VanBrocklin scored 14 of her 17 points in the second half, and Eryn Jones added 16 points. The following evening, PSU struggled down the stretch in the championship game against Montana, going scoreless for over six-and-a-half minutes. The Vikings led 52-46 with 8:04 to play, before hitting a cold spell and their 11-game home winning streak came to an end.

PSU still earned the conference's automatic bid into the WNIT and thus began a crazy few days. The Vikings didn't learn until 8:30 p.m. on Monday, March 14, that they would travel to take on Wyoming. Less than 24 hours later they were on a plane to Denver and the team didn't get into Laramie until around 12:30 a.m. on Wednesday, the same day as their game. After getting a few hours of sleep, several players had to take finals and then later that evening, a tired PSU squad fell to the host Cowgirls, 79-44. VanBrocklin led the Vikings with 11 points, while Stephanie Egwuatu chipped in a career best nine and also pulled down six boards.

SECOND NCAA TOURNAMENT APPEARANCE, BIG SKY-ERA RECORD 25 WINS

The Vikings opened the season with eight straight wins, the best start to a season in the program's Big Sky era. The Vikings also finished the season with a Big Sky era record 25 wins, and tied a record with 14 wins at home.

The Vikings still only went into the Big Sky tournament as the No. 4 seed, however, and things didn't look promising when the Vikings trailed Montana State by four at 42-38 in the third quarter of their quarterfinal game. The Vikings picked it up from there and closed the third quarter on a 12-0 run to retake the lead. The Vikings held the Bobcats to only six points from the 5:04 mark of the third quarter to the 3:13 mark of the fourth quarter. The Vikings built a 12-point lead in that time, and hit free throw after free throw to close out the Bobcats, 68-56.

The win advanced the Vikings to the semifinals of the Big Sky tournament for the third straight season, where they would meet No. 1-seeded Idaho. The Vikings had lost 10 straight games to the Vandals, including a 102-99 loss in the semifinals of the Big Sky tournament the year before. Nevertheless, the Vikings put together their best defensive performance of the season while beating the Vandals 75-59. The Vikings held Idaho - the nation's top three-point shooting team with an average of 11.6 three-pointers made per game going into the tournament - to only six three-pointers, and three of those six came in the final five minutes of the fourth quarter when the Vandals were trying to make up a double-digit deficit. It was a far cry from the Vikings' first two games against the Vandals during the regular season, when the Vandals hit 13 three-pointers against the Vikings on Jan. 26, and 15 three-pointers in their game on Feb. 28. Idaho's Taylor Pierce, who came into the game leading the nation with 4.55 three-pointers made per game, totaled 11 three-pointers between those two wins for the Vandals, but went 0-of-12 from beyond the arc in the semifinals against the Vikings.

The emotional victory took its toll on the Vikings in the Big Sky championship game, however, and Eastern Washington, which had been on their own Cinderella run with upsets of Idaho State in the quarterfinals and Northern Colorado in the semifinals, took advantage by leading for much of the game. The Eagles led for nearly 30 minutes in the game, and trailed for all of 90 seconds in the second half.

That was all the Vikings needed to steal the game from the Eagles, as the Vikings turned a 57-50 deficit with 5:35 remaining into a 61-59 win with an 11-2 run to close the game. Senior guard Ashley Bolston gave the Vikings their first lead of the second half with a jumper that made it 59-57 in favor of the Vikings with 1:50 left to go.

Eastern Washington missed a shot the next time down the court, but the Vikings couldn't add to their lead and gave the ball back to the Eagles with 28.2 seconds remaining. The shot clock was off at that point, but the Eagles elected to shoot the ball early as Jessica McDowell-White tied it up with a floater with 20.3 seconds left.

That gave the Vikings the ball back, and Kennedy called a timeout to set up the final shot. The Vikings held the ball until there were about 10 seconds remaining, at which point sophomore point guard Kylie Jimenez passed to freshman guard Desirae Hansen at the top of the three-point arc. Hansen beat her defender with a crossover to her right, and then hit a high-arching fadeaway over the Eagles' Bella Cravens for the game-winning shot with 3.1 seconds remaining.

The Vikings went on to lose 78-40 to second-seeded Oregon in the first round of the NCAA tournament, but the Vikings had made the NCAA tournament for only the second time in program history, and in only their fourth season under head coach Lynn Kennedy.
