RECORD BOOK

UPDATED THROUGH THE 2024 SEASON

Tradition

The Siena Lacrosse program has reached new heights over the last decade, punctuating an already storied history which spans more than five decades. Ready to move to new heights under the leadership of Liam Gleason, the Saints will build off of what former head coach Brian Brecht laid as the groundwork, which Gleason picked up previously as an assistant under Brecht at Siena.

The Saints have captured the program's first three MAAC Championships over an eight-season span from 2007-14, culminating in the school's initial NCAA Tournament appearances. During this span, Siena won 87 games – which was tied for the eighth most nationally – and included the program's first two wins over USILA Top-20 opponents.

Siena's 1979 team is one of just 13 undefeated teams in NCAA history.

The Saints have dominated their MAAC competition over this time. From 2007-14 Siena captured six regular-season crowns in an eight-season span, which culminated with six consecutive MAAC Championship Game appearances. The Saints went an impressive 48-8 (.857) in MAAC regular-season action over that time and at one point won 20 consecutive league games, marking the fifth longest conference winning streak in NCAA history. Siena also won 15 straight MAAC road games during this stretch, further highlighting a marked improvement for a program which was just 20-66 overall in its first 11 seasons in the league and had never even qualified for the conference tournament.

The Saints had not reached these kinds of heights in nearly 30 years, dating back to when the program was known as the Indians. Siena went a perfect 12-0 in 1979 to record the program's only undefeated season and kick start a span where the team posted a 41-4 mark over an historic four-year stretch that made the region sit up and take notice.

Tony Asterino, Tom Baldwin and Steve O'Shea cultivated legendary careers over this period in which the trio combined to score a whopping 741 points during their time donning the Green and Gold. Asterino headlined the ultra-talented group, leading the nation in scoring in each of his final three seasons. He finished his Siena career with 304 points – which currently ranks as the ninth highest total in NCAA Division I history – and his 6.47 career points per game average still stands as the NCAA benchmark.

However, it would take nearly a quarter century for Siena to not only experience a rebirth, but begin arguably the greatest chapter in the program's history.

With the influx of new offensive talents in Matt Donovan, Chris Zarins, Ryan Duggan and Shaun Dunn, just to name a few, the Saints began their latest run in 2007. This influx of fine student athletes spurred the Saints to prominence, which became evident when Siena upset 17th ranked Loyola for one of the biggest regular-season wins in program history in 2008. 2009 saw the Green and Gold win their first-ever MAAC Tournament title, and as a result, the Saints trekked onward to their debut in NCAA Tournament play.

Tony Asterino holds the NCAA Division I record, averaging 6.47 career points per game.

Perhaps most notable during that time period, though, was the domination of goalkeeper Brent Herbst. As an upperclassman, Herbst emerged as one of the nation's premier net-minders, earning two All-America Honorable Mentions and playing in the North/South All-Star Game as a senior. In June of 2010, Herbst became the first Siena lacrosse player to be drafted by Major League Lacrosse, going to the Long Island Lizards with the draft's 22nd pick. Herbst currently ranks fifth in NCAA history with a 7.02 career goals against average.

The 2011 season may have been the most memorable one yet, as the Saints once again cruised to both the MAAC Regular-Season and Tournament Championships and a second trip to the NCAA Tournament in three years. Siena won a program-record 13 games and finished the season ranked No. 20 in both the USILA Coaches' Poll and Nike/Inside Lacrosse Media Poll, marking the first national rankings in school history.

A new wave of stars carried the program into the most recent phase of the team's success, most namely in Bryan Neufeld and Tom Morr who would each leave their own indelible marks on the program. A two-time MAAC Offensive Player of the Year, Neufeld scored more career goals (156) than any other member of the NCAA Division I Class of 2012. A Senior CLASS

Award candidate, Neufeld was joined by Morr on the list, who became the first student athlete in Siena College history to be named one of 10 finalists nationally in any sport.

Siena advanced to MAAC Championship Game appearances in six consecutive seasons, including the first three years under Svec. After suffering heartbreaking, last-second one-goal losses in the conference title games in both 2012 and 2013, the Saints broke through with their third MAAC Championship in 2014.

