ORANGE IN THE NORTH/SOUTH GAME

About the North-South Game

The first North-South College All-Star Game was played in 1940 at Municipal Stadium in Baltimore, Md. The North squad, coached by Princeton's Bill Logan, won that inaugural event with a 6-5 victory over the South team coached by Maryland's Jack Faber.

With the exception of 1944 and 1945 the North-South games have been played each year without interruption.

In 1991, USILA split the event and created two games. The Division I-II game and the Division III game. This two-game format was interrupted in 2006 when a USILA special committee recommended returning to one game, combining all divisions. The following year, 2007, saw the return of two separate games.
