HEAD COACH FRED HILL

1998 BIG EAST & NJCBA Coach of the Year

FRED HILL

HEAD BASEBALL COACH

HIS PHILOSOPHY HASN'T CHANGED IN 22 YEARS AS A COLLEGE HEAD COACH. -- "IF YOU PLAY TO THE BEST OF YOUR ABILITY EVERY DAY, THE WINS WILL TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES."

FRED HILL ENTERS THE 1999 SEASON WITH A BIG EAST CHAMPIONSHIP FROM LAST SEASON AND EXPECTATIONS FOR SIMILAR FEATS THIS YEAR

He has spent 22 years coaching college baseball, seven at Montclair State and 15 at Rutgers University. In those 22 years, his teams have competed in 1003 games. When you add the countless practice sessions, the fall games, the clinics, the high school games, and the summer league games you realize that coach Fred Hill has seen a lot of baseball. And that doesn't include the previous years as a high school coach or his playing days. When you get right down to it, Coach Hill has been involved in baseball all of his life.

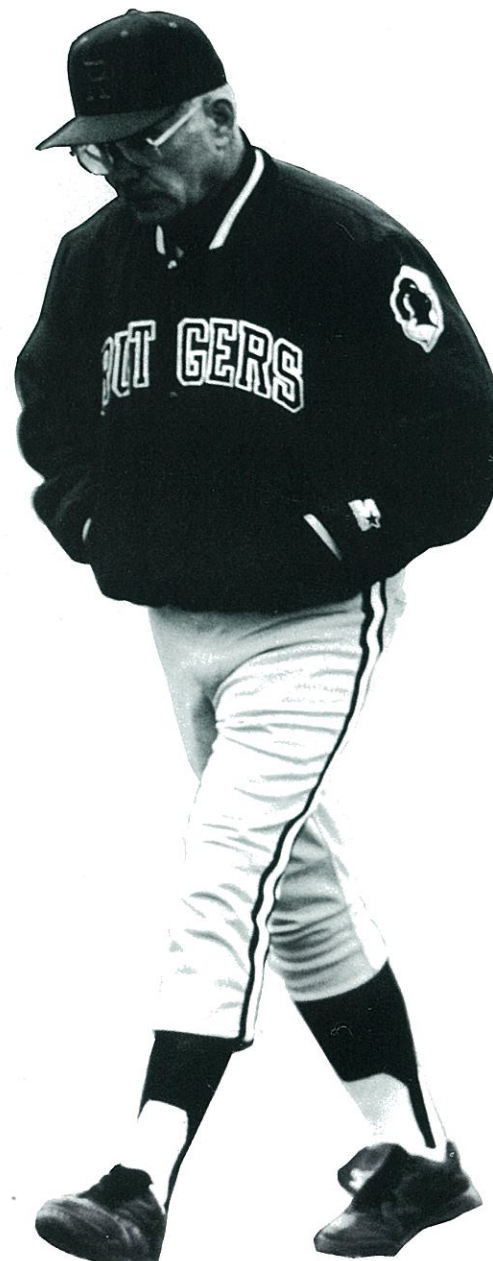

He remains as enthusiastic about the game as he did when he first started playing ball. His drive to raise the level of the Rutgers Baseball program sets standards. He has developed a formula for success, enjoying a run of 13 consecutive post season appearances, including a trip to the NCAA Tournament in 1998. But he is not satisfied.

His approach to coaching is not rigid yet flexible. One of his greatest strengths as a coach is his ability to assess talent and put players in the right position to succeed. To do that you need to be flexible, you need to be able to adjust and coach Hill does it better than anyone. After over 38 years of coaching from high school to college, Coach Hill still looks for new techniques, new drills, new ways to teach and communicate with his players. It is that desire to learn and improve that rubs off on his fellow coaches and players and places him among the elite coaches in all of college baseball.

He has seen several of his players go on to play professionally and the list of his former players who now coach the game is too long to recite. His legacy and aggressive coaching style is well-known and still growing throughout New Jersey.

He has seen some of his former players become among the highest draft picks in school history, including three in 1998 and two others who signed professional contracts as a free agents. In 1996, he became one of just a few coaches in history to see two of his former pupils achieve the highest level of success in two different sports. Former Scarlet Knight Eric Young was selected to play in the 1996 All-Star Game after an outstanding season at second base for the Colorado Rockies. In football, Sam Mills, a linebacker for coach Hill at Montclair State, has developed into a perennial Pro Bowler with the Carolina Panthers.

In his 22 seasons, Fred Hill has amassed 611 career wins and boasts a .611 winning percentage. He has won 463 of those games at Rutgers in 15 seasons and has a .614 winning percentage "On the Banks." In his 15 seasons, he has won over 30 games nine times and as many as 28 three other times. Hill has seen eight players earn All-America acclaim and 25 others earn All-Conference honors. His teams have constantly been in the national rank ings for excellence in defense and pitching. In fact, in 1996, the pitching staff's team ERA of 3.51 was ranked ninth in America.

Last season, the Scarlet Knights enjoyed one of the finest seasons in program history, winning both the BIG EAST Regular season and Tournament championship on the strength of a 33-16 overall record and a 17-3 mark in conference play. The Scarlet Knights came from the losers' bracket to defeat Notre Dame on consecutive days for the BIG EAST Championship. In the NCAA Tournament, Rutgers upset Auburn 17-15 in the opening round.

After years of dominating the Atlantic 10 (Rutgers won five league championships in 10 seasons), Rutgers stepped up a level of competition and has finished second in the BIG EAST National Division twice. He has also seen several Scarlet Knights honored by the BIG EAST with Pete Zoccolillo, Adam Neubart and Dave Marciniak earning First Team honors in 1998 and Mike Mundy picking up second team honors.

While constantly building the program on the field, Hill also works to build the program off the field with improvements in the baseball facility and in the classroom. Over the past two years, Rutgers has seen the overall grade-point-average grow in every semester. Last summer, Hill had the infield replaced through fund-raising and the baseball facility is another step closer to become one of the elite in college baseball.

He began his college baseball coaching career at Montclair State University, where he guided the Red Hawks to 148 wins and three post-season appearances. He led Montclair State to the Division III World Series in 1983 and was named District III Coach of the Year. After guiding the baseball program to its highest level, he left Montclair for a new challenge: to revitalize the Rutgers baseball program, which was once a dominant force in the East.

He started at Rutgers in 1984 and the positive results were almost immediate. In just his third season, he guided the Scarlet to the Atlantic 10 Championship and the NCAA Tournament. In the following seasons, he directed Rutgers to four more conference championships and NCAA Tournaments. Twice, Rutgers has won a school-record 38 games, the first time in 1988 and most recently in 1993.

In 1990, he took the Scarlet Knights to the brink of the College World Series, advancing the team to the finals of the East Region, ultimately losing to eventual national champion Georgia. To get to that game, Rutgers defeated three Top 20 teams (Maine, North Carolina, and Georgia) in successive games.

Not one to take individual credit for some lofty achievements, Hill credits his assistants, both current and former, as people who have had as much to do with Rutgers' success as anyone. He also credits his players. Time and time again, Hill cites his players' desire to work hard and become the best they can be, which trickles down from the head coach to his players.

During his tenure, eight players have earned All-America honors and 31 players have signed professional contracts, including 12 Scarlet Knights in the past five seasons.

As a collegiate star at Upsala, Hill earned an unbelievable 11 varsity letters. Four letters came in baseball, where he led the team in batting twice. Four more came in football, where he led the team in rushing four times and was named the football team's Most Valuable Back three times. Three more letters came in basketball, where he was voted Most Improved Player his senior year. Chosen as a Small College All-American following his final football season, Hill was honored by his alma mater in 1992 as a distinguished alumnus who has achieved excellence in his chosen profession.

After his graduation, he began his coaching career as freshman baseball coach at Upsala while also playing semi-pro baseball for the East Orange Soverals. His next move was to Clifford Scott High School, where he was an assistant baseball coach for five years and head coach for another six. During those six years, Hill led the Scotties to a 94-58 record, two state sectional championships, and also served time as an assistant football coach. He moved on to coach the Pequannock High School football team for four years and then returned to Upsala as an assistant baseball coach for three years.

In 1977, he was named head baseball and football coach at Montclair State. In his career with Montclair State, he developed the baseball team into a Division III power, winning 62 percent of his games and earning a trip to the Division III World Series. For those contributions and many more to the Montclair State Athletic Department, he was selected to their Sports Hall of Fame in 1991.

The tremendously successful and decorated head coach is just as dedicated to his family. He lives in Verona with his wife Evelyn and has six children: Nancy, Fred Jr., Linda, Jim, Tracey, and Karen. He and Evelyn also have five grandchildren: Jessica, Danielle, Brian, James and, the newest addition, Natalie. A coaching-rich family, Fred's brother Brian is the head coach of the Vancouver Grizzlies in the NBA and his son, Fred Jr., is an assistant coach of the Seton Hall University basketball team.

SCARLET KNIGHT ASSISTANT COACHES

GLEN GARDNER

Scarlet Knight Outfield Coach and Batting Coach (Eighth Season)

One of the finest student-athletes in Rutgers' sports history, Glen Gardner is now in his eighth season working as coach Fred Hill's right-hand man. He is the hitting and outfield coach and also assists coach Hill in overseeing the day-to-day responsibilities of the program. Coach Gardner has also become an outstanding recruiter, and Rutgers has brought in some of the finest recruiting classes in the BIG EAST over the past few seasons.

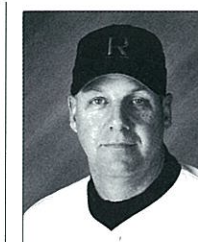

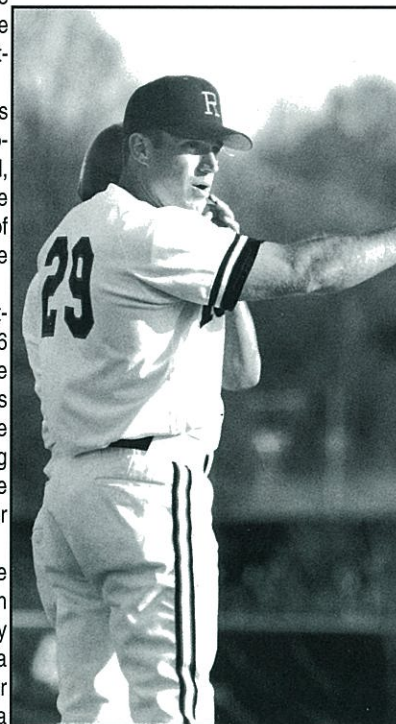

His strengths are his easy going nature and his ability to communicate with the players. His infectious, unyielding work ethic sets a standard for everyone in the program and his rewards come when his pupils match and eclipse his numerous Scarlet Knight hitting records.

One of the most prolific hitters in Rutgers' history, he was a two-time All-American selection and, in 1997, he was elected to the Rutgers Olympic Sports Hall of Fame -- an honor given to only the finest in Rutgers sports history.

In his three seasons as an outfielder, he compiled a career .356 batting average with 23 home runs, 141 RBI. All three numbers rank among the Rutgers all-time top 10. In all, he ranks among Rutgers' top 10 in 11 offensive categories and holds the career record for total bases (336).

After his junior year in 1987, the San Diego Padres drafted him in the 13th round. He opted to stay at RU and was selected by Atlanta the following year. Gardner advanced to Burlington, Iowa (Class A) in the Atlanta Braves organization before being struck in eye by a batted ball, which ended his career.

Under Gardner's tutelage, Rutgers has enjoyed several fine offensive seasons, including record breaking performances in 1997 and 1998. Also, several of Gardner's hitters have moved on to the professional ranks. Last season, Dave Marciniak, Chris Dorsett and Adam Neubart joined several of his other proteges, including Doug Alongi, Angel Echevarria and Mike Higgins, all of whom dot the Scarlet Knights' record book.

TOM BAXTER

Scarlet Knight Pitching Coach
(10th season)

One of the most recognized coaches in New Jersey, Tom Baxter is now in his 10th season as pitching coach with the Scarlet Knights. Baxter is also a tremendous asset to the program in recruiting, especially in South Jersey and Shore areas.

His success with the Scarlet Knight pitchers is unquestioned. In 1996, he saw the Scarlet Knight pitching staff finish with a 3.53 ERA, which was ranked ninth in the nation and two of the pitchers from that staff were among the highest draft picks in school history. Relief pitcher Bill Malloy was the first to go for Rutgers in the Major League draft, being selected by the San Francisco Giants in the eighth round. Junior left-hander Scott Madison, a third-team All-American, was then selected in the 12th round of the draft by the Tampa Bay Devil Rays. In all, seven Scarlet Knight pitchers have been drafted since 1990, when Baxter arrived on "The Banks."