Attackman Richie Hurley and face-off specialist Casey Dowd etched their names alongside of some of the program's all-time greats in leading the Saints to their most recent title. Named the MAAC Offensive Player of the Year and the program's fifth-ever USILA All-American Honorable Mention, Hurley broke the MAAC's all-time scoring record with 82 points and Siena's all-time assists mark with 48. Dowd emerged as not only one of the top face-off specialists in the nation, but arguably the greatest in program history. He broke Siena's all-time record for both groundballs and face-offs won during that junior season, and graduated ranking tied for sixth all-time in NCAA history with 472 groundballs and sixth with 772 face-offs won.

The Saints have emerged as the team to beat in the MAAC year in and year out, having boasted a 61-16 (.792) overall MAAC record including conference tournament action from 2007-2015.

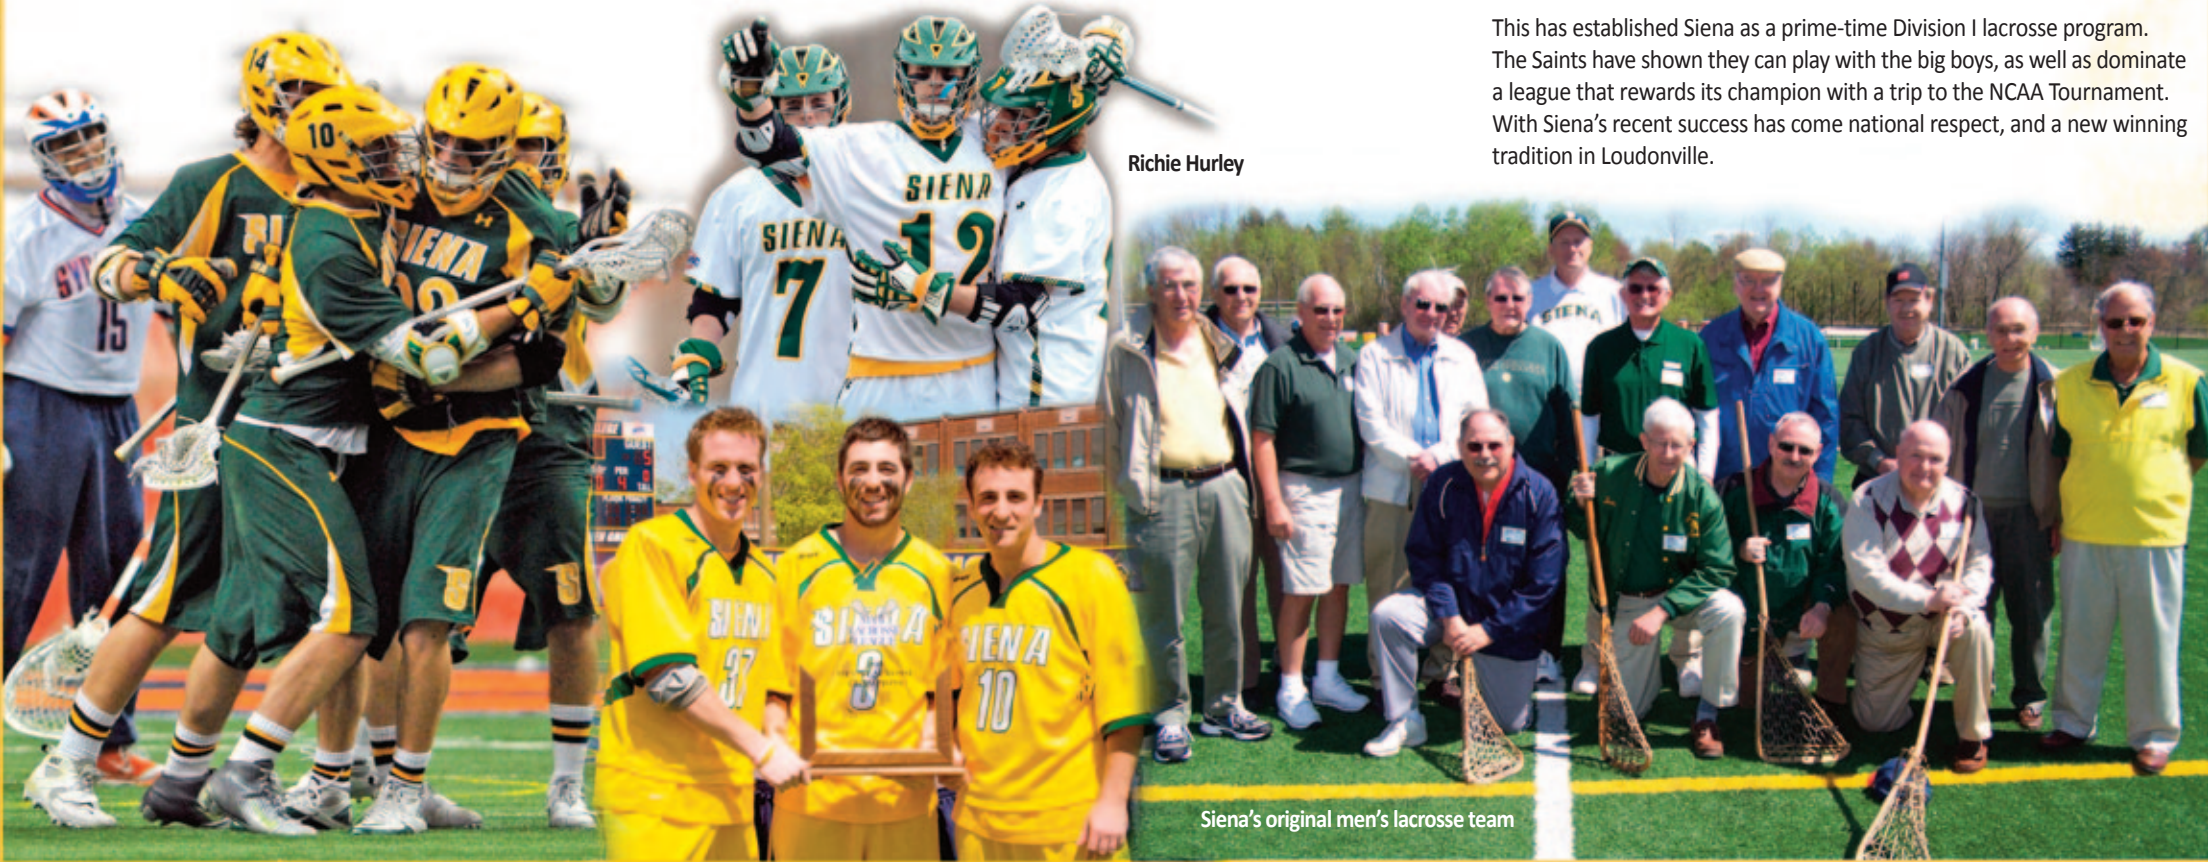

Siena stickmen have been honored with 68 All-MAAC Selections, as well as 84 spots on the MAAC All-Academic Team. Since 2007, the Saints have boasted five MAAC Offensive Players of the Year, five MAAC Coach of the Year awards, four MAAC Defensive Players of the Year, four MAAC Rookies of the Year, and in 2014 the program's first-ever MAAC Face-off Specialist of the Year in Dowd.

