NEWS AND NOTES

Davis has to collect more than Tanaya Atkinson's 1,053 career boards.

> The forward ranks second in program history in made field goals with 736.

SOPHOMORE SENSATION

> Sophomore Jasha Clinton enjoyed an impressive first season in North Philly.

> Last year's AAC All-Freshman team selection averaged 14.4 points, 4.1 assists, 3.4 rebounds and 2.1 steals per game for the Owls.

> Clinton was named the AAC Freshman of the Week twice last season, along with earning Big 5 Player of the Week on Jan. 25.

THIRD TIME'S THE CHARM

> Davis was one of 20 women's basketball players named to the 2021 Cheryl Miller Award Watch List at the beginning of the 2021-22 season.

> This marks the third-straight season the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame and the Women's Basketball Coaches Association have added Davis to this prestigious award watch list.

> Davis is one of only three players to be named to the prestigious list for the past three seasons.

> The annual award in its fifth year recognizes the top small forwards in Women's NCAA Division I college basketball and named in honor of three-time Naismith Player of the Year, Cheryl Miller.

Coined by legendary Temple basketball coach John Chaney whose teams were noted for their hard-nosed, lunch-pail passion by which they played, the philosophy has embedded itself in the women's basketball program. An ever-present figure on Temple's campus, Chaney passed away on January 29, 2021.

HEAD COACH TONYA CARDOZA

14TH SEASON | 243-176 (.578)

4	NCAA Tournament Bids
4	Philadelphia Big 5 Championships
3	WNIT Bids
1	Conference Regular Season Title

Temple's all-time winningest head coach Tonya Cardoza enters her 14th season at the helm of the nationally recognized Owls.

During the 2020-21 season, Cardoza led the Owls to an 11-11 record during the shortened season due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Cardoza led the 2019-20 Owls to a 16-15 record for their best finish in three seasons. Junior Mia Davis led Temple with her 18.8 points and 10.2 rebounds per game. Davis garnered national recognition in her third season in the Cherry and White, as she was named a Top 10 Cheryl Miller Award Finalist and earned USB-WA All-America Honorable Mention.

Cardoza's 2016-17 season was one of her best, as Temple went 24-8 overall, earned an NCAA bid, and finished second in the tough American Athletic Conference. The Owls' success garnered her several individual honors, among them being named one of 10 finalists for the WBCA National Coach of the Year Award. Cardoza shared American Athletic Conference Coach of the Year honors with UConn's Geno Auriemma and was also named the Philadelphia Big 5 Coach of the Year for the fourth time in her career.

Temple's 2015-16 season marked the second-straight 20-win campaign, as Cardoza guided the Owls to an overall mark of 23-12. In the AAC, Temple finished third, compiling an impressive 13-5 record, the best finish for the team in American history. The culmination of the 2015-16 season saw the Owls earn a post-season bid, where they advanced to the quarterfinals of the 2016 WNIT, before a narrow 77-76 loss at Michigan.

Cardoza's 2014-15 squad made the first post-season final four in program history, advancing to the WNIT semifinals before falling in overtime at West Virginia. The Owls finished with a 20-win season, going 20-17 overall, including a 12-6 mark in the tough American Athletic Conference.

2013-14 marked a new era of women's basketball at Temple for Cardoza— competing in the inaugural season of the American Athletic Conference. The Owls faced seven nationally ranked opponents— tying the school record for the most in season— including two games against defending national champion and No. 1 Connecticut and Final Four participant Louisville. The young Owls finished fifth in American play showing the league and the nation that they had fight.

The 2010-11 Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year, Cardoza led the Owls to three consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances, advancing to the Second Round in both 2010 and 2011. The Owls narrowly missed earning a berth in the NCAA Tournament in 2011-12, but took a top spot in the Women's National Invitation Tournament (WNIT) and advanced to the third round.

Along with earning Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year honors for the Owls' performance in 2010-11, Cardoza was honored as the Big 5 Coach of the Year for a third time. She earned that honor in each of her first three seasons at Temple, and the Owls earned their sixth straight Big 5 title in her first year with the program. Temple won the Big 5 again in 2011, and finished as runner-up in both 2010 and 2012.

Cardoza led Temple to at least 20 wins in her first four years at the helm. During her inaugural season in 2008-09, Cardoza guided TU to a 21-10 mark and an NCAA Tournament appearance. She was a finalist for the National Rookie Coach of the Year award. The Owls reached 25 wins in 2009-10 which tied for the second-most in the history of the program. In 2010-11, the Owls finished 24-9 which included a 15-game win streak and a 13-1 record in the A10. The 2011-12 season saw Temple go 23-10 and win 14 in a row, once again with a 13-1 mark in the conference. During their final year of A10 Conference play in 2012-13, Cardoza guided the nation's second-youngest team (six freshmen).

The Owls finished in the Top 3 in the A10 for three consecutive seasons. In Cardoza's first season she coached the squad to an upset over No. 13 Xavier, making her the first coach in TU women's basketball history to upset a ranked team during her rookie season.

Arriving at Connecticut at the start of the 1994-95 season, Cardoza helped guide the Huskies to an unprecedented 465-41 record, seven Final Four appearances and six No. 1 National Rankings in the final Associated Press poll. Cardoza was a part of four undefeated regular seasons, including two unbeaten national championship teams in 1994-95 and 2001-02.

A 1991 University of Virginia graduate with a degree in anthropology, Cardoza starred for the Cavaliers, leading the team to four consecutive NCAA National Tournament appearances.
