HEAD COACH DAN GRITTI

After just his second season at the helm, Dan Gritti has brought about a complete resurrection of the Rhodes College football program. Last season, the Lynx posted their best record in a decade, finishing 6-3 with victories over rivals Washington University, Centre and the University of the South.

As with Gritti's prior stops, Rhodes' resurrection was based on defense and special teams. The Lynx defensive unit finished 1st in the conference and the team placed five different special teams units in the nation's top 30. These on-the-field accomplishments, coupled with Rhodes' recent recruiting hauls, serve as the foundation for Gritti's championship expectations.

Before being named the 22nd head football coach at Rhodes, Gritti served as the special teams coordinator and front seven coach at the University of Chicago. During his time on the Midway, Gritti saw the revitalization of the Maroon football program, which resulted in the team posting its best record since 1913 and winning the University Athletic Association Championship. During that championship season, Chicago's defense finished 2nd in the nation in sacks and 3rd in the nation in tackles for loss. More notably during his tenure, Gritti engineered a complete overhaul of the Maroon special teams, which took them from finishing no higher than 151st in the nation the season prior to his arrival, to placing every special teams unit in the top 16 nationally. The highlight of the resurgence was the punt block squad tying the NCAA record for most punts blocked for touchdowns in a season with six.

Prior to arriving at Chicago, Gritti spent four seasons as the special teams coordinator at Middlebury College (VT). Before taking over the reins of the defensive backs for his final season in Vermont, Gritti spent three years coaching the defensive line. During that time, Middlebury experienced the team's first outright conference championship in 15 years, and saw its defense finish 3rd in the nation. Similar to their performance at Chicago, Gritti's players broke the conference and single season records for sacks. Additionally, Gritti was responsible for tutoring placekicker Steven Hauschka, who has gone on to a successful career in the NFL.

Gritti began his coaching career in the Big Ten at Indiana University as a defensive quality control assistant. At Indiana, Gritti was reunited with his mentor Gerry DiNardo, who served as Vanderbilt's head football coach while Dan was a student. In his time in Bloomington, the Hoosiers defeated two top 25 football teams in the same season for the first time in 10 years and get a school record for defensive touchdowns.

Gritti credits any of his success to having such great mentors in the coaching profession. "Starting with Coach DiNardo, Curt Mallory and Joe Cullen at Indiana, and continuing with Coach Bob Ritter at Middlebury and Coach Dick Maloney at Chicago, I have had the unique opportunity to learn from men who are truly the best in our profession. There is not a day that goes by where I don't use something they taught me to make Rhodes the championship program that we all expect."