The coach Gleason era ushered in a new wave of success as he successfully guided the Saints back to the MAAC Championship Game in 2023 for the first time since 2014, and earned its most victories (nine) since the team last won the MAAC title that same season.

This has established Siena as a prime-time Division I lacrosse program. The Saints have shown they can play with the big boys, as well as dominate a league that rewards its champion with a trip to the NCAA Tournament. With Siena's recent success has come national respect, and a new winning tradition in Loudonville.

Siena Lacrosse on the World Stage

2010 Federation of International Lacrosse World Championships

Manchester, England

Team Ireland – Matt Walsh '06

Walsh led Ireland to a 6-1 record and ninth-place finish in a field that featured 30 nations.

Matt Walsh

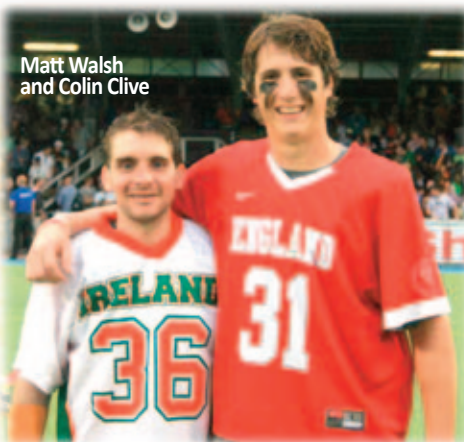

2012 European Lacrosse Championships

Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Team England – Colin Clive '14

Team Ireland – Matt Walsh '06

Clive and England defeated Walsh and Ireland 15-5 in the Championship Game. Clive scored a hat trick in the Championship Game and finished with 17 goals in the tournament in leading England to a perfect 8-0 record. After an 0-3 start and facing elimination, Walsh guided Ireland to five consecutive wins to advance to the final, and tallied 14 goals as the Irish posted their best-ever finish (second) in the European Championships.