A tremendously successful high school and collegiate pitcher, Baxter's strength lies in his ability to relate his experiences to today's pitchers. He was drafted by the New York Mets in the sixth round of the 1973 Major League Baseball draft, but accepted a full scholarship to the University of Miami, following a 16-0, All-State senior season at Bayonne (N.J.) High School.

In his freshman season at Miami, he helped lead the Hurricanes to the 1974 College World Series with an 8-3 record. In 1976, he was drafted by the Oakland A's in the first round of the draft. His career started off impressively with a no-hitter in his first career start, but a shoulder injury ended his professional career after just two seasons.

He joined Rutgers after an extremely successful career as a head baseball coach in Hudson County. In 1984, he began a three-year stint at Dickinson High School in Jersey City before moving on to Marist. He led Marist to the 1988 Parochial B State Championship.

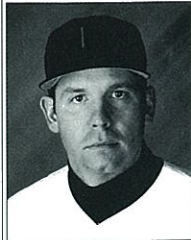

Tom and his wife, Terri, reside in Pt. Pleasant, NJ and have three children, T.J. (13), Mary Kate (11) and Claire (5).

ASSISTANT COACHES/SUPPORT STAFF

ROB VALLI

Scarlet Knight Volunteer Assistant Coach (First Season)

Rob Valli enters his first season as an assistant coach at Rutgers after serving as an assistant coach at The College of New Jersey for the past two years. Valli brings a wealth of experience to the Rutgers coaching staff and will work primarily with the catchers and hitters, in addition to coaching first base.

Valli began his coaching career as an assistant coach with the Trenton Schroths American Legion team in 1992 and from there, became assistant varsity baseball coach at St. Mark's High School in Wilmington, Delaware, a position which he kept for two seasons. After two seasons as an assistant coach at South Brunswick High School in 1995-96, Valli joined the staff at Gloucester Community College, helping the team to a #2 ranking in the nation during the 1997 season. In June of 1997, Valli was hired as a full-time assistant coach at The College of New Jersey, a position he occupied until coming to Rutgers. While at The College of New Jersey, Valli was responsible for all aspects of recruiting and supervised both the academic and strength and conditioning programs of its student-athletes. This past summer, Valli coached the Roberto Clemente All-Stars during a tournament in Puerto Rico.

Valli graduated from University of Delaware in May of 1994 with a B.A. in Health and Physical Education and then earned his Master of Education this past summer from the The College of New Jersey. Currently, Valli teaches elementary physical education in the South Brunswick school system and resides in Trenton, NJ.

Delores Sherwood

Administrative Assistant

One of the most vital cogs in the baseball program is Delores Sherwood. A 16 year veteran of the program, Dee works behind the scenes in a host of different areas. In her time with the Rutgers baseball program, she has become invaluable.

Mrs. Sherwood coordinates the team's travel plans, fundraising and post-season award banquets as well as handling the day-to-day administrative responsibilities. She is a big help to the Scarlet Knight parents who keep in constant contact with the team. On top of her duties with the baseball program, Mrs. Sherwood also carries out many of these responsibilities with the men's and women's tennis programs.

Dee and her husband, the late Donald Sherwood, are the parents of: Jeff, David and Doug, and have five grandchildren; Tim and Ryan, who are twins, Meaghan, Melissa and Mary Kate.

1999 SEASON PREVIEW

SENIOR PETE ZOCOLILLO WAS A UNANIMOUS
FIRST-TEAM ALL-BIG EAST CHOICE LAST YEAR

1999 SEASON OUTLOOK

Complacency is not an option. Coming off a season which produced some impressive results- a #30 ranking by Collegiate Baseball, a BIG EAST Regular Season Championship, a BIG EAST Tournament Championship, a 13th-consecutive postseason appearance, a trip to the NCAA Tournament, a BIG EAST Coach of the Year Award for Fred Hill, a BIG EAST Rookie of the Year honor for Jake Daubert and two All-America selections, the Scarlet Knights could very easily rest on their proverbial laurels. That will not happen in 1999, as Rutgers looks to become the first team to repeat as BIG EAST champions since St. John's turned the trick in 1985-86.

Head coach Fred Hill, in his 22nd season as a collegiate head coach and 16th season at Rutgers, returns seven starters to a team that won 30 of its last 37 games. Those seven position players will form the nucleus of a squad that was picked to finish third in the BIG EAST this season and was ranked #77 in the nation by Baseball America in a preseason poll.

"We are very enthused about the players we have coming back," said Hill. "Our major objective this season is to win the BIG EAST Championship and return to the NCAA Tournament. We have the potential for that kind of success with the people we have returning as well as some of the newcomers who will be asked to step in."

ROCK SOLID IN THE OUTFIELD WITH ADDITION OF ZOCCOLILLO

Cierniecki batted .350 in limited duty last season but will step in and stabilize the outfield. Flanking him will be DeJesus, a BIG EAST All-Rookie selection last season after hitting .297 in 46 games, starting in right. He is an excellent fielder who will be counted on to catalyze the offense from the top of the order. Rounding out the triumvirate is Zoccolillo, who moves to left field after starting at first base the last three seasons.

Zoccolillo, one of the top players in the Northeast, finished last season with a .387 batting average and 14 home runs, a mark which set a new Rutgers school record for homers in a season. For his efforts, he was named to the All-BIG EAST First Team for the second-straight season and was tabbed as a third-team All-American by the NCBWA.

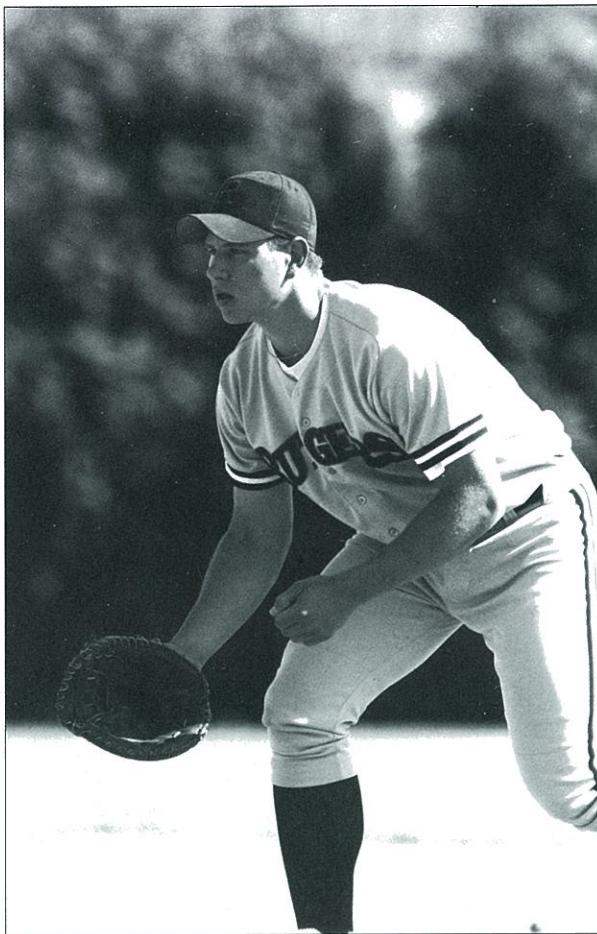

"Zoccolillo is an outstanding athlete and will be sound in the outfield," said Hill. "He is an excellent first baseman but his willingness to shift to the outfield allows us to strengthen our lineup."

Benefiting from Zoccolillo's move to left is first baseman Mike O'Brien, a slugging junior who earned Freshman All-America honors two seasons ago. In a platoon situation last season, O'Brien batted .271 with four home runs and 14 RBI. He will be counted on to strengthen the lineup and provide some power in the middle to lower part of the order.

"The switch really strengthens our lineup," said Hill. "It will help us to have O'Brien and Zoccolillo in the lineup each game."

Across the infield from O'Brien is one of the region's finest left side combinations. Third baseman Jake Daubert and shortstop Darren Fenster provide excitement both at the plate and in the field and, after fine seasons in 1998, the duo is expected to lead the Knights.

Junior Mike O'Brien will take over at first base this season.

Daubert, in only his first season of collegiate action, assembled one of the finest all-around offensive seasons in RU history. Daubert batted .368 with 10 home runs and a school-record 64 RBIs. In the process, he improved steadily defensively and at the end of the season, earned Rutgers' first-ever BIG EAST Rookie of the Year Award. He was also tabbed a Louisville Slugger/TPX Freshman All-American.

"Daubert had an outstanding season last year," said Hill. "It is our hope that he can repeat with a similar effort."

Fenster, a wizard in the field, saw his offensive game blossom in 1998. Fenster batted .355 last season, rapping out 61 hits and drawing a team-high 27 walks. In postseason play, Fenster batted .600 in the BIG EAST Tournament and followed that with a .500 average in three NCAA Tournament games.

"Fenster is one of the elite shortstops in the Northeast," said Hill. "He is an excellent defensive player and has really learned to control the bat at the plate. He is someone we will count on very heavily this season both offensively and defensively and as a clutch hitter in our lineup. He is our 'take-charge' guy in the field."

Rounding out the infield will be freshman Matt Wolski, a newcomer from Hamilton, NJ. Wolski was a three-time all-state selection and led Steinert High School to two state titles. The primary backup this season is redshirt sophomore Jeff Marciniak, a solid all-around player who could see time anywhere in the infield.

"Wolski will solidify our defense this season," said Hill. "His offensive is a question mark because he hasn't faced this type of pitching yet, but we know he will play well in the field."

The DH role will most likely be filled by sophomore Todd Speedy, who collected 11 at bats over the course of the season last year, picking up six hits with one triple and one home run.

"We are counting on Speedy to be a consistent source of power in the middle of the lineup," said Hill.

Behind the plate, redshirt freshman Mike Popowski will assume the field general duties from graduated senior Chris Dorsett, who has since signed a professional contract with the Chicago Cubs. Backing up Popowski is JC-transfer Ken Ulrich, who played at Rockland C.C. last season.

1999 SEASON OUTLOOK

"Both Popowski and Ulrich are good catch and throw guys," said Hill. "We are very comfortable with both of them behind the plate and know that they both can contribute right away. Popowski has the potential to supply some power at the plate as well."

PITCHING WILL TELL THE TRUE TALE

If the Scarlet Knights' lineup is the proven commodity, it is the performance of the pitching staff that will ultimately determine the team's fate. Coach Hill lost six instrumental cogs from last season's staff and admits that he is unsure how the pitching staff will develop this season.

"We won't have a real good feel for how our staff will shape up until we start playing some games," said Hill. "Because of the lack of actual game experience, everyone is going to get an early-season opportunity."

That's not to say that the potential is not there. Sophomore Brian Delehanty, after winning three games last season, appears on the cusp of establishing himself as one of the top southpaws in the conference. Also in the mix is sophomore Eric Brown, who posted a 2-0 record last season, and senior lefty Brett Hawken, who was 2-1 last season in four starts.

Four hurlers who have very little, if any, collegiate experience will be thrust into the forefront this season. Sophomores Jeff Pierce, who picked up a win over St. Francis last season with six shutout innings, Pat Pepe, who pitched only 2.1 innings last year, and Jim Wilson, who red-shirted last season, as well as junior Lance Horta, will factor into the mix. Horta is coming off an injury-plagued season that culminated in surgery while Pierce, despite pitching well, saw only nine innings of action last season. Senior Brett Hawken, who is coming off surgery as well, should see significant innings. Junior Barry Walsh will most likely backbone the bullpen as the closer this season, replacing graduated Jeff Miller.

"We have some guys who have been in the program, but just lack the experience," said Hill. "We hope that a couple of them can step up early in the season."

Other pitchers who may be called on to contribute are freshman Dave Santiago, Tom Wheeler, Buddy Gallagher, Ryan Molchan and Tom Crohan.

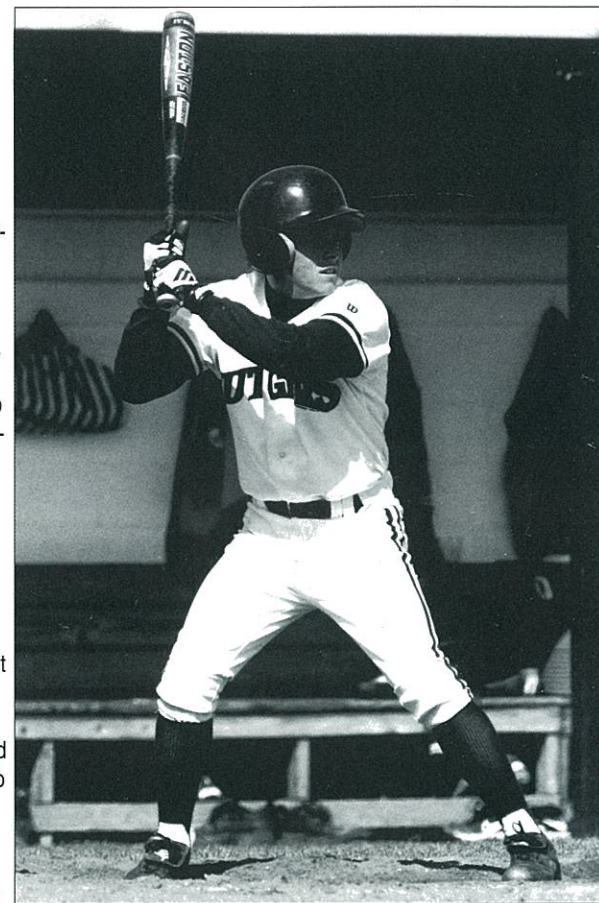

"They are going to need to step up, even as freshmen," said Hill.

