STATE-OF-THE-ART FACILITIES DALLAS ATHLETIC CLUB

SMU and The Dallas Athletic Club have entered into an agreement to establish the DAC as the home of the SMU men's and women's golf programs. As part of the agreement, SMU will construct a new $4 million practice facility and clubhouse on the grounds of the DAC.

"We have made a commitment at SMU to be top-25 in all we do," said SMU Director of Athletics Steve Orsini. "This golf complex will exceed that standard and will help our golf teams remain among the elite in collegiate golf while we maintain the high academic performance of our golf student-athletes."

The complex will consist of a team clubhouse, men's & women's locker rooms, a Golf Hall of Fame and trophy room, coaches' offices, study rooms, a conference room, a workout facility and a media room. There will also be two hitting bays equipped with state-of-the-art video and swing analysis capabilities. On the five acres surrounding the complex, there will be two large putting greens - one Bentgrass and one Bermuda grass. Chet Williams of The Nicklaus Design Team will create a four-hole short course with a multitude of practice stations for every conceivable lie or situation.

"We are pleased that the Dallas Athletic Club will be the home course of the SMU golf teams," said DAC President Allen Hundley. "We believe this association will enhance the fine tradition of golf at this Club, while providing an exceptional, state-of-the-art facility for SMU. DAC is committed to a wonderful working relationship with SMU, their coaches and players."

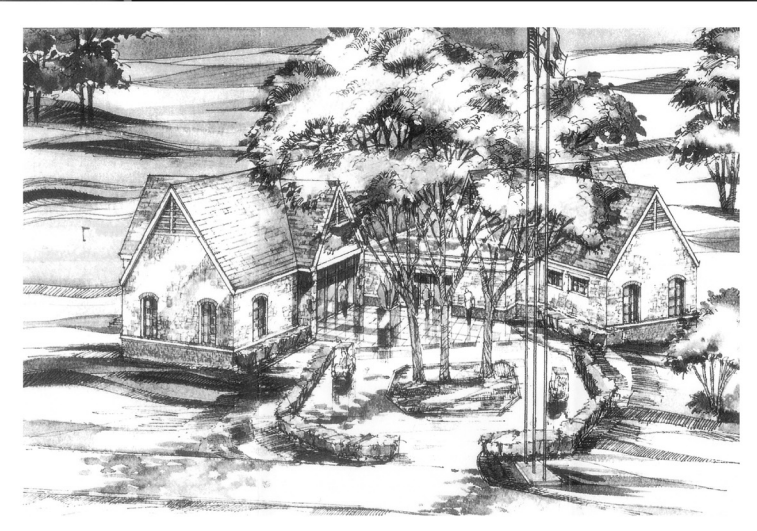

Architect Robert McKinney, former Texas Amateur Champion, said, "This project will set the standard for all college teams in the nation."

The SMU men's golf team claimed the National Championship in 1954 - while the DAC served as their home course - and has remained among the nation's top programs, winning three of the last four conference championships. The SMU women also won a National Championship, claiming the 1979 AIAW crown. They are two-time conference champions and have finished in the nation's top 25 12 times in the last 32 seasons.

"This awesome opportunity for SMU's golf programs and the DAC is a result of the hard work and efforts put in by Jay Loar," said SMU Head Women's Golf Coach Todd Selders. "The women's program is very appreciative of this opportunity with DAC and will show its gratitude by keeping and elevating its status among the elite programs across the country. We are very fortunate to be able to use the facilities that we do in the Metroplex and our success is owed to their professionals and members."

The Jack Nicklaus-designed Blue Course offers natural waterways, rolling hills and a splendid variety of trees. The Blue Course has hosted a number of notable tournaments including the 1963 PGA Championship, 1991 Texas Amateur Championship, 1993 Southern Juniors Championship, 1997 USGA Mid-Amateur Championship, 1998 AJGA Boys Championship, and the 2003 Texas Amateur Championship.

The Jack Nicklaus Gold Course stretches over 7,000 yards and plays to a par 72, with 419 Bermuda fairways and Bentgrass greens. The Gold Course's notable tournaments include the 1997 USGA Mid-Amateur Championship, 1998 AJGA Boys Championship, and the 2002 TSWGA Championship.

A 1979 SMU graduate, the late Payne Stewart won three major championships on the PGA Tour. Stewart won the 1989 PGA Championship, the 1991 U.S. Open Championship and the 1999 U.S. Open Championship. Each year, SMU hosts the Payne Stewart Cup benefitting the SMU men's golf program and named after one of the most accomplished golfers of his era.

