TRADITION

Year in and year out, the baseball program is arguably the most successful at Rutgers University. Driven by a knowledgeable coaching staff committed to fundamentals and carried out by determined student-athletes, the baseball program has risen to among the nation's best, debunking the theory that northern schools can't compete nationally. While practicing in cold temperatures and hitting indoors might not be the ideal conditions for preparation, especially when teams like Miami, Georgia Tech, FAU and FIU are on the schedule, it toughens the team and provides greater resolve heading into the season.

Over the past few years, Rutgers has shown that it can win in the BIG EAST (2003 Regular Season Champions), compete with the nation's top teams and is deserving of NCAA tournament consideration (five bids in the last nine seasons).

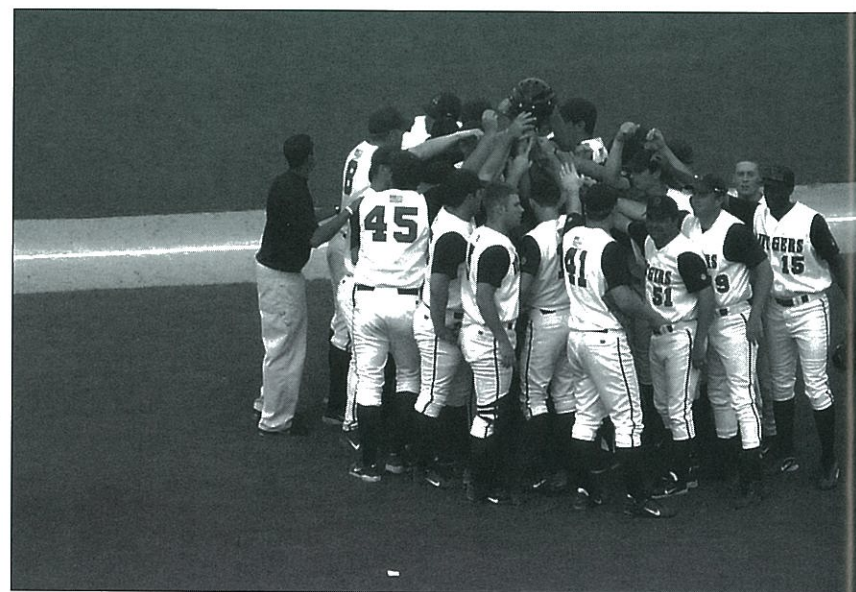

As Rutgers embarks on its 2007 season, one thing remains certain: the team will be well-prepared. With a healthy pitching staff returning and six position starters back in the lineup, 2007 looks talented and promising. Using a no-frills approach, Rutgers will once again set its sights on a BIG EAST Championship and a trip back to the NCAA Tournament.

2000 BIG EAST CHAMPIONS

The heart and soul of the team is its players - a tight-knit group of Jersey kids who play their hearts out each and every game and play the game the right way. In 2003, Rutgers subscribed to a "small-ball" approach, using a team record 319 walks and 90 stolen bases to fuel a 37-22 record, despite 16 newcomers on the roster.

Rutgers baseball is about winning and a commitment to playing the game the right way. Players who come through the program get a chance to grow on and off the field and are in a great position to play at the next level. In the last 10 years, more than 30 players have gone onto the professional ranks, including four players drafted in the top six rounds. The 2000 team, which won the BIG EAST regular season and tournament championship, featured 18 players who have played professionally at some level in the United States and two others who have played professionally overseas.

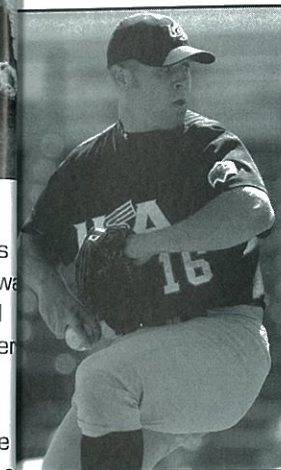

HOMEGROWN SUCCESS

"NEW JERSEY'S TEAM"

The Rutgers University baseball team features a winning team year in and year out by gaining the best talent from within New Jersey.

This season, Rutgers Baseball is once again "New Jersey's Team" as just four players - mostly from nearby Pennsylvania and New York - are from outside New Jersey. In 2002, the entire team was comprised of players who grew up and played scholastically in New Jersey.

Edison, NJ's Bobby Brownlie
2002 First-Round Draft Pick
2001 Team USA standout
Chicago Cubs prospect

Coach Hill feels that there is a tremendous amount of talent in New Jersey and by obtaining the best players from the state, Rutgers will be able to compete with the rest of the nation. New Jersey-driven teams have enjoyed tremendous success over the years, dating back to the first stars of Rutgers, such as Joe Lynch, Darrin Winston, Noel Gluck and Glen Gardner. That tradition has continued with players like Bobby Brownlie, David DeJesus, Pete Zocollilo and Jeff Frazier.

Around the state of New Jersey there has been a sense of hometown pride as many of the best Jersey players turn down out-of-state scholarships stay at home to attend Rutgers. Rutgers has attracted the state's top players, including 1999 Star Ledger Pitcher of the Year Bobby Brownlie, 2001 Player of the Year Jeff Frazier, 2004 Player of the Year Todd Frazier and 2006 Pitcher of the Year Casey Gaynor.

The New Jersey-based Rutgers coaching staff thoroughly surveys the state for the top talent in each county. Its ability to attend high school and American Legion games, coupled with a focused approach to recruiting, enables the staff to uncover "hidden gems" - players who often go unnoticed by other schools but flourish at Rutgers. A perfect example of this is former standout Val Majewski, who attended Rutgers on an academic scholarship and, three years later, was drafted in the third round by the Baltimore Orioles, making his major league debut in August of 2004.

Former RU All-American Billy McCarthy, now playing professionally with the Atlanta Braves, went away to play collegiately in Virginia but could not resist the temptation to come home and play for Rutgers. In his season at Rutgers, McCarthy earned All-America honors and was a sixth-round draft pick. He was named Braves Minor League Player of the Year in his first season in the minors. The heart and soul of the 2003 BIG EAST Champions, Vinny Esposito, left Rutgers after one season for Oakland (MI), but quickly returned and helped the Scarlet Knights post back-to-back 37-win seasons in 2002 and 2003.

RU's 2004 squad had two walk-ons, Graig Badger and Nick Cerulo, who played their way into the starting lineup and excelled for the Scarlet Knights. At the conclusion of their collegiate careers, both Badger and Cerulo moved onto professional baseball - a testament not only to their hard work, but to Coach Hill's ability to develop players of all caliber in his system.

Pitcher of the Year, Casey Gaynor

MODEST CHAMP

BY RON JANDOLI • FOR THE STAR-LEDGER

Casey Gaynor would have every right to be a boastful person. The Toms River East senior right-hander has been an integral part of many championship teams. He has pitched his high school team to four consecutive league titles, sprinkled in a few county crowns and won a pair of NJCAA sectional championships while rewriting the school's record books.

He also bested a 30-year-old standard in the Shore Conference for career victories.

Even as a youngster, he was a champion. Gaynor won a World Championship — as an 11-year-old in 1998 — when he helped Toms River East America capture the Little League World Series title.

Yet, despite all the championships, trophies, MVP honors and newspaper clippings galore, Gaynor stays completely grounded.

"I've been lucky to be surrounded by great talent. Without my teammates, I couldn't have accomplished or even been close to all the things I've done," said Gaynor, who went 11-1 and posted a 1.25 ERA this season. "It's been an amazing ride, but all I have done just comes along with the territory."

Gaynor's Little League resume — the team that won the World Series title in 1998 before leading the team to the US Championship game the following year in Williamsport, Pa. — never jeopardized his psyche at the high school level.

All the clippings and being on TV were great," Gaynor said of his national television exposure as a Little Leaguer. "But when I got to East, none of that mattered. The other teams didn't care what I did in Little League. If anything, they wanted to beat us more."

5-6 as a freshman.

The following year in 2004, Gaynor stepped to the forefront in his biggest game as a sophomore — one that accumulated his career — the night responded with a five-hit, nine-strikeout gem when Toms River East, then No. 2 in the Star Ledger Top 20, knocked off top-ranked Toms River North, 5-0, before 2,000 fans along the way at South Raritan.

"The bigger the game, the bigger he performs," said Frank. "It showed up every time he took the ball in his game."

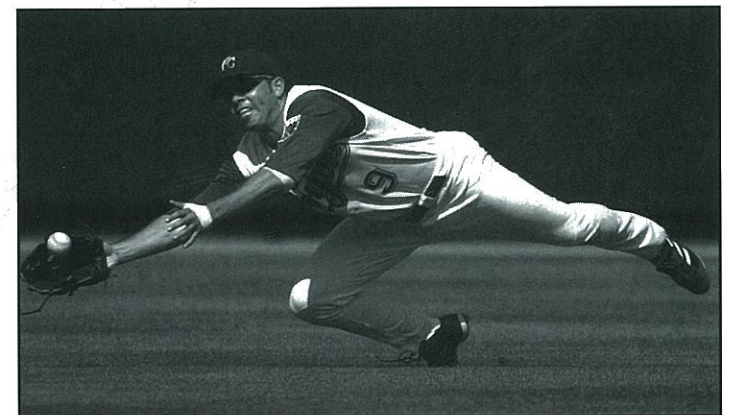

Gaynor went 5-2 as a sophomore. He bettered that mark last year (9-1) when he twice beat each major school and headed to East in Toms River South and Toms River North.

He earned Second Team All-State honors both seasons.

This year, Gaynor came in with a 22-3 career mark and knew full well that the Shore Conference record of 31 victories that was established in 1970 by Monmouth's Chip Hirt was obtainable.

"I knew a lot of things had to go my way," said Gaynor, who struck out 115 in 144 innings this season. "But I didn't care about the record. I just wanted to win."

Win is what East did and Gaynor, as he likes to put it, was the beneficiary.

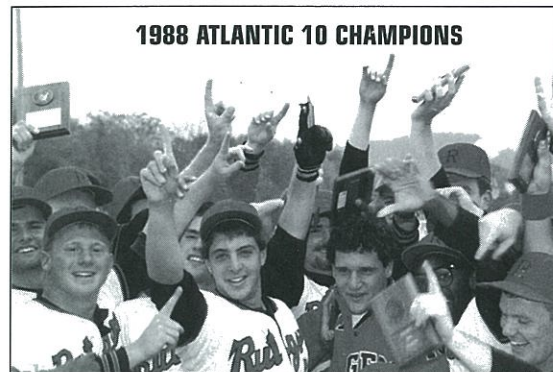

Manalapan, NJ-native Dave DeJesus has been a mainstay in the outfield for the Kansas City Royals for four seasons and signed a multi-year extension prior to the 2006 season.

RUTGERS BASEBALL

A LEGACY OF SUCCESS

1988 ATLANTIC 10 CHAMPIONS

• When Fred Hill took over the Rutgers baseball program in 1984, the Scarlet Knights were coming off a 13-22 record in 1983 and had not advanced to the postseason since the 1970 season.

• Just two years later, Hill led Rutgers to the 1986 Atlantic 10 Championships and a spot in the NCAA Tournament. Rutgers would win the next eight regular season titles and, starting in 1986, four of the next six tournament championships.

• In 1987, Rutgers posted its first-ever 30-win season, capturing 36 victories while in 1988, the team eclipsed that mark with 38 wins, including its first NCAA Tournament victory (6-1 vs. Clemson) under Hill.

• In 1990, Rutgers posted a 37-19 mark, won the first of back-to-back A-10 Tournament titles, and came within one win of the College World Series by advancing to the final of the 1990 Northeast Regional in Waterbury, Conn. After losing the opening game, 3-2, to North Carolina, the Scarlet Knights rattled off three-consecutive wins to advance to the finals vs. undefeated Georgia. Needing two wins to knock off the Bulldogs, Rutgers won the first, 4-3, before falling in the final, 20-9. Georgia would not lose another game on its way to the 1990 National Title.

• Despite leaving the Atlantic 10 following the 1995 season, Rutgers still owns the conference record for tournament wins (2) and regular-season titles (10) and tournament titles (6).

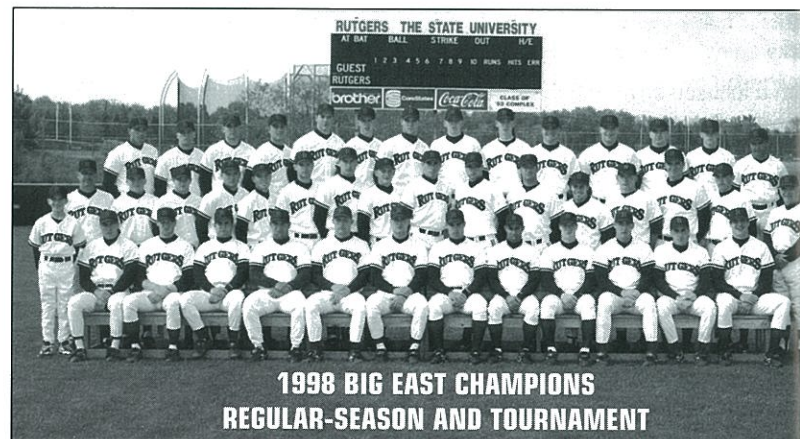

• In 1996, Rutgers moved to the BIG EAST Conference and, just two years later, captured both the regular season (17-3) and tournament title. Rutgers repeated the feat in 2000, winning the regular season (18-5) and tournament crown. RU is one of only two teams along with Notre Dame to win both the outright regular season and league tournament in the same season.

• From 1996 to 2001, Rutgers finished either first or second in the BIG EAST regular season standings and finished no lower than fourth in each of its first six seasons. In 2002, RU finished fourth in the regular season, but advanced to the BIG EAST Championship game for the third time in seven seasons.

• Following its fourth-place finish in 2002, Rutgers captured the 2003 BIG EAST Regular Season Championship (its third since 1998), despite having 16 newcomers and just one senior pitcher on its roster.

• Rutgers has appeared in five of the last nine NCAA Tournaments, serving as the No. 1 seed and host for the 2000 Regional at Upper Montclair and the No. 2 seed at the 2001 Regional in Lincoln, Nebraska, hosted by the University of Nebraska. In 2001, Rutgers advanced to the regional final, before the CWS-bound Cornhuskers rallied for a 14-1 victory in the last inning. In 2003, RU traveled to Tallahassee, Fla. and went 1-2 in the NCAA tournament, beating Jacksonville State, 5, in the second round before losing to top-ranked Florida State, 17-7.

• In 23 seasons under Hill, Rutgers has enjoyed 21 winning campaigns and 16 seasons of 30 or more wins - including eight of the last nine years dating back to the 1998 BIG EAST Championship season. In 2000 and 2001, the Scarlet Knights eclipsed the 40-win mark, including a program-best 42-17 record in 2001.

1998 BIG EAST CHAMPIONS
REGULAR-SEASON AND TOURNAMENT

A LEGACY OF SUCCESS

Rutgers has been ranked nationally at some point during seven of the last nine seasons, including a high point of 14th (Baseball America) in 2000. Rutgers was ranked as high as 25th nationally in 2003 and 23rd in 2002. It was ranked 29th by Collegiate Baseball in 2004.

Rutgers has had at least one All-American in nine of the last 11 seasons, including two in 1999 and 2000. In 2000, shortstop Ben Fenster was the first Scarlet Knight to be named First Team All-American since Jeff Torborg in 1963, and was one of 10 finalists for the Dick Howser Award, given annually to college baseball's top player. In 2002, Rutgers' Bobby Brownlie was named one of 10 finalists for the Golden Spikes award, given each year to the top amateur baseball player in the nation. In 2004, OF Jeff Frazier won several All-America awards and was a finalist for the Dick Howser Award as well. Frazier's younger brother, Todd, was named Freshman All-American in 2005. Todd enters 2007 on the preseason watchlist for the Brooks Wallace College Player of the Year.

Bobby Brownlie represented the Scarlet Knights on Team USA in the summer of 2001 and established himself as the team's top pitcher. He posted a 7-0 mark, including a 0.84 ERA, and allowed just 32 hits (30 singles) in 53.2 innings. He was also named the Louisville Slugger Preseason National Player of the Year in 2001. Todd Frazier represented Rutgers on the 2006 USA Baseball squad, guiding the team to the International University Sports Federation (FISU) World Championship Gold Medal in Havana, Cuba in August. Frazier, who started 28 games of the National Team's 28 games, played primarily right field, finishing with a .241 batting average (19-for-79), 11 RBI and 17 runs scored, including a double, triple and four home runs.

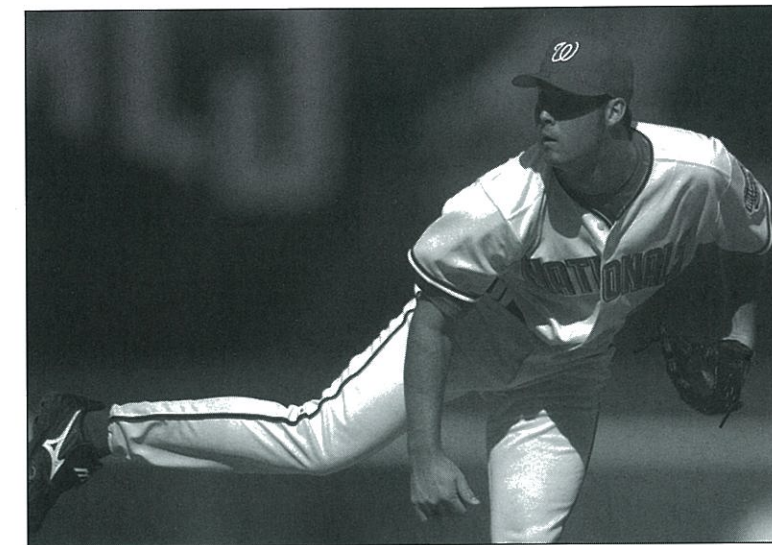

Rutgers' success is well-chronicled in the summer months as well. RU has sent at least one player to the Cape Cod League in each of the last eight seasons, including Cape All-Stars David DeJesus (Chatham, 1999), Bobby Brownlie (Falmouth, 2000), Val Majewski (Falmouth, 2001) and Jeff Frazier (Chatham, 2003). In 2004, Johnny Defendis and Jeff Grose played with Chatham and sophomore Matt Frazier was named one of the Top 20 prospects on the Cape in 2005, playing for the A's. The Scarlet Knight tradition with the Cape Cod league continued last summer when sophomore Matt Innini and senior Dave Williams each played with the A's.

Rutgers has seen 54 players move onto the professional ranks during Hill's tenure. In the last seven years, more than 30 players have left Rutgers to play professionally. In 1998, five players were drafted or signed, while in 2000, five more earned professional status, including fourth-round draft pick David DeJesus. In 2001, Billy McCarthy was a sixth-round selection, while in 2002, Bobby Brownlie (first round, 21st overall) and Val Majewski (third round, 78th overall) were among the first 100 players selected.

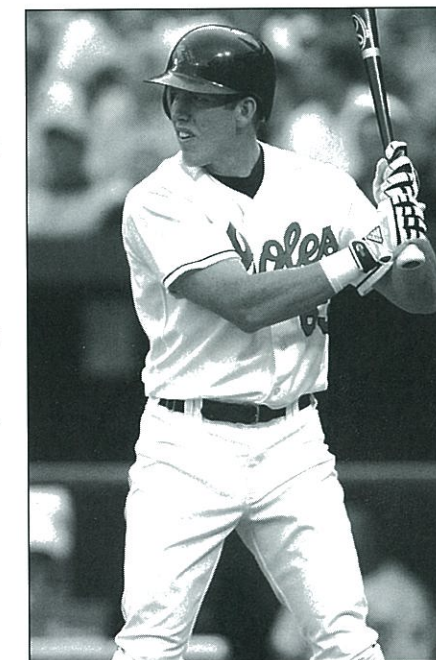

There are currently four former Scarlet Knights in the major leagues. In all, eight players have reached "The Show" after playing for Hill, including Darrin Winston (Philadelphia Phillies), Bob McDonald (Ankees, Mets, Blue Jays, Tigers) and Angel Echevarria (Rockies, Brewers, Cubs.)

Eric Young, who also played football at Rutgers, broke into the majors in 1992 and was a starting second baseman for 11-straight seasons. He earned a spot on the 1995 NL All-Star team and has hit over .300 twice in his career. He stole 30 or more bases in nine straight seasons and has a .286 career batting average. Echevarria made his MLB debut in 1996 and spent the 2002 season with the Chicago Cubs, where he hit .306 in 98 at bats. His best season was 1999, when he played in 102 games and hit .288 with 11 home runs for the Colorado Rockies.

In 2004, DeDe DeJesus emerged as the Kansas City Royals' starting centerfielder. Last season, DeJesus was third on the team with a .295 batting average, while scoring 83 runs in 119 games. His 300 teammate, Jason Bergmann, made his major league debut during the 2005 pennant race with the Washington Nationals and appeared in 29 games with the club last season.