A COMPETITIVE SCHEDULE AS ALWAYS

Once again, the Scarlet Knights challenge themselves early and often, opening the season at Old Dominion in Norfolk, Virginia and then on to Atlanta to face Georgia Tech, ranked #9 in the preseason Baseball America poll. After the trip to Georgia, the Scarlet Knights pack their bags for a week in Florida set for contests with Bowling Green, Holy Cross, Iowa, Liberty, Purdue and Florida Atlantic. Up North, in addition to the normal BIG EAST slate, Rutgers has games with non-conference foes such as Rider, Columbia, Lafayette, FDU, Monmouth, Pace, Delaware, Iona, St. Francis and St. Peter's lined up. All in all, it will be another grueling schedule, one which will undoubtedly toughen the team come postseason play.

"I think we managed to put together one of the premier schedules in the Northeast," said Hill. "Our history of playing some of the top teams in the country early in the season will continue this year."

Junior Darren Fenster will occupy the #2 spot in the order this season.

With the challenging schedule on the horizon and another season of BIG EAST baseball ahead, the prospects for the present, as well as the future, look bright.

"Last season's success provided a great deal of enthusiasm and confidence," said Hill. "The players have continued to work hard because they can see the benefit of hard work and intensity that the preceding players brought to the ballpark and the practice field each day last season. They also did an excellent job last summer in terms of playing in competitive leagues and becoming better ballplayers."

"The most important thing is that our kids work hard, have intensity and realize that they can be good players. Coming out of the losers' bracket last season to win the BIG EAST Championship and then beating Auburn in the NCAA Tournament showed that we can play with just about anybody."

Complacency is not an option for this team. Past success has made this year's team hungry for similar success, something that is well within reach this season.

OF NOTE...

* The Scarlet Knight baseball team was picked 77th in the nation by Baseball America in a preseason poll.

* Rutgers was also picked to finished third in the BIG EAST Preseason poll, behind Notre Dame and St. John's. The Scarlet Knights earned two first-place votes from the league's 13 head coaches.

* Senior leftfielder Pete Zoccolillo, an All-BIG EAST First Team selection as a sophomore and junior, has a chance this season to join former Seton Hall and current Anaheim Angels' star Mo Vaughn as the only player to earn First Team All-BIG EAST selections in three seasons.

* The Scarlet Knights are vying for their 14th-consecutive postseason appearance this season.

* Head Coach Fred Hill was named the New Jersey College Baseball Association Coach of the year in 1998, the fourth time that Hill has won the award in the 1990's.

* Since joining the BIG EAST Conference in 1996, Rutgers has posted a 93-61-1 record (.603), including two 30 wins seasons (32-1996, 33-1998).

FROM START TO FINISH PUTTING RUTGERS BASEBALL ON THE BIG EAST BASEBALL MAP

The 1998 season will be remembered as one of the finest in Rutgers Baseball history. It was a year when the Scarlet Knights won both the BIG EAST Regular Season and Tournament Championships, becoming only the second team in conference history to do so. It was a season in which the Scarlet Knights posted the finest offensive numbers in school history and established themselves as one of, if not the, top team in the Northeast.

* BIG EAST Conference Game
BIG EAST Tournament Game
! NCAA Tournament Game

The year began with many expectations. The team was a veteran cast with eight position returning and the deepest pitching staff coach Hill has enjoyed in years. The expectations came from the players themselves. They knew there was enough talent to win a BIG EAST Championship and anything less would be a disappointing.

A 3-9 start to the season wasn't exactly what the team envisioned when it ended preseason drills and south to begin the season. One reason for the start was some injuries. Second baseman Dave Marciniak missed all three games of the Hormel Classic, in Minnesota's Metrodome, after breaking a bone in his right hand when he was hit by a pitch. Third baseman Paul Gallucci was playing with two bad knees, which led to a pulled hamstring in the first game of the year and caused him to miss several games.

There were also subpar performances by the pitching staff, a result of early-season rustiness and some strong competition. Mike Mundy and Keith Connolly weren't pitching at their highest levels and Brian Stegen was coming back slowly from elbow surgery.

Still, Rutgers was hitting the ball well and there were two, one-run losses in those first 12 games, providing a ray of hope. When Rutgers came home to Piscataway and began the conference schedule, things came together as well as anyone could have anticipated.

Rutgers' 30-7 record over the remainder of the year was the best record of any baseball team in school history. In those 37 games, Rutgers outscored opponents 377-210 and boasted a team ERA of 4.54 compared to 9.15 by opponents. Rutgers was a perfect 14-0 at home and the 17-3 record in BIG EAST games gave Rutgers the top seed in the post-season tournament. Those 17 wins were also the second most in the history of the conference..

When the dust finally settled, Rutgers set team records for batting average (.339), hits (615), (.533). At times, it seemed like there were runners on first and second before the inning even started.

To celebrate the accomplishments of one or two players wouldn't be right. "This was a team in every sense of the word," said head coach Fred Hill.

A team needs leaders and there were 12 seniors who did so by example all season long. The group was as fine a group of leaders as coach Hill has experienced at Rutgers. Each one of the them had a unique contribution to the team's success. They were all vocal. They approached the game in the right way and together set an example for future Scarlet Knights.

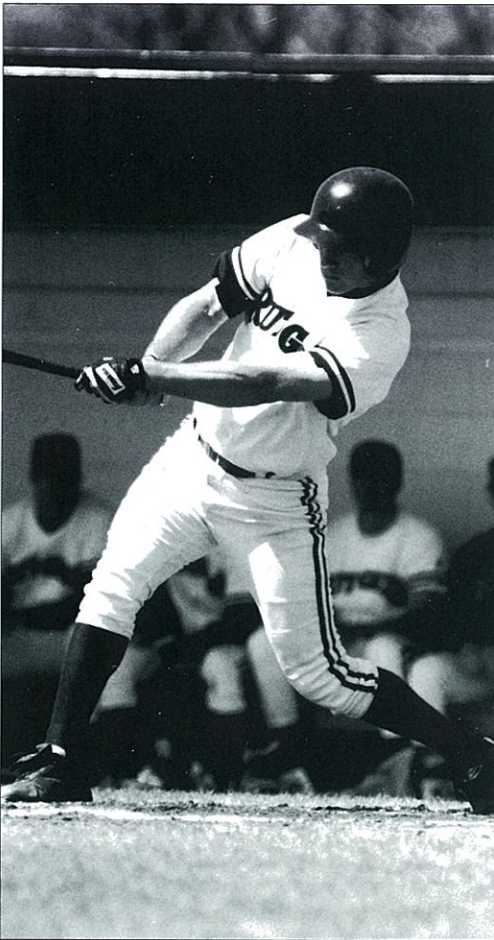

But it wasn't just leadership. It was performance as well. Senior catcher Chris Dorsett set career highs in average (.328), home runs (8) and RBI (36) and was excellent with the pitching staff. A second-team All-East choice, Dorsett was also an Academic All-American as well. Right fielder Craig Brenhisser hit a career best .341. Centerfielder Shawn Williams' catch deep in centerfield against Providence secured Coach Hill's 600th career win.

Jeff Miller was the closer for one of the finest bullpens in America. Perhaps his finest day was a two-win doubleheader against Boston College. During the course of the year, he became Rutgers' all-time leader in games pitched (73) and saves (14). A second-team All-East choice also, he and his fellow bullpen mates finished the year with a combined 14-1 record and 11 saves.

Fellow reliever Corey Long was 2-0 and threw the ball as well as he had in his four-year career. But it was the resurgence of Connolly that was the key for the bullpen and for that matter the Scarlet Knights. After an 0-3 start, he went to the bullpen full-time and became the most dominant reliever in the BIG EAST. He did everything from middle relief, to long relief to closer and finished with a 4-0 record and a save out of the bullpen. His effort against St. John's and Notre Dame in elimination games of the BIG EAST Tournament was a fine a job as anyone could ask and earned him some votes for the Most Outstanding Player Award.

Starting pitchers Mundy and Stegen got stronger and stronger each time out and saved their best performances for the BIG EAST Tournament. Mundy, a second-team All-BIG EAST choice was a pitch or two away from throwing shutouts against Boston College, Georgetown and Pittsburgh. He was as dominant as any starter in the BIG EAST for most of the year and he proved it when he finally earned a shutout against Notre Dame in the BIG EAST Championship game. Pitching on two days rest, he held the Irish to just six hits and took the game away from them in the first inning. After a single and double to start the game for ND, Mundy retired Notre Dame's next three hitters without allowing a run, setting the tone for a 12-0 win and first-ever BIG EAST Championship.

Stegen's performance in the BIG EAST Tournament was almost as dominant, but he took the heartbreaking loss to Providence. Through eight innings, he gave up just one run and one fly ball out to a team that had hit 80 home runs entering the tourney. But in the ninth, he had two outs and two runners on first a second. A single just off his pitching hand and then a bad hop single scored the tying and winning runs for Providence and RU would have to come back through the losers bracket. Stegen finished with a Jake Daubert set or tied eight Rutgers records in 1998.

BETTER EACH YEAR: After enjoying a record-breaking offensive season in 1997, the Scarlet Knights refused to be satisfied. During the 1998 season, Rutgers assaulted their own record book, rewriting several team and individual records along the way. In addition to being only the second team in BIG EAST history to win both the regular season and Tournament championship, Rutgers set a school record for batting average (.339), runs (458), hits (615), doubles (133), home runs (58) and RBI (414). Individually, the quartet of Dave Marciniak, Pete Zoccolillo, Adam Neubart and Jake Daubert etched their names in the RU record books in several categories. Neubart broke the school record for runs in a season by crossing home plate 64 times in 1998. Marciniak set the record for doubles in a season with 24 and, in the process, became the all-time leader in doubles with 51. Marciniak also posted the third-best single-season run total with 58, while Pete Zoccolillo posted the fourth-best with 56. The duo also put together the third-best hit total with 77 each. Marciniak's .410 overall average placed him eighth on the single-season list, marking the first time since 1994 that a Scarlet Knight hit above .400. Zoccolillo realized his power potential in 1998, slugging an RU record 12 round trippers, which tied him with Angel Echevarria, who blasted 12 in 1994. In addition, Daubert's 10 home runs tied him for the third-best total. Daubert, thanks in part to Neubart and Marciniak's constant presence on the basepaths, broke the single-season record for RBI with 64. Zoccolillo also broke the previous record by knocking in 59. On the mound, Jeff Miller set the school record for appearances with 74 in his career and, with six saves in 1998, also set the career save record with 14. All in all, it was a year of many firsts and record-breaking efforts, raising the bar of expectation for years to come.

team high seven wins and returned to pre-injury form.

Another senior who saved his best pitching performance for the BIG EAST Tournament was Rich Kennedy. A spot starter most of the year, he was given the start against Notre Dame in an elimination game of the BIG EAST Tournament. He was a victim of the horrific spring weather, Rutgers missed 11 games to rain and several of them would have been starts for Kennedy. But he never got down and he kept working hard. Against Notre Dame, he hurled six yoeman-like innings, keeping in his team in the game- a game the Scarlet Knights would eventually win in 10 innings.

The winning run was scored by senior Jason Jaworoski. Probably the most vocal senior on the team, he split the DH chores with Mike O'Brien. He was hit by a pitch to lead off the bottom of the 10th inning and eventually scored on Adam Neubart's two-out single to left field with the winning run. But it was his seeing-eye, two RBI single in the bottom of the fifth that helped RU come back from a 6-0 deficit and be in position to win.

Rutgers may not have even advanced to that game if it wasn't for senior catcher Joe Waleck's game-winning home run against Seton Hall in the opening game of the tournament. Rutgers and Seton Hall played a classic game that went 17 innings, as neither team could scratch a run across after the Pirates tied the game at six with a run in the top of the ninth. Inning after inning, the teams left runners on base in dramatic fashion. Waleck was put in the game in the top of the 17th inning after Chris Dorsett was pinch run for in the bottom of the 16th. He had sat on the bench or warmed up pitchers for nearly five hours, but needed just one pitch, with two-on and two outs, to send a high arcing shot over the left field wall and give RU an unforgettable 9-6 win.