A four-time All-America selection, Hank Kuehne (left) was the 1998 U.S. Amateur Champion. Kuehne was ranked No. 1 by Golf Digest in 1998 and was selected to three consecutive All-WAC teams. He shot a school-record 63 at the Golf World Invitational in 1996. Kuehne led the PGA Tour in driving distance in 2003, averaging 321.4 yards per drive in 71 rounds for the season.

In the summer of 2007, former Mustang great Colt Knost had one of the greatest amateur runs in the history of golf. Knost won the 2007 U.S. Amateur Public Links Championship and the 2007 U.S. Amateur Championship, becoming just the second golfer ever to win the Amateur and the Amateur Public Links in the same year. Knost went on to help lead the USA to a one-point victory over Great Britain & Ireland in the 41st Walker Cup Match. He finished the 2007 year the No. 1 ranked amateur in the world. Knost was also named to the 2007 PING All-American and was awarded the 2007 Conference USA Golfer of the Year

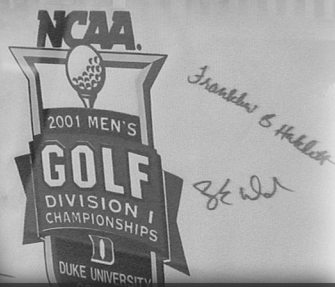

SMU MUSTANG GOLF 2007-08

For three straight years (04-06), the SMU men's golf team captured its conference championship. After winning the WAC Championship in 2004, the Mustangs closed out their stay in the WAC in fine fashion, defeating Tulsa in a playoff in 2005. The Mustangs made it three-straight in 2006, winning the Conference USA Championship in their first year in the conference.

Named after the late former SMU great and PGA star Payne Stewart, the annual Payne Stewart Cup benefits the SMU men's golf program.

SMU has advanced to the NCAA Championships four of the past seven years. In 2001, SMU advanced to the Big Dance for the first time since 1996 and went on to finish 15th at the championship. In 2003, the Mustangs finished 28th at the championship. In 2004 SMU took 25th place at the NAAs, and in 2005, the Ponies made the Big Dance and finished 26th. Former Mustang Will Dodson (left) led the Ponies in 2004, being named to the PING All-American Team for his stellar season. In 2005, Dodson was again named to the All-American team while leading the Mustangs back to the Big Dance. Dodson finished off his SMU career in 2006, leading SMU to its third straight conference title while becoming the first Mustang to win back-to-back individual conference titles since 1931 and 1932.

VIC & GLADIE JO SALVINO STRENGTH & CONDITIONING CENTER

"It is the goal of the SMU strength & conditioning program to help all SMU student-athletes reach their full athletic potential by providing them with training programs that are scientifically-based and founded on modern methods of strength and conditioning.

Our motto as a strength and conditioning staff is simple, 'Stay in the Eye of the Storm.'

The most fundamental and important aspect of the SMU strength & conditioning program is that our coaches will always be on the floor coaching athletes. No athlete is left to train on his or her own. Every workout, every exercise, every set and every rep will be monitored by a coach. The coach will teach, instruct, provide feedback and motivate the student-athlete.

The objective of the SMU strength & conditioning staff is not only to produce stronger, better conditioned student-athletes, but also to build discipline and mental toughness in each student-athlete through the implementation of a very structured and organized environment. Student-athletes are held accountable for the commitment and effort that they put into the program, and lifting and conditioning must be viewed as a vital element in the training program for student-athletes of any sport.

The SMU strength & conditioning staff also plays a major role in the nutritional counseling and the implementation of healthy diets for each of our student-athletes. Our staff is responsible for selecting NCAA-approved supplements that we deem the most beneficial to our student-athletes. On a daily basis, our strength & conditioning coaches weigh-in student-athletes to help monitor changes in bodyweight that may be associated with dehydration, illness, skipping meals, overeating, eating junk foods, etc. This is all done in an effort to help our student-athletes reach their ideal playing weights and to keep energy levels high and hydration levels sufficient."

VIC VILORIA,
Head Strength & Conditioning
Coach

ALTSHULER LEC ACADEMIC SUCCESS

SMU student-athletes excel in the classroom, as a remarkable 97 percent of the 386 SMU scholarship student-athletes who entered SMU between 1990 and 2000 and exhausted their eligibility at SMU earned degrees.

Men's golfers have also played a part of SMU's academic success, as four Mustang golfers were named to the Conference USA Commissioner's Honor Roll in 2007 - Arwed Fischer, Draegen Majors, Will Mast and Brian Ricketts.

School-wide, 10 of SMU's 15 athletic programs scored a perfect 100 percent in the NCAA Graduation Success Rates (GSR), and all 15 of SMU's programs rated by the NCAA were equal to or better than the national average. Among the 119 NCAA Division I-A football-playing institutions, SMU had the fifth-highest percentage of its sports with 100 percent scores, at 67 percent (10 of 15).