Matt Walsh and Colin Clive

2014 Federation of International Lacrosse World Championships

Commerce, Colo.

Team Argentina – Faus Bernabo '10

Team England – Max Bonsall '15

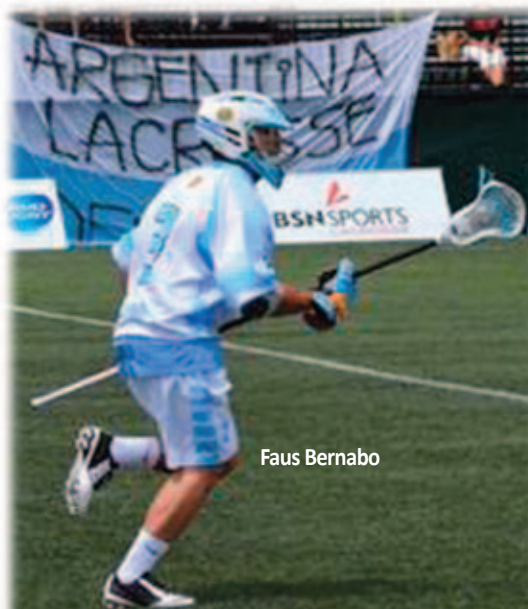

Colin Clive '14

Team Latvia – Chris Zarins '09

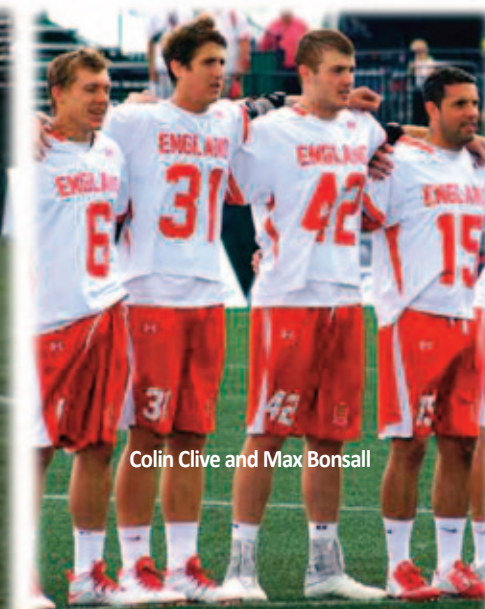

Bernabo was elected as one of two team captains for Argentina, which he helped guide to the nation's first-ever World Lacrosse Championships victory, a 13-6 win over Colombia on July 15. Bernabo started each of Argentina's first four games before suffering a tournament-ending injury. He tallied two assists, 10 groundballs, seven caused turnovers and went 8-for-19 at the face-off X for Argentina, which finished 36th overall.

Both Bonsall and Clive were key contributors for an English squad which won its final three games of the tournament, culminating with a 15-13 victory over their rival neighbors from Scotland to secure fifth place in the 38-nation event. Bonsall appeared in five games for England, making three starts on defense. He picked up five groundballs and caused a turnover and tallied a team-high three groundballs in England's loss to the United States. Clive started all eight of England's games on attack, tallying 14 points on 10 goals and four assists including a team-high four goals in the squad's overtime loss to Japan.

Zarins tied for the tournament lead, scoring 42 points, and led all participants with 19 assists for Latvia, which posted a 5-3 record at the championships. He scored the game-winning goal in Latvia's final game against Poland as the nation secured a 19th-place finish.

Chris Zarins

2018 Federation of International Lacrosse World Championships

Netanya, Israel

Team Latvia – Chris Zarins '09

Team Australia – Chris Robertson '18

The competition in 2018 hosted a record 50 nations, as Netanya became the first non-English-speaking country to act as host in the history of the event. Each country was slated to play eight games in nine days. Robertson and Australia were put into the Blue Group, the biggest group of the competition that features the United States, Canada, Iroquois National, England, and Scotland. Zarins and Latvia squared off with Greece and Mexico in the Purple Group.

Robertson would help Australia to a 3-5 overall record when it was all said and done, giving them a fourth-place overall finish in the tournament. He would put up 10 goals and 11 assists for 21 points, the 16th most in the competition. Zarins would score 18 goals and dish out 17 assists for 35 points which were second overall, helping lead Latvia to a 4-4 record and finishing 17th.