The drama of that home run was nearly matched in the first game of the Atlantic II Regional in Tallahassee, Florida. Down 13-10 to the Southeastern Conference Champion Auburn Tigers, Rutgers, with all of its heart and determination, answered the bell once again. The Scarlet pushed one run across and loaded the bases with two outs. Up stepped Marciniak. He worked the pitcher to a 3-1 count and, with one swing, drove the ball to the deepest part of the ball park, off the centerfielder's glove, scoring all three runs. After an intentional walk, Pete Zoccolillo followed and then freshman third baseman Jake Daubert answered with a two-run triple to deep right centerfield securing a 17-15 win for Rutgers

The 3-4-5 part of the Scarlet Knights order was one of the finest in the country. Marciniak, a Second-Team All-East choice joined teammate Zoccolillo on the BIG EAST's First Team. Daubert was the BIG EAST Rookie of the Year and a First-Team All-East choice. Together, the three combined to drive in 173 runs, led by Daubert's school record 64. Zoccolillo tied the school record with 12 home runs and drove in the second most runs in RU history with 59 RBI. Most of those runs were scored by Neubart who set a school record with 64 runs and freshman David DeJesus, who scored 49 runs. DeJesus joined Daubert on the BIG EAST's All-Rookie team.

Daubert and shortstop Darren Fenster formed a strong left side of the infield for the Scarlet Knights. Some of the plays Fenster made at short were highlight-film quality. By the end of the season his hitting had reached new heights, with a .600 average in the BIG EAST Tournament and a .500 average in the NCAA Tournament. Daubert's impact as a freshman was a tremendous credit to himself and his fellow third baseman Paul Gallucci. From the first day of fall practice, Gallucci helped make the transition for Daubert as smooth as possible and that kind leadership did not go unnoticed. Gallucci was voted team captain for the second time by his teammates at the close of the 1998 season.

All in all, there were records set memorable performances and a tremendous amount of pride and enthusiasm from a group of players who came together and turned in a championship season. Most important, however, was the fact that the Scarlet Knights set a precedent of success and championship-caliber play for years to come.

Pete Zoccolillo was honored as a third-team All-American by the NCBWA

RUTGERS IN THE 1998 NCAA TOURNAMENT

ATLANTIC II REGIONAL, TALLAHASSEE, FL

GAME ONE- RUTGERS 17 #7 AUBURN 15

Dave Marciniak's three-run double sparked a six-run ninth as Rutgers upset second-seeded Auburn 17-15 in the Atlantic II Regional of the NCAA Tournament. Pete Zoccolillo went 5-for-5 with a solo homer for the Scarlet Knights, scoring four runs and driving in three. Adam Neubart and Darren Fenster each added three hits. Rutgers posted six runs with two outs in the ninth, highlighted by Marciniak's bases-clearing double. Rutgers finished with 19 hits to post the most runs and hits achieved against Auburn all season. Adam Neubart started the scoring with a two-out, RBI single and after a walk to David DeJesus, Marciniak cleared the bases with a blast to deep center. Zoccolillo was then walked intentionally before Jake Daubert tripled in two more runs. Relief specialist Jeff Miller recorded the final seven outs to pick up the win.

GAME TWO- OKLAHOMA 9, RUTGERS 7

Four Rutgers errors led to two unearned runs, providing the difference in Oklahoma's 9-7 victory over the Scarlet Knights in the second round of the Atlantic II Regional. Oklahoma put up two runs in the top of the first but the Scarlet Knights rallied to tie the score on a David DeJesus triple and a Dave Marciniak sac fly. Pete Zoccolillo then homered in the bottom of the third to give RU a 5-2 lead, which lasted into the fifth inning. Oklahoma then rallied back to score two in the fifth and four more in the sixth to take an 8-7 lead. Rutgers threatened by scoring two in the bottom of the seventh to pull within one, 8-7, on a home run by Chris Dorsett, but Oklahoma added an insurance run in the top of the ninth to secure the win. Brian Stegen was saddled with the loss, falling to 7-3 on the season.

GAME THREE- AUBURN, RUTGERS 7

Four Auburn homers, two from Josh Etheredge, and strong pitching from Chris Bootcheck lifted the Tigers over Rutgers, 7-4, in the third round of the Atlantic II Regional and eliminated Rutgers from the NCAA Tournament. Rich Kennedy was forced to start on the hill for the Scarlet Knights, in place of original starter Brian Delehanty, who was stricken with the flu. Kennedy lasted only 3.1 innings, yielding nine hits and six runs to pick up the loss. Rutgers received home runs from Jason Jaworoski and Mike O'Brien, but it was not enough. RU had nine hits in the contest, while Auburn banged out 10. RU trailed 7-1 in the top of the seventh, but Jaworoski homered to cut the lead to 7-2. The score remained that way until the top of the ninth, when Rutgers put together a last-ditch effort which produced two runs, one of them coming on O'Brien's pinch-hit home run.

Rutgers boasts a wealth of resources few universities can match, at a cost far less than most. To its more than 35,712 undergraduates on all campuses, Rutgers offers more than 100 major programs of study and a comprehensive range of educational opportunities in the liberal arts and sciences as well as many applied and pre-professional areas.

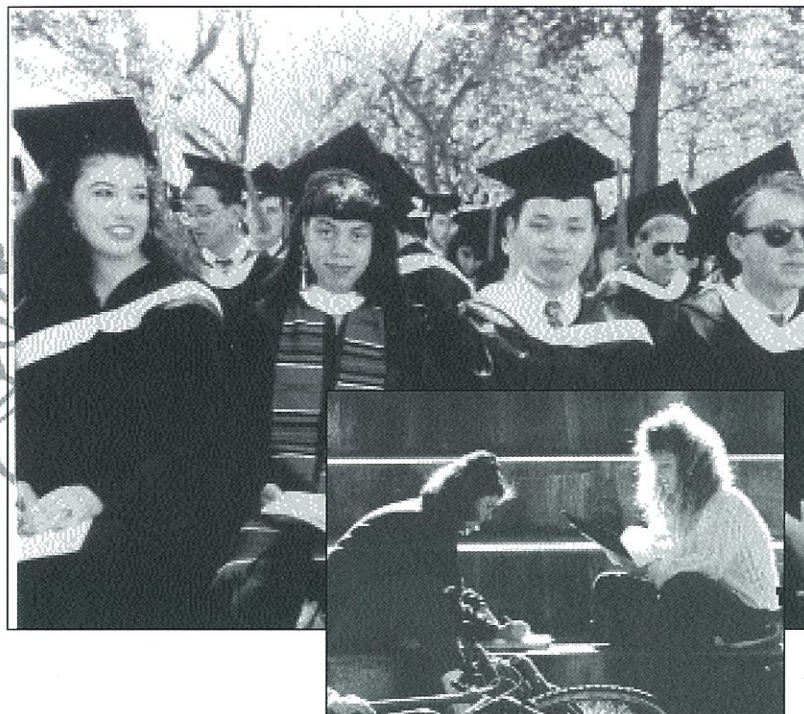

A leading research university with a renowned faculty, Rutgers has more than 4,000 undergraduate courses, laboratories that utilize state-of-the-art technology and instrumentation, and more than three million volumes in its extensive library system.

Comprised of 17 small-to-medium-sized undergraduate colleges, the State University is structured so that students receive the attention necessary to achieve personal growth and academic success. While classes range in size from large lectures to small seminars, more than 60 percent of classes enroll fewer than 30 students. The student-to-faculty ratio of 14-to-1 compares favorably to many smaller liberal arts colleges.

History

Rutgers began its history in 1766 as Queen's College, the eighth institution of higher education to be founded in the American colonies. It became Rutgers College in 1825, honoring Colonel Henry Rutgers, a former trustee and Revolutionary War veteran. The University of Newark merged with Rutgers in 1946 and the College of South Jersey in Camden was incorporated into Rutgers in 1950. Legislative acts in 1945 and 1956 designated all its divisions as The State University of New Jersey. Rutgers is the only university in the nation to have been a colonial college, a land-grant college and a state university.

Rutgers Today

With 29 degree-granting divisions, Rutgers is New Jersey's only comprehensive public research university and a member of the prestigious Association of American Universities (AAU), a select group of 62 public and private research institutions. Under the leadership of President Francis L. Lawrence, Rutgers has embarked on an ambitious course to reach its goal of becoming one of the nation's premier public research universities by the year 2010.

Three years ago, in an exceptionally collaborative process, some 250 members of the faculty and administration developed proposals that support growth areas identified in the university's broad-ranging strategic plan, "A New Vision for Excellence." The initiatives seek to meet the present and future needs of the state for a highly skilled work force that will require access to lifelong education; to address needs for scientific and technological advances to stimulate the economy and provide New Jersey industries with a competitive edge; and to fulfill the service needs of the citizens of the state in an increasingly diverse democratic society.

The strategic plan, which capitalizes on many of the university's existing strengths, moved forward during the 1996-97 academic year under the stewardship of a Committee for the Future. Thirteen committees covering a scope of disciplines ranging from Liberal Arts and Sciences, Environmental Studies and Information Science to International Studies, Education, and Public Policy and Law, began to implement specific initiatives designed to enhance the University's leadership position into the next century.

The academic year also saw groundwork laid for Rutgers' dramatic RUNet 2000 initiative. This comprehensive voice, video and data communications network will meet the information needs of the entire University community in addition to linking the University with New Jersey citizens.

NEW JERSEY...THE GARDEN STATE

There are very few areas of the country that offer as many different types of landscape as New Jersey—beaches, mountains, forests, hills and valleys. Small in size but dynamic in its diversity, New Jersey is a place where you can enjoy first-rate cultural arts performances, spend sun-soaked days lying on famous beaches, crisp autumn afternoons hiking through pines and winter days enjoying fine skiing.

From beaches to business, the mountains to the Meadowlands, New Jersey offers perhaps one of the most varied arrays of entertainment of any state in the nation. There are countless reasons why the Garden State is such a popular destination, and all those reasons can be summed up in one word—diversity. One of the most inviting characteristics of New Jersey is its sheer variety of things to do and places to see. New Jersey offers a wealth of scenic beauty, entertainment, cultural and historic opportunities and first-rate attractions, including picturesque natural areas perfect for outdoor activities; Victorian towns; discount shopping outlets; ski and golf resorts; bed and breakfast inns and luxury casino hotels.

The most prominent attraction during the summer months is the vast New Jersey shore. Over 127 miles of sand stretch the coastline of the state, attracting visitors from all over. One of the most popular attractions of the Jersey Shore is the glitz and glamour of Atlantic City. Miles of boardwalk and numerous casinos provide something for everyone. Top entertainers frequent the many venues that Atlantic City has to offer as well as championship boxing and the world-famous Miss America Pageant.

New Jersey offers a remarkably diverse range of things to do, places to go and things to see. From the historic Cape May Light House in the south to the world-famous Meadowlands Sports Complex in the north, from the capital of Trenton in the west to the glitz of Atlantic City in the east—New Jersey offers something for everyone. Some of the most popular things to do and see:

- Acres and acres of recreational land for camping, hiking and picnicking, including 70 scenic miles of the Appalachian Trail
- The Meadowlands Complex, offering professional sports, big name concerts and thoroughbred and harness racing
- The Pine Barrens, comprising a million-plus acres of pristine scrub pine wilderness and wildlife sanctuary
- Winter skiing ranging from novice to expert slopes at more than a dozen ski areas in the state
- The statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, the nation's premier historical landmark
- The Delaware River, offering boating, fishing, tubing and whitewater rafting along the state's western border.

The key to New Jersey's diversity can be found in its rich history. That history is one of cultural development, tumultuous revolution and booming industry. From its earliest beginnings, New Jersey has been the site of almost non-stop activity.

Much of that activity is due, in large part, to the state's enviable location in the northeast corner of the continent. As a seaport, the region has long welcomed new arrivals from around the world. These immigrants brought with them the cultural heritage of their native lands, resulting in the mingling of customs and cultures which is still apparent at the various ethnic festivals held throughout the year.

Close to Everything

Situated on the east coast, along the Atlantic Ocean, New Jersey is bordered by Pennsylvania to the west, Delaware to the south and New York to the north. Home to two major airports, Newark International and Atlantic City International airport, it is easily accessible from anywhere in the world. Newark International Airport is one of the major gateways to the United States and is among the most modern, fastest growing and busiest in the world. New Jersey is close to every major city in the eastern corridor. In a few hours, one could travel to any of the major east coast cities. Rutgers is only miles from New York City and Philadelphia and an afternoon's drive to Washington, D.C., Baltimore and Boston.