JAY LOAR

Head Coach
10th Season
Texas, '69

Jay Loar enters his 10th year as head coach of the SMU men's golf team having firmly established SMU as one of the nation's top golf programs. Under his leadership, SMU has advanced to the NCAA Championships in three of the last five years.

In 2007, Loar guided Colt Knost to PING Division I All-America honors, becoming SMU's first All-American since Will Dodson was tabbed an honorable mention All-American in 2004-05. Knost earned All-South Central Region honors and was the 2007 Conference USA Golfer of the Year. He qualified for the EDS Byron Nelson Championship and became the first amateur since 1993 to make the cut following a scorching round of 64 during day two of the PGA event. Following the season, Knost was named to the Walker Cup team and was ranked as the No. 1 amateur golfer in the world following his wins at the 2007 U.S. Amateur Championship and the U.S. Amateur Public Links Championship. Knost was the sixth golfer in history to win two USGA championships in the same season and just the second to win the Amateur and the Amateur Public Links in the same year.

In 2006, SMU captured its third-straight conference title as the Mustangs won their first Conference USA crown. SMU won conference titles as a member of the Western Athletic Conference in 2004 and 2005 and back-to-back Southwest Conference crowns in 1955 and 1956, but had never won three straight championships. SMU finished the Championship at 19-under 845, the fifth-best 54-hole team score in school history, and the final-round 276 tied for the lowest team round score in C-USA Championship history. Loar guided Will Dodson to his second straight individual league championship and had two golfers – Brandon DeStefano and Colt Knost – named All-C-USA.

Following the 2006 season, SMU was named the 16th-best overall golf program in America by Golf Digest.

For his outstanding work, Loar has twice been named conference Coach of the Year and was honored as the GCAA South Central Region Coach of the Year in 2004.

Since Coach Loar initiated his coaching philosophy of empowering each player through positive reinforcement and building self-esteem, the SMU men's golf program has produced seven All-Americans, two United States Amateur Champions, a USGA Pub-Links semi-finalist and champion and three NCAA Scholastic All-Americans.