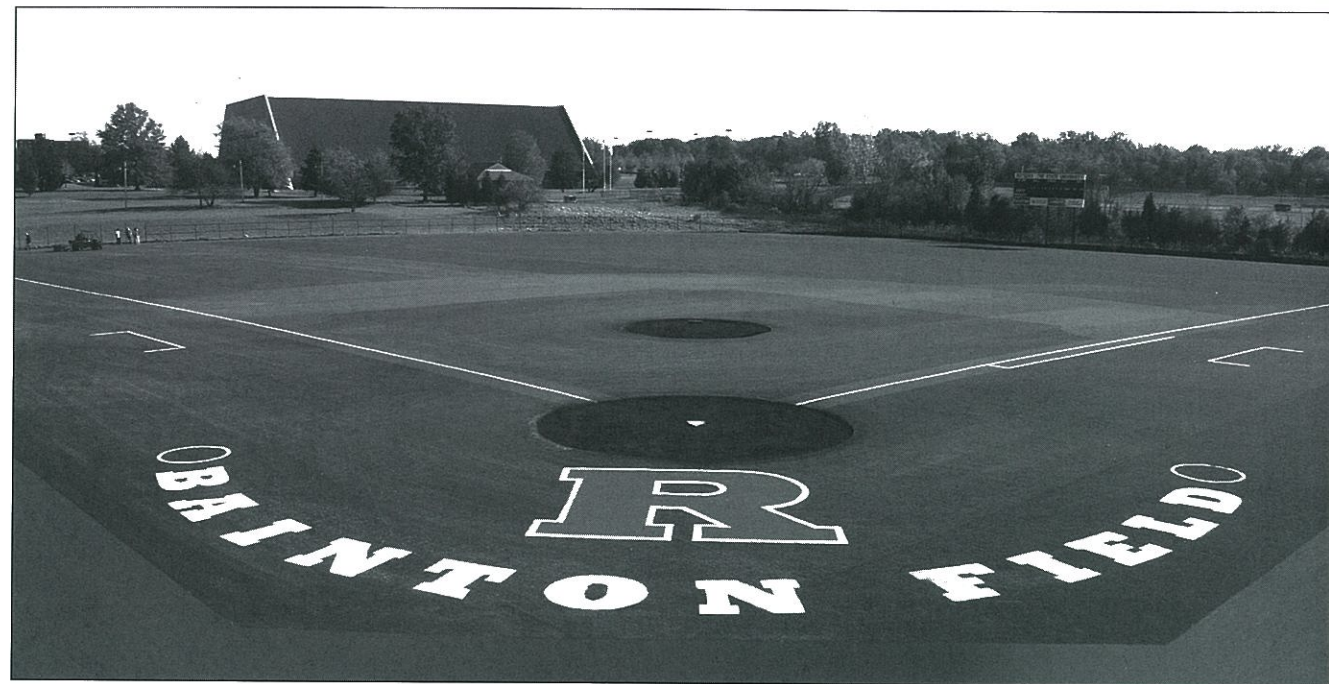

Jason Bergmann made his Major League debut in 2005 with the Washington Nationals and appeared in 29 games last season.

Val Majewski, a third-round pick in 2002, broke into the big leagues in August of 2004.

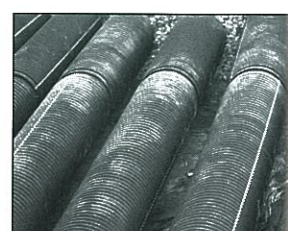

THE FACILITIES

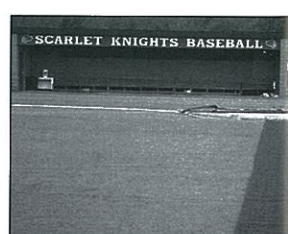

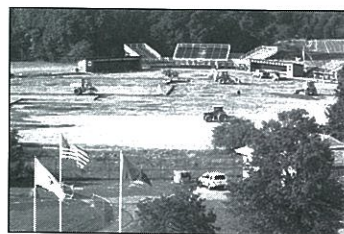

BAINTON FIELD

AT THE FREDERICK E. GRUNINGER/CLASS OF '53 BASEBALL COMPLEX

The Rutgers baseball program will debut a new field in 2007. Thanks to the $1.25 million donation - the single largest one-time cash gift by living donor to Rutgers Athletics - Ron and Pat Bainton gave to the program to use on a brand new state-of-the-art FieldTurf playing surface. FieldTurf, a synthetic surface used in professional and collegiate baseball and football stadiums across the country, will allow the Scarlet Knights to practice on the field year-round without the worries of a frozen surface during the winter months. The generous donation also provides for continued enhancements to the complex in the future.

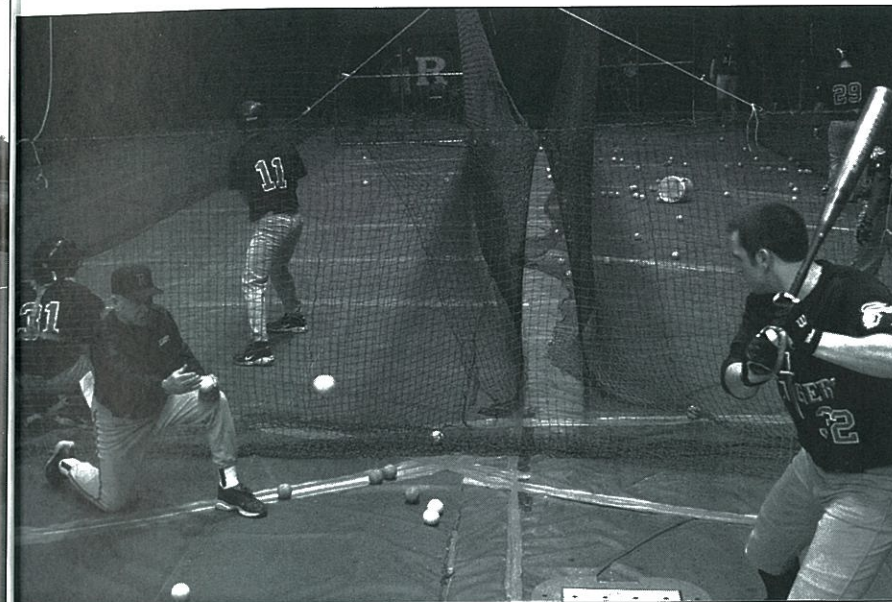

The Scarlet Knights' home is in Piscataway, New Jersey directly behind the Louis Brown Athletic Center. The on-field facilities include a practice diamond and three full length batting cages as well as five practice pitching mounds. Newly-installed dugouts and seating for 1,500 accentuate the field.

RUTGERS BASEBALL

THE FACILITIES

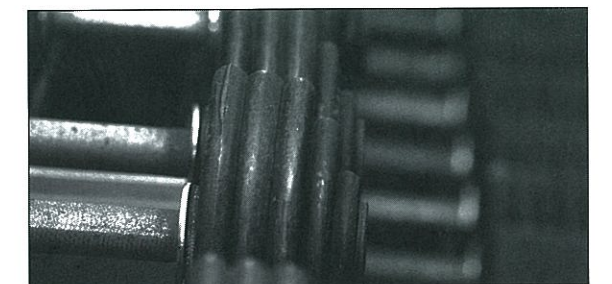

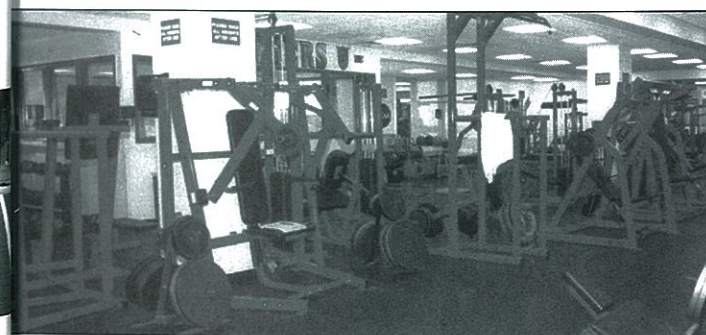

RU baseball also features indoor practice facilities that include three 70-foot batting cages and pitching mounds. The Louis Brown Athletic Center, aka the RAC, is also home to a 3,500 square foot weight room in which the Rutgers baseball trains with strength and conditioning coach Mike Johansen. This facility features state-of-the-art equipment that includes free weights, cardiovascular and rehabilitation machines.

In addition, the RAC is home to the clubhouse of the baseball team where the club can prepare mentally and physically for each day. The clubhouse features couches, televisions and an entertainment center as well as a full-time equipment staff that maintains the players' uniforms and equipment to help keep the team properly outfitted. The team locker room was recently renovated with a new carpet, furniture and oak lockers for each player.

The baseball team also utilizes a 120-yard indoor astroturf facility known as "The Bubble". "The Bubble" includes a full-length football field with 100-foot high ceilings that allow for game-like simulation. The bubble is a vital component of the preseason practice schedule when weather prohibits outdoor activity.

RUTGERS BASEBALL

SCHEDULE

• Rutgers boasts one of the most challenging schedules on the East Coast if not the country. RU's first 17 games are against top teams such as William & Mary, Old Dominion, Georgia Tech, Miami, Florida International, Florida Atlantic and Central Florida. This schedule gives the players on the team not only the opportunity to play against some of the best players in the country but also the chance to be seen by professional scouts.

• Rutgers' first 17 games will be on the road. In all, Rutgers will visit six states, including 11 games in the state of Florida.

• Rutgers' home schedule features key BIG EAST series with Georgetown (March 23-25), Connecticut (April 5-7), Seton Hall (April 13-15), Notre Dame (April 28-29) and Cincinnati (April 5-6).

• The 2007 BIG EAST Conference Baseball Championship will be held at KeySpan Park in Brooklyn, N.Y. from Tuesday through Saturday, May 22-26. KeySpan Park is home to the Brooklyn Cyclones - the Short-Season Class A affiliate of the New York Mets.

KEYSPAN PARK • HOME OF THE BIG EAST CHAMPIONSHIP
BROOKLYN, N.Y.

THE BIG EAST CONFERENCE

- The BIG EAST conference is one of the most respected conferences in the country and its baseball teams are no different.
- Last season, the conference welcomed three more baseball-playing institutions in South Florida, Louisville and Cincinnati. All three schools reached the BIG EAST Tournament in their inaugural season in the league.
- Since 1996, the year that Rutgers joined the league, there have been 21 BIG EAST teams go on to play in the NCAA Tournament including five appearances by Rutgers (five in the last nine seasons).
- Since 1998 the BIG EAST has claimed 36 All-Americans - seven of which played for Rutgers: Bobby Brownlie, Darren Fenster, Jake Daube, Pete Zoccolillo, Billy McCarthy, Jeff Frazier and Todd Frazier.
- The BIG EAST Conference also sends many of its baseball players to the pros; in 2002 alone, 23 BIG EAST players were selected in the Amateur Draft. Highlighting the 2002 class were Joe Saunders from Virginia Tech and Bobby Brownlie from Rutgers, who both went in the first round. Rutgers sent four players on the first day of the draft in 2002 and two players (Brownlie, Val Majewski) were among the first 10 players selected. The BIG EAST had 20 players selected in both the 2005 and 2006 draft, including three total from Rutgers the past two seasons.
- As a team, Rutgers has excelled in the conference since becoming a member in 1996 by winning three BIG EAST regular season titles, two tournament titles and going to the NCAA tournament five of the last nine years. Rutgers players have also been standouts in the BIG EAST. RU has been home to 22 league leaders in various statistical categories.
- In 2002, for the first time since the formation of the BIG EAST baseball conference, a team advanced to the NCAA College World Series. Notre Dame, which captured the BIG EAST Championship with a 3-2, 10-inning victory over Rutgers, upset top-ranked Florida State in the Super Regionals to earn the bid.

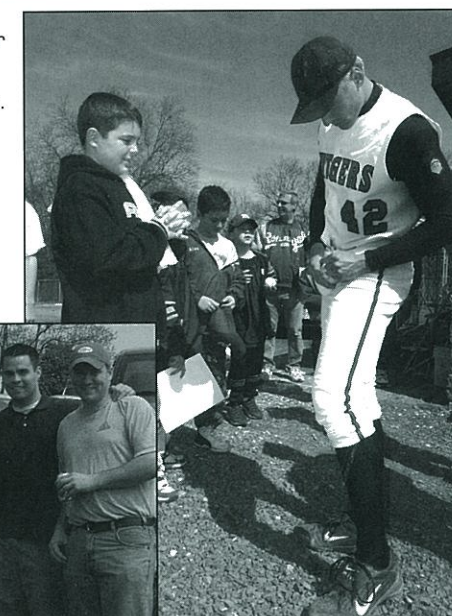

FAN SUPPORT

No matter where the Scarlet Knights go who they play, a strong support group is always to follow. Rutgers benefits from excellent fan support - at home and on the road - which takes the home field advantage away outside New Jersey and reinforces it at Bainton Field.

The family and friends of Rutgers players travel in packs to support the Scarlet Knights on their trips to Virginia, Atlanta and Florida. The Spring Break trip provides great competition for the Scarlet Knights and a nice vacation for family and friends.

The berm beyond the left field fence has become a haven for fans, who gather to cheer for the Scarlet Knights and have a bit of fun with the opposing outfielders as well. The stands behind home plate are overflowing on warm, spring days when Rutgers is in town. Former players - young and old - return to Bainton Field to support the current players.

Both teams and leagues are also a constant presence at home games. The players always make time to talk with younger players and encourage them to become Scarlet Knights while signing autographs.

The Scarlet Knight baseball team receives some of the top media coverage in the Northeast. They are consistently featured in many of the state's news papers. In addition, WRSU, Rutgers' student radio station, broadcasts numerous regular-season games and covers all of the Scarlet Knights' postseason contests. Fans can also tune into WRSU games through the Rutgers Official Athletic website on a game-by-game basis at: www.scarletknights.com

The 2007 Rutgers Baseball Media Guide is published by the Rutgers Division of Intercollegiate Athletics, Robert E. Mulcahy, III, Director; John Wooding, Senior Associate Director of Athletics/Communications. Writing, layout, and design by the Office of Athletic Communications.

FRED HILL

HEAD COACH
24TH SEASON

Now entering his 24th season at Rutgers and 31st as a collegiate head coach, Fred Hill remains as focused, committed and enthusiastic as he was back in 1984, when he accepted the challenge of coaching a team that was coming off a 13-22 record in 1983 and had not appeared in an NCAA Tournament in 14 years and proceeded to build Rutgers baseball into what it is today - a program that is among the best in the country, is consistently ranked in the top 25 nationally and is always in the hunt for an NCAA Tournament berth.

He enters 2007 as the 16th winningest active coach in the nation and sits just seven wins shy of the prestigious 900-win mark. He led the Scarlet Knights back to the postseason in 2006, guiding the club all the way to the semifinals of the BIG EAST Championship.

After enduring his lone losing season as the first-year coach in 1984 (13-21), Hill began to re-establish the Scarlet Knights as a northeast baseball power with a 25-15 mark in 1985, which preceded a 28-18 mark in 1986 and the first of eight-straight Atlantic 10 regular season championships. That season, Rutgers also captured its first Atlantic 10 tournament title and returned to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1970, one of 10 appearances under Hill. A 36-14-1 record in 1987, which set a school record for wins and winning percentage (.716) was the first of seven-straight 30-win seasons for the Scarlet Knights - a stretch that lasted until 1993 and completed the run of eight-straight league titles. In 1990, when RU posted a 37-19 mark and won the fourth of its seven-straight league titles, the team came within one win of advancing to the College World Series, falling to eventual National Champion Georgia in the tournament final in Waterbury, Conn.

A move to the BIG EAST Conference in 1996 had little impact on the Scarlet Knights, as the winning continued. Following back-to-back tournament appearances in 1996 and 1997, Rutgers captured both the regular season and tournament championship in 1998, posting a 33-16 mark along the way and advancing to the NCAA Regional at Tallahassee, Fla. The Scarlet Knights scrapped their way out of the losers' bracket during the conference tournament and beat Notre Dame twice in as many days, including a 12-0 championship game win, to clinch the title.

The following season, Rutgers finished at 37-21, placing second in the BIG EAST, and took another step in the national picture, earning the program's first-ever at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament (the six previous trips came from an automatic berth associated with winning the league championship). RU was sent to Lubbock, Tex. to compete in the NCAA Regional with Texas Tech, Wisconsin-Milwaukee and #1 Rice University.

The 2000 season featured another step in the building of the program, as RU once again captured the BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament championships, posting its first 40-win season (40-18) along the way. In the BIG EAST Championship title game, then-freshman Bobby Brownlie, working on three days rest, led RU to a 1-0 win with a complete-

HILL HIGHLIGHTS

- Hill is entering his 31st year as a collegiate head coach and his 24th season with the Scarlet Knights as the 16th winningest active head coach in the nation and the most wins of any current BIG EAST coach.
- He owns a 745-451-6 record at Rutgers and an 893-5557-8 record as a collegiate head coach.
- He has averaged 32.3 wins per season at Rutgers. He is the first in BIG EAST history to win both the regular season and tournament championship in the same season (1998, 2000), despite only joining conference in 1996.
- Rutgers has been ranked nationally for at least one week in seven of the last nine seasons, including a high mark of 14th during the 2000 season.
- As a member of the Atlantic 10 from 1984 through 1996, he guided his team to seven-straight A-10 regular season championships and tournament championships.
- Not only do Coach Hill's teams win championships, they also win in regular season play; he has just one losing season (his first at Rutgers) in 14 years of collegiate coaching.
- Hill's teams have advanced to the NCAA Tournament in five of the last nine years, winning the BIG EAST Regular Season and Conference Championships in 1998 and 2002 as well as the Regular Season Championship in 2003.
- In addition to putting winning teams on the field, Coach Hill has developed some of the top players in the country, sending 15 players onto the professional baseball in the last five years and 29 in the last nine seasons. Two of his players, Bobby Brownlie and Val Majewski - were among the top 100 players selected. In 2004, Rutgers had five more players sign professional contracts, including third-round draft pick Eric Frazier (Detroit Tigers). Three former players under Hill - Eric Young (San Diego Padres, Texas Rangers), David DeJesus (Kansas City Royals) and Jason Bergmann (Washington Nationals) - saw significant action at the Major League level last season.
- From his 2000 squad, which won the BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament Championship and served as the host of the NCAA Regional at Upper Montclair, 18 players went on to play professionally, including three Major Leaguers and a first-round draft choice.
- Hill began his collegiate career at Montclair State University where, in 1977, he was named head baseball and football coach. In his career at Montclair State, he developed the baseball team into a Division III national power, winning 62 percent of his games and earning a trip to the Division III World Series (Hill was named Division III National Coach of the Year in 1983).

game shutout of in-state rival Seton Hall. Ranked as high as #14 nationally during the course of the season, Rutgers was selected to host an NCAA Regional at Yogi Berra Stadium in Upper Montclair, N.J., joined by UConn, Penn State and Army.

The 2001 team set the school win mark once again, finishing the year 42-17, with a second-place finish in the BIG EAST. Another at-large NCAA Tournament berth, the program's fourth-straight trip, sent the team to Lincoln, Neb., where RU came within one win of moving onto the Super Regional round.

A 35-22 mark and a trip to the BIG EAST Tournament finals was good enough in 2002, but RU returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2003 after winning the BIG EAST Regular Season Championship and advancing to the BIG EAST Championship game for the second-straight season.

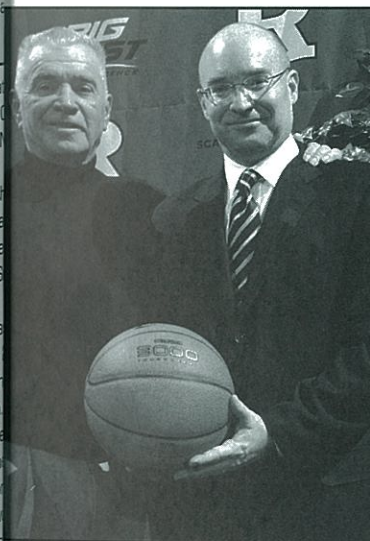

A long-time high school coach in New Jersey, Hill began his collegiate coaching career in 1977 at Montclair State University, serving as the head baseball and football coach for the Red Hawks. In seven seasons at Montclair State, Hill posted a 148-91-2 mark, leading his team to two NJAC Championships and three NCAA tournament appearances, including the Division III World Series in 1983. (The following season, Hill's first at Rutgers, Montclair State won the national championship with many of is still in the program.) Just as successful on the gridiron, Hill led the football program to a 55-13-4 record in seven seasons, including five titles. His team lost just one league contest in a five-year span from 1982 through 1987.

As a collegiate star at Upsala, Hill earned 11 varsity letters. Four letters came in baseball, where he led the team in batting twice. Four more came in football, where he led the team in rushing four times and was the football team's Most Valuable Back three times. Three more came in basketball, where he was voted Most Improved Player his senior year. Chosen as a Small College All-American following his final football season, Hill was honored by his alma mater in 1992 as a distinguished graduate. Following his outstanding collegiate career, Hill moved onto a professional career in the Washington Senators organization before beginning his storied coaching career.

He began his coaching career as freshman baseball coach at Upsala and also playing semi-pro baseball for the East Orange Soverals. His next stop was Clifford Scott High School, where he was an assistant baseball coach for five years and head coach for another six. During those six years, Hill led the Scotties to a 94-58 record, two state sectional championships and also served time as an assistant football coach. He moved on to the Pequannock High School football team for four years and returned to Upsala as an assistant baseball coach for three more years.

Hill with his son, Rutgers head men's basketball coach Fred Hill. The younger Hill was named head coach on March 27, 2006.

Hill lives in Verona, N.J. with his wife Evelyn. They couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in January. They are the proud parents of six children: Nancy, Fred, Linda, Jim, Tracey, and Karen. They also have eight grandchildren: Jessica, Danielle, Brian, James, Natalie, Nicholas, Alexandra and Giselle. A coaching-rich family, Fred's brother Brian is currently the head coach of the NBA's Orlando Magic and his son, Fred, is the head coach of the Rutgers men's basketball team.

GLEN GARDNER

ASSISTANT COACH
17TH SEASON

Glen Gardner, one of the finest student-athletes in Rutgers' sports history, is now in his 17th season as an assistant coach with the Scarlet Knights. Nationally-renowned for his hitting instruction and his results at Rutgers, Gardner is the hitting and outfield coach and also assists Coach Hill in the day-to-day responsibilities of the program. Gardner has also become an outstanding recruiter, and Rutgers has brought in some of the finest recruiting classes in the BIG EAST over the past few seasons, helping to elevate Rutgers to national prominence.

