BOILERMAKER ALL-AMERICANS

The Purdue Boilermakers have had 11 players earn All-America honors, with eight of those coming in the last nine seasons. Purdue has produced four All-Americans and eight Freshman All-Americans. Bill "Moose" Skowron was the Boilers' first All-America honoree, garnering third team honors from the ABCA in 1950. Current Purdue players Eric Charles (2009), Cameron Perkins (2010) and Kevin Plawecki (2010) all earned Freshman All-American recognition by Collegiate Baseball after their first seasons.

Established in 1971 in honor of the late Purdue athletics director Guy "Red" Mackey, this award recognizes athletes who exemplify the overall success of the university's intercollegiate athletics programs. Mackey devoted nearly half a century to Purdue before his death in February of 1971 and served as athletics director from 1942 until his passing. His accomplishments were legion during his career, but the inspiration for this award stemmed from the leadership, loyalty, integrity and concern for others that marked each day of his life.

Squad members from each of Purdue's intercollegiate athletics teams are nominated by their teammates for the award. The criteria for nomination include competitive spirit, a positive attitude, loyalty, self-discipline, hard work for the best interest of the team and a willingness to help others.

Originally the Mackey Award was awarded to three of the nominees each year, with each nominee receiving a scholarship to continue their education. Today each nominee is honored with the award and receives a plaque commemorating his/her accomplishment.
