PEPPERDINE HISTORY

Pepperdine began sponsoring women's basketball during the 1975-76 season and has now fielded a team for the past 50 years in Malibu. The Waves have enjoyed 14 postseason trips and 12 20-win seasons over the years.

The Waves made their first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance in 2000 with an at-large bid, then captured the WCC Tournament title and subsequent NCAA appearances in 2002, 2003 and 2006. In addition to NCAA appearances, the Waves were invited to the WNIT in 1999, 2001, 2004, 2010, 2011 and 2019. All-time, the Waves have a record of 701-703 (.499) over the 29 years, including 24 winning seasons.

Pepperdine opened the inaugural 1975-76 season under the direction of head coach Marcia Cantrell. Patty Meyers then assumed the head coaching duties the following year and quickly transformed Pepperdine into one of the region's top programs. During a four-year span from 1977-78 to 1980-81, Meyers led the Waves to three appearances in the AIAW Championships. Then, after the 1981-82 season, Pepperdine earned a berth to the eight-team National Women's Invitation Tournament in Amarillo, Texas. In seven seasons, Meyers put together a record of 146-70 (.676).

Ron Fortner began his 10-year tenure as the Waves' head coach prior to the 1983-84 campaign, and guided the program from NCAA Division I independent status to membership in the WCC in 1985-86. Fortner markedly improved Pepperdine's schedule and developed a number of outstanding players, including All-American Maureen Formico, the school's all-time leading scorer.

In June of 1993, Mark Trakh of nearby Brea Olinda High School in Orange County was hired to direct the program. Under his guidance, the Waves posted six straight 20-win seasons from 1998-2003. A program first came in 1999 when his team tied for the WCC regular-season title. The Waves went on to win outright regular-season crowns in 2000, 2002 and 2003.

In the postseason, Trakh took the Waves to second-place finishes at the WCC Tournament in 1999 and 2000, then won back-to-back tournament titles in 2002 and 2003. Trakh's teams made six straight postseason appearances, three in the NAAs and three in the WNIT.

Prior to the 2004-05 season, Julie Rousseau was handed the coaching reins. She had previously been a head coach of the WNBA's Los Angeles Sparks and an assistant at Stanford. In 2006, her second season, Rousseau took the Waves back to the NCAA Tournament.

Despite finishing the year with a 14-17 record, Rousseau led her team to a spectacular run at the WCC Tournament, as the Waves won three games in four days, including a 71-67 victory over top-seeded Santa Clara in the championship game. In 2010, Rousseau's Waves won 20 games for the first time in her tenure, made the championship game of the WCC Tournament and advanced to the WNIT. Pepperdine made its second consecutive WNIT trip in 2011.

Ryan Weisenberg served as an assistant at Pepperdine for one season before being promoted to head coach in April 2013, and he spent four seasons in charge.

Weisenberg was followed by DeLisha Milton-Jones. The former WNBA and Olympic great stayed in the post for two seasons, and led the Waves to 22 wins and a WNIT appearance in 2018-19. After she stepped down, former assistant Kristen Dowling became the program's eighth head coach in July 2019 before her contract was not renewed following the 2022-23 season. Kelsey Keizer served as an interim head coach during the 2023-24 season before Katie Faulkner was hired as the tenth head coach in program history in April 2024.

Professionally, three former Pepperdine players have been noteworthy. Rasheeda Clark, who played for the Waves from 1999-2001 and was the 2000 WCC Player of the Year, became the WCC's first player to be chosen in the WNBA Draft. Then, Jennifer Lacy became the first WCC women's basketball player to make a WNBA roster, as she won a spot with the Phoenix Mercury in 2006. Lacy was then part of the Mercury's 2007 WNBA championship squad and had a successful 10-year run in the league. Miranda Ayim played briefly for the Tulsa Shock in 2011 before a long, successful career overseas.

In 2012, Ayim became the first Pepperdine women's basketball product to compete in the Olympics. The 2010 Division I-AAA ADA Scholar-Athlete of the Year helped her native Canada reach the quarterfinals for the first time at the London Games. The three-time Olympian also competed in 2016 and 2020.

WCC TOURNAMENT RESULTS

At the turn of the millennium, Pepperdine won back-to-back West Coast Conference Tournament titles in 2002 and 2003. Those Waves teams came into the tournament as the top seed and took care of business in San Diego to usher in the program's heyday in the early 00s. No Pepperdine basketball team has won back-to-back titles since then.

But the program's most improbable title run came in 2006, when the Waves cut the nets down in Spokane as the 4-seed. Aside from a 12-point win over Saint Mary's in the opening round, the Waves gutted out two one-possession games in the semifinal and the championship game to punch their ticket to the NCAA Tournament. That team was led by sophomore guard Daphanie Kennedy, who averaged 15.7 points, 5.7 rebounds, 2.7 assists and 2.0 steals per game during that title run to earn WCC Tournament MVP honors.

Interestingly enough, the Waves won all three of their WCC titles away from Malibu in an era where the WCC held its conference tournament at different hosting institutions. Firestone Fieldhouse never hosted a WCC tournament during this time.

Since 2009, the WCC has held its conference tournament at the Orleans Arena in Las Vegas, Nevada. The next year, Pepperdine reached the championship game as the 3-seed before falling to Gonzaga. In a move that was groundbreaking at the time, the WCC changed its postseason bracket in 2019 to its current format, in which the top two teams are automatically placed in the semifinals, and the third- and fourth-place teams earn spots in the quarterfinals.