Gardner's success as a coach is best exhibited by the success of his players. From 1998-2002, Rutgers posted a team batting average over .310 and several of its players ranked among the nation's best. Darren Fenster (.433) and Joe B. Cirone (.405) finished in the top 40 nationally in 2000, while Billy McCarthy (.423) accomplished the feat in 2001. In 2003, RU posted a team average of .307, with a school-record 319 walks and .409 on-base percentage and in 2004, Jeff Frazier set the career home run record at RU (34) in just three seasons before being drafted in the third round by the Detroit Tigers. Last season, the Scarlet Knights belted 52 home runs, highlighted by Frank Meade's single-season record-breaking 14 - a testament to the Gardner's results of the continued development of the players. His work with First Team All-BIG EAST performer Todd Frazier transformed the now-junior into one of the BIG EAST's best hitters, as well as one of America's top pro prospects.

His strengths are his easy going nature and his ability to communicate with the players. His infectious, unyielding work ethic sets a standard for everyone in the program, and his rewards come when his pupils match and eclipse his numerous Scarlet Knight hitting records.

One of the most prolific hitters in Rutgers' history, Gardner was a two-time All-American selection and, in 1997, he was elected to the Rutgers Olympic Sports Hall of Fame - one of nine former baseball players who have earned the distinction.

In his three seasons as an outfielder, he compiled a career .356 batting average with 23 home runs and 141 RBI. All three numbers rank among the Rutgers all-time top 10. After his junior year in 1987, the San Diego Padres drafted him in the 13th round, but he opted to stay at RU and was selected by Atlanta the following year.

Gardner advanced to Burlington, Iowa (Class A) in the Atlanta Braves organization before being struck in the eye by a batted ball, which ended a promising professional career.

Under Gardner's tutelage, several Scarlet Knights have had outstanding seasons. Gardner has worked diligently to develop the Scarlet Knight offense and he has seen several of his pupils continue on to the professional level. In the past nine years, Rutgers has sent 18 hitters onto the professional ranks, including sixth-round pick Billy McCarthy (Braves) in 2001, fourth-round pick David DeJesus (Royals) the season before and Midwest League All-Star Pete Zoccolillo (Brewers) in 1999.

Gardner is single and resides in Pt. Pleasant, N.J. He played sports tically at Immaculata High School in Somerville and was named one of the top New Jersey players of the 1980's by the Star Ledger sports staff.

THEN...

Glen Gardner was one of the best collegiate hitters during his career with the Scarlet Knights. He ended his career at RU as the career leader in hits (201), doubles (44) and total bases (336).

Gardner once collected 15-straight hits as a senior at Immaculata High School in 1985, as part of a 73-hit effort during that season. He also played alongside current Houston Astros first baseman Jeff Bagwell on the Chatham A's in the Cape Cod League, where Gardner was among the top ten in the league in hitting, home runs, and RBI in 1987.

"'Beef' works tirelessly with us to help make us better hitters. He comes up with great drills and ways to keep us focused on getting better. Everyone has a different approach to hitting and what makes him such a great coach is his ability to adjust to our style instead of trying to make everyone hit the same way."

RICK FREEMAN

ASSISTANT COACH
FOURTH SEASON

Freeman returned to Rutgers for his second stint with the Scarlet Knights in 2005, returning to head coach Fred Hill's staff for the first time since 1988. Freeman, who works with the RU pitching staff, brings a broad range of experience to the position as a collegiate assistant and head coach at the NCAA level and as a head coach of one of New Jersey's most successful American Legion teams.

Back in 1988, Freeman served as an assistant under Hill, working with the outfielders, hitters and pitchers, while also coaching third base. He then moved onto an assistant position at Mercer County College in Trenton. At Mercer, Freeman posted a 155-102 (.603) record and appeared in six NJCAA World Series in 1996.

In 1999, he returned to Rider University as the team's assistant coach and recruiting coordinator, a post he held through the 2004 season. He worked with several outstanding pitchers while at Rider, including Kevin Barry and Jim Hoey, both made their Major League debuts last season, with the Atlanta Braves and Baltimore Orioles, respectively.

Since 1976, Freeman has also coached the Hamilton Post American Legion team. As the head coach since 1985, Freeman has posted a 570-158 mark (.783), winning a record 14 league titles, including 11 straight through 2006. The team captured the New Jersey State Championship in 1977, 1993 and 2006 and finished fifth in the country at the 10 American Legion World Series.

A 1981 graduate of Marquette University, Freeman got started as the head coach of the Marquette club baseball team in 1978, revitalizing a program that had been dormant for over 50 years. He returned to New Jersey in 1982 as an assistant at Rider for one year, the first of three stints with the Scarlet Knights.

Freeman is also a columnist and sports copy editor for the Trenton Times, and is heavily involved in Mercer County civic affairs.

JAY BLACKWELL

ASSISTANT COACH
SEVENTH SEASON

Jay Blackwell returned to Rutgers in 2006 for his third stint on the Scarlet Knights' staff. He also served as an assistant coach during the 1998 season and from 2001-2004. Blackwell is in his seventh season on the RU bench. The Scarlet Knights have advanced to the NCAA Tournament in three of his previous six seasons, something he hopes to help RU return to in 2007. A key member of the 1998 coaching staff that guided Rutgers to its first-ever BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament titles, Blackwell works with the hitters and catchers while also coaching first base for the Scarlet Knights. He is a well-known baseball personality in New Jersey whose 11 years of collegiate coaching experience and expertise help on the field.

In 2001, Coach Blackwell returned to Rutgers following a two-year stint as head coach at Division II Bloomfield College, where he guided his team to the postseason in both years. Prior to the 1998 season at Rutgers, Blackwell served as an assistant at Bloomfield under then head coach John Johnson. While at Bloomfield, Blackwell worked with several areas of the program, including the outfielders, while also serving as the team's bench coach and strength and conditioning coordinator.

DIRECTOR OF BASEBALL
SECOND SEASON

An All-American shortstop at Rutgers who played six years professionally in the Kansas City Royals' organization, Darren Fenster enters his second year as the Director of Baseball Operations for the Scarlet Knights. In his role, Fenster coordinates the Scarlet Knights' on-campus recruiting efforts, handles team travel, assists players in securing spots in NCAA-sanctioned summer leagues, offers Coach Hill an experienced resource to help evaluate and teach current players all aspects of the game, provides Coach Freeman with scouting reports of the opposing teams, and administers the Knights Baseball Camps in both the summer and winter. He joined the program in April of 2006.

The program leader in several offensive categories including career hits (315), single-season hits (101) and career doubles (65), Fenster was a four-year starter at shortstop for Rutgers (1997-2000) and led his team to a pair

Jay Blackwell also serves as the president of the New Jersey Collegiate Baseball Association. He has held the post since 2002.

"Coach Blackwell relates really well to the players. He makes practice fun, even though he demands that we work hard on improving ourselves. He really cares about us, on and off the field."

- Former RU catcher Alberto Vazquez

A successful head coach with the Jersey Pilots of the ACBL, 1996, 1997 and 1998, Blackwell guided the team to the 1999 league championship and coached former Rutgers players such as Darren Fenster, Jeff Marciniak, Joe B. Cirone, Lance Horta, Mike O'Brien, Ryan Molchan and David Santiago. In his 11th season of collegiate coaching, Blackwell has worked with over 30 players who have gone onto the professional ranks.

He has devoted his time to the game he loves in many other ways, serving as president of the New Jersey Collegiate Baseball Association since 2002. Since 1993, Blackwell has conducted indoor and outdoor clinics throughout Monmouth County through the Blackwell Baseball School.

of BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament championships (1998, 2000) and three appearances in the NCAA Tournament. As a senior in 2000, Fenster was a consensus First-Team All-American, hitting .433 while posting a near-flawless defense. That season, Rutgers posted its first-ever 40-win season, was ranked as high as No. 12 nationally and served as the top seed in the NCAA Regional at Upper Montclair, N.J. The 2000 BIG EAST Player of the Year, NCBWA District II Player of the Year, and captain of a team that would feature three future Major Leaguers (David DeJesus, Jason Bergmann, Val Majewski) and a first round draft choice (Bobby Brown), Fenster was also one of 10 finalists for the prestigious Dick Howser Award, presented annually to the nation's top collegiate player. He was also a three-time BIG EAST selection.

Drafted in the 12th round by the Kansas City Royals following his All-American season in 2000, Fenster advanced to the AA level in the Royals organization and was a Carolina League All-Star in both 2002 and 2004, as a member of the Wilmington Blue Rocks. Following a breakout season in 2004, Fenster hit a career-best .302 between A-Wilmington and AA-Wichita, Fenster was a non-roster invitee to the Royals spring training camp in 2005, where he suffered a career-ending ACL injury while playing third base in a spring training game while with the Major League Club.

Fenster will spend the upcoming summer as the infield coach for the St. Cloud River Bats of the Northwoods League in St. Cloud, Minnesota.

A 2000 graduate of Rutgers with a degree in communication, Fenster was a four-time BIG EAST academic honoree. He is single and currently resides in Manalapan, N.J.

MIKE JOHANSEN STRENGTH COACH

Mike Johansen is in his 14th season at Rutgers, and his second coordinating the strength and conditioning program at the Louis Brown Athletic Center. His primary responsibilities are with the men's and women's basketball teams and the baseball program, while also overseeing all other Olympic Sports at the Louis Brown Athletic Center.

The 39-year old Johansen (born February 9, 1968) has been a member of the Scarlet Knight strength and conditioning staff since 1992. A 1992 graduate of Montclair State University, Johansen earned a degree in physical education, with an emphasis on adult fitness. He was certified as a strength and conditioning coach through the National Strength and Conditioning Association in August, 1998. He is also a certified Club Coach by USA Weightlifting.

Johansen, who played high school baseball at Queen of Peace in North Plainfield, grew up in Lyndhurst, N.J. He currently resides in Freehold Township, N.J., with his wife Susan.

JOHN TERNYLA SENIOR ASSOCIATE ATHLETIC DIRECTOR/FINANCE SPORT ADMINISTRATOR

John Ternyla has been with the Division of Intercollegiate Athletics for 21 years. He is in his second year as the Senior Associate Athletic Director for Finance. His responsibilities include overseeing the day-to-day financial aspects of the majority of the 30 sports within the Division. Ternyla oversees a six-person staff which coordinates budgets, travel and purchasing aspects for most teams and the support services within the Division. He also coordinates all travel and related services for the Scarlet Knight football team. Additionally, he has served on the University Title IX sub-committee, the Athletic Certification sub-committee and the University Travel Review Committee. Ternyla currently serves as the sport administrator for the baseball and women's basketball programs.

Before coming to Rutgers in 1986, Ternyla was an Assistant Accounting Manager for both the Electronic and Video Components Division of Panasonic, working in Secaucus, N.J.

A 1975 Trenton State College (now The College of New Jersey) graduate with a BS in Public Administration, Ternyla served as the Director of Recreation in the Township of Milltown, N.J. for seven years, 1988-95, increasing the participation of youth and adult activities significantly.

Ternyla lives in Milltown with his wife, Karol, and their children Brian (26) and Jeff (24) who both attended Rutgers. Jeff was a member of the Rutgers basketball program.

GLORIA BUTTIGLIERI ADMIN. ASSISTANT

Gloria Buttiglieri is in her fifth season as a member of the baseball staff. A veteran of the department since 1993 when she became the secretary for gymnastics and women's volleyball, she continued in the same capacity with academic support, wrestling and fencing beginning in the spring of 1998.

In addition to her duties with baseball, she also works with the men's and women's tennis programs. Her responsibilities include the day-to-day management of the office, team travel, budget oversight, record keeping and camp duties.

Gloria and her husband have four children and reside in Edison, N.J. Her oldest daughter, Alyssa, is a 2003 graduate of Rutgers and a former member of the dance team. She will be getting married in July. Her son, Robert, is a senior at Rutgers. Daughters Dana and Aleina both attend Kean.

JOHN REARDON EQUIPMENT MANAGER

In his seventh season working with the baseball team, "JR" handles the team's equipment budget, inventory, purchasing and equipment maintenance. He is responsible for coordinating all the team's equipment needs for home games, while accompanying them on the road.

Reardon has been with Rutgers Athletics since 1984. A 1979 graduate of St. Joseph's (Metuchen) and a 1983 graduate of Marietta College (Ohio), he worked for radio station WMOA (Marietta) and was the public address announcer at the Division III College Baseball World Series from 1981-1991. Currently, he is the arena announcer for the Scarlet Knights' men's and women's basketball teams.

Reardon and his wife, Meg, reside in North Brunswick with their two sons, Eric and Danny.

HALLIE WINTZER FACEY ATHLETIC TRAINER

Hallie Wintzer Facey is in her first year at Rutgers University, overseeing the health care for women's soccer and baseball.

Prior to working at Rutgers, Hallie spent one year at Seton Hall University, serving as the primary athletic trainer for the women's volleyball and swimming teams during the 2005-2006 season. She spent two years at Long Island University (2003-2005) as a Graduate Assistant, working with the women's volleyball, softball, and baseball teams.

Wintzer Facey earned a Bachelor's Degree in 2003 from the University of the Pacific in Sport Sciences, with an emphasis in Athletic Training. She completed her Master's Degree in 2005 at LIU in Advanced Athletic Training and Sport Sciences.

Hallie and her husband Andy reside in North Brunswick.

MARK PETERSON ACADEMIC SUPPORT

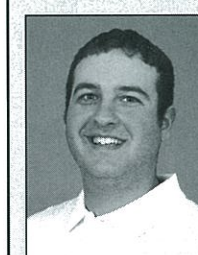

Mark Peterson is in his third season working with the Rutgers baseball team as an academic advisor.

Peterson, a 1988 Rutgers graduate, assists players with every aspect of maintaining a high level of excellence in the classroom while also managing the rigors of athletic competition. Having played basketball for the Scarlet Knights from 1984-88, Peterson is able to relate first-hand to the challenges of achieving success both in the classroom and on the court.

In addition to his duties as an academic advisor, Peterson also has served as the color analyst for the women's basketball program on the Rutgers Radio Network since the fall of 2004.

Peterson has worked in the athletic academic support office since 1994 after completing a seven-year stint playing professional basketball in the NBA, CBA, USBL, and several international leagues. He also serves as an instructor at the Dyckman Basketball Instructional Program, a weekly free clinic in New York City for area basketball players.

Prior to returning to his alma mater, Peterson spent time as a substitute teacher in the bi-lingual program (Spanish) in the New York Public School System.

COLLEGIATE

2007 OUTLOOK

Timely hitting, solid pitching, and fundamentally sound defense are the prerequisites for every successful baseball program, and this spring, the Scarlet Knights are looking forward to showing the college baseball world that it has all three of those necessary facets of the game. Led by long-time head coach Fred Hill, who enters his 30th career season and 24th "On the Banks" as the NCAA's 16th winningest active coach and the BIG EAST's number one winningest active skipper, Rutgers looks to re-establish its rightful place among the conference and nation's elite programs. Entering the season with 893 victories under his belt, Hill is closing in on the 900-win mark.

Last season, Rutgers was regarded as one of the top hitting teams in the conference, and the return of five of the team's top six hitters from its BIG EAST semifinalist club will once again provide offensive production for the veteran Hill. The Rutgers offense will once again be on display with the return of experienced hitters throughout the RU lineup, led by All-American Todd Frazier. The First Team All-BIG EAST shortstop from a year ago enters his junior campaign with several preseason All-America honors as well as the coach's selection as the BIG EAST Preseason Player of the Year. He is complemented by fellow All-BIG EAST picks Frank Meade and Tim Querns, along with outfielders Dave Williams and Ryan Hill. Defensively, Rutgers finished the season ranked 17th nationally in fielding percentage, and with six starting position players back in 2007, much of the same can be expected when the Scarlet Knights are in the field. Injuries limited the Rutgers pitching staff in 2006, but the return of several reliable hurlers coupled with the emergence of a number of talented newcomers has the Scarlet Knights expecting their pitching to be one of its strong suits this spring.

"We have a good core nucleus returning and hope to compete not only in the BIG EAST but on the national level in 2007," said Hill.

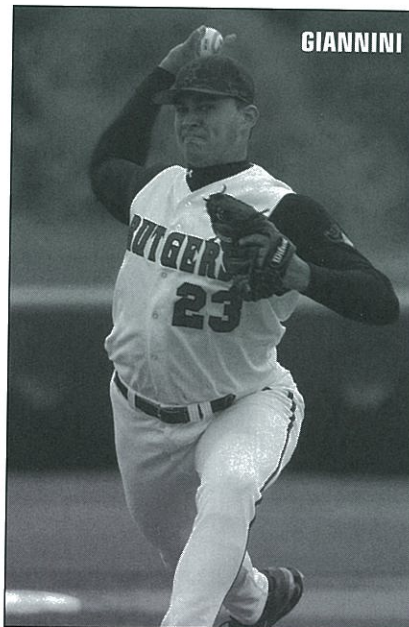

PITCHING

With a solid combination of game-tested returnees and several promising new arms, the Scarlet Knights pitching staff will look to get back to top form in 2007. Sophomore right-hander Matt Giannini will anchor the staff, after finishing his freshman campaign with a team-leading 55 strikeouts while sporting a 6-5 record. Giannini's best outing of the season came in his last, as No. 6 seed Rutgers eliminated No. 2 seed Connecticut in the BIG EAST Tournament when he struck out six batters over eight innings.

The two remaining spots behind Giannini in the weekend rotation will be filled by seniors Steve Healing and Sean Spicer, sophomore Tony Wargo, or freshmen Dennis Hill and Casey Gaynor.

Healing, a senior who returned to the mound last spring after missing all of 2005, showed why he was regarded as one of the best scholastic pitchers in New Jersey when he pitched 7.1 innings of two-run ball to earn a key league win over rival St. John's last season.

The workhorse for the Scarlet Knights last season, Spicer evolved from a midweek starter to earn a spot in the weekend rotation. He pitched 90.1 innings in 2006, and posted a team-best 7-4 record. Against West Virginia, Spicer gave up just two runs in 10.1 innings in a pitcher's duel that Rutgers would eventually win, 3-2, in the 11th inning.

Wargo, who owned a team-low 3.14 ERA in 11 appearances out of the bullpen in 2006 while surrendering just one extra-base hit, will get a look this spring as a starter, but also offers Coach Hill the versatility to come out of the bullpen as a set-up specialist for the Scarlet Knights.

After an impressive summer playing in the NECBL and a solid fall back in Piscataway, the hard-throwing left-hander Hill will make his Scarlet Knight debut in 2007. The brother of junior outfielder Ryan Hill, Dennis, a red-shirt freshman, will give RU a promising option in the rotation early on in the season.

One of the most heralded players in an impressive recruiting class, Gaynor comes to Rutgers as the reigning New Jersey High School Pitcher of the Year after setting the Shore Conference record for career wins with 33. As a member of the 1994 World Championship Little League Team from Toms River, Gaynor has already pitched in some high-pressure environments, greatly accelerating his acclimation to college baseball.

Traditionally a strength for RU, 2007 is no different, as the bullpen is with dependable upperclassmen in addition to a number of gifted newcomers who will compete for innings right away.

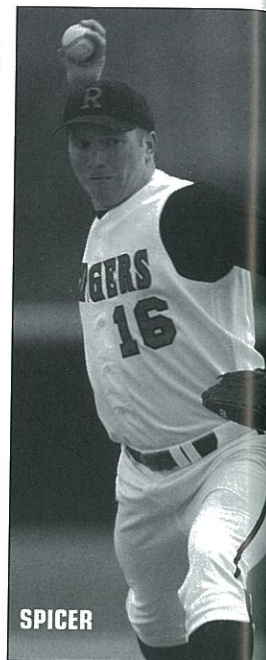

QJ DeChristifano, limited to two games last season due to injury, will be back to the mound this spring as the leading closer candidate for the Scarlet Knights. Also back as Rutgers' primary set-up man is senior right-hander Chris Lillis, who made a team-high 25 appearances a year ago, while logging three saves. Junior righty Tim Woodhull returns as a consistent reliever for the Scarlet Knights, where in 2006, he had two saves in 19 of Adding to the mix is converted catcher/outfielder Jason Downey who made his debut on the mound for the Scarlet Knights this season after going 44.1 innings for the Saratoga Phillies of the New York Collegiate League last summer. The righty was named the NYCBL Championship Series Most Valuable Player following his complete game, three-hit shutout win over the Allegany County Nitros which clinched the league title.

Ryan Beard, a Second Team Junior College All-American who led Broward Community College to the NJCAA World Series last spring, joins Rutgers as a hard-throwing right-hander who gives Coach Hill another solid option to enter the game in late-inning situations.

Also expected to contribute out of the bullpen this spring are junior left Matt Patterson, sophomore righty Jon McCue, and freshman righties Lillis, Kyle Bradley, and Dale Hering.

Senior Steve Holt, the ace of the staff a year ago, will red-shirt the season after undergoing Tommy John surgery this past fall.

ave a good group of experienced guys returning who have progressed in the program and should have a major impact on our season. We have a lot of talent in several highly-touted young arms who can help us out right away."

HING

the plate in 2007, Coach Hill and Rutgers welcome back the returners Frank Meade and Jon Gossard, providing the Scarlet Knights with positive bats, as well as solid defensive abilities that can alter the opposing game.

will get the nod as the starter, following a year in which he served as most productive hitter with a school-record 14 home runs, and a leading 52 RBI. Defensively, his strong arm will once again be a factor, threw out 33 percent of the runners who attempted to steal on him in 1966.

At the start of 2006, Meade and Gossard were set to share catching duties, but, in the opening series of the year, Gossard suffered a season-ending shoulder injury. Now back to full strength, Gossard is ready to produce for the Scarlet Knights this spring, and will see time both behind the plate and as the designated hitter.

Backing them up will be a pair of individuals who red-shirted last season, Tim Reilly and Dan Malandrucolo. Both, along with sophomore newcomer Julian Johnson, will add depth to the catching position for Coach Hill.

