Johns Hopkins University Head Coach Jim Margraff

Jim Margraff is in his 25th season as the head coach at Johns Hopkins University. He has a career record 177-82-3. Margraff has led the Blue Jays to 10 Centennial Conference Championships, five NCAA Division III Championship Tournament appearances and five Eastern Conference Athletic Conference Bowl games.

Margraff and the Blue Jays entered the 2014 campaign after another championship season that included a fifth straight Centennial Conference title, a third consecutive trip to the NCAA Playoffs and a 10-1 record. The Blue Jays also spent the entire season ranked in the top 25 for the third consecutive year. Two All-Americans, three Capital One/CoSIDA First Team Academic All-Americans, two NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship recipients and a National Football Foundation Scholar-Athlete highlighted the honors and awards that ranks among the best in school history.

The success of 2013 came off of the 2011 and 2012 seasons that ended with Centennial Conference titles, one trip to the second round of the NAAs (2012), the first home NCAA playoff game in school history (2011) and the first 10-0 regular season record in school history.

JHU enjoyed the greatest regular season in school history in 2011 as the Blue Jays posted a 10-1 record, grabbed a third consecutive Centennial Conference title and advanced to the NCAA Playoffs for the second time in three years.

In his first year as head coach (1990), Margraff led the Blue Jays to their first winning season since 1985 the highest Conference finish ever (third). Margraff has since guided the Blue Jays to 19 winning campaigns during his tenure and 21 years with a record of at least .500. Prior to his arrival for the 1990 season, Johns Hopkins posted a winning record just seven times in the previous 18 seasons.

Margraff began his career coaching the quarterbacks at Hopkins. He then returned to his high school on Long Island and coached the Miller Place offensive and defensive backfields. In 1985 he moved back to the college ranks, coaching the offensive line at the University at Albany.

In 1987, Margraff became an assistant at the University of Pennsylvania and coached the tight ends. While at Penn, he coached All-Ivy League tight end Brent Novoselsky, who went on to play in the NFL. The following year he joined the staff at the University of Rochester, working with the offensive line.

At Rochester, he worked with head coach Ray Tellier, who brought Margraff with him to Columbia University in 1989. During his time at Columbia, he coached the offensive line and served as one of the staff's top recruiters.

Margraff was a four-year starting quarterback for the Blue Jays and he rewrote the Hopkins passing record book. Margraff ranked as the Blue Jays' all-time statistical leader in pass attempts, pass completions, passing yardage and touchdown passes when he concluded his career. As a co-captain during his final year, he helped lead Hopkins to a 7-2 finish, matching the school's all-time record for wins in a season at the time. In 1997, he was inducted into the Johns Hopkins Athletic Hall of Fame.