During the 2020 season, the 6-seeded Waves played their way into the semifinals by upsetting 3-seed BYU in the quarterfinal game before falling to 2-seed San Diego in the semifinals. All-tournament team selection Hannah Friend helped spark that run; she averaged 18.7 points per game while shooting 50.0% from the field, including an impressive 40% from beyond the arc.

All told, Pepperdine has made 16 semifinal appearances and has a 3-3 record in six WCC title games.

NOTE: The all-time numerical roster starts with the 1979-80 season. The NCAA legalized the use of numbers 6-9 at the beginning of the 2023-24 season. Ornela Muca was the first Pepperdine women's basketball player to take advantage of this rule by wearing No. 9 for the 2024-25 season.

WAVES IN THE WNBA

Three former Pepperdine players have been noteworthy when it comes to the WNBA. Rasheeda Clark, who played for the Waves from 1999–2001 and was the 2000 WCC Player of the Year, became the school's first player to be chosen in the WNBA Draft. Then, Jennifer Lacy became the first WCC women's basketball player to make a WNBA roster, as she won a spot with the Phoenix Mercury in 2006. Lacy was part of the Mercury's 2007 WNBA championship squad and was briefly teammates with Miranda Ayim for the Tulsa Shock in 2011.

WAVES AT THE OLYMPICS

Miranda Ayim became the first Pepperdine women's basketball player to compete at the Olympics when she and Team Canada took part in the 2012 Games in London. Ayim followed that up with an appearance in the 2016 Games in Rio, and the 2020 Games in Tokyo.

At the 2012 Olympics, Canada went 2-3 in its group, and that was good enough to advance to the quarterfinals for the first time in the nation's history. But Canada lost to the eventual gold medal-winning U.S. squad in the quarterfinals. Ayim appeared in five of six games and her best output was four points in the opener against Russia.

She again helped Canada reach new heights in the 2016 Games, propelling the team to a second straight quarterfinal appearance, playing in every game along the way. Canada went 3-2 in group play, eventually losing to runners-up France in the quarters. Ayim averaged 4.7 points in 17.3 minutes per game, putting up a tournament-high 10 points in Canada's opening-round win against China.

Ayim announced that she would retire from professional basketball ahead of the 2020 Tokyo Olympics (which were postponed to 2021 due to the coronavirus pandemic).

In her third and final appearance, she averaged 3.3 points in 19.0 minutes per contest as the Canadians finished in ninth place overall. Additionally, Ayim was one of Canada's two flag bearers for the Opening Ceremonies.

RECORDS VS. WCC OPPONENTS

Ever since Pepperdine women's basketball started playing in the West Coast Conference in 1985-86, the Waves have enjoyed varying levels of success against their conference opponents.

Near the turn of the century, Pepperdine women's basketball was one of the league's marquee programs, having finished no lower than third in the league standings in eight consecutive seasons from 1997-2005.

Pacific University joined the league in 2013-14, making the WCC a solid mid-major conference of 10 private, West Coast institutions.

After nearly a decade of stability as a 10-member conference, the West Coast Conference experienced several changes in the 2020s. The WCC briefly became a nine-team league when BYU left for the Big 12 in 2023, however, Oregon State and Washington State joined the WCC as affiliate members in 2024-25 after the Pac-12 Conference dissolved.

More change is on the horizon. Starting in 2025-26, the WCC plans to add Seattle University, giving the league 12 member institutions.

RECORDS VS. AP TOP 25 OPPONENTS

Thanks to competing in the West Coast Conference and living close to local powers USC and UCLA, playing opponents ranked in the AP Top 25 poll is a near-annual occurrence for Pepperdine.

The Waves earned their first win over a ranked opponent with a neutral-site, 83-73 victory against #12 LSU on Dec. 20, 1991. However, Pepperdine had to wait six years for its first home win over a ranked foe: On Nov. 29, 1997, Pepperdine shocked #5 Florida by beating the Gators 65-51 in Firestone Fieldhouse.

Since then, Pepperdine has beaten ranked opponents in Firestone Fieldhouse three times. Several marquee women's basketball programs have traveled to Malibu to take on the Waves, including Stanford, USC, UCLA and even Connecticut, who made the trip to Firestone Fieldhouse several times in the early 2000s.

Pepperdine's only home games against the No. 1 team have been against the UConn Huskies in 2000 and 2003. In both matchups, Firestone Fieldhouse was packed with fans eager to see future WNBA greats like Sue Bird, Diana Taurasi, Swin Cash and others.

FIRESTONE FIELDHOUSE

Firestone Fieldhouse opened on Nov. 30, 1973, and it has always been the home of the Pepperdine women's basketball program. Since the 1976-77 season, which spans the last 48 seasons, the Waves have compiled a 380-273 (.582) record in the Fieldhouse (the home win-loss record for 1975-76, the inaugural season for Pepperdine women's basketball, is unavailable).

Pepperdine has posted 32 winning seasons at home in the 48 years. The Waves have posted a double-digit win total 17 times, including seven consecutive seasons from 1997-2003. The single-season record for home victories came during the 1980-81 campaign when Pepperdine posted a 15-4 record.

The first home victory on record came against Cal State Los Angeles on Dec. 4, 1976.

The multi-use facility, named in honor of Mr. Leonard K. Firestone, was officially dedicated by President Gerald R. Ford on September 20, 1975. Firestone Fieldhouse has a listed capacity of 3,104, although 4,500 packed the gym in February 1976 to witness the men's basketball team defeat nationally ranked UNLV, 93-91.