Powerful in its Own Right

Despite its size, the fifth smallest state of the 50, New Jersey boasts the seventh highest gross state product and second highest per capita income nationally. Some of the largest and most influential corporations in the world are headquartered here, including Johnson & Johnson, Bristol-Myers Squibb and American Cyanamid. New Jersey is home to 16 major pharmaceutical companies and the state is home to the top seven producers of chemicals and petrochemical distillates nationally. Overall, the state ranks fourth nationally in high tech firms, making job prospects for graduates in these areas better than ever.

New Brunswick

New Brunswick is more than just a vibrant college town. There's something for everyone in New Brunswick. Convenient rail and bus service allows you to travel anywhere in the New Jersey/New York metropolitan area in a matter of minutes. Students can make the trip to New York City in 45 minutes. Travel time to Newark Airport is 30 minutes while "Philly" is just over an hour away.

University President

FRANCIS L. LAWRENCE

The increase in quality of the 1980s, which was capped by the admission of Rutgers to the Association of American Universities in 1989, has gained momentum in the 1990s. The Rutgers faculty is winning impressive national honors for high distinction in scholarly accomplishment.

Francis L. Lawrence became the president of Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey in the fall of 1990. To improve the efficiency and service orientation of the university in a time of fiscal constraint, he took immediate steps to streamline the administration, reduce red tape, and encourage TQM-style teamwork. An independent management audit assisted the university in developing long- and short-term goals for improvement in its operations. At the same time, a strategic planning process was instituted for both administrative and academic units, culminating in a university-wide strategic plan approved by the Board of Governors in 1995. The plan "A New Vision for Excellence," is designed to build on the university's areas of strength in order to bring Rutgers into the top tier of America's most distinguished research universities in the next decade and a half. More than 60 projects have been implemented with the help of seed funds secured through internal reallocation of $8 million from administrative to academic purposes, awarded competitively by the Committee for the Future. The internal start-up funding has leveraged external grants three or four times the size of the initial seed funding. "RUNet 2000," the university's new information technology plan, will wire the university for voice, video, and data, complementing the goals of the strategic plan.

The vision that President Lawrence has proposed for Rutgers is its transformation into a new model of the land-grant university that responds to the pervasive, continuing demand of our society for advanced knowledge. Rutgers is meeting this challenge by building a comprehensive, statewide network of outreach: additional supports for teaching and learning; engaging undergraduates in research activities; and building unity within its diversity.

One of the president's first initiatives in sharpening the focus of the university mission was to place more emphasis upon teaching in promotion and tenure review and in hiring. Improvement of the quality of undergraduate education is among the president's foremost concerns. A teaching evaluation is now administered university-wide, and post-tenure review has been instituted. Teaching Excellence Centers on all three regional campuses offer students assistance ranging from study skills and computer-assisted instruction to tutoring. "Rutgers Dialogues," the report of the university-wide Curriculum Review Committee, is being implemented in new and revised undergraduate courses throughout the university. With financing from a student fee, the university, and the state, new student-access computing facilities have been opened and student-computing accounts made available for all Rutgers students.

The increase in quality of the 1980s, which was capped by the admission of Rutgers to the Association of American Universities in 1989, has gained momentum throughout the 1990s. The Rutgers faculty is winning impressive national honors for high distinction in scholarly accomplishment. A total of $154 million was raised in externally sponsored research in 1997.

Increased diversity in the university community has also been among the president's primary areas of priority for Rutgers. The university's enrollment of minorities has risen from under 21 percent in 1987 to more than 31 percent. Admissions recruitment efforts have succeeded in ranking Rutgers second among 32 public AAU schools in African American enrollment, ninth in Latino enrollment, eighth in Asian-Pacific Islander enrollment, and sixth in total minority enrollment. Rutgers was recognized nationally in two successive years for its graduation of the second largest number of African-American students among predominantly white universities.

Dr. Lawrence served on the Governor's Panel to Restructure Higher Education and on the Quality Education Commission. He was the first elected chair of the forty-six member New Jersey President's Council and served as a member of the New Jersey Commission on Higher Education. He is also a member of the New Jersey-Israel Commission.

On the national level, Dr. Lawrence has been the president of the Association of Graduate Schools of the Association of American Universities. He is currently a member of the Kellogg Commission on the Future of State and Land-Grant Universities and serves on the Board of Directors of the American Council on Education. Dr. Lawrence received his bachelor's degree in French and Spanish from St. Louis University in 1959 and his Ph.D. in French Classical Literature from Tulane University in 1962. He and his wife Mary Kay have four children and eleven grandchildren.

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING ABOUT BOB MULCAHY

"I watched his work over the four years that I have been Governor and what he was able to do. To get the Final Four here, to get the World Cup—he's shown a breadth of experience that I thought is very suitable and I'm glad that Rutgers and the committee they put in place—the search committee—felt the same way."

—Christine Todd Whitman,
Governor, The State of New Jersey

"While we want to have winning teams, we will be successful only if we can accomplish that within the framework of the university's academic values. We are convinced that Bob Mulcahy will provide that innovative leadership. Our conclusion was that Bob Mulcahy possesses a unique combination of talents and experiences that will move Rutgers' athletic program to its next level of accomplishment."

—Dr. Francis L. Lawrence,
President, Rutgers University

"This is the man who made an arena rise in the night where once there was only swampland, brought the Final Four to the Great Megalopolis for the first time in a half century, negotiated with at least six professional franchises of varying size, got Rutgers its 42,000-seat stadium and ran the most famous sports complex on the Continental Land Mass."

—Jerry Izenberg,
The Star-Ledger,
February 4, 1998

"Under his brilliant leadership, the Meadowlands has become without question, the premier sports complex in the United States. I feel a deep sense of personal loss at his leaving."

—Wellington Mara, Owner,
New York Giants

"It's a great day for Rutgers. Consider him a godsend."

—Mike Cleary, Executive Director of the National Association of College Directors of Athletics

"Everyone in the state knows him, and he's been a mover and shaker in the state for a long time."

—Gene Corrigan,
Former ACC Commissioner and
Notre Dame Athletic Director

Robert E. Mulcahy III comes to Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey after an extraordinary career in sports management and development as the President and CEO of the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority where he oversaw the Meadowlands Sports Complex among many other duties.

His most noteworthy achievements at the Meadowlands include establishing New Jersey as the home of the finest college athletic competition with the creation of the Kickoff Classic Football game, attracting the Army-Navy game to New Jersey three times and hosting eight NCAA Men's Basketball Eastern Regionals and the last Final Four ever to be held in an Arena in 1996. The Star-Ledger called the holding of the NCAA Final Four in the metropolitan area the "miracle of the Meadowlands." Rutgers co-hosted that event.

A lifelong passion for scholastic and college athletics and a commitment to public service culminated in Mulcahy's professional management style at the Meadowlands being hallmarked by the New York Times as "quiet fervor and foresight establishing the Meadowlands as one of the nation's leading sports and entertainment complexes."

His leadership at the Authority helped develop legislation, which led to the Authority overseeing the reconstruction of Rutgers Stadium and building new soccer, lacrosse and track and field facilities.

Assuming his Athletic Director duties on April 15, 1998 after his 19-year tenure at the helm of the Sports and Exposition Authority, Mulcahy continues his commitment to developing scholastic and collegiate sports as a vital component of the lives of our young New Jerseyans.

Mulcahy joined the Sports Authority in 1979 and developed it from a horse racing and professional football business into a statewide engine for sports, entertainment and exposition development. He was responsible for 600 events a year drawing up to eight million annual visitors to such attractions as the Giants, Jets, Devils, Nets, family shows, concerts and horse racing.

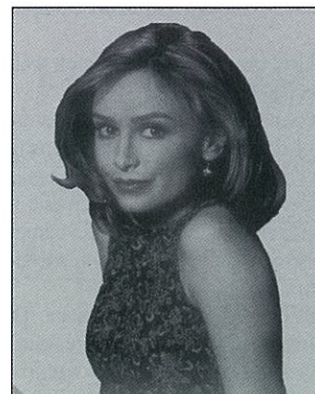

Among his many professional affiliations, Mulcahy serves on the Board of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, is Chair of its Awards Committee, is an honorary member of the American Football Coaches' Association and serves on the Boards of several corporations, both business and charitable.

Mulcahy, a graduate of Villanova University (AB in History, 1958), has received several awards from his Alma Mater including the Medal of Excellence from the College of Arts and Sciences, the Alumni Medal, and the James "Jumbo" Elliot Achievement Award. Among other honors, the most prized are the Knight of St. Gregory medal received from Pope John Paul II and the Ellis Island Medal of Honor. ## RUTGERS ATHLETICS

The history books will look back on the 1997-98 year as one of breakthrough performances from several Scarlet Knights and Scarlet Knight teams. RU captured its first two BIG EAST championships and many athletes turned in seasons that rate among the all-time best in Rutgers' sports history.

The men's soccer team and the baseball team won the school's first BIG EAST Championships. The women's basketball team reclaimed its position of national prominence, advancing to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament and the men's basketball team rode a magic carpet all the way to the semifinals of the BIG EAST Basketball tournament. Both the women's and men's lacrosse teams finished among the national rankings. The women's team went to the post-season for the second consecutive year and finished as the 15th-ranked team in America, while the men's team finished at No. 19, marking the 24th consecutive year that the lacrosse team was among the nation's best.

Celeste Battle earned All-America honors in the 20lb.-weight throw and also captured the BIG EAST indoor championship in that event. Victor Mallory won the BIG EAST indoor high jump championship and set a school record in the process. Softball player Angie Catalano became the first female athlete to be named BIG EAST Player of the Year. Fencer John Gringeri earned second-team All-America honors in the epee and Rod Van Ness competed in the NCAA wrestling championships. In the fall, the men's soccer team knocked off defending national champion St. John's to win the school's first BIG EAST Championship. With the win, RU head coach Bob Reasso led the Knights to the NCAA Tournament for the eighth time in the last decade. The field hockey team joined in the post-season fun, capturing the ECAC Championship with a 1-0 victory over New Hampshire. Jessica Pizzulli was named tournament Most Valuable Player and was also a unanimous choice to the BIG EAST's first team and an All-Mid-Atlantic region selection.

Shannon Nagle led the Scarlet Knight women's soccer team in scoring in 1998, and was named to the all-BIG EAST Rookie Team as well as the BIG EAST and CSANJ second teams.

The football team saw the emergence of several young players, but none was more exciting than quarterback Mike McMahon. McMahon set a slew of freshman records and is poised to be one of the finest quarterbacks in the conference for the next three years.

The women's cross country team captured its second consecutive Metropolitan Championship, led by Colleen Sunderland who won the Metropolitan Championship race for coach Roberta Anthes' team. In a year of transition for Charlie Duccilli's women's soccer team, all-region choice Uchenna Bright was a shining star among a team of talented underclassmen. Freshman Shannon Nagle, a BIG EAST All-Rookie team choice, led the squad in scoring.

Under coach Ann Leonard-House, the Scarlet Knights volleyball team finished with an 18-16 record and were led by BIG EAST second-team selection Lola Opadiran, who played a major role for the team that won an all-time high four BIG EAST matches.

In the winter months, the RAC sizzled with excitement as the men's and women's basketball teams emerged as prime-time players in one of the premier conferences in America. The women were led by a group of young and talented athletes who believed they could take on the world. They backed it up with a BIG EAST 7 Championship and a win over No.2 Connecticut. Freshman Tasha Pointer showed she was one of the finest players in America and joined her coach at many award banquets being named BIG EAST Rookie of the Year. Coach Stringer was just about everyone's coach of the year, being honored by the BIG EAST, the Black Pitcher Mike Mundy was instrumental in the baseball team's 33-16 season that ended in a BIG EAST Tournament Championship and an NCAA berth.

Colleen Sunderland was a standout student and athlete for the track team, capturing the Metropolitan cross country title and being selected as a GTE/CoSIDA Academic All-America.

Attackman Keith Cromwell led all freshmen across the nation in goals, assists, and points.

Coaches' Association, the Metropolitan Writers' Association, NJBCA and the Women's Basketball Coaches' Association.

First-year coach Kevin Bannon took no prisoners in leading the Scarlet Knights to wins over three nationally-ranked opponents, including Syracuse in front of a packed house at the RAC. And who can forget the buzzer-beater by Geoff Billet against Georgetown in the BIG EAST Quarterfinals?

John Sacchi's wrestling team maintained its standard of excellence in the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association (EIWA). Sacchi saw five of his wrestlers finish among the top six in the conference championships, led by Van Ness who finished third in the association's championship tournament at 167 pounds. Also among the top six were Justin Hurst, Ricardo Romero, Greg Theony and Chris Federici.