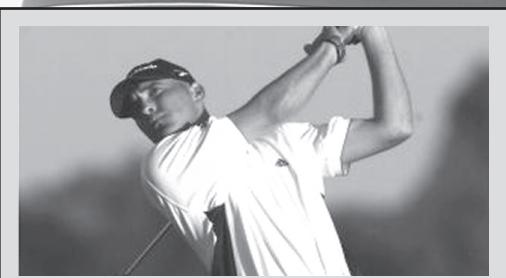

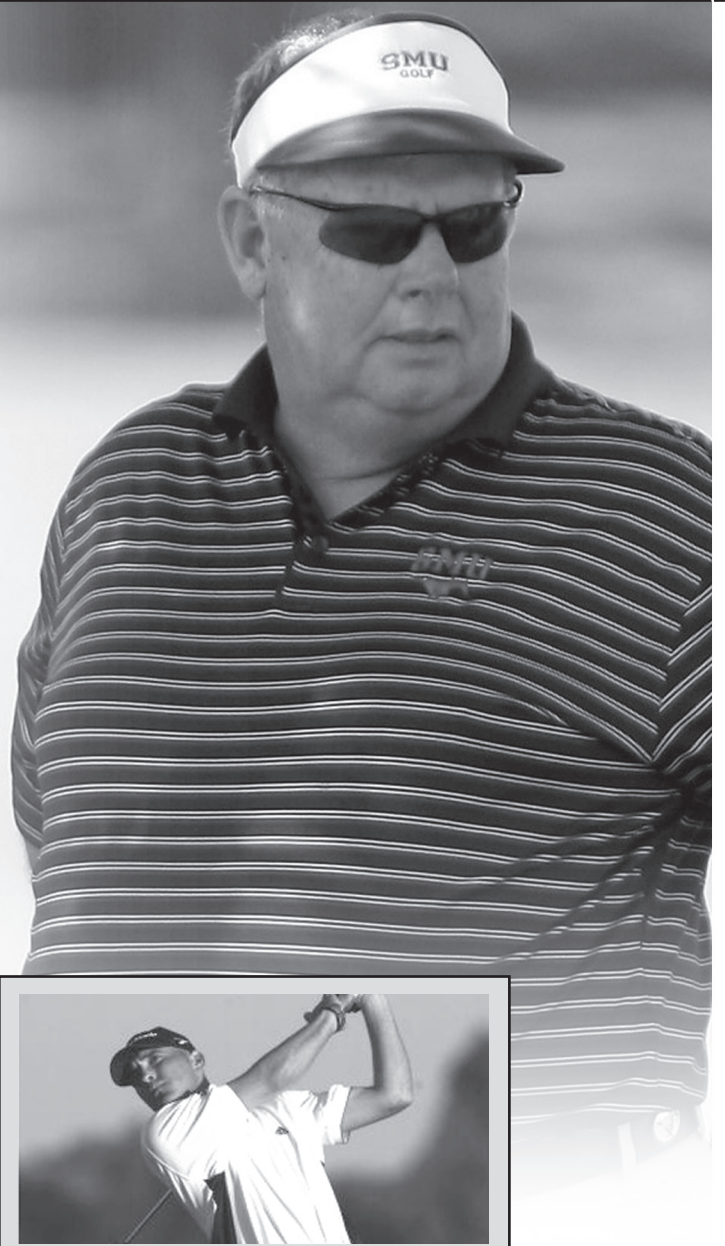

Loar believes that accomplishment and success are more meaningful when shared with others. He has worked diligently to bring the SMU alumni, former players, corporate supporters, and the golfing community together to support the SMU program through Friends of Men's Golf and the Payne Stewart Cup.

"As head coach, I have a single focus and purpose - to turn the SMU men's golf program into a perennial powerhouse and to bring NCAA Championships to SMU and the Dallas community," said Loar.

For the past seven seasons, Loar has held responsibilities of Director of Golf and Head Coach for SMU men's golf. Prior to that, Loar served as SMU's men's head coach for three years.

Loar has been dedicated to coaching his family as well as SMU's players. His son Nicholas played under Loar at SMU, and at the same time, he continued to support his son Edward, a four-time All American at Oklahoma State. Loar was named Golfweek's Father of the Year in 1999.

Loar has also been involved with his own sports and human development company, Building Champions, for the past nine years. Building Champions specializes in helping people understand themselves better, building high self esteem and developing strong mental skills for life and competition -- skills Loar thinks will help every student-athlete in the SMU golf program to be successful, and skills he now is able to focus on with each player.

"Coach Loar is a wonderful coach and a wonderful man. He treats the team the way he treats his own sons. He tries to be everybodys's dad... and he does a good job of it."

*- Hank Kuehne,
1998 U.S. Amateur Champion*

MEN'S GOLF MISSION STATEMENT

As the SMU men's golf coach, there are a few things you might want to know about me. I love helping people and I love the game of golf. I also believe that most people never come close to tapping the hidden potential within themselves. Golf is a great game and much can be learned about ourselves through playing golf. One of the questions to ask is: Who will be the best players in the world in 10 years? How do they practice, play, think, live...? Another important question is: What's the purpose of college golf? My purpose and the purpose of the SMU golf program is to support our golfers to be the best they can be physically, emotionally, spiritually and mentally and lead them in finding ways to get the ball in the hole in fewer strokes than before. In the process of doing this, we want them to develop lifelong positive qualities as human beings. The game of golf is a great teacher. By competing at the highest level, we get to know ourselves better and get to test our ability to be disciplined, honest, fair, patient and compassionate.

For most top players, we believe that par is a "perceived limitation" on performance much like the four-minute mile was for the sport of running. To break that "perceived barrier", one must have another internal vision of what's possible. What seems impossible today will be accomplished by whomever is going to be the best in the future.

While we believe that all individuals are unique, we also believe that there are many commonalities shared within specified groupings of people. At SMU, we spend a lot of time figuring out a person's "type" so we can be more helpful in planning the best way for our players to swing, practice, think, plan and live...

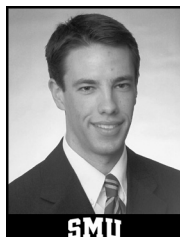

"Typing" a person is one way of determining those parameters. Asking questions is another. What do you like most about golf? When do you enjoy practicing the most? What are you good at? What can you still improve on? Who can help you? What are you doing to get better? Our practice and play at SMU is based on what we learn from this. Not everyone can be a "grinder" and others actually learn more in "spurts" as their concentration levels dictate their limits.

At SMU, we believe that once a skill is learned, it needs to be tested on the course under competition to see if it "holds up." If the purpose of golf is to score as low as possible, we believe more time needs to be spent on the course. Over the past few years, thousands of players have hit millions of balls at the driving range, without getting appreciably better at playing the game of golf. We also believe our players should spend at least fifty percent of their time on short game and putting, while also utilizing their preshot routine on all practice shots. We believe our job is to give the players our best information and input, and then encourage them to accept responsibility for their own outcomes. Practice doesn't make perfect; perfect practice makes perfect and that concept is different for each individual. By building positive self-esteem in our players, we believe their natural talent will emerge.

To quote Oswald Shallow, "Choose to have fun. Fun created enjoyment. Enjoyment invites participation. Participation focuses attention. Attention expands awareness. Awareness promotes insight. Insight generates knowledge. Knowledge facilitates action. Action yields results."