"Frank and Jon are each going to play a major role in the success of our team this season. We feel very confident at the position. They both have game-changing ability offensively and defensively."

"Young guys we have at the position will learn through them and be ready to contribute in the future."

He will once again be a major plus for Rutgers this season, as the Scarlet Knights return three of its four starting infielders from a year ago. Frazier was a preseason All-American and coaches' choice as the preseason BIG EAST Player of the Year, junior Todd Frazier highlights the group of infielders as RU's starting shortstop. After spending last summer as a member of Team USA, Frazier enters the season as one of the top-rated professional prospects in the nation, and a potential first-round pick in this year's Major League Baseball Draft. He has started all 111 games in his varsity career, and finished 2006 in the top-10 in the league in 10 different offensive categories, including home runs (T-4th), runs batted in (T-8th), batting average (10th), hits (7th), runs (T-4th), stolen bases (T-3rd), slugging percentage (6th), on-base percentage (6th), total bases (6th), and walks (10th). Entering just his third season with the Scarlet Knights, Frazier is already on the verge of several of Rutgers' all-time marks.

That second base will be senior Mike Bionde. The defensive stalwart led 51 of 53 games at the position last season, committing just five errors. The Pequannock native, who started at shortstop as a freshman during Rutgers' BIG EAST Championship season in 2003, has made the smooth transition over to second base and will provide a solid bat in the number two slot in the lineup. Bionde enjoyed success in the postseason, including a two-game stretch in the BIG EAST Tournament where he went 7-for-8 with five RBI in consecutive victories over Cincinnati and Connecticut.

Tim Querns, a Third Team All-BIG EAST selection last season, returns at third base where he started all but one of RU's 58 games last season, while hitting .337 and driving in 36 runs. Querns will be counted on as a consistent bat in the Rutgers lineup, as well as a solid glove in the field in this, his third and final season as the Scarlet Knights' starting third baseman.

With the graduation of Steve Hook, the first base job is an open competition between senior Nick Stavrakis and sophomore Tom Edwards, both who expect to see extensive time. Stavrakis played in 28 games last spring, collecting 13 hits, including two doubles, a triple and two home runs.

Edwards moves over to first base in 2007 after seeing time at both short-stop and second base primarily last season. In his first season of action with the Scarlet Knights, he played in 30 games and contributed 16 hits while scoring 13 runs.

Junior Victor Cegles and sophomore Vinny Sangemino, while adding solid depth to their respective positions at second and third, will give Coach Hill two experienced bats coming off the bench this spring. Both are also expected to compete for at-bats in the designated hitter spot as well, after considerable time from last season, where Cegles appeared in 35 games and Sangemino in 27.

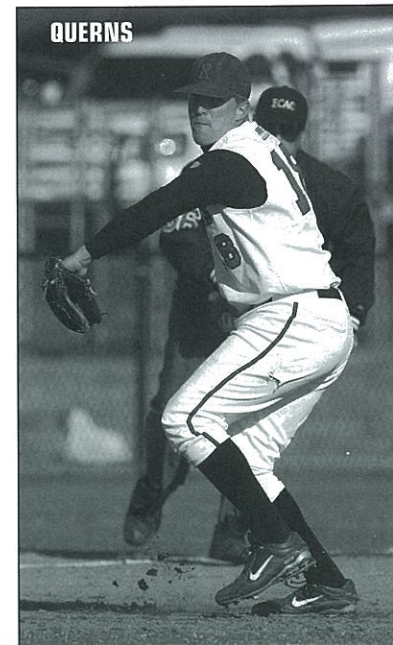

Freshmen newcomers Dan Betteridge (SS) and Joey Ianiero (2B) will look to learn from the Scarlet Knights veteran infield, and hope to break into the line-up at some point this season.

"The infield should be a big strength for us this season. We have our infield nearly in tact from last season except for first base and we feel very comfortable at the position with both Nick and Tom there. We feel we have one of the best infields not only in the league but in the nation."

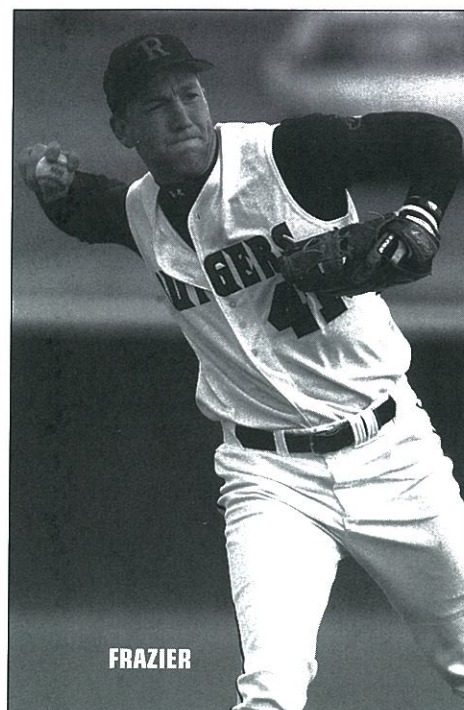

OUTFIELD

Despite the loss of All-BIG EAST performer Jeff Grose, the Scarlet Knights return loads of experienced talent in the outfield, including 2006 Major League Baseball draftee, Dave Williams, who turned down the Florida Marlins' offer last summer to return to Rutgers for his senior season. Back as the Scarlet Knights' starting right fielder, Williams, selected in each of the last two major league drafts, hit two home runs and four doubles among his 16 hits in limited action last spring.

Junior Ryan Hill returns to left field this season, and will be relied upon as a major run producer for Rutgers in the heart of the lineup. Last season, he complimented Frazier and Meade with a productive bat of his own to provide a daunting 3-4-5 lineup for opposing pitchers. Hill, who started all 58 games, hit .308 last season, finishing the season with eight home runs and 12 doubles to go along with 40 walks. Among his highlights from last season, Hill earned a spot on the Collegiate Baseball Foundation National Honor Roll and was named the BIG EAST Player of the Week with two home runs, five runs scored and six RBI in a 5-for-6 performance at the plate as Rutgers took a two-game series from William & Mary to start the 2006 season.

QUERNS

Sophomore Luis Feliz begins 2007 as RU's starting centerfielder, after stepping in for the injured Williams in right field as a true freshman a year ago. Feliz appeared in all but six of RU's 58 games a year ago, and contributed three home runs, while also tallying five assists from the outfield.

17 and 20 games, respectively, last season. Following a productive fall and a beneficial off-season, both hope to build on their time on the field with increased roles in 2007.

Freshmen Brett Garlick, Jarred Jimenez and Matt Meyerkopf will each add depth and vie for at-bats with the extremely-talented Scarlet Knight outfield. The speedy Garlick comes to Rutgers after leading the entire state of New Jersey in hitting last spring with a .681 average as a senior at Livingston High School which earned him First Team All-State honors.

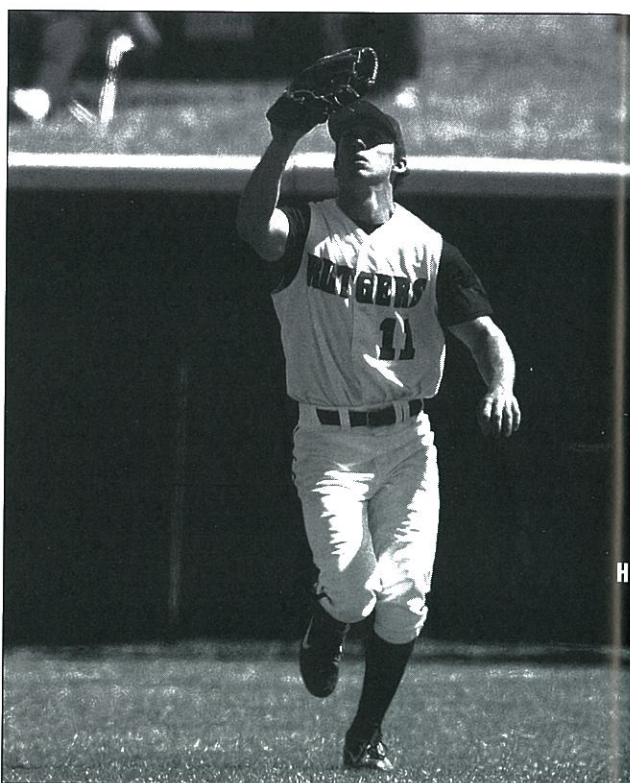

"Our outfield is another major strength for us. We will feel the loss of Jeff Grose but the return of Dave Williams while have a big impact. All three of our starters play excellent defense with strong arms. The group is full of great hitters."

WILLIAMS

Year in and year out, Coach Hill puts together one of the most challenging schedules in the entire country, and the 2007 slate is no different. For the fourth year in a row, Rutgers will open the season in Williamsburg, Va., at William & Mary (Feb. 16-18). The Scarlet Knights will return to the state of Virginia the following weekend for a three-game series with Old Dominion (Feb. 23-25) - a team which won 39 games a year ago. The task will not get any easier for the Scarlet Knights, who play their first 17 games on the road, the following weekend when they travel to Atlanta to play nationally ranked Georgia Tech (Mar. 2-4). The annual spring break trip to Florida follows with visits to Florida International (March 9-11), Florida Atlantic (Mar. 13) and pre-season #2 Miami (Mar. 14). Rutgers will wrap-up its visit to the Sunshine State with a three-game series at Central Florida in Orlando (Mar. 15-17).

The Scarlet Knights will officially open their brand new, state-of-the-art Bainton Field, on Mar. 21 with a Wednesday afternoon contest against St. Peter's. Other midweek home games include Wagner (April 3), Cornell (April 10), Iona (April 18), FDU (May 2), Monmouth (May 9), and Delaware (May 15). RU will play road midweek contests at Rider (Mar. 27), Princeton (Mar. 28), Delaware (April 11) and Lafayette (April 25).

Rutgers begins BIG EAST play with a three-game series against Georgetown (Mar. 23-25) at Bainton Field. The Scarlet Knights will also welcome Connecticut (April 5-7), Seton Hall (April 13-15), Notre Dame (April 20-22) and Cincinnati (May 5-6) to Piscataway. Rutgers' BIG EAST road schedule includes games at St. John's (Mar. 30-April 1), South Florida (April 20-22), Pittsburgh (May 11-13) and Villanova (May 17-19). The Scarlet Knights' trip to Tampa to face South Florida will mark the first ever meeting with the Bulls.

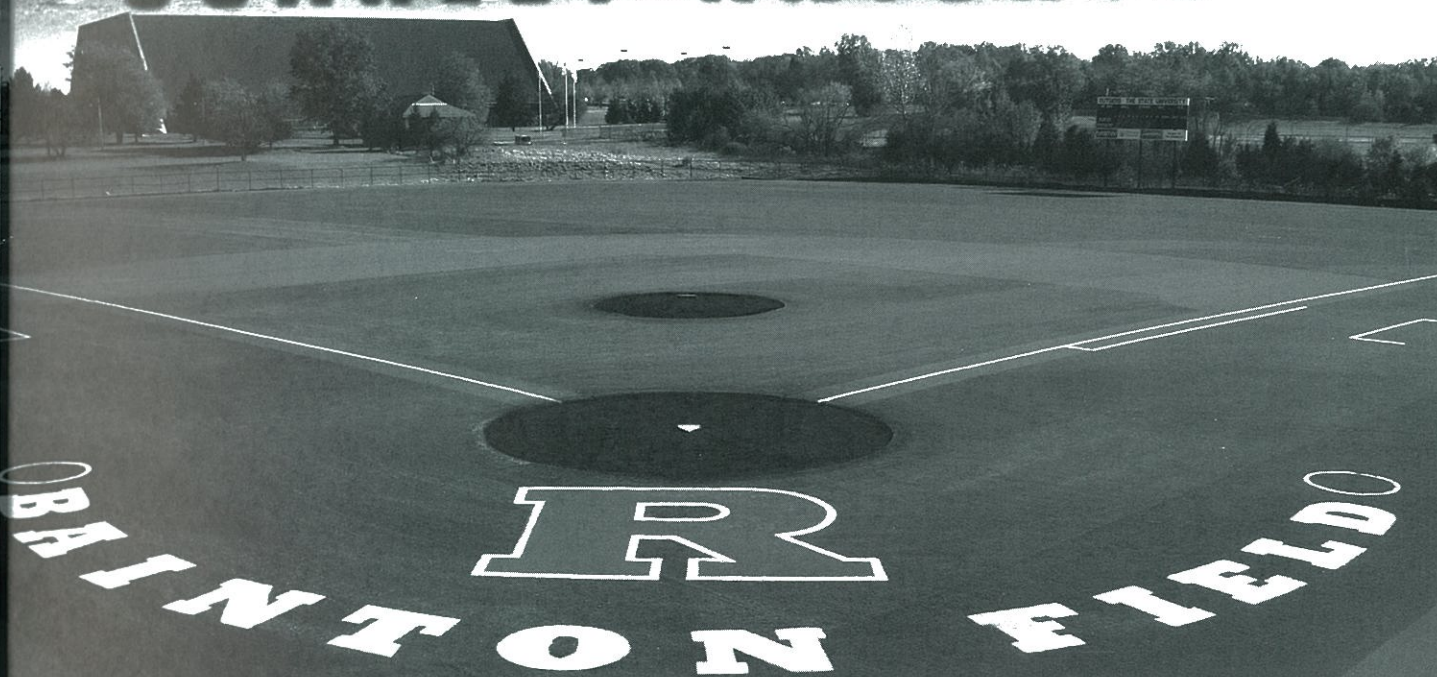

The eight-team BIG EAST Championship has a new home in 2007, moving to KeySpan Park in Brooklyn, N.Y., home of the Brooklyn Cyclones, the 'A' New York-Penn League affiliate of the New York Mets. The double elimination tournament will run from May 23-27, crowning the league's champion and awarding its automatic bid to the NCAA Championship.

"We always try to play the best competition early on in the season to prepare ourselves for BIG EAST play and to put ourselves in position for the NCAA Tournament," said Hill. "Being able to play in those tough environments against top teams, and being able to win in those environments makes us a stronger team down the road. Our strength of schedule is always among the best in the nation, and 2007 is no different."

FROM WILLIAMSPORT TO PISCATAWAY

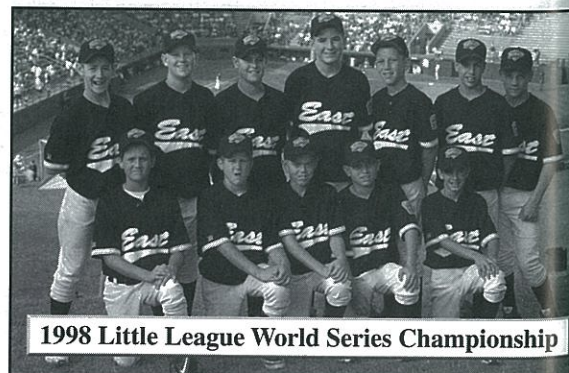

Current Scarlet Knights Todd Frazier and Casey Gaynor re-united as teammates this season with hopes of achieving the same success they did as teammates on the Toms River East American Little League team. The duo played on the team at the League's grandest stage, winning the 1998 Little League World Series with a 9-1 victory over Kashima Japan in Williamsport, Pa.

Frazier, now a junior at Rutgers, hit .600 with four home runs to lead his team to the championship game at Watchung Hills, earning All-County and All-State honors... Has older brother, Chris, who plays football at Muhlenberg College... Former Scarlet Knights, however, helped pave the way for RU's current Little League All-Stars.

Colin Gaynor, Casey's older brother, finished his career with the Scarlet Knights in 2005. He was a member of the 1995 Toms River Little League team that advanced to Williamsport, posting a 1-2 record, with its lone victory coming at Arden Hills, Minnesota, which represented the Central region. The Gaynor family had three total trips to the mecca of Little League baseball. Gaynor's father coached all three teams.

Colin, ironically, played alongside Todd's older brother, Jeff, in Williamsport later with the Scarlet Knights. Jeff Frazier was a member of the Scarlet Knights from 2002-2004 and is now playing in the Seattle Mariners organization.

2007 BASEBALL

2006 SEASON REVIEW

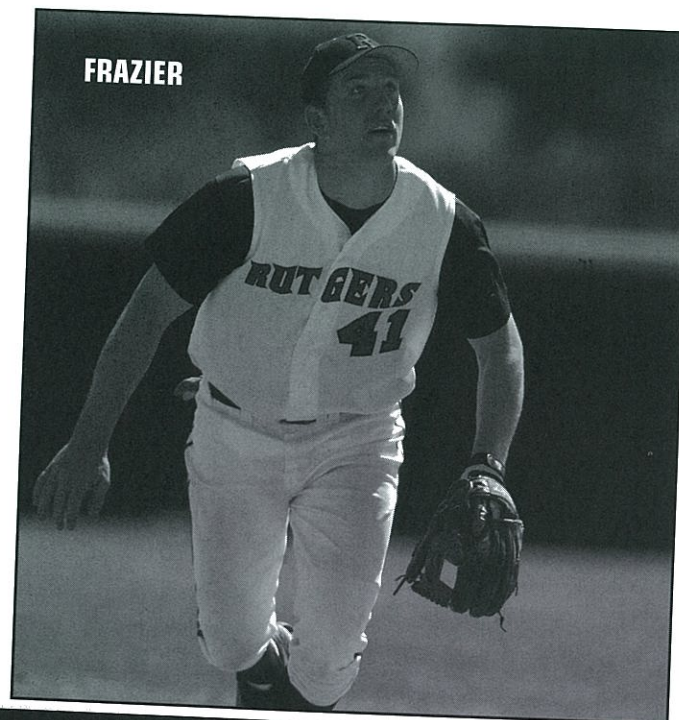

The 2006 Rutgers baseball season saw the Scarlet Knights return to the postseason for the first time in three years. Dealt with an unusually high number of prolonged injuries, the deep Rutgers roster showed determination, advancing to the semifinals of the BIG EAST Championships before ending the campaign 29-28-1 overall. The offense was explosive from top to bottom, recording the second-most home runs in the program's history with 52, highlighted by Frank Meade's new school single-season record 14.

The end of the season also marked the end of the careers of Rutgers' seven seniors, including center fielder Jeff Grose, first baseman Steve Hook and pitchers Bob Acampora, Joe Baione, Ryan Bradley, Jim Jansen and Matt Pustay. Grose, who had a career-long 14-game hitting streak during the season, ended his career among the top-10 all-time in six different offensive categories. Hook finished seventh all-time with 20 career home runs, while displaying his excellent defense at first base in 2006, making just one error all season. RU's five senior pitchers each played important roles, coming up big for the Scarlet Knights at different points in the season.

Shortstop Todd Frazier finished among the BIG EAST leaders in virtually every offensive category. He ended the season with a team-high .366 batting average, including 83 hits, 14 doubles, three triples and 11 home runs. The sophomore, who also stole a team-leading 21 bases on the season, earned a spot on the USA Baseball National Team during the summer.

Frazier, however, was not the lone slugger on a team that had power and consistency throughout its lineup. Meade, Grose and third baseman Tim Querns joined Frazier as All-BIG EAST honorees at the postseason banquet. Querns provided stability down the lineup, hitting .337 for the season. The junior earned BIG EAST and National Player of the Week honors in mid-April after going 10-for-12 with four RBI and four runs to lead Rutgers to two victories in three games at Cincinnati.

The Rutgers pitching staff lost several starters and key relievers for a prolonged span during the season. Sean Spicer was a workhorse for the Scarlet Knights, leading the team in innings (90.1) and victories (7). Matt Giannini looked sharp in his first season of collegiate action with a team-high 55 strikeouts. The Scarlet Knights also received solid middle and late-inning relief from Chris Lillis, Joe Baione and Tim Woodhull along with a host of others. Lefty

Matt Pustay led RU with 13 starts, stepping in as the Scarlet Knights' No. 1 starter late in the season. Tony Wargo showed promise in relief, finishing with a team-low 3.14 ERA and 16 strikeouts in 14.1 innings pitched.

The Scarlet Knights powered their way to a 3-0 start to the 2006 campaign, scoring at least nine runs in each of their first three contests. The only element able to stop RU's high-powered offense was mother nature, who blanketed the Williamsburg area with a sheet of snow during the season's opening series at William & Mary. Ryan Hill led the way for Rutgers in the series, going 5-for-6 in the two games with a pair of home runs, scoring five runs and driving in another six. RU took both the shortened series before returning south the following weekend to Dominion. RU extended its season-opening winning streak to three with a series-opening win against the Monarchs, but a five-run seventh inning gave RU its first loss of the season in game two.

The loss started one of the toughest stretches in veteran head coach Hill's storied tenure "On the Banks." The Scarlet Knights suffered through a nine-game losing streak, which included losses to top-ranked Georgia Tech, equally strong squads in Florida International, Florida Atlantic and Old Dominion. Added to the defeats was some more unlucky fortune in the injuries, as power hitter Dave Williams and starter OJ DeChristofano were sidelined for the rest of the campaign.

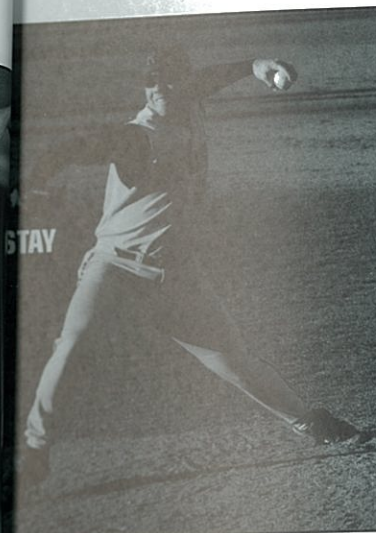

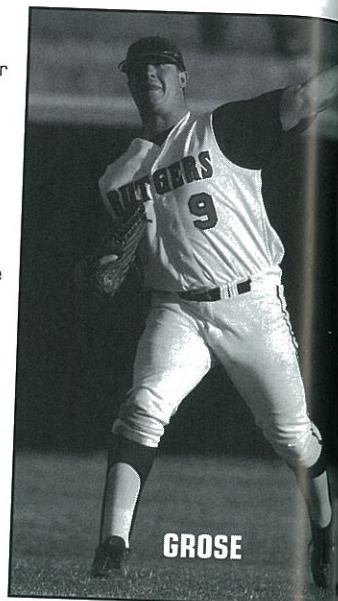

After dropping all three contests against FIU to open Rutgers' annual spring break trip down south, RU faced FAU in a weekday game. Spicer retired the first seven batters of the game, allowing just three runs on five hits through seven innings as the Scarlet Knights held a 4-3 advantage late into the game. RU's tough luck had finally changed until an FAU three-run homer in the bottom of the eighth gave the Owls a stunning come-from-behind win.