The gymnastics team created its own historic moment when it took the mat in the Northeast Regional Championships in Pittsburgh. The appearance in the regional championships was the first in school history for coach Chrystal Chollet-Norton. Rachel Ciarlante led the team and was an East Atlantic Gymnastics League (EAGL) first-team performer on the vault and a second team performer on the floor exercise.

The swimming and diving teams began to set many individual records and look to be one of the outstanding programs of the future under first-year coach Charles Warner. The fencing team had two All-America performers. Gringeri was the honoree from the men's team and Laura Cunningham earned honorable mention acclaim in the epee for the women as well.

Another of the winter's highlights was when the Rutgers Dance Team captured the national championship, in an event that was televised nationally by ESPN.

In the spring, Rutgers women's crew placed second in the BIG EAST Regatta and won the Raritan Cup for the second year in a row. Both Sharon Kriz and Maite Urtasun were invited to the United States National Team Selection Camp which took place over the summer. The Varsity 4 capped a great season by advancing to the NCAA Championships.

The lightweight crew team finished with a 5-4 record and ranked No. 5 in the nation. The impressive season included the Lev Brett Cup Championship, the Scarlet's first championship in that race since 1991. The lightweight crew team also advanced to the Grand Final of the EARC championships, which was also a first since 1991.

The women's tennis team reached the quarterfinals of the BIG EAST Championships in Miami and was led by a trio of seniors in Cynthia Coriat, Angelique Matuch and Lara Manoukian, who combined for 53 career wins. The men's team defeated St. John's in the consolation bracket of the BIG EAST Championship to finish in fifth place. The win over St. John's followed a heartbreaking 5-4 loss to West Virginia where a victory would have put the Scarlet in the semifinals.

The men's track team had three all-East performers. In addition to Mallory, the 4x800 relay team and pole vaulter Mark Vinci earned all-East accolades. The women's track team saw Battle provisionally qualify for the NCAA Championships in the hammer throw which followed her dominance in the weight throw. Brooke Spears also provisionally qualified for the NCAA Championships in the javelin.

The Catalano-led softball team was one of four teams to reach the championship tournament. Other BIG EAST honorees from the softball team were Jaime-Lyn Chmielowicz, who was a first-team choice, Koren Melfi, Kelly Crosson and Juliette Brooks who were second team choices.

Senior Dina Cavallo led the women's lacrosse team with 53 goals and helped coach Anna Marie Vesco earn Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Coaches' Association (IWLCA) Mid-Atlantic Region Coach of the Year honors. The team finished the season 13-5 and second in the ECAC Championship Tournament. Goalie Paula Chamoun was ranked sixth nationally in goals against average (7.93) and save percentage (.616). The men's lacrosse team went 8-7 and finished the season ranked 19th in the nation. The highlight of the season was a rousing 12-10 victory over 3rd-ranked Syracuse. Senior midfielder Matt Kopley was named honorable mention All-American, and freshman sensation Keith Cromwell led the nation's freshmen in goals, assists and points from his attack position.

The year ended with the same flourish as it began when the baseball team captured the BIG EAST Championship and a berth in the NCAA Tournament. Rutgers, led by BIG EAST Coach of the Year Fred Hill, became only the second team in conference history to win the conference's regular season and tournament championship. Freshman All-American Jake Daubert and BIG EAST Tournament MVP Dave Marciniak put together two of the finest offensive seasons that helped lead Rutgers to a 33-16 record.

RUTGERS ATHLETIC FACILITIES

RUTGERS ATHLETICS

Football Stadium

Built in 1994, the Rutgers Football Stadium is one of the nation's newest and most modern facility. With a seating capacity of 42,000, it is the site of major college football on Saturdays in the fall.

The Soccer/Lacrosse Stadium, at Yurcak Field

Home of the perennially nationally ranked Rutgers soccer and lacrosse programs, this facility is one of the nation's finest of its kind. Used only for soccer and lacrosse, it seats 5,000 and features an expansive concession stand, an enclosed press box and game day dressing rooms.

Track and Field Complex

Located directly behind the Louis Brown Athletic Center, the Rutgers Track and Field complex is one of the finest in the nation. Specifically built for track and field only, the facility boasts eight lanes, two shot put circles, four long/triple jump runways, two discus/hammer cages, two pole vault runways, two javelin runways and sprinting and hurdling areas on either side of the track.

The Sonny Werblin Recreation Center

Named for prominent alumnus David A. "Sonny" Werblin, this center houses an outstanding aquatic center featuring an Olympic-size pool with movable bulkheads and two auxiliary pools. Seating is provided for 1,000 spectators, including 400 chair-back seats. Not just a swimming facility, the Recreation Center also includes a fully-equipped weight room and fitness center, golf practice cages, four basketball, three outdoor sand volleyball, six racquetball and two squash courts, along with a 2,000-square-foot multi-purpose room for programs such as instructional dance and martial arts.

The Bubble

The Rutgers Indoor Practice and Conditioning Facility, commonly referred to as "the Bubble," is the nation's largest air-supported indoor structure. Measuring 430 x 230 feet in length, it reaches 80 feet at its highest point. This facility allows many Scarlet Knight athletic teams to train and conduct practice sessions in all weather conditions. The New York Giants, after several years of using the Rutgers Bubble as their post-season practice facility, modeled their own indoor air-supported structure after this facility.

Class of 1953 Baseball Complex

This scenic baseball field, which is adjacent to the softball complex, has been the site of exciting college baseball since 1984, including many scholastic county and state playoffs, as well as the Garden State Games. The modern scoreboard in right centerfield was a gift from the Rutgers class of 1953.

Golf Course

A picturesque 18-hole golf course is home to the Rutgers golf teams. Its venerable layout is located on the Busch campus, within the shadow of the Rutgers football stadium and soccer/lacrosse facility. The golf course is open year-round and Rutgers students can play at a discount rate.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

The mission of Academic Support Services is to enhance the academic success and contribute to the development of a well-rounded student-athlete. Upon graduation, the goal is for each student-athlete to be equipped to pursue a career that is a tribute to both the athlete and the university.

A truly effective athletic program does not measure success solely on wins and losses, but takes into account the academic progress, personal development and career choices of each student-athlete. Hence, a quality experience both in the classroom and the athletic arena is the primary goal of the Academic Support Program at Rutgers University.

The office of student-athlete academic support services is under the direction of the assistant director of athletics, Dr. Michael Mahan, who came to Rutgers in September of 1995 and has enhanced the services of the department. One of the first steps was the reorganization of the department into separate units. One unit is located in the Louis Brown Athletic Center, one in the College Avenue Gym and one in the Hale Center. Each of the units is responsible for the athletic teams housed in the three athletic areas.

Each student-athlete at Rutgers has an identified academic counselor, and each coach has one counselor for his/her team. In addition, closer relationships have been formed with the dean's offices on each campus.

Academic Advising

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

The strength and conditioning program at Rutgers is designed to enhance each athlete's success, and in turn the team's success. Far beyond lifting weights and running intervals, the strength and conditioning program gives the Scarlet Knights a competitive edge on the court. Members of the men's basketball team are fortunate to have a full-time strength and conditioning coach devoted entirely to enhancing the quality and performance of the team through strength and conditioning.

The goals of the program are simple: to build strong, well-conditioned athletes who can physically play the game of basketball to the best of their ability and to the expectations of the coach. One of the most important aspects of winning

"Strength and conditioning deals with both the mental and physical aspects of athletics, and put those two together with great coaching and you will be very successful."

— Tom Scott,
Assistant
Strength and Conditioning
Coach

basketball games is being physically able to play with more intensity than the opponent for the entire game. Many games are decided by which team can run, jump and shoot in the final minutes or final seconds of a contest. Endurance and strength are keys to winning basketball games, and go hand in hand in building a successful team.

However, nothing could be more critical than staying healthy, which is one of the main goals of the strength and conditioning program. Lean muscle mass helps athletes avoid injury and heal more quickly if an injury does occur. When muscles are strong, they are prepared to support the whole body through rigorous and intense competition. That is why the training occurs long before the season begins.

A year-round proposition, the Scarlet Knights train to increase their strength, foot speed, hand/eye coordination, agility and flexibility during the summer and preseason. Many athletes train on campus during the summer, and those who train at home have a detailed workout plan to follow because it is during the off-season that most of the gains are made. During the season, the program is designed to maintain the gains made in the summer and preseason. Interval training is a large part of the in-season regimen which maintains strength and conditioning while preserving the players' energy for competition.

Training in the recently remodeled weight room, strength and conditioning coach Tom Scott develops and implements a comprehensive program for the men's basketball program designed specifically to enhance basketball skills. Scott has designed a program to help the team win basketball games, not necessarily to create weight lifters.

His program reflects that with sport-specific exercises. The players often do their conditioning work on the basketball court in regimens that incorporate motions like shooting and rebounding. Scott also designed the strength and conditioning program to achieve team goals, and yet account for individual training styles and types, which allows every athlete to enjoy success. Scott challenges the athletes to perform at a maximum level at every workout, whatever that level may be. For some athletes, it is a large goal, for others, it is to show improvement from the previous workout. Part of the success of the program is that all styles are welcome.

Scott is a certified personal trainer with a bachelor's degree in corporate fitness from Western Illinois University (1989). He was a three-year starter at defensive back and named all-Gateway Conference as a senior. Scott attended the NFL's New York Jets 1989 training camp before an injury sidelined him for the season. He also played in the Canadian Football League (Hamilton) and the Summer European Football League (Munich).

An all-state running back for Matawan High School, Scott completed an internship at Kean College in 1988. He has been the personal trainer for several standout athletes, including the NFL's Bryan Cox (NY Jets) and Jay Bellamy (Seattle), former NFL great Sam Mills, as well as the NBA's Samaki Walker and countless high school athletes who have gone on to outstanding collegiate careers.

Bringing a tremendous track record, Scott also offers an added aspect to the men's basketball team. Drawing on his background as a personal trainer and having turned out several top athletes, he is well-equipped to bring out the competitive spirit in each individual. Carefully constructed workouts foster team unity, work ethic and a winning attitude by producing results that the athletes can see and feel.

Through weight training, athletes gain confidence and feel stronger with every success, creating a competitive edge and winning attitude that carries over into the game of basketball and the game of life.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The Rutgers sports medicine staff provides full service health and medical care for all the athletes' needs.

Dedicated concern is the hallmark of the sports medicine staff at Rutgers, The State University. Headed by a full-time head physician, the staff consists of nine full-time athletic trainers and more than two dozen student trainers. In addition, the staff is assisted by orthopedic consultants, dentists and drug education counselors, as well as many other branches of medical consultants.

Treatment and rehabilitation are done in one of four separate training rooms where the latest modalities for heat, cold, electrical stimulation and progressive resistance are available. Computerized testing and many forms of aerobic conditioning apparatuses are also available so that the sports medicine staff can tailor a specific program of rehabilitation for each individual.

A fully equipped exercise and strength training room covers 4,750 square feet and includes a treatment and rehabilitative care area with the most modern equipment. An X-Ray room and a state-of-the-art immersion tank are special features of the room.

With tireless work and cooperation between coaches, strength staff, consultants and sports medicine staff, the Rutgers athletes receive professional attention around the clock. These health care providers work year-round to enable the athletes to return to their full potential with minimal chance of re-injury. The Rutgers sports medicine staff provides full service health and medical care for all the athletes' needs from their first physical participation to their follow-up on bills for post-operative insurance questions.

The department of sports medicine also consults and incorporates other methods of treatment when appropriate. Dr. Frizzell Davis will be available to the team for chiropractic care as needed and as directed by the Rutgers medical staff.

The sports medicine area is under the direction of Dr. Robert Monaco, who serves as assistant athletic director/director of sports medicine at Rutgers. He is in his third year at Rutgers after completing a year's fellowship in Primary Care Sports Medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey as well as the Hospital for Special Surgery of Cornell University. A three-time all-Ivy League wrestler at Columbia University (1985-87) where he captained the team in 1986 and 1987, Monaco served his residency in family medicine from 1992-95. Monaco has also served as an assistant team physician at Princeton (1995-96), team physician at Marlboro and Freehold High Schools (1995-

96) and covered the American Tennis Professional Hamlet Cup, the New York City Marathon and the Tae Kwon Do National Tournament.

Board certified by the American Academy of Family Practice in 1995, he was awarded his M.D. by UMDNJ in 1992 and recently completed his master's degree in public health at Rutgers. A national and regional lecturer and panelist, Monaco graduated from Columbia in 1988 with a degree in political science. He is a two-time New Jersey state freestyle wrestling champion (1982 and 1986) and was a place winner at the National Junior Freestyle Championships in 1980 and a third-place winner at the NJSIAA Tournament in 1983.

Don Kessler is in his 11th season as Coordinator of Athletic Training Services, directing the training staff that includes both full- and part-time athletic trainers. Kessler and his staff's chief focus is on educating the student-athletes in correct health care practices. A member of the Rutgers Class of 1969, he returns to the Banks after having worked at Princeton, the U.S. Naval Academy and Delran High School.

Rutgers athletics is continuing its relationship with the loyal and hard-working group of orthopedic doctors headed by Dr. Joseph Zawadsky. The following list of doctors also contribute to the surgical and rehabilitative needs of the Scarlet Knights who are injured: Dr. Joseph Leddy, Dr. Michael Cole, Dr. Aldred Tria, Dr. Stephan Cook, Dr. Timothy Hosea, Dr. Mark Butler and Dr. David Hardwood.

The State University has its own Rutgers Athletic Substance Abuse Program, mandatory for all intercollegiate athletes. Headed by Dr. Robert Pandina, the program works closely with the University's Drug and Alcohol Education Program to provide education and counseling in conjunction with drug screening. In addition to Pandina's lectures, which are central to the program, experts on drugs, alcohol, medicine and law enforcement are brought in to speak to the athletes.

Pandina is an associate professor of psychology at Rutgers and the scientific director of the Center for Alcohol Studies. A former soccer, lacrosse and baseball player, Pandina holds degrees from Hartwick College and the University of Vermont.

RITA KAY THOMAS
Senior Assistant Director

Rita Kay Thomas celebrates her 25th year in the Division of Intercollegiate Athletics. She serves as the Compliance Director, Senior Women's Administrator, and co-chair of the Title IX Committee.

Hired in 1974-75 as the Director of Women's Athletics when the University initiated its athletic program for women, Thomas played a key role in its development and expansion. In addition to serving as tennis coach, she scheduled all the events, officials, and facilities for the original seven women's sports - field hockey, tennis, swimming, basketball, softball, track, and gymnastics. The demand for more sports was met by adding volleyball, crew, lacrosse, cross country, indoor track, fencing, golf, and soccer.

The program developed as a state and regional power, and many programs became national contenders. Swimming finished as high as ninth at the nationals, winning regional championships repeatedly under the direction of Olympic coach Frank Elm. Basketball followed with state and regional titles and national top 20 rankings, culminating in the AIAW National Championship title in 1982 under former Olympic head coach Theresa Greutz. At one time, all seven sports held state titles.

Thomas served as tournament director for numerous sports tournaments, which included state, conference, regional and NCAA national championships for field hockey, volleyball, softball, tennis, track and cross country, basketball, and gymnastics. She also served as compliance director for women's sports from 1974-1982 (AIAW). She has also served as President and Executive Secretary of the NJIAW.

Previously a junior high school and collegiate teacher, Thomas has also served as a coach for women's basketball and tennis and has been a mentor for coaches and student-athletes. Thomas received a B.S. degree in physical education with a minor in psychology from Mt. Scholastica College and a master's of Education from Syracuse.

RUTGERS ALL-AMERICAN JIM MONAHAN

RUTGERS ALL-AMERICANS

DOUG ALONGI 1993 ABCA THIRD-TEAM

Alongi was one of two All-Americans on the 1993 squad, which was one of Rutgers' finest. He helped lead RU to a school record in wins (38) while finishing with a .371 batting average, nine home runs, 39 stolen bases and 143 total bases. He set RU single-season records with his stolen bases (39) and total bases (146). His nine HRs places him 10th on the all-time single-season list. Alongi also recorded 18 doubles and six triples, ranking him fourth and second on those single-season lists, respectively. Alongi made just one error in right field and led all RU outfielders with 14 assists. Alongi also claimed Atlantic 10 Player of the Year honors as well as ECAC and NJCBA recognition.

JAKE DAUBERT 1998 LOUISVILLE SLUGGER FRESHMAN ALL-AMERICAN

Jake Daubert enjoyed a fine offensive season in 1998, batting .368 in his inaugural college season. In addition, he set or tied eight Rutgers records, the most impressive being the single-season RBI mark, which he eclipsed by knocking in 64 runs. Daubert was named Rutgers first BIG EAST Rookie of the Year and, at the end of the season, was named to the Louisville Slugger/TPX Freshman All-America squad.

GLEN GARDNER 1986 ABCA/BASEBALL AMERICA 1987 COLLEGIATE BASEBALL THIRD-TEAM

Now a coach with the Scarlet Knights, Gardner was one of the most outstanding outfielders in Rutgers' history and one of two Scarlet Knights to be chosen as two-time All-Americans. A 1986 Baseball America Freshman All-America, Gardner was second on the team in hitting that year with a .398 batting average while leading RU in hits (70), RBI (45), home runs (6), total bases (102), slugging percentage (.580), and on-base percentage (.470).

In 1987, Gardner followed his impressive debut by collecting Collegiate Baseball All-America honors. Gardner led the team in hitting at .368 despite missing 13 games with a hand injury. He finished second on the team in HRs (8) and RBI (45). Gardner also earned his second-consecutive Atlantic 10 and NJ honors as well as being named to the NCAA East Region first-team.

PETE HALL 1961 AACBC SECOND TEAM 1962 AACBC SECOND-TEAM

His 39 walks and 20 doubles were both second on the all-time season record.

Relief ace extraordinaire, Jim Kohl was one of the keys to Rutgers run in the East Region, where it finished one game shy of the College World Series. Kohl finished with a perfect 8-0 record and three saves while appearing in 22 games and starting just two. Even more impressive may be his team low 1.85 ERA or the fact that he walked just eight batters in 39.0 innings. In the 1990 tournament, where Rutgers went 4-2, he recorded 8.2 innings of scoreless relief.

JOE LYNCH 1986 ABCA THIRD-TEAM

As a designated hitter, Lynch was third on the Scarlet with a .364 average. He also smacked 3 HRs and drove in 30 runs. A captain in 1986, Lynch had 55 hits with 11 doubles and two triples. Madison earned first team All-BIG EAST honors and was the most dominant pitcher in the conference from the beginning of the season to the end. He finished 1996 with eight complete games and a school-record four shutouts. His 92.2 innings was the second-highest total in school history. The Scarlet left fielder led the team with a .400 batting average, 26 hits and 17 stolen bases. He was second on the team in home runs with 2 and RBI with 18. Appearing in all 17 games, he made just three errors. He was also a member of the 1950 College World Series team.

ADAM NEUBART 1996 MIZUNO FRESHMAN ALL-AMERICA

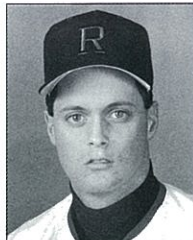

Freshman Adam Neubart was named Mizuno Freshman All-America, as announced by Collegiate Baseball. He led RU in eight offensive categories, and was the first Rutgers' Freshman All-America selection since Glen Gardner was chosen by Baseball America in 1986.

Zoccolillo attained All-America status in 1998 after being named to the All-BIG EAST First Team in both his sophomore and junior seasons. Zoccolillo was the team's top offensive threat, slugging a club record 12 home runs while knocking in 59 runs and batting .387. In the opening game of the NCAA Tournament, Zoccolillo established himself as one of the nation's top hitters, going 5-for-5 in a 17-15 win over Auburn.

BASEBALL IN THE RUTGERS OLYMPIC SPORTS HALL OF FAME

One of the oldest traditions at Rutgers University, the Scarlet Knight Baseball program has been successful for over 129 years. There have been 12 All-Americans and nine trips to the NCAA Tournament and one trip the the College World Series. With all of this illustrious history, you can image that there have been several "Special" players on "The Banks." Five of those players have been selected to the Rutgers University Olympic Sports Hall of Fame which honors the best of the best in Rutgers' Sports.

GLEN GARDNER '91

Gardner, one of the most prolific hitters in Rutgers baseball history, was elected after a stellar three-year career (1986-88), which saw him earn two All-America awards as well as collect a host of offensive records. Gardner, one of New Jersey's top all-time athletes, came to Rutgers from Immaculata High School, where he was a first-team All-State choice in both football and baseball. Following his freshman season, Gardner was named Freshman All-America by Baseball America. He was drafted after his sophomore season by the San Diego Padres in the 13th round of the Major League Baseball Amateur draft. He chose to stay at Rutgers for his junior season and that year set nine single-season offensive records and earned All-America honors from Collegiate Baseball. He was a three-time Atlantic 10 choice and a three-time New Jersey College Baseball Association honoree. Following his junior season, Gardner was drafted by the Atlanta Braves and he began a professional career in that organization. Gardner ended his career as the Rutgers all-time leader in six offensive categories and ranked in the top 10 in four others.

PETE HALL '62

HALL is one of only two Scarlet Knights to twice earn All-American honors (1961 and 1962) in baseball. During his three letter-winning years (1960-62), the Scarlet Knights were 40-14-1. The former third baseman holds fifth place on the career batting average chart (.384) and second place on the career slugging average chart (.612) in the Scarlet Knight record book. Hall was a 1961 draft pick of the New York Yankees. Hall was the Upstream Award winner in 1962. In 1961, he led the team in hitting (.397), runs (21), hits (31), RBI (30) and made just five errors in starting every game.

HARDING PETERSON '50

Peterson, the backstop for the 1950 Rutgers College World Series team, was a second-team All-America selection by the American Baseball Coaches Association and a first-team District II choice that year, as well. Known for his defensive ability, Peterson made just two errors in 27 games in 1950 while hitting .276 (27-98), with 21 runs, 23 RBI (second on team), 4 doubles and 2 triples. His best season as a collegian was in 1948, when he hit for a .312 average (10-32) with 7 RBI and 3 doubles. In his three varsity seasons, Peterson led his teams to a combined 57-16-2 record, highlighted by a third-place finish in the 1950 College World Series. Following his career at Rutgers, Peterson signed as free agent with Pittsburgh Pirates in 1950 but had his career interrupted by Korean War service. Following the war, Peterson played four years with Pirates until a broken arm in a home plate collision hastened his retirement. A well-respected baseball man, Peterson spent over 30 years with the Pirates, including stints as a player (4 years), manager (9 years), farm director and scouting director. He was named VP for player personnel in 1976 and named executive VP in 1979 and is possibly best known for the trade of C Manny Sanguillen to Oakland A's for manager Chuck Tanner in 1976. His dealings helped bring the Pirates their World Series Championship in 1979 Peterson also spent two years with the Yankees - and was a Co-General Manager in 1990 and two more years with San Diego as a scout.

JEFF TORBORG '63

Jeff Torborg was a 1963 All-American and set the school record for season batting average (.537) that year, which was the national leading average for 100 at bats and under. his .537 average was the highest ever recorded up to that time and since then, only two college players have hit for a better average. His slugging percentage that year (1.032) is also a single-season standard. In 1963, he lead the team with 21 RBI and six home runs. A draft choice of the Los Angeles Dodgers, he played 10 seasons in the major, seven with the Dodgers and three with the California Angels. He caught three no-hitters, a perfect game with Sandy Koufax and another no-hitter with Bill Singer of the Dodgers and Nolan Ryan of the Angels; and was the backstop in Don Drysdale's record fifth straight shutout in 1968. He was a successful manager with the Chicago White Sox, the Cleveland Indians and the New York Mets, winning the Baseball Writer's Association, Associated Press, united Press International and The Sporting News Manager of the Year award. in his three-year career from 1961-63, the Westfield, NJ native batted .390. his number (#10) was retired in 1992. He still holds the career slugging percentage mark of .684. During his career, the Knights were 15-4-1, 14-4 and 11-5 for a three-year mark of 40-13-1 (.741 winning percentage).

RAYMOND VAN CLEEF '52

Van Cleef was a two-time All-American in baseball, garnering first-team accolades from the American Association of College Baseball Coaches in 1950 and 1951. In the process, he became the first Eastern player to repeat as an All-American. A veteran of two NCAA Tournaments, he was the starting centerfielder on the 1950 Rutgers team which advanced to the College World Series. He batted .458 (11-24) in the series en route to MVP honors, while leading the Knights to a co-runner-up finish. Van Cleef batted .404 that season, his junior year, and followed it up with a .378 mark in 1951. He currently ranks second in career batting average at Rutgers. He set the Rutgers single season record for triples with seven in 1950 and stands second in career triples with 13. Van Cleef is also third in career slugging percentage with a .606 mark. The Knights were 50-21-2 his three varsity years. He also won three letters in basketball and one in soccer.