The Scarlet Knights rounded out their spring break trip in the state of Florida by getting back to their winning ways thanks to a pair of victories in a three-game series at Liberty. RU used the long ball to end its losing streak, totaling four home runs, including a pair by Meade to win the opening game, 7-2. After dropping the second game, RU bounced back from an early deficit, rallying for four runs in the eighth inning to win, 7-6 and take the series over the Panthers.

After playing its first 15 games on the road, Rutgers finally played on its home turf in late March, earning a 14-9 victory over St. Peter's. The Scarlet Knights then opened BIG EAST play with conference newcomer Louisville on the road. The potent RU offense sputtered in all three games as the Scarlet Knights dropped a pair of pitcher's duels before the Cardinals swept the series with a 6-1 victory in the finale.

Home cooking proved to be what the doctor ordered for the Scarlet Knights who played their next nine games at the friendly confines of the Class of 1954 Baseball Complex. RU finished the homestand with just one loss, while dropping two key BIG EAST series against Villanova and West Virginia.

The Scarlet Knights opened the homestand with a 6-5 victory over Wake Forest.

in the series finale to give RU a come-from-behind 5-3 win. The following weekend, Rutgers stunned No. 23 West Virginia, earning a sweep over the Mountaineers. RU outscored WVU 21-9 in the three-game series, despite a close, 3-1 decision in the series finale. In that game, Pustay worked a career-long 10 innings and Luis Feliz drove in the winning run in the 11th inning to complete the sweep.

The following week's four-game stretch saw Rutgers explode for 50 runs, including a 17-4 win at Columbia and a 19-3 victory at Cincinnati. More importantly, the Scarlet Knights took two of three games from the Bearcats, winning the third-straight BIG EAST series which increased their position in the league standings.

A victory at Iona gave Rutgers 10 victories in its last 12 games, setting up a BIG EAST showdown at league leader Notre Dame. The Scarlet Knights won all three contests as well as their top pitcher in South Bend after Holt was forced to miss the remainder of the season with an arm injury following the series opener.

Return East also brought the return of one of the Scarlet Knights' best power hitters in Williams. The right fielder provided an instant impact with a 3-4 performance, scoring three runs and driving in two more to lead RU to a victory over Seton Hall.

Williams' comeback was short-lived however, as he jammed his ankle sliding into second base the next day against Lafayette and was again forced out for several more weeks.

A key BIG EAST battle with St. John's got off to a tough start for the Scarlet Knights who found themselves down 5-0 early in the series opener before mounting a ninth-inning comeback, only to fall one run short in the 7-6 loss. After dropping game two against the Red Storm, RU leaned on pitcher Steve Pustay to pull out a crucial game-three win for the Scarlet Knights. Healing, who had battled through a pair of arm surgeries the past three years, worked a strong innings and DH Vinny Sangemino drove in the go-ahead run in a 4-2 win.

Following over the .500 mark, Rutgers dropped a pair of games, including the series opener against Pittsburgh before rebounding with a pair of wins against the Panthers to take the series. Grose drove in five runs and Meade belted his second grand slam of the season in a 15-9 victory on Alumni Day in game two against the Panthers. In the series finale, Grose continued his offensive showcase with a three-run home run and four RBI to lead RU to the 10-5 victory.

Todd Frazier two-run home run in the seventh inning lifted Rutgers over

Monmouth in the finale of a 10-game homestand as RU pushed its winning streak to three games.

The Scarlet Knights continued their momentum into the weekend, earning a three-game sweep at Georgetown which extended their winning streak to six games and more importantly qualified them for the eight-team BIG EAST Championships - their first postseason berth in three years.

Despite the return of Williams a second time, the regular season ended on a sour note with four-straight losses, including three at second-place Connecticut.

RU earned the sixth seed in the league's postseason tournament, held at Bright House Networks Field in Clearwater, FL, where the team looked for revenge against the third-seeded Cardinals of Louisville. Down 6-3, the Scarlet Knights rallied for five runs in the eighth inning to take an 8-6 lead before a three-run Cardinal eighth devastated RU in a tough 9-8 opening round loss.

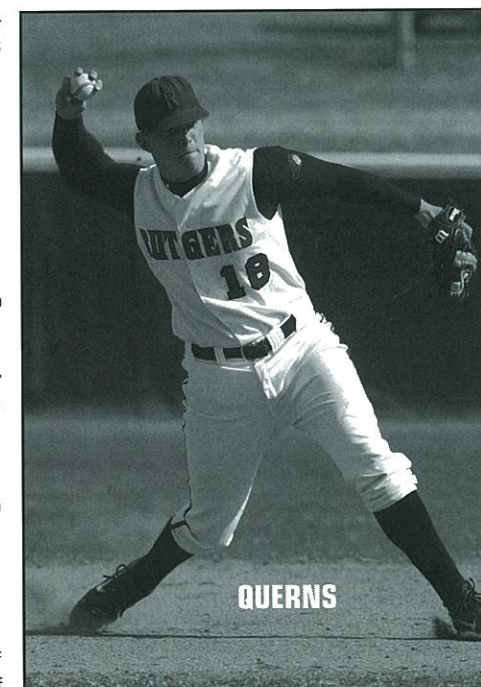

RU bounced right back however, as Frazier, Meade and Williams each homered to lead Rutgers to a 13-7 victory over seventh-seeded Cincinnati in the double-elimination tournament. The home run was Meade's 14th of the season, which broke Jeff Frazier's single-season school record.

Rutgers then upset second-seeded Connecticut on its way to the semifinal round of the tournament with a 9-5 victory over the Huskies. Giannini worked eight strong innings and second baseman Mike Bionde finished 4-for-4 from the plate with an RBI and a run scored to lead RU to the win.

That win set up another meeting with the daunted Cardinals in the semifinals. Unfortunately, the Scarlet Knights ran into a hot-hitting Louisville squad, ending its season with a 13-3 loss to the Cardinals.

Faced with a number of obstacles in the form of a high number of prolonged injuries and a rigorous schedule, Rutgers showed its poise and determination to remain one of the elite teams in the northeast in 2006. A return to the postseason illustrated the results of a true team effort. With the offensive nucleus returning, including BIG EAST honors candidates Frazier, Querns and Meade, Rutgers should present the same potent offense in 2007. The hopeful healthy return of its top pitchers coupled with several key additions should provide more solid pitching in 2007.

Added to the excitement of 2007 is the introduction of the Scarlet Knights' new field turf baseball field. Thanks to the generous support of Ron and Pat Bainton, RU will play on Bainton Field in 2007, debuting one of the nicest fields in the nation.

RICHARD L. McCORMICK

PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

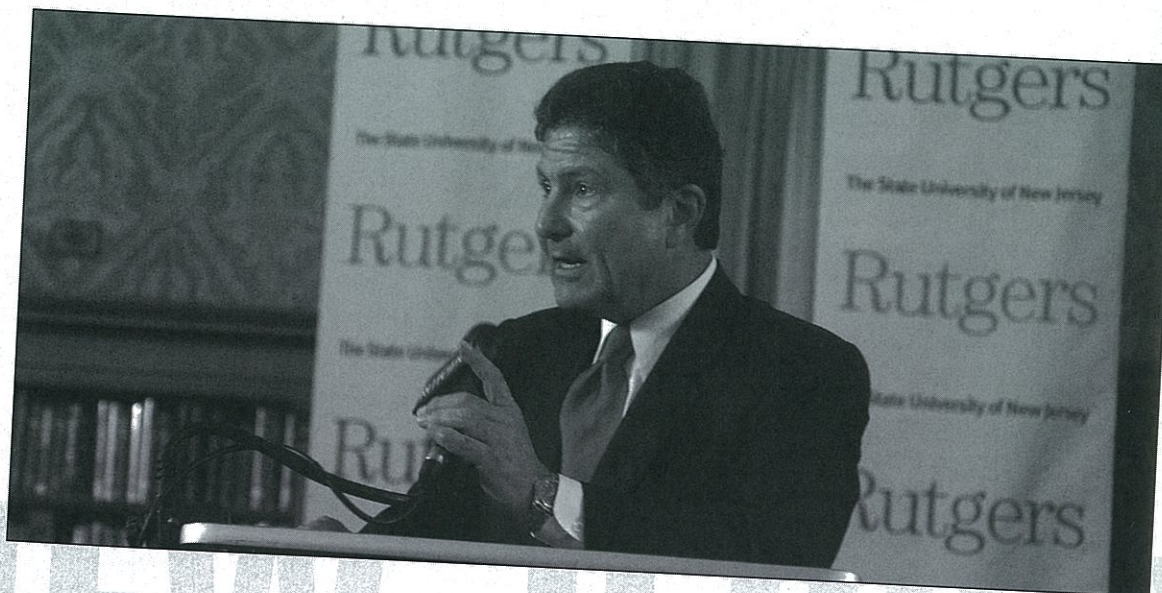

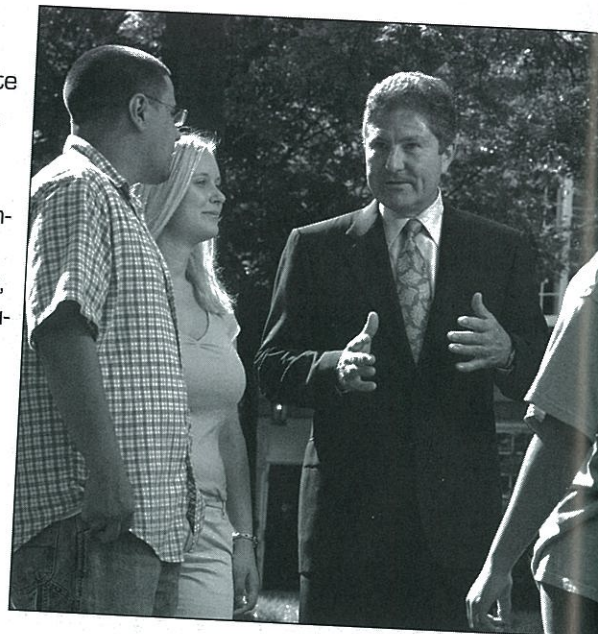

Richard L. McCormick became the 19th president of Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, on December 1, 2002. Among Dr. McCormick's key priorities are maintaining and enhancing Rutgers' academic quality, strengthening undergraduate education, and connecting the university more deeply to the people of New Jersey.

Prior to becoming president of Rutgers, Dr.

McCormick enjoyed a distinguished career as a faculty member, scholar, and university administrator. After earning his B.A. in American studies from Amherst College in 1969 and his Ph.D. in history from Yale University in 1976, Dr. McCormick began his career as an assistant professor of history at Rutgers-New Brunswick/Piscataway. He rose through the ranks to become professor of history (1985), chair of the Department of History (1987-1989), and dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences (1989-1992). From Rutgers, Dr. McCormick moved in 1992 to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he served as executive vice chancellor, provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs. In 1995 he became president of the University of Washington, where he served until returning to Rutgers in 2002.

The author of three books and numerous articles, Dr. McCormick is a recognized scholar of American political history. He has two children, Betsy, age 21, and Michael, 17. He is married to Joan Barry McCormick.

RUTGERS

THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

BRIEF HISTORY

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is one of the leading universities in the nation. The university is made up of 29 degree-granting colleges, 12 undergraduate colleges, 11 graduate schools, and three schools offering both undergraduate and graduate degrees. Five are located in Camden, seven in Newark, and 14 in New Brunswick/Piscataway.

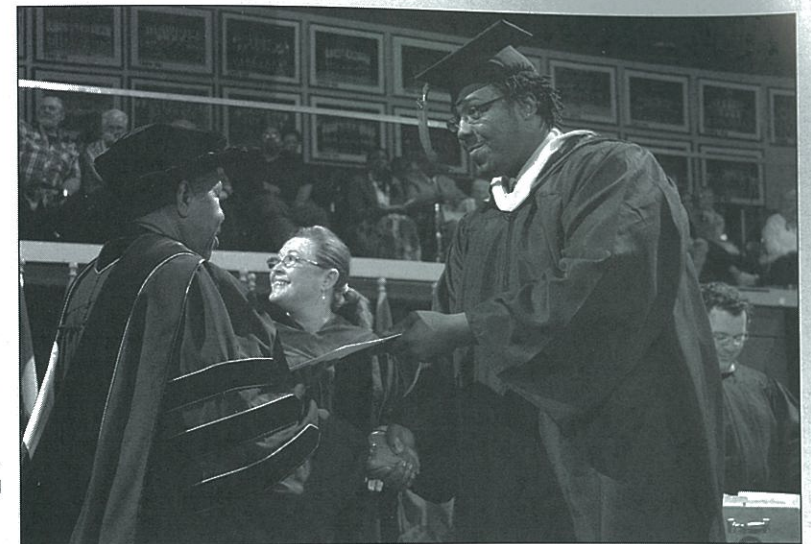

Rutgers has a unique history as a colonial college, a land-grant institution, and a state university. Chartered in 1766 as Queen's College, the institution of higher learning to be founded in the colonies, the college opened its doors in New Brunswick in 1771 with a lone instructor, a single sophomore, and a handful of first-year students. During its early years, the college developed as a classic liberal arts institution. In 1864, the name of the college was changed to honor a former trustee, Revolutionary War veteran, Colonel Henry Rutgers.

Rutgers College became the land-grant college of New Jersey in 1864, leading to the establishment of the Rutgers Scientific School, featuring departments of agriculture, engineering, and chemistry. Further expansion in the sciences came with the founding of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station in 1880, the College of Engineering (the School of Engineering) in 1914, and the College of Agriculture (now Cook College) in 1921. The precursors to several other Rutgers divisions were also established during this period: the College of Pharmacy (now the Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy) in 1892, the New Jersey College for Women (now Douglass College) in 1918, and the School of Education in 1924.

Rutgers College assumed university status in 1924, and legislative acts in 1945 and 1956 designated all its divisions as The State University of New Jersey. During these years the university expanded significantly with the founding of an evening division — University College — in 1934 and the addition of the University of Newark (now Rutgers-Newark) in 1946 and the College of South Jersey at Camden (now Rutgers-Camden) in 1950.

In the 1950's, Rutgers has continued to expand, especially in the area of graduate education. The Graduate School—New Brunswick, Graduate School—Newark, and Graduate School—Camden each serve their respective campuses. In addition, professional schools have been established in such areas as management, social work, criminal justice, applied and professional psychology, the fine arts, and communication, information and library studies. (A number of these schools offer undergraduate programs as well.) Also at the undergraduate level, Livingston College was founded in 1969, emphasizing the urban environment. The first Summer Session began in 1913 with one six-week session. That summer program offered 47 courses and had an enrollment of 314 students. Currently, Summer Session offers over 1,000 courses to more than 15,000 students on the Camden, Newark, and New Brunswick/Piscataway campuses, off-campus, and abroad.

Today, Rutgers continues to grow, both in its facilities and in the variety and depth of its educational and research programs. The university's goals for the future include the continued provision of the highest quality education, along with the increased support of research and commitment to public service to meet the needs of society.

RUTGERS

THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

RUTGERS AT A GLANCE

- Chartered in 1766 as Queen's College, Rutgers is the eighth oldest college in the nation.
- Rutgers was designated the State University of New Jersey by legislative acts in 1945 and 1956.
- Rutgers is New Jersey's largest public research university and is located on three regional campuses in Camden, Newark, and New Brunswick/Piscataway.
- Rutgers was named New Jersey's land-grant university in 1864 and has a special responsibility for serving the needs of the state.
- Rutgers is a member of the Association of American Universities (AAU), a highly selective organization composed of the 62 leading research universities in North America.
- There are 29 degree-granting schools and colleges, offering more than 100 distinct bachelor's, 100 master's, and 80 doctoral and professional degree programs.
- Rutgers is one of New Jersey's major employers with some 2,661 faculty and 6,350 staff.
- For every dollar New Jersey invests in Rutgers, the university channels $5 into the state's economy. In 2003, the amount of state support was $524 million, while the combined effect of university direct and indirect spending was estimated at $2.8 billion.
- With holdings of approximately four million volumes, the Rutgers library system ranks among the nation's largest.
- Rutgers enrolls more than 50,000 students: 37,000 undergraduates and 12,000 graduate students.
- More than 10,000 students each year earn a degree from Rutgers.
- The university has more than 347,000 living alumni; nearly 200,000 alumni reside in New Jersey.

TEACHING AND LEARNING

- Rutgers faculty include MacArthur "genius" Fellows, National Medal of Science and National Medal of Technology recipients, Fulbright Scholars, Guggenheim Fellows, members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and winners of many prestigious awards and grants.
- The graduate philosophy department is ranked second in the English-speaking world by the Philosophical Gourmet Report.
- Rutgers Business School-Newark and New Brunswick is ranked among the top five schools in the country for technology management according to a Journal of Product Innovation Management study. It is tenth out of 51 for international business according to a Journal of International Business Studies report. BusinessWeek ranks the school's Executive MBA program fifth in the world in the area of strategy and sixth in the area of finance.

RESEARCH

- Streptomycin, the first effective cure for tuberculosis, and other potent antibiotics were discovered at Rutgers by Professor Selman Waksman and his students in the 1940s. Waksman received the Nobel Prize for his important contributions to medicine.
- The New Brunswick/Piscataway campus is home to the New Jersey Stem Cell Institute, a joint endeavor with the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. The institute is devoted to finding new and effective approaches to treating seemingly incurable diseases such as Parkinson's, Alzheimer's, diabetes, and spinal cord injury.
- The Rutgers Cell and DNA Repository is a valuable resource for researchers around the world studying the role heredity plays in complex genetic diseases such as schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, autism, Alzheimer's, alcoholism, diabetes, and Tourette's syndrome. The repository, which holds samples donated by more than 100,000 people, is supported by more than $60 million in federal grants.
- The Protein Data Bank, based at Rutgers, is the international repository of three-dimensional protein structures. With $30 million in federal funding, the bank provides vital information on more than 35,000 proteins and other macromolecules for scientists working to design more effective treatments for disease.
- Rutgers' Institute of Marine and Coastal Sciences ranks among America's top 15 marine research organizations based on peer competition for National Science Foundation research funding.
- The Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy, the only pharmacy school in New Jersey, ranks in the top 10 percent among pharmacy schools nationwide in research dollars awarded by the National Institutes of Health.
- Rutgers holds approximately 411 patents and, since 1989, has licensed 49 start-up or early-stage companies.
- Rutgers is a partner in the Southern African Large Telescope, one of the world's largest optical telescopes and the southern hemisphere's newest eye on the sky.
- Rutgers University is leading the Northeast Structural Genomics Consortium, a $52.7 million research program to reveal the roles that proteins play in the most fundamental processes.

SERVICE TO NEW JERSEY

- Rutgers' Center for Government Services trains New Jersey's municipal employees to better serve their constituents and certifies approximately 17,000 employees each year, offering classes to some 15,000 individuals.
- In 2005, Continuous Education and Outreach offered over 3,700 course sections to more than 50,000 individuals. Courses are offered in almost every county in New Jersey.
- The Office of the New Jersey State Climatologist at Rutgers is the state's official weather resource.
- Each year, Rutgers holds the New Jersey Folk Festival and Ag Field Day on a single Saturday in April, bringing together some 15,000 people to celebrate the state's diverse populations and agricultural heritage.

SERVICE TO THE NATION

- Rutgers research on life deep beneath the ocean's surface is prominently featured in "Volcanoes of the Deep," an IMAX film shown at museums around the world.
- Rutgers' agricultural research has led to durable turfgrass, juicy tomatoes, disease-resistant dogwoods, and improved varieties of asparagus. Rutgers varieties are used at Yankee Stadium, Central Park, and other venues nationwide.
- Nationally respected institutes at Rutgers such as the National Transit Institute and the National Institute for Early Education Research are helping to shape the United States and state policy in critical areas.
- Rutgers is the nation's primary source for antiterror security training for public transit workers.
- Most meals ready to eat (MREs) manufactured for our nation's troops are produced using Rutgers-developed technology.
- The Douglass Developmental Disabilities Center is a pioneer in developing effective methods to help autistic children.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

ROBERT E. MULCAHY DIRECTOR OF INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

Innovation, achievement and excellence have been the hallmarks of Robert Mulcahy's tenure as Director of Athletics at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. Since coming to Rutgers in 1998, Mulcahy has been the guiding force in the continued development of the university's Division of Intercollegiate Athletics program. He is committed to the ideal that Rutgers Athletics will provide the best possible experience for its student-athletes. Mulcahy's vision for Rutgers Athletics has led the division to unprecedented development and accomplishment. Wide-ranging improvements in facilities have allowed the division to function at greater efficiency, thus enabling opportunity for greater success for Rutgers student-athletes, both in the classroom and on the playing field.

Mulcahy's leadership has brought reality to this vision. He has been responsible for raising the division's endowment by $4 million, and was instrumental in developing and securing outside revenue totaling $24 million, resulting in the renovation and construction of a number of facilities.

Capital projects from this funding include the expansion and enhancement of the Hale Center, allowing it to become one of the finest of its kind nationally, with an expansive strength and conditioning facility, a state-of-the-art training room and academic support facilities which include classrooms, study rooms and computer labs. Rutgers Stadium has enjoyed significant enhancements under Mulcahy's watch, as well, and now features a state-of-the-art scoreboard and Field Turf playing surface, all helping to ensure the best possible experience for student-athletes and fans.

Other projects have resulted in a modern, state-of-the-art academic support laboratory in the Louis Brown Athletic Center (the "RAC"), as well as an expanded weight training complex, and a modern media headquarters and interview facility. Office space for coaches and administrators was a priority that has come to fruition, allowing the senior athletic administration to be centrally located in the RAC for the first time, while future plans call for the continued upgrading of the RAC.

Mulcahy has made significant upgrades in many areas of the academic support program, including computer labs and tutorial services, and those enhancements have been reflected by gains in the classroom by student-athletes. The division remains committed to its goal of exceeding the grade point average of the general student population. Programs such as the comprehensive RU Strong/LifeSkills have been bolstered to help ensure a positive and meaningful experience for the Rutgers student-athlete.

Under Mulcahy's leadership, Rutgers student-athletes are committed to community involvement. Among the many projects they organize and participate in are the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee annual Holiday Toy Drive, Student-Athlete Blood Drives, the Read Across America program, and area hospital visits.

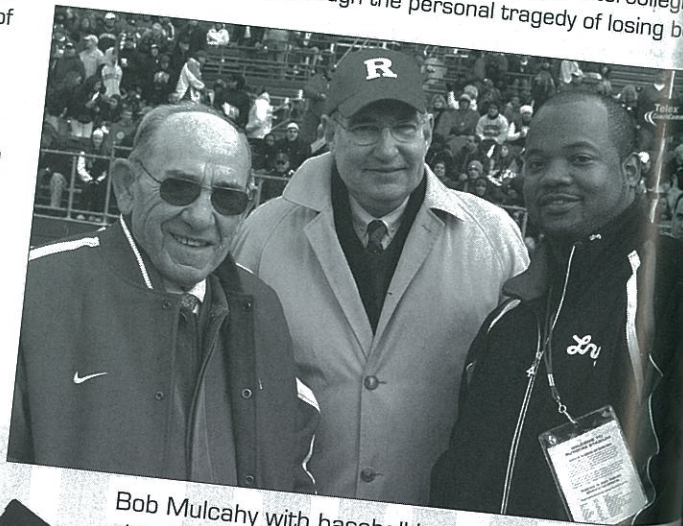

The Annual Report, which chronicles the division's achievements and goals and was produced for the first time ever following the 1999 academic year under Mulcahy's direction, includes the cumulative grade point averages of each varsity team.

Mulcahy has also overseen the institution of a comprehensive marketing and promotional plan to further increase corporate recognition and enhance the overall image of the athletic program. Corporate support has risen each year during Mulcahy's administration, and the division continues to expand as Rutgers Athletics maintains its sponsorship with one of the nation's leading firms, Nelligan Sports Marketing. All the while, the Rutgers athletic program continues to improve on the field of play.

In the 2005-06 academic year, the Scarlet Knights' football team finished with a 7-4 regular season record, a third-place finish in the BIG EAST Conference, and made its first post-season appearance in the Insight Bowl. The women's basketball team completed the BIG EAST regular season schedule with a perfect record and earned its second consecutive BIG EAST championship. Two Scarlet Knights, Cappie Pondexter (WNBA) and Quincy Douby (NBA), were first-round draft choices in their respective sports. Pondexter was a consensus first-team All-America selection and Douby led the BIG EAST in scoring and was named first-team All-Conference.

Other standouts from the 2005-06 season included Kelly Harrigan, who guided the Rutgers women's swimming team to its best finish ever in the BIG EAST Swimming and Diving Championships while earning All-America honors for a second straight year, and jumper Shameka Marshall from the women's track and field team, who earned All-America status after a runnerup finish in the NCAA Championships.

Perhaps the grit and determination that personifies Rutgers athletics is no better exemplified than by gymnast Lauren Sisler. In July 2006, Sisler was the recipient of the Wilma Rudolph Student-Athlete Achievement Award, presented by the National Association of Academic Advisors for Athletes (N4A), an award to honor student-athletes who have overcome great personal, and/or emotional obstacles to achieve academic success while participating in intercollegiate athletics. Sisler suffered through the personal tragedy of losing both within hours of each other during her freshman year, yet persevered through such trying times to raise her grade by almost a point and a half, and to become one of the gymnastics' top performers by the time she graduated from Rutgers.

Mulcahy has also been a leader in the strategic development of the reconfigured BIG EAST Conference. Following the documented membership defections, the BIG EAST acted swiftly and resolved to emerge as a powerful team league, including eight institutions competing in Division I-A football as well as members.

Mulcahy came to Rutgers on April 1, 1998, after an extraordinary 19-year tenure as President and CEO of the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority. Under Mulcahy's leadership, the NJSEA developed into the nation's premier sports and entertainment venue at the Meadowlands included establishing New Jersey as the home of the finest college athletic competition in the country, including the creation of the Kickoff Classic Football Game, attracting the Army-Navy game to the facility on three occasions, and hosting eight NCAA Men's Basketball Eastern Regionals and the last Final Four game to be held in an Arena, in 1996. Mulcahy led the negotiations that resulted in the NHL's Devils, the NFL's Jets, and Major League Soccer's MetroStars calling the Meadowlands their home.

Mulcahy's leadership at the NJSEA helped develop legislation which led to it overseeing the reconstruction of Rutgers Stadium and building new soccer, lacrosse and track and field facilities in 1994. The Sports and Exposition Authority matured from primarily a horse racing and professional football business into a statewide engine for sports, entertainment and exposition development during Mulcahy's tenure. By the end of his tenure at the Meadowlands, the Sports Complex was hosting 600 events a year, drawing seven million visitors annually to such attractions as the Giants, Jets, Devils, Nets, and horse racing, as well as a broad variety of family shows and concerts.

Mulcahy's lifelong passion for scholastic and college athletics, and his undying commitment to public service, has not gone unnoticed. The New York Times described his tenure with the NJSEA as one of "quiet fervor and foresight, establishing the Meadowlands as one of the nation's leading sports and entertainment complexes." The Newark Star Ledger hailed the holding of the NCAA Final Four, an event that was co-hosted by Rutgers, in New Jersey as "the miracle of the Meadowlands."

Among his many professional affiliations, Mulcahy serves on the

In recognition of his years of service to the Garden States sports world, Bob Mulcahy was inducted into the prestigious New Jersey Sports Hall of Fame in 1999, joining such luminaries as Yogi Berra, Jerry Izenberg, Vince Lombardi, Bill Parcells, Willis Reed and Phil Simms.

Board of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, is Chair of its Awards Committee, is an honorary member of the American Football Coaches' Association, and serves or has served on the Boards of several business and charitable corporations.

Mulcahy, a graduate of Villanova University (AB in History, 1958), has received several awards from his alma mater, including the Medal of Excellence from the College of Arts and Sciences, the Alumni Medal, and the James "Jumbo" Elliot Achievement Award. Among other honors, his most prized awards include the Knight of St. Gregory medal, received from Pope John Paul II, and the Ellis Island Medal of Honor.

After 37 years in Mendham, Bob and his wife Terry relocated to Basking Ridge. They are the parents of seven children, and also have 11 grandchildren.

"Our goal continues to be graduating well-rounded student-athletes who can use the lessons learned in the classroom and on the field to become leaders in society. To continue to achieve our vision, we must ensure that our student-athletes are afforded the best possible opportunities in their highly-competitive environments. Our strategic plan, a larger endowment, and expanded, state-of-the-art facilities are cornerstones of this vision of excellence." - Robert E. Mulcahy, III

WHY SCARLET? WHY KNIGHTS?

WHY SCARLET?

Rutgers was a pioneer in establishing a college color, and a pioneer in using a color on the field of sport. The color scarlet was first proposed in the campus newspaper, The Targum, in May, 1869. It was adopted shortly thereafter. This color was chosen because it is a striking color and because a good scarlet ribbon could be easily obtained. From the time of its choice by the students, scarlet has been the Rutgers color.

College and university colors and coats of arms were not unusual in the old world but had been little-used in the new world. They came into large and vivid use only when athletics began to take rigorous hold in this country.

In the historic first collegiate football game on November 6, 1869, the Princeton team members watched the Rutgers men don turbans and kerchiefs as close to scarlet as possible for team identification.

Even without scarlet shirts, the headgear alone had added another "first," the custom of wearing caps of a team's college, one long-copied over the years of football uniform development.

Sports lore at Rutgers has also known terms such as "Scarlet Scourge" and the lasting "Upstream Rutgers!" from the first "big-time" grid venture under George Foster Sanford.

WHY KNIGHTS?

Since its days when the school was officially known as Queen's College, the athletic teams were referred to as the Queensmen. Officially serving as mascot figure for several football seasons beginning in 1925 was a giant, colorfully felt-covered, costumed representation of an earlier campus symbol, the "Chanticleer." Though a fighting bird of the kind with which other colleges have found success, to some it bore the connotation of "chicken." It is also a little-known fact that the New Brunswick-based broadcast station, WCTC, which serves as the flagship station of Rutgers athletics, had its call letters derived from the word "ChanTicleer." Chanticleer remained as the mascot and Queensmen as the nickname for some 30 years.

In the early 1950's, in the hope of spurring both the all-around good athletic promise and RU fighting spirit, a campus-wide selection process changed the mascot to that of a Knight.

By 1955, the Scarlet Knight had become the new Rutgers mascot. The Scarlet-garbed knight, riding a spirited white charger, came to represent a new era - the rejuvenation of first class football "On the Banks."

DOUG ALONGI 1993 ABCA THIRD TEAM

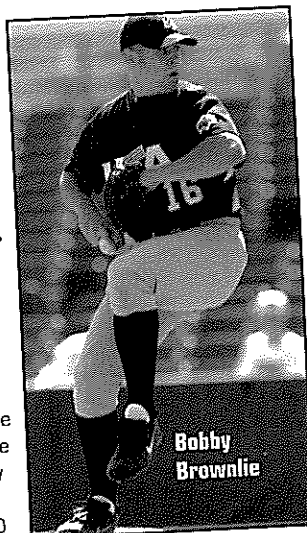

Alongi was one of two All-Americans on the 1993 squad, which was one of Rutgers' finest. He helped lead RU to a school record in wins (38) while finishing with a .371 batting average, nine home runs, 39 stolen bases and 143 total bases. He set RU single-season records with his stolen bases (39) and total bases (146). His nine HRs place him 10th on the all-time single-season list. Alongi also recorded 18 doubles and six triples, ranking him fourth and second on those single-season lists, respectively. Alongi made just one error in right field and led all RU outfielders with 14 assists. Alongi also claimed Atlantic 10 Player of the Year honors as well as ECAC and NJCBA recognition.

One of college baseball's biggest surprises in 2000, Bobby Brownlie arrived on the scene and emerged as one of the top young players in the nation. In 2000, Brownlie posted a 10-1 record, including a perfect 7-0 mark in the BIG EAST. He fired eight complete games and posted an ERA of just 2.55, fourth-best among all freshmen in the country. He was on the mound when Rutgers clinched the 2000 BIG EAST Regular Season Championship, outdueling Notre Dame's Aaron Heilman for the crown. He then collected two wins in the BIG EAST Tournament, including a 1-0, complete-game shutout of Seton Hall in the title contest. He closed his season with a 4-3 win over Army in the opening round of the NCAA Championship, running his win streak to 10 games and tying the single-season win mark at Rutgers. His 89 strikeouts established a new school record, and he allowed just a .247 opponent batting average.

JAKE DAUBERT 1998 LOUISVILLE SLUGGER FRESHMAN ALL-AMERICAN

Jake Daubert enjoyed a fine offensive season in 1998, batting .368 in his inaugural college season. In addition, he set or tied eight Rutgers records, the most impressive being the single-season RBI mark, which he eclipsed by knocking in 64 runs. Daubert was named Rutgers first BIG EAST Rookie of the Year and, at the end of the season, was named to the Louisville Slugger/TPX Freshman All-America squad.

Now the Director of Baseball Operations with the Scarlet Knights, Fenster is giving back to a program he starred out only several years ago. Fenster, a two-time All-American, became the first RU player to achieve First Team honors in 2000 since Jeff Torborg in 1963. Fenster led Rutgers in hitting for the second-straight season in 2000, posting a .433 average, which included a new school-record 101 hits in a season. Along the way, Fenster also set the school mark for career hits with 315, becoming the first RU player to reach the 300-hit mark. In addition to his 101 hits and .433 average, Fenster scored 59 runs, drove in 55, collected 23 doubles and hit a career-high four home runs. He also led the team with 182 assists at shortstop, committing just 10 errors.

In 1999, Fenster, known initially for his defensive work at shortstop, enjoyed a breakthrough offensive season in 1999, leading the team in batting with .424 average, including a .505 mark in conference action. Batting in the second spot in the order, Fenster provided stability to the Rutgers offense, which ended the season ranked seventh in the nation in team batting average. Fenster's .424 mark was the sixth-best single-season mark in Rutgers history and his .505 BIG EAST average was the best in 12 seasons. A model of consistency, Fenster hit safely in 50 of 56 starts, collecting 37 multiple hit games. He also continued to play flawlessly in the field, stabilizing the defense from his shortstop position for the third year in a row.

The 2001 Star Ledger (N.J.) High School Player of the Year, Frazier's adjustment to the college game came quickly. He was the first true freshman since Darren Fenster in 1997 to start the season opener and proceeded to start all 57 games in left field for the Scarlet Knights. After an 0-for-3 effort in the season opener, Frazier was 7-for-14 over his next three games and was hitting as high as .424 through the first 17 games of the season. After dipping to a season-low .353 on April 14, Frazier went on a seven-game tear from April 17 through April 26, raising his average to .392. He was 15-for-24 (.625) with seven home runs, 14 runs scored and 22 RBI during that span. In 2004, he hit a team-best .382 overall and .365 in BIG EAST play this season. He was among the league leaders in several offensive categories, including average (2nd), home runs (13, 2nd) and RBI (59, 3rd). He also led the league in hits with 79 and finished tied for third in doubles (16). Frazier was also third in slugging percentage (.657). He led the Scarlet Knights in batting average, at bats (207), runs (59), doubles, total bases (136), slugging percentage, hits, sacrifice flies (4), RBI, home runs, tying the single-season record he set in 2002. His single-season home run totals now rank second Frazier, the younger brother of former Rutgers All-American Jeff Frazier, had a standout rookie season with the Scarlet Knights in 2005. He was named a Freshman All-American by both Baseball America and Collegiate Baseball. He hit .295 from the leadoff spot last season and led the team in runs (61), home runs (9), total bases (111) and steals (19). He also posted a .392 on-base percentage and set a single-season school record for home runs by a lead-off hitter, passing current Kansas City Royals OF David DeJesus, who hit eight in 1999. The All-BIG EAST selectoin also made just seven errors in 11 starts at third base and 42 starts at shortstop. He hit safely in all but 12 games and reached base safely in 50 of 53 contests. He also had a 14-game hitting streak during the season which raised his average to .305.

Following a sophomore campaign where owned a .366 batting average, 83 hits, 14 doubles, three triples and 11 home runs for a .599 slugging percentage, the 2007 Preseason BIG EAST Player of the Year was also on several Preseason All-America lists. The versatile shortstop also walked 42 times, scored 62 runs and drove in another 51 runs, while stealing 21 bases on the season. He earned First Team New Jersey Collegiate Baseball Association (NJCBA) All-State honors for the second straight season in 2006. The 6-4, 215-pound slugger led Rutgers and was among the BIG EAST leaders in virtually every offensive statistical category. He has started every single game for Rutgers in his first two seasons and is approaching the top-10 in several career categories in the RU record book. He spent the summer playing for USA Baseball, helping them win a gold medal.

GLEN GARDNER 1986 ABCA/BASEBALL AMERICA

1987 COLLEGIATE BASEBALL THIRD TEAM

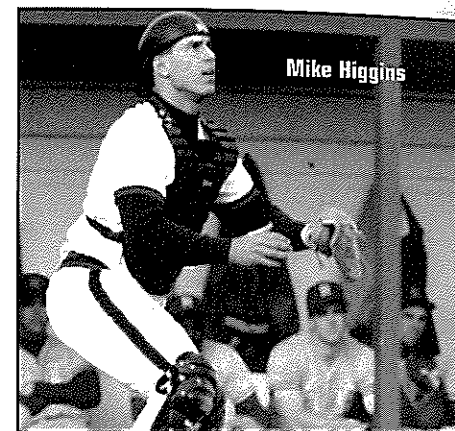

Now a coach with the Scarlet Knights, Gardner was one of the most outstanding outfielders in Rutgers' history and one of two Scarlet Knights to be chosen as two-time All-Americans. A 1986 Baseball America Freshman All-America, Gardner was second on the team in hitting that year with a .398 batting average while leading RU in hits (70), RBI (45), home runs (8), total bases (102), slugging percentage (.580) and on-base percentage (.470).

In 1987, Gardner followed his impressive debut by collecting Collegiate Baseball All-America honors. Gardner led the team in hitting at .368 despite missing 13 games with a hand injury. He finished second on the team in HRs (8) and RBI (45). Gardner also earned his second-consecutive Atlantic 10 and NJ honors as well as being named to the NCAA East Region first-team.

PETE HALL 1961 AACBC SECOND TEAM 1962 AACBC SECOND TEAM

Hall is another Scarlet Knight to garner multiple All-America honors. In 1961, the third baseman from Bound Brook led the Scarlet Knights in hitting at .397, runs (21), hits (31), RBI (30) doubles (6), home runs (4), and made just five errors while starting in every game.

MIKE HIGGINS 1993 ABCA THIRD-TEAM

Mike Higgins

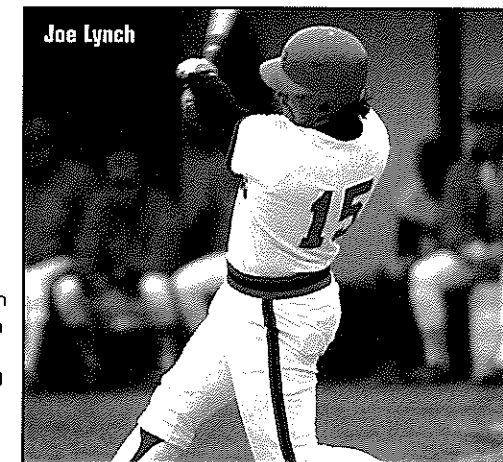

The Scarlet Knights' catcher battled Doug Alongi in almost every offensive category while captaining Rutgers during the 1993 season. He was second in hitting with a .370 average, drove in 56 runs, then a school record, tied Alongi for team honors with nine HRs and led the Scarlet Knights in doubles (20). His 39 walks and 20 doubles were both second on the all-time season record at that time.

JIM KOHL 1990 ABCA THIRD TEAM

Relief ace extraordinaire, Jim Kohl was one of the keys to Rutgers' run in the East Region, where it finished one game shy of the College World Series. Kohl finished with a perfect 8-0 record and three saves while appearing in 22 games and starting just two. Even more impressive may be his team low 1.85 ERA or the fact that he walked just eight batters in 39.0 innings. In the 1990 tournament, where Rutgers went 4-2, he recorded 8.2 innings of scoreless relief.

JOE LYNCH 1986 ABCA THIRD TEAM

As a designated hitter, Lynch was third on the Scarlet with a .364 average. He also smacked 3 HRs and drove in 30 runs. A captain in 1986, Lynch had 55 hits with 11 doubles and two triples. His .470 on base percentage tied for team honors as well. Lynch also collected All-District II, Atlantic 10 and All East honors.

Joe Lynch

SCOTT MADISON 1996 ABCA THIRD TEAM

After missing all of 1995 due to elbow surgery, Madison returned to the mound and made an impact by beating some of America's top teams on his way to an 8-3 record and a 2.33 ERA which was ranked 15th in the country. Madison earned first team All-BIG EAST honors and was the most dominant pitcher in the conference from the beginning of the season to the end. He finished 1996 with eight complete games and a school-record four shutouts. His 92.2 innings was the second-highest total in school history. Madison finished his career with a .722 (17-5) winning percentage which ranks eighth all time. He owns Rutgers records for shutouts in a season with four.

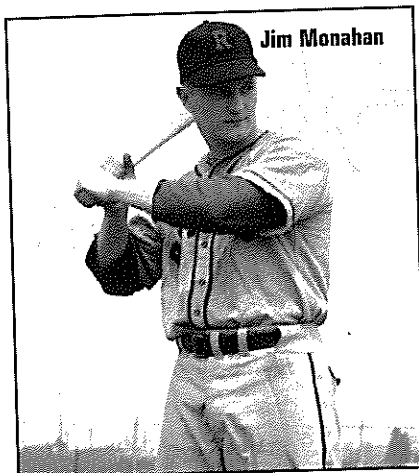

BILLY MCCARTHY

2001 NCBWA SECOND-TEAM

2001 COLLEGIATE BASEBALL SECOND-TEAM

2001 ABCA THRD TEAM

Billy McCarthy, from Washington Township, NJ, transferred to Rutgers in 2000 after two highly-successful seasons at Radford University. The move "back home" proved to be a beneficial decision for both RU and McCarthy. The junior right fielder batted a team-high .421 (20th best in the country) and added seven home runs, 21 doubles, 56 runs, 11 stolen bases and a team-high 65 RBI while playing exceptional defense and providing an all-out hustling style of play. His .421 average led the BIG EAST Conference. A First Team All-BIG EAST pick, McCarthy earned All-Tournament honors after an outstanding showing in the NCAA Regional in Lincoln, NE. At season's end, he was selected in the sixth round by the Atlanta Braves (195th overall) and signed a contract to play professionally.