THE 1950 COLLEGE WORLD SERIES TEAM

RUTGERS 1950 COLLEGE WORLD SERIES
GAME-BY-GAME RECAP

The Scarlet Knights opened play on Thursday, June 15 in the opening game of the tournament, against defending national champion Texas (22-5)... Texas took a 2-0 lead in the second on Frank Womack's two-run homer, and Murray Wall pitched six shutout innings before giving up a run in the seventh... Trailing 2-1, Rutgers rallied to take the lead in the eighth, scoring three runs off Wall on three walks, two singles and an error... Wall walked home a run, and Rutgers first baseman Bob Suba stole home for another... Suba finished the game with three stolen bases, as Rutgers set a College World Series record with a total of seven for the game... Herman Hering steadied after giving up the early home run, and although he walked seven and struck out only one, he also allowed only three hits in going the distance for the win... Ray Van Cleef paced the attack, going three for four, as Rutgers won, 4-2.

Saturday, June 17, Rutgers faced Wisconsin in a second-round winner's bracket matchup before only 955 fans in steady drizzle... Tom Forster pitched a complete-game six-hitter, and Van Cleef went four-for-five with a double and a run scored to pace the Scarlet 5-3 win, and a 2-and-0 record in the tournament...

On Monday, June 19, Rutgers met Washington State in the winner's bracket final... The game was a terrific pitcher's duel between Al Willenbrock for Rutgers and Rod Keogh for the Cougars... Willenbrock gave up an early home run to Ted Tappe of the Cougars, but the Scarlet tied it in the fourth on a triple by Jim Monahan and an infield out... That would prove to be the only hit off Keogh, but he walked eight and was frequently in trouble... In the seventh, Rutgers loaded the bases, with Willenbrock up... without warning, (Rutgers later said it was not a called play), the runner on third tried to steal home and was tagged out... As he broke, the runner on second started toward third, then hesitated, and was eventually run down and tagged out to complete an unusual double play, killing the potential rally... In the top of the ninth, Washington State loaded the bases with no outs... Don Paul grounded sharply to third baseman Steve Kalapos, who threw home for the force there... catcher Hardy Peterson then threw to first to double Paul, and Suba, the first baseman, then spotted Gordon Brunswick, the runner at second, trying to make a surprise dash to home... Suba threw back to Peterson, who tagged Brunswick to complete the triple play... It was the second of three triple plays in the CWS... In the top of the 10th, Washington State finally broke through on an outfield error, hit batter and a two-run double by Terry Carroll to take a 3-1 lead, and Keogh completed his one hitter by retiring the side in the bottom of the 10th... Washington State improved to 3-0, and Rutgers fell to 2-1... Van Cleef, after going seven-for-nine in the first two games was held to 0-for-5...

On Wednesday, June 21, Rutgers came back from its one-hit outing to blow out Wisconsin 16-2... The Scarlet collected 11 hits, including two apiece by four different players, and the Badgers unraveled, committing seven errors... (Van Cleef was 1-for-6)... Herman Hering turned in his second complete game win of the tournament, scattering eight hits, and also contributed a triple and a single to the 11-hit attack... Wisconsin was eliminated at 2-2, and Rutgers joined Texas and Washington State at 3-1 (Texas had beaten the Cougars, 12-1, on Tuesday). Washington State drew the bye into the championship game, and Rutgers faced Texas for the second time, on Thursday, June 22. The Scarlet went with second-round winner Tom Foster, but Texas knocked him out early, scoring three in the second, and five in the fourth on their way to a 15-9 win... Charlie Gorin went the distance for Texas, despite allowing 12 hits and nine runs, as the Longhorns out-hit Rutgers, 15-12... Texas went on to win the title over Washington State the next night, 3-0, while Rutgers finished third at 3-2... finishing the season at 17-4-1... Van Cleef was 2-for-4 in the final game to finish the CWS at .417 on 10-for-24, and was named the Most Outstanding Player.

The BIG EAST Conference

While the BIG EAST Conference will proudly celebrate an anniversary in 1998-99, it may be surprising that the anniversary is only the league's 20th. A conference that has enjoyed tremendous success in the classroom and in the athletic arena has built its long list of accomplishments in just the previous 19 years.

The BIG EAST became a reality on May 31, 1979, following a meeting of athletic directors from Providence College, St. John's, Georgetown and Syracuse Universities. Seton Hall, Connecticut and Boston College completed the original seven-school alliance. Further expansion included Villanova (1980-81), Pittsburgh (1982-83) and Miami (1991-92). Rutgers, West Virginia and Notre Dame began play in 1995-96.

Since its birth, The BIG EAST Conference has always pledged to be a proactive - rather than reactive - group. That credo may never have been more in evidence than in 1994 when the world of college athletics was undergoing an unprecedented period of realignment and the BIG EAST was facing critical membership issues.

The BIG EAST added Rutgers, West Virginia and Notre Dame as full conference members in two separate expansions. In March of '94, the BIG EAST admitted Rutgers and West Virginia as full-time members. Both schools, which boast wide-ranging, successful athletic programs, had been members of The BIG EAST Football Conference. In July, the BIG EAST, then a group of 12, added Notre Dame, one of the nation's most prestigious private institutions.

During the 1997-98 season, the league again was well represented by its membership and student-athletes on the national scene. In January, Notre Dame soccer player Cindy Daws was named the winner of the Honda-Broderick Cup as Collegiate Woman of the Year. For the third consecutive season, the prestigious honor was awarded to a BIG EAST student-athlete as Daws followed Connecticut basketball players Rebecca Lobo ('94-95) and Jennifer Rizzotti ('95-96).

Villanova's Carrie Tollefson won the individual 1997 NCAA cross country title in November. It was the seventh female individual national crown for the conference. Just two weeks later, Connecticut and Notre Dame met in the NCAA Women's Soccer Championship semifinals. The Huskies went on to play for the national title while the Irish made their fourth consecutive trip to the final weekend. The accomplishments continued into the winter as Miami's Rio Ramirez was named the NCAA Diver of the Year at the national swimming and diving meet.

Traditionally, the BIG EAST can boast that some of its best students are also some of its best athletes. Notre Dame's Pat Garrity, the BIG EAST Player of the Year in '96-97 and the league's men's basketball scholar-athlete in '97-98, earned GTE/CoSIDA First Team Academic All-America honors as a junior and senior. BIG EAST student-athletes have continued their success after leaving the classrooms and playing fields. Former Connecticut women's basketball standout Dr. Leigh Curl was recently inducted into the GTE Academic All-America Hall of Fame.

While the membership has increased, the focus of the BIG EAST remains unchanged. It is a group that reflects a tradition of broad-based programs, led by administrators and coaches who place a constant emphasis on academic integrity. The BIG EAST Conference has enjoyed a leadership role nationally. Its student-athletes own significantly high graduation rates and their record of scholastic achievement notably reflects a balance between inter-collegiate athletics and academics.

Any successful consortium enjoys outstanding leadership. Michael Tranghese, the league's first full-time employee, and for 11 years the associate of Dave Gavitt, took over the Commissioner's reins in June, 1990, after Gavitt left to take a position with the Boston Celtics. The expansion in membership is only a portion of Tranghese's achievements. In his first year at the helm, he administered the formation of The BIG EAST Football Conference. The University of Miami, the largest private institution in the Southeast, became the league's 10th full member on October 10, 1990. Tranghese coordinated the expansions in 1994 that included Rutgers, West Virginia and Notre Dame.

BIG EAST sports attract the interest of followers in the nation's largest media markets including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, D.C., Miami, Pittsburgh and Hartford. The league has long been considered a leader in innovative concepts in promotion and publicity, particularly regarding television. Those efforts have resulted in unparalleled visibility for BIG EAST student-athletes. Exclusive long-range television contracts with CBS and ESPN, Inc. provide BIG EAST basketball with more television exposure than any other conference.

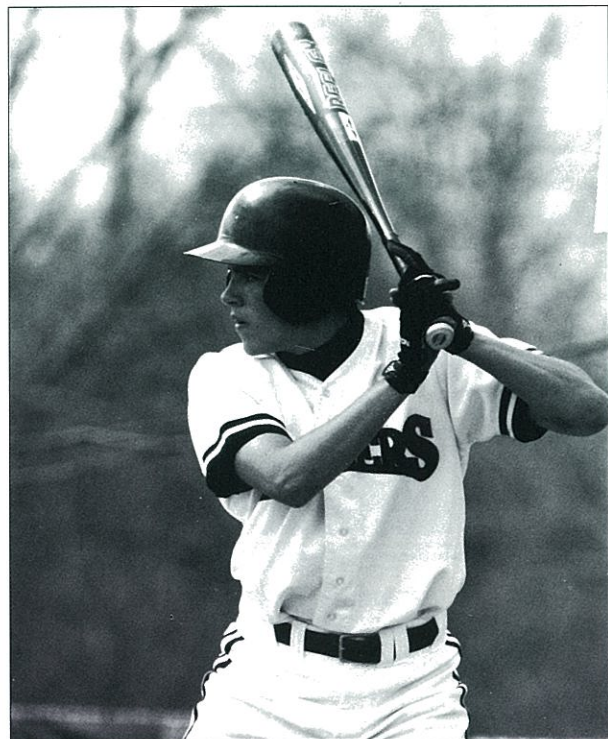

While BIG EAST basketball games are regular sellouts at campus and major public arenas, including the annual BIG EAST Tournament Championship in Madison Square Garden, attendance figures also are significant at BIG EAST soccer, women's basketball and baseball games.

More than 350 BIG EAST athletes have earned All-America recognition and dozens have won individual NCAA national championships. The BIG EAST has been well-represented in U.S. or foreign national and Olympic teams, with several athletes earning gold medals in the summer Olympics in Atlanta in '96, Barcelona in '92, Seoul in '88 and Los Angeles in '84.

The BIG EAST has its headquarters in Providence where the conference administers to over 5,000 athletes in 19 championship events.

introducing fear-free color notebook computing... no experience necessary.

GeoBook™... E-Mail, Web-Surfing, Word Processing & Productivity finally made easy.

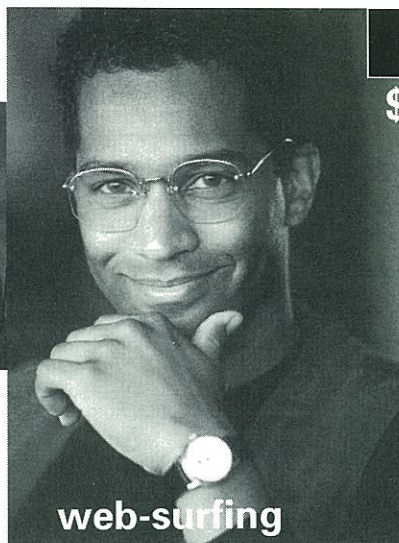

Are you one of those people whose only association with computers is wistfully looking at them and feeling intimidated? Yet, you want to casually pepper your conversation with phrases like "e-mail," "the Web," and other timeless terms of the information age.

Well, thanks to Brother, your salvation has arrived. It's called GeoBook," and it's a notebook-sized computing device for users whose only concerns are simplicity, functionality and the bottom line. GeoBook delivers on all these and does so for only about $599.

Productivity, Web-Surfing & E-Mail With Ease

In PC-land, that price screams "sacrifice," but the Brother GeoBook is anything but. It has a graphic web browser that will let you enter the world of www dot whatever. There's also full e-mail capabilities so you can circumvent the post office and still stay in touch with your friends.

GeoBook comes complete with BrotherWorks™ '98 (a fancy name for work-related stuff such as word processing, spreadsheets, etc.). Like everything about the GeoBook, BrotherWorks is designed to be intuitively easy to use. In fact, if you're like most GeoBook owners, you'll be up and running as soon as you turn it on. Chances are the only time you'll refer to your owner's manual is when you'll need Brother's address to send them a thank you letter (or e-mail!).

Crashproof & Cracklingly Fast

Because all its functions are built-in, GeoBook is virtually crashproof and starts up in a fraction of the time of most notebook PC's. In addition, it comes with everything you need to do everything it does – there's an internal 33.6/14.4k bps unbelievable

data/fax modem for e-mail, web-surfing, and sending faxes plus PC-file compatibility for swapping disks with PC users. The 10.4" Color VGA LCD display lets you work in any lighting condition.

In a world where performance is measured by how imposing a product is price and feature wise, the Brother GeoBook NB-80C screams user friendly – and at a price to match.

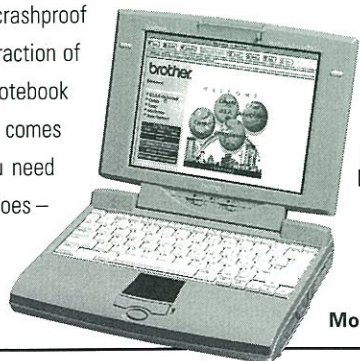

Now if only those guys could design a VCR....

Available at: Office Depot, Global, Fry's, OfficeMax, J&R Music World, Sharper Image, Tiger Direct and other fine stores.