Jim Monahan

JAMES MONAHAN

1952 AACBC FIRST TEAM

The Scarlet left fielder led the team with a .400 batting average, 26 hits and 17 stolen bases. He was second on the team in home runs with 2 and RBI with 18. Appearing in all 17 games, he made just three errors. He was also a member of the 1950 College World Series team.

MIKE O'BRIEN

1997 LOUISVILLE SLUGGER FRESHMAN ALL-AMERICA

A designated hitter/first baseman, Mike O'Brien was named to the Louisville Slugger Freshman All-America team, as announced by Collegiate Baseball.

O'Brien appeared in 38 games for the Scarlet Knights starting 31. He batted .302 with 11 doubles, six home runs and 36 RBI. His six home runs were the most by an RU freshman since Angel Echevarria hit nine in 1990. He hit a robust .348 against the BIG EAST and was named to the BIG EAST All-Rookie team.

HARDING PETERSON

1950 AACBC FIRST-TEAM

Catcher Harding Peterson was the lone All-America choice from RU's 1950 College World Series team. Known for his defensive ability, he made just two errors behind the dish in 27 games. He hit a respectable .276 while driving in 23 runs which tied for second on the team.

JEFF TORBORG

1963 AACBC FIRST TEAM

A 1963 All-America choice, he set the school record for batting average (.537). His slugging percentage that year (1.032) is also a single-season standard. He led the 1963 Scarlet Knight team with 21 RBI and six home runs. In his three-year career, Torborg batted .390 and set the career slugging percentage mark at .684. In his career, the Scarlet Knights were 40-13-1.

RAY VAN CLEEF

1951 AACBC FIRST TEAM

Centerfielder Ray Van Cleef was chosen by American Association of College Baseball Coaches following his senior season where he batted .378, scored 22 runs and smacked two triples - all team-highs. He made just one error in center while playing in all 23 games. In 1950, Van Cleef paced the Scarlet with a lofty .404 average, 44 hits, 15 extra-base hits, 35 runs and 18 stolen bases. He was a first-team District II choice and the MVP of National Baseball Tournament.

PETE ZOCCOLILLO

1998 NCBWA THIRD-TEAM

1999 NCBWA THIRD-TEAM

1999 RAWLINGS/ABCA SECOND-TEAM

Zoccolillo, one of three players to earn All-America honors in two consecutive seasons, was named to the 1998 NCBWA Third Team, 1999 NCBWA Third Team and Rawlings/ABCA Second Team during his final two seasons. In 1998, Zoccolillo was the team's top offensive threat, slugging a club record 12 home runs while knocking in 59 runs and batting .387. He followed up his outstanding 1998 season with a record-breaking 1999, setting 10 school records and two BIG EAST marks while leading Rutgers to back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances. He left the Rutgers baseball program as the all-time leader in eight offensive categories and the single-season leader in two others.

RUTGERS 1950 COLLEGE WORLD SERIES GAME-BY-GAME RECAP

The Scarlet Knights opened play on Thursday, June 15 in the opening game of the tournament against defending national champion Texas (22-5)... Texas took a 2-0 lead in the second on Frank Womack's two-run homer, and Murray Wall pitched six shutout innings before giving up a run in the seventh... Trailing 2-1, Rutgers rallied to take the lead in the eighth, scoring three runs off Wall on three walks, two singles and an error... Wall walked home a run, and Rutgers first baseman Bob Suba stole home for another... Suba finished the game with three stolen bases, as Rutgers set a College World Series record with a total of seven for the game... Herman Hering steadied after giving up the early home run, and although he walked seven and struck out only one, he also allowed only three hits in going the distance for the win... Ray Van Cleef paced the attack, going three for four, as Rutgers won, 4-2.

Saturday, June 17, Rutgers faced Wisconsin in a second-round winner's bracket matchup before only 955 fans in steady drizzle... Tom Forster pitched a complete-game six-hitter, and Van Cleef went four-for-five with a double and a run scored to pace the Scarlet 5-3 win, and a 2-and-0 record in the tournament.

On Monday, June 19, Rutgers met Washington State in the winner's bracket final... The game was a terrific pitcher's duel between Al Willenbrock for Rutgers and Rod Keogh for the Cougars... Willenbrock gave up an early home run to Ted Tappe of the Cougars, but the Scarlet tied it in the fourth on a triple by Jim Monahan and an infield out... That would prove to be the only hit off Keogh, but he walked eight and was frequently in trouble... In the seventh, Rutgers loaded the bases, with Willenbrock up... without warning, [Rutgers later said it was not a called play], the runner on third tried to steal home and was tagged out... As he broke, the runner on second started toward third, then hesitated, and was eventually run down and tagged out to complete an unusual double play, killing the potential rally... In the top of the ninth, Washington State loaded the bases with no outs... Don Paul grounded sharply to third baseman Steve Kalapos, who threw home for the force there... catcher Hardy Peterson then threw to first to double Paul, and Suba, the first baseman, then spotted Gordon Brunswick, the runner at second, trying to make a surprise dash to home... Suba threw back to Peterson, who tagged Brunswick to complete the triple play... It was the second of three triple plays in the CWS... In the top of the 10th, Washington State finally broke through on an outfield error, hit batter and a two-run double by Terry Carroll to take a 3-1 lead, and Keogh completed his one hitter by retiring the side in the bottom of the 10th... Washington State improved to 3-0, and Rutgers fell to 2-1... Van Cleef, after going seven-for-nine in the first two games was held to 0-for-5...

On Wednesday, June 21, Rutgers came back from its one-hit outing to blow out Wisconsin 16-2... The Scarlet collected 11 hits, including two apiece by four different players, and the Badgers unraveled, committing seven errors... [Van Cleef was 1-for-6]... Herman Hering turned in his second complete game win of the tournament, scattering eight hits, and also contributed a triple and a single to the 11-hit attack... Wisconsin was eliminated at 2-2, and Rutgers joined Texas and Washington State at 3-1 [Texas had beaten the Cougars, 12-1, on Tuesday]. Washington State drew the bye into the championship game, and Rutgers faced Texas for the second time, on Thursday, June 22... The Scarlet went with second-round winner Tom Foster, but Texas knocked him out early, scoring three in the second, and five in the fourth on their way to a 15-9 win... Charlie Gorin went the distance for Texas, despite allowing 12 hits and nine runs, as the Longhorns out-hit Rutgers, 15-12... Texas went on to win the title over Washington State the next night, 3-0, while Rutgers finished third at 3-2... finishing the season at 17-4-1... Van Cleef was 2-for-4 in the final game to finish the CWS at .417 on 10-for-24, and was named the Most Outstanding Player.

RUTGERS HALL OF FAME

One of the oldest traditions at Rutgers University, the Scarlet Knight Baseball program has been successful for over 130 years. There have been 20 All-Americans, 12 trips to the NCAA Tournament and one trip to the College World Series. With all of this illustrious history, you can imagine that there have been several "special" players on "The Banks." Ten of those players have been selected to the Rutgers University Olympic Sports Hall of Fame which honors the best of the best in Rutgers' Sports. The baseball program has been represented in five of the last nine years - Eric Young (1999), Darrin Winston (2000), Matt Bolger (2001), Jim Monahan (2002) and Pete Zoccolillo (2004).

GLEN GARDNER '91

Gardner, one of the most prolific hitters in Rutgers baseball history, was elected after a stellar three-year career (1986-88), which saw him earn two All-America awards as well as collect a host of offensive records. Gardner, one of New Jersey's top all-time athletes, came to Rutgers from Immaculata High School, where he was a first-team All-State choice in both football and baseball. Following his freshman season, Gardner was named Freshman All-America by Baseball America. He was drafted after his sophomore season by the San Diego Padres in the 13th round of the Major League Baseball Amateur draft. He chose to stay at Rutgers for his junior season and that year set nine single-season offensive records and earned All-America honors from Collegiate Baseball. He was a three-time Atlantic 10 choice and a three-time New Jersey College Baseball Association honoree. Following his junior season, Gardner was drafted by the Atlanta Braves and he began a professional career in that organization. He ended his career as the Rutgers all-time leader in six offensive categories and ranked in the top 10 in four others.

PETE HALL '62

Hall is one of only two Scarlet Knights to twice earn All-American honors (1961 and 1962) in baseball. During his three letter-winning years (1960-62), the Scarlet Knights were 40-14-1. The former third baseman holds fifth place on the career batting average chart (.384) and second place on the career slugging average chart (.612) in the Scarlet Knight record book. Hall was a 1961 draft pick of the New York Yankees. Hall was the Upstream Award winner in 1962. In 1961, he led the team in hitting (.397), runs (21), hits (31), RBI (30) and made just five errors in starting every game.

HARDING PETERSON '50

Peterson, the backstop for the 1950 Rutgers College World Series team, was a second-team All-America selection by the American Baseball Coaches Association and a first-team District II choice that year, as well. Known for his defensive ability, Peterson made just two errors in 27 games in 1950 while hitting .276 (27-98), with 21 runs, 23 RBI (second on team), 4 doubles and 2 triples. His best season as a collegian was in 1948, when he hit for a .312 average (10-32) with 7 RBI and 3 doubles. In his three varsity seasons, Peterson led his teams to a combined 57-16-2 record, highlighted by a third-place finish in the 1950 College World Series. Following his career at Rutgers, Peterson signed as free agent with Pittsburgh Pirates in 1950 but had his career interrupted by Korean War service. Following the war, Peterson played four years with Pirates until a broken arm in a home plate collision hastened his retirement. A well-respected baseball man, Peterson spent over 30 years with the Pirates, including stints as a player (4 years), manager (9 years), farm director and scouting director. He was named VP for player personnel in 1976 and named executive VP in 1979 and is possibly best known for the trade of C Manny Sanguillen to Oakland A's for manager Chuck Tanner in 1976. His dealings helped bring the Pirates their World Series Championship in 1979. Peterson also spent two years with the Yankees - and was a Co-General Manager in 1990 and two more years with San Diego as a scout.

JEFF TORBORG '63

Jeff Torborg was a 1963 All-American and set the school record for season batting average (.537) that year, which was the national leading average for 100 at bats and under. His .537 average was the highest ever recorded up to that time and since then, only two college players have hit for a better average. His slugging percentage that year (1.032) is also a single-season standard. In 1963, he led the team with 21 RBI and six home runs. A draft choice of the Los Angeles Dodgers, he played 10 seasons in the major, seven with the Dodgers and three with the California Angels. He caught three no-hitters, a perfect game with Sandy Koufax and another no-hitter with Bill Singer of the Dodgers and Nolan Ryan of the Angels; and was the backstop in Don Drysdale's record fifth straight shutout in 1968. He was a successful manager with the Chicago White Sox, the Cleveland Indians and the New York Mets, winning the Baseball Writer's Association, Associated Press, United Press International and The Sporting News Manager of the Year award. In his three-year career from 1961-63, the Westfield, NJ native batted .390, his number (#10) was retired in 1992. He still holds the career slugging percentage mark of .684. During his career, the Knights were 15-4-1, 14-4 and 11-5 for a three-year mark of 40-13-1 (.741 winning percentage).

RAY VAN CLEEF '52

Van Cleef was a two-time All-American in baseball, garnering first-team accolades from the American Association of College Baseball Coaches in 1950 and 1951. In the process, he became the first Eastern player to repeat as an All-American. A veteran of two NCAA Tournaments, he was the starting centerfielder on the 1950 Rutgers team which advanced to the College World Series. He batted .458 (11-24) in the series en route to MVP honors, while leading the Knights to a co-runner-up finish. Van Cleef batted .404 that season, his junior year, and followed it up with a .378 mark in 1951. He currently ranks second in career batting average at Rutgers. He set the Rutgers single season record for triples with seven in 1950 and stands second in career triples with 13. Van Cleef is also third in career slugging percentage with a .606 mark. The Knights were 50-21-2 his three varsity years. He also won three letters in basketball and one in soccer.

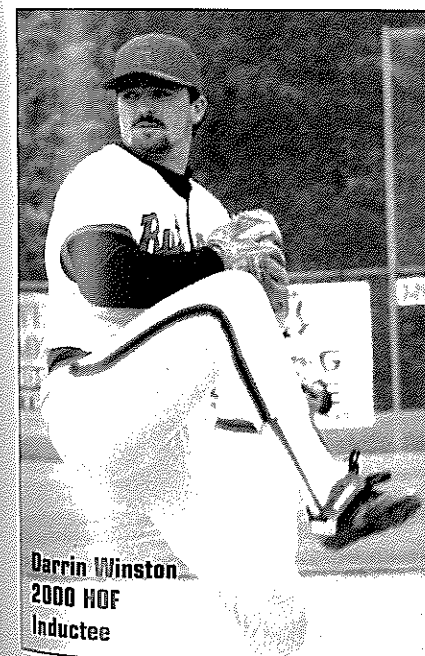

ERIC YOUNG '89

Eric Young was a two-sport stand-out (football, baseball) at Rutgers, earning three letters in baseball (1987-89). Young batted over .300 in each of his three seasons, including a career high .337 as a senior in 1989. During his career on the diamond, Young was a two-time Atlantic-10 All-Conference selection and led Rutgers to an Atlantic-10 Championship and NCAA berth in 1988. Young graduated from Rutgers as the career runs, triples and stolen base leader, setting a then single-season mark with 28 thefts in 1989. At the conclusion of his Rutgers career, Young was the recipient of the Coursen Award in 1989 and was selected by the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1989 amateur draft. Young made his major league debut with the Colorado Rockies in 1993 and was selected to the 1995 All-Star game. A nine-year major league veteran with a .283 career average, Young played last season with the San Diego Padres and the Texas Rangers.

DARRIN WINSTON

Darrin Winston received his nod in 2000. Winston was a four-year letterwinner at Rutgers from 1985-88, and concluded his career as one of Rutgers' all-time winningest pitchers. A left-hander, Winston was a three-time team MVP, and led the Scarlet Knights to two berths in the NCAA Tournament, as well as the 1988 Atlantic 10 Championship. He was an all-region selection in 1988 after posting a 10-4 record with a 3.74 ERA, and was the MVP of the A-10 Tournament that year. At the time of his induction, Winston was the Rutgers leader in several statistical categories, including career wins (26), career innings pitched (278), career strikeouts (176), career complete-games (8), and single-season wins (10). Originally from Woodbridge, NJ, Winston was drafted by the Montreal Expos and later pitched in the major leagues for the Philadelphia Phillies.

MATT BOLGER, HEAD COACH

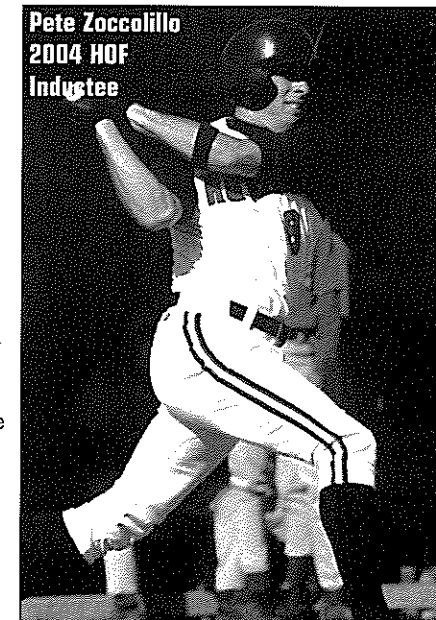

Matt Bolger spent 22 years at the head coach of the Scarlet Knights baseball team, compiling a record of 288-245-7 during his career. A 2001 Olympic Sports Hall of Fame Inductee, Bolger led Rutgers to three NCAA Tournaments in a five-year span from 1966-1970, and posted his best season in 1961, when the Scarlet Knights finished with a 15-4-1 record. A two-time Coach of the Year honoree by the New Jersey Collegiate Baseball Association, Bolger mentored several major league draft picks, including former first-round pick Jeff Torborg. A past President of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches, Bolger is a member of the AACBC Hall of Fame, as well as the Newark Hall of Fame and the St. Benedict's Prep Hall of Fame. Bolger, who coached at Rutgers from 1961 through 1983, was the school's all-time winningest coach in any sport at the time of his retirement.

JIM MONAHAN ('52)

Jim Monahan was a key member of the 1950 Rutgers baseball team which advanced to the College World Series for the first and only time in school history. Monahan was among the offensive leaders in five categories in 1950, while his best season came in 1952. That year, Monahan earned First Team All-East and First Team All-America honors after hitting .400 with a team-high 17 stolen bases and 18 RBI, second-best on the team. Rutgers enjoyed a 41-19-1 record during his four seasons, including a 17-4-1 mark during that memorable 1950 campaign.

PETE ZOCCOLILLO ('00)

In 2004, the baseball program had its most recent induction when Pete Zoccolillo was enshrined in the Olympic Sports Hall of Fame. Zoccolillo held 10 career and single-season records, including career hits, RBI, home runs and total bases. A four-year starter, he earned All-BIG EAST honors each year and was a two-time All-American, leading Rutgers to the 1998 BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament championship and NCAA Tournament berths in 1998 and 1999. As a senior in 1999, he set the school and BIG EAST single-season record with 72 RBI, while hitting .418. Drafted by the Chicago Cubs in 1999, he made his Major League debut with the Milwaukee Brewers in 2003 and was a AAA All-Star in 2004 as a member of the Oklahoma City Red Hawks. He later since signed a free agent contract with the St. Louis Cardinals and last February signed with the Colorado Rockies. He played for the Cardinals' AAA affiliate Memphis Redbirds in 2005, hitting .261 with nine home runs and 34 RBI in 79 games. In 2006, he played for the Italian National team in the World Baseball Classic.

MAJEWSKI GOES FROM LITTLE-KNOWN WALK-ON TO CAMDEN YARDS OUTFIELD

The story of Val Majewski's rise from walk-on to MLB draft pick during his Rutgers career is well-chronicled and his story is one that is heard annually in college baseball. Majewski falls into the category of players who improve dramatically during their college years. Even more impressive than his rise at Rutgers has been his rise through the Baltimore Orioles farm system. Drafted in June of 2002, it took Majewski just over two years to make his debut in a Baltimore Orioles uniform, following two-plus outstanding seasons in the minor leagues.

"Playing at Rutgers was a great experience because Coach Hill places such a huge emphasis on the fundamentals," said Majewski. "Sometimes, it can seem a bit repetitive, but when you get to the pros and see all the guys around you who don't have good fundamentals, you appreciate it really quickly. I think my fundamentals and baseball instincts are a direct result of playing at Rutgers under Coach Hill and the way he runs his program."

Recently named the Orioles' Minor League Player of the Year, Majewski had his stint in Baltimore cut short due to injury, but had enough of a taste to work tirelessly for a return. Now fully healthy, Majewski has his sights set on a speedy return to the big leagues.

"Looking back on my high school days, it is definitely strange to think about a time when no one except Rutgers was really interested in me," said Majewski. "My parents and coaches always told me to work hard and that I needed to earn things in life. I am thankful for that. Playing professional baseball is always something I've wanted to do and I know better than anyone how fortunate I am right now."

DEJESUS TURNING INTO A MAJOR LEAGUE STAR

From the time he arrived in Piscataway as a skinny freshman in the fall of 1997, David DeJesus played with the natural grace of someone destined for big things. The way he ran the bases, the way he threw and the fluidity of his swing made DeJesus a real-life "Natural".

As a freshman in 1998, DeJesus earned All-Rookie honors from the BIG EAST and helped lead Rutgers to its first-ever BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament Championship. On a team laden with seniors, DeJesus fit right in, hitting .297 overall (.310 in BIG EAST games) in 39 starts. Those close to the program were well-aware of DeJesus' talents, but word began to spread quickly around the East Coast.

As a sophomore in 1999, DeJesus rewrote the Rutgers and BIG EAST record books, crossing the plate a school and conference-record 85 times in 58 games, while hitting .373 with 20 doubles, six triples, eight home runs, 45 RBI and 20 stolen bases from the leadoff spot.

After venturing to the Cape Cod League in the summer of 1999, where he earned All-Star honors, DeJesus returned to Rutgers as a junior in 2000 and was among the most closely-watched outfielders in the country by Major League Baseball scouts. Another stellar season (.368, 21 doubles, 2 home runs, 37 RBI, 18 stolen bases) was cut short by injury in the NCAA Tournament, but not before DeJesus led the Scarlet Knights to the BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament championships.

In the opening game of the NCAA Regional at Upper Montclair, hosted by Rutgers, DeJesus collided with the Army second baseman on a steal attempt, fracturing a bone in his forearm. He missed the remainder of the weekend, as Rutgers bowed out of the NCAA Tournament in just three games with its offensive catalyst on the bench.

Despite the injury, DeJesus was drafted in the fourth round by the Kansas City Royals, although he did not play during his first pro season, instead letting his arm fully heal. Ready to return for the 2001 season, DeJesus tore a ligament in his throwing arm during spring training and was forced to undergo "Tommy John" surgery, sending him to the sidelines once again.

"It was really frustrating for me to not play right away and deal with so many injuries," said DeJesus, while accepting his American League Rookie of the Year Award at the annual New Jersey Sportswriters Luncheon.

Fully healed yet again in 2002, DeJesus embarked on his professional career just a few short miles from New Jersey - with the Class A Wilmington Blue Rocks in Wilmington, Del. Joined on the Blue Rocks' roster by fellow Scarlet Knight Darren Fenster that season, DeJesus didn't miss a beat, hitting .296 and earning Carolina League All-Star honors before earning a promotion to the Wichita Wranglers, the Royals' AA affiliate, where he hit .253 in 25 games.

"Dave came back and picked up right where he left off," said Fenster. "He was so sharp right from the start and had a big year in Wilmington. I think he really opened a lot of people's eyes with how natural he looked after basically missing two years."

Displaying the same natural swing and athleticism that made him a highly-coveted prospect with the Scarlet Knights, DeJesus returned to Wichita to start the 2003 season and hit .338 in 17 games before moving up to AAA Omaha, where he hit .298 in 59 games before earning a promotion to Kansas City when the rosters expanded in 2004, although he missed some time with a shoulder injury sustained in spring training. In the middle of a pennant race, DeJesus played in just 12 games, with seven at bats, but got a taste of what lied ahead.

"It was great to be with the team during the pennant race," said DeJesus. "There were some pretty intense games down the stretch."

The offseason in Kansas City was spent dealing with Carlos Beltran trade rumors - with DeJesus as his replacement in centerfield. DeJesus started the 2004 season in Omaha but was called up in late April to fill a void in left field. Things, for the first time in DeJesus' career, did not go according to plan as he struggled along with just one hit in 23 at bats (.043) before heading back to Omaha.

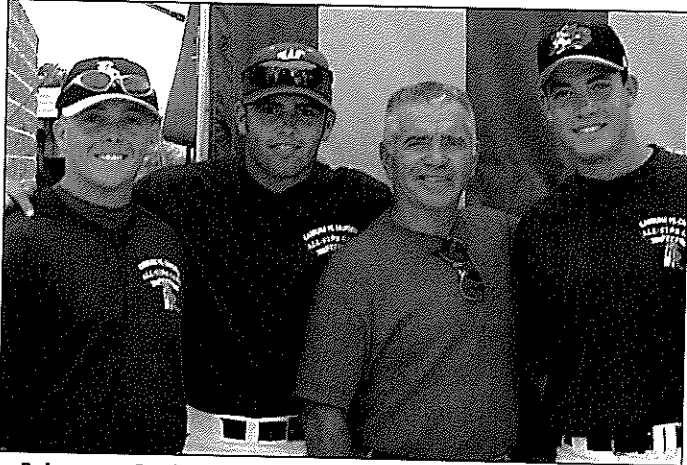

"That was tough to deal with," said DeJesus. "I just couldn't get on track and began to press. When I went back to Omaha, it took me a while to relax but once I did, I started to hit again and things fell back into place."

Following the trade of Beltran to the Astros, DeJesus was recalled once again and handed the starting centerfield job - with no pressure or worry of someone else taking his playing time. He thrived in his second tour with the Royals, hitting .359 in August and earning rave reviews for his plate discipline, defense and hustle. DeJesus found a home in centerfield for the Royals, although his path there was one he is more than happy to leave behind.

"Between the injuries and the horrible start in 2004, I think I grew as a person and as a player," said DeJesus. "I learned a lot about the game, but more importantly, I learned a lot about myself. Playing through injuries and adversity makes you stronger and the second time I was more prepared for the challenges."

DeJesus returns for his third season as the Royals' starting out fielder in 2007, after a stellar 2006 campaign. After signing a multi-year extension, he hit .295 as the Royal's leadoff hitter and was among the league leaders in batting average among outfielders last season. DeJesus ranked second on the Royals roster in walks with 59, while ranking third in RBI with 56 and batting average. He owns a .292 career average in four seasons in the majors.

Most baseball pundits predict a long and productive career in the Major Leagues. And for those who witnessed DeJesus' development during his years at Rutgers, no one should be surprised.

DeJesus as a Carolina League All-Star in 2002, joined by Wilmington teammate Darren Fenster, former RU outfielder Billy McCarthy and head coach Fred Hill.

RUTGERS ALUM ZOCOLILLO IN WORLD BASEBALL CLASSIC

Former Rutgers baseball All-American Pete Zoccolillo joined a number of Major League Baseball All-Stars in the World Baseball Classic last spring.

Zoccolillo, who starred at Rutgers from 1996-1999, played for the Italian team in the event. The tournament matched the best baseball players from around the globe against one another last March. Zoccolillo's Italian team finished 1-2 in the tournament, placing third in its pool which featured the eventual semifinalist Dominican Republic. Italy opened competition with a 10-0 victory over Australia - a game in which Zoccolillo started in as the designated hitter, walking twice and scoring a pair of runs. Italy, however, followed the victorious opener with losses to Venezuela and the Dominican Republic, bowing out of the tournament in the opening round.

"It was a great opportunity," said Zoccolillo. "It was exciting to be selected to play in this prestigious tournament and represent the country of my family's heritage. I played against the best players in the world. It was a great experience that is run by the best in the business. I played on the center stage of the world."

Zoccolillo, who spent last winter working out at both Rutgers and a facility in Randolph, N.J., joined his Italian team for an abbreviated training session at the Detroit Tigers facility prior to the tournament.

He was part of an Italian team that included David Dellucci, Mike Piazza, Frank Catalanotto, Matt Mantei and Mike DiFelice, among others with Major League Baseball experience.

Zoccolillo made his major league debut during the 2003 season, playing in 20 games with the Milwaukee Brewers. He was originally drafted by the Chicago Cubs following the 1999 season and was traded to the Brewers in 2001.

At Rutgers, Zoccolillo was a three-time All-BIG EAST First Team honoree and a two-time All-American. He graduated as the team's career or single-season leader in 10 offensive categories and still leads in career RBI (191) and single-season RBI (72). He posted a .376 career batting average at Rutgers and is second all-time in hits (285) and home runs (32). As a senior in 1999, Zoccolillo batted .418 with 22 doubles, 12 home runs and 72 RBI.

"I was proud to represent Rutgers on an international stage," said Zoccolillo. "I am still close with several of my former teammates there and remain close with the coaching staff. A lot of Rutgers players have been drafted since I was there and many guys are having success in the professional ranks."

VISIT THE ALL NEW SCARLETKNIGHTS.COM

The screenshot shows the Rutgers Baseball website interface. At the top, it says 'The Official Website of Rutgers Baseball' and provides the URL 'http://scarletknights.com/baseball/'. The main navigation bar includes links for 'MEN'S SPORTS', 'WOMEN'S SPORTS', 'TICKETS', 'FACILITIES', 'TRADITION', and 'SHOP SCARLET'. A large 'R BASEBALL' logo is on the left. Below it, a sidebar lists categories like 'SCHEDULE/RESULTS', 'NEWS', 'ROSTER', 'STATISTICS', 'COACHING STAFF', 'HISTORY', 'SIDELINES', 'CAMP', 'INSIDE RU ATHLETICS', and 'DONOR INFO'. The main content area features a large photo of a player swinging a bat, with the headline 'BIG EAST Honor Roll'. Below this, a news feed lists recent events, including Rutgers' victory over William & Mary and the 2007 BIG EAST Championship. At the bottom, there are advertisements for Bank of America, NJCURE, and Rutgers Athletics.

The new Rutgers Athletics website features video highlights, in-depth feature stories, photo galleries, up-to-the-minute RSS news feeds and so much more!

When you make a financial contribution in support of Rutgers Athletics you automatically become a member of the Scarlet R Club – an ever-growing team that is widely considered Rutgers' most passionate and loyal supporters. Composed of alumni, fans, parents, and students, membership in the Scarlet R Club provides every Rutgers fan with an opportunity to become a valuable part of the team.

Individually and collectively, Scarlet R members are powerful. Our student-athletes benefit annually from their generosity. Scarlet R members play a crucial role in the overall development of the athletic department. Last year over 165 scholarships, funded by members of the Scarlet R Club, were awarded. Today, Rutgers student-athletes benefit on the field from significant improvements in training facilities and in the classroom from enhanced academic support. Scarlet R members can take pride in knowing their unwavering belief and dedication to Rutgers Athletics makes them each team's MVP.

If you are interested in learning more about the ways you can become a member or renew your membership in the Scarlet R Club please contact the Department of Athletic Development. One of the staff members pictured below would be happy to provide you with all the information you need to make the best decision for you and for Rutgers.

Jason Kroll was named Associate Athletic Director for Development and Executive Director of Scarlet R on November 1, 2004. He is responsible for directing and managing a comprehensive fundraising effort in support of Rutgers Athletics and brings with him a record of outstanding achievement in fundraising and sports marketing.

 Since his appointment the Athletic Development team has worked with many generous, committed donors to raise more than $9 million for Rutgers Athletics. Included in this total is the single largest gift ever received from a living donor - $1.25 million from Ron and Pat Bainton to name the baseball field. In addition, Jason also helped to secure a $3.5 million gift which established the Richard H. Shindell Chair in Neuroscience and also brought $500,000 to the Rutgers Football Program.

The promotion of staff members, Lisa Gonzalez, Director of Athletic Development, Scarlet R Club, Tom Murray, Associate Director of Principal Gifts, and Josh Hodes, Associate Director of Athletic Development, Scarlet R Club stand as a testament to their individual and collective accomplishments to date.

Jason received his bachelor's degree from Drew University where he enjoyed four years of success on the baseball field as a student-athlete and for five years as an assistant coach. Jason holds a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Fairleigh Dickinson University.

FIELD OF DREAMS

Ron Bainton's friends in Bellevue, Nebraska, used to tease him about his football signed by Rutgers Coach Greg Schiano and inscribed Rutgers' #1 Football Fan in Nebraska. "It should have said Rutgers' only football fan in Nebraska, they would say," recalls the 1962 graduate of Rutgers College.

But things have changed some since last year's Insight Bowl appearance. The Scarlet Knights' gridiron glory prompted Bainton's Midwestern friends and neighbors to begin asking about Rutgers—not its football program but its academic standing. "Now people are considering sending their kids there," he says.

"That never would have happened without the university getting the exposure that came through the athletic program."

Now, if he and his wife, Pat, have their way, Rutgers is going to become even more well known outside of New Jersey, particularly in Omaha, which is home to the College Baseball World Series. This past January, the couple gave $1.25 million to Rutgers baseball. Their gift, which is the single largest one-time cash gift by a living donor to Rutgers Athletics, will be used to purchase and install FieldTurf, a synthetic surface used in professional and collegiate baseball and football stadiums across the country. The new field will be known as Bainton Field in their honor. It will provide the foundation for continued enhancements to the Frederick E. Gruninger and Class of 1953 Baseball/Softball Complex.

"Because of Ron and Pat's generous donation, we'll have one of the finest fields in the Big East," says Head Baseball Coach Fred Hill, "and it will enable us to stay competitive."

Currently, inclement weather can render the existing natural grass field unusable, particularly from January through March. "The FieldTurf will allow for use of the baseball field during those winter months, giving the team an opportunity to train outdoors before embarking on a schedule that includes many early season games with schools in the south," explains Jason Kroll, senior associate athletic director for development and marketing. "More times than not, we have been relegated to practicing on the gravel of a parking lot, or worse, inside on the floor of the RAC. The first time we step onto an actual baseball field each year is usually the day of our first regular season game. Having FieldTurf will change all of that."

"Over the years, Rutgers has been a darn good team," adds Bainton. "Coach Hill is one of the top coaches in the country and the student-athletes have phenomenal dedication. What Pat and I are trying to do with this gift is give them the opportunity to get to the highest level of Division I baseball."

The FieldTurf will also make postponement or cancellation of games scheduled at Rutgers much less likely due to an enhanced draining system and ability to dry faster than natural grass, Kroll notes. Consequently, fewer adjustments to the schedule means there will be less of a strain upon the student-athletes missing classroom time. The donors are also convinced that a better facility will help to keep New Jersey players in state while attracting others from out of state.

"You know the movie Field of Dreams," Bainton says. "If we build it, they will come. I really believe that." A baseball lover since childhood, Bainton remembers day trips into New York City from his home in Ridgewood to see major league games. After he and his wife moved outside of Omaha 10 years ago, their attention turned to college ball and they became fixtures at the College Baseball World Series. Year after year, they noticed that southern teams often dominated the finals. So when the University of Nebraska began making appearances in the final eight, Bainton had to investigate. Traveling to the school's Lincoln facility, he was bowled over by their field and decided Rutgers deserved nothing less.

This spring, the Baintons visited campus and met with the Scarlet Knights to explain their intentions. After warm thank-yous and handshakes all around, the couple stayed to watch the team warm up before their game against Lafayette. As they did, players made their way over to the couple individually to have a word.

"Jim Jansen, a senior pitcher, said, 'Sir, unfortunately I won't have the opportunity to play on this new field but I'm so thankful someone is doing this for Rutgers,'" Bainton recalls. "He was talking with us so long, Coach had to come over and tell him to go warm up!"

The Baintons also found out that a number of players have suffered injuries of varying degree while practicing in the parking lot over the years when the field was unusable. Some of those injuries, such as dislocated shoulders, have been season-ending, while others have contributed to the list of nagging ailments that can cause performances to suffer over the course of a season. The team let the Baintons know that, because of their gift, future athletes will be spared the risk of training on unsuitable ground. Making a difference in the lives of students isn't new to the couple. They have long sponsored scholarships for Rutgers College students who demonstrate academic merit and financial need; each year two juniors and two seniors receive Bainton Family Scholarships.

This year, in addressing those in attendance at the annual reception where students meet the donors who have helped them, Bainton shared his own background and explained why he and his wife take such pleasure in helping students with their education.

"It gives these students the opportunity to fully take in the Rutgers experience rather than having to drop out to earn more money for tuition," he says.

Financial hardship resonates with the philanthropist, who worked his way through school and relied on help from an older sister who never got the chance herself to attend college.

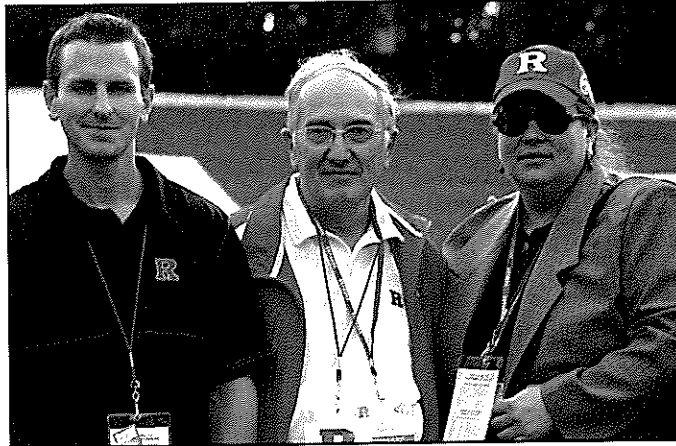

"We lived in a town where people did well economically, but my parents struggled through the Depression and the World War II years," Bainton recalls. "My sister was an honor roll student, but they couldn't afford to send her to college, and being a female at a time when colleges were focused on supporting ex-military with the GI Bill, she didn't get the opportunity to go."

A middle-of-the-road student in high school, Bainton flourished at Rutgers, he believes, because of the influence of three professors: the history department's Richard McCormick and Warren Sussman, and then University President Mason Gross, who taught philosophy.

"They opened my horizons beyond what I thought possible," he says. From there, he embarked on a 30-year career with the Air Force, retiring in 1992 as a colonel, and eventually moving into private financial consulting work. Throughout those years, Rutgers remained dear to his heart. Grateful to the school's administrative leaders and educators who have made his alma mater one of the best public research institutions in the country, Bainton is determined to do his part in stewarding this great state resource. Bainton Field, he says, is just the first step.

"After this is done, the goal is to move forward to get supporting pieces of the puzzle—practice areas, bull pens, batting cages, better dugouts, and finally a stadium effect for supporters," he says. "That's my view. The athletic program is important internally to the university and externally to the future of the university. Because of athletics, you won't hear anybody asking what a Rutgers is anymore."

THE BIG EAST CONFERENCE

In 2006-07, the BIG EAST will be in its second year as the nation's largest Division I-A conference. The first year with 16 members was wrought with curiosity among those in the world of collegiate athletics and in the media, but the league thrived in its new alignment, enjoying significant success in the athletic arenas, on the playing fields and in the classroom.

The goals of the BIG EAST have remained constant throughout its history – to compete at the highest level and to do so with integrity and sportsmanship.

In men's basketball last year, BIG EAST squads secured a league-record eight NCAA bids. Seven BIG EAST women's basketball teams earned NCAA berths. In football, West Virginia garnered the attention of the college football world with its victory over Georgia in the Nokia Sugar Bowl. The Mountaineers were the BIG EAST's representative in the Bowl Championship Series.

In 2005-06, the BIG EAST welcomed five new members to increase its membership to 16: University of Cincinnati, DePaul University, University of Louisville, Marquette University and the University of South Florida. Some were ready to call the new BIG EAST alignment too unwieldy, but the league showed that there can be strength in numbers even when that number is a large one.

BIG EAST institutions reside in nine of the nation's top 34 largest media markets, including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., Tampa, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Milwaukee and Cincinnati. With its newest members, BIG EAST markets will contain almost one fourth of all television households in the U.S.

Since opening its doors in 1979, the league has won 25 national championships in six different sports and 124 student-athletes have won individual national titles.

In 2005-06, Providence College's Mary Cullen won the NCAA 5,000-meters crown. Also, the Villanova women's cross country team was named the NCAA's Silver Anniversary Cross Country Program. The Wildcats have won seven NCAA team titles since 1981. Former Wildcat standout Carole Zajac was named the top individual performer of the women's cross country era.

The BIG EAST has always been able to boast that some of its best students are also some of its best athletes. More than 350 student-athletes have earned Academic All-America honors. Last year, West Virginia's Joe Herber was named the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-American of the Year in men's basketball.

The BIG EAST has continued its basketball success in the 21st century. In 2003-04, Connecticut became the first school in NCAA history to win the men's and women's NCAA titles in the same season. With the Syracuse men and the UConn women grabbing NCAA crowns the previous year, the BIG EAST became the first conference in NCAA history to win the men's and women's titles in consecutive seasons. In fact, the BIG EAST has won five of the last seven women's basketball crowns and three of the last eight men's titles.

Moving proactively has been a consistent strategy for the conference that was formed in 1979. The BIG EAST has continually turned challenges into opportunities to become stronger.

In the spring of 2001, the BIG EAST added women's lacrosse and rowing to its growing list of sports. The inaugural women's golf championship was held in the spring of 2003.

The BIG EAST became a reality on May 31, 1979, following a meeting of athletic directors from Providence College, St. John's, Georgetown and Syracuse Universities. Seton Hall, Connecticut and Boston College completed the original seven school alliance.

While the membership has both increased and changed, the focus of the BIG EAST has not wavered. The conference reflects a tradition of broad based programs, led by administrators and coaches who place a constant emphasis on academic integrity. The BIG EAST Conference has enjoyed a leadership role nationally. Its student athletes own significantly high graduation rates and their record of scholastic achievement notably show a balance between intercollegiate athletics and academics.

Any successful organization needs outstanding leadership. Michael Tranchese, the league's first full-time employee, and for 11 years the associate to Dave Gavitt, moved into the Commissioner's chair in 1990. In his first year, he administered the formation of The BIG EAST Football Conference.

The league has long been considered a leader in innovative concepts in promotion and publicity, particularly regarding television. Those efforts have resulted in unparalleled visibility for BIG EAST student athletes. The conference has enjoyed long-standing relationships with CBS, ESPN, Inc. and ABC.

While BIG EAST basketball games are regular sellouts at campus and major public arenas, including the annual men's BIG EAST Championship in Madison Square Garden, attendance figures also are significant at BIG EAST soccer, women's basketball and baseball games.

More than 550 BIG EAST athletes have earned All America recognition and dozens have won individual NCAA national championships. The BIG EAST has been well represented in U.S. or foreign national and Olympic teams. Several athletes earned gold medals in each of the last five summer Olympiads.

The BIG EAST has its headquarters in Providence where the conference administers to more than 5,500 athletes in 23 sports.

THE BIG EAST BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The BIG EAST Conference, in conjunction with Minor League Baseball's Brooklyn Cyclones, announced that the 2007 BIG EAST Conference Baseball Championship will be held at KeySpan Park in Brooklyn, N.Y. from Tuesday through Saturday, May 22-26. KeySpan Park is home to the Brooklyn Cyclones – the Short-Season Class A affiliate of the New York Mets.

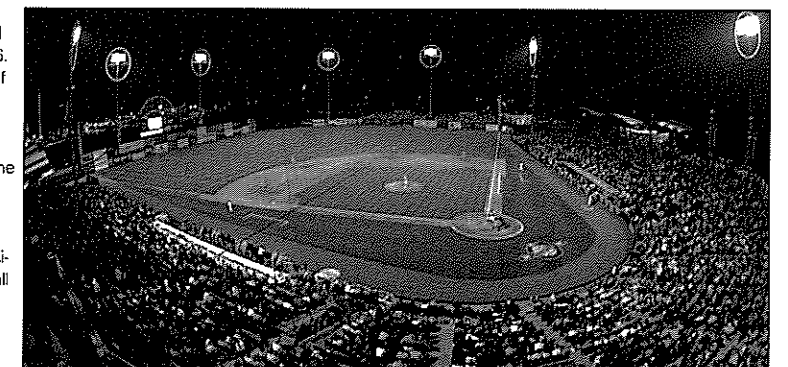

The league's top eight teams, based on regular-season finish in the conference standings, will qualify for the double-elimination event. The tournament champion receives the league's automatic bid to the 2007 NCAA Division I Baseball Championship.

"The BIG EAST is excited to bring its baseball tradition to a historic baseball city like Brooklyn," BIG EAST Commissioner Michael Tranchese said. "KeySpan Park is a beautiful and unique baseball facility and will be a great host for our 2007 BIG EAST Baseball Championship. We are looking forward to our association with the Brooklyn Cyclones and with a tremendous organization like the New York Mets."

"The Cyclones are thrilled to host the BIG EAST Championship at KeySpan Park," said Brooklyn Cyclones General Manager Steve Cohen. "The ballpark has been home to many of baseball's top prospects and we look forward to continuing that tradition as the BIG EAST teams compete for the 2007 title."

The selection of KeySpan Park in Brooklyn as the site for the 2007 BIG EAST Baseball Championship was made by the BIG EAST Championship and Competition Committee (CCC), which is empowered by all 16 athletic directors to take action on Olympic sport matters.

The BIG EAST Baseball Championship was held at Commerce Bank Ballpark in Bridgewater, N.J. for six straight years between 2000-05, before moving to Bright House Networks Field in Clearwater, Fla., last season.
